More Than Just An Insurance Company

Bolenbaugh Insurance Agency is more than just an average insurance agency; after all, it's what the Bolenbaugh family has been doing since 1986.

Geneva Bolenbaugh is the current owner of Bolenbaugh Insurance. She said her in-laws started the insurance company with an original location at Oakwood and Carrier Road. Bolenbaugh Insurance moved to a new location, 309 N. Harrison, in September of 2022 after spending the past 31 years at 1024 W. Maple.

Geneva joined the family company in 2013 and added a small agency out of Garber in 2016. She said her father-in-law passed away in February 2022, and he had been trying to get her to move the agency for about four years. She said she just kind of dragged her feet because it had been at the other location for so long. But since he had wanted her to move it, she decided that's what she ultimately wanted to do.

"After his passing I was like, 'You know, this is something he really wanted me to do. I need to think about it more seriously.' So I sat down and prayed about it, weighed out my pros and cons and just made a list," Bolenbaugh said. "And finally stepped out on faith and did it."

"It's been pretty good,"

she said. "My clients had a little trouble finding me at first, but they're really liking it now. Because they are like, 'We don't have to climb stairs. This is such a nicer place.'"

The new location provides better handicap accessibility, as well as utilizing the larger office space for some small businesses to also be housed there, some of which belong to those insured by the company.

Geneva said the new location offered more space than the insurance office needed, so she said some small boutiques have been added. She currently has 15 different boutiques including artists who have their artwork for sale, as well as jewelry, coins, comic books, handmade crochet apparel and tie dye apparel.

"I just have several of my clients and different people in the community that are very creative, and I have the office space," Bolenbaugh said. "So I'm helping get their name out, and they're placing their items in here kind of on consignment. So when they sell something then they make a little money and so do I."

Bolenbaugh said if her clients have something they want to display or sell, they have that opportunity. She said if there's others who want to bring in their stuff, they can change out the merchandise off and on to have different vendors in there, changing every now and then with a variety.

Besides giving space in her office to boutiques and artists, Geneva also rents space to Bread of Life biblical counseling and she said that the old office location on W. Maple is being used for music lessons. She said she is continuing the Bolenbaugh family tradition of community service. Geneva said that it is important to her to give back to the community that supports her. In the past, she has headed campaigns to gather school supplies for Garfield County schools and also to provide gifts for residents in local nursing homes. This year, she is collecting diapers, wipes and pampers kits for new families that will be donated to CDSA. "I like to be involved in the community, and this is a way to do it," Bolenbaugh said.

Through it all, Bolenbaugh Insurance prides itself on exceptional customer service. Geneva firmly believes that insurance is not just a transactional business but an opportunity to build lasting relationships based on trust and understanding. She ensures that each client receives personalized attention, helping guide them through the intricacies of insurance so they can make informed decisions that protect what matters most. As an Independent Agent, she represents several companies including one that has been with Bolenbaugh Insurance for over 32 years. Geneva says that she can cover "anywhere and anything" in the state of Oklahoma for both commercial and personal clients and that she has just added cyber protection to her list of offerings.

As a one-stop Insurance Agency with years of experience managing a wide-range of risk and exposures, Geneva has the skills to ensure her clients receive exceptional coverage. She said she wants to provide all the options to her clients and let them choose the coverage that fits their needs without pressure. To keep your loved ones safe and to protect your assets, contact Bolenbaugh Insurance to find out how they can help. Geneva looks forward to making you part of the family.

Heydy's Place

Artisanal Mexican Food

The owners of Heydy's Place are Dr. James Harrington and Heydy Harrington. Dr. Harrington, a Vietnam War veteran and member of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, was born in Kingsman, Kansas. In 2008, he relocated to Enid, Oklahoma, where he became a highly respected and beloved orthopedic surgeon. Heydy, originally from Guatemala, migrated to the United States in 1998 with the aspiration of building a better future for herself and her two daughters. Her passion for cooking and sharing her delicious food with others has always been a central part of her life. Heydy's culinary journey began with a cooking class she attended in Guatemala, and she has since dedicated herself to her craft.

