CITY OF BURLEY

THE BEST PLACE TO LIVE, WORK AND PLAY

Nestled in a bend along the Snake River midway between the metropolitan areas of Boise and Salt Lake City, Burley provides the same oasis for travelers today as it did for the wagons travelling the Oregon and California trails in the mid-1800s. The city of Burley, founded in 1905, has a rich history. Its location, next to the river in the shadows of the mountains, has been a strategic place for centuries.

With a population just over 10,000, Burley is the county seat for Cassia. This picturesque community offers countless opportunities for recreation and entertainment. The wonderful Robert Leathers-designed playground at Storybook Park, was built by more than 1,000 volunteers. This park, only the second of its kind in all of Idaho, was truly a community project.

Agriculture is the life blood of Burley. The combination of good soil, favorable topography, an average irrigation season of about 200 days, and available irrigation water makes the surrounding lands highly productive. Burley is a farm, marketing and distribution center.

Burley enjoys outdoor activities year round. In the summer the beautiful Snake River is a haven for boaters and personal water craft. The mountains surrounding Burley are full of intense mountain bike and hiking trails, pristine lakes and hidden hot springs. Nearby City of Rocks offers world-class rock climbing with camping available as well. In the winter, Pomerelle Ski Resort offers 24 amazing runs. There are also many perfect getaways for snowmobiling and four-wheeling.

Burley offers many great amenities and has wonderful recreation opportunities in the area surrounding the city.

Burley offers a business friendly environment and welcoming and friendly atmosphere.

CASSIA COUNTY

ALBION

Nestled in the foothills along State Highway 77 southeast of Burley, Albion is the gateway to recreational areas in the mountains of southern Cassia County, including Mt. Harrison, Pomerelle Mountain Resort and the City of Rocks National Reserve. Albion was the original county seat of Cassia County and is rich with both history and natural beauty. On the historic campus of what once was the Albion State Normal School from 1893 to 1951, you will find a museum with memorabilia from the college as well as the famous trial of Diamondfield Jack. This museum is open on Saturdays from mid-May through mid-September or by appointment. The remainder of the campus - Campus Grove, is used for events, reunions and boasts the largest haunted mansion in Idaho. A popular tourist destination, Albion has a service station with mini-market, a motel, a bed-and-breakfast and restaurant that features a full bar.

DECLO

East of Burley, at the junction of State Highways 77 and 81, is the city of Declo, originally known as Marshfield. A thriving agricultural settlement, Declo began in the early 1900's when the Minidoka Dam began providing irrigation water. Declo is famous for its agriculture, with farms producing sugar beets, beans, grains and the famous "Idaho Potato." Be sure to visit Declo during the Declo Day Celebration on the second Saturday in July. Festivities kick off with a fun run followed by the pancake breakfast, a parade and continue throughout the day with events at Kiwanis Park on Main Street.

MALTA

Southeast of Declo near Raft River is the small city of Malta. The settlement started in about 1868, when cattlemen were drawn to the area because of the lush grass growing along Raft River. Gas, convenience items and meals are available in Malta. East of Malta, about 20 miles on Forest Road, is Sublett, popular for its fishing and camping recreation.

OAKLEY

Located on State Highway 27 between Burley and the City of Rocks, the quaint town of Oakley is the western gateway to the City of Rocks. Oakley has been designated a National Historical District because of its turn-of-the-century architecture. The streets are dotted with Victorian homes and other buildings, including the renovated Howells Opera House, where The Oakley Valley Arts Council stages theatrical productions. The Oakley Museum, on Main Street, is open May through Labor Day. The Oakley Dam creates Goosecreek Reservoir, a great place for fishing and boating. When the dam was constructed between 1909 and 1912 it was the largest earth-filled dam in the world. Oakley is also known for its Oakley stone, quarried from the South Hills and shipped worldwide. The town has access to camping, fishing and hunting within an hour's drive. Oakley is truly "a town for all seasons."

ALMO + ELBA

Cache Peak rises above the small rural communities of Almo and Elba. The picturesque valleys were settled in the 1870's and many families still operate the original family ranches and farms. Even before these valleys were settled, pioneers traveling the California Trail knew of this region. Its unique granite rock formations were significant landmarks along the trail and still bear messages left by those early travelers. The City of Rocks National Reserve and the Castle Rocks State Park were created to preserve the history and natural beauty of the area.

The gateway to Lake Walcott and the Minidoka Wildlife Refuge

Not every community has a park in the middle of its business district, but Rupert offers just such an attraction for shoppers and their families with the historic Rupert Square. The square features a gazebo, fountain, and playground.

July is a very busy month in Rupert, beginning with the Rupert Fourth of July Celebration. Residents celebrate for days with events including food, rodeos, carnivals, live concerts, a parade, and fireworks.

A Christmas in July Breakfast is held each year to raise money to refurbish and replace the spectacular holiday decorations that adorn the square during the holiday season and to help pay for the wonderful fireworks.

The day after Thanksgiving, Santa Claus flips the switch on the lights in the square which is followed by a wonderful firework display. There is also a chili feed that evening while Santa visits with youngsters. Caring and Sharing, a tree festival, is held in the Rupert Civic Center on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday of Thanksgiving weekend.

Shoppers on and around the square can find a variety of restaurants and specialty shops, including a quilting shop, bookstore, and flower shop. Many of the shops are located in historic buildings listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The Drift Inn and Restaurant has restored their beautiful building to include a small boutique hotel, a lounge, and a fine dining establishment. Tours of the buildings are offered during community celebrations or by appointment.

A building of particular note is the Wilson Theatre, which has seen a major transformation that began in January 2000. Built in 1920, the theatre fell into disrepair after closing in the mid-1980s and was purchased by the city in late 1999.

The Renaissance Arts Center Inc. was created to pursue restoration. The theatre has completed renovations and restored to its original magnificence. This historic theatre remains the cornerstone of Rupert. The building is on the National Register of Historic Places and features a convention/community center on the second floor. Four offices are located on the southwest side. Tours and meeting space are available by calling 208-436-2787.

Besides community events, history and shopping, Rupert offers many recreational opportunities for visitors. Thanks to the work of various service groups, there are miles of paths for walkers, joggers, bicyclists, and in-line skating enthusiasts.

MINIDOKA COUNTY

ACEQUIA

Located northeast of Rupert along State Highway 24, the city of Acequia was originally known as Scherrer. The name changed to Acequia in 1907. Acequia started in 1904 as a railroad siding for unloading settlers' livestock, machinery and supplies when land was opened up as part of the Minidoka Irrigation Project. There are no services available, but you will pass close to Acequia when traveling to Lake Walcott State Park and Minidoka Dam.

