FEATURE STORY

hat better way to get into the holiday spirit than watching one of the most acclaimed shows: The Sound of Music? But we're talking about viewing a local live performance. Featuring a youthful and talented cast — a few of whom are from Pecan Grove and Harvest Green — this show, produced by Inspiration Stage, is not one to be taken lightly. "The level of [the cast's] talent was so stellar ... I'm so excited by this immensely talented group of young actors," said Director Sarah Patterson. So purchase your tickets now, and be prepared to absorb an impressive, charming and nostalgic performance, perfect for your entire family.

ITS GOING TO BE AMAZING," proclaims Pecan Grove actor from The Sound of Music By MARQUITA GRIFFIN

hey needed something classical, something timeless. Something that would meld well with a traditional American holiday. So the answer was relatively simple for Mandy Seymore-Sensat and Sarah Patterson, two directors with Inspiration Stage, an award-winning performance arts studio in Sugar Land.

They needed The Sound of Music.

"When Mandy and I were collaborating on the 2017-18 season, we were interested in staging a classic musical during the holiday show slot," said director Sarah Patterson of discussions with Inspiration Stage Artistic Director Mandy Seymore-Sensat.

"The Sound of Music is a piece that has proved ageless across multiple generations: beginning with its development as a Broadway show in the 1950s and incredibly successful screen adaptation in the 1960s.Watching The Sound of Music became a part of American tradition with its nearly annual family-friendly television specials," Patterson said.

"Based on a true story and real-life characters, the heartwarming story of an unconventional family gathering together in the toughest of times proves relevant even today," she added. "It's so associated with this time of year that many assume the show's classic "My Favorite Things" is a Christmas song."

The Sound of Music offers four evening shows and four matinees on weekends from Dec. 8 through Dec. 17 at the historic Sugar Land Auditorium at 226 Lakeview Drive in Sugar Land.

"Easily my favorite thing about directing is participating in the journeys of our young actors throughout the process," Patterson said. "Together as director and actor we discover something new about these characters and this story as we begin to embody them."

"The Sound of Music is a piece that has proved ageless across multiple generations." — SARAH PATTEPSON DIRECTOR

The Freedom to Express

This Inspiration Stage production will feature young actors, ranging in ages from 9 years old to 18 years old, including three actors from Pecan Grove and Harvest Green: Ashley Gilbert, 11; Mikayla Volesky, 12; and Abigail Cooney, 17.

The actors will portray the full, beloved cast, including Maria, the Captain and the von Trapp children. The roles of the von Trapp children were double-cast, with each cast performing in four of the eight shows.

Gilbert, who performs as part of the Company/ Ensemble, considers the performing arts the prime atmosphere for creating communication between artist and audience, and that's what she most enjoys about being onstage.

"I get to express myself through acting and singing," she said.

While Gilbert has been "an actor all [her] life with [her] family," she has been with Inspiration Stage for nearly two years, making appearances in Little Mermaid Jr., Seussical Jr. and Winnie the Pooh and acting in several summer camps. And just like every prior production, Gilbert is enthusiastic about The Sound of Music.

"I love the music and the dances," she said. "I think it's going to be amazing."

Overcoming pressure, a stellar cast

Since October, when auditions were held, Inspiration Stage has been grinding away at learning the choreography, music, and blocking the show, which means placing actors on stage, scene-by-scene, line-by-line. But sketching the design and creating the vision for The Sound of Music began as early as this past summer for Patterson.

"I have a tremendous production team including

Sarah Patterson is directing Inspiration Stage's The Sound of Music. "The script, music, and motion are brought to life by [the cast's] unique choices," she said. "Even a classic, familiar story like The Sound of Music feels new to us as we together dive deeper into the heart of this show. I couldn't be prouder of this fearless cast and their power to wow me at every turn."

choreographer Hannah Pickle, technical director Jeff Sensat, set designer Adam Patterson, stage manager Brianna Escobedo, and student assistant director Maddy Marlowe, who have been at my side along the way to talk through the intricacies of realizing this vision," she said.

"It can be a lot of pressure to tackle such a classic piece that naturally carries high expectations."

And this production will meet those expectations, Patterson said.

"Because this story has become such a part of American tradition and popular culture, it's hard not to have a soft spot for the plucky Maria or one of the seven charming von Trapp children," Patterson said. "Our Inspiration Stage production captures many of the beloved moments from the film version, and our terrific young actors delight with their own extensions of these timeless characters."

