Description of the Work:

The project consists of the construction of 524-linear feet of mechanically stabilized earth (MSE) retaining wall, along the Old Yellowstone Trail South, approximately 42 miles south of Livingston, Montana. Improvements consist of, but are not limited to, temporary shoring or slope stabilization of existing slope, excavation and preparation of subgrade, assembly and placement of gabion wall toe, assembly and placement of gravel drain with 3-inch Perforated PVC pipe, placement of embankment and reinforced fill, assembly and placement of geogrid and welded wire facing, and construction of roadway and guardrail after the new wall is complete.

The contract documents consist of the Project Manual which may be obtained at the office of Stahly Engineering & Associates, 851 Bridger Drive, Suite 1, Bozeman, Montana, as described in Article 2.01 of Instructions to Bidders. A $30 fee is required per set, which is not refundable.

In addition, the Project Manual may also be examined at the following locations:
