A THREAD IN SO MANY LIVES

VOLUNTEERS AND SUPPORTERS HELP COMMON THREADS THRIVE

There was a time when Common Threads couldn't hold more than six round clothing racks, didn't have a volunteer base or a means to share news other than by word of mouth. Times have definitely changed, though.

In the beginning, about 19 years ago, the Lamar Consolidated ISD clothing assistance program served around 800 families. Nowadays the program is helping thousands of families that live within the school district. Close to 2,000 families alone received invitations to Common Thread's Hope on the Brazos event, set for Aug. 3. Essentially a large back-to-school fair, Hope on the Brazos provides eligible families the chance to collect free school clothes and supplies for their children in preparation for the new school year.

"What's important to remember is this program gives such great support to the everyday family," said Common Threads manager Elida Castillo. "The families we help are not just low-income. There are moms battling cancer, or dads who had their hours cut at work ... The cost to get children ready for school gets expensive, really fast, and we want to help relieve families of this expense.

"We are here to help kids get what they need."

'Our volunteers are amazing'

On a sweltering Wednesday afternoon, 710 Houston Street in Richmond was alive with the activity of Common Threads volunteers who were organizing clothes, shoes, accessories and supplies in preparation for Hope on the Brazos and the upcoming school year.

Castillo steps into one of the former Jane Long elementary classrooms, now filled with clothing racks, and addresses the volunteers: "Who needs scissors or a trash can?"

A couple of volunteers hold up their hands. Taking tags off clothes is a lot easier with scissors, and it's pretty helpful to have a trashcan nearby to dispose of them.

"I love helping others," said Kylee Gilmore, while hanging school uniforms.

As a volunteer, Gilmore washes, dries, sorts and hangs clothes, assembles toiletry bags and organizes shoes. Although each of these tasks sounds like a chore, Gilmore doesn't see it as such.

Not only is she receiving service hours for school, she is learning about concerns in her community and is enthusiastic to be a part of the solution.

"There are a lot of people around here who need help," said Gilmore, a 17-year-old Foster High School senior.

"If you can, you should donate," whether that be time, money or supplies, she adds.

Not long after the doors opened to the volunteers, 70-year-old Pam Gould walked in, a joyful pep in her step, a cool fountain drink in hand, and immediately synced with Gilmore.

Three years ago Gould moved to the Del Webb Sweetgrass community and with the extra time on her hands, she sought opportunities to be involved in children-centric organizations. Not only has she volunteered with Lunches of Love — a program that provides free lunches to students — for the past two and a half years Gould has been a regular volunteer at Common Threads.

"Everyone should do something," Gould said. "Even us older folks can get out here and help."

Not far from Gould was 15-year-old Blair Thomas, who attends Elkins High School. She shared that her father, who works for Lamar Consolidated ISD, is the one who told her about Common Threads. That Wednesday was her first time volunteering but she confirmed that she would be returning.

"It's good to help people in need," she said. "This," she said, as her eyes scanned the room, "is important."

Considering the usual turnout of volunteers — especially the number of students during the summer — it's almost absurd to think that at one time Common Threads didn't have a volunteer base.

As Common Threads' director, parent involvement facilitator and student support service coordinator, Jill Davis finds extreme satisfaction in seeing the young volunteers bustling about, keeping the program running.

"On any given day we have upwards of 30 kids there," she said with a wide smile. "All of our volunteers are amazing."

Anyone who wants to volunteer, and is at least 12 years old, is welcomed and greatly appreciated, Davis said.

"You don't need to register, just come on over. We'd love to have you."

By the time an hour had passed, scores of young volunteers had filed through the doors and to their respective stations.

"I thought it was going to be boring," said 17-year-old Chidera Kalaji, a Lamar Consolidated High School student who was looking for ways to gain service hours.

"The biggest excuse [for students not to volunteer somewhere] is that it is boring," Kalaji explained. "But I can say that there are different activities [to complete at Common Threads] every single day. And it's fun."

Each volunteer in the room agrees.

Volunteer Valerie Leyva, 19, said Common Threads has a way of simply enriching your life. Leyva, who warmly greeted every person who walked through the door that day, started volunteering when she was in seventh grade at George Junior High.

"It's a great way to learn how to work with others and get to know so many people," she said.

"I just got attached to helping," she added with a smile.

'Absolute miracle workers'

In the hallway a group of teenage boys buzzed around, waiting for instructions on what needed to be done in the gymnasium, which is currently being renovated to be used by Common Threads. It's a sign that the program is growing, said Common Threads manger Irma Garza.

Garza remembers the first years of Common Threads. Before social media and the hashtags. Before there were volunteer sign-up times and a red buzzer on the door that indicated when someone was donating supplies or offering their time.

Garza stands in the hallway, where she gives the group of boys instructions on the objectives of the day.

"I'm excited for the growth of this," she said, referring to the re-design of the gym. Barring any setbacks, the gym will be operational in September.

"This place is important to all our families, who come from all walks of life," she continued. "This place really does make a difference for everyone involved — from the people in charge to the people who need us."

Her eyes sparkle with a memory.

"There was this little girl who picked out a pair of hot pink high top shoes," Garza recalled. "The shoes were in great condition, but they weren't new ... but they were new to her. I remember her putting them on and running up and down this hallway as fast as she could.

"She was so happy, so amazed at her new shoes."

Moments like these is what keeps Garza dedicated to the program. That's why she will roll with any changes or hardships that comes along.

"I've been through Katrina, Rita, Ike and Harvey," she said of the tropical storms that pushed Common Threads into overdrive.

"Four storms and I haven't been blown away yet," she adds with a laugh.

Nearly two decades has revealed plenty to Garza — the amount of people in need, as well as the scores of those who are willing to step up to provide aid.

"We have so many organizations, churches, students, Lions Clubs, businesses and average people who are always helping," she said.

As if on cue, the buzzer at the front door rings. Standing outside is a woman holding dresses on hangers. One of them was seemingly retrieved from the cleaners and was covered in plastic.

The woman, Ellen Bynum, a Lamar Consolidated ISD employee, decided to bring prom dresses that day, and raved about Common Threads' efforts during the prom season.

"Common Threads helps make sure every girl has her dream prom," Bynum said.