HEYBURN

Located on the north shore of the Snake River, the city of Heyburn is accessed by Interstate 84 Exit 211. The Mini-Cassia Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Center is housed in Heyburn and the staff can help direct visitors to many of the area's interesting sights and attractions. The visitors' center has lots of maps, brochures and other information for travelers. Adjoining the visitors' center is Riverside Park, featuring an amphitheater, full-service RV sites, a day park, boat docks and a walking path along the river. Nearby Emerald Lake offers activities such as swimming, picnicking, fishing and nonmotorized boating. To get to Emerald Lake take Interstate 84, Exit 208 and head north on Highway 27. At 300 S. turn right and go two miles to the second stop sign and turn right.

MINIDOKA

Minidoka County's oldest community, the city of Minidoka, is a small town about 13 miles northeast of Rupert on State Highway 24. The city was established in 1884 as a mainline railroad siding. There is one restaurant in Minidoka. The town has several parks, playgrounds, a baseball field, picnic tables and benches. Minidoka is the southern entrance to the Great Rift area, with access roads for anyone who likes to go on desert explorations or ride recreational vehicles. Minidoka is a small, friendly community and welcomes visitors.

PAUL

The city of Paul is located north of Burley and west of Rupert at the junction of State Highways 27 and 25. It was laid out by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation as part of the Minidoka Irrigation project. The town is the hub of a vast farming area to the north and offers full services, groceries and restaurants and a new city park that features a snowtubing hill and has a great jet water fountain splash park.

BURLEY — A constant across businesses in Idaho is the demand for workers.

Local educators believe one solution comes from a collaboration between employers, educators, parents and students.

A panel of educators from the Mini-Cassia area discussed apprenticeship programs and career technical education at the quarterly Business Plus meeting Thursday. Debbie Critchfield, Superintendent of Public Instruction moderated the event.

“I don’t think students are really aware what jobs exist in our communities,” said Chet Jeppesen, workforce consultant with the Idaho Department of Labor. “When we talk about manufacturing all they see is a box over there with steam coming out the top. They don’t know what’s happening inside of it.”

Twelve years ago, Jeppesen started developing Mini-Cassia’s Student to Registered Apprentice Program (STRAP). The program focuses on helping students find employment opportunities in manufacturing and food processing.

“They don’t realize the high pay, they don’t realize the technology, they don’t realize all the things, whether it be human resources, clerical, production, manufacturing, they don’t understand what’s going on inside that facility,” he said.

The program launched in November 2017 and has been highly successful. Students have gone on to full-time employment with companies like High Desert Milk and McCain Foods.

Employers who use an apprenticeship program have on average a 90% retention rate, said Wendi Secrist, executive director of the Idaho Workforce Council.

In 2021, 103 students in Cassia County School District earned more than 320 industry credentials before they graduated, said Curtis Richins, director of the Cassia Regional Technical Center and the district’s administrator for career and technical education.

AGRICULTURE

THE HEART OF IDAHO AGRICULTURE

TIMES-NEWS

Between Minidoka and Cassia counties, there are about 900,000 acres of farmland (the state of Rhode Island covers 776,000 acres). This makes Mini-Cassia the agricultural heart of the Magic Valley.

If you look at Mini-Cassia by satellite in summer, you’ll see mile after mile of green, irrigated farmland, surrounded on its edges by gray-brown desert. Much of that land is irrigated by massive pivots — high-tech sprinkler systems — that water a massive circle of ground. Every five years, the U.S. Department of Agriculture does a comprehensive agricultural census. In 2020, the year of the most recent census, Cassia County, led all counties in Idaho with $927 million in ag sales.

Cassia County is one of the top potato producing counties in Idaho, and home to one of the largest french fry processing plants in the country. Minidoka County leads the state in sugar beet production, and the city of Paul is home to America’s largest sugar beet processing facility.

The region also produces huge amounts of alfalfa, wheat, barley, corn, beans and peas.

Mini-Cassia, like most of the Magic Valley, is a huge dairy producing region. The Magic Valley accounts for 70% of Idaho’s dairy output. Idaho is behind only California and Wisconsin in dairy production.

Some of the region’s barley heads to dairies, but much of it ends up being used by major beverage companies to brew beer.

Beans grown here are often used for seed by farmers in other states. That’s because the region’s soils are mostly disease-free.

Now, a new crop is available to Mini-Cassia farmers to produce:

industrial hemp.

Industrial hemp is grown for its fiber and seeds. THC, the psychoactive compound in cannabis is found in the flower, not the seeds or stalks.

Industrial hemp fiber can be used for a wide variety of products including textiles, clothing, building materials and paper. Hemp seeds are rich in protein, fiber, and healthy fatty acids including omega-3s and omega-6s.

SNAKE RIVER QUENCHES RECREATIONISTS' THIRST

TIMES-NEWS

The Burley greenbelt walking path follows the Snake River.

LAURIE WELCH

The winding Snake River cuts a wide swath through Minidoka and Cassia counties — dividing and connecting the two, while quenching the thirst of area recreationalists and the area's agricultural-based economy.

The river, replenished each year by the melting mountain snowpack, draws residents and visitors alike to play and relax on its swift currents and alongside its banks.

In the summer, the river draws boaters, wakeboarders and skiers along with kayakers and fishermen.

About 12 miles northeast of Rupert, Lake Walcott and Minidoka Dam serve as the headwaters for the area's irrigation districts — and it is a mecca for recreationalists.

Entrance to the Lake Walcott State Park costs $7 per vehicle and is well worth the small fee.

Lake Walcott State Park is canopied with mature trees and is wrapped by the 24,000-acre Minidoka National Wildlife Refuge.

There are covered and uncovered picnic areas and a free 18-hole disc golf course. Guests can borrow Frisbees from the visitor's center.

The refuge's abundant birds can often be spotted inside the park along with other wildlife, Ryan Buffington, park manager said.

There is a basketball court, playground and horseshoe courts, plus more than 2 1/2 miles of paved walking and bike trails.

There are also ADA handicap accessible areas, with spotting scopes on the lake and below the dam on the rapids.

There are boat ramps and docks, a designated swimming area and kayak ramps.

Life jacket loaner stations are also available.

TIMES-NEWS

A wakeboarder performs a backflip as she competes in the Women's Open class during the 20th annual Wake in the Snake wakeboarding competition at the River's Edge Golf Course in Burley, Idaho.

Visitors can fish for trout, bluegill, perch, large and small-mouth bass, perch and crappie from boat or from shore and many visitors also try their hand at ice-fishing during the winter.

The park has 22 RV camping sites with electrical and water hookups and 15 tent camping sites along with two cabins. There are centrally located restrooms, picnic pavilion and shower house.

All park reservations are made online at www.parksandrecreation.idaho.gov.

As the river continues west the Burley Golf Course Marina calls to anglers and people who want to kayak, water ski or wakeboard from the boat ramps and docks.

