Sherlock Holmes (Logan Bartelt) looks for clues during a scene from the Cambridge-Isanti Theatre Department's three-act play production of "Sherlock Holmes."

'The game's afoot' with CIHS three-act play

STAFF REPORT
NEWS@COUNTYSTAR.COM

It won't take a world-famous detective to deduce the Cambridge-Isanti High School's Theatre Department will be putting on another entertaining performance for their annual three-act play. For this year's performance, the troupe will be putting on "Sherlock Holmes." The play, which is written by William Gillette — with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's permission — is closely based on Doyle's stories of the world-famous detective. According to CIHS Theatre Department Director Viva Anderson, the play combines mystery, romance, action, danger, and laughter. "Alice Faulkner (a love interest of Holmes created by Gillette) has letters written by a dead

Five applicants to be interviewed for council vacancy

BY MOLLY WHELAN
NEWS@COUNTYSTAR.COM

The North Branch City Council will be choosing from five people who have thrown their hats in the ring to fill the council seat vacated by Travis Miles. Miles was recently hired as a Human Resources Generalist by the city and therefore had to resign from his seat on the council. Patrick Meacham, Paul Schneidewind, Jim Ibinger, Phil Carlson and Brandon Torelle all submitted applications to serve out Miles' council term through the end of 2026.

Patrick Meacham, who works as an aging and disability services supervisor for nearby Pine County, has previously served on the council and both the Planning Commission and the North Branch Water & Commission. His first term on the council was also by appointment in 2020. Meacham chose not to run for election in 2022. Shortly after his council term ended, he applied to be on the North Branch Water & Light Commission, which he was appointed to by a split vote by the council. After that commission was dissolved, he

A new chapter for Isanti Dana's Bookstore opens its doors

BY STACY VERDICK CASE
NEW@COUNTYSTAR.COM

The City of Isanti now joins the ranks of Minnesota towns with an independent bookstore as it welcomes Dana's Bookstore. Tucked between Johnson's Decorating and Subway, owner Dana Volkers Phillips has filled her shop with an array of books spanning multiple genres, along with puzzles, gourmet snacks, and book-themed gifts. For Volkers Phillips, choosing Isanti was a natural fit. "I feel like every town, no matter how small, needs a Dairy Queen and a bookstore," she said. Previously, Volkers Phillips owned The Bookstore in Pine City but sold it last year to be closer to family. "I didn't want to move the bookstore. It's the only bookstore in Pine County and I felt really bad opening up a store and saying isn't this amazing? Isn't this wonderful? And then three years later taking that away. So I put it up for sale and immediately had a buyer. It was nice to be able to leave it there and then just start over again."

She moved from approximately 700 square feet in Pine City to over 1,200 in her new space. "It was a little entry and then two rooms. It wasn't one big open area, so this is much different." Volkers Phillips loves the extra space, "I do because I get to have more books. That's a lot of shelf space, so it'll be really fun filling that." The shop even with the large shelves feels open and spacious despite the size. "I think we use the area well. There's a lot of shelf space, but it doesn't feel overwhelming. It doesn't feel claustrophobic."

HAVE A LITTLE FAITH

Opening a bookstore wasn't something that Volkers Phillips always aspired to. For her, a bookstore was an act of faith and girl that will cause grave international problems,” explains Anderson regarding the show’s plot. “Moriarty wants those letters; so does Holmes. The game’s afoot. But not before the Professor’s gang has London in its grip. Only young Holmes understands the true objective the professor has in mind (too sinister to reveal here), and he’s willing to put his own life on the line to stop it.”

CIHS Theatre veteran Logan Bartelt takes on the role of the titular character. Fellow veterans Xavier Stevens and Jake Lewandoski join him, portraying Professor Moriarty and Dr. Watson, respectively. They are joined by newcomer Per Ekerholm as Alice Faulkner.

At the intermission of each of the productions, there will be a “Miracle Minute Pie in the Face” fundraiser. According to Anderson, members of the cast will have 60 seconds to gather as much money in donations as they can. Whoever collects the most money will get to throw a pie in the face of a willing adult.

Performances of “Sherlock Holmes” will be held at 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, April 11 and 12; and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, April 13 at the Cambridge-Isanti High School Performing Arts Center. Tickets can be purchased at cur8.com or by calling the CIHS PAC ticket booth at 763-689-6466. For more information, contact Viva Anderson at vander-son@c-ischools.org.

Voter ID isn't entirely bad, not perfect either

I have been doing some checking on President Trump's executive order regarding requiring proof of citizenship for voters. When I first heard about it, my knee-jerk reaction was the same as many — it was yet another example of government overreach and would make it unfairly difficult for many eligible voters to cast their ballots. However, after taking a closer look, that's not necessarily the case.