Patterson said the popularity of the musical was clear considering the performance arts studio saw the highest audition turnout for a youth show in Inspiration Stage's history.

"The level of talent was so stellar, it was unbelievably difficult to cast the show. I'm so excited by this immensely talented group of young actors," Patterson said. "The music, choreography and storytelling are challenging, but these talented kids continue to amaze me with their ability to make it look easy and natural."

A Timeless Story

Destined to be the world's most beloved musical, The Sound of Music, was the final collaboration between Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II.

Based on Maria von Trapp's memoir, "The Story of the Trapp Family Singers,"The Sound of Music tells the story of a woman who, after proving too high-spirited for the religious life, is Ashley Gilberg is a James Bowie Elementary student who loves performing. She's been with Inspiration Stage for a year and a half and has been in productions like Little Mermaid Jr., Seussical Jr. and Winnie the Pooh. dispatched to serve as governess for the seven children of a widowed naval captain. Maria's growing rapport with the children, coupled with her generosity of spirit, gradually captures the heart of the stern captain.

When Maria and Captain discover that Austria has been invaded by the Nazis, who demand the captain's immediate service in their navy, the family narrowly escapes over the mountains to Switzerland on the eve of World War II.

Considered one of the most thrilling and inspirational finales ever presented in the theatre, Patterson said The Sound of Music features songs like "Do Re Mi," "My Favorite Things," "Edelweiss," "Climb Every Mountain," and others that have nostalgic appeal to even non-theatre patrons.

In fact, the motion picture version remains the most popular movie musical of all time.

"A show like The Sound of Music is difficult to replicate — it's touching without being overly sentimental. It's family-friendly but set against dark undertones of World War II. Its message overall is one of finding each other, bonding together, and overcoming impossible circumstances," Patterson said.

This is a show in particular quite relevant to the community, right now, at this moment, she stressed.

"As our community is recovering from the effects of Hurricane Harvey, I hope audiences see some of themselves in a story like this — we too found strength and unity in each other during difficult times. Our greater Houston story is similarly one of bonding, hope, and pride."

HRISTM A

The origins of some beloved holiday traditions

hristmastime is here. The presents are being purchased and wrapped. The stockings will soon be hung on the fireplace mantle. Mistletoe is pinned above the front entryway, and poinsettias add rich color to home decor.

Tradition is integral come the holiday season. Throughout the month of December, traditions fill people's days and comprise the many reasons why individuals decorate, celebrate and dine the way they do this time of year. But few may know the origins of some of the most beloved holiday traditions.

Christmas stockings

The Christmas stockings of today may be a byproduct of various traditions. One such tradition dates back to a Dutch custom in which children would leave shoes full of food to feed St. Nicholas' donkeys, and then St. Nicholas would leave small gifts in return.

Another origin story of Christmas stockings can be traced to the 12th century, when nuns would leave socks full of nuts, fruit and tangerines for the poor. This is why some people still put tangerines in Christmas stockings.

Christmas tree

Christmas Trees are everywhere this time of year. The use of evergreen trees predates Christmas and is associated with the pagan festival of Saturnalia, which celebrated the agricultural god Saturn with partying and gift-giving. During the winter solstice, green branches served as a reminder that spring would arrive anew. Germans are credited with first bringing evergreens into their homes and decorating them.

Santa Claus

Santa Claus' origin story can be traced to St. Nicholas, a Christian bishop who lived during the fourth century. St. Nicholas was very generous and gave away his fortune to help the needy. He also did various other good deeds. St. Nicholas became infamous and began to be known by various names around the world. The Dutch called him Sinter Klaas, which was eventually transformed to Santa Claus. The jolly persona came later when 20th century advertisers - especially the artists responsible for Coca-Cola ads portrayed Santa in a red suit with a big smile.

Mistlete

Mistletoe is hung in doorways, and couples who stand beneath are encouraged to share a kiss. The tradition of hanging it in the house goes back to the times of the ancient Druids. Mistletoe was thought to bring good luck to a household and ward off evil spirits. The custom of kissing under mistletoe can be traced to England. Originally, a berry was picked from the sprig of mistletoe before the person could be kissed. When all the berries had gone, there could be no more kissing.

