Class of 2019 bids goodbye to Wilmington High

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — On June 2, 2019, Wilmington High School bid goodbye to its senior class of 2019. The ceremony was held in the high school gymnasium and was attended by family members, teachers, staff members, and a number of community leaders.

Class president Joseph Wilson opened the ceremony with words of encouragement and optimism for his classmates. He urged the class to do things that they love.

“I have no doubt in my mind that each and every one of us, whether we follow our current dreams or we pave a whole new road for ourselves in college... will be successful,” Wilson said.

Town Manager Jeff Hull spoke next, likening the graduates’ current place in life to a traffic rotary and encouraging them to consider the roads ahead and to look for opportunities for growth.

“I suggest that you pause, take a deep breath or two, and look for the lessons,” said Hull.

School Committee Chair Jennifer Bryson spoke next, and addressed the parents and guardians of the graduating class.

“You have done an exemplary job of preparing your children to embrace life and make a difference in this world,” Bryson said.

Bryson also congratulated the students, noting the large amount of work asked of today’s high school students.

“You worked hard, you’ve been working hard for years and you’ve earned this moment,” she said.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Glenn Brand reflected on getting to know the class of 2019 over the course of his first year in the district. He referenced the “Wildcat C.I.R.C.L.E. of values,” consisting of community, inclusivity, respect, collaboration, learning, and engagement, which the district worked to identify this year as being representative of the community as a whole.

“Perhaps with some luck, these values can become nuggets that you will cling to and remember,” said Brand.

“These values are a piece of the Wilmington cloth where you have taken roots so please, I hope, take them with you.”

Principal Linda Peters spoke about the value of education and learning.

“There is something truly amazing about being in the presence of learning, it is almost magical,” she said.

Peters also extended her best wishes to the class of 2019, saying that she hoped each student always had somebody to cheer them on and sharing a poem she had written specifically for this class.

“Where will you go, what will you do? Your plans your future your dreams, I hope they all come true.”

She expressed deep gratitude for the graduates.