It is true that the EO, along with the proposed SAVE Act, mandates those who are registering to vote for the first time to produce a document proving citizenship, such as a birth certificate. It also mandates that states at some point in time go over already registered voters to make sure they too are citizens. Just that part does invoke thoughts of many people, especially married women, having to jump through an insane number of hoops in order to vote.

As proof of that, I refer to the problems many had in obtaining Real IDs. My mom, for example, had to find a way to obtain from St. Louis, Missouri an official copy of her marriage license in order to verify her name change for her Real ID driver's license.

That very example, however, is why this mandate for voting won't be as difficult. When taking a look at the summary of the SAVE Act, it specifically says "...such as identification that complies with the REAL ID Act of 2005." Based on that statement, it should be logical to assume that would mean the Real IDs would in fact be an acceptable proof of U.S. citizenship.

Further, a vast majority of people should already have gone through the process of obtaining a Real ID. Heck, I'm already on my second Real ID drivers license, as is my mom (she applied for her first one before I did and warned me about needing a birth certificate). Even those who have been putting off getting one are running out of time. Anyone looking at flying on a domestic flight or entering federal facilities will need to have one after May 7, 2025.

I do, however, have some real objections, at least with Trump's executive order. Most troublesome is how states are mandated to provide a voter roster to the federal government upon request. To me, that is completely unacceptable as it absolutely violates a person's right to voter privacy. It wouldn't tell the federal government who you voted for, but part of that privacy is that nobody should be compelled to reveal if they voted at all.

Additionally, it creates a breach in personal data, making it easier for people to find out where you live.

The bottom line is that there are ways to both increase election integrity, while at the same time not making it next-to-impossible for a large number of eligible voters to do so. We have the technology. Unfortunately, the current proposals fall short in terms of this, while at the same time taking regulations too far.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

It's chaos all the time

To the editor,

Because of Trump, we have government dismantling, a worse economy with higher prices from Trump tariffs, no Education Department, talk of Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid disappearing, our allies may no longer be supporting us — just as the U.S. is not supporting them, the stock market is at one of its lowest points, thousands of people are unemployed, our military and veterans are on the chopping block and our National Park system is in disarray, just to name a few.

Trump wants to change our Constitution without anyone having a say in it — because it's not fair to him for what he wants to do. The Constitution is there for the American people and in place so we don't have someone like Trump trying to override it. He wants to be judge and jury — like a dictator wants to do.

The First Amendment — Freedom of Speech — he thinks only applies to him. He can call anyone names and tell lies about them, but anyone saying bad things about him should be jailed. He's a hypocrite and a racist and seems to be showing only hatred for America. He's determined to get rid of all that is good. Be careful, you could be on a plane to El Salvador just because of the color of your skin, the way you talk or if you have a tattoo he doesn't like with no chance to see your family again, have a lawyer for your defense and no way to contact them.

Why is all of this so outrageous? Because Trump and Elon Musk never gave any thought to the consequences of firing everyone who knows what goes on in the federal government and hire teenagers to do the work with no clue what they are doing. Looking for fraud? The only fraud I see is them and being secretive on what they are doing. Trump wants each state to take over the things he took away, so that we the taxpayers can take over payments to help the veterans, children with special needs, people with medical needs and more. Not that we weren't helping, but now we'll have to help more. Can we travel anymore and not be looked at as bad because of the way Trump has treated Canada and Mexico and many of our other allies? It's chaos all the time.

Stories to share: Seeds of support, roots of community

Though this week’s weather may not lead you to believe it, soon the sun will shine, the ground will thaw, the perennials we planted last spring will bud, and the leaves will begin to pop as the seasons change. While I love the wonder and coziness of the winter months, I can’t wait to get out into the sunshine and flowers, and to see our hard work begin to grow into something beautiful and refreshing.

C-I Schools Community Ed
Christina Thayer Anderson

Sowing, growing, and blossoming are all words rich with metaphor. It’s easy to find meaning and connection during this important time of year. These words remind us that growth takes time, care, and intentional effort—and that the most beautiful outcomes often begin with small, unseen actions beneath the surface. Like tending a garden, building up our community and schools takes focus and attention. The results may not appear right away, but with consistency and heart, the connections we foster become stronger, deeper, and more meaningful over time.

As we near the end of the school year, this could be the time to reflect on our students’ gains in academic knowledge, life skills, and social-emotional learning—not only in our classrooms but also through athletics, activities, recreation, on-the-job learning, and real-life experiences in the community. I could highlight the dedication of our amazing staff and how they continue to grow and develop new tools and strategies to help young minds thrive. However, April is Volunteer Appreciation Month, and I’d instead like to take a few moments to shine a light on our dedicated volunteers and how their presence helps grow a community rooted in compassion, connection, and care.

Volunteer Appreciation Month culminates in a week of celebration from April 20th through the 26th. It’s a time to say “thank you” to those who give so much to our schools, students, and staff. We are grateful for every person who has stepped forward—whether for five minutes or for several years—to offer their support in our mission to serve every student, every day.

