WWW.TRI-VALLEYREALTY.COM

Many of us, as desert dwellers, have a story about the time we came face to face with a handsome coyote family while out for our evening walk or how Fido or Fluffy just barely avoided becoming a tasty snack. A close encounter is possible when we least expect it, especially when considering the sheer strength, stealth and cunning of these powerful and resourceful creatures. But, it's helpful to keep in mind that we moved into their habitat. In the end, we are seeking the same things: food, water, safety in our homes and the ability to protect our families.

The more we educate ourselves about our local fauna and realize that there are common-sense ways to live together in this desert ecosystem, the more likely we are to peacefully co-exist and maintain a healthy respect for what nature has to offer here in this northern extension of the of the Colorado desert.

Part of the dog family (canidae), the coyote's scientific name, Canis latrans, means "barking dog." These highly adaptable omnivores will eat anything from small mammals, reptiles, rodents and arthropods (like scorpions and crickets) to plant material such as fruit, seeds, beans, fan palm fruit and dates. Nocturnal hunters, they are valuable as rodent control. Their only predator is man.

Coyotes usually mate for life, and breeding takes place between January and March. If you see a group of three to six coyotes, it is most likely a mated pair and their young of the year or a group of litter mates.

Here are some steps we can take to keep ourselves and our pets safe as well as to protect the survival of this spectacular species:

- Keep secure lids on garbage cans and compost bins.
- Remove standing water including outdoor pet water bowls.
- Collect fruit that has fallen to the ground from fruit trees.
- Keep cats and small dogs indoors unless outside with them, and bring them in at night when hunting coyotes are most active.
- Do not try to feed or tame coyotes. This type of habituation can cause the coyote to see the human as a source of food, leading to overly aggressive coyote populations who no longer fear humans. California Department of Fish and Game even coordinates a campaign called "Keep Me Wild," which protects both humans and coyotes.
- Do not try to "eradicate" coyote populations with poison and fire arms. Not only is this cruel if the coyotes have a den of pups waiting to be fed, but also it opens up the habitable territory for another searching predator to make its own and creates more problems than it solves.

So, what if you are unloading your groceries and you look up to see six coyotes standing bolt still staring right back at you? If you can't quickly get inside to your home or car, and especially if a coyote starts to approach you, it is strongly advised that you make loud noises to "haze" the coyote and even throw rocks or pebbles towards the animal. Remember, the goal is to keep them in fear to avoid future interaction, without causing harm.

The Humane Society's website at hsus.org has other suggestions on how to live in harmony with our furry, feathered or scaly neighbors, and living-desert.org also offers some very useful information. A wild coyote is a safe coyote.

MOLDING HEARTS

MOLDING HEARTS ONE DAY AT A TIME

Our Mission

Our mission is to end homelessness in San Bernardino County by providing compassionate and comprehensive housing solutions for vulnerable individuals. We offer emergency, transitional, and shared permanent housing for youth exiting foster care, formerly incarcerated individuals, and those experiencing homelessness. Through a supportive and empowering environment, we strive to foster stability, self-sufficiency, and a sense of belonging, ensuring everyone can rebuild their lives and achieve their full potential.

How We Are Helping

Our vision is to move San Bernardino County's disenfranchised population to a position of empowerment and self-determination by enabling them to employ innovative strategies to produce actions that lead to healthy results. Molding Hearts is dedicated to the community we serve.

Our organization strives to raise public awareness of the needs of our residents within our community. We focus on services that are designed to strengthen and increase self-esteem, self-respect, and respect for others and society. We also focus on promoting health and addressing issues relating to improving the quality of their lives.

We currently have funding from multiple agencies where we have contracts which have been in place for nearly a decade. We have partnered with the agencies from the County for many years, and we look forward to making new partnerships.

Thank you for allowing us to introduce our organization to you.

Know Where to Go in an Emergency

Hi-Desert Medical Center is now a Trauma Center

Our hospital is now a Trauma Center—the first in the Morongo Basin and Hi-Desert region. So when you need care close at hand, turn to Hi-Desert Medical Center right here in Joshua Tree.