While Mexican cuisine serves as her primary focus, Heydy incorporates authentic Guatemalan flavors into her recipes, allowing her to infuse her dishes with a unique touch. She takes great pleasure when people appreciate and savor her creations. The dream of owning a restaurant has always lingered in Heydy's mind, driven by her desire to showcase her culinary talents and provide a warm and inviting space for people to enjoy her remarkable dishes. In 2021, Dr. Harrington and Heydy decided to embark on a new adventure and began searching for the perfect location for their restaurant.

Their pursuit for excellence led them to discover the ideal spot at 616 W. Owen K. Garriott. Construction on the restaurant began in November 2021, entrusted to Roland's Remodeling. The establishment boasts a state-of-the-art kitchen, ensuring top-notch culinary operations. Inside, two captivating murals painted by Enid's esteemed artist, Tox Murillo, adorn the walls. One mural showcases the iconic Guatemalan pyramid located in Tikal, along with Guatemala's national bird, the quetzal, and Tecun Uman, a Mayan prince. Dr. Harrington and Heydy were inspired by their recent trip to Guatemala where they visited Tikal, making the mural a meaningful representation of their connection to Heydy's homeland. The second mural features the beloved and renowned Mexican artist, Frida Kahlo. This amalgamation of Mexican and Guatemalan elements beautifully mirrors the fusion of flavors found in Heydy's culinary creations. Everyone at Heydy's Place welcomes you to come by for wonderful food, a beautiful environment, and friendly faces happy to serve you.

For Pearson's it's all about Simplicity

Since 1958 -- long before most people knew the benefits of quality food and natural supplements over regular supplements -- Pearson's Natural Food Center has been educating Enid about the importance of eating healthy and how to provide your body with the best supplements it needs to perform the best it can perform.

Mary Pearson

and more effective it is. Why? people would ask. Mary would simply say, "Because your body has a better idea of what to do with them."

For 14 years she tirelessly told her story and sold her products until the mainstream scientists, dieticians and medical professionals got on board the healthy food and supplement wagon. That's when her store really began to experience growth. In fact, it grew at such a fast pace that Mary decided it was time for her to turn over the daily operations to her son and daughter-in-law, Dale and Sharon Pearson, who quickly realized they needed more space. In 1976, they moved the store to its current location at 131 W. Garriott.

By this time, many people were becoming more aware of the great benefits of Pearson's products. Those with chronic diseases were searching for less traditional types

From its humble beginnings in a small store at 108 E. Garriott, founder Mary E. Pearson told her customers that the best supplements they can use are the ones that come from food sources, as their name indicates. The fewer ingredients in a supplement, the better philosophy, Dale and his wife, Sharon, added other natural products, such as essential oils and natural cosmetics.

Rutheen McCartney took over Pearson's Natural Food Center in 2017, and while keeping Mary's original vision for the store, she added her influence to the business by offering even more new and healthy food, skin care, aromatherapy and other items to the store to make Pearson's the complete destination for everything natural and healthy for you and your family. She is always adding new and exciting products.

McCartney has added a variety of innovative organic CBD items for people. For example, the store offers muscle rub and much more.

Pearson's products are of the highest quality and come exclusively from Spain.

Rutheen and her staff are extremely knowledgeable about everything natural and would love for you to visit Pearson's Natural Food Center. They can help you make the transition from an unhealthy lifestyle to a healthier lifestyle by just making a few changes in the way you eat and the products you use to take care of your body, mind, and spirit.

For nearly half a century, Kuykendall Hearing Aid Center has tested and successfully fitted hearing aids for thousands of people in our community.

The business opened in 1974, inspired by Robert Byron Kuykendall's experience in the hearing aid industry in Missouri. Robert then encouraged his son, Robert Darrell Kuykendall, to purchase the business in Enid. Eventually, his two sons, Greg and Todd Kuykendall, joined the family business.

Throughout his career, Robert Darrell has seen many changes in the industry; notably, the improvement in size and functionality of digital hearing aids that now provide hearing quality unimaginable in earlier years.

This priceless gift of hearing has brought smiles and tears to many.