One of the most remarkable things about Cambridge-Isanti is the spirit of giving that runs through our community. Whether it’s the gift of time and energy, professional services, donated items, or financial contributions—our volunteers make a lasting difference in our school community. We couldn’t do this work without each of you.

Students feel that impact. They see adults show up—reading books to preschoolers, speaking at Career Day, serving meals to staff on conference nights, donating winter gear to the Care Closet, or giving generously to programs like Dollars for Scholars and The Bluejacket Education Foundation. Our students witness the kindness of neighbors, business owners, alumni, and caregivers who invest in their well-being and future. These experiences plant seeds of compassion, gratitude, and community pride that will grow for years to come.

We are in awe of our volunteers who take time from their busy lives and give what they can to make our schools and community even better. The seeds you plant—of trust in our educators, of excitement about lifelong learning, of support for our learners and their families—flourish in ways seen and unseen. From all of us at Cambridge-Isanti Schools: thank you. Your generosity lifts us all.

If you’d like to become a C-I volunteer or explore ways to give, please reach out to us at c-i_volunteercoordinators@c-ischools.org. We’d love to hear from you.

What gardeners can do when the weather won’t cooperate

These last few years as a gardener, I’ve struggled with “weather whiplash”. I try to be flexible, however, even yoga hasn’t made me nimble enough to adjust to deluges of rain, temperatures running in the 90s for days on end and then watching everything dry up. And all this occurring within 4-6 weeks! Weather Whiplash is so frustrating that I’ve thought of giving up growing my own vegetables. However, NOTHING beats eating things directly from the garden as I try to nurture all my plants. I know I will persevere, but it means my garden must become more adaptable. I’ve spent months researching and learning how I can adapt my veggie and flower gardens to “weather whiplash”. These are some of the things I will try in addition to yoga, deep breathing and most likely muttering words I shouldn’t say.

1. I will try planting 2 varieties of every vegetable. (choose 1 variety more adaptable to heat)

2. I will stagger my planting dates several weeks apart. (less likely to have everything washed away)

3. I will use a hill system to mound up my soil and plant at the top of the mound so excess water can funnel into the valley between the mounds with the hope that plants don’t sit in standing water for days.

4. I will mulch around my plants to retain moisture and keep the plant roots cooler.

5. I will utilize drip or weeping hoses to water only the plant roots.

6. I will water more deeply and less often so my plants develop deeper root systems.

7. I will prune leaves from plants like my tomatoes, phlox and bee balm to provide better air circulation and reduce the risk of fungal disease.

8. I will give my tall flowers like asters, joe pye, and helenium a “Chelsie Chop,” meaning I will prune back the tops at the end of May, so the plants remain shorter and bloom a bit later, thus reducing their need for water.

9. I will create an integrated pest management plan to help fight off disease and insects. This will utilize companion planting, trap crops, hand picking damaging insects off the plants, possibly netting plants to keep insects away and reducing any organic or chemical pesticide use.

10. Before I bring in new plants, shrubs or trees, I will utilize the Blue Thumb plant finder web site to search for adaptable plants. No more “impulse buys” because it’s on sale or pretty!

Will any or all these things help the plants in my gardens adapt to “weather whiplash”? I hope so. They all appear to be logical and reasonable modifications that can help my plants withstand the wild weather we’ve been seeing more frequently.

Honestly, number 10 will be the most difficult for me to accomplish. Who doesn’t love a sale or buy on impulse? If I can follow this one, I’ll kill less plants, feel less guilty when it happens and likely save money.

Happy Gardening!

Can licensed amateur radio operators use their devices while driving

Ask A Trooper
Jesse Grabow

Question: I know there is a lot of discussion on distracted driving. I have a question how does the law apply to amateur radio devices? For example, trained storm spotters sometimes use handheld and vehicle mobile radios during a weather emergency.

Answer: Devices such as amateur radio, two-way radio and citizens band (CB) radio are exempt under the hands-free law. The law does not define their transmissions as electronic messages, but users are still required to operate them with due care in a safe manner.

A portion of state statutes were used with permission from the Office of the Revisor of Statutes. iron mines in northern Minnesota produce the ore shipped by way of the Great Lakes. It is our advantage to have the resource and the method of transportation. We don’t produce pineapples because of our climate. Instead, our iron ore is sold to places that produce pineapples, for example.

The concept of ‘comparative advantage’ allows places to specialize in products that are most efficient for them. When we trade with places for products they specialize in we all benefit. Mostly free trade for the last 40 years has enriched us and the world. Over a billion people around the world have been lifted out of extreme poverty. And they buy products from us. We are enriched by this efficient trade which gives us a variety of products at lower prices.

