APRIL 14, 1965 This entire morning was used up in getting set up for President Johnson and for his protection. After he had left the area, direct assistance was given to the laborers and machine operators so they would know what buildings should be torn down and which would remain.

Search parties were set up for missing persons, and direct contacts for missing persons were made, both in the areas where they lived and where neighbors might have seen them, trying to establish whether they were alive or dead. Identification of bodies were still being made which helped to clear up some of the missing reports. Traffic on US 33 was increasing, and assistance was given to the National Guard which was working the area.
