Set in modern-day Michigan and using the 2016 election as a jumping-off point, the new season of "American Horror Story" counts series mainstays Sarah Paulson ("12 Years a Slave," 2013) and Evan Peters ("Kick-Ass," 2010) among its returning cast members. The horror anthology has given us chills for six seasons, and a seventh touches down with "American Horror Story: Cult," premiering Tuesday, Sept. 5, on FX.

The horror: Creepy clowns and familiar faces grace 'American Horror Story: Cult'

By Jacqueline Spendlove
TV Media

It's taken us inside a coven, a freak show, an insane asylum and, of course, a good old-fashioned murder house and more. "American Horror Story" has given viewers a major case of the willies for six seasons, and a seventh is just around the corner. As always, details of the upcoming installment of the horror anthology have been kept to a minimum in the lead-up to the premiere, and fans of the series are eager to see what "Cult," as the new season is subtitled, has to offer. Don't miss the debut of "American Horror Story: Cult," when it airs Tuesday, Sept. 5, on FX.

As an anthology series, "American Horror Story" explores a different theme every season. It welcomes back many of the same cast members from year to year, but, for the most part, they play different characters in a different time and setting. There has been the odd overlap, subtly connecting one season to another: Pepper (Naomi Grossman, "Fear, Inc." 2016) and Sister Mary Eunice (Lily Rabe, "The Whispers"), for instance, appeared in both "Asylum" and "Freak Show," while series mainstay Sarah Paulson ("12 Years a Slave," 2013) has reprised the characters of both Billie Dean Howard and Lana Winters in multiple seasons ("Murder House" and "Hotel," and "Asylum" and "Roanoke," respectively), along with the stand-alone characters she's portrayed.

While "Cult" marks the first season in which series regular Rabe will not be appearing, Paulson once again has a leading role — as does Evan Peters ("Kick-Ass," 2010), who, like Paulson, has been with the show from the start. Fans were quick to voice their disappointment last season about how little they saw of Peters, an enduring favorite with viewers (he played two different characters, and between them, he still only appeared in four episodes). Peters fans can rest easy this season, though — creator and executive producer Ryan Murphy tweeted that in "Cult," "More Evan you will get. This is his heaviest season yet."

This alone is more information than we can typically expect to get from Murphy, who is known for keeping "American Horror Story" details close to the vest prior to air-time. Last season's theme, title and cast were a mystery right up until the premiere, but showrunners have been more forthcoming — if characteristically cryptic — this time around.

We do know that it's set in modern-day Michigan, has some connection to "Freak Show" and, most importantly, uses the 2016 election as a jumping-off point. This is worth taking note of, since no previous installment has been particularly timely or topical — and the setting is surely very deliberate, with Michigan, historically a blue state, having been quite divided during the election.

Murphy clarified this in an interview with the Hollywood Reporter, confirming that this season will be all about "highlighting people who don't have a voice in our culture — people who are ignored by the current administration and who are afraid and feel terrorized that their lives are going to be taken away."

The show has been unlocking weekly hints via an interactive website, AHS Cult.com, which allows viewers to sign up and "join" the cult, complete with their own identification number. Promo videos are rife with some of the creepiest clowns you'll ever care to see (painted in red and blue makeup, making use of subtle election imagery), and Murphy has hinted that "Freak Show's" Twisty (John Carroll Lynch, "The Drew Carey Show"), "AHS's" OG creepy clown, will be making an appearance this season.

A number of other familiar faces appear in "Cult" as well. Adina Porter ("True Blood"), Emma Roberts ("Scream Queens"), Frances Conroy ("Six Feet Under") and Cheyenne Jackson ("30 Rock") are among the cast members confirmed to return this season, while Oscar winner Kathy Bates ("Misery," 1990), who joined the cast in season 3's "Coven," and music superstar Lady Gaga, who appeared in the last two seasons, will officially not be returning this year due to scheduling conflicts. Several other "AHS" stalwarts are unconfirmed as of press time, including Denis O'Hare ("Dallas Buyers Club," 2013) and Angela Bassett ("Malcolm X," 1992), making it unlikely that they'll have major parts this season, if they appear at all.

Fortunately, "Cult" welcomes a number of fresh faces to fill the void left by the dearly departed. Alison Pill ("Scott Pilgrim vs. the World," 2010) joins the cast as Ivy Mayfair-Richards, the wife of Paulson's character, and comedian Billy Eichner ("Billy on the Street") plays a character named Harrison Wilton. Past Murphy collaborators Billie Lourd ("Scream Queens") and Leslie Grossman ("Popstar") join the show this season, and "Girls" star Lena Dunham is set to appear in at least one episode.

It's certainly more information that fans are used to getting before a new season of "AHS" touches down. Executive producer Alexis Martin Woodall even complied when pushed for more details at a Television Critics Association panel, divulging: "bloody tension, a well-cooked meal, an exciting trip to a grocery store. It is true to our brand, which is you are going to be in a whole new world all over again, and fall in love with these really special characters and hate yourself for watching it before you go to bed."

All will be made clear — to a point — when "American Horror Story: Cult" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 5, on FX.