Trade has boosted our economy by allowing resources to be given to industries where the U.S. has a comparative advantage, such as technology, aerospace, and agriculture. U.S. farm exports have nearly tripled in the last 40 years. Millions of U.S. jobs depend on international trade, especially in manufacturing, technology, and services. Our friends in Canada and Mexico are our most important trade partners and our closest friends.

What if Minnesota charged a tariff to Wisconsin farmers that export bacon to Minnesota? Tariffs restrict trade and elevate prices and cause unemployment. This is bad policy.

Trump is doing what others wouldn’t

To the editor,

The Democratic party is going nuts over Trump and his team right-sizing the government and identifying fraud, wasteful spending and corruption. Past presidents and members of Congress have indicated a desire to do the same thing but they have not done anything. Imagine if you personally were overdrawn in your checking account by seven times your annual income. Down the road you would have to sell everything you own.

The U.S. government is headed for a financial Armageddon. Get with the program or get out of the way. Instead of throwing roadblocks in the way, join the effort and save this great country for your grandchildren.

If you want your party to survive, you will need to connect with the voters who elected you. I think this presidential stint will go down in the history books as the most consequential of all time.

Highway 95 Cleanup

To Editor,

I sincerely hope that the ECSWC can find a grant that will pay for the constant cleanup of Highway 95 going west from the transfer station to the City of Cambridge. Another solution would be to get decent tops or covers on the semi-trailers hauling trash back up to Mora. Debris falling from the open truck beds leaves trash all over the road and ditches. The other option might be to get inmates from the local jail to clean the area once a week under supervision.

OBITUARIES

Annette Russell

Annette Russell, age 87, of Cambridge and formerly of Isanti, passed away March 20, 2025 at home. Annette Shirley (Gunnerson) Russell was born on Sept. 12, 1937 in Annandale, Minnesota. She was the eighth of nine children in the family of Ray and Ellen Gunnerson who were farmers in that community. Ray (100% Swede) and Ellen Nivala (100% Finnish) were very strict parents who taught and enforced their respect for other people, total honesty in all parts of life, strong work ethics and full support and attendance in the local Lutheran church. Of course, those values were passed on to Annette and then to her children.

Annette attended public schools and confirmation classes in Annandale. Upon graduation, high scholastically, from high school, she moved to Minneapolis to live with her sister Carol. She obtained employment as a Financial Data Processor at the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis. Late in 1956, she attended a “Mixer Dance” at the University of Minnesota and met Ivan Russell. Following a two and a half year courtship they were married at St. John’s Lutheran church in Annandale. Annette continued to work for about one and a half years until Laura was born. Annette then devoted a large portion of her time to maintaining a family home, yard and garden and instilling her values and knowledge in her four children. She developed and operated Annette’s Catering Service which created the ambiance and food for numerous weddings of members of families at Faith Lutheran Church in Isanti, Minnesota. She also worked as a food processor and server at Temple Israel in Minneapolis and volunteered countless hours in food preparation and serving etc. at Faith Lutheran Church.

Annette loved music. She was a self-taught piano player who practiced her version of songs, mostly hymns, nearly every day on her beloved baby-grand piano. She mastered numerous songs for her own, and other family member’s, enjoyment. Toward the end of her ability to play, she was in the final stages of learning Leonard Cohen’s “Hallelujah” in response to a special request from one of her grandchildren.

In later years, she prepared and printed “A Collection of Recipes from Friends and Relatives”. That cookbook, containing about 400 recipes, lovingly modified with her special touches, was distributed to her children, nieces, nephews and a few friends. The feedback has been “It’s wonderful”.

Just recently, even after several years of suffering from dementia, Annette could recite Bible passages and sing songs she had learned in her early life attendance at Sunday school or in confirmation classes she had attended in her early teen years.

Annette was preceded in death by her parents and all of her siblings and their spouses. She is survived by Ivan Russell, her husband of 65 years, Daughter Laura (Doug) Ross and their children Kristen and Nicole, Daughter Rebecca (Greg) Wilson and their children Logan, Alexis and Jenna, Son Gary Russell, and Daughter Kristine (Brandon) Voltzke and their children Max and Ella.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, April 11th at Faith Lutheran Church in Isanti. A memorial visitation will be held from 5-7 p.m. Thursday, April 10 at Strike Life Tributes in Isanti and also one hour prior to the service at the church on Friday. Online condolences can be made at StrikeLifeTributes.com.

Wendy Kay Sperl (Rohwer)

Wendy Kay Sperl (Rohwer), 49 of Cambridge, MN entered into the arms of Jesus in the early hours of Saturday, March 29 at home after a year-long battle with breast cancer.

