New Hope for Severe Depression

If your depression has not responded to medications or therapy, a new treatment option may benefit you. Treatment resistant depression and severe depression may require a more specialized approach for some people.

Bryan offers two effective treatment options:

- ECT – a specialized procedure that uses electricity to cause chemical changes in the brain and promote growth of new brain cells affected by depression.
- Spravato – a prescription nasal spray that you administer in a clinic setting under the supervision of a healthcare provider.

Talk to your provider about a referral to explore a new way to treat your depression.
