Ben England, 40 feet off the ground, repairs the missing panels at the Kings Drive In Theater on Lacey Boulevard and 14th Avenue Wednesday. Owner Tom Graff said that the six-by-eight foot section was blown out during a hard-hitting storm about six weeks ago. "The screen is the biggest in the Valley so the missing panels didn't cause a problem," said Graff. "But it was a big topic of conversation." England, only occasionally a repairman, farms the area behind the drive-in.