Wendy was born in Willmar, MN the eldest daughter of Randall and Deborah Rohwer, growing up in Linwood, MN for most of her childhood years and she is a graduate of Forest Lake High School. She was preceded in death by her grandparents, Emery and Joan Mulder of Rushmore, MN, Warren and Ginger Rohwer of Rushmore, MN and her cousin Jada Brunk of LeCrescent, MN. She is survived by her parents, her husband, Raymond J. Sperl Jr. and their four children, Alexa, Jordan, Kiah and Layla, her four sisters, Kendra Shipman (Tanner), Kristi Rohwer (Eric Peffley), Holly Rohwer, and Trisha Aumann (Blaine) along with numerous aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews and cousins!

Wendy’s faith in Jesus was the foundation of her life, she was a humble, loving, caring woman of God who sacrificed so much for her family. Her children describe her as a strong, brave, courageous and passionate woman for the things and people she cared about. She was most joyous when she was at home spending time with her family demonstrating her love for them by teaching them as their home school teacher, having the kids participate in “daily devotions with mom” and building into their faith in Jesus, cooking and baking for them, she would always say her secret ingredient was love that made everything taste so good, she loved to garden, watch the birds outside, tease her husband that she was the country girl who married the city boy, she loved camping along the north shore, shopping and garage saleing with her kids, visiting her grandparents, especially her Grandma Ginger who was so dear to her heart. She appreciated the relationships she had with so many, especially those women and couples that would build into her faith in Jesus and her role as a homemaker and mom. She laughed at how God provided everything she always wanted but not necessarily in the way she expected, for example, she always wanted to be a teacher, which she was able to do as a home school mom and Sunday school teacher and she always wanted to “do hair” which she was able to do part time as a licensed cosmetologist, this also provided an opportunity for her to build relationships with so many women and influence them with the love of Christ. After battling chronic Lyme Disease in 2007 for 18 months she was led to transform her family’s way of life to a more holistic health concept because that is what helped her heal from Lyme Disease. She even eventually became a certified Holistic Health Coach. She had a heart for children and always opened her home to kids from the neighborhood or church so they could experience the love of Jesus. She will be missed greatly by all who knew her and the sadness that we have here on earth will only be replaced with joy when all who loved her join her in heaven.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, April 12 at Dale Evangelical Free Church, 45268 Brunswick Road, Harris, MN. A visitation will be held from 3-7 p.m. Friday, April 11 at Strike Life Tributes ISANTI location, 409 SE Broadway Street, Isanti, MN, and also one hour prior to the service at the church on Saturday. Online condolences can be made at StrikeLifeTributes.com.

Michael R. Thompson

Michael R. Thompson, age 68, passed away on March 15, 2025, after a brave battle with advanced heart failure. Mike will be remembered for his inviting and warm smile, his ability to make the people around him feel safe, and his love for a good commercial. Mike remained steadfast and proud until his last breath and will be deeply missed.

Mike is preceded in death by his beloved life partner, Shirley Mortimer. His parents, Betty and Rayman, his sister Vickie, and brother Steve.

Mike is survived by his step-daughter, Nicole (Mitch) Hackl, step-son Erik (Kelsey) Mortimer, grandkids, Madelyn, Genevieve, Eli, Collin, Will, Emmett, and Enika. His nephews Chris and Justin, his sister Debbie and her children, Colton and Courtney.

The family will be privately celebrating Mike in our own ways. We ask that you do something to celebrate his life and remember the joy he may have brought you as well. Mike’s ashes will be combined with Shirley’s, at his request, and “spread all around” much like the love and joy the both of them had for life and each other.

Talking care for older Minnesotans with University of Minnesota

As Americans live longer and healthier lives, the demand for nursing care is increasing as the capacity to provide that care is shrinking — especially in rural areas. Experts across the University of Minnesota System are working to find creative solutions to ensure Minnesotans can all thrive as we age.

Rajean Moone, faculty director of Long Term Care Administration in the College of Continuing and Professional Studies on the Twin Cities campus and Lacey Loomer, associate professor of Health Care Management in the Labovitz School of Business and Economics on the Duluth campus, answer questions about the future of long-term care in Minnesota.

Q: Why is the demand for nursing care increasing in Minnesota?

Moone: We are in the midst of a demographic shift in our state as we all age and live longer lives. Today a 10-year-old has a 50% chance of living to at least 104 years old! This is an exciting phenomenon that poses both opportunities and challenges. Not only are we living longer, but our families are changing too, with more Minnesotans aging alone. This demographic trend is the primary driver in more people seeking skilled nursing care when they need it, now and over the next several decades.

Loomer: The longer we live the more likely we are to be diagnosed with chronic diseases such as Alzheimer’s disease and related dementias. In Minnesota, 101,000 people are currently diagnosed with Alzheimer’s disease. This population is more likely to need long-term services and support. Many of us do not like to think about the fact that we are getting older and may need services in the future, but 70% of people 65 years and older will require skilled nursing at some point.

Q: Is our workforce ready to meet this demand?

