Mayor to lead SnoCo transit board

By SC NEWS STAFF

Stanwood Mayor Leonard Kelley was selected as chair of the Snohomish County Transit Board Wednesday.
The city of Stanwood announced its decision Wednesday. Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county.

The Board has 10 members, nine of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.

As the governing body, the Transit Board establishes policy and legislative direction for Community Transit. The Board defines the organization’s mission, establishes its goals, and approves the budget to accomplish those goals.

The Transit Board has 10 members, none of whom are elected officials selected by the respective governmental bodies of the county and county region. The Board’s mission is to establish the organization’s legislative direction for improving and expanding its service.

Kelley has served on the Community Transit Board since January in 2014, working to improve the service and promote transit in the county. He served as Transit Board vice chair last year.