You can rely on Desert Care Network. To learn more about our trauma services, call 844-372-8662.

ATTRACTIONS

Palm Springs Air Museum

Visitors can get up close to vintage World War II and Korea/Vietnam era aircrafts at the Palm Springs Air Museum. More than 40 flyable and static planes are on display inside three climate-controlled hangars totaling 65,000 square feet and outside on the tarmac. Visitors can tour the interior of a flyable B-17 and C-47 (when not flying). CNN Travel named the air museum one of the top 14 aviation museums in the world in 2014. 745 N. Gene Autry Trail, Palm Springs. 760-778-6262, palmsspringsairmuseum.org

Palm Springs Aerial Tramway The world's largest rotating tram car travels over two-and-one-half miles along the breathtaking cliffs of Chino Canyon, transporting riders to the pristine wilderness of the Mt. San Jacinto State Park. During your approximately ten-minute journey, tram cars rotate slowly, offering picturesque and spectacular vistas of the valley floor below. Once you reach the Mountain Station—elevation 8,516 feet—enjoy two restaurants, observation decks, natural history museum, two documentary theaters, gift shop and over 50 miles of hiking trails. 1 Tram Way, Palm Springs. 760-325-4537, pstramway.com

Palm Springs Art Museum The museum's extensive permanent collection includes significant works by western, contemporary and glass artists, and features temporary exhibitions from internationally acclaimed artists. Year round hours: Monday, Tuesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursdays noon to 8 p.m. Closed Wednesdays and major holidays. 101 Museum Drive, Palm Springs. 760-322-4800, psmuseum.org

Palm Springs Art Museum: Architecture and Design Center In the historic Santa Fe Savings & Loan Bank, the Architecture and Design Center, Edwards Harris Pavilion is the creative hub for mid-century architecture and design exploration. The 13,000-square-foot building features a ground-level glass pavilion space that showcases exhibitions, as well as research space, a store, and a storage area for the museum's growing collections, and archives. 300 S. Palm Canyon Drive, Palm Springs. 760-423-5260, psmuseum.org

Pioneertown Mane Street in Pioneertown still retains its charm and old west image. it has also been designated as a historic resource. Visitors are welcome to enjoy the sites any day of the week but weekends are when the town comes alive. There are different retail stores and numerous false fronts in a town like a bank, jail, and bath house which make great pictures. Campsites are available and horses at the Pioneertown Corrals are on a first come first serve basis. Mane Street, West of Pioneertown Road. visitpioneertown.com

Salton Sea The massive inland body of water started as a vacation place for Hollywood stars in the 1950s. Over the years rising salinity and agricultural runoff began to deter visitors and the health of the sea declined. Now it is one of the main bird migration areas in the West and a geographical oddity. View old advertisements and posters of the sea's heyday at the visitor center. Rangers will point you to the best birdwatching areas and other surrounding locations. Picnic tables, hiking trails, biking and kayaking are permitted. 100-225 State Park Road, Mecca. 760-393-3059, parks.ca.gov

Salvation Mountain Probably one of the most photographed and unique desert art discoveries, the mountain began as one man's vision of artistic expression. While religion may have been the catalyst for this creation, the true inspiration, made clear by creator Leonard Knight, was pure love. Visitors can climb parts of the massive sculpture and peek into rooms, or admire the additional found art items, such as painted cars, placed around the base. 603 Beal Road, Niland. salvationmountaininc.org

Shields Date Garden Shields' famous date groves provide an assortment of dates, as well as their famous date shakes, date ice cream and citrus. See the free movie "The Romance and Sex Life of the Date" after a walk through the biblical garden path on the 17-acre date farm, or enjoy a meal at the patio café. 80225 Highway 111, Indio. 760-347-0996, shieldsdategarden.com

Sunnylands Center and Gardens Enjoy sculpture from the Sunnylands Collection as well as a rotating exhibition. There is a film and other offerings about the history of Sunnylands and its founders. Sunnylands also features free public programs, walks and activities for families are offered on a regular basis. 37977 Bob Hope Drive, Rancho Mirage. 760-328-2829, sunnylands.org

