Feminist television: AMC's biting satire 'Dietland' tackles big issues

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

A revolution is brewing — a television revolution, that is. While there's no shortage of lighthearted fare in prime time, socially conscious TV shows have been trending as of late, and AMC's latest hit packs a powerful punch with its feminist slant.

Joy Nash ("Twin Peaks: The Return") stars as Plum Kettle, an overweight magazine writer who gets caught between two rival feminist factions in the 10-episode series "Dietland," airing Monday, July 2, on AMC. Based on the bestselling, critically acclaimed book of the same name by Sarai Walker, the show was brought to television by Marti Noxon ("Buffy the Vampire Slayer").

"Dietland" is equal parts drama and comedy as it critiques the beauty industry and society in general for its obsession with weight and the near-impossible ideals imposed upon women. As Plum prepares for the surgery that will give her the so-called "perfect" body, she's torn between old ideas and new extremes when she's approached by an underground organization determined to challenge the status quo. She also learns of a group of feminists bent on getting revenge against sexual predators.

The role requires an actress capable of being both conflicted and funny, and producers put their faith in Nash from the get-go. When it was announced that the actress had taken the lead in the new series way back in August 2017, creator Noxon spoke highly of their new star.

"Joy is everything I hoped we'd find in our leading woman — beautiful, smart and blazing with talent," Noxon said. "When she auditioned, the whole room was electrified."

Nash is in good company. Producers were equally excited to announce the casting of Julianna Margulies of "ER" and "The Good Wife," who plays Plum's boss at Austen Media, magazine editor Kitty Montgomery. Wickedly ambitious, Kitty is sucked into a terrifying news cycle when a feminist organization begins to target those around her.

"Julianna is diabolically talented and beautiful, which makes her perfect to play our Kitty," Noxon said. "I am genuinely honored to have the opportunity to work with her. She's a special human and a rare actor."

The cast also includes Tamara Tunie ("Law & Order: Special Victims Unit") as Julia Smith, an Austen Media employee who manages the beauty closet where they store all manner of makeup, lotions and fad-worthy products. However, Plum learns Julie has a hidden agenda as an operative for an underground feminist organization that wants to undermine the messages of Austen Media's beauty magazines and those like them.

On the flipside is Robin Weigert ("Deadwood") as Verena Baptist, the fierce leader of a feminist collective who brings women into a place dubbed Calliope House, a place of acceptance. She hopes to deprogram Plum so she can reject beauty industry thinking and accept herself for who she is now, not who she thinks she should be.

Erin Darke ("Good Girls Revolt") plays Leeta Albridge, who shakes up Plum's world when she tries to recruit her for Baptist, claiming that the leader will change her life. Baptist's other followers include former sitcom star Marlowe Buchannan (Alanna Ubach, "Girlfriends' Guide to Divorce"), who lost her job when she gained a few extra pounds, and Sana (Ami Sheth, "Blindspot"), a disfigured artist who becomes a model of self-acceptance for Plum. Calliope House is also home to Rubi (Jen Ponton, "30 Rock"), a colorful, exuberant and very opinionated woman.

Plum's love interest in the series is NYPD Det. Dominic O'Shea (Adam Rothenberg, "Ripper Street"), who becomes attracted to Plum while investigating a hack at Austen Media. Dominic pals around with fellow cop and former partner, Bobby (Marc Blucas, "Underground").

British actress Rowena King ("Of Kings and Prophets") portrays no-nonsense newscaster Cheryl Crane-Murphy, who struggles to remain calm as she delivers macabre news sparked by the actions of a feminist terrorist group known only as Jennifer. Austen Media titan Stanley Austen (Campbell Scott, "Royal Pains") has been targeted by the anonymous feminist terrorists. Meanwhile, his wife, Abra (Kelly Hu, "The Scorpion King," 2002), has grown resentful of being regarded as merely Stanley's "trophy wife."

Behind the scenes, Noxon serves as executive producer, writer and showrunner. She also directs several episodes, exploring issues such as patriarchy, misogyny and rape culture in addition to critiquing unrealistic beauty standards.

Filmed in New York City, the series tackles important issues and is likely to spark heated conversations among viewers. In fact, AMC is counting on it. The network has paired the series with an after-show in the vein of "Talking Dead," the companion series to its mega-hit "The Walking Dead." "Unapologetic With Aisha Tyler" airs immediately after each episode of "Dietland" as Tyler ("Whose Line Is It Anyway?") and her guests talk about the show and the issues it explores. While shows such as "Talking Dead" focus primarily on its companion series, "Unapologetic" digs deeper as Tyler leads discussions about broader "female-centric" issues beyond the themes touched on in "Dietland." The talk show features a mix of series stars and producers, celebrity fans, journalists, comedians, writers and others.

Farm life

Celebrated lifestyle blogger Molly Yeh embraces country living

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

There are some big differences between country life and city life, that's for sure, and those differences are most obvious to the folks who've lived in both places. Bestselling cookbook author and food blogger Molly Yeh has discovered something that country folk and city folk have in common, though: a love of good food.

The acclaimed writer's new show, "Girl Meets Farm," premiered last week on Food Network and has new episodes airing Sundays. A transplant from the big city suburbs to a quiet life on the Minnesota-North Dakota border, Yeh has fallen in love with the quieter, slower-paced lifestyle, and she's invited TV viewers into her farmhouse to join her as she prepares a range of delicious dishes inspired by her Jewish and Chinese heritage blended with the flavors of the Midwest.

In this week's episode, airing Sunday, July 1, the host puts her own fresh spin on a traditional lunch on the farm. With big meals for breakfast and dinner, lunch is light and designed to be eaten in a hurry. She shares her recipe for a quick and easy challah bread, which she serves alongside an equally simple chopped salad with crumbled feta and her own delicious and creamy homemade hummus.

In next Sunday's episode, the host treats her friends to brunch the morning after a fun night out in the city. Mini quiches are on the menu, made with bacon and peas, and she prepares a dark chocolate scone loaf with marzipan to satisfy her sweet tooth.

It's an eclectic mix of flavors, but that comes from the many culinary influences in Yeh's life. She grew up in Chicago's suburbs with a Jewish mother and Chinese father, spent several years living in New York City and finally settled in the upper Midwest with her husband. Her cookbook, "Molly on the Range," is an award-winning bestseller, while her lifestyle blogging site "my name is yeh" has been recognized and awarded by the New York Times, New York Magazine, Yahoo, Saveur and Food & Wine. She was even on Forbes' "30 Under 30" list in 2017.

"Girl Meets Farm" currently airs Sundays on Food Network.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I'm sorry, "Married... With Children" had a spinoff?

A: Yes, the notorious but also hugely successful sitcom had at least one spinoff. I say "at least" because it may have had two or even four, depending on your definition of spinoff.

"Top of the Heap" was a real series that launched in 1991, as an episode of "Married... With Children" (what's known as a back-door pilot). It featured future "Friends" star Matt LeBlanc as a poor guy living with his dad, trying to get rich by working at a country club. It aired for just seven episodes in total before being canceled.

Well, sort of canceled. It was revived a year later, appearing under the title "Vinnie & Bobby," having dropped the father character and changed a few other plot points. This version, too, lasted just a handful of episodes before getting the ax.

There were also two attempted spinoffs that were never picked up to series.

Episode 207 of "Married... With Children," titled "Radio Free Tru-maine," was supposed to be the launch of a series about a couple of campus-radio DJs at "Married" character Bud Bundy's (David Faustino) university. Episode 231, titled "Enemies," was intended as a spinoff about a group of Kelly Bundy's (Christina Applegate) friends.

Q: Over the years, including this year, Scott Caan is seen

"injured" in many different episodes of "Hawaii Five-0." I've seen him on crutches, in a knee brace and this year in a severe elbow brace. Is Scott really clumsy and has injured himself that many times off-screen and they just have to write it into the script?

A: He might take issue with "clumsy," but essentially you're right.

Actor Scott Caan is in fact a multi-sport athlete and suffers the frequent bumps and bruises — and torn anterior cruciate ligaments — that come with that.

It was a ligament injury that put him on crutches and a knee brace in the first season way back in 2010. At first it was reported that he hurt it performing a stunt on set, but he later admitted that his opponent tore it for him in a Brazilian jiu-jitsu match.

In the most recent season, his character was wearing an arm brace at one point. A CBS publicist explained to Pittsburgh Post-Gazette writer Rob Owen that "Mr. Caan hurt his arm in real life while not working on the series."

There's not a lot of detail in that last answer, but on top of martial arts, Caan is also an avid surfer (unlike his "Five-0" character) and bodybuilder, both of which can be hard on the body.

CBS and the "Five-0" writers are being good sports about it. They've written his various off-set injuries into the scripts. For example, they addressed his first-season knee injury by giving Caan's character, Danny, a trip to the doctor, which he used as an opportunity to complain about his new partner, Steve McGarrett (Alex O'Loughlin).