Christmas bells

Church bells ring for many special services, including Christmas mass. During Christmas midnight mass in the Catholic Church, the altar bells may be rung while the priest says the "Gloria." Bells are part of caroling, and jingling bells are associated with sleighs and Santa's reindeer.

NEW TRADITIONS YOU NEED TO TRY

1. The New Year's Prediction Jar

On Christmas Day invite your guests to write down what they think will happen in someone else's life or in their own lives and put them in a jar. During next year's celebration open that jar and have someone read the predictions aloud.

2. Carol for the Elders

Spend Christmas Eve visiting a retirement home and singing Christmas songs to the elderly. It is an easy, fun and inspiring way to spread the holiday cheer throughout the community.

3. Sponsor a Foster Child

The stark truth is that some children do not have a holiday season like most. So this year make a difference and sponsor a foster child (or children) by purchasing gifts and giving them to those in need.

4. Sing Santa, Sing!

This one is for the guys: Get a group of guys who dress up as Santa and go caroling around the neighborhood. When the caroling is done, hold a little get together with refreshments and bask in the day's events.

5. Give, give, give

Consider including the entire family on this one. From Dec. 25 through Jan. 5 (also known as the 12 Days of Christmas) collect or buy school supplies, toys and personal care products to donate to disadvantaged children. Visit a soup kitchen or see what you can do to help the elderly in your community.

6. Check out a Tree Farm

Get into the holiday spirit by taking a little family trip to a tree farm. Make it extra special by packing up hot cocoa, coffee or cider.Visit the National Christmas Tree Associations website (www. realchristmastrees.org/dnn/All-About-Trees/Tree-Locator) to find the closest tree farm near you.

7. Toy Giveaway

Have your child pick a few toys — in like-new condition — to give away to charity before they receive new toys for Christmas. This simple gesture can teach your children the importance of taking other people in consideration during the holidays.

8. Personal holiday greetings

Take some photos and make your own Christmas cards to send to relatives near and far. In the digital age, we often forget the magic of snail mail. Trust us, your relatives will love it!

9. Create a digital holiday

We love snail mail, but since this is the digital age, create a digital scrapbook for family that you can share online. Take those fun, silly and hilarious candid photos and share them with your family and friends

10. Donate Food

Visit local food bank and donate as many nonperishable items as you can. The food banks are extremely busy this time of the year, so you can make it a family tradition to help those less fortunate.

Have a sing-a-long this Christmas

Christmas carols became part of holiday celebrations roughly 200 years ago. Initially gaining popularity in England before becoming holiday traditions in the Americas, carols are part and parcel of modern holiday celebrations.

One popular holiday party theme is a sing-a-long. Although door-to-door caroling has long been a holiday staple, celebrants can enjoy staying in and singing as well. To make your sing-a-long party unique, include some of these ideas in the celebration.

Rent or borrow karaoke equipment

Increase the performance factor by securing a karaoke machine. Many are preprogrammed with holiday standards. Various karaoke services exist online as well. For a small fee you can sign up for an account and access lyrics and music that can be streamed over a computer or any device with an internet connection.

Pair picture-drawing with singing

Combine singing sessions with a game of "guess the picture." Guests select a holiday title out of a basket and then have to draw their interpretation so others can guess what song is being drawn.Afterward, everyone joins in to sing the tune.

Provide bound carol books

Give each guest a custom-designed book of Christmas carols, complete with sheet music or just lyrics that they can use to follow along while joining in singing. Afterwards, this book can be a take-home present and memento.

Book live accompaniment

Singing along to live music can be a treat. Find someone who is proficient on the piano, guitar or another musical instrument who will come and guide the musical interludes. Guests will gather around and offer their own voices. If the goal is to hire an accompanyist, note that the holiday season can be a busy time for performers, so book early.

Highlight a singing virtuoso

Chances are there is someone in your group of friends or family who is adept at singing. Ask this person if he or she would be willing to perform a ______ special solo.

Set the mood

Dim overhead lights and sing by candlelight or by the twinkling lights of a Christmas tree. Guests may feel less inhibited if they aren't on full display.

Word Find

Using Christmas words —Christmas, poinsettia, candy cane, etc.— have each person make as many smaller words from it as possible before the timer runs out.

Two truths and a lie

Each person tells two stories about themselves, two of which are true and one that is not. A great Christmas twist is to name their three worst Christmas gifts; two would be true and one would be false.

