Roseanne Barr stars in
"Roseanne"

Roseanne (Roseanne Barr, "The Roseanne Barr Show") and Dan Conner (John Goodman, "The Big Lebowski, 1998") return to the airwaves in the premiere of "Roseanne," airing Tuesday, March 27, on ABC. A reboot of the classic comedy of the same name, the new series once again takes a look at the struggles of working class Americans. The rest of the original main cast returns as well, including Emmy winner Laurie Metcalf ("Lady Bird," 2017).

Roll out the welcome mat: Conner family returns to the airwaves in 'Roseanne' reboot

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

Television's earliest moms were impeccably coiffed happy homemakers. In the late 1980s, however, a new TV mom broke the mold and took over prime time. Roseanne Conner (Roseanne Barr, "The Roseanne Show") was no June Cleaver. She wasn't even Wilma Flintstone — and that seemed to be the reason people identified with her. Far from a perfect housewife, Roseanne was a much more realistic representation of the blue-collar mother, wife, sister and friend.

Now, she's returning to prime time to deliver another slice of honest American life as Barr reunites with her TV family in the premiere of the nine-episode reboot of "Roseanne," airing Tuesday, March 27, on ABC. The working class Conner family once again faces economic challenges as they live paycheck to paycheck in the small town of Lanford, Ill.

The original "Roseanne" was a huge hit, thanks to its gritty yet witty portrayal of average America, and it ran for nine successful seasons between 1988 and 1997. In the original series finale, it was revealed that the whole show had been a story written by Roseanne Conner about her life. It was a controversial ending, and one that will be addressed throughout the new run of the series, as Barr had always hoped.

"In the original series, I always wanted to have the 10th year so I could do exactly what I did in these nine [episodes], which was to finish and complete the story of this family," Barr explained at the 2018 Television Critics Association Winter Press Tour.

The entire main cast is back for the reboot. John Goodman ("The Big Lebowski," 1998) co-stars as Roseanne's husband, Dan Conner. Sara Gilbert ("The Talk"), who also serves as an executive producer on the series alongside Barr, plays daughter Darlene, and Alicia Goranson ("Boys Don't Cry," 1999) returns as eldest daughter Becky. Sarah Chalke ("Scrubs"), who portrayed Becky in later seasons of the original series, also appears in the new show as a different character, Andrea. Michael Fishman ("Undrafted," 2016) reprises his role as Roseanne and

John Goodman stars in "Roseanne"

Dan's son, D.J., and Emmy winner Laurie Metcalf ("Lady Bird," 2017) steps back into the role of Roseanne's sister, Jackie Harris.

Fans of the original series might have been surprised to see Goodman's name on the roster, as his death was revealed at the end of the original series run. Goodman seemed satisfied with how Dan's death is addressed when we spoke at the TCA Press Tour: "I thought it was a clever way to do it, handle it and get it out of the way," the actor said.

In addition to the main cast, other favorites from the show's first run are also slated to return. American Theatre Hall of Famer Estelle Parsons ("Bonnie and Clyde," 1967) stars as Roseanne's mother, Beverly Harris. Comedian Sandra Bernhard ("Brooklyn Nine-Nine") reprises her role as Roseanne's friend, Nancy Bartlett. Natalie West ("Nate and Margaret," 2012) once again appears as Roseanne's friend and Dan's stepmother, Crystal Anderson. "Grey's Anatomy's" James Pickens Jr. stars as Chuck Mitchell, and Adilah Barnes ("Tracy Takes On...") returns as his wife, Anne-Marie. Johnny Galecki ("The Big Bang Theory") returns for one episode to reprise his role as David.

Also of note is Christopher Lloyd's ("Back to the Future," 1985) guest-starring role as Bev's boyfriend, Lou. He won't be the only new face in Lanford. The revival welcomes new cast members Emma Kenney ("Shameless") as Harris Conner, Ames McNamara ("At Home With Amy Seardis") as Mark, and Jayden Rey ("Unforgettable") as Mary.

Beyond the familiar and new faces, "Roseanne" fans can also look forward to the intricately recreated set. From the plaid sofa to the crocheted afghan, things haven't changed much in the Conner house — even the dated wallpaper was recreated from photos from the original series. Goodman recalled that walking onto the set for the first time felt like coming home, and that's exactly how viewers are sure to feel when the show returns.

The original series was immensely popular in its heyday and has graced many prestigious "best of" lists over the years as a result. The show and its stars won Emmys, Golden Globes, People's Choice Awards and even a Peabody Award for Excellence in Television Broadcasting. Not only that, it reached the No. 1 spot in the Nielsen ratings in its second season, and often ranked in the top 20 throughout its run.

It remains to be seen whether ABC's new version will live up to the original, but millions of TV viewers are eager to find out. If there's one thing fans can be sure of, it's that, much like the original, the new "Roseanne" won't shy away from controversial topics. The show is expected to address topics such as health care, the opioid crisis, gender and illegal immigration. Many TV comedies tend to avoid such hot-button issues, but Barr will tackle them head on in an effort to represent the many different opinions held by Americans, just as she did in the '80s and '90s.