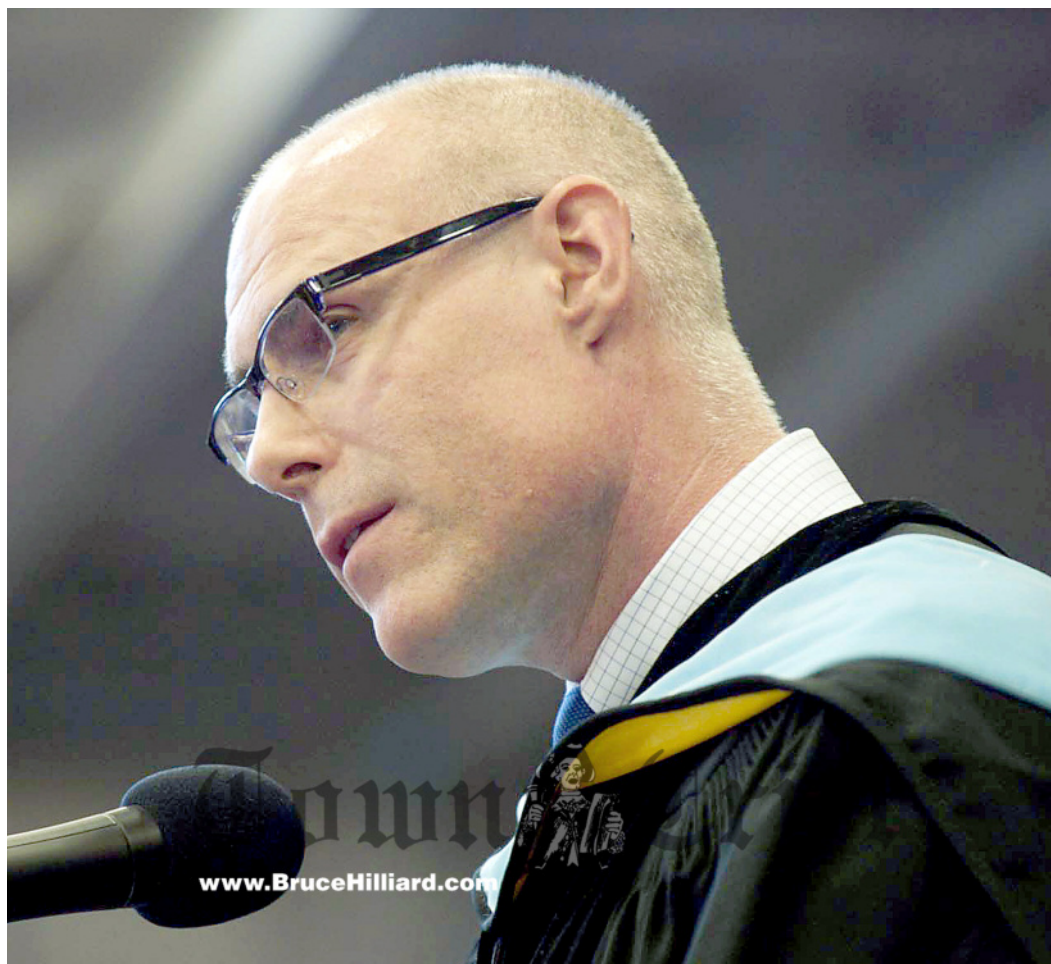

“I truly cannot thank you enough for making me the luckiest principal on earth.”

Congratulations on your graduation and best wishes for your next adventure!

Student speakers address ambition and gratitude

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — For Wilmington High School class of 2019 Salutatorian Mindy Duggan, the role is a family affair. As Duggan explained in her address, her grandmother was Wilmington High School salutatorian in 1956. Her grandmother addressed the graduating class of 1956 in the old high school, with a speech called “The End and the Beginning.”

In the course of preparing for her own graduation, Duggan read her grandmother’s high school yearbook. It contained a section called Ambition. “Her ambition was to work two and one half years before she got married, which she did accomplish,” said Duggan with a smile, noting that times have changed.

Duggan also took time to thank teachers and family, and to encourage her classmates to embrace their own ambition. “I have no doubt that each and every one of you will make a difference in the world, whether it be big or small,” she said.

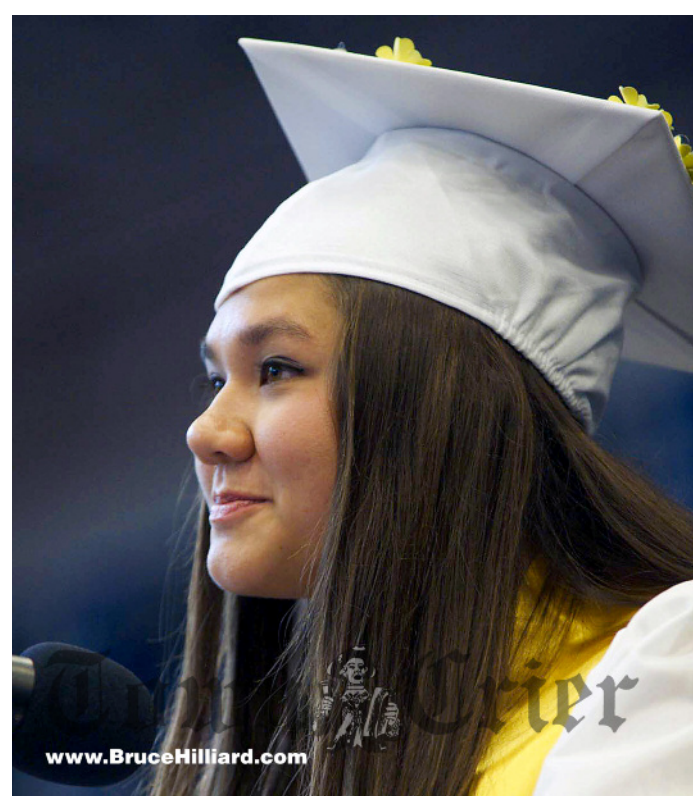

Essayist Amie Russell and Valedictorian Samantha Marzi also addressed the class during the ceremony. “Everyone is at different points in their life, and that’s OK. I just wanted to say thank you to all of my teachers, friends, and family, who have led me to where I am today,” said Russell.

Marzi noted that she, like the rest of her classmates, could not be sure of what the future holds. “No matter what you end up doing next year, or with the rest of your life, just have fun with it,” she said.

“If it means living in a bunker and waiting for the zombie apocalypse for the rest of your life, make sure you bring plenty of movies to watch,” she added. “Or if that means going to medical school and discovering the next medical breakthrough, or majoring in education and becoming a part of the next generation of teachers, please do it.”