Rough Night

A decade after they became besties in college, four women reunite for a weekend of fun before Jess's (Johansson) wedding. The four head to Miami where, after a night of partying, they hire a stripper to visit them in the Miami house they've rented for the weekend. When Jess's friend Alice (Bell) causes an accident that kills the man, the friends panic and set off a chain of events that not only causes it to be the most insane night any of them has ever had, but also might land them all in prison.

Director: Lucia Aniello. Stars: Scarlett Johansson, Jillian Bell, Zoë Kravitz, Ilana Glazer, Kate McKinnon, Paul W. Downs, Ryan Cooper, Demi Moore. 2017. 101 min. Comedy.

Megan Leavey

In this film based on a heart-warming true story, U.S. Marine Corp. Megan Leavey (Mara) is a canine handler serving in Iraq who is paired with a difficult-to-train bomb-sniffing dog named Rex. Although she's always had trouble bonding with people, Leavey forms a special bond with Rex, and together they find a number of explosive devices and save many soldiers' lives during two tours of duty. After both are wounded in an explosion, Rex is forced to retire, leading Leavey through a complicated and political process in an attempt to adopt him.

Director: Gabriela Cowperthwaite. Stars: Kate Mara, Tom Felton, Bradley Whitford, Edie Falco, Common, Damson Idris, Geraldine James. 2017. 116 min. Biography.

Criminal Minds

The BAU is on the move once again in this rebroadcast of "Criminal Minds," airing Saturday, Sept. 2, on CBS. The team is in rural Virginia in search of a serial killer along the Appalachian Trail. Elite FBI profilers track some of the country's most twisted minds in this long-running crime drama, which stars Joe Mantegna and Paget Brewster.

Kirsten Vangsness in "Criminal Minds"

Supermarket superstars

Top culinary talent competes in Flavortown Market

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Even pro chefs need to shop for groceries. They're no strangers to the produce section or the express lane of the local supermarket, but do they have what it takes to make it through Flavortown Market?

That's the question that "Guy's Grocery Games: Superstars" tries to answer. The very special tournament has assembled some top-tier culinary talent — most of whom should look familiar — to face off in a very special competition overseen by the always-energetic Guy Fieri.

The tournament is already well under way, with two chefs eliminated — but that leaves six still standing in the new episode airing Sunday, Sept. 3, on Food Network.

For their first challenge in Guy's very special supermarket, the chefs are all given identical shopping lists to cook with. Once their shopping is done, they pair up in head-to-head culinary battles, with the losers of each of the duels heading into Guy's Redemption Round.

After the bottom three attempt to turn a tiramisu's ingredients into a tasty entrée, one of them is sent home, leaving only five chefs standing for next week's semifinals.

But just who are the chefs who are competing, anyways? They're pretty much a who's who of Food Network's top talent. Iron Chef Guarnaschelli, frequent "Cutthroat Kitchen" judge Jet Tila, "Food Network Star" winners Damaris Phillips and Justin Warner, "Chopped" judges Maneet Chauhan and Marc Murphy, and Bravo's "Top Chef: All Stars" winner Richard Blais all compete, along with frequent Food Network judge and guest star Eric Greenspan.

By the time the finale rolls around, airing Sunday, Sept. 17, their numbers will have been whittled down to just four. Naturally, Guy Fieri won't be taking it easy on them; he has some of his most diabolical supermarket-based challenges ever in store. For these chefs, though, the challenge is worth it: the ultimate winner earns $40,000 for a charity of his or her choice, not to mention the bragging rights that come with beating out some of the most competitive chefs on television.

New episodes of "Guy's Grocery Games: Superstars" air Sunday evenings on Food Network.

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1 through 9.

A new study of chain restaurants came out and it found that the Cheesecake Factory serves the unhealthiest food. When asked for comment, the CEO said: "Folks, it's called The Cheesecake Factory."

The Tonight Show With Jimmy Fallon
President Trump is in the middle of his 17-day trip to his New Jersey golf course, but he says it isn't a vacation. And the staff at the White House said, "For us it is."

The Kremlin just released photos of Vladimir Putin on vacation. Putin was like,

"Forget about the dad bod, feast your eyes on the Vlad bod." As much as people complain about Trump going on vacation, at least he keeps his shirt on.

Late Night With Seth Meyers
A new CNN poll found that only 24 percent of people felt they could trust the Trump administration. That's right, when it comes to trust, Donald Trump ranks just below gas station sushi.

A new study shows that the optimal time to dunk an Oreo is three seconds. That's funny, I thought the optimal time was "when you're going through a divorce."

Late laughs

Conan
President Trump is on vacation. While he's gone, the White House is undergoing a $3.4-million renovation. Trump said he's hoping to replace the kitchen, the carpeting and the attorney general.

Vice-President Mike Pence denies he's planning to run for president in 2020. He said, "I'm pretty sure I'll be president way before then."

The Mars Curiosity Rover celebrated its fifth year in space by humming "Happy Birthday" to itself. The Rover then drank a bottle of white wine and cried itself to sleep.

Political experts say that many members of Congress are preparing for a Mike Pence presidency. They're preparing by binge-watching "The Handmaid's Tale."
