Father knows best: An aging patriarch fights for his company in HBO's 'Succession'

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

WEalthy families make for excellent prime-time viewing, especially dysfunctional ones. Leave it to HBO to elevate the ensemble family drama to new heights as the cable giant takes a look at a family battling for control of a media empire in a new high-profile series.

Brian Cox ("Troy," 2004) stars as Logan Roy, a self-made billionaire who sits at the top of family-controlled media conglomerate Waystar Royco in the new series "Succession," which begins its 10-episode run on Sunday, June 3, on HBO. As the aging patriarch approaches his twilight years, his potential heirs jockey for a position at the head of one of the biggest media and entertainment organizations in the world.

The series was created by Oscar nominee Jesse Armstrong ("In the Loop," 2009), who also penned the script for the pilot and serves as an executive producer on a team that includes Will Ferrell ("Saturday Night Live"), Adam McKay ("The Big Short," 2015) and Frank Rich ("Veep"). McKay, who directed the pilot, explained the focus of the series in an HBO news release.

"There's no question that 'Succession,' at its root, is a family story," McKay noted. "There's also a tragic side to it, where you see how massive wealth and power distorts and twists and wounds this family."

Set in New York City, HBO's newest drama takes a look at politics, money and power as the characters consider what the future might hold for them when Logan steps down from Waystar. Kendall Roy (Jeremy Strong, "Parkland," 2013) is Logan's oldest son from his second marriage and heir apparent to the family business. Already a division president within the company, he seems poised to take over when Logan takes a step back. Kendall's younger brother, Roman (Kieran Culkin, " Fargo"), still sits on the board of directors at Waystar, though he no longer works there.

Meanwhile, Logan's sole daughter, Shiv ("Sarah Snook," "Predestination," 2014), has been focusing on her political career. Her ambitious partner, Tom (Matthew Macfadyen, "Pride &

Jeremy Strong as seen in "Succession"

Prejudice" 2005), works as a senior executive at the firm.

Alan Ruck ("Spin City") stars as Connor, Logan's only child from his first marriage. He, too, sits on Waystar's board of directors, but he's left the family firm to make his own way in New Mexico. The main cast also features Hiam Abbass ("Lemon Tree," 2008) as Logan's third wife, Marcy, a formidable force in her own right.

The remaining staff includes COO Frank (Peter Friedman, "Safe," 1995), who acts as a mentor for Kendall. Alessandro (Parker Sawyers, "Southside With You," 2016) is an up-and-coming executive at the firm. In the debut episode of "Succession," the Roy siblings welcome cousin Greg (Nicholas Braun, "Sky High," 2005) to the fold as he moves from Canada to New York to work in the theme park division. Other key players include Rava Roy (Natalie Gold, "Rubicon"), Kendall's estranged wife and the mother of his two children. As Kendall works to solidify his takeover of Waystar, he wheels and deals with Lawrence (Rob Yang, "The Americans"), the founder and CEO of a digital media outfit.

The ensemble cast is supported by a top-notch team behind the scenes, from an Oscar winner to television veterans. Creator Armstrong has been better known for his comedy work across the pond. Early on in his career, he wrote for the Channel 4 sketch show "Smack the Pony" with writing partner Sam Bain, with whom he went on to create "Peep Show," "The Old Guys," "Fresh Meat" and "Babylon." Armstrong's other notable writing credits include the Oscar-nominated film "In the Loop" (2009) and the BAFTA-winning comedy "The Thick of It." He also wrote an episode of the popular British anthology series "Black Mirror" and authored the 2015 novel "Love, Sex and Other Foreign Policy Goals."

Like Armstrong, McKay's background is in comedy. He served as head writer for two seasons of NBC's legendary sketch comedy series "Saturday Night Live," and he's directed a number of big-screen comedies, including "Anchorman: The Legend of Ron Burgundy" (2004), "Step Brothers" (2008) and "The Other Guys" (2010). He and creative partner Ferrell founded the comedy website Funny or Die in 2007, along with Michael Kvamme and Chris Henchy. However, McKay has had success with his dramatic work as well, winning an Oscar for his work on the film "The Big Short" (2015).

