

Forecast for Thursday, August 6, 2026

Bands separate high temperature zones for the day.

NATIONAL SUMMARY: A warm and humid air mass will surge into the eastern United States today, bringing increased thunderstorm activity from Missouri to New York. Afternoon storms will also rumble in the Southeast. A growing heat dome west of the Rocky Mountains will support above-average temperatures and dry weather.

©2026 AccuWeather, Inc.