Dear graduates: Never give in, never give up

By month's end, more 800 Hunt County high school seniors will have graduated, and more than 250 of them will already have college credits under their belts, thanks to ever-growing dual credit programs.

Many of these young people already feel heavy on their shoulders the weight of their futures and all the coming decisions as they are bombarded by (often conflicting) advice from parents, teachers, school counselors, and famous businesspeople, politicians and entertainers.

While much advice for graduating seniors tends to focus on inspiration and hope, some highly regarded businesspeople, politicians and celebrities have offered a more down-to-earth viewpoint—acknowledging the unexpected twists and turns that not only test a person as they go through their life's journey, but can shape them and make them stronger as well.

Apple co-founder Steve Jobs offered some down-to-earth advice in a commencement speech he gave at Stanford University in 2005. In part of the speech, Jobs related a story about how he took calligraphy classes as a young man simply out of personal curiosity, without having any idea how it would influence his life.

"If I had never dropped out (from Reed College)," Jobs said, "I would have never dropped in on this calligraphy class, and personal computers might not have the wonderful typography that they do."

"You can't connect the dots looking forward," he said. "You can only connect them looking backwards. So you have to trust that the dots will somehow connect in your future."

Television host Conan O'Brien offered a unique spin on the ever-popular "learn from your failures" trope to Harvard graduates in 2000.

"Your biggest liability is your need to succeed, your need to always find yourself on the sweet side of the bell curve ... but success is a lot like a bright white tuxedo – you feel terrific when you get it, but then you're desperately afraid of getting it dirty ... of spoiling it," O'Brien quipped. "Today, I'm as nostalgic for the bad as I am for the good ... Fall down. Make a mess. Break something occasionally. Know that your mistakes are your own unique way of getting to where you need to be."

And one more example of unconventional-yet-encouraging advice to young people was Winston Churchill's speech to graduates of Harrow School in 1941 during World War II. In it, he stressed the value of using one's imagination, but he noted that imagination wouldn't necessarily make life easier.

"You cannot tell from appearances how things will go," he said. "Sometimes imagination makes things out far worse than they are; yet without imagination not much can be done. Those people who are imaginative see many more dangers than perhaps exist; certainly many more than will happen; but then they must also pray to be given that extra courage to carry this far-reaching imagination."

"Never give in. Never, never, never, never – in nothing, great or small, large or petty – never give in, except to convictions of honor and good sense," he added. "Never yield to force; never yield to the apparently overwhelming might of the enemy."

SOAR

Valedictorian Rebecca Ann Davis

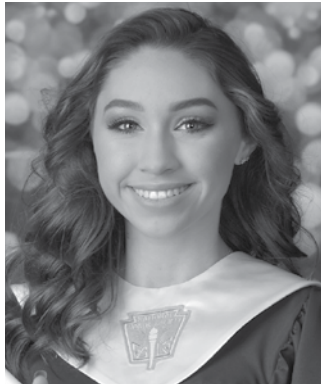

The Greenville Christian High School Class of 2019 valedictorian is Rebecca Ann Davis. She is the daughter of Deborah and Russell Davis of Greenville and has been a student at Greenville Christian since Pre-Kindergarten.

Rebecca has been involved in many activities at GCS. In varsity athletics, she has played volleyball as an outside hitter and passer all four years, earning 2nd Team All-District. Her basketball skills as point guard earned her 1st Team All-District, and she was given the True Eagle Award from the GC coaches.

Rebecca has always earned High Honor Roll for her grades, and she is a member of National Honor Society. Last year, she was a Junior Marshall at graduation. She is graduating with 29 dual-credit hours and a 4.17 GPA.

Beyond the classroom and athletics she has volunteered in the community and abroad. Locally, she has helped at Raffa Clinic, Hands of Compassion, Texas Trash-Off, LP Waters, and Arms of Hope. For the past three years she has traveled to Costa Rica on mission/construction crews to help missionaries who work in impoverished areas. One year, she spent a week at the HUB, a homeless shelter in Louisiana, helping the workers the week before Christmas.

Rebecca plans to attend Baylor University in Waco to study business.

Salutatorian Jonathan David Bleier

The Greenville Christian High School Class of 2019 salutatorian is Jonathon David Bleier. He is the son of Joseph and Julia Bleier of Greenville.

Jonathan has been extremely active at GCS. In Student Council he is an elected class representative and served as Student Initiative leader. This position had him organizing the annual 5K and the school's Water War games. As a SADD member he helped with Red Ribbon Week activities. He was a Junior Marshall at graduation last year. Athletically, he played varsity basketball and ran track for three years. Additionally, he was a member of the school's Robotics' Team, advancing to the State competition his sophomore year.

Jonathan also volunteers in the community. For the past three years he has helped work with Rotary Club's Haunted House event, and has spent time at Arms of Hope. At his church, St. Paul's, he has served as a Sunday School teacher.

Jonathan has earned High Honor Roll status his entire high school career and is graduating with a 4.11 GPA and 27 dual credit hours.

He plans to attend Texas A&M-College Station's College of Engineering and study computer engineering.