Of course, TV fans have come to expect comedy from funnyman Ferrell, but "Succession" isn't his first foray into more dramatic territory. He surprised audiences in his first major dramatic role in the 2006 film "Stranger Than Fiction," and has been cast in the comedy-drama film "Zeroville," which is expected to be released in 2018 or 2019.

With a stellar ensemble cast and a strong crew behind the scenes, "Succession" seems to be poised for success, but it isn't the only series about ailing patriarchs and strife within wealthy families. FX's "Trust" followed the story of the Gettys, oil tycoons dealing with the kidnapping of J. Paul Getty's (Donald Sutherland, "M.A.S.H.," 1970) grandson. Fox's "Empire" has been chronicling the saga of hip-hop mogul Lucious Lyon (Terrence Howard, "Hustle & Flow," 2005) for four seasons.

A Wrinkle in Time

Ever since her scientist father (Pine) disappeared, Meg (Reid) has found it difficult to stay focused on school and her life at home — especially since she believes that his astrophysics studies resulted in him being teleported to another world. When three strange but kindly women, who call themselves Mrs. Which (Winfrey), Mrs. Whatsit (Witherspoon) and Mrs. Who (Kaling), appear and reveal to Meg that her father is trapped on a far-away planet by a powerful evil force, she sets out on a journey across the cosmos with her brother Charles Wallace (McCabe) and schoolmate Calvin (Miller) to find and rescue him from the all-consuming darkness. Director: Ava DuVernay. Stars: Storm Reid, Oprah Winfrey, Reese Witherspoon, Mindy Kaling. 2018. 109 min. Adventure.

The Hurricane Heist

With a catastrophic Category 5 hurricane bearing down on a beach town, a group of criminals plan a massive heist against the local U.S. treasury facility left guarded by a lone agent (Grace). When the well-armed thieves arrive at the facility, it's up to her, along with a meteorologist (Kebbell) and an ex-Marine (Kwanten) who have also stayed behind, to stop them while one of the most powerful and destructive forces in nature threatens to destroy them all. Director: Rob Cohen. Stars: Toby Kebbell, Maggie Grace. 2018. 103 min. Action.

Instinct

When successful author Celia Baxter (Sutton Foster) is attacked in her home, Dr. Reinhart (Alan Cumming) is called in to investigate in a new episode of “Instinct,” airing Sunday, June
3, on CBS. At the same time,
Needham (Bojana Novakovic) gets one step closer to uncovering the truth about her fiancé’s death.

Katie Lee hunts down the tastiest beach grub

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

OK, so summer may not officially start for a couple of weeks yet, but let's face it, the sizzling season is unofficially here. With the sun high in the sky and the mercury rising, nothing says "summer" better than a day at the beach.

Of course, even just lounging next to the surf will work up an appetite, and chef Katie Lee continues her search for the tastiest seaside nibbles in the new season of "Beach Bites with Katie Lee," which premieres Thursday, June 7, on Cooking Channel. Each episode finds the host of "The Kitchen" heading to a different oceanfront destination, where she tracks down some of the most delectable spots to stop by after a day in the sun.

In the premiere, Katie visits Mississippi's Gulf Coast, where she discovers that the region has become a hot spot for diverse and eclectic restaurants. Her first stop is in Biloxi, a historic town with incredible beaches where she gushes over gumbo made with crab fished right out of the nearby waters. She even gets the chance to head out and fish for her own seafood — you can't get any fresher than that!

A little further east, in beautiful Ocean Springs, Katie tries another local specialty that isn't plucked from the sea: some of the best barbecue ribs that she's ever had below the Mason Dixon line. High praise, that! Her tour of the Mississippi coast is topped off with some fall-apart homemade buttery biscuits, cooling ice pops and a rich cup of chicory coffee.