Moone: Unfortunately our senior care sector is experiencing significant challenges in both recruiting and retaining a skilled workforce. The same demographic shift showing an increase in older adults, shows a decrease in working-age Minnesotans. Economic factors such as low wages and poor benefits for nursing home employees contribute to this shortage. The workforce shortage was only exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic, which increased stress and burnout in nursing homes across the state. We are working to develop innovative solutions and programs to support the long-term care workforce.

Loomer: In addition to the patient-facing workforce, we also need to consider all facets of the business community that interact with older adults. Ensuring local businesses and communities are age-friendly is important for ensuring equitable access for our aging population. Although many students do not receive formal education on the impacts of aging, the University of Minnesota Twin Cities and Duluth campuses are age-friendly University campuses that offer new opportunities for our students to learn about ageism and the impact of aging.

Q: How does an aging demographic impact local communities?

Moone: Minnesota is and has always been a great place to live and age well. We offer robust long-term services and support designed to help people age in place and, when needed, receive high-quality long-term care in assisted living communities and nursing homes. At the same time, communities across the state experience different access to services when and where they need them. This could include waiting lists or the need to travel long distances to find a nursing home.

Loomer: Rural counties have 41% fewer nursing home beds than twenty years ago. Due to rapidly aging rural populations, the demand for nursing home beds is predicted to peak sooner in rural communities than urban communities. We need to think broadly about increasing equitable access to long-term services and support. These areas may need more resources than they currently have access to in order to support preferences for aging in place.

Q: What can Minnesotans do to prepare to age well?

Moone: We can plan. Whether it is financial, legal or personal planning, we can work to ensure we have the resources and support needed as we age. If available to us, we can purchase long-term care insurance or explore other financial programs that can help increase choice later in life. We can also explore healthcare-related preferences — wants and needs — and share these with those around us and our healthcare provider. Tools such as a healthcare directive can help a person think about and document future care needs.

Loomer: There are tools to help you with that planning including the Senior LinkAge Line, a free statewide service that is a collaboration between the Minnesota Board on Aging and Minnesota’s area agencies on aging. There are several publicly available consumer report cards such as the Minnesota Nursing Home Report Card and the Minnesota Assisted Living Report Card that aggregate information from health inspections, quality of life surveys and patient assessments to provide easy to understand information on the quality of care facilities across the state.

Q: How is the University of Minnesota working to address the needs of older adults in all parts of the state?

Moone: The University of Minnesota established one of the first long-term care administration programs in the nation back in 1972. Since then, the Twin Cities campus program expanded to include: a series for working professionals who want to advance their careers, a minor for undergraduate students, a certificate, graduate courses, the only university-affiliated assisted living course in the state, and our partnership across campuses. Our goal has not wavered in over 50 years: to educate students to lead complex healthcare organizations and improve the quality of care and life for all of us as we age.

Loomer: At the Labovitz School of Business and Economics on the Duluth campus, we have a robust healthcare management program that is certified by the Association of University Programs in Health Administration.

Our healthcare management program attracts students who go on to work in all areas of healthcare, including hospitals, clinics, insurance and government. We partner with the University’s long-term care administration program so students interested in obtaining licensure to become a nursing home or assisted living administrator can complete fewer courses and graduate with both a general healthcare management bachelor’s degree and a specialized focus in long-term care administration.

Rajean Moone is the faculty director for long-term care administration in the College of Continuing and Professional Studies at the University of Minnesota. He serves as the associate director of policy for the Center for Healthy Aging and Innovation in the School of Public Health. Moone’s experience includes working at the Minnesota state unit on aging and area agencies on aging, and is a member of the Governor’s Council on an Age-Friendly Minnesota.

Lacey Loomer is an associate professor of Health Care Management in the Department of Economics and Health Care Management, Labovitz School of Business and Economics at the University of Minnesota Duluth. Her research focuses on long-term services and supports, rural health care and Medicare payment policy. She enjoys teaching passionate undergraduates in the healthcare management program and is looking forward to watching them excel in healthcare leadership positions after graduation.

divine guidance. Volkers Phillips homeschooled her daughter and knew that once she left for college, she would need to find something else to do. When her daughter left for college two years early Volkers Phillips was left without a plan so she prayed. “I said, I have no idea what you want me to do. What do you want me to do?”

She prayed for six long months before receiving an answer. “One day it just popped into my head, you should open a bookstore. There was some hesitation there because it sounds a bit risky to open any small business, especially a bookstore. I had never thought of doing it before but I trust him, and things just kept falling into place.”

Vokers Phillips leans hard on her faith. “I have so much gratitude to Him and so much trust. He is my top priority in everything. God’s at the top of my priority list and the bookstore is literally ranked number 5; God, health, family, friends, bookstore.”

So when she read in her bible that the sabbath should be observed on Saturday Volkers Phillips made the decision to close her bookstore on Saturdays, which has caused some confusion for people. Even so, Volkers Phillips remains steadfast in her priorities. “My job is to try and listen, and obey. That’s why we’re closed on the Sabbath. We’re closed on Saturdays.”

A place to gather The goal of Dana’s Bookstore is to become what sociologist Ray Oldenburg in his 1989 book The Great Good Place dubbed a “third space” in Isanti. According to Oldenburg, these gathering spaces outside of work or home are vital for community building. “I think a bookstore is a gathering place for the community. A place to meet your friends to talk about books to shop for books to talk to me about books. That’s my goal. That this is where you just can gather. You can just gather and be with your friends and hang out.”

To that end, Volkers Phillips plans to host events throughout the year including bookclubs like those she hosted in Pine City. “A lot of those members are going to come down here and do ours too. We’ll do two book clubs for adults. One is just a general book club and one will focus on fantasy and then in the summertime, we’ll do a book club for elementary students.”

The store will also hold book signings and carry books from local authors. “We did a lot of local author events in Pine City, and we’ll do that here too. We already have an Isanti author on the shelves in our mystery section.”

WELCOMING ARMS

When asked if she had any concerns about moving to Isanti Volkers Phillips shakes her head. “I don’t think that I had one, because as soon as we, as soon as we put something up on Facebook about that it was going to be in Isanti, it was a huge response.”

The community was so eager for the store to open that while she was still stocking the shelves customers were coming in ready to buy.

“I was here working; getting things ready so, let’s open the doors and see if anyone shows up, and they all showed up.” Volkers Phillips laughs at the memory.

The resurgence of independent bookstores in small communities is wonderful but Volkers Phillips knows that She still has to compete with the Amazon. The Danna’s Bookstore website allows its customers to purchase any book and have it delivered to the store at no extra cost. “I made sure that we had a really great website to shop from because there are millions of books out there and we cannot stock all of them but I want to be able to be the resource that helps people to get them if they want them.”

There is also the option to start an audiobook membership from the website through Libro.FM which sends a small portion to Dana’s Bookstore. All of these website extras are a way to bring bookselling back to small businesses. “I think when Amazon started, they focused on selling books at a loss to knock out competition, and half the bookstores in the country closed. I think people realized if we don’t support our local indie bookstores, we don’t have a bookstore, and it’s a nice thing.”

BE CURIOUS

Volker Phillips hopes that people from Isanti and the surrounding areas will drop in and see what Dana’s Bookstore has to offer. She encourages people to browse the stacks and maybe learn something new. “Learning should be lifelong, that should be the goal. You should never not be curious.”

Lowman wins State Triple A award

STAFF REPORT
NEWS@COUNTYSTAR.COM

Cambridge-Isanti High School senior Keagen Lowman has been named the State Class AA Triple A award winner.

The Triple A award is given to four seniors — two boys and two girls, for their achievements in academics, the arts, and athletics. Each school across Minnesota is allowed to name one boy and one girl from its senior class. Those nominees advance to the Region competition against other area schools in either Class AA (larger schools) or Class A (smaller schools). One boy and one girl from each region is named to advance to the state competition.

Athletically, Keagen is a three-sport athlete, competing in cross country, basketball, and tennis. Last season, he and his doubles partner became C-I's first-ever section champions and state qualifiers. For the Arts, he sings baritone in the top choir at CIHS, along with playing the French horn in band. Academically, he carries a 4.37 grade point average, and he is a member of the National Honor Society. He is also a leader with the Link Crew.

Keagen recently committed to playing tennis at Augustana University.

Keagen is the fifth Bluejacket to win the State Triple A award, however he is the first boy to achieve this award. The last CIHS senior to win the state award was Keagen's sister, Ava, who won it

The FalconCam, located inside a nest box in downtown St. Paul, became the DNR's first live webcam 14 years ago. Building tenants at Sentinel Properties provide funding for the live camera stream and the building managers oversee the nest box and camera. The webcam provides an intimate view into the lives of nesting peregrine falcons each year.

Watch the DNR FalconCam to see the falcons engaged in courtship and maintaining their scrape, as they prepare for their nesting season. Last year, this pair laid their first egg on April 11, so an egg could potentially appear around that same time this year.

Stay informed on FalconCam happenings by signing up for updates on the FalconCam webpage. Learn more about peregrine falcons and the Minnesota restoration project on the DNR website (mndnr.gov/eco/nongame/projects/peregrine.html).

For more information on how to live responsibly in bear country visit the Minnesota DNR website (mndnr.gov/livingwith_wildlife/bears) or BearWise website (bearwise.org).

As this disease continues to pose global challenges, the findings from these projects will play a crucial role in shaping future surveillance, response and prevention strategies. The research conducted under this grant will provide key insights to inform best practices for dairy producers, veterinary professionals and policymakers alike.