November 2023 marks the 49th anniversary of Kuykendall Hearing Aid Center. The business continues to grow with the purchase in 2008 of Northwest Diagnostic Audiology. This expansion allowed the combination of a hearing aid specialist and an audiologist to provide the most complete hearing healthcare services in Northwest Oklahoma.

In May 2012, the family business welcomed a fourth generation Kuykendall Hearing Aid Specialist, Kyle Kuykendall, the great-grandson of Robert Byron and grandson of Robert Darrell. Kyle joined his father, Greg, and uncle, Todd, in continuing their family's legacy.

All these years later, our goal is to improve the lives of the hearing impaired. We want you to be satisfied with our products, services, standard of ethics and honest approach to this profession.

We offer free hearing evaluations and risk-free 30-day trials on all of our hearing aids. When you purchase from Kuykendall Hearing Aid Center, you receive our services for life. These services include cleaning and adjustments at absolutely no cost to you! Often, we can perform in-office repairs completely free. Our care for you goes far beyond the purchase. We are dedicated to providing better hearing for a better life. The home office of Kuykendall Hearing Aid Center is located in Enid, with branch offices in Alva, Perry, Ponca City, Stillwater, and Woodward.

A beautiful life

By Jacqueline Hince

So much of life is perspective. You can choose to see the beauty in the day to day. After decades of choosing to view life as a gift, you realize: life truly is beautiful. And the beauty does not fade over time. In every phase of life, you can find gratitude.

Lori Long, who owns and operates Greenbrier Village in Enid, Oklahoma, is passionate about changing the narrative of growing old. Aging is not something to avoid or fear. Long stands firm that you can live a full life and can enjoy your golden years. Life is not over when you hit a certain age, there is still beauty to be found. She eagerly shares this message with all her residents and anyone else. She is a living example of choosing to find beauty in all things.

For this article, we talk to three residents who live at either Burgundy Independent Living, Greenbrier Assisted Living, and The Homes of Greenbrier. Gayle Thorpe, a retired employee of Greenbrier, spent hours visiting residents and staff. She asked residents what made their life beautiful, if they felt at home at Greenbrier, and why they were comfortable there. They also discussed influential people in their life.

Ryta

Before coming to live at Greenbrier, Ryta was an ombudsman, an official volunteer trained to advocate for residents living in nursing homes, or long-term care facilities. At one point her work had her visiting Greenbrier regularly to check in with residents and staff. "I knew from day one, after I visited everywhere, where I'd go when I moved into a facility," says Ryta. "And here I am!"

Gayle says Ryta was so sincere and spoke from the heart. Ryta talked about the home she created living in Greenbrier. "I love the building, the residents and employees. I can be around people if I want to, and I can go to my room and shut my door and have quiet time if I want to. I love all of it. I am well taken care of. It's like the home I left behind."

One thing in particular that stood out to Gayle is that Ryta feels safe here. She no longer worries about things, because at Greenbrier it is all taken care of.

Arthur

Arthur admits moving to Greenbrier took some adjusting. "I had to learn to live here, because there are so many people here. I am not used to getting up and eating breakfast with 30 people." But, he told Gayle, it did not take long to feel at home. "You know, you just get happy here real quick."

"Arthur did not say a lot," said Gayle, recalling their interview. "Some of the men can be kind of quiet. He did say he is as happy now as he was when he was a child. I got to thinking about that, and that was quite a statement to make!" says Gayle.

Arthur says his faith plays a large part in his contentment. He also loves visiting different places. He often participates in the trips Greenbrier takes to get residents out and about.

Arthur grew up on a farm outside Enid, and says his grandma was his favorite and most influential person in his life.

Arnold

A fellow man of faith, Arnold, says he chose to live his senior years at Greenbrier because he could feel the Spirit here. "Now, you just know when the Spirit is telling you what you should do, you do it."

Arnold is "103 years young." On his 103rd birthday, Greenbrier threw Arnold a huge party. He still talks about how wonderful it was, and how many people reached out and celebrated him. "The Air Force came, people sent gifts, I got over 50 cards."

Gayle says she was on reverent ground speaking with Arnold. He is now 104 years old!

"Everything and everyone has helped me to live my fullest life," says Arnold. He especially loves the fun things to do, the food, the friends and the employees at Greenbrier. Arnold may be 104, but he is still very alert and active.

"I just love the feel of it here," states Arnold. "I can't explain it. I just love the feel ... I am home."

Enid Tile & Marble ~ 'Take us for granite'

For high quality and service when it comes to creating the interior of your dreams, Enid Tile and Marble wants their customers to "Take us for Granite!"

Merlin Nightingale and his wife, Dorothy, opened Enid Tile and Marble in 1998. Merlin had worked in the stone industry for 20 years before deciding it was time to open his own business. His experience and travels across the country helped him form a vision about how to best serve customers with the best design and products possible. Merlin and Dorothy moved to Enid in 1971 and raised their three children, Angela, April and Blake in the Enid community.

Merlin's deep knowledge and understanding of the stone industry is a stronghold for this small family-owned company. From measuring jobs, to overseeing the installation process, he is involved in almost every facet of the business. When

Nightingale first decided to open his own business, he considered Edmond or Tulsa, but now he is thankful he chose to stay in Enid. "Enid has been good to us over the years," said Nightingale. "We've had a lot of good customers. This is a good place"

All the countertops are installed using the most advanced technology, and Enid Tile and Marble is the only fully digital countertop store in northwest Oklahoma. This technology greatly benefits customers by reducing the amount of work that must be done on site. Enid Tile and Marble's technology uses digital templates which build a program that is then used to cut the materials to fit the space perfectly. The digital templates are then used to overlay the template on high definition photographs of countertop material, so the entire layout of the project can be seen before ever being cut. "There's no cutting on the job site," Nightingale said. "Everything fits. "Our clients love being able to see how their countertops are going to look before they are installed, and it gives them the added benefit of really being involved with the process." he said.

Employees at Enid Tile and Marble pride themselves in their precision and attention to exact details to ensure customer satisfaction. Each of Enid Tile and Marble's employees bring valuable skills to the table. Operations Manager, Tony Fischer, who is also Merlin's son-in-law, knows the business inside and out, having started at Enid Tile and Marble at the bottom, cutting granite sink holes by hand. Having a bachelor's degree in information systems management has allowed Tony to really introduce and embrace the technology aspect involved with fabrication to bring the projects full circle. He expertly oversees the entire process from on-site templating, to fabrication, to scheduling installations.

Along with Tony, Rob Cummins plays an integral part of the whole fabrication process. As the lead template engineer, Rob has his degree in architectural engineering, and if he's not on the jobsites, he is commonly found programming kitchens behind his computer screen. Rob has been doing digital templating and has lived in the Enid area for the past 16 years. "His attention to detail and critical thinking and problem solving are incredibly valuable to our industry," said Nightingale.

In the showroom, Enid Tile & Marble has two full time sales people, Rachel & Samantha. Rachel Skoda joined the Enid Tile & Marble family 4 years ago but has recently moved into the sales position. Being the daughter of the late, locally well known cabinet designer and builder Joe Skoda, Rachel has been around the building industry her entire life. She has a natural sense of creativity and a sharp eye for design. "Rachel's move into sales has been one of the most natural transitions I've ever witnessed as a business owner", Nightingale says. With Rachel's fresh ideas and her unique perspective she can easily navigate client's through the remodeling process from start to finish. Samantha Noteware, a northwest Oklahoma native, joined the Enid Tile and Marble family in August of 2005. She graduated from Oklahoma State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Design, Housing and Merchandising, focusing in Interior Design. "We are lucky to have her," Nightingale said. Having worked in the flooring and countertop industries for more than 17 years, she has a vast knowledge of the materials and installation processes. With this knowledge she leads clients through the entire process from choosing stain color of cabinets to creating unique shower designs and everything in between. She is eager to help customers bring their personal home design ideas into fruition.

Taco Bandito started in 1968 as Taco Grande on South Van Buren in Enid, OK. Those were the good 'ol days! Our customers from the 60s and 70s still talk about the red shag carpet on the walls and the infamous Hank and Iggy dart game that hung in the dining room. The teenagers loved hanging out, meeting up with their friends and playing the juke box.

In 1982, the Lash family purchased Taco Grande and later changed the name to Taco Bandito. In January of 2014, Karen retired and the business was taken over by Brittany Hodges. Brittany started her Bandito journey in October 2006 while attending Enid Beauty College. She fell in love with the job, the employees and the customers! She knew the most important part in taking ownership of the business was keeping the same great flavors, recipes and atmosphere the customers had come to love over the years.

Our customers from the good 'ol days still eat with us on a regular basis. Every year, especially around the holidays, our "teenagers" (now in their 40s, 50s and 60s) stop by to eat with us when they're in town. They talk about the memories and often ask when we will be putting a Taco Bandito in their town or state, because they've never found anything quite like it. We love hearing this! We love and appreciate our customers, old and new.

Corners Maine & Grand

Downtown Enid

Furnishing NW Oklahoma for 101 Years!

Garfield Furniture has been serving Enid's furniture needs for 100 years. The historic store has been a part of Enid's downtown square since 1922.

Garfield Furniture's story began when Lloyd Frazee came to Enid from Missouri as a young man to work during harvest. He observed Enid as a busy, prosperous young city, and he decided he would return to Enid one day to start a business. He did just that in 1922 when he opened the Frazee Furniture Company on the downtown square.

In 1943 he bought the Gensman Hardware Building on the corner of Maine & Grand, which is Garfield Furniture's current location. Mr. Frazee's motto was "Where Quality Is Never Misrepresented," and after four generations, that motto still rings true today.

The store was renamed Garfield Furniture after the county, in order to be more memorable and to take its place as the preferred Northwest Oklahoma furniture store known for selection and value, just as Mr. Frazee wanted.

Garfield Furniture is a factory-direct-warehouse-showroom featuring name brands like La-Z-Boy recliners; dining and bedroom collections by Ashley, the world's largest maker of furniture, Restonic mattresses, and many more.

Garfield Furniture also has a wide selection of lighting and wall decor to make your home "homier." Garfield Furniture discounts custom orders so you get exactly what you want at the price you want to pay.

Garfield Furniture's courteous and capable personnel will help you with your selections and will place it in your home just the way you want it. You have to see the store's amazing selection for yourself!

NW Oklahoma's Fast and Friendly Test Center

In 2011, Gena Smith and her husband, Danny (who works behind the scenes) recognized a need for a drug testing service in Enid that is available 24/7 with mobile capabilities. "For example, we could get a call on a Saturday afternoon from an oil company who has a need for our services on site. No matter if it's a holiday, on the weekend or after 3 PM, we can be there," says Gena.

"We are also DOT-certified with a medical provider on staff to perform physicals and 'fit for duty' examinations to assure the applicant is physically able to complete the job at hand," she adds. With the relocation Entero will also be adding the service of offering third party administrative assistance including assistance with keeping drivers up to date with the federally regulated clearing house, and consortium service for our DOT clients. DOT Compliant Services, as well as all other services are, fully explained on their website, enterotesting.com.

"We are a faith-based, friendly, hometown type of business," Gena says proudly. "We strive to be respectful, courteous and safety-conscious at all times." Her professional background includes case management and drug and alcohol counseling, making her well-qualified for putting clients at ease. The office is decorated with uplifting colors and messages, making any visit more pleasant.

Besides basic drug testing, the legal system may also call on Entero Services for DNA testing, via a mouth swab, in paternity suits or hair follicle testing (a small haircut) to determine if a child has been exposed to drugs. "A court order is always necessary," she adds.

Entero Services is DISA-approved and recommended, being named in the top 100 companies for holding high standards in their services. DISA is a leading third-party administrator that provides a wide array of safety/compliance solutions.

"It all comes down to safety," Gena explains. "We are not trying to 'catch people' when we do drug testing, we are trying to keep the workplace safe so that employees can go home safely to whatever is important to them at the end of the day." Gena credits her devoted office staff with helping her attain this goal.

When asked how the company name was chosen, Gena explains that a Hispanic friend had suggested the Spanish word Entero, meaning "whole". "We're all involved in keeping the workplace safe. Accidents happen, equipment malfunctions, but we try to take drugs and alcohol and the bad decisions they cause, out of the equation."

A place to call home

The Wakita CHC was built in partnership with the OU Medical School as a model rural health project. It was featured in TIME magazine when it opened its doors in 1968. The face of long term care is changing. People are looking for a place that is similar to the home they are leaving behind. They are focusing on individual needs and wants. And when choosing a long term care facility, they are looking for the same options. Community Health Center is a rural not-for-profit 52 bed nursing facility located in Wakita, OK. CHC has long embraced the spirit of culture change. It's about building relationships between residents and caregivers in a home like atmosphere. When residents are admitted to CHC, they and their family members become part of the CHC family. It's about building relationships between residents and caregivers in a home like atmosphere.

Aspiring nine year old carpenter buys first hammer!

Company owner Todd Berdit wanted to be a carpenter when he was just 9 years old. At that time, his next door neighbor was a professional carpenter, and also the coolest guy young Berdit knew. About that time, Berdit bought his very first hammer, an Estwing 12 oz finish hammer, that felt like 12 pounds for a skinny 9-year-old kid!

By the time he turned 15, (1980) he landed a job with a local home builder earning $5 per hour, and oh brother, he was going to be rich! He learned a lot from being on the job-site with the home builder guys, and it was amazing. Berdit tells us he still uses much of that experience today!

When Berdit turned 23, (1988) he bought his first "fixer upper" home, and made plans to completely transform it into something spectacular. Berdit says, "I was doing much of the renovation myself, but because of time limits, I hired a contractor to remodel the bathroom. He offered me a discount if I performed all the demolition in advance of his arrival. Shortly after I completed the demo, I got a call from the contractor saying he was injured and could no longer do the job. Now with my bathroom completely ripped out, what was I going to do?!!"

Back in 1988, there was no google, YouTube, or internet, so he was left with only one option, his trusty library card. He went home with a stack of books, and began reading as fast as possible! He carefully worked through the process, step by step, using only those teenage years of carpentry skills, the experience gleaned from hanging around that home builder crew, and his simple passion for building beautiful things with his own hands.

Berdit tells us that bathroom turned out amazing, and he knew immediately that would not be his last complete bathroom remodeling project. By the early 1990s, he had bought and remodeled dozens of properties, and perfected his fine woodworking and remodeling skills working on his own homes. Quality workmanship and durable products that would last a lifetime became his main focus. Bathrooms tend to be the highest traffic area in the home, and the bathroom also takes the most abuse. Build it right the first time, and it will last a lifetime! That first home builder taught him another valuable lesson.

The most expensive construction project in your home is the one you pay for twice, so be sure you find the best company, and get it done right the first time!

A message from company owner, Todd Berdit:

"From the time I built that very first bathroom with my own two hands, we've grown to a team of 21 people, including 10 highly skilled installers, 4 expert design consultants, with three offices and showrooms run by a very talented group of 6 women, and we are continuing to grow at a very steady pace every single day! We have the best possible people in every position within the organization. Each team member is committed to giving our customers an experience like they've never had with any other contractor or remodeling company. When you have a team of highly capable, and extremely dedicated men and women like this, it's easy to see why we have so many happy customers, and I am blessed to work with them every day. It's no surprise they've won numerous awards for quality workmanship, beautiful installations, exceptional customer service, and overall customer satisfaction in every department.

We specialize in complete bath & shower remodeling services, tub to shower conversions, soaker tubs, wall surround systems, plumbing fixtures, walk-in tubs, mobility and accessibility installations, custom built cabinetry, and countertops. All our products are made from scratch, exactly for the space of each individual job so you always get a perfect fit. Our products are also non-porous, so they're easy to clean, and extremely hygienic, designed to last a lifetime. We always tear out the old tub or shower, and wall surround, so we can identify any damaged wall framing, or rotten subfloor. If we find any damage, we repair it properly without adding thousands of dollars to your bill.

That's right, no hidden fees for extra work found inside the shower area!