And considering prom garments are usually worn only once, Common Threads is where people should bring their old prom attire, she stressed.

"Common Threads makes sure they're put to great use."

Before she leaves, Bynum turns around to add one more comment: "You should have seen them during Hurricane Harvey. They were absolute miracle workers."

Foster High School student Jenay Garcia, 15, happily earns service hours by helping organize clothes and stressed she would continue volunteering at Common Threads. "I like it here," she said. "And it's important to help people in need."

Foster High School senior Kylee Gilmore "loves helping others" through Common Threads and encourages others to donate supplies or volunteer hours to the program.

Del Webb Sweetgrass resident Pam Gould truly enjoys volunteering to help children in the community.

A strong foundation & vital goals

Castillo said Common Threads is a foundation of "kindness, sympathy and compassion."

"I have always had the mindset of 'come and I'll meet you halfway,'" she said. "And Common Threads is of that mindset."

Castillo said she's always loved teaching and reaching children and helping her community. For 16 years she worked at a daycare and volunteered with nonprofits like Habitat for Humanity and Attack Poverty. She also volunteers her time to take children to River Pointe Church, where she is a member.

It wasn't until the Memorial Day flood of 2016 that Castillo started volunteering at Common Threads, though.

"I saw a video on Facebook about how the program needed supplies and volunteers," she said. "So I came to volunteer and, well, I never left. For nine months I volunteered every single day."

Although she admires the work of Common Threads, Castillo admits that it is still a "hidden gem in the community."

"It's like this," she explained. "If you're not in need of the services, you probably won't know anything about it."

That is something she's doggedly trying to change.

Any chance to share information about Common Threads, Castillo is there, materials in hand and stories of triumph to share.

"I have three goals every single time I share information about Common Threads," she said, holding up her fingers. "One: to reach those who might need us; two: to reach middle school, junior high and high school students who need service hours; and three: to reach supporters."

The door buzzer sounds again, and waiting at the door is another smiling volunteer ready to put in a day's work. The building begins to get busier and the teens ready to work on the gym are chopping at the bit. Castillo politely excuses herself to get back to the task at hand.

"There's always something to do here," she says over her shoulder. "And we make sure to get it done."

POPULAR CLASSROOM LEARNING APPS

According to research from Grunwald Associates, LLC, 71 percent of parents embrace mobile devices and feel they open up learning opportunities for kids that didn't previously exist. According to Apps for Education, there are more than 500,000 educational apps currently available for download. Apps can be stimulating and fun, but finding quality resources may involve sorting through those that aren't necessarily valuable. The following are some apps parents may want to consider.

Memrise: Learning a second or third language can be a boon to students of any age. Memrise drills students on vocabulary, phrases, aural recognition, and more.

Kahoot: Kahoot is a platform to create games and review content. Kahoot can be an ideal way for several students to prepare for a test in a digital study session.

Reading Eggs: This comprehensive learning system covers essential components of reading: awareness, vocabulary, phonics, fluency, and comprehension. Parents can see progress reports and know if and where extra attention may be necessary.

Edmodo: This app is designed to streamline workloads for teachers and help make it easier for them to stay connected with the classroom and their students. Parents can set up accounts and stay abreast of their children's activities, grades, messages and progress. Though it's not a learning app, Edmodo can be a valuable tool for classroom management.

Epic: This online children's subscription book service offers immediate, on-demand access to high-quality reading materials for children ages 12 and under. Voracious readers will always have content they can access, in addition to audio books, educational videos, and educational quizzes.

Photomath: This app enables students to snap pictures of complicated math problems and get step-by-step directions on how to answer them. Instead of simply giving the answer, Photomath provides students with the tools to answer the problems on their own.

StudyBlue: Students can create and share mobile flash cards, study guides, quizzes, and choose from other study materials to help reinforce lessons.

LCISD STUDENT SERVICES DIRECTOR SPEAKS AT INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

by ALEX WUKMAN | awukman@fbherald.com

Lamar Consolidated ISD's mental health initiatives are internationally recognized following Dr. Jennifer Roberts, the district's director of student services, speaking at the fourth annual International Congress on Collaborative-Dialogic Practices in the Czech Republic.

The International Certificate Collaborative-Dialogic Practices 2019 Congress was held at Masaryk University in Brno from June 27 to June 29. The conference, which started in 2015, allows global mental health professionals to discuss new ideas and developments in a type of therapeutic conversation known as Dialogic Practice. Dialogic Practice centers around the idea that all the participants in a therapeutic setting "feel heard and responded to," according to a 2014 University of Massachusetts Medical School report on the subject.

The Czech Republic conference was an interdisciplinary program that provided an "in-depth study of the possibilities for personal, organizational and social transformation," the district said in a statement.

Thirty-two countries were represented at the conference, which was co-sponsored by the Houston Galveston Institute and the Taos Institute.

The Houston Galveston Institute partners with LCISD to provide mental health services for students. Roberts co-presented with Dr. Sue Levin, the executive director of HGI, and the duo facilitated a breakout session that focused on some of the key events in the development of LCISD's mental health services, namely social and emotional supports for students.

Roberts and Levin discussed how the district incorporated mental health services into the "educational environment and recalibrate[d] what it means to measure student success," according to the conference's program.

Dr. Roberts facilitates a breakout session in Brno, Czech Republic.

MOSSIGE NAMED LAMAR CISD CHIEF ACADEMIC OFFICER

Lamar Consolidated ISD has tabbed Dr. Theresa "Terri" Mossige as the district's new chief academic officer.

Mossige has most recently served as LCISD's assistant superintendent of secondary education. Prior to joining the district, Mossige had 25 years of experience in education, 12 of which were spent as a principal in Fort Worth ISD. A graduate of Texas Wesleyan University, Mossige received her master's degree in Education Administration from Texas Christian University and her Educational Leadership Doctorate, also from Texas Christian University.

"The talent, dedication, and expertise of staff continue to amaze me," she said. "I am excited to work with everyone in the Department of Academics to serve our teachers, principals, students and community. We will continue our pursuit of excellence in all we do."

