The vaults at Federated Mint are going empty,” said Laura A. Lynne, U.S. Coin and Currency Director for Federated Mint. That’s because a decision by Federated Mint to release rarely seen U.S. Governor-issued Morgan Silver Dollars, some worth up to $500 times their face value, means unsearched Bank Bags loaded with U.S. Gov’t issued Morgan Silver Dollars dating back to the 1860’s are now being handed over to U.S. residents who find their zip code listed in today’s publication.

“But don’t thank the Government. As U.S. Coin and Currency Director for Federated Mint I get paid to inform and educate the general public regarding U.S. coin. River since the decision by Federated Mint to release rarely seen U.S. Gov’t issued Morgan Silver Dollars to the general public – I’m being honest, how much are the unsearched Bank Bags worth? The answer is, no one really knows, they are rare since the vaults at the Federal Mint were never searched to determine collector values and there are no guarantees, but we do know this. Each unsearched bag weighs nearly 3 pounds and contains 50 Morgan Silver Dollars and just one coin alone, could be worth $400-$500 in collector value according to The Official Red Book, A Guide Book of United States Coin. So, there’s no telling what you’ll find until you search all through the coins. For those New York residents who miss the deadline, but for those New York residents who beat the 48-hour deadline the Bank Bag fee has been set at $4000 as long as they call the National Coin Claim Hotline before the deadline ends.

This is very important. The Vault Bag fee has been set at $4000 for residents who miss the deadline, but for those New York residents who beat the 48-hour deadline the Bank Bag fee is just $2900 as long as they call the National Coin Claim Hotline before the deadline ends.

“The only thing residents need to do is call the National Coin Claim Hotline before the deadline ends. That’s because after the bags were loaded with 50 U.S. Gov’t issued Morgan Silver Dollars we’re guessing they’ve gone too quick,” said Lynne.

The phone lines will be ringing off the hook beginning at 8:30 AM this morning when the vaults open for New York residents to claim unsearched Bank Bags. It’s hard to tell how much these unsearched bags loaded with Morgan Silver Dollars issued by the Gov’t over 100 years ago could be worth someday. That’s because each Bank Bag contains 50 Morgan Silver Dollars some dating clear back to the 1860’s. And here’s the best part. After the deadline each Bank Bag fee is set for $4000, but New York residents who find their zip code listed in today’s publication and beat the deadline cover just $2900 which is a real steal for these unsearched Bank Bags.