The manicured marina has covered picnic pavilions, restrooms and the entrance to the Burley greenbelt paved walking path, which follows the river to Scholer Park. Walkers and joggers can cross the Snake River at the Burley-Heyburn Bridge and continue their walk at Heyburn's Riverside RV Park and Arboretum, which has a public walking path that runs along the opposite side of the river and under a covered bridge.

The grass-covered Riverside Park has a playground, covered picnic pavilions and an amphitheater, which hosts concerts featuring local talent during the summer months.

Other Burley public access to the river can be found on the southwest side of the Burley Heyburn Bridge and south and north of the Overland Bridge.

In Burley, there are a couple restaurants that are favorites with locals that feature riverside dining, complete with boat dock access, including Morey's Steakhouse, northeast of the overland bridge; Portside Pizza and Boat-house, west of Burley.

As the Snake River prepares to exit Cassia County, the terrain grows more rugged.

The Milner Recreational Area and Milner Dam, which encompasses parts of Cassia, Jerome and Twin Falls counties, starts about nine miles west of Burley.

Visitors can learn about the area's volcanic past, the native people who once roamed the plains, and the Oregon Trail pioneers who left their mark via wagon ruts etched into the earth.

The area's basalt volcanic cliffs, sagebrush and grasslands are a year-round haven for birds and mule deer.

There are four miles of Snake River shoreline.

Fishing by boat or from shore for trout, bass, perch, catfish and carp is popular.

Visitors can also camp, visit an interpretive kiosk or walk alongside the Oregon Trail wagon ruts.

MYCHEL MATTHEWS

History abounds in Mini-Cassia and residents take pride in showing off their historical museums. Docents are looking forward to welcoming back visitors at the many museums in the area after two years of practicing pandemic protocols.

The tiny town of Albion has some of the deepest roots in the Magic Valley, dating back to cattlemen in the 1860s, back when Owyhee County engulfed most of southern Idaho. Cassia County was created in 1879 from the eastern half of Owyhee County and included what is now Twin Falls County.

Albion was the seat of Cassia County for 40 years — from 1879 until 1919 — and saw the county through infamous murders, trials and confessions in the late 19th century, and the development of the Twin Falls irrigation system in the early 20th century. Oakley, a pre-irrigation-era Mormon settlement close to the Utah border, also has an active historical society and museum.

A large photo in the Oakley Valley Historical Museum shows the family of Mormon pioneer Hector C. Haight, including sons David B. Haight — an elder in The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, father-in-law of billionaire philanthropist Jon Huntsman and grandfather of Utah Gov. Jon Huntsman Jr. — and Horton Granville Haight, husband of I.B. Perrine's daughter Stella.

The Haight/Perrine union was the "marriage of the century," joining the "royal families" of Oakley and Twin Falls, the Oakley Valley Historical Association former volunteer Robert Fehlman told the Times-News a few years ago.

At the museum, be sure to look for these:

- An 1898 wire fencer — the Kitselman Duplex Automatic Ball Bearing Woven Wire Fence Machine — that weaves wire into a fence on site. A three-man crew could construct a mile of fencing across hilly terrain in five days.
- An extensive collection of Ice Age mammal fossils found near Acequia.
- A massive firearms collection donated by resident Wayne Birch.

Irrigation projects usher in new towns

Burley, an irrigation town 20 miles north of Oakley, and Rupert, Burley's neighbor across the Snake River, became the seats of Cassia and Minidoka counties. Farmland in the combined area drinks from the Bureau of Reclamation's 1906 Minidoka Dam project.

The Cassia County Historical Museum reflects the struggles and triumphs of those on the land, from American Indians to cowboys and sheepmen, to farmers and businessmen.

Historic outbuildings — a log store, a log schoolhouse and a one-room, sod-roofed log cabin built by Oakley pioneer Andrew Gustave Larson — were moved to the museum grounds and are used to show what life was like in 19th-century southern Idaho.

The museum building is chock full of interpretive displays showcasing pioneers and more recent dignitaries. The Cassia County museum complex also has a metal outbuilding with several rooms full of old firetrucks, covered wagons and Basque sheep camps and another dedicated to World War II veterans.

The Minidoka County Historical Museum is the only historical museum in the Magic Valley that — under normal circumstances — is open year-round.

The museum complex also holds an impressive expanse of artifacts from the area, including American Indian tools, World War II military memorabilia and more than a century of digitized local newspapers. The site also houses the county seat's original jail cell.

A Union Pacific caboose and rail cars sit near Rupert's 1906 railroad depot, which was moved to the museum site in 1985. The town was named after a man named Rupert who hooked the mailbag from the train as it went by.

"So people 'went to Rupert' to get their mail," volunteer Gary Schorzman once told the Times-News. "If he missed it, everyone was mad."

At the museum, be sure to look for these:

- The luxury Pullman rail car that once displayed what was said to be the mummy of John Wilkes Booth. William Evans, "Carnival King of the Southwest," paid a $40,000 bond, plus a fee of more than $2,000 a year, to display the mummy in what he called the greatest freak-animal show in the country.
- A 1903 photo of Anna Hansen acting in a play presented by the Albion Normal School. Hansen, daughter of Swedish pioneer John Hansen, later married surveyor John E. Hayes, who laid out many of the towns and canal systems in the area. Anna Hayes became influential in the Magic Valley, and the Shoshone Falls View Point is dedicated to her.
- A golden eagle electrocuted when a rabbit it carried in its talons touched a power line as it flew over. The museum went through the proper channels in order to have it stuffed and displayed in the World War II room.

It brings boaters, paddlers, wildlife and the most stunning sunsets. Whether you are enjoying the scenery from the sidelines or speeding along its glassy waters, there is something special about the Snake River in this part of Southern Idaho. Framed by the Albion Mountains and Mt. Harrison, the lush green riverbanks are just a small testament to the magic these waters bring the valley. The Great Snake River not only provides endless beauty and recreation, but flows through the farms and brings life to our fields.

In summer, the Snake River is a boater's paradise. There are several easy boat launches, parks and docks right in town. These communities are built on the river and river play is a way of life. You can find fishing, wakeboarding, surfing, waterskiing or just plain floating the river.

One of the most popular spots for boating access is the River Front Park in Burley. It is located on the south side of the river and shares a large parking lot with the River's Edge Golf Course. It has three wide ramps and over 1000 feet of docks. Plus, lush green grass and picnicking areas. It is a hot spot for water enthusiasts and the ramps are typically bustling.

From there, head northwest to glide under bridges and boat close to town. Or keep going downriver, out as far as Milner Dam. If you head southeast, you'll keep Mt Harrison and the Albion Mountains in view while playing in wide open waters. Upriver continues past Rupert and to Lake Walcott State Park. Both directions are a favorite spot for water lovers to play and bring all of their toys. You'll see everything from Powerboats and jet skis to bass boats and paddle crafts. We've even spotted a few jet boards!