FOUR ADMINISTRATORS NAMED AT LAMAR CISD

In preparation of the 2019-2020 school year, Lamar Consolidated ISD has named four new administrators:

DIANE PARKS: Parks was named the district's new Assistant Superintendent of Elementary Education. A graduate of Purdue University, Parks has her masters from the University of Houston. Parks was the principal at Hubenak Elementary and previously served as the Principal at Ray Elementary. Prior to coming to Lamar CISD, Parks also taught second and fourth grade in Galena Park ISD. Parks takes over for Leslie Haack, who was named an assistant superintendent at Katy ISD.

JENNIFER ZEBOLD: Zebold was named the new principal at Briscoe Junior High School. A graduate of Texas State University, she received her masters from Houston Baptist University. Zebold was the principal of Wertheimer Middle School and was previously the Principal of Adolphus and Williams Elementary. Prior to coming to LCISD, Zebold was a teacher and assistant principal in Katy ISD.

HEATHER PATTERSON: Patterson was named the new principal of George Ranch High School. A graduate of Texas Tech University, she received her masters from the University of Houston-Victoria. Patterson was the principal of Polly Ryon Middle School and she previously served in both the principal and assistant principal roles at Velasquez Elementary. Prior to taking the helm as an administrator, she also taught at Travis and Pink Elementary.

KEVIN CROFT: Croft was named the new principal of Polly Ryon. Croft received his bachelors and masters degrees from Schreiner College. Croft was the assistant principal at Polly Ryon and previously served as an assistant principal at George Ranch High School. Prior to taking the helm as an administrator, he also taught at George Ranch and within Junction ISD.

TAX-FREE WEEKEND

During this annual sales tax holiday, you can buy most clothing, footwear, school supplies and backpacks (sold for less than $100) tax free from a Texas store or from an online or catalog seller doing business in Texas. In most cases, you do not need to give the seller an exemption certificate to buy qualifying items tax free.

THREE NEW TRUSTEES ELECTED TO SCHOOL BOARD

The LCISD Board of Trustees canvassed the votes for three new trustees: Jon Welch, Joy Williams and Alex Hunt. Hunt represents District #7, Welch represents District #5 and Williams represents District #4. After the new Board was seated, the Trustees voted on the Board Officers to serve from May 2019 to May 2020.

The Board elected Kay Danziger as President, Kathryn Kaminski as Vice President and Mandi Bronsell as Secretary.

The Lamar CISD Board of Trustees typically meets on the third Thursday of each month at Brazos Crossing, 3911 Avenue I in Rosenberg. A workshop session is normally held the Tuesday before each regular meeting, where trustees review agenda items and can have their questions answered. Trustees each receive detailed information regarding agenda items the week before meetings are scheduled. Lamar CISD Board meeting videos are uploaded the following week and remain archived on the Lamar CISD YouTube channel.

3 TIPS TO ESTABLISHING A SUCCESSFUL HOMEWORK AREA

#1 Create a communal homework table
The Harvard Graduate School of Education notes that youngsters who seem reluctant to do their homework may benefit from doing their afterschool work at a communal table. With parents nearby, such students may feel less lonely and may be less likely to procrastinate if they know mom or dad are nearby. Students who are not reluctant to do their homework may benefit from working quietly in their bedrooms.

#2 Clear the area of distractions
Distractions like televisions, devices that are not necessary to complete assignments and even younger siblings can make it hard for teenagers to concentrate on their work. Designate a time each day for homework, ensuring that the television is off and that devices have been placed on "Do Not Disturb." In addition, high school students with younger siblings can expect their brothers and sisters to be finished with their homework first. Make sure youngsters recognize the importance of staying quiet until everyone has finished their homework. Encourage younger siblings to leave the homework area and play quietly or read elsewhere in the home.

#3 Include a break between school and homework time
Much like parents may like a few minutes to unwind when getting home from work at night, kids likely won't want to dive right into their homework after getting home from school. A break between the school day and homework time can help kids clear their heads so they're more capable of concentrating when they sit down to do their work.

UNIQUE EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES THAT CAN HELP STUDENTS STAND OUT

According to The Princeton Review, college admissions officers approach each admissions season hoping to create a class made up of students with diverse interests and backgrounds. To accomplish that goal, officers typically look at each applicant's extracurricular activities to learn more about the person behind the application. Academic performance is important, but extracurricular activities might help set students apart from other applicants with similar academic backgrounds but little or no extracurricular activity on their applications.

Students who want to their extracurricular activities to stand out among the masses of college applicants can speak with officials at their school about these opportunities.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS: Often referred to as "Model UN," this activity asks students to role-play as United Nations delegates. Students who participate in Model UN develop public speaking skills while also learning how to conduct research, frame debates and develop their leadership skills.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLUBS: Such clubs can allow students who study foreign language to develop their language skills further, and they also can be great ways to learn about the culture and history behind the languages they're learning. Many schools also sponsor additional subject-specific clubs, such as chemistry clubs or English clubs, which can be ideal for students who want to pursue college degrees in such subjects.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY: Students who qualify for membership in the National Honors Society are challenged to develop their skills further through participation in school activities and community service.

EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES FOR NON-ATHLETES

According to the State of Play:2018 report from The Aspen Institute, 69 percent of children between the ages of six and 12 participated in a team or individual sport at least once in 2017.

As popular as sports are, the report found that just 37 percent of kids between the ages of six and 12 participated in a team sport on a regular basis in 2017. Lack of interest in sports is nothing for parents to worry about, though it is important that parents encourage their kids to participate in extracurricular activities, which can pay a host of dividends.

MUSIC: School bands or community music programs provide opportunities for kids to learn an instrument and connect with fellow music lovers.

VOLUNTEERING: Many organizations welcome teenager volunteers, which can help charities and other organizations meet their missions. Volunteering even allows kids to further indulge an existing passion. For example, kids who love the beach can volunteer with a local environmental organization that works to clean up local beaches and waterways.

WRITING: Youngsters with an interest in writing can participate in local creative writing groups. Such groups can be great places to brainstorm story ideas and learn about the creative writing process.

Fort Bend Cares awards $170,000 in grants

Fort Bend Cares board of trustees members and 2019 Grant recipients.