Tranmission Sculpture The 30 feet tall sculpture of Joshua Tree by the world-renowned South African artist Daniel Popper — was commissioned by Morgan Brown, a designer and developer. The sculpture sits on Mojave Moon Ranch (private property), overlooking the California Desert. A fenced path guides you to get a closer look at the ethereal giant made of concrete, steel, and embellished with glass mosaics is truly a sight to behold. 2015 Sunfair Road, Joshua Tree. ### What to do during an earthquake

- Drop, cover and hold on.
- Try to protect your head and torso. If you are sitting at a desk or table, get under it. Otherwise, drop wherever you are.
- If you are in bed, stay there, curl up and hold on. Protect your head with a pillow.
- If you use a wheelchair, try to get under a doorway or into an inside corner, lock the wheels and cover your head with your arms. Remove any items that are not securely attached to the wheelchair.
- Stay away from outer walls, windows, fireplaces and hanging objects.
- Stay indoors until the shaking stops and you are sure it is safe to exit.
- If you are outside, find a clear spot away from buildings, power lines, trees and streetlights. Drop to the ground and stay there until the shaking stops.
- If you are in a vehicle, pull over to a clear location and stop. Avoid bridges, overpasses and power lines if possible. Stay inside with your seatbelt fastened until the shaking stops.

What to do after an earthquake

- If you smell gas, get out of the building and move as far away as possible.
- Before you leave any building, check to make sure that there is no debris from the building that could fall on you.
- If you are in a vehicle, after the quake stops, drive carefully, avoiding bridges and ramps.
- If a power line falls on your vehicle, do not get out. Wait for assistance.

How to prepare for an earthquake

- Practice: Reduce injury by practicing “Drop, Cover and Hold On” when the ground shakes.
- Develop a plan: Develop an emergency plan that includes the name and telephone number of an out-of-area contact; a place where everyone can meet if they are separated after the earthquake; and special provisions for pets, children, seniors and people with special needs.
- Get ready: Stockpile at least a three-day supply of water, food, medications and other supplies such as flashlights, battery-operated portable radios and extra batteries.
- Learn first aid: Knowing how to treat cuts, abrasions and other injuries that are not life-threatening will enable parents and guardians to provide immediate care to their loved ones and allow emergency medical personnel to focus their attention on those with more serious and life-threatening injuries.
- Secure your home: Make sure your home is bolted to the foundation and water heaters, entertainment centers, computer systems and other objects that could fall and cause injury are secured. Homeowners should also contact their insurance agents to see if earthquake insurance is feasible for them.

How to make your house more safe

It's not the Earth's shaking itself that causes the most injury and harm. Instead, it's the things that the earthquake puts into motion: the shaking of buildings, structures, and even ordinary household items. Anything that can move, fall, break, or cause a fire can be an earthquake hazard. Here are some tips from the Federal Emergency Management Administration.

- Conduct a hazard hunt. Go through your home or facility, room by room, looking for objects or situations that might cause damage or injury. Make an inventory of all items that require attention.

• Walk the halls and classrooms. Stand in the center of each room and look all around you: imagine which objects or pieces of furniture might fall over or fly through the air.

Bolt down and secure to the wall studs:

- water heater • furnace
- gas appliances • refrigerator

Fasten to wall studs:

- bookcases • shelves • tall cabinets
- Move heavy objects to lower shelves.
- Make sure hallways and exits are clear of objects that might fall and make it difficult to get out of the building.
- Brace overhead light fixtures.
- Install latches on cabinet doors.
- Move beds and cribs away from windows, and lock their wheels if possible.
- Move heavy items such as pictures and mirrors away from sleeping and sitting areas.

Safety tips from SoCalGas

- Know where your gas meter is located and keep a 12-inch or larger adjustable wrench with your emergency supplies, near your building exit or next to your gas meter shut-off valve. Do not store the wrench on the gas meter or other gas piping.
- Be prepared to turn off your natural gas meter but only if you smell natural gas, hear the sound of natural gas escaping or see other signs of a leak and only if it is safe to do so.

