To celebrate Newspaper In Education (NIE) month, the Gettysburg Times proudly presents its annual Design An Ad supplement!

Each year the Gettysburg Times’ Design An Ad Contest pairs participating businesses with classrooms throughout Adams County. This year, 1026 students in grades 4 through 12 put their creativity to the test, designing ads for 55 area businesses. We are sure you will enjoy the student designs as you look through this publication!

Our panel of judges, Nancy Pritt, Tanya Parsons, Howie Sharp and Harry Hartman, had the daunting task of choosing the most outstanding ads of 2023. Thank you to Loretta Plitt, production manager/graphic designer, and to JoAnne Turner, graphic designer, for putting the tab together. Prize winning ads can be found throughout the supplement and the winners are recognized on pages 16 and 17.

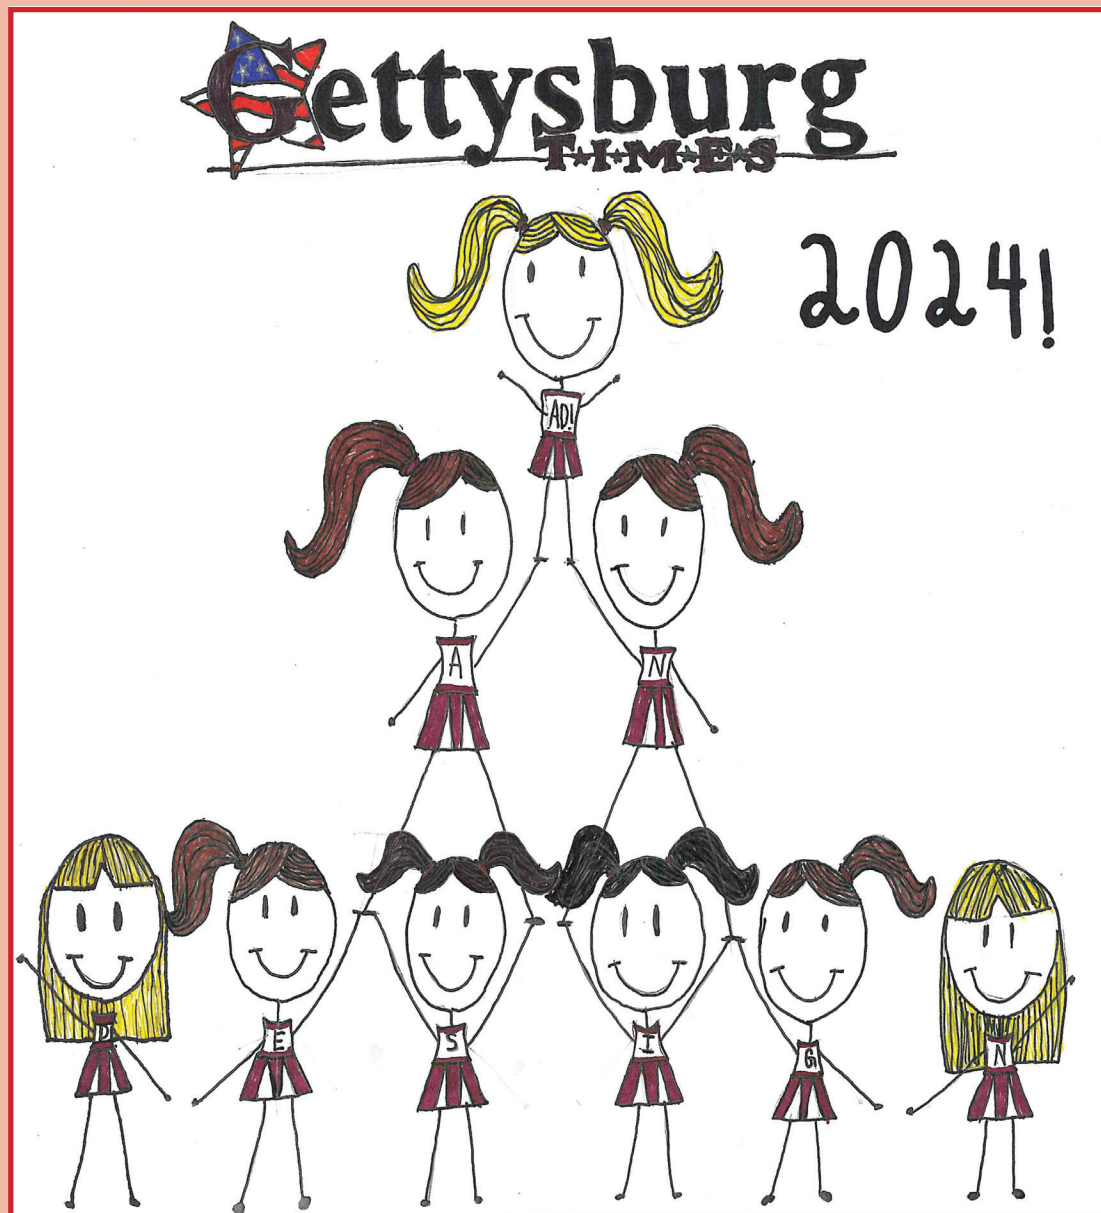

A project of this magnitude can only come together through the support and commitment of many. First and foremost, a heartfelt THANK YOU to all participating businesses and teachers -- your support and enthusiasm are truly the cornerstone of this project. Many businesses found it especially difficult to judge the competition due to the wonderful works produced by the students. Our team had just as much trouble with the final judging for the same reason.

A final thank you and CONGRATULATIONS goes to the students. We appreciate the thought and creativity that went into each design. We sincerely hope that this has been a fun and rewarding experience for all!

A note of thanks also goes to the Design An Ad team here at the Gettysburg Times, including our advertising representatives, production team, graphic designers, and pressmen who made it all come together.
