

Forecast for Friday, August 14, 2026

Bands separate high temperature zones for the day.

NATIONAL SUMMARY: Two corridors of heavy thunderstorms will be capable of producing damaging winds, hail and flash flooding tomorrow. The first area will be from New Mexico to Wyoming, with the second area extending from Iowa to Indiana. Spotty thunderstorms will dot the rest of the Rockies and Southeast. It will be hot in Texas and dry elsewhere.

©2026 AccuWeather, Inc.