Fort Bend Cares awarded $170,000 in grants to local nonprofits committed to improving the lives of disadvantaged children in Fort Bend County.

Supporters gathered at Safari Texas Ranch to celebrate the results of another successful year. The event was sponsored by Houston Methodist Sugar Land Hospital. Key sponsors included Covia, Fluor, Silver Eagle Distributors, Rice & Gardner Consultants, Gregg Engineering, Billy & Tammy Brown, and Don & Ellie Knauss and the ongoing support of volunteers and additional donors.

The grants ranged from $5,000 to $10,000, and more than 40 Fort Bend Cares Grants Committee volunteers performed a thorough review of grant applications from local nonprofits before making their recommendations to the Board of Trustees.

“Fort Bend Cares supporters entrust us to evaluate grant applicants to ensure the money they have helped us raise has the biggest and most positive impact on disadvantaged children in Fort Bend County,” said Grants Committee Chairperson Patty Ward. “Those serving on the Grants Committee take this responsibility very seriously and are always so moved and impressed by all the dedicated organizations doing the much-needed work to help these kids.”

New grant recipients this year include Bo’s Place, which provides grief support services, resources and referrals to children who have experienced the death of a significant person in their lives, and College Community Center, which organizes eight weeks of activities for students.

Since 2005, Fort Bend Cares has awarded more than $2 million in grants to organizations that strive to improve the lives of the youth in Fort Bend.

For a complete list of 2019 grant recipients and for more information on Fort Bend Cares, visit www.fortbendcares.org.

Lessons learned and returned

One of the fastest growing outreach efforts of local nonprofit Hope For Three is its signature awareness campaign, “It’s Cool to Care,” which educates and empowers students, teachers, nurses and counselors in the public school systems about young people with autism.

This presentation has been provided to more than 14,500 school aged children in grades K-12 in the community, providing students a first-hand look at the challenges students with autism face. The campaign offers tips and strategies on how students can be a good friend and includes an anti-bullying exercise.

“This is an important part of our mission” said Hope For Three CEO Darla Farmer. “We are privileged to share this important perspective to students and always hope we make a lasting impression.”

She noted the recent return of David McDonald, who participated in the “It’s Cool to Care” program as a senior at Dulles

High School. As a freshman at Texas A&M University, McDonald is a leader in their A.S.S.I.S.T. — Aggies Selflessly Serving In Shaping Tomorrow — organization. When the organization needed to select a nonprofit as the beneficiary of its 2019 service project, McDonald, along with his peers, chose Hope For Three.

“I was so influenced by the program I wanted to do something to give back,” he said.

McDonald, and 62 like-minded Aggie freshman, provided a Pizza in the Park family fun day with food, beverages and games at Mark McGrath Park in Meadows Place.

This effort raised more than $600 in one day.

The spirit of “It’s Cool to Care” continued as the McDonald supported Hope For Three Teen Huddle 8th Annual Car Wash for Kids the following day before returning to campus. For more information visit hopeforthree.org or call 281-245-0640.

Hope For Three goes statewide with Crisis Intervention Training

Hope For Three Autism Advocates currently serves as the exclusive autism educator for the Fort Bend County Sheriff’s Department Crisis Intervention Training program, and a few months ago expanded beyond county lines when CEO Darla Farmer spoke to nearly 250 first responders and mental health professionals at the 6th annual Texas CIT Association Conference.

Hope For Three already performed CIT training for more than 1,600 officers in Fort Bend, Harris and surrounding counties by educating them on engagement strategies and intervention techniques to diffuse crisis situations for individuals with autism and people affected by mental illness.

As a result of this training, local officers have successfully prevented the suicide of a high school student and returned a child with autism safely to their home.

During the annual conference, officers representing 56 law enforcement agencies, mental health professionals representing 28 mental health organizations, three state agencies and one fire department, received training pertaining to interacting with persons suffering with mental illness.

The Texas CIT Association is a nonprofit organization comprised of law enforcement, corrections, the mental health community, and advocacy groups to provide standardized training, support, and education in responding to those affected by mental illness and/or people experiencing a mental health crisis.

Hope For Three representation not only spoke at the conference but was a part of the congratulatory celebration for local Fort Bend County Sheriff Office’s Lieutenant Scott Soland, who received the Texas CIT Association Award.

The award is extended to the Association member who exhibited the most effort to make a positive impact on community mental health across the State of Texas and whose dedication to the Association is exemplified in these efforts.

“We could not be prouder of Lieutenant Soland and the efforts he has put forth to support Hope For Three and the autism community,” said Farmer. “Soland serves on our board and was the primary creator of the CIT program. He has been instrumental in its success which derives from his passion for our community.”

FBJSL awards college scholarships to deserving young women

For more than a decade, the Fort Bend Junior Service League has awarded college scholarships to deserving women residents of Fort Bend County who desire to further their education. For 2019, FBJSL presented Elizabeth Lamb, Lauren Yang, Jazmine Perez, and Ranev Harris each a Volunteer Scholarship in the amount of $1,000 each for their outstanding volunteer efforts. Brittany Taylor was also presented the $2,000 New Beginnings Scholarship.

Elizabeth Lamb was the co-captain of the Travis High School Varsity cheerleading team and a two-year member of the National Honor Society. She is a principal dancer at Ballet Forte where she has performed in Nutcracker for nine years and was recently the lead in the production "Coppelia." She has won various awards in numerous dance competitions in her 15 years of dancing. Lamb has accumulated over 550 volunteer hours through Ballet Fortes Community Outreach Projects, United Methodist Action Reachout Mission by Youth and other local organizations. She has committed to Louisiana State University.

Lauren Yang was the valedictorian at Dulles High School where she served in leadership roles for numerous organizations, including the Congressional Youth Advisor Council, Advisory Board of 1000 Dreams Fund, FBISD Math and Science Academy Student Council, National English Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta (National Math Honor Society), and National Art Honor Society. Yang received dozens of awards in academics, community service, art, piano, pageantry, and creative writing. She has accumulated over 1,131 hours of volunteerism: 600 hours with Girl UP - United Nations Foundation Campaign, 223 hours with We Care Student Organization — which she co-founded — and 144 hours as the Volunteer Group Leader at Benavidez Elementary School Pen Pal and Mentor Program. She plans to pursue a law degree at Harvard University.

Jazmine Perez was the Hightower High School Varsity soccer team, director of the youth group at Soldiers of Christ, vice president of the Medical Academy, a Fort Bend Academy Leadership Cadre and a member of the Health Occupation Students of American and UNICEF. Her awards include four years of academic excellence, the Hildred Jones Drain Community Service Award, and she was placed in Future Business Leaders of America Competition in the Health Care Administration Event. Jazmine has volunteered over 420 hours at Mutts and Meows Rescue, Soldiers of Christ Youth Group, St. Vincent de Paul Food Pantry and The Chosen Young Adult Group.

Ranev Harriss served in leadership roles for several organizations at George Ranch High School, including as the president of the National Honor Society, founder and president of Girl Scouts, Book Buddies, and a member of the Spanish Honor Society, National Charity League, Student Council, Club Volleyball, Principal Advisory Council and AP Ambassadors. She also received numerous awards, including the National Charity League's Service Award, Modelette Award, Mother-Daughter Award and the Service Chord award. Harriss has volunteered over 288 hours, primarily at Attack Poverty, as well as Book Buddies, The Bridge Fellowship, Parkway United Methodist, Common Threads and Gigi's Playhouse. She has committed to Texas Christian University.

Brittany Taylor was awarded the New Beginnings Scholarship. After tragically losing their parents in high school, Taylor and her sisters had to separate and move in with different family members. Not only did Taylor push through to finish two years of high school in a year through home school, she did so with straight As. She always wanted to attend college but did not have the financial support to do so. While working as a 911 dispatcher, she enrolled in the EMT program at Wharton County Community College, but when she and her ex-husband divorced in 2015, and having no family in the area, she had to quit her job and drop out of school to care for her children. Taylor remained determined, though, and as of last fall, thanks to a small grant and supportive family, was able to re-enroll in the EMT program. Last semester, she achieved a 4.0 GPA. She was recommended for this scholarship by both a sergeant of the Sugar Land Police Department as well as the Wharton County Junior College EMS Faculty and Lab Coordinator. After she graduates this month, she hopes to work as a life flight medic while pursuing a bachelor's of nursing degree so that she may eventually become a flight nurse.

The FBJSL is a non-profit organization of women committed to promoting volunteerism, developing the potential of women and improving the Fort Bend County community through the effective action and leadership of trained volunteers. ## Texas Master Naturalist 2019 fall training

by MARGO "MAC" MCDOWELL

Registration for the Fort Bend and Waller Counties' Texas Master Naturalist Coastal Prairie Class for 2019 is now open.

Naturalist students and graduates of this program may volunteer for projects around Fort Bend and Waller County including Katy Prairie Conservancy, Brazos Bend State Park, local school educational programs, Fort Bend County Fair, the Seabourne Nature Fest and the Chapter's signature project: Seabourne Creek Nature Park.

You can be involved in anything from trail management to educating students about our natural habitat with hands on materials. You can decide based on what interests you.

In addition to attending classes taught by recognized experts, you will participate in field trips to exceptional natural areas including Attwater Prairie Chicken National Refuge, Sea Center Texas, Gulf Coast Bird Observatory, Brazos Bend State Park and Katy Prairie Conservancy.

You will have the opportunity to enhance your knowledge of local geology, range management and ecological diversity. Additionally, you will also visit local private reserves to experience different habitats and ecosystems.

The classes are scheduled to begin Tuesday evening Aug. 20 and complete in late October. The series includes four evening classes on Tuesday evenings from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. and eight Saturday classes from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday classes are held at area parks and preserves to provide learning opportunities for new trainees in the field. Evening classes are near the Fort Bend County Fairgrounds, Texas Highway 36, South.

The total cost for the program is $50 each person. For more information call 281-633-7033, email at mmcdowell@ag.tamu.edu or visit www.txmn.org/coastal.

VIBRANT MUMBAI WEDDING PHOTOS ON EXHIBIT

While traveling with his daughter in India in 2012, local photojournalist Craig Moseley had an opportunity to attend a wedding in Mumbai. The brilliant melding of beautiful colors and vibrant cultural traditions were a feast for his artist's eye.

Photos that Moseley captured of the festivities during the three-day wedding event will be on display at Fort Bend County Libraries' First Colony Branch Library throughout the month of August. The First Colony Branch Library is located at 2121 Austin Parkway in Sugar Land.

The exhibit, "A Wedding in Mumbai," features photographs that provide a peek into a cultural event from the perspective of an outsider.

"In 2012, I had the opportunity to accompany my daughter to a wedding in Mumbai, India," said Moseley. "I quickly learned that the diversity of cultures and religions in India means there is no such thing as a 'standard' set of wedding customs. Instead, Indian weddings vary greatly from region to region."

Moseley and his daughter attended the festivities as guests of the groom's family. On the first day of the event, Moseley captured photos of the Pooja Ceremony and the Sangeet. On the second day, the groom dressed in elaborate wedding attire before proceeding to the Baraat - a large procession filled with music and dancing.

"Upon reaching the wedding venue, the families of the bride and groom joined together for the actual wedding ceremony, which took place under a structure called a Mandap," Moseley said. "A reception was held on the evening of the third day."

Moseley says he was amazed at the incredible colors, the overwhelming feeling of fun and joy expressed by the families and their friends, and the warmth with which he and his daughter were greeted as "extended family." He hoped to capture photos that would encapsulate the beauty that he saw and experienced, so that he could share it with others.

A retired geologist from the oil-and-gas industry, Moseley has enjoyed photography since his days in high school, when he served as the photographer for the campus newspaper.

Craig Moseley

A trip to Yosemite National Park reinforced his fascination with photography. The works of renowned nature photographer Ansel Adams have inspired him ever since.

His work as a geologist took him to many parts of the world - Western Europe, Japan, Viet Nam, Australia, Egypt, South Africa, and various parts of the United States - where he photographed many remote and unique locales.

The exhibit is free and open to the public. It can be viewed during regular library hours. For more information, see the Fort Bend County Libraries website (www.fortbend.lib.tx.us), or call the First Colony Branch Library at 281-238-2800 or the library system's Communications Office at 281-633-4734.