There are more opportunities to access the Snake River around Freedom Park and Marina, Lex Kunau Park, Burley Snake River RV Park in town and more remote spots as far as Milner Dam and upriver to Lake Walcott. There are also opportunities to rent boats and kayaks in Heyburn. The Riverside Park has a beautiful trail that winds through a riverfront arboretum and is the location of Idaho Water Sports rental facility. Call ahead to make sure they have openings. They are a full-service boat dealer and can custom package a pontoon, paddle board or equipment rentals.

To take in the true beauty of the Snake River, find a spot on the river to watch the sun go down. Southern Idaho is legendary for their orange and fiery red sunsets and the best way to take them in is with a reflection on the smooth river water. Stay out a little later after an endlessly fun wakesurfing day or make a reservation for dinner on a riverside patio. Dinner cruises are also available through Morey's Steakhouse, but you'll need to call ahead for arrangements.

Once you explore the wide open, uncrowded waters of the Snake River, we'll guess you'll want to stay forever. Visit during all four seasons too. Cold weather fishing and bow fishing at Lake Walcott offer opportunities to get on the water anytime. Find bass, monster carp, crappie and more for fishing enthusiasts.

No matter what your plans are in the area, make sure to take some time to spend next to the Great Snake River. There are plenty of places up and down the river to find water access that fits your needs. Give the Mini-Cassia Visitor Center a call for more details and information.

HEADED TO CITY OF ROCKS

Get ready to travel through history and stand in awe of a silent city. One of Idaho's most unique road trip adventures starts in Heyburn off of Exit 216, makes a loop through historic towns, mountains and around a state & national park. From the Mini-Cassia Visitor Center, head south on Hwy 77 to the small town of Declo. Be sure to ask about an audio tour available at the visitor center before heading out. Dr. Ken Turner (known as Dr. History) breaks down each stop, any related history and fun facts.

Once you're arrived in Declo, stop in at the Sinclair Country Store. There you can fill up on gas, munchies and the latest agriculture news. The surrounding farms produce world-renowned sugar beets, beans, grains and the “Famous Idaho Potato.” If you time it right Declo Days is the second weekend in July with events Friday & Saturday. You won’t want to miss this classic event filled with fun.

Continue heading south along HWY 77 and up the grade to Albion. The gateway to pristine recreational areas and the Albion Mountains. The City of Albion was the original county seat and is rich in history – including the historic Albion Campus. Students attended college there from 1893 to 1951. There is a museum filled with memorabilia and rooms to stay in for a mountain side retreat, but be warned – in October it is transformed into the Pacific Northwest’s largest indoor/outdoor haunted attraction.

From there, the road leads toward Elba & Almo. Or take a quick detour and turn towards Pomerelle Mountain Resort. This family-owned resort offers awesome skiing and snowboarding as well as excellent, snowmobiling and snowshoeing access. In the summer, you can find a disc golf course and mountain biking. Up the mountain a short distance is Lake Cleveland and the Mt Harrison Lookout. The lookout features views so vast, you can see into Utah and Nevada. Find trails of all types as well as camping and backpacking opportunities.

Back on Hwy 77, continue on to City of Rocks and Castle Rocks. Almo is your final stop before entering the park. The historic town is right out of western movie and set with a stunning backdrop. Visit the Tracy’s General Store for a homemade lunch or soak in the all natural waters of Durfee Hot Springs.

Services are limited, but the town comes to life in the warmer months and more amenities are available.

Ready to explore the amazing rock formations? Stop in at the Visitor Center to get advice on exploring the parks and their unique granite hoodoos, arches and more. This place is so magical travelers along the California trail stood in wonder at the silent city leaving their names as a register on the rocks. Today, it is a mecca for rock climbers, wildlife lovers and recreationalists.

Round out your loop drive through City of Rocks National Reserve to the historic town of Oakley. Oakley is designated a National Historic District with one of the oldest homesteads in Idaho. There are numerous Victorian style homes and buildings, including the renovated Howells Opera House—home to the Oakley Valley Arts Council and theatrical productions. The Oakley Museum on Main is open May through Labor Day. Learn about pioneers from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints and the lasting impression they made on this charming town. Oakley is also a gateway to even more recreation, including Oakley Reservoir, the South Hills and Teepee Rocks.

Don’t leave without dining at the Farmer’s Corner. We recommend the chicken malibu sandwich with one of their delicious, real ice cream shakes. Also, make sure to ask for fry sauce — you won’t regret it!

From Oakley, it is an easy and picturesque drive through the valley and back to I-84.

THE HEARTBEAT OF THE CITY

The people of Southern Idaho are unlike any you’ll meet in the Northwest. Imagine mid-western friendliness mixed with southern hospitality. It’s easy to see why Idaho is one of the fastest growing states in the US. This can also be seen in our communities, events and downtowns.

One step into Rupert’s Downtown Square and you’ll feel right at home. Established in 1906 as the city’s water source, the square quickly grew into a hub. Today, you’ll find unique shops, local cuisine and a stunning historic theatre. The square is nostalgic and beautiful, the true heart of their community. You’ll also find the largest quilt shop this side of the Mississippi and finger steaks to die for (an Idaho invention).

The Rupert Square also keeps alive with activity. Visitors will discover a week long 4th of July Celebration complete with a parade, live music and fireworks. As well as a week long Christmas Celebration after Thanksgiving. These feature events are mixed in with a folk festival, speedboat showcase, pumpkin festival, princess tea parties and more. The Historic Wilson Theatre casts plays, performances and hosts events as well. Rupert really knows how to bring their community together.

The City of Burley and Heyburn are going through beautification projects, bringing life to their downtowns and parks. You'll find an amazing piano bar and restaurant downtown Burley as well as some great coffee/wine shops and retail. Burley also has quite a saucy past and the history is rich in agriculture and downtown secrets. Burley and Rupert's Museums are a great place to learn about the area's founding and see historical items from the earliest settlers.

PARKS, ATTRACTIONS AND FUN!

Lake Walcott State Park is a hidden gem, located just northeast of Rupert. The rolling lava rock ends in an oasis of grass, trees and the Lake Walcott Reservoir. It is designated as a refuge for wildlife and birds. Visitors can see hundreds of American White Pelicans during the warmer months. You can also camp, hike, launch at their boat ramps and docks, stay in a cabin or play their top rated disc golf course. The very large, mature trees bring peace and variety to the course. It's a favorite for locals and visitors.

Heyburn's spectacular Riverside Park on the north side of the Snake River not only has paved trails and an arboretum, but a full hookup RV park. The park has amazing views of the Snake River and sits adjacent to the Mini-Cassia Visitor Center and Gossner's Cheese. Pop across the street to their chalet to taste ice cream, cheese curds or a full meal upstairs at the bistro. Head south to explore the Oakley Dam and Goosecreek Reservoir, a great place for fishing and boating. When the dam was constructed in 1909 it was the largest earth-filled dam in the world. Easy access to camping, fishing and hunting make these waters a true gateway to recreation. In the summer, follow Forest Service Road 533 into the hills to see Teepee Rocks, camp, ATV and enjoy Trapper Creek.