Pin the red nose on Rudolph

The Christmas version of Pin the Tail on the Donkey.

Pass the Ornament

Pass the paper ornaments down the line, teammate to teammate, by inhaling and exhaling on the straw to hang on to or release the ornament. No hands! (Supplies: Straw for each child, ornaments cut out of tissue paper (tree, bell, star, etc.)

Ornament guess

Have guests guess the total number of ornaments on the tree as they come into the party. The closest guess wins.

Holiday ABC's

Give each child or team a piece of paper with the alphabet written vertically from A to Z. Have them write a holiday word that starts with each letter. The first one to complete the list wins. Christmas 2° Questions

Someone starts by choosing a Christmas related person, place or thing and then says: "I'm thinking of something." The children try to guess what it is by asking no more than 20 questions that can be answered "yes," "no," or "I don't know." The child who guesses correctly is next up.

Name that carol

Make a list of lyrics from songs that only provides 3-4 words from each song (not the title). The person who names all - or the most - songs in a certain amount of time wins.

Gift hot potato

Pass around one unwrapped gift at a time. When the music stops, whoever holds it is out of the game, keeping the gift they are holding.

The Good Elf

Challenge the children to do random acts of kindness for others for one day. Tell them that they are not to reveal that they have done these nice things and if someone should ask them, "Did you make your sisters bed?" they can reply, "Must have for someone else.

been a good elf." This game helps children realize we don't always have to be recognized when we do something

ALL AND ALL AND

Sometimes what you need to get the entire family into the holiday spirit is a good read. Here are our picks for the top Christmas-themed books for you to enjoy. Let us know what your favorite holiday tale is by visiting our Facebook page!

The Polar Express by Chris Van Allsburg

One Christmas Eve many years ago, a boy lies in bed, listening hard for the bells of Santa's sleigh, which he has been told by a friend do not exist. Later that night he hears not bells but a very different sound. He looks out his window and is astounded to see a steam engine parked in front of his house! The conductor invites him to board the Polar Express, a train filled with children on their way to the North Pole.

How the Grinch Stole Christmas by Dr. Seuss The Grinch, a grouchy, solitary creature who attempts to put an end to Christmas by stealing Christmas-themed items from the homes of the nearby town Whoville on Christmas Eve. Despite his efforts, Whoville's inhabitants still celebrate the holiday, so the Grinch returns everything that he stole and is the guest of honor at the Whos' Christmas dinner.

Dream Snow by Eric Carle

It's December 24th, and the old farmer settles down for a winter's nap, wondering how Christmas can come when there is no snow! In his dream he imagines a snowstorm covering him and his animals—named One,Two,Three, Four and Five—in a snowy blanket. But when the farmer awakens, he finds that it has really snowed outside, and now he remembers something! Putting on his red suit, he goes outside and places gifts under the tree for his animals, bringing holiday cheer to all.

The Nutcracker by Susan Jeffers

Marie, Fritz, and the intriguing Nutcracker himself, go on a magical adventure only possible on a night like Christmas Eve. Behold the frightful Mouse King, the elegant Sugar Plum fairies, and the entire Land of Sweets in this dazzling, gorgeouslyillustrated holiday classic. With spare text based on the story in the ballet, this book offers a front-row seat to the charming tale that is a perennial favorite of children and adults alike.

The Snowman by Raymond Briggs

After an English boy makes a snowman on Christmas Eve, it comes to life to take him on an adventure to the North Pole to meet Santa Claus.

The Wild Christmas Reindeer by Jan Brett

This year, Santa asks Teeka to get his reindeer ready to fly on Christmas Eve. She's happy but a little worried, too. She's never worked with the reindeer before and she's not sure they'll want to come in from the tundra, where they run wild and free. Once she finds them, Teeka's strong hand does more harm than good, and soon the reindeer are wilder than they were before she began training them. How will she ever get them ready to pull Santa's sleigh on time?

The Christmas Miracle of Jonathan Toomey by Susan Wojciechowski

Jonathan Toomey is the best woodcarver in the valley, but he is always alone and never smiles. No one knows about the mementos of his lost wife and child that he keeps in an unopened drawer. But one early winter's day, a widow and her young son approach him with a gentle request that leads to a joyful miracle.

A Christmas Carol by Charles Dickens

A novella about Ebenezer Scrooge, an old man, who is wellknown for his miserly ways. On Christmas Eve, Scrooge is visited by a series of ghosts, starting with his old business partner, Jacob Marley.

Carl's Christmas by Alexandra Day

Carl the big black dog is babysitting once again, this time on Christmas Eve while his owners go to church. Carl takes the baby downstairs to "decorate" the living room, then out for a round of Christmas carols, and home in time to meet Santa.

The Night Before Christmas by Clement C. Moore

It is the night before Christmas, in a house so cozy and colorful, so filled with expectation, and dusted with Christmas magic. Shhh. A mouse is asleep in its snug den and children are dreaming as sugarplum fairies flutter around their bed ...

Pour the white wine into a large jar or covered container, and mix with the tea mixture. Stir in apples and cranberries; mix in the apple brandy. Chill in refrigerator 24 to 48 hours. Serve cold.

Justin Moehn advocates for autism awareness By DIANA NGUYEN

R ichmond resident Justin Moehn is on a mission. Justin, 35, is a self-advocate for autism awareness and wants to share his story growing up on the spectrum with audiences of all ages.

He calls himself the "autism expert" and aims to visit schools throughout Fort Bend County to speak about his experiences and how autism varies from case to case.

The second youngest of four brothers, Justin went on to study computer science at Wharton County Junior College and now works as a clerk at the Fort bend County Libraries. He is also the administrative support at Hope For Three, a nonprofit advocacy organization.

While Justin was growing up, his parents were befuddled as to why he was doing things differently. He was diagnosed with autism at the Texas Children's Hospital in his early childhood years, but didn't become aware of his differences until high school.

"My school assignments were modified [and I was] not really socializing with other people at school," he recalled. "I didn't really catch on [at first]. I think it was probably my high school years, my freshman or sophomore years [that I realized it].

"In the '80s or '90s, it's not like today where pretty much anyone can be diagnosed. In the 80s, it was just like [one particular] doctor at the time."

Throughout his time at Pecan Grove Elementary School, Justin described things as "pretty much routine," but once he reached middle school, things got tough. With transitioning through different class periods, numerous teachers and assignments and trying not to be tardy, his time at middle school was a different ballgame.

Participating in a recent Q&A session called "Autism from the Inside Out" at the Shady Oaks Primary School in Richmond, Justin recalled his middle school experiences transitioning from class to class.

"It was almost like traffic out in real life. It was bumper to a bumper kind of thing," he described. "It's almost like run of the bulls in Spain."

The audience roared in laughter.

In Justin's first year of high school, he decided to talk to his teacher so he could go to lunch earlier before class was let out.

"There was a couple years of my high school where I skipped lunch because I wanted to do my studies," he said.

When asked if his classmates were mean to him growing up, he answered, "Not really, but they can be at times. It can be cruel times. You get to the age where it's the rebellion phase. I was more focused on my studies at the time."

In high school Justin had to adapt again.

Justin recalled having "at least one good teacher who understood autism really well. I became more understanding and aware of all that and my surrounding too."

COMMUNITY

One school day, he found a pamphlet to join theater lying on his desk during laboratory class.

Justin then joined theater for two years performing in school plays.

"It helped me with what I'm doing now and presentations," he said.

Growing up, Justin recalled not experiencing any major problems dealing with autism.

"There's times when I just want to play games or whine at times if it's been a long day," he noted. But it wasn't until he started college and working that the busy schedules overwhelmed him.

"That went to meltdown," he recalled. "So I lost my job just so I'd have more ease and focus on my studies. Now, I'm only working just to have some time off here and there to unwind."

He recalled his experience working at Whataburger.

"Fast food and people on the spectrum? Don't even bother," he said. "I wish I knew that before at the time."

The audience laughed.

"If you work at a cash register, you have people coming up to you going, 'Hey, I didn't get this.' Or 'This isn't what I wanted.'That will really set people on the spectrum off.

"You have someone coming up and yelling at you, that's not a good situation at all."

Rather than receiving instructions being yelled across the room, Justin noted it's better to come close and tell him quietly.

FAMILY MEMBERS Lesa, Lydia, Jonny and Jeff Junek at the Shady Oak Primary School converse with one another before the "Autism from the Inside Out" presentation by speaker Justin Moehn starts.

GUEST SPEAKER Justin Moehn and Shady Oak Primary School owner Debbie Kruger Elder converse at the "Autism from the Inside Out" Q&A presentation.