- If you turn off gas to the meter, leave it off. Do not turn it back on yourself. Interior gas piping and appliances must be inspected for possible damage before service can be safely restored.
- Call SoCalGas to turn the gas back on, relight the pilots and service your appliances. Certain repairs may have to be performed by your plumber or heating contractor. However, only SoCalGas field employees are allowed to turn on the gas to the meter.
- Do not ignite a flame or use any electrical appliances, light switches or other devices that can cause a spark until you are sure there are no gas leaks.
- Check safety devices, such as smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, to ensure that they are functioning properly.
- For more natural gas safety information, visit socialgas.com/stay-safe/emergency-information/emergency-preparedness.

Let's Hike

From austere canyons to lush oases, the desert is home to diverse hiking trails. When you're headed out for a hike, put safety first. Bring plenty of water (at least one gallon per person per day, but you'll need more if it's hot), snacks (trail mix, dried fruit, granola bars, bananas, nuts and seeds), good hiking shoes, a hat, sunscreen, bug spray, light and loose-fitting clothes, backpack, and first-aid kit. Plan your hikes for the early morning or evening when it's cooler. Let someone know where you're going and when you'll be back and tell them to contact authorities if they don't hear from you.

AMBOY

Amboy Crater This 4.1 round trip hike to an ancient volcano crater through lava field is a moderate hike off of Route 66 near the Mojave National Preserve. If you make it up the steep incline you will see where lava poured out over 24 square miles. Check out the dried lava landscape on Crater Road in Amboy.

CATHEDRAL CITY

Cathedral Canyon Trail An approximate 1,000-foot elevation gain and a few steep inclines gives the trail a moderate rating with little shade. The 3.8-mile trail is used by mountain bikers and hikers. Park along the paved street near the end of Foothill Road.

DESERT HOT SPRINGS

Mission Creek Stonehouse A historic structure tucked away in the lush wetlands of the Mission Creek Preserve. The stonehouse is a remnant of the area's ranch days and features informational exhibits, as well as restrooms and picnic tables. Hikers with their four-legged friends enjoy the easy 3.2-mile round-rip hike, which follows a stream and passes by an enormous Fremont cottonwood tree. 50550 Mission Creek Road.

Joshua Tree National Park

JOSHUA TREE

Joshua Tree National Park A sweeping array of nature and fitness treks greets guests across the 1,250 square mile breadth of space, which makes Joshua Tree among the most popular hiking, camping and rock climbing attractions to locals and visitors. For leisurely hikes, check out the 3-mile 49 Palms Oasis hike or the 4-mile Lost Horse Mine and mountain hike. 6554 Park Blvd.

LA QUINTA

Bear Creek Canyon Trail After cruising through a flat, sandy wash for the first 30 minutes, the gain hits all at once around the two-mile mark. But the steep trek through the Santa Rosa and San Jacinto Mountain National Monument is well worth it, and is a prime spot for a picnic. Access trail near the intersection of Calle Tecate and Avenida Madero.

Boo Hoff Loop The first half of the 12.1-mile loop leads to views that stretch from the Salton Sea to the San Jacinto Mountains. The 2,574-foot gain in elevation challenges experienced hikers, with hardly any shade, poorly marked paths and rocky terrain hikers are advised to exercise extreme caution. Corner of Avenida Bermudas and Calle Tecate, La Quinta.

Cove to Lake

LA QUINTA

Cove to Lake The first part of the 6.4-mile path is relatively flat, cutting through wide-open sandy terrain at the base of the Southern Santa Rosa Mountains before transitioning to more ups and downs. The path veers away from private property and heads towards Lake Calhulla. Access the trailhead on Calle Tecate.

MORONGO VALLEY

Canyon Trail This 8.34-mile round trip hike descends gradually from the higher, cooler Mojave Desert down the canyon to the warmer Colorado Desert climate. This trail is a favorite of many local hikers and horseback riders. Big Morongo Canyon Preserve, 11055 East Drive.