CALVARY EPISCOPAL TROUPE PERFORMS 'THE MUSIC MAN JR.'

Drama club members from Calvary Episcopal Preparatory's elementary, middle and high school combined their talents and their tremendous efforts to provide audiences a rare treat with their performance of Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man Jr." In a dress rehearsal preview and then three performances, the parish hall was bursting with audience members eager to see Calvary talent at its sixth annual musical production.

Featured in the lead role of Harold Hill was this year's One Act play best actor for the state of Texas, Paul Lazarou. The range of age in Calvary Episcopal's productions include age 5 -18. The youngest lead roles were played by kindergarteners Yeva Cherry and Victoria Salceda as Amaryllis.

Not to be outdone, Nathan Tufts provided an adorable portrayal of Winthrop Paroo and held his own as a second-grade lead. On closing night, in tradition with previous years, Calvary announced next year's musical which will be the Disney production of the Little Mermaid, Jr.

Ali McCroskey, aka Eulalie Mackenckie Shinn, makes a spectacle of herself during River City, Iowa's annual Fourth of July celebration.

Calvary Episcopal Preparatory School theater class performed "The Music Man Jr."s

Yeva Cherry, left, played Amaryllis. Victoria Salceda and Nathan Tufts played the role of Winthrop Paroo.

'HIDDEN JEWELS' PAINTING WINS FIRST PLACE

Before graduating from Foster High School, Sonali Puri's oil painting "Hidden Jewels" caught the eye of Houston Mayor Sylvester Turner, which in turn, won her the first place award in the Mayor's Art Scholarship Competition and a $5,000 scholarship. Puri ranked number one out of 98 submissions, coming from 24 high schools out of 11 different school districts. "I painted this piece to represent the unity between Pakistani, Indian and Bangladeshi cultures," said Puri. "No matter where we are from, in sisterhood we are one."

FORT BEND BOYS CHOIR OFFERS MUSIC OPTIONS FOR BOYS

by TIANA MORTIMER

If a boy has a talent and desire to sing, he should definitely audition for the Fort Bend Boys Choir of Texas for their 38th concert season.

Entry into one of the treble choirs (for unchanged voices) is by audition only. These auditions will be held at the First United Methodist Church-Missouri City by special appointment throughout the summer. Boys should be 8 years old or going into the third grade for the 2019-2020 school year.

Scholarships and payment plans are available in addition to car-pool assistance. Rehearsals are Thursday evenings and the new season kicks off Aug. 22 from 6:30 p.m. to 7:15 p.m.

Life change happens when you participate in music and young boys in the Fort Bend Boys Choir can attest to that. They become leaders and develop time management skills, self-confidence, self-esteem and citizenship.

Each boy plays an integral role in the organization's success and there are no benchwarmers or substitutes in choir.

Music Magic is an enrichment program for boys ages six and seven. This special class brings music alive through movement, musical games, singing and other activities. Boys learn about rhythm awareness and pitch matching in addition to developing large muscle coordination, better musicianship and increased focus. The best part is that there are no auditions for this class!

In its 23rd season, Music Magic will meet on Tuesday evenings from 6:30 p.m. to 7:15 p.m., beginning Oct. 8 and ending Dec. 3 at the First United Methodist Church Missouri City, 3900 Lexington Blvd., Missouri City. On Saturday, Dec. 7, Music Magic will sing with all the treble choirs at their annual Christmas Musicale.

Call the Fort Bend Boys Choir office at 281-240-3800 for more details and to schedule a date and time for an audition or to sign up for Music Magic.

Campbell Elementary named top 10 campus

Lamar Consolidated ISD's Bess Campbell Elementary was named the eighth best elementary school in the Houston area.

The ranking was made by the Texas nonprofit organization Children at Risk, which describes itself as a "non-partisan research advocacy organization dedicated to addressing the root causes of poor public policies affecting children."

Children at Risk staffers reviewed approximately 4,550 Texas elementary schools, 911 of which were in the Houston-area. The organization used previous years' STAAR test results to rank and grade elementary schools on an A-plus to F scale.

While multiple LCISD elementary schools received an A-plus grade, Bess Campbell was the only school to crack the top ten in Houston. Children at Risk also named Campbell the 24th best elementary school in Texas. "We're proud of our students and staff for all they have accomplished this past year," said Lindsey Sanders, community relations director for LCISD. "Lamar Cisd focuses on putting students first and providing opportunities for each child to reach their full potential. "As we begin the 2019-2020 school year, we look forward to celebrating our successes and working through challenges in collaboration with our staff, families and community."

Along with Campbell, Samuel Miles Frost Elementary also received an A-plus grade and rounded out the top 20 best schools in the Houston-area. Frost elementary was also named the 59th best elementary in Texas.

Susanna Dickinson Elementary also received an A-plus grade. Dickinson elementary was also named the 33rd best elementary school in the Houston-area and the 110th best elementary school in Texas.

Joe A. Hubenak elementary was also recognized with an A-plus rating. Hubenak elementary school was the only other LCISD elementary to be included in the Houston-area the top 50. The school was also named 152 on Children at Risk's list of top Texas elementary schools.

The number one school in the Houston-area was Devers Elementary, which is between Houston and Beaumont. The number one elementary school in Texas is Windsor Park Gifted and Talented in Corpus Christi.

Great minds at work! Campbell Elementary updates by ALEINI LACOMBE

Each year Bess Campbell Elementary determines a theme that the students and faculty will support throughout the year in the classroom and through school activities. This year's school theme is Great Minds at Work! ~Construction. The students will have as much fun as the teaching staff with this theme!

BEGINNING OF THE YEAR FORMS

All required beginning of year forms must be completed through the Skyward Family Access Center for the 2019-2020 school year. Student schedules will not be available online through the Family Access Center until all the beginning-of-year forms are completed for your student and after schedules have been released.

Beginning-of-year items include family contact information, emergency contacts and the Student Handbook signature page. These items will be available through your normal Skyward Family Access login starting Aug. 1 and need to be completed by Aug. 14 as we prepare to make personal phone calls from our teachers to parents for class assignments.

All parents will receive a detailed letter including instructions on how to access the beginning of year forms and their log in information. Should you need assistance once the window opens please contact Debra Payne at 832-223-1300 for any questions you may have regarding Skyward.

CAFETERIA STUDENT RESTRICTIONS

Parents are welcome to add restrictions, such as an allocated amount of money per day or remove certain options for their students by visiting www.Schoolcafe.com.

SKYLERT PARENT TEXTING NOTIFICATIONS

LCISD would like to use text messaging through Skylert to communicate important information so make sure you update your preferences to receive this information.

Three Lamar CISD schools named to Texas Honor Roll

Campbell Elementary, Dickinson Elementary and Jackson Elementary have been named to the 2018-19 Honor Roll for their high achievement in student success.

The program, presented by Educational Results Partnership, is part of a national effort to identify higher-performing schools and districts that are improving student outcomes.

The honor roll is developed by Educational Results Partnership, a nonprofit organization that applies data science to help improve student outcomes and career readiness.

ERP maintains the nation's largest database on student achievement and utilizes this data to identify higher-performing schools and districts.

"ERP is all about improving educational equity and promoting career readiness for all students, regardless of their family income, background or ZIP code," said James Lanich, Ph.D., ERP president and CEO.

"These Honor Roll schools are living proof that our students can succeed when schools are committed to removing educational obstacles and accelerating student success."

Dickinson special education teacher receives Red Apple Award

Dickinson Elementary Special Education teacher Tierra Shirley, known for her dedicated efforts to help students with behavioral issues, has been recognized by Ashley HomeStore with a Red Apple Award, a $250 cash prize and a $2,500 check in her name to refurbish the school's teacher lounge.

"Beyond surprised," said Shirley as she fought back tears during the presentation of her award during a live segment on KHOU-TV's Great Day Houston.

The lead teacher for Dickinson Elementary's PASS (Positive Approach to Student Success) program, Shirley was nominated by Kimberly Moeller, mother of a current Dickinson Elementary kindergarten student.

"Her students love her, my son loves her and she has made all the difference in our lives," wrote Kimberly in her nomination of Shirley. "Thanks to Tierra, my son is successful and he is loving school."

Brittany Graham, community specialist with Ashley HomeStore, says the home furnishings retailer will collaborate with Dickinson Elementary administrators to design its refurbished teacher lounge in order to create a welcoming and relaxing setting.

"Teachers like Tierra are the difference makers in the communities we serve," said Graham. "She's a special teacher who means everything to these very special children."

Lunches of Love thrives at new location

by AVERIL GLEASON | agleason@fbherald.com

It's been a little over a month since Lunches of Love has been operating in its new space and the volunteers are loving it. After spending years at First United Methodist Church in Rosenberg, Lunches of Love Director Adriane Mathews Gray proudly announced that the nonprofit moved into the old bowling alley building at 1416 Radio Lane.

"We have only been operating out of our new space since June 10 and it is amazing," Gray boasted. "We have space to grow our program. We are definitely making meals and memories in our new home."

Kids who depend on a nutritious breakfast and lunch each day at school are suddenly left wondering where their next meal is coming from while not in school, Gray explained.

Lunches of Love has dedicated the past 10 years to helping end childhood hunger in Fort Bend County. Lunches of Love is 100 percent volunteer based and driven with no paid staff.

"Everyone has raved over our new home and are so excited for this new journey for Lunches of Love and our community children," Gray said. "Many of our families who receive lunches have come by to take a tour and help volunteer, too."

"Our new home was definitely a leap of faith, but our volun-

Volunteers are always needed to make sandwiches, cut veggies and fruit, decorate and fill bags. No time to volunteer? Bags, food and money are always appreciated.

teers, supporters, donors and community believe in and truly back our mission and made sure our ever-growing program could continue making a positive impact in Fort Bend County."

In 2009, the program began by feeding 150 children at Bowie Elementary School. Now the program provides thousands of children with lunches.

"We feed approximately 4,100 children every day during the summer and approximately 3,000 children during the school year," Gray revealed. "With our new larger home, we will be able to feed even more children living in food-insecure households."

In June 2015, Lunches of Love served its millionth free lunch and by July 2017 it had served its two millionth meal.

Gray said she has lots of dreams and goals for Lunches of Love, the children and the community.

"We definitely have space for new components and to grow, but as of now, we are doing our very best to develop a permanent footprint and lay of the land. We are super excited about our future and being able to help feed children and also help break the cycle of generational poverty in Fort Bend County with new ideas, too."

School-year lunches begin the second week of the school year to allow teachers and staff a full week to identify new students, Gray said, explaining that school staff determines which students need weekend care packages.

Lunches are also provided to every child living in the household who is 18 or younger.

For the extended school holiday sessions to run smoothly, the organization requires about 110 dedicated volunteers every day. During the school year, about 50 volunteers are needed each Wednesday to handle the weekend lunches.

"There are so many ways you can help, too," Gray said. "We have jobs for all ages in our facility or in your own home. It is easy to help make a difference."

"We always need volunteers. Volunteer opportunities can be found on our online calendar and donations can be made online, too. Our most current needed summer item is juice boxes."

Hurricane Harvey helped one TSTC student find a career

by AMANDA SOTELO

Two years ago when Hurricane Harvey devastated the Gulf Coast, Texas State Technical College student Nolen Maraman and his family lost their home to flooding, forcing them to start over, yet through it all he also found a new career.

“We had to evacuate north, in the middle of the storm,” said the 22-year-old. “And as we were leaving, I saw a number of electric companies arriving. There were men and women ready to get power up and running the moment the storm moved out of our area. To me that was intriguing and brave.”

Maraman would spend the next several days researching about what an electrical lineworker is and does.

“It didn’t take long for me to realize that becoming an electrical lineworker is what I wanted to do,” he said. “It’s a career with many opportunities to offer, including the chance to help others.”

There was only one thing delaying his start at TSTC, and that was his last semester at Sam Houston University, he was only a few months away from graduation.

Maraman went on to earn his bachelor’s degree in business management, but he said it was only a path for him to follow, not what he wanted to do. He had found his true passion, and that was at TSTC.