Minnesota Starwatch for April 2025

BY DEANE MORRISON
MORRIO29@UMN.EDU

In April the iconic stars of Orion and other famous winter constellations drop westward as they begin their annual exit from the evening sky.

In the early part of the month, look to the west at nightfall for the constellation that topped the wintry array of bright stars. This is Auriga, the charioteer, a polygon of stars set off by brilliant Capella. Capella now shines above Jupiter, the brightest object in the evening sky after the moon.

Capella consists of four stars, but only two are big and bright. They orbit each other at a distance of just 67 million miles—nearly the same as Venus’s distance from the sun. Capella is known for exhibiting different colors and rapid twinkling when it’s near the horizon, a phenomenon caused by light from a bright object passing through Earth’s atmosphere.

In the east and south, the spring stars are now moving into prominence. Foremost among them is Leo, the lion. Look high in the south at nightfall for a backward question mark of stars called the Sickle; these stars outline the lion’s head and neck. The point in the question mark is Regulus, Leo’s brightest star. East of the Sickle, a triangle of stars mark the lion’s hindquarters and tail.

April’s full moon arrives at 7:22 p.m. Saturday, the 12th. It rises a little later, close below Spica, the only bright star in the constellation Virgo, the maiden. This is the year’s most distant full moon, so if you’re a habitual full moon watcher, you’ll likely notice that it looks slightly smaller than usual.

The evening of Wednesday, the 30th, April closes with a young moon hanging above Jupiter. This moon will be just three days past perigee, its closest approach to Earth in a cycle, so the crescent will be on the large side.

NOTICE OF DELINQUENT TAXES

DELINQUENT TAX LIST

The following table contains a list of Real Property located in Isanti County on which taxes and penalties became delinquent on January 2, 2025. Interest calculated from January 1, 2025, and county costs must be paid along with the total tax and penalties in order for a parcel of Real Property to be removed from the delinquent tax list.

STATE OF MINNESOTA
COUNTY OF ISANTI

DISTRICT COURT
TENTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

File No. 30-CV-AD-25-4

TO ALL PERSONS WITH A LEGAL INTEREST IN THE PARCELS OF REAL PROPERTY DESCRIBED IN THE FOLLOWING DELINQUENT TAX LIST

A list of real property in Isanti County on which delinquent property taxes and penalties are due has been filed with the District Court Administrator of Isanti County. This list is published to inform all persons that the listed property is subject to forfeiture because of delinquent taxes.

The property owner, taxpayer or other interested person must either pay the tax and penalty, plus interest and costs, or file a written objection with the District Court Administrator. The objection must be filed by April 31, 2025, stating the reason why the tax or penalty is not due on the property. If no objection is filed, a court judgment will be entered against the property for the unpaid tax, penalty, interest and costs.

For property under court judgment, the period of redemption begins on May 12, 2025, and ends three years later. The period of redemption means the time within which taxes must be paid to avoid losing the property through forfeiture.

To avoid forfeiture, taxes on the property must be paid by May 8, 2028.

To determine how much interest and costs must be added to pay the tax in full, contact the Isanti County Auditor-Treasurer Office, Government Center, 555 18th Ave SW, Cambridge, MN 55008-9386. The telephone number is (763) 689-1644. Website www.co.isanti.mn.us.

Highway 65 construction in Ham Lake resumes April 7

BY R. KENT BARNARD
NEWS@COUNTYSTAR.COM

Construction, orange cones and barrels...and lane restrictions will resume Monday, April 7 on Hwy 65 between 147th Ave./Andover Blvd. and Bunker Lake Blvd. in Ham Lake.
As work begins, motorists will find single lane head-to-head traffic on the northbound side of the highway early Monday morning through mid-May.
Traffic will then switch to a single lane in each direction on northbound and southbound Highway
65 until the end of May. During the same time, 143rd Ave. will close and be detoured at Highway 65 until the end of May. During the closure, motorists can follow the signed detour:
·Eastbound 143rd Ave. detour: North on Highway
65 to 147th Ave., east on 147th Ave. and south on Aberdeen Street
·Westbound 143rd Ave. detour: South on Highway
65 to Bunker Lake Blvd, west on Bunker Lake Blvd and north on Lincoln Street
Traffic restrictions will allow crews to complete work on the new southbound Highway 65 bridge crossing Coon Creek just south of 147th Ave./Andover Blvd. Additional work includes guardrail installation, resurfacing, new striping and final landscaping.

This year's work completes a project that began in 2023 to repair, resurface and replace bridges on more than 19 miles of Highway 65 between County Road 10 in Spring Lake Park and 237th Ave. in East Bethel.
All work will be completed, and the road fully reopened before the July 4th holiday weekend.
Drivers who regularly use Highway 65, are encouraged to use an alternate route if possible, such as I-35W or Highway 47 to avoid congestion and delays.
Plan ahead by checking 511, and give yourself additional time to reach your destination.
All construction activities and traffic impacts