In later episodes this season, Katie heads out to California's Catalina Island for Mexican-inspired carnitas nachos, digs into succulent fried chicken and shrimp off the coast of South Carolina, and even takes a trip to the Bahamas where she tastes the freshest conch salad imaginable.

Wherever she ends up, Katie finds the best beach-side food — and always makes time for some sweet treats and tasty cocktails, of course. Catch the best grub that seaside destinations have to offer in the new season of "Beach Eats with Katie Lee," premiering Thursday, June 7, on Cooking Channel.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Is it true they over-dubbed Bob Hoskins' voice in "The Long Good Friday"? It sounds like his voice to me.

A: It's not true, actually, but it almost was.

This may seem incredible, since it's now revered as a gangster film classic, but the producers of "The Long Good Friday" (1980) were pretty sure it would be a failure and were trying to cut their losses before it was even released.

They were afraid that star Bob Hoskins' thick, London accent would be unintelligible to other audiences, so they planned to bring in an actor with a slightly more proper accent to overdub his parts.

Hoskins was furious and sued the company to stop it. He drummed up support from some famous acting friends to back his case: Alec Guinness, Richard Burton and Warren Beatty all went on record insisting on the actor's right to keep his voice in the film. Ironically, this legal fight might have been the thing that got the film released. Even before the suit, the production company, ITC, had doubts about the film. Hoskins' suit brought the attention of another company, Handmade Films (co-owned by former Beatle George Harrison), which bought the rights from ITC and released the film, with Hoskins' voice intact. Hoskins' voice wasn't the only thing threatening the film's success — it was also nearly sunk by politics. The film's plot involved

Irish republican terrorists, but the real-world Irish Republican Army was intensifying its bombing activities around the time the film was being finished. ITC felt these real-world events would hurt the box office, so they wanted to "dump" it on TV instead of in the cinemas.

Q: Did Robin Williams do the singing parts for the genie in "Aladdin"? It sounds like him, but Disney usually has different people doing the speaking and singing voices, especially when "Aladdin" came out.

A: Robin Williams did most of the singing parts for the genie in "Aladdin" (1992), but not all. The musical numbers that feature the genie — "Arabian Nights," "Friend Like Me" and "Prince Ali" — are also comedic bits, and we all know that when it comes to comedy, no one can imitate Robin Williams. Well, no one except Bruce Adler, apparently. Williams' shortcomings as a singer showed when it came time to record "Arabian Nights." He was unable to hit some of the high notes, so the producers hired Adler (who had previously done some singing in 1991's "Beauty and the Beast") to fill in. "He was able to imitate Williams' voice so well that it is difficult to tell where the comic stops and Adler starts," Thomas S. Hischak, author of "Disney Voice Actors: A Biographical Dictionary," said. "Indeed, Adler repeated his feat in the sequel, "Aladdin and the King of Thieves" (1996). Have a question? NBC

Reverie

When users refuse to leave the elaborate fantasy worlds they've created for themselves inside a virtual reality game, former hostage negotiator Mara Kint (Sarah Shahi) is called in to help in a new episode of "Reverie," airing Wednesday, June 6, on NBC. She uses her knowledge of human behavior to bring them out of the game before it's too late.

Late laughs

Conan
 A man in Wisconsin broke a world record by eating his 30,000th Big Mac. Meanwhile, another man broke a world record by eating at Long John Silver's twice.

The Late Late Show With James Corden
 Facebook is adding a new feature that will allow people to use Facebook as an online dating app. Facebook might be good at this. They already did such a good job matching up American voters with Russian trolls.

The Tonight Show With Jimmy Fallon
 A group of MIT graduates just opened a restaurant in Boston where the chefs are all robots, which makes it extra creepy when you find a hair in your food.

Late Night With Seth Meyers
 According to CNN, President Trump has been flustered by the negative coverage generated by Rudy Giuliani's recent interviews. As opposed to Giuliani, who is only flustered by lights, cameras, questions and talking.
