

Forecast for Sunday, June 7, 2026

Lines separate high temperature zones for the day.

NATIONAL SUMMARY: Several different parts of the United States will have showers and thunderstorms tomorrow. Storms will rumble from the Plains into portions of the Southeast and the mid-Atlantic. Most of the West Coast will remain dry, as well as the interior Southwest. It will be humid across portions of the Plains, Midwest and the Great Lakes.

©2026 AccuWeather, Inc.