

Saints in rare territory, seeking year's first win

ERIK C. ANDERSON

This week a year ago should bring back fuzzy memories for the MSU-Northern Lights.

They defeated Carroll College in Havre, earning a win for the first time in a decade against the Saints. It marked a low for Carroll's program and, conversely, the highest point for Aaron Christensen's club.

The Lights hung tight that game, and eventually grabbed a lead and took advantage of a banged-up Carroll College team.

Carroll did dismantle the Lights in the teams' second matchup at Nelson Stadium a year ago, a feat that surely the Saints want to replicate this weekend. And to do so, they will search for a full game's worth of consistency, which has eluded them this season.

Carroll is entering Saturday's contest against MSU-N with an 0-2 record, which is a first time under Saints coach Mike Van Diest. The Saints had never started a season with consecutive losses. For a program that is used to Top 25 rankings and being in national title contention, the record serves as a reminder how competitive the Frontier has become.

Throughout the vast majority of Van Diest's tenure, the Carroll College Saints consistently won. And when they did lose, it was even rarer they lost to Rocky Mountain or Montana State-Northern. Until last season, Carroll had never lost to both

If that weren't enough, Dawson also reunited with his high school teammate, linebacker Alex Thomas, who transferred into Carroll from the University of Montana last spring. The pair lives together in Helena, and both feel they know everything about the other.

The biggest personal reunion, however, took place in his hand.

Saints right ship, take down Lights

ERIK C. ANDERSON

406mtsports.com

The Saints weren't going to repeat mistakes made a little over a month before.

In the team's previous meeting with MSU-Northern, last October, Carroll (4-4) took its first drive and made sure it dimmed the Lights (1-7), marching to a dominant 49-14 win.

"We got our butts kicked," said star Lights running back Zach McKinley, who finished with 119 yards rushing on 20 carries. "We knew Carroll was at home. We knew they were pretty sore about that loss up in Havre. They just came out and out-physicaled us on both sides of the football."

The Saints used the pass to set up the run early, and their pass-run balance gave Carroll College a touchdown, capped off by Major Ali's one-yard run. It was the first time this season the Saints had scored on their opening drive.

"Our goal coming out for this game, I told the offensive line and I told the receivers, we are going to come out and score on the first drive," said Tanner Gustavsen, who made his second start in place of injured quarterback JT Linder. "We ended up getting it done. That really just gave us the momentum the rest of the game to keep going."

Ryan Walsh was involved heavily in the offensive scheme early, catching passes out of the backfield and showing he's a viable runner between the tackles.

"He's super crucial for our offense," Gustavsen said. "He does a lot of things for us. He's able to spread out wide and catch the ball or he's able to run it up the gut or run a sweep. We're glad to have him back and have him healthy."

The Saints slowed down a bit on their second possession, but rediscovered their rhythm on their third. Gustavsen showed his comfort with sophomore receiver Troy Arntson, hitting the wideout on a double-move to score a 23-yard touchdown and give the Saints a 14-0 lead.

Connor Fohn, who was perhaps the lone bright spot for the Saints when they fell earlier this season in Havre. got on the board in the second quarter, spinning around his defender with another double-move before hauling in a 27-yard touchdown pass. MSU-Northern took exception with the play as it appeared Fohn fumbled while crossing the end zone plane. The referees ruled Fohn had scored before the ball came loose.

"It's more part of the play book," Fohn said of the double moves working against MSU-Northern on Saturday. "Throughout the year we do double moves here and there."

Fohn nabbed his second touchdown of the day when a Gustavsen pass to his back shoulder allowed Fohn to outjump his man and haul in an 18-yard touchdown pass. Fohn finished the game with five catches for 60 yards and two touchdowns.

"I did feel super comfortable back there," said Gustavsen, who threw for four first-half touchdowns. The quarterback finished the game completing 17 of 22 passes for 243 yards and four touchdowns. "Very relaxed. I think the offensive line did a great job today giving me a pocket and giving me time to find the open receiver and make a play."

Arntson got further involved in the second quarter, pulling down a 25-yard touchdown pass to extend the Saints' lead to 35-0. Arntson had a pair of touchdown catches on the day, finishing with six receptions for 106 yards.

"I think that first touchdown was the one thing we wanted to do," Arntson said. "I think if we would have done that down there, that would have sparked us."

The Saints had the game

wrapped up by halftime.

McKinley was mostly held in check until, with under a minute remaining in the first half, he ripped off a 44-yard run. Even with first glimpse of life, the Lights faded.
MSU-Northern's 38-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Kyle Smith and the Saints' defense preserved their shutout in first half.

The Saints held McKinley out of the end zone. During the teams' Sept. 17 matchup, McKinley, one of the best running backs in the conference, scored three times.

"I'm a little slow," McKinley kidded about not scoring on his 44-yard run. "They've got a good D-line — one of the best in the conference. Maybe a little underrated. They were doing a good job filling their gaps. When I'd hit one, they'd hit me right at the line or a few yards after. They're just a sound defense."

A fumble forced by Jake Konen and recovered by Reece Quade ended the Lights' first drive of the second half.

Vince DiGiallonardo kept the shutout alive, picking off quarterback Caleb McLaren near the Saints' goal line. On the play, DiGiallonardo broke early on the route and leapt in front of the receiver.

Connor Poulson added a two-yard rushing touchdown after the Saints partially blocked a MSU-Northern punt, pushing the lead to 42-0.

Henry Hill wrapped the Saints' scoring with a two-yard rushing touchdown.

The Lights did manage to find a pair of scores in the fourth quarter, McLaren hitting freshman wide receiver Ethan Snow both times. Snow finished the game with two catches for 73 yards and two scores.

teams in the same season. Last season, Carroll fell 21-20 to Rocky in Week 2, and then followed it up with a 28-14 loss to MSU-Northern.

It pops out especially when you consider Van Diest owns a 31-5 record against Rocky. Against Northern, that winning percentage goes up. Van Diest is 32-2 against Northern.

The past record will mean little on Saturday, when Carroll will look for its consistency and a first win this season.

The Saints showed for one half in a 48-25 loss to Montana Tech that when things click, they can hang with the Frontier's best. Then, really for the last six quarters including a 40-14 loss to Rocky Mountain, the Saints showed they can be beaten — and beaten badly — by anybody.

Injuries have played a role in that, though Van Diest did not offer any insight into how much his banged-up roster is affected. This much is clear: Multiple big contributors have already missed time for Carroll this season.

Receiver Troy Arntson, who led the Saints in pass yardage a few times last season, has not recorded a catch this season.

Isazah King, the Saints' starting corner in Week 1 and special teams performer, did not play in Week 2.

Beaugh Meyer, the Saints' all-conference defensive end, is out for the season after an injury sustained against Montana Tech.

Though he's played in both games so far, All-Conference receiver Connor Fohn at this point last season had 216 yards and a touchdown. Through two games this season, Fohn has 44 yards of offense. The team has said he's healthy, but the big-play

"It's really just a bunch of little things right now that we need to clean up and improve and become a better team."

threat from a season ago has not vet been there.

Quarterback Tanner Gustavsen told the Independent Record he's healthy, and that it was a series of little things leading to the Saints not being sharp against Rocky.

"I'm comfortable out there," he said. "It's my job to get us out of some bad looks. It's really just a bunch of little things right now that we need to clean up and improve and become a better team."

That line — the little things — surfaced in Week 1, too. Eric Dawson, who had a big game for the Saints with a pair of 15-yard touchdowns, one through the air and one rushing, said he felt Carroll is still a fantastic team.

Dawson has been the brightest spot for the Saints so far. He's caught 8 passes for 103 yards and rushed twice for 19 yards.

Major Ali and Ryan Walsh have run the ball well when they get their opportunities. Walsh has a 5.1 yards per-carry average, running 15 times for 79 yards. Ali isn't far behind with a 4.5 per-carry average, on 15 carries for 67 yards and a score.

The Saints defense has given up 45 and 40 points this season, giving up 511 yards and 503 yards, respectively.

MSU-Northern was dealt a narrow loss by Rocky, losing on a late kick return for a touchdown. In Week 2, Montana Tech unloaded on Northern, defeating the Lights 70-27. It's a bit hard to gauge what that means for Northern. The Lights have high expectations for themselves in Christensen's second year.

"(Last) season didn't go the way we wanted it to," Christiansen said. "I will say this we were an improved team. We were improved in spring football.

"Our team and our program is definitely going in the right direction, and that's important. You want to make sure you continue to improve and that's where our football program needs to go."

Northern has let quarterback Tommy Wilson throw the ball. In two games he's thrown 99 passes, completing 53 of them for 658 yards, six touchdowns and three interceptions. Jesse Krahn, who quarterbacked Northern to its win over Carroll last season, is now a tight end.

The offense will look different than it did a year ago behind running back Zach McKinley.

"I think he holds every rushing record there is at MSU-Northern," Christensen said. "We have some big shoes to fill there. Our backup running back, he's coming back. Trey Blanchard. BJ Peters was third-string running back last year, he'll compete."

So far, Blanchard has received the most carries, rushing 24 times for 161 yards, a 6.5 per-carry average.

Northern lost a lot of its defensive line from a season ago, though some rotational players are back, including Mitchell Harmon. The Lights return their inside linebackers, captain Garet Fowler and Alec Wagner.

"Captain Garrett Fowler, he's a guy we're going to be relying on," Christensen said. "We have two good linebackers. Those two guys inside have played a lot for us."

After Saturday, either Carroll or Northern will walk away with its first win of the season.

made the switch over to tight end, it broke again. This time, he underwent two surgeries in three days, a lengthy rehabilitation process, and eased his way back to the field.

Dawson built the strength back up in his forearm, working to empower his grip. He incorporated some gymnastics into his rehab, doing dead hangs to build his hand back up.

Now, he's using his hands every play, whether it be blocking, carrying the ball or catching a pass, and from the outside nothing appears to be slowing him down. He admits he doesn't know if his hand will ever be as good as it was prior to the injury, but right now it's holding up.

"I wasn't as worried about catching the ball," Dawson said. "The ball doesn't come near as hard as somebody's body. Blocking people was the main issue. We kind of shied away from going straight back into contact. We used pads and different things to strike and that just kind of eliminated that other force coming down on my wrist. Working on footwork and different things, but not beating the heck out of my hand right away."

He plays the game with a sense of violence. Dawson does not shy away from contact. A scar on the top of his pinky suggests this most recent setback isn't Dawson's first significant injury. The six screws and plate in his hand assure it is not.

That's part of the reason Dawson and Thomas' C.M.R. Rustlers got off to an 0-4 start during his senior year, in 2013.

Thomas laughs and admits

TROY SHOCKLEY, 406mtsports.com

there are many memories between he and Dawson on and away from the football field. Asking him to pick out his favorite takes a few beats. When the two shared the field as captains for the Rustlers in 2013, Thomas can't forget the And he has confidence in it. run their team made.

Dawson was invaluable to that team. He could line up in the slot, at tight end, running back, fullback, on the wing, at linebacker, safety, and kick returns. When he broke his finger, along with other injuries on the team, the Rustlers started out of the gate slowly.

Then, they went on a run.

"We were not very good at first," Thomas said. "Played through injuries. Turned it around. Won seven straight and went to the semis. I think it was cool. It's something we can always talk about, you know?"

Thomas' other memory is

He couldn't recall the opponent, but Thomas remembers watching Dawson return a kickoff for a touchdown. Thomas raced downfield. When he met Dawson near the end zone, Thomas said his adrenaline led him to tackle Dawson, knocking his friend into the long jump pit.

"I was a little too excited," Thomas admitted. "It was nice because he was on one side of the ball and I was on the other, and when one of us had a big play it was cool to go over and give that one a hug and talk it over."

Now, Thomas gets to match up with Dawson in practice.

"He gets his. I get mine," Thomas said. "It's always good to go against Eric. He's probably my favorite person to go against because of how good he is and how fluent he is with his routes. It makes me a better player."

That prospect and the two being reunited was "definitely one of the deciding factors" for Thomas to transfer to Carroll, he said.

"When I knew I wanted to transfer out of Montana, he was the first person I called, asked what the program was like how it was doing," he said. "He brought me down for a recruiting trip, hung out with him. It was good to be with him again. It was like an old fuse being reignited, I guess."

Thomas and Dawson have talked about trying to pull a page out of their Rustlers' playbook and turn the Saints around this season, too. Carroll is 0-2, and in need of some changes.

"We've talked outside of school, on our own, that there's some things that we need to fix as a team," Thomas said. "We're both going to make sure we do our part to help our team."

Had Dawson not reverted to tight end, Thomas could have been lining up next to his roommate.

"Coach talks about the days when Dawson was a linebacker," Thomas said. "He's a good athlete. He can play almost all positions on the field. He's a hard-nosed kid that likes to hit; I could see him being a linebacker. His hands are too good, though. We need to keep him where he is."

Dawson has fervor in his voice when he talks about football. Without it, it's hard to say if he could have grasped the Saints' offense as fast as he did - two weeks, he estimated. Dawson talks about learning nuances of the game like an honor student talks about advance placement courses. He knows all the lineman calls and shifts. He knows all of the receiving "route tree," the branches that lead into different combinations of plays. He knows where to run and how to block when he's in the backfield. And he knows the Saints' defense, too.

"When they call it out here, I know them all," he said, grinning.

When Thomas transferred, Dawson paid close attention to how his buddy adjusted. When he heard coaches chirping at him, Dawson knew he could take the harping a little further.

"I would chirp at him and tell him what he's supposed to do just to pick at him and motivate him to learn it so he didn't have to deal with me," Dawson said.

Dawson says Thomas has everything down.

And if the two former Rustlers know anything, it's that a season can be saved.

What could make for a better reunion?

FRONTIER CONFERENCE

Winless Yotes have another tough task vs. Mountaineers

TROY SHOCKLEY

It's been a bit of a rough start for the College of Idaho in 2017. The Yotes opened the season with a narrow, two-point loss to Montana West-ern. Then, COI traveled outside of the NAIA to take on Northern Colorado, where it was predictably handled with ease by Northern Colorado.

Then, back in the Frontier Conference, the schedule had No. 14 Southern Oregon waiting and the Raiders took a 41-25 win.

The road gets no easier for College of Idaho this weekend, as the Yotes (0-3 overall, 0-2 in Frontier play) welcome Eastern Oregon to Caldwell for Homecoming.

EOU, ranked 11th in the latest Top 25 poll, is coming into the contest with the momentum of a comeback win over then-No. 19 Montana Western.

Redshirt freshman Kai Quinn led the game-winning drive in the fourth quarter, going 77 yards in six plays capping it all with a 37-yard touchdown run with 4:59 to play. He followed the run with a pass for a two-point conversion.

Quinn finished with 189 yards on 20 carries and three touchdowns, and threw for another 161 yards, going 14 of 26 with two INTs.

COI (0-3, 0-2), meanwhile, had a season-high 289 passing yards against Southern Oregon. The Yotes will likely look to keep that area of the offense hot. Three of the

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Southern Oregon at Montana Western, 1 p.m. Eastern Oregon at College of Idaho, 1 p.m. MSU-Northern at Carroll, 1 p.m. Montana Tech at Rocky Mountain, 1 p.m.

Yotes' wideouts are at least 6-foot-2, while no member of the EOU secondary is taller than 5-11. Two DBs are listed, in fact, at 5-6. Quarterback Darius James-Peterson is, like Quinn, a dual threat. He's got 552 yards passing and 209 rushing. But he's also had some turnover troubles, losing a pair of fumbles and throwing seven picks.

No. 5 Montana Tech (2-0, 2-0) at Rocky Mountain College (2-1, 2-0)

After handing a shellacking to MSU-Northern a week ago, 70-27, Montana Tech will travel to Billings to take on a resurgent Rocky Mountain team.

The Battlin' Bears won in Helena last weekend in resounding fashion, leaving the Capital City with a win for the first time since 2000. It was the second consecutive win for RMC, coming after a frustrating defeat to Dickinson State in the season opener.

The Rocky passing game is finding a groove, and Jacob Bakken is averaging 173 yards of offense per game – with 136 total rushing yards and another 520 passing. Add in the Frontier's third-best running back in Mason Melby – averaging 105 yards per game – and Rocky is developing a strong, balanced attack. But is the defense ready for the Orediggers?

Dickinson State transfer Jed Fike has been torching teams all season, last week piling up 215 yards in 22 carries. Senior quarterback Quinn McQueary — named the NAIA Player of the Week — McQueary went 21 of 31 passing for 359 yards and four touchdowns. He also rushed for 73 yards and two touchdowns on eight carries, and tacked on a 33-yard catch.

Montana Western (1-2, 1-1) at No. 14 Southern Oregon (2-0, 2-0)

Southern Oregon hasn't had much outdoor practice time lately, as Ashland has found itself dealing with incredibly poor air quality caused by wildfires. But despite practicing outside for a total of just one hour last week, the Raiders are 2-0 for the first time in three years.

Senior quarterback Tanner Trosin threw four long touchdown passes – from 28, twice from 38 and from 87 yards – in last week's win over College of Idaho, and has now thrown 142 passes in conference play since his last interception.

Western quarterback Bennett Gibson is completing 54 percent of his passes, averaging 197 yards per game with three total touchdowns and five INTs. And his defense has been giving him extra opportunities – Zach Janis and Tristan Clark each have two interceptions for Western through three games.

SECOND LOOK

Aglance back at THE ACTION

in Week 2

Rocky Mountain punter Matt Larson makes a leaping, one-handed save of a high snap on Saturday, bringing it down and getting his punt away.

ABOVE: Carroll's David Anderson celebrates a pass breakup alongside Rocky Mountain's intended receiver, Sam Sparks, as Saints coach Mike Can Diest looks to the official for the signal.

LEFT: Carroll's Shane Sipes hauls in a long pass and fights through the tackle of Rocky's Kendell Jefferson, spinning around and stretching out the ball to the 1-yard line on Saturday to set up a Saints touchdown.