The Burley Convention Center is host to numerous events and attracts travelers from all over. They are the experts at hospitality and will cater to your every need. Burley, Rupert, Heyburn, Paul, Declo, Albion, Elba and Almo are full of wonder and a balanced lifestyle of agriculture and outdoor recreation. Whether you find solace on a mountain top, exhilaration on a boat or spirit in entertainment, these communities will embrace your story.

For the Times-News

ALMO — There are endless possibilities when it comes to summertime activities in Mini-Cassia.

Whether you are looking to travel just a few miles out of town for a quick getaway or camp for a week in the back-country; there is something for every type of adventurer looking to unwind in Southern Idaho.

WHERE CAN I HIKE?

Looking for an area that offers several outdoor opportunities? Look no further than Castle Rocks State Park and City of Rocks National Reserve in Almo. Superintendent Wallace Keck said the two locations are popular in the summer because of two factors: the traditional summer vacation season and citizens seeking out their parks for recreation.

Hiking is one of the most popular activities you can do and there are several trails to choose from at Castle Rocks State Park and City of Rocks National Reserve.

While rock climbing might come to mind first, Keck said hiking is one of the most popular recreational activities.

"Even rock climbers have to hike to get to many of the climbing areas," he said.

HOW MANY MILES OF TRAILS ARE THERE?

Park staff maintains about 22 miles of trails. The park spends about $25,000 a year maintaining trails and nearly all of the trails are multiple-use — meaning they are open to equestrians, bikers and pedestrians.

"There are some exceptions, so it is important for the trail user to check park maps before going," Keck said.

City of Rocks protects remnants of the historic California Trail, so visitors can literally walk in the footsteps of history.

"Castle Rocks State Park is popular with hikers, climbers, and equestrians," he said. "Its scenery is more intimate and approachable than City of Rocks."

WHAT IF I'M HIKING WITH SMALL CHILDREN?

Keck said they encourage families with children to consider the Creekside Towers Trail in City of Rocks and the Backyard Boulders Trail in Castle Rocks. Both of these are fairly level and relatively safe for beginners. The park offers self-guided brochures for each of these trails.

WHAT IF I'M AN EXPERIENCED HIKER?

Longer trails for more experienced hikers include the nearly seven-mile North Fork Circle Creek trail and the trail to 8,867-foot Graham Peak. In Castle Rocks State Park, Keck said experienced hikers will enjoy the four-mile Castle Rocks Trail that takes the hiker into BLM and forest lands and returns back to the state park.

ARE BIKES ALLOWED?

On some trails, yes. Castle Rocks Trail in Castle Rocks State Park is a 5-mile intermediate-rated loop that shares usage with hikers. At the northern end of the trail, you can see Cache Peak rising up high from the valley floor. The trail starts just west of the Lodge at Castle Rock Ranch and wanders north across the meadow before climbing towards Cache Peak. The downhill starts approximately 2.5 miles into the ride and is fast and sandy, leading you back a little further west of the parking lot where the trail starts.

Tea Kettle Trail via Breadloaves Trail and City of Rocks Road is a really fun downhill single track through cattle and sagebrush country on the far west end of City of Rocks. Ideally, two vehicles should be used to ride this trail (one at the top, one at bottom) to shuttle you and your friends back and forth, but pedaling up City of Rocks Road after the descent is a viable option. Start at Breadloaves Trail and ascend 0.5 miles to pick up Tea Kettle Trail and then descend 2.5 miles back to City of Rocks Road.

Another location to mountain bike is on the slopes of Pomerelle Resort, near the top of Howell Canyon. Jump Trail is a 2-mile long intermediate trail at the resort. This mountain bike-only trail can be ridden both up or down, with the descent taking little time to ride.

WHAT ABOUT UTVS, ATVS AND DIRT BIKES IN CITY OF ROCKS AND CASTLE ROCKS?

There are no off-road motorized trails in either park. However, UTV's and ATV's and motorcycles may travel any public road in the reserve that is open to regular vehicles so long as they meet state requirements for public roads. If used in the park they must pay the $5 motor vehicle entry fee or display a Motor Vehicle Entry Fee sticker or Idaho State Parks Passport.

WHAT KIND OF ANIMALS CAN I SEE?

Keck said because the parks get busy and are relatively crowded, wildlife moves into more remote areas of the park. Around campsites and parking areas, visitors might encounter golden-mantled ground squirrels, chipmunks, black-tailed jackrabbit, mule deer, and a large variety of birds. The park is also home to moose, mountain lions and Great Basin rattlesnake. The best place to view wildlife would be along the North Fork Circle Creek trail deep into the backcountry. The best time to see wildlife is early morning and late evening.

CAN I FISH?

Castle Rocks State Park has a fishing pond stocked with rainbow trout.

WHERE CAN I CAMP?

In City of Rocks, there are 64 campsites to choose from and all campsites have a fire-ring/ground grill and a picnic table. Vault toilets are located in central areas. Make your reservations online at www.reserveamerica.com.

WHAT ABOUT BACKCOUNTRY CAMPING?

backcountry camping in the Indian Grove area. Permits are required for backcountry camping, please contact the Visitor Center at 208-824-5519.

WHAT IF I'M NOT A FAN OF CAMPING?

Groups can rent the Lodge or the Bunkhouse at Castle Rocks for a home away from home experience. But if you want the full glamping experience — rent a glamping yurt. The Willow Glamping Yurt is a 22-foot diameter yurt located in Castle Rocks State Park. The facility includes a king-size bed, furniture, electricity, electric fireplace, mini-fridge, microwave, coffee maker and decor. Guests can enjoy a spacious deck and stairway leading to Almo Creek. The yurt rents for $125 per night and reservations can be made up to 9 months in advance by calling 888-922-6743, or online at www.reserveamerica.com.

What if I want to camp near a high mountain lake? Lake Cleveland is located in the Albion Mountains of the Sawtooth National Forest. Lake Cleveland is accessible from July to October because of the snow and colder temperatures. The camping area is broken up into two sides. The east side which is equipped with seven reservable campsites and 10 first-come, first-served sites and the west side which has nine first-come, first-served sites and is not recommended for RVs or trailers because of the steep terrain and tight turnaround. Overnight use is $8-$10 per spot and certain spots can be reserved at recreation.gov. The campground area has 30 picnic tables, 25 grills and pit toilets. Small boats or kayaks are allowed but motorized vehicles are not.

ARE THERE HIKING TRAILS AT LAKE CLEVELAND? BOATING ALLOWED TOO?

Hiking is available southwest of Lake Cleveland at the Twin Lakes campground. One great hike, the Skyline Trail, wraps around the southern slopes of Mount Harrison and meanders southward all the way to City of Rocks National Reserve. Usually, the trails are only accessible July through October due to snow blocking access.

There are also several short hikes around Lake Cleveland, perfect for exploring the shoreline, looking for fishing spots and taking photographs of the pristine alpine lake.

Kayaking in the lake is allowed and multiple launching spots from the main parking area exist as well.

WHERE ARE SOME OTHER PLACES I CAN CAMP?

McClendon Spring Campground is a semi-developed campground south of Burley. It is managed by the BLM. Point of interest: McClendon Spring was a favorite resting place for emigrants along the California Trail. For more information, go to blm.gov/visit/mcclendon-spring-campground.

Diamondfield Jack Campground and Picnic Area is located at the end of a paved road in Rock Creek in the Sawtooth National Forest. The campground is suitable for motorhomes, trailers, and tent camping. This area is accessible year round. Campground amenities include drinking water, wheelchair-accessible toilets, picnic tables, warming shelter, parking area and fire rings. Have an off-highway vehicle?

The Diamondfield Jack Snow Play Area offers several outdoor recreation opportunities and camping is just one of them. This area covers over 200 miles of Sawtooth National Forest and Bureau of Land Management (BLM) lands and encompasses over 60 miles of groomed trails.

Amenities include restrooms, a warming shelter and parking areas. There are several hiking options such as the Pike Mountain and Eagle Trail, which are described as easy multi-use trails. Or you could step up your game and take on the Middle Fork Shoshone Creek trail, which is a moderate terrain trail located nearby. For more information, go to <https://www.fs.usda.gov/recarea/sawtooth/recreation/ohv/recarea/?recid=5775&actid=93>

WHAT IF I WANT TO CAMP CLOSER TO TOWN?

Lake Walcott State Park is another spot that has a little bit of everything for everyone. And it's only 11 miles northeast of Rupert. There are camping areas with RV hookups available. Nearby sites of interest include Minidoka Falls near the park, Rupert City Park, and the historic railroad community of Minidoka, says the park's website. For more information about camping, go to parksandrecreation.idaho.gov/activities/camping.

WHAT IS ONE OF THE MAIN DRAWS OF LAKE WALCOTT?

You might think it's the water, but it's actually the 21-hole disc golf course.

"It spreads the entirety of the park with the exception of the camping park," said Mary Fletcher, a seasonal office worker.

In the fall, about 250 competitors and spectators travel to Lake Walcott for the Idaho State Championship for disc golf. Looking for other disc golf courses? Pomerelle Mountain Resort in Albion is known for skiing but in the summer visitors come for its 18-hole course. The front 9 holes are on the Triple Chairlift side of the mountain and the back nine are on the Double Chairlift side. The course is free if you hike or you can pay a fee to ride the lift.

CAN I RIDE MY ATV OR MOTORBIKE AT LAKE WALCOTT?

ATVs and motorbikes must stay on established roadways or in parking lots. If used in the park they must pay the $5 motor vehicle entry fee or display an MVEF sticker or Idaho State Parks Passport.

CAN I BOAT ON LAKE WALCOTT?

Yes. You can also water ski, windsurf, sail and fish. Paved trails connect restrooms, picnic shelters, interpretive kiosk and boat launch.

IS THE LAKE STOCKED FOR FISHING?

Yes. Anglers can expect to catch bass and trout.

"We have really good fishing," Fletcher said.

WHAT KIND OF WILDLIFE CAN I SEE?

This 22-acre park is the home to a variety of wildlife, including 150 species of birds and waterfowl.

"We have a lot of migratory birds that are here with this being a sanctuary," Fletcher said. "We have a lot of water birds and waterfowl. We do have sparrows and hummingbirds. We also have quite a few deer that take up residence here in the park."

LOOKING TO HIT A FEW GOLF BALLS?

Burley is 20 miles away from Lake Walcott and offers a couple of golfing options. River's Edge Golf Club is located at 131 East Highway 81 in Burley. For more information, go to riversedgeburley.com or call 208-878-9807. Ponderosa Golf Course 208-679-5730

The Ponderosa Golf Course is a nine-hole, par 3 layout with a driving range and practice area located just off I-84 at exit 208 in Burley. For more information, call 208-679-5730.

WHAT ARE THE BOATING OPTIONS IN BURLEY?

Burley features access to 20 miles of shoreline with boat ramps along the Snake River at Riverfront Park and North Freedom Park. Here you can water ski, boat and fish.

WHERE CAN I RIDE MY ATV?

With so many trails in Southern Idaho, it can be difficult to know where you can or can't ride your ATV or dirt bike. To help clear up confusion the US Forest Service uses an app called Avenza Maps that maps out trails and roads so visitors can know which off-road vehicle they can use on them. All roads and trails are numbered, which makes the app even more helpful.

"We have hundreds of miles of roads and trails," said Jade Sumsion of the US Forest Service. "It tells you where you can and can't go."

Sumsion said one of the areas mapped out is the Minidoka Ranger District, which is a popular place for ATVs, UTVs and dirt bikes.

If you don't have a smart phone you can go to the US Forest Service office and pick up a free map; but Sumsion said the app is convenient because you can download it on your phone and its accessible even if you don't have internet service.

Besides letting people know which trails are ATV-friendly, it also tells you which roads might be seasonally closed because of snow, washed-out roads or wildlife. The app also has camping information for trail users who want to stop for the night.

WINTER RECREATION

TETONA DUNLAP

For the Times-News

Southern Idaho's Mini-Cassia area is the kind of place people can recreate in the summer and winter months. Here are some of the places visitors can go to snowshoe, ski and snowmobile.

Where can I snowshoe?

Thousands flock to Castle Rocks State Park and City of Rocks National Reserve in the summer. But if you are looking for some peace and solitude, try coming back in the winter.

Winter activities include ever-popular snowshoeing, ice climbing, cross-country skiing, and snowmobiling. City of Rocks National Reserve and Castle Rocks State Park see a combined visitation around 240,000 people each year. So winter is the best time to visit if you don't want to encounter large groups.

"These activities do not bring in a lot of people, but the park sees about a dozen vehicles on most weekends in the winter," Superintendent Wallace Keck said. "Park staff worked to keep the snow plowed as far in as Bath Rock. From there, most recreational activities can launch in the winter."

Snowshoers prefer the Creekside Towers Trail, ice climbers find adequate ice near Bath Rock, and snowmobilers head up the county road which is closed by snow in winter months.

Snowshoes and poles can be rented from the Visitor Center from December to March depending on snow coverage.

The City of Rocks website says many roads in the reserve are not maintained during the winter and snowmobiling can be a great way to access the park when normal motor vehicle travel becomes impossible.

However, Keck said snowmobiles are restricted to established roads and are not permitted to ride over vegetation even when covered by snow.