“At first my family was a bit skeptical about me not pursuing a job with my degree, and returning to a technical college,” he said. “But after I showed them the number of job opportunities that would be available to me, how in demand my skills would be and my projected salary, they trusted my choice and were supportive every step of the way.”

He expects to graduate in August with a certificate in Electrical Lineworker Technology and said that the training he has received in his program will allow him to hit the ground running when he enters the workforce.

“I came in completely new. I knew nothing about the field,” said Maraman, “But because of the program’s experienced instructors and the hands-on, real-world training they provide to their students with an on-campus pole yard, I now know the foundation and the basics that I need to be a successful lineman.”

Maraman added that not only has he found his passion and new career, but he has also found happiness.

“I can honestly say I’m happy now,” he said. “I’m working toward a career that helps others, that I’m passionate about and Nolen Maraman came to TSTC after receiving a four-year degree because of the number of opportunities he discovered he would have pursuing the Electrical Lineworker Technology program. Maraman is expected to graduate in August with a certificate.

that gives me room for growth.”

In fact, both of Maraman’s parents received a technical education. His mom began her career as an emergency medical technician and his dad is an underwater welder.

“Technical education fuels our workforce,” said Maraman. “In my experience, my certificate is giving me more job opportunities than my bachelor’s degree, it’s unbelievable.”

Maraman also said that he highly recommends TSTC and the many programs being offered.

“These are life-long careers, not just jobs,” he said. “And I’m excited to begin mine. And I have (Hurricane) Harvey to thank for this.”

Graduates from TSTC’s Electrical Lineworker Technology program, also offered at the college’s Marshall and Waco campuses, can expect to be in demand for the nation’s highest paying career. Texas employs more lineworkers than any other state.

According the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics employment of lineworkers is expected to grow eight percent, and job opportunities will be best for persons with good technical and mechanical skills. In 2018 the median annual wage was more than $70,000.

For more information on TSTC’s Electrical Lineworker Technology program or to apply, visit tstc.edu.

Preventing HPV-related cancers

About 80 percent of men and women are exposed to human papillomavirus (HPV) at some point in their lifetime, which can lead to serious health problems. Although the body usually clears those transient HPV infections on its own, screenings and early detection are vitally important.

Few cancers can be prevented with a vaccine, but cervical cancer is one that can be prevented. That's because the vast majority of cervical cancer cases — diagnosed in nearly 13,000 women in the United States each year — are caused by HPV.

There are multiple strains of HPV, most of which can be sexually transmitted, resulting in nearly all new cases of cervical cancer and many incidences of vulvar and vaginal cancers, anal, penile and head and neck cancers, according to Dr. Tarrik Zaid, board-certified gynecologic oncologist at Houston Methodist Gynecologic Oncology Associates.

Fortunately, HPV vaccines are available in the United States and can decrease the chances of contracting the most common types of the HPV virus that cause cancer, he said. Along with regular Pap tests to detect any abnormal cells on the cervix, this proactive approach is a woman's best shot for avoiding cervical cancer, the second leading cause of cancer deaths among women.

"Cervical cancer caused by high-risk HPV is one of the most preventable cancers," Zaid said. "But finding the disease early with Pap tests can lead to more treatment options and significantly decreased deaths."

More than a decade ago, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved the first of three HPV vaccines that, delivered through a series of shots, can help prevent HPV-related cancers. Current guidelines recommend vaccination starting at the age of 11 or 12 years for both genders.

"About 14 million new cases of HPV occur in the U.S. each year," said Dr. Julie A. Boom, director of the Texas Children's Hospital Immunization Project and director of Infant and Childhood Immunization for the Center for Vaccine Awareness and Research. "With more young people being vaccinated now, we hope to see the prevalence of HPV drop significantly."

Current cervical cancer screening guidelines recommend Pap tests for women ages 21 and older. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, women should be screened every three years between ages 21 and 29 with a Pap test and every five years between ages 30 and 65 with a Pap and HPV test.

UROLOGY HEALTH AWARENESS

Aging can lead to significant urinary conditions in men and women. But doctors at Houston Methodist Sugar Land Hospital say that understanding these potential issues — and today's advanced treatments — is the key to urinary health.

To help improve awareness of urinary condition risk factors, symptoms and treatment options, Houston Methodist Sugar Land is hosting a free informational seminar on urinary incontinence and prostate cancer at 6p.m. on Sept. 12.

Incontinence is often seen as a normal part of aging, especially for women. Pregnancy, childbirth and advancing age can weaken the muscles that control the bladder and urethra, leading to an involuntary loss of urinary control. Extra weight can put pressure on the bladder and surrounding muscles, making the condition worse.

"Having infrequent episodes of urine leakage isn't a cause for alarm, especially as women grow older," said Dr.

Laura Martinez, board-certified urologist at Houston Methodist Urology Associates in Sugar Land. "But if incontinence is affecting your daily life or causing you to avoid certain situations, then it's time to see a urologist."

The good news is that incontinence can often be treated with a few minor changes. "Usually, we begin with lifestyle modifications, such as creating a schedule of fluid intake, along with pelvic-strengthening exercises," Martinez said. "Those can make a big difference for many women. If necessary, we also have a number of medications and even surgical options that can eliminate or reduce incontinence and help women regain confidence and control over their routine."

Another common urology health issue is prostate cancer, as it is the second most common cancer affecting men and the second leading cause of cancer death among men. About 200,000 Americans each year are diagnosed.

"Because early stages of prostate cancer typically cause no symptoms, it is important for men to be checked regularly by a physician," said Dr. Neel Srikishen, board-certified urologist at Houston Methodist Urology Associates in Sugar Land. Physical examinations of the prostate and a simple blood test, called a prostate-specific antigen (PSA) test, can identify small tumors long before symptoms begin.

"Early detection is critical because most prostate cancers are slow-growing, which gives us time to make the best possible treatment decision," Srikishen said. "We have access to a wide range of treatments today, many of which leave men with no lasting side effects. Catching prostate cancer at its early stages – especially before it spreads to other parts of the body – can make a significant difference in how we approach a plan of care.”

Neel Srikishen

UROLOGY HEALTH SEMINAR

Join board-certified urologists Dr. Laura Martinez, and Dr. Neel Srikishen, for a free and informative seminar on incontinence and prostate cancer.