After years of learning more about himself and how to deal with autism, Justin aims to constantly share that knowledge with others.

Shady Oak Primary School owner Debbie Kruger Elder praised his enduring endeavor.

"Justin is also incredibly well connected because he has such tenacity," she said. "He introduced me to some really, really great people all through the Richmond-Rosenberg area."

She recalled a humorous story.

"We went together to a CPS meeting and he introduced me to the woman who runs the Richmond-Rosenberg area. He said, 'Debbie, come with me. She wants to talk to both of us. It would be great for you, you can tell her about your school.' He's always looking out for me.

"I said, 'OK, just the three of us?' And he said, 'Yeah, just the three of us.We'll just have a quick meeting.'

"So we arrive and she walks into a conference room and it's us and 19 people."

Justin laughed.

"He has a lot of tenacity and he didn't give up," said Debbie. "I really admire that about him. Justin is very transparent about what his journey has been like."

"He came by [Shady Oaks Primary] School and he said, 'I want to tell people my story. I want to talk about autism. Will you help me?'

"I said, 'Absolutely, I will.'

And for Justin, the journey is far from over. He plans to speak at Lamar and Fort Bend ISDs as well as Calvary Episcopal Preparatory School.

HOPE FOR THREE Give where you live

H ope For Three provides help and creates hope through various programs/resources and awareness events. Since 2011, it has assisted thousands of families in Fort Bend County and the surrounding areas; yet there are still so many families to help.

"The day to day living with autism is a feat with annual costs estimated at $60,000 per year for one child," said Darla Farmer, Founder and Executive Director. "Factor in Hurricane Harvey and the numbers catapult with hardships many cannot begin to imagine. We need this community more than ever."

As the Holiday Season begins, Hope For Three suggests you, "Give Where You Live" by pledging a onetime year-end donation or an on-going gift through the Circle of Hope Gift-Giving Program. Hope For Three is a 501c3 organization. To pledge your gift, call 281-245-0640 or visit www. bopefortbree.org. You can also find numerous ways to give time or talent, as well as, information and resources for autism families.

Deputy Constable and Volunteer, Nick Kaminski and Hope For Three Development Director, Caroline Bordelon, gather toys to help families during the holiday season.

Pecan Grove dancers will perform in The Nufcracker BY MARQUITA GRIFFIN

re-professional ballet company BalletForte presents its annual full-length Nutcracker ballet at the Stafford Centre Dec. 8-10, featuring a cast of more than 100 dancers from the local area — including a couple from Pecan Grove.

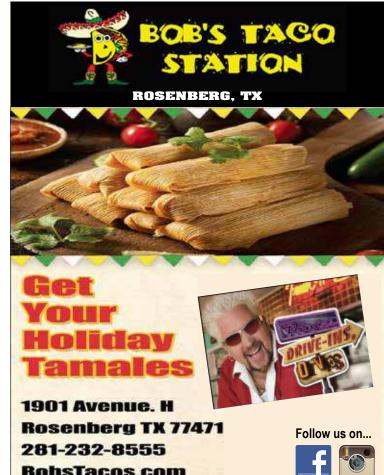

Travis High School varsity cheerleader and Ambush student mentor Elizabeth Lamb has been dancing for 13 years and has performed in numerous roles for The Nutcracker. This year the 16-year-old will perform the roles of Dew Drop Fairy and Arabian Princess.

"I am so excited," she said. "They are both beautiful roles, but very different in styles, so I'm looking forward to the challenge."

Considered the perfect family outing during the holiday season, BalletForte's The Nutcracker will show at the Stafford Centre, 10505 Cash Road in Stafford. Performances will take place at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 8; 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 9; and 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 10. Tickets, which start at $12, are available at www.balletforte.org.

Directed by Michael Banigan and Dianne Jarrell, BalletForte provides a training ground and professional quality performance opportunities for serious dancers from the Houston area.

And 12-year-old Anneliese VanDagna is a serious dancer.

Elizabeth Lamb, who has been a dancer for 13 years, is looking forward to the challenges offered by The Nutcracker. Photo courtesy of BalletForte

She was introduced to ballet when she was a little more than 2 years old by her aunt "TuTu" at Slater's Dance Studio in Annapolis, MD. She's also danced with The Midstate Ballet Company in York, PA where she performed in their version of the Nutcracker for two years and in a Hip Hop Nutcracker in 2014.

Before moving to Pecan Grove last year, VanDagna danced under the direction of Gretchen Patchell, a former NYC Ballet Principal Dancer, at York Ballet in York, PA. who VanDagna credits for becoming a stronger dancer.

"I am excited to be part of the Nutcracker this year because I get to dance in the Party Scene," she said. "And I get to dance in Flowers with the older girls."

BalletForte Company members audition for and are accepted to attend summer programs offered by professional ballet companies nationwide.

In addition to the public performances, the Company offers two performances for students from Title 1 schools in the area during the school day on Friday, Dec. 8.

The BalletForte Guild also presents its annual Clara's Tea from 3 to 5 p.m. Dec. 3 at Safari Texas in Sugar Land, featuring "The Nutcracker in a Nutshell," refreshments, a meet-and-greet with members of the cast, a silent auction and boutique.

Tickets are $30 per person for the tea and must be purchased in advance. BalletForte is a nonprofit organization and all donations to the organization are tax-deductible. For more information or to buy tickets, call 281-799-7554 or visit www.balletforte.org.

Joseph Fuller Joins The Forf Bend Symphony Orchesíra's "Deck The Halls" Concerí

Seats are filling quickly for the Fort Bend Symphony Orchestra's annual holiday concert, traditionally their most popular performance of the year.

FBSO is honored to welcome renowned pianist Joseph Fuller to the stage for the first half of this year's concert.

Fuller released his first holiday album, Chrismastime, in 2013. His various albums have received over 15 million plays on Pandora Radio, and he has performed with conductors across the nation.

The Fort Bend Symphony Orchestra Chorus joins the orchestra for the second half of the program.

"Deck the Halls" features traditional holiday favorites, including Let it Snow, The Christmas Song, Three Kings of Orient, the rollicking Frosty the Snowman, Handel's Hallelujah Chorus, and more.

Each year, FBSO members create a variety of handmade items for gift-giving needs that are sold prior to the performance and at intermission at the FBSO Holiday Marketplace. Selections range from jewelry to tree ornaments to wearable items and more. All proceeds benefit FBSO.

This year's performance begins at 2 p.m. Dec. 3 at the Stafford Centre.

Mighty Mustang Band Heads to Alamo Bowl

he Lamar Consolidated High School Mighty Mustang Band Booster Club is seeking support for the Mighty Mustang Band's trip to San Antonio, Texas on Dec. 28 to compete in the Valero Alamo Bowl, where the band has earned honors in prior years.

During the 2009-2010 school year, the band won the marching contest at the Alamo Bowl - earning the right to perform en masse halftime show with 11 other bands, and being the only high school band to perform during the pregame show.

In 2013-2014 school year, the band ranked second in the competition.

This December the band will perform during the Alamo Bowl halftime show with other high school bands; march in the National Marching Contest; and play the Alamo Bowl Pep Rally on the San Antonio River Walk.

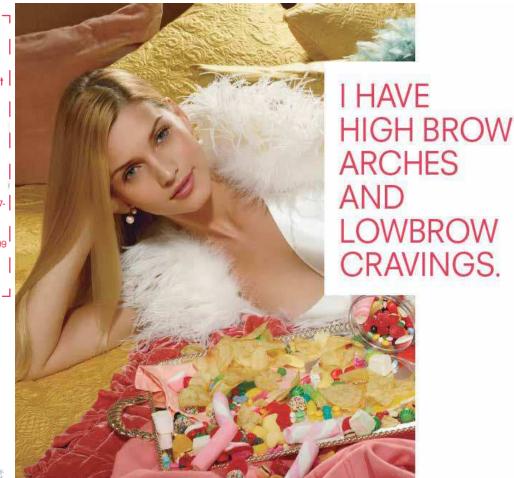

"Our community has a long-standing history of excellent band programs," said LCHS Band Director Jason Levin. "And if the community continues to support us we can represent it as musical ambassadors on a national stage on ESPN.

"The Alamo Bowl is not just a tremendous musical experience for the students, but also for everyone at home," he added.

As a result of the hardship created by Hurricane Harvey, Levin said many of the band parents are having difficulty paying dues for the Alamo Bowl trip.

Mighty Mustang Band drum majors, from left, Jacky Rivera, Alejandro Vargas, Sergio Sanabria are excited about the band's trip to the Alamo Bowl in December and are hoping the community will help support the band by donating funds.