For more information, go to parksandrecreation.idaho.gov/parks/castle-rocks or <https://www.nps.gov/ciro/index.htm>.

Lake Walcott State Park is another option for snowshoeing, especially if you are seeking an easy terrain. On your hike, you might come across deer that take up residence in the park during the winter.

"A lot of people will drive up here in the wintertime to see what they can see," said Mary Fletcher, a seasonal office worker. "Deer watching, It's a neat experience up here because the animals are less fearful. We still have a lot of native birds and native animals who stay in the park in the winter."

Fletcher said many people also come to the park to ice fish.

"You could snowshoe here. They ice fish here. There's a lot of room for hiking," Fletcher said. "You could definitely snowshoe and cross country ski because we have wide-open areas."

Where can I snowmobile?

Cassia County has a 120-mile groomed trail system in the Sublett Range, east of Burley. Getting there: Take Interstate 84 to the Yale Road exit. Go east on Yale Road about 10 miles. Go right on North Heglar Canyon Road. The parking lot is about 10 miles up the canyon.

Another access point can be found at Howell Canyon, near Pomerelle Mountain Resort. The trailhead gives snowmobilers access to a large riding area near Mount Harrison.

Getting there: Take I-84 east to the Declo exit, 216. Go south on Idaho 77 to Albion. About seven miles southeast of Albion, turn right on Howell Canyon Road. Signs mark the snowmobile parking lot just before Pomerelle Mountain Resort.

To get to Howell Canyon, follow signs to Pomerelle Ski Area and drive south of Declo on Idaho Highway 77. Here you will find a trailhead with a restroom and warming hut for snowmobiling around Mount Harrison. For more information, go to visitsouthernidaho.com.

Where can I ski?

Pomerelle Mountain Resort is located in the Sawtooth National Forest and features 24 groomed slopes, two terrain parks and a vertical drop of 1,000 feet. In the winter, the resort is open seven days a week and five nights a week.

Don't know how to ski? Pomerelle features a ski school with private and group lessons for skiing and snowboarding. Night lessons are available with 24-hour pre-registration by calling 208-673-5599.

POWDER PLAY

It's a snow lovers' paradise in the higher elevations! Southern Idaho is surrounded by excellent sledder country. Snowmobiling, snowshoeing, snow kiting (or kite skiing), downhill skiing, and snowboarding are all an easy drive away. Sled heads can enjoy great terrain up at Pomerelle Ski Resort or north to the Stanley basin area. Snowshoe adventurers can explore more than 22 miles of area in the City of Rocks and 12 miles in Castle Rocks State Park.

APRIL

GEOCACHING SOUTHERN IDAHO

Break out the GPS global positioning system and head to the Mini-Cassia area! Explore the off-beaten path and see where it leads. Similar to treasure hunting, participants search for a cache, usually an old film canister containing a pencil and notebook to record you found it! Sometimes it contains a toy or keepsake but be sure to bring something small to replace any treasure you take from the canister. One great geocache in our area takes adventurers out to where the Oregon and California trails split. Checkout geocaching.com for tips & tricks.

MAY

GET YOUR BLOOM ON

Springtime is the best time to head to the Albion Mountains by Pomerelle Ski Resort and Mt. Harrison Lookout (9,265 ft. elev.) The hills are alive with a variety of wildflower blossoms. White, pink, yellow, blue, red blossoms can be seen throughout the hills. Look closely and you may find a Mountain Bluebird, the Idaho State Bird. 208.679.4793

MOUNTAIN HIGH

Mt. Harrison is the northernmost major mountain in the compact Albion Mountain Range. Mt. Harrison holds an alpine lake and a glacial cirque, rare for the region. There road from Lake Cleveland to the summit, which make route finding and summiting a more casual hike. Enjoy a 360-degree view of the entire region from the Mt. Harrison Fire Lookout. Bring a windbreaker! 208.679.4793

ALMO — Want to find an adventure without the hustle and bustle of the typical tourist town? Almo and its surrounding recreational areas may provide the seclusion you're looking for.

The tiny village is often described as a town lost in time. The California Trail, alternate routes of the Old Oregon Trail, and old stagecoach routes are still evident in many locations throughout the area.

Looming above 10,000 feet, Cache Peak is Idaho's highest peak south of the Snake River. The appearance of the peak and its sister summits ahead of westbound emigrants on the Old Oregon Trail signaled the "Parting of the Ways" near Raft River, where folks decided whether to continue northwest to Oregon or take the "last exit" to the California gold fields.

Those who turned southwest toward California found what they called the "Silent City of Rocks" in Idaho just north of the Utah border. Hundreds of emigrants between 1843 and 1882 wrote their names in axle grease on towering granite boulders and camped in the future park before continuing into Nevada.

Margaret A. Frink, an emigrant on the California Trail, traveled through what she called a "stone village" in July 1850.

"It is a sublime, strange, and wonderful scene — one of nature's most interesting works," Frink wrote in her journal.

Nestled in the Albion Mountains just east of the City of Rocks National Reserve, Almo was an early hub of activity on the trail. To this day, the unincorporated community — home to numerous ranching families — remains a hub but for rock climbers, photographers, birders, hunters, campers and cyclists.

The visitor center for the reserve and nearby Castle Rocks State Park is in Almo, open seven days a week from mid-April to mid-October, and Tuesday through Saturday during the winter months.

An estimated 240,000 emigrants passed through the Almo area on their way to California in the 1800s; today, the National Park Service estimates the number of “visits” to the City of Rocks and nearby Castle Rocks State Park at 290,000 annually.

Climbing and bouldering

Castle Rocks and “the City” are internationally renowned among climbers, boulderers and sightseers alike. Some 60,000 climbers hit the rocks every year, said Wallace Keck, City of Rocks National Reserve superintendent since 2002.

“The City of Rocks hit the national climbing magazines in the 1980s and the word spread,” Keck said.

More than 600 established climbing routes from 30- to 600-feet high are rated from a relatively easy “5.6” to an extremely difficult “5.14” spread over nearly 16,000 acres. Guidebooks to both the City and Castle Rocks are available at the visitor center, he said.

The National Park Service offers several opportunities to learn how to climb at the City before spending money on climbing equipment.

“For about $40, our rangers in the Climbing Experience program will take you out to an easy route so you can get the feel of the rock to find out if you like it,” Keck said.

“Climbing can be expensive — $700 for equipment.”

In addition, rangers have offered the First Time Climbing program for children several times a year. Children are harnessed so they can climb without danger of falling, then lowered to the ground safely by ropes.

“We want children to come to the City,” Keck said. “In the eight years we’ve been doing the ‘First Time’ program, we’ve never had an accident.”

Wildlife abounds

An avid photographer, Keck splits his time managing both the reserve and the state park, an old ranch obtained by the state in 2003.

"I would never go out to the backcountry without a camera," he said. "Put me wherever there are birds and plants. That's where I'm happy."