Desert Willow Trail This moderate .75 mile dirt trail wanders through open fields of fall-blooming alkali golden-bush, along the edge of hone mesquite thicket, then drops into a desert wash habitat with desert willow, evergreen yerba santa and wild tarragon. Big Morongo Canyon Preserve, 11055 East Drive, Morongo Valley.

PALM DESERT

Art Smith Trail After one mile of the round-trip 10-mile trek, the sights and sounds of the city of seem to disappear. By mile three, a cluster of palm trees pop up out of nowhere and the trail is surrounded by otherworldly rock formations. Trailhead can be found across from the Santa Rosa San Jacinto National Monument Visitors Center on Highway 74.

Bump and Grind Loop

Bump and Grind Loop A moderate 3 -mile hike scaling the Northern Santa Rosa Mountains, this is one of the most popular outings for hikers, runners and cyclists. The steep trail climbs 960 feet and intersects other routes along the way. Trailhead is behind the Desert Crossings shopping center.

The Cross This local landmark is beloved by hikers, bikers and their leashed pups who make the 2.2-mile trek through the lower reaches of the Santa Rosa Mountains. The 689-foot climb features a giant lit-up cross with stunning vistas of the valley floor. Parking is available in the unpaved lot off Thrush Road.

PALM SPRINGS

Andreas Canyon A scenic foot trail leads through the canyon, passing groves of stately skirted palms, unusual rock formations and the perennial Andreas Creek. This tranquil setting is excellent for photography, bird-watching or a picnic at one of the tables along the trail. 38520 S. Palm Canyon Dr. indian-canyons.com

PALM SPRINGS

Araby Trail The 3.3-mile round trip hike climbs into the Northern Santa Rosa Mountains, crossing into part of the Santa Rosa and San Jacinto Mountains National Monument. With little to no shade and sharp incline, it's best to hike early in the morning. The views from the 1,380-foot gain in elevation are worth the trek. Access the trailhead off of Rim Road.

Museum Trail Only a 1.7-mile hike, is a hard uphill hiking test with steep incline and rocky ground. With breathtaking views of the city of Palm Springs unfolding just 10 minutes into the hike, the path levels off at a nice resting point with picnic tables. Trail begins at the back corner of the Palm Springs Art Museum parking lot. Do not park in the museum parking lot.

North Lykken Trail The 2.8 mile moderate hike snakes approximately 1,000 feet up the canyon, where rocky outcrops, boulders and seasonal wildflowers paint a beautiful backdrop. Before returning via the dame route, stop and soak in the views! Trail head is located at the end of Ramon Road in Palm Springs. Park in the unpaved lot.

THOUSAND PALMS

Coachella Valley Preserve The 17,000 acre site is home to 25 miles of hiking trails and several palm oasis that stay full of water thanks to water seeping out of the San Andreas Fault. The McCallum Pond at the Thousand Palms Oasis is a fairly easy mile hike. 29200 Thousand Palms Canyon Road, Thousand Palms.

CRITTERS IN OUR DESERT

Living in the desert brings many delights like the scenic landscape, toasty temperatures and abundance of fitness and outdoor exploration opportunities. There are some overwhelmingly beautiful examples of plant and animal life that can take our breath away.

AFRICANIZED HONEY BEES

There was a local news story in 2014 about a woman who was stung 1,000 times on the grounds of a country club, and, although she went into shock, she was raced to the hospital and recovered. According to the Coachella Valley Mosquito and Vector Control District in Indio, bees are not aggressive unless they feel threatened. They are also attracted to strong perfumes and shiny objects, and they are bothered by loud noises. Workers trimming trees have been known to disrupt hives, as well.

Africanized honey bees, or “killer bees,” came to the area in the early 2000s and are known for being very protective of their home and easily disturbed. But all bees will be aggressive if disturbed.

The best action is to stay away from the bees, as in leave them alone. If they do attack, run away. Do not swat or flail your arms because the movement could attract the bees. Be prepared to run up to a quarter of a mile until you can find shelter, as that’s about how far they’ll stray from their hive. While escaping, try to protect your face and throat with a jacket or shirt. And avoid getting into water because bees will wait until you come up for air.

And, as hard as it may be not to panic, try not to harm the pollinating bees. Professionals should be called in to remove the hives if needed.

BOBCATS

“Here, kitty kitty” probably won’t work to befriend these guys. According to experts, there are more than 100,000 bobcats in California, many of them living in the desert. The sightings in people’s backyards are due to the cats’ desire for food, and there have been sightings in Palm Springs, Indio in recent years as cats come down off the mountain.

These big cats are fairly comfortable living in close proximity to us and pose little danger to humans reports of attacks on humans are rare. However, bobcats will fight if they are cornered.

The real concern with these beauties is that they pose a risk to family pets such as dogs, smaller cats and rabbits. Bobcats will also prey on squirrels, chipmunks and other small mammals and birds, which is why they are often seen close to active bird feeders during winter months.

According to experts, if you ever encounter a bobcat in your backyard or around your neighborhood, there’s no need to panic because they will likely be shy with humans. Zoo officials generally agree to just enjoy and appreciate these elegant ones.

CALIFORNIA BLACK BEARS

Bears may not be as normal a sight in the desert as coyotes or bobcats, but they do live in parts of the desert and wander into others. Drought, wildfires and other circumstances are making them more common in our neighborhoods.

California black bears have been expanding their territory since the grizzly bear was decimated in this state. They will occasionally move through Joshua Tree National Park and some make their home in Morongo Valley and the Big Morongo Canyon Preserve. Others will wander down the foothills surrounding Yucca Valley. They’ve also been spotted in Palm Springs and Desert Hot Springs.

To stay safe, do what you do already to prevent contact with other large predators: Keep your trash secured, clean up after cooking or eating outdoors and don’t approach a bear. You shouldn’t leave out food for bears. If they damage property or hurt pets or people, they may be captured and killed by Fish & Wildlife.

Fully grown, California black bears may stand about 3.5 feet tall on all fours and weigh about 200 pounds. They can run up to 30 mph.

RATTLESNAKES

The most common rattlesnakes in our Southern California and desert region are the Southern Pacific, red diamond, Western diamondback, sidewinder, Southwestern speckled, and the Mojave green. Venom can paralyze and kill, and fangs can still inject venom even after a snake is believed to be dead. And, they don't always shake that rattle when preparing to attack.

Warm summer and fall months mean there are more snakes around, out of winter hibernation. Many are active at night, when they hunt and eat rodents, other reptile, and insects. Rattlesnakes linger in tall grass, near woodpiles, around rocks, under garden shrubs and against the sides of houses. They like cool, shady places in summer heat, such as under a lawn chair.

When in the wild, humans should wear pants and closed toe shoes. Just like with bees, the best advice is to simply not bother or threaten the snakes and keep a minimum distance of six feet away. Don't step or reach into hidden places. Don't ever handle or try to kill a rattlesnake, according to the Riverside County Department of Animal Services.

A snake bite can cause nerve and tissue damage and blood-clotting problems. If bitten, don't attempt first-aid or tourniquets. Do keep the bitten area below the heart, remove all rings and watches that might constrict swelling and head straight to a hospital or emergency room to receive anti-venom immediately.

High Desert: San Bernardino County Animal Care & Control, 800-472-5609 or sbcounty.gov. Low Desert: Riverside County Department of Animal Services, 760-343-3644 or rcdas.org.

There are hundreds of other species to be found in our desert region, like the Agile kangaroo bat, black-tailed jackrabbit, Costa's hummingbird, chuckwalla, desert bighorn sheep, greater roadrunner, sandstone night lizard and many more, most all of which are as uninterested in getting as up close and personal with us as we are with them. Most of these are so timid around humans that we rarely even see them. When we do have a sighting, we can enjoy the special visit and the display of nature at its most colorful and wondrous.