Star Wars: The Last Jedi

The battle continues against the titanic First Order, but when Resistance pilot Poe Dameron (Isaac) disobeys orders during an attack and unnecessarily wastes precious ships and lives, he's demoted by Gen. Leia (Fisher). After the general is incapacitated during an attack staged by her son Kylo Ren (Driver), Poe butts heads with the Resistance's new leader (Dern). Meanwhile, Rey (Ridley) has finally found exiled Jedi master Luke Skywalker (Hamill), from whom she wishes to receive training in the Force, but her great power terrifies him and he refuses. Despite being enemies, Rey and Kylo begin communicating across the galaxy using the Force, and each begins to experience visions directing them to become allies and partners. Director: Rian Johnson. Stars: Adam Driver, Daisy Ridley, John Boyega, Oscar Isaac, Mark Hamill, Carrie Fisher, Andy Serkis, Laura Dern, Benicio Del Toro, Kelly Marie Tran. 2017. 152 min. Action.

Last Men in Aleppo

The heroic actions of the White Helmets are brought to light in this Oscar-nominated documentary about the Syrian civil war. Three men struggle with the choice of either fleeing their war-torn country to safety or staying and fighting for the home that they love, eventually helping to found the organization whose members risk their own lives to help rescue civilians put in life-threatening danger by the conflict. Directors: Feras Fayyad, Steen Johannessen. Stars: Khaled Umar Harah, Subhi Alhussen, Mahmoud. 2017. 104 min. Documentary.

Advice from a pro

Ina Garten's lessons are perfect for any home cook

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Cooking at home can be such a joy, but as a home cook, it sometimes doesn't take much to make me feel like I'm in over my head. After all, professional chefs can spend years studying at culinary school apprenticing under accomplished chefs and decades perfecting their craft. How's a home cook supposed to keep up with that?

Well, we at home may never be able to achieve the culinary mastery that the likes of Gordon Ramsay or Tom Colicchio have accomplished in their storied careers, but with Ina Garten's help, we can at least get tons of helpful tips. She knows just how it feels to be a home cook with no culinary training; she herself is self-taught, relying mainly on cookbooks and feedback from family and friends, and in her long-running Food Network series, she shares all of that helpful cooking advice.

"Barefoot Contessa: Cook Like a Pro" currently airs Sundays on Food Network, and in this week's March 25 episode, the helpful host shows how to make some amazing one-dish meals that don't require any sides.

First, she makes a one-pot meal that's quick and easy to throw together but big and hearty enough to feed an entire dinner party: tender lamb shanks and orzo. Then pizza is on the menu as she whips up smoked salmon pizzas while sharing the trick to making foolproof homemade dough for the crust. A roast chicken cobb salad is a lighter but no less tasty option for a one-dish meal, and she finishes off the lesson with mouthwatering baked polenta with mushrooms and blue cheese.

Through every dish, Garten patiently explains each step and the reasoning behind it — there's nothing archaic or mysterious here. Being self-trained herself, she knows exactly what steps and techniques can trip up a home cook but also knows how to tackle them.

Every home cook wants to cook like a pro, and Ina Garten is someone who's been in that exact place. She shares her best advice in "Barefoot Contessa: Cook Like a Pro," Sundays on Food Network.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Could you please list for me the movies in which John Wayne died? I know some of the titles, but I also know there are more out there to be discovered.

A: The majority opinion is that he died in seven films, but there's actually some controversy. It seems like it is a straightforward question, but when going through a filmography that's 193 entries long, nothing's easy at all.

The generally agreed-upon list is: "The Shootist" (1976), "The Cowboys" (1972), "The Alamo" (1960), "Sands of Iwo Jima" (1949), "Wake of the Red Witch" (1948), "The Fighting Seabees" (1944) and "Reap the Wild Wind" (1942).

Some add an eighth to that list: "Central Airport" (1933), an early, uncredited role in which he has no lines and his character seems to die off-screen.

But once you open the off-screen door, things start getting really tricky. For example, then you need to include 1962's "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance," a film that starts after his character is already dead and tells his story in flashbacks.

Then there's "The Sea Chase" (1955), in which his character is on a boat that sinks and thus is presumed to die, but there's a hint at the end that perhaps he survives.

And there's the even weirder case of 1931's "The Deceiver," in which he only plays a corpse.

He was the body double for Ian Keith, who plays the living version of the character. Thus, the character does die in the film, but not while he is being played by John Wayne.

Q: Where does the phrase "in the limelight" come from?

A: As is so often the case with showbiz terminology, this one comes from the pre-film theater days.

The first theatrical spotlights were made from cylinders containing calcium oxide, also known as lime. Burning calcium oxide produces a bright white light, and placing that controlled fire in a cylinder allowed early AV nerds to target it to a particular spot on the stage.

Stages were being lit from below at this point — by the "footlights," another term that's made it into everyday language — providing an even light across the whole stage, but these lime lights were able to direct focused lighting on one particular spot — generally on the most important person in the scene. Thus, to be "in the limelight" was to be the focus of everyone's attention, which is how we use the phrase today.

Despite the staying power of the term, lime lights themselves actually had a relatively brief life in showbiz. First employed in the theater in 1837, they had already fallen out of favor by the late 1800s, replaced by less labor-intensive electric spotlights.

Splitting Up Together
Lena (Jenna Fischer) and Martin (Oliver Hudson) decide to call it quits on their marriage, but agree to continue living together to co-parent their three kids in “Splitting Up Together,” premiering Tuesday, March 27, on ABC. However, the couple suddenly finds their marriage reignited by their divorce.