Mountain lions, bobcats, moose, elk and mule deer frequent the park, evidenced by the piles of droppings they leave.

Raptors such as the red-tailed hawk and the harrier hawk can be found year-round, while other hawks come and go with the seasons, Keck said.

The annual "Birding Big Day Blitz" in early June brings in some of the best birders in Idaho, he said. Birding competitors pair up to check off as many species of birds they can spot in a 24-hour period.

Winter sports

Nordic skiing and snowshoeing are popular ways to follow the California Trail through the City. Snow depths average 3 to 5 feet in the lower elevations. Snowshoes can be rented at the visitor center.

For more extreme winter sports, Pomerelle Mountain Resort is a short drive away on Mount Harrison near Albion.

Want to spend the night? Reservations are a must Whether visitors drive in, bicycle in or walk in, the City includes 64 standard campsites, three group sites, and an RV park with water and electricity. The City also includes campsites with corrals for horses.

Castle Rocks rents out the state park's historic ranch house called "The Lodge," a bunkhouse and a glamping yurt. The Lodge offers modern amenities such as a fully equipped kitchen, spacious bathroom with tub and shower, flat-screen TV/DVD with Roku, Wi-Fi and propane grill.

But don't expect to find a place to throw out your bedroll without a reservation.

"June is our busiest month, then September," Keck said.

More information, including camping rules and fees, can be found at the National Park Service website at nps.gov/ciro/planyourvisit/camping.htm.

The City of Rocks National Reserve is open 365 days a year. All roads are gravel, so, depending on weather conditions, some roads may be impassable from November through April. Call the Visitor Center at 208-824-5901 for the latest road conditions.

A NEW BLESSING IN BURLEY

LDS CHURCH'S SEVENTH IDAHO TEMPLE IS TAKING SHAPE

LAURIE WELCH

lwelch@magicvalley.com

Construction of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints temple is underway in southeast Burley and church officials and community leaders expect it to have a significant economic impact while blessing members.

Crews were beginning work on the stone cladding on the temple's northwest corner in April 2023, said Elder Ray Griffins, who along with his wife Patricia Griffins, were chosen as the missionary couple to document the construction.

The stone will be evaluated and then cladding work will continue on the rest of the building, he said.

Other work underway includes sheeting the west and east walls and finishing the framing.

"There isn't a completion date, but I can say the construction work is on schedule," Griffins said.

The construction on the two-story temple, which will encompass 38,600 square feet, is expected to take 2 1/2 years.

More than 500 church members gathered at the 10.1 acre-temple site in June 2022 for a groundbreaking ceremony.

The celebration drew more than 500 church members who symbolically turned the soil and planted seeds of faith in the ground where their new temple will stand.

The event drew state senators and representatives, mayors, city and county officials, presidents and their families from the Mini-Cassia's seven church stakes, along with church bishops and their families and other guests.

THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS

An artists rendition of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Burley Idaho Temple.

"This is a wonderful day and something people in the area have been waiting for," Temple Committee Communications Director David Wilson said during the event. "We were surprised when it came so soon."

Several members of the church bore their testimony about the new temple and expressed surprise when they heard the news, including some primary-aged children.

"I'm confident that you feel like I do, that today you are on holy ground," said Derlin Taylor, a member of the church.

Taylor thanked the pioneers for their sacrifices. They often did not live long enough to see the fruits of their labors, but passed those blessings down, he said.

People in the community will rally around the temple, he said.

Elder Brent H. Nielson of the Quorum of the Seventy, who is originally from Burley, also spoke during the event.

Nielson was born at the former Cottage Hospital in Burley, and was baptized and learned the gospel of Jesus Christ in the area.

"It was here that those amazing things happened to me,"

TIMES-NEWS

Stone cladding on The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saint's Burley temple is underway on the northwest portion of the building on April 10, 2023, while crews continue framing and sheeting other parts of the temple.

Nielson said.

To him, the area is sacred ground.

Economic development experts are already citing "the temple effect" that occurs mainly in non-metropolitan communities that boost the overall economy.

They expect more people to choose Mini-Cassia as their home because of the temple and the overall economy to flourish.

The Burley temple will be the seventh in Idaho. Along with a temple in Twin Falls, there are temples in Boise, Idaho Falls, Meridian, Pocatello and Rexburg.

The state is home to more than 460,000 members of the church in about 1,200 congregations.

Generally, there are about five to seven wards or congregations of church members included in each church stake.

Temples are different from church meeting houses or chapels. Everyone is welcome to attend Sunday worship services and other activities at meeting houses. But the primary purpose of temples is for members of the church to participate in sacred ceremonies like marriages and proxy baptisms held on behalf of deceased ancestors who did not have the opportunity to be baptized while living.

Church members consider temples to be the house of the Lord and the most sacred worship places on earth.

LAURIE WELCH

One of the most iconic landmarks in Mini-Cassia is Mount Harrison, the northernmost peak on the Sawtooth National Forest, Albion Division — 20 miles south-east of Burley.

To reach Mount Harrison from Interstate 84, take exit 216 and follow Idaho Highway 77 through Albion. The Howell Canyon Road turn-off to Pomerelle Mountain Resort and Lake Cleveland is about four miles.

The mountain is a favorite with people who ski, snowboard, snowshoe, snowmobile, sled, hike, camp or ride horses, or ride mountain bikes or ATVs.

The paved scenic road leads to the Pomerelle ski area, cross country ski and snowshoe trails, a snowmobile, tubing and sledding area with a warming hut, campgrounds and picnic areas, Lake Cleveland, and the summit of the mountain, offers 100-mile panoramic views.

Occasionally, on the west side of the mountain, you can watch hang gliders launch into the breeze from the mountainside and the area is ideal for star gazers and photographers.

Pullouts along Howell Canyon Road allow visitors to stop for overviews of the city of Albion nestled below and the twinkling lights scattered across Mini-Cassia illuminate the valley at night.

Whether you're just out for a drive or you like to get out and explore — the mountain provides opportunities rivaling any in Idaho.

Pomerelle Mountain Resort

One of the oldest ski areas in the western part of the country, Pomerelle Mountain Resort opened in the 1940s and was purchased by Woody and Sandy Anderson in 1972.

The resort, which is blessed by an average of more than 500 inches of snow a year, is still operated by the Anderson family and known for its family-friendly atmosphere and low costs.

"We have a school program that makes it ultra-affordable for kids to come and learn to ski and snowboard," said Gretchen Anderson, the couple's daughter.

The elevation is at 8,762 feet, with a 1,002-foot vertical drop. There are two triple chair lifts and a magic carpet for beginners.

Pomerelle has a spacious lodge that offers food and beverages and the Slope Side Grill is outside the lodge on the deck selling hot dogs, hamburgers and cold drinks.

There are also restrooms, lