

The Pay to Play Express

Nebraska's Runaway Lobbying Train

The Nebraska Lobby Bounces Back Setting a New Record:

$20,789,181

In their recently submitted annual filings, lobbyists reported record compensation in 2021 for their labors to influence Nebraska's state government. Despite a lingering pandemic, last year's total of $20,789,181 was some $2,000,000 more than that of 2020.

It is not idle chatter when someone says: "if you want to get something done at the capitol, hire a lobbyist." What they are actually saying is it will take money to get something done by state government.

In the report that follows, we'll break down the numbers to show how much money it takes and who provides it. Several things to keep in mind as you read the report:

- Lobbyists are the people and firms that attempt to influence the legislature on a day-to-day basis. Daily access, sweetened by campaign contributions, gifts, entertainment and meals, produces influence.
- Principals are the companies, organizations and individuals who hire the lobbyists to represent and advocate for their interests.
- Nebraska has no limits on lobbyists making campaign contributions. Many thousands of dollars flow from lobbyists to political campaigns. This is also true of principals, who can contribute far more.
- Note that ordinary citizens rarely give gifts, provide meals or entertainment to their senators. The only money they are likely to send a senator is a campaign donation of, in the majority of cases, $20 to $100. While they can ask a senator for a personal meeting, the only time most citizens meet their senator is at campaign events.

REGISTERED LOBBYISTS AND PRINCIPALS

Many nonprofits have unpaid lobbyists, individuals who testify frequently at legislative hearings and meet with senators. These individuals pay a $15 registration fee. The fee for a paid lobbyist is $200.

During the year, the number of lobbyists changes depending on the issues before the legislature. Registrations are added and withdrawn. These are the numbers as of January 21, 2022.

PRINCIPALS' ENTERTAINMENT, GIFTS AND TICKETS

Records in the Clerk of the Legislature's office allow us to see how much principals spend on both the legislative and the executive branches of government. The category identified as "others" is not clearly explained, although a considerable amount is spent there.

Entertainment is a catchall for everything from food and beverages to golf outings and social events. Gifts can be anything from Christmas presents to birthday gifts. Tickets to events is self-explanatory. Most-visible are tickets to University of Nebraska sports events.

A RECORDING ERROR REVEALS MORE ABOUT LEGISLATORS' FILINGS

It is unusual to see gifts to legislators as high as $20,967, as shown in the previous chart. We looked further and discovered that Renewable Fuels of Nebraska had made numerous errors in reporting, including reporting as gifts $9,993 (all of the items listed in the 3rd and 4th quarters) that should have been reported as campaign contributions.

Although filed in error, this report shows exactly what the public should be able to see in all gift reports; a snapshot of how and where lobbying funds are spent: Individual gifts identified complete with a date, price and where they were purchased. Meals identified by restaurant and the price paid. Without the filing error, none of the detail about specific gifts would have been public knowledge. We believe it should always be.

Renewable Fuels Nebraska is a relatively small player in the world of lobbying. In 2021 it reported spending $33,135 on lobbying, which ranks it somewhere in the middle of the pack. Many school districts spend more than Renewable Fuels.

Don't be confused by Compensation Paid and Reimbursement Paid. Individual lobbyists and lobbying firms often work together and compensate each other for their efforts and reimburse each other for expenses.

NOTE: When evaluating the compensation figures, remember that 2019 and 2021 were 90- day sessions and 2020 was a 60-day session. Also, 2021 included a special session for redistricting. On the other hand, it should be noted that masks and social distancing were required during 2020 and 2021. During 2020, six firms showed continued growth and in 2021 seven firms showed dramatic recovery.

NOTE: The reduction in entertainment spending by nearly all principals can be partially explained by the lack of dinners and banquets due to Covid. With the exception of the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce and the University of Nebraska, Covid seemed to be the difference-maker for the top spenders.

ENTITIES THAT SPEND TAX DOLLARS TO GET MORE TAX DOLLARS

Public Schools

Nebraska public schools have a large interest in the legislature. The Nebraska School Funding Formula determines how much money a school district receives from the state. Unfortunately, its workings are a mystery – only a handful of people are able to predict its results. There are just too many variables, and over the years the formula has been changed many times. School districts may well feel the need to employ professional lobbying firms to ensuring that the formula is working for them.

There are 272 school districts in Nebraska, but only 14 can afford to hire a lobbying firm. In the battle for state tax dollars, those 14 must believe they have an advantage, or they wouldn't spend the money. The lobbyist works for those who pay not necessarily for all the children in the state. Most small districts simply become spectators in the battle.

NOTE: Over the years, school population growth and consolidation have increased the demand for funding. Over-reliance on local property taxes makes the need for state aid even more important.

The University of Nebraska

The university ranks among the top ten lobbying entities. In 2021 it reported spending $180,065 on lobbying, including $30,000 to Peetz and Company and $97,200 to former-Senator Heath Mello. The university often indicates that the University Foundation supplements its lobbying activity. But the Nebraska Accountability and Disclosure Commission states that once Foundation money reaches the university general fund, it becomes “public funds” and is no longer Foundation money.

Recode from NADC 02/16/22

Because the university is a public entity that provides gifts and entertainment to public officials, we have better access to knowing who gets what. However, the only items disclosed by the university are tickets to university events. As a result, we can cross check the university tickets with what elected officials report on their annual Statement of Financial Interests forms. (C-1 Form) The C-1, however, only requires the disclosure of gifts over $100. We really have no way of knowing how the $30,685 or the $1,782 were spent. Season tickets to university football games are valued at $840 and two tickets to Garth Brooks are $250.

Cross-checking the filings on tickets may reveal the reliability of senators’ reporting on other filings that we cannot. How many gifts from other principals are either overlooked or just not reported?

The chart below lists senators who accepted university tickets and the value of those tickets. Amounts in italics ($840, for example) indicates those tickets that were not reported by the senator. The total value of all tickets received regardless of reporting is in the column on the right.

The C-1 reports were due on March 1, 2022. Two recipients have not yet filed.

In the past more than 90 additional staff members have been given free $20 tickets to the spring game.

The ticket prices shown here are those reported by the university on their filings with the Accountability and Disclosure Commission. The public is often required to make a donation to the University Foundation in addition to the season ticket price. This, of course, does not apply to senators. In past years, the university has provided $20 parking passes along with special seating. This did not appear on the reports for 2021.

The total value of university tickets given to senators is $18,640. The total value reported by senators is $6,660.

The total amount not reported by senators is $11,980.

AND NOW FOR SOME REAL MONEY:

Campaign Contributions from Political Action Committees (PACs)

PACs are organizations established by corporations, labor unions, and other special-interest groups to raise money from individuals for political causes. For many elected officials and candidates for public office, PACs are the largest source of campaign funds.

In Nebraska, as of March 9, 2021, there were 114 registered PACs. During the 2020 election cycle PACs recorded $4,243,615 in receipts and $3,824,196 in expenditures in Nebraska. We expect these figures to increase during the 2022 cycle.

Organizations that establish PACs may also be connected to principals that employ lobbyists who can direct contributions to candidates favorable to the principal's interests. In fact, in Nebraska 31 PACs list registered lobbyists as their treasurers.

In the 2020 election cycle, the Friends of the University PAC was one of the largest donors to legislative races. It distributed a total of $84,750 over a large number of legislative candidates and sitting senators. The individual contributions ranged from as little as $250 to as much as $5,000. Those receiving $5,000 were:

- Sen. Dorn
- Sen. McDonnell
- Sen. Stinner
- Sen. Vargas
- Sen. Wishart

Although Friends of the University is a large donor to political campaigns it has a limited number of powerful contributors. During the 2020 election cycle, all but $750 of its total $136,750 was provided by just nine contributors:

Contributor	Total Contributions in Calendar Year
Cassling	$25,000
Howard Hawks	$15,000
Henning Brothers LLC	$1,000
John Kotouc	$5,000
James Pillen	$25,000
Walter Scott, Jr.	$25,000
David D. Slosburg	$10,000
Streak, Inc	$5,000
Barbara Weitz	$25,000

In 2019 Friends of the University PAC paid the lobbying firm of Peetz & Co $30,000 for consulting and administrative work.

Nebraska is one of only 13 states with no limits on PAC campaign contributions.

NCSL records

Campaign Contributions from Principals and Corporations

Altria Client Services (Phillip Morris) spent $539,873 on lobbying from 2019 through 2021, more than any other principal. During the same period, it contributed $75,000 to campaigns.

Why so much money? Like most principals, Altria is protecting its interests, which include Marlboro cigarettes, cigars, pipe tobacco, chewing tobacco, e-cigarettes and cannabis. Our legislature is often dealing with legislation that can affect sales and Altria has the lobbying power to be heard.

Altria's annual income amounts to as much as $26.15 billion. Its contributions to our elected officials from 2019 through 2021 range from as little as $500 to $5,000 a pop. They may give multiple contributions to the same person. The two largest recipients of Altria campaign money were:

- Governor Pete Ricketts: Seven contributions totaling $15,500
- The Nebraska Republican Party: Five contributions totaling $20,000

Altria Client Services LLC employs Alston Garth as an in-house lobbyist and the lobbying firms of Jensen, Rogert Associates and Radcliffe and Associates.

In 2012 when Nebraska's Campaign Finance Limitation Act was declared unconstitutional, our state lost all limits on corporate campaign contributions. Currently it is legal to limit corporate contributions, but our legislature has shown no interest in doing so.

Nebraska is one of five states with no limits on corporate campaign contributions.

NCSL records

Campaign Contributions from Lobbyists

Peetz and Company is a lobbying firm that makes contributions to political campaigns. From 2019 through 2021 it contributed $34,029 to Nebraska state campaigns. The two largest recipients of its campaign contributions were:

- Governor Pete Ricketts: Three contributions totaling $2,000
- Speaker Mike Hilgers: Five contributions totaling $2,500

Lobbyists often make candidates and office holders aware of their clients' campaign contributions. Connecting the lobbyist to the client contribution may help to open some doors.

Groups of lobbyists often host fundraisers for a candidate, pooling their resources to pay for food, beverages, facilities and catering. The costs are usually distributed equally among the lobbying firms. Candidates and lobbyists must report each lobbyist share of the expense as an "In-Kind Contribution."

In 2021 Peetz recorded seven such events. One was very specific:

"FOOD AND SPACE FOR EVENT,
IN-KIND SPONSORS FOR EVENT,
12 HOSTS AT 45.72,
1 HOST AT 91.44"

Translated, this means 12 lobbying firms paid $45.72 each and one paid $91.44 for a total of $640.08. The event was to raise campaign funds for Senator Wendy DeBoer. We don't know who attended or how much money was raised. We don't know which lobbyist paid $91.44. All we know is that Peetz was one of the twelve lobbyists.

Nebraska is one of 32 states that have no restrictions on lobbyist contributions or fundraisers.

Lobbyists' In-session Fundraisers in Nebraska

Lobbyist-sponsored in-session fundraisers have become a tradition in Nebraska politics. Lobbyists solicit senators and arrange breakfasts or lunches most often at Billy's Restaurant, just three blocks from the capitol. Legislators are invited for a free meal while lobbyists pay at the door. Traditionally, lobbyists who attend pay $100 at the door and may bring checks from clients. The press and the public is not invited. To ensure that the fundraisers don't conflict with each other, the lobbyists in most cases post the events on the Clerk's Calendar of Events. The list below is taken from that calendar.

It is concerning that lobbying money is changing hands while legislative bills are on the floor and votes are taken within an hour of the fundraiser.

Below is the 2022 list of in-session fundraisers recorded through April

Date	Senator	Meal	Location
Jan. 11	Sen. Lowe	Breakfast	Billy's
Jan. 28	Sen. Aguilar	Breakfast	Billy's
Feb. 2	Sen. Moser	Breakfast	Billy's
Feb. 9	Sen. Brandt	Breakfast	Billy's
Feb. 16	Sen. Hunt	Lunch	Billy's
Feb. 22	Sen. Cavanaugh	Lunch	Billy's

Mar. 24	Sen. Arch	Breakfast	Billy's
Mar. 31	Sen. Albrecht	Breakfast	Billy's
Apr. 7	Sen. Riepe	Lunch	Billy's

Recorded from the Clerk's Office on 03/15/22 There is still plenty of time to schedule more in-session fund raisers.

Nebraska is one of 22 states that have no restriction on in-session fundraisers. Fifteen states allow no campaign contributions during the legislative session. Thirteen states prohibit lobbyist campaign contributions during the legislative session.

THE REVOLVING DOOR

Below is a current list of former state senators who joined the ranks of lobbyists within two years of public service. When we elect individuals, we expect them to serve the public good. As a result, they gain special knowledge and relationships. This background is a public trust. It should not be bought and sold for the benefit of special interests.

Common Cause believes there should be a two-year “cooling-off period” before public officials can become paid lobbyists. The legislature does not agree.

ALEC: AMERICAN LEGISLATIVE EXCHANGE COUNCIL

SourceWatch describes ALEC as follows:

“ALEC is a corporate bill mill. It is not just a lobby or a front group; it is much more powerful than that. Through ALEC, corporations hand state legislators their wish lists to benefit their bottom line. Corporations fund almost all of ALEC’s operations. They pay for a seat on ALEC task forces where corporate lobbyists and special interest reps vote with elected officials to approve ‘model’ bills.” (For more, see the Center for Media and Democracy’s website, ALECexposed.org.)

Over the years more than 25 Nebraska legislators have either attended ALEC meetings, become ALEC members, or served on ALEC committees.

In 2021 Governor Ricketts praised the work of ALEC and was chosen by ALEC as the Governor of the Year. Currently, Senator Linehan is the state chair of ALEC. Former ALEC State Chair Jim Smith serves on the ALEC Corporate Advisory Board.

With the support of Governor Ricketts and Senator Linehan, Jim Smith has been crossing the state promoting the “Blueprint Tax Plan.” The plan proposes a tax shift to a greater reliance on sales taxes. The Open Sky Institute, which monitors Nebraska’s tax policies, sees the plan as “a tax cut for the wealthy that would be paid for by middle- and lower-income Nebraskans.” Renee Fry, Executive Director of Open Sky, describes the plan as a “gut punch to everyday Nebraskans.”

Although Jim Smith trumpets the Blueprint Plan as a home-grown tax shift, it has all the earmarks of ALEC, including similar initiatives and bills in other states.

Current legislative participants in ALEC as reported by SourceWatch are:

- Sen. Thomas Brewer, Attended 2019 ALEC Annual Meeting
- Sen. Robert Clements, Attended 2019 ALEC Annual Meeting
- Sen. Curtis (Curt) Friesen, registered member. Attended 2019 ALEC Annual Meeting
- Sen. Brett Lindstrom, registered member
- Sen. Lou Linehan, registered member, State Chair, Attended 2019 ALEC Annual Meeting
- Sen. John Lowe, Attended 2019 ALEC Annual Meeting
- Sen. Dave Murman, Attended 2019 ALEC Annual Meeting
- Sen. John Stinne, registered member

Unreported by SourceWatch were attendance at ALEC events by Sen. Joni Albrecht in 2018 and Sen. Ben Hansen in 2021.

When Senator Jim Smith was the State Chair of ALEC he claimed 50% of the Nebraska Senators were ALEC members but he refused to list the names.

ALEC has always tried to keep the state memberships secret.

CONCLUSION

This report provides considerable financial information about the workings of Nebraska's lobby. Yet, there is so much more that we don't know. Neither lobbyists nor principals are required to disclose how much entertainment money was spent on specific senators. Only the erroneous filing by Renewable Fuels provided a glimpse behind this veil.

The values of gifts are left to the estimate of the legislators who do not report specific amounts but use only general categories: A - $100 to $200, B - $200 to $500, C - $500 to $1,000 or more. Gift trips to conventions often far exceed $1,000 since they can include travel, lodging, food, and beverages as well as a registration fee.

With so many senators failing to report $840 season tickets from the University of Nebraska, the only gifts we can cross-check, one must wonder how much else is unreported.

And when it comes to political campaign contributions, Nebraska is truly the wild west. In 2012, when Nebraska's Campaign Finance Limitation Act (CFLA) was declared unconstitutional, we lost all control. Nebraska has no contribution limits on PACs, corporations, principals, lobbyists, or even individuals. When Governor Ricketts wants to support a candidate or oppose a ballot issue, he can contribute $10,000 or $25,000 or more without batting an eye.

One has to wonder how important that $20 contribution from the average citizen really is to our state officials.

In the 2018 election cycle, 48 candidates spent $6,489,464 running for 24 unicameral seats that pay $12,000 per year.

As we have noted, the revolving door remains open and the secret works of ALEC continue to be an unsettling mystery for our democracy.
