FRONTIER CONFERENCE FOOTBALL

Carroll now No. 3 as it moves up Power Poll

RYAN KUHN 406mtsports.com

During the first three weeks of the NAIA football season, one team has been standing out.

The No. 11 College of Idaho has rolled through the Frontier Conference and nearly cracked the top 10 in this week's NAIA Football Coaches Poll with three straight wins.

That is not to say some teams haven't focused their sights on the Yotes.

Parity has been a common theme out on the Frontier, and this season, it looks like some are hoping that might happen again.

Let's take a look, shall we? Agree or disagree? Let me know on Twitter at @rskuhn

1. College of Idaho (3-0, 3-0 Frontier)

There is no question that the Yotes are the team to beat.

After muscling through Eastern Oregon and Montana Tech in their first two games, COI narrowly escaped its home field with a 41-38 win.

That isn't to say that the Yotes didn't play well.

COI quarterback and Frontier Conference Offensive Player of the Year hopeful Darius-James Peterson finished with 258 passing yards and found a new favor- Bears 44-7. ite receiver in Hunter Juarez.

2. Montana Western (2-0, 2-0 Frontier)

Montana Western had no problem in their first road game of 2019.

Of course, it was against Montana State Northern in Havre, but paign. the Bulldogs made a statement.

5. Rocky Mountain (2-1, 1-1 Frontier)

Everything was going great for Rocky Mountain football.

It knocked off No. 9 Dickinson State on the road.

It finally found its quarterback in Drew Korf to replace Jacob Bakken.

That was until it walked into Carroll College on Saturday.

The Battlin' Bears did not do much batting on Saturday losing to the Saints 44-7.

Korf struggled throwing three interceptions.

Not only does Rocky need a big week to rebound, but it also needs to find out who its quarterback will be for the future.

What's going to happen this week? A massive upset?

Mountaineers coach Tim mances do not. Camp said he was revamping the offense and the defense is crucial. Otherwise they this season, but it looks like it should start looking at next still needs some work.

Eastern Oregon travels to Portland State to play up. An upset seems unlikely, but crazier things have happened.

7. Montana State Northern (1-2, 0-2 Frontier)

It looked like there might have been hope for Montana State Northern fans after its first week when it traveled and upset Arizona Christian.

But after three weeks, I think the Lights have gone out.

Okay, I'll stop with the puns. Montana State Northern struggled for the second straight week, this time losing to Montana Western 38-13.

The Lights had no running game, they coughed up the ball and quarterback Brandon Medina threw two interceptions.

It might be another long season in Havre but, on the bright side, Montana State Northern needs just one more win to double its win total from last season.

Tust don't look for that win to come this week. The Saints have momentum.

8. Southern Oregon (0-3, 0-2 Frontier)

It's hard to imagine that Southern Oregon would still be looking for its first win three weeks into the season.

Unfortunately, things are not going well in Ashland.

Former Carroll College football coach Mike Van Diest values family, football

RYAN KUHN

HELENA - Mike Van Diest is passionate about many things.

He loves Carroll College foot-

He knows there is always time to share a memory or brag on one his former players.

He loves the University of Wyoming.

He isn't afraid to chat up strangers about the Pokes.

He might even tell you he loves hockey.

He fancies himself an average skater.

But the one thing he is most passionate about never changes.

Family.

Throughout a span of four decades. Van Diest coached college football. He has been a position coach, an assistant head coach and was the head coach of Carroll College.

He has accumulated 203 wins total wins as a head coach, won 14 Frontier Conference titles and brought home six NAIA National Championships to Carroll.

Van Diest did this all while giving his players and coaches the sense of a second family.

"I told my players all the time that I loved them just like I love my own sons," Van Diest said. "There are times where I told them, 'I don't like you and I know there are times you don't like me, but that's family."

announced his retirement. It was a mere two days after the season had
THE NEXT CHAPTER ended.

He said he didn't step down because of losing seasons. He didn't step down because someone said something. He stepped down to focus on the same thing he was teaching his players to appreciate.

"I stepped down to be with family," Van Diest said.

Van Dest's youngest son Clay grew up playing hockey.

He moved to Canada at the age of 16 and eventually signed to play hockey for Saint Norbert College, an NCAA Division III school in De Pere, roll College. Wisconsin.

"It was his ninth year being away from home," Van Diest said. "I used to look over and watch all of these parents come and tailgate (at Carroll), being able to watch their son's game and cheer them on."

Van Diest was only able to watch No. 23 Rocky Mountain. six of Clay's games during his first three years. This past year he, saw 17. friends, coaches and players as he

"I'm sure I would have come back to coach if it wasn't Clay's senior year," Van Diest said.

Van Diest has stepped away from the game.

He is enjoying spending time with his family, catching up and reconnecting with close friends and teammates from Wyoming and even sharing in his son's hobby by playing hockey.

"Luckily they didn't make cuts, because I would have been cut the first night," Van Diest joked. "As a skater, I'm probably a six. As a hockey player, I'm probably a two."

But he can't stay away from Car-

Van Diest works with institutional advancement as the university has made a stadium project to put in artificial turf and lights a priority.

He didn't shy away from last Saturday's first home game and watched from the stands as the Saints upset

And he will be happy to see old follow him on Twitter at @rskuhn and former athletic director Bruce Parker will be inducted into the Carroll athletic department hall of fame.

"He created a culture of excellence on and off the field, and really created a model for the rest of the athletics department to follow," Carroll Athletic Director Charlie Gross said. "When Mike Van Diest walks into a room, he brings energy and lights it up. It becomes contagious."

Van Diest's legacy as Carroll's head coach might be finished, but this may not be the last time we see himself pacing the sidelines.

He made it very clear he wasn't burnt out and would love to get back into the game.

"I want to be a coach again," Van Diest said. "I have no preference to whether it is Division I. Division II or NAIA. I just want to coach with someone I have a connection with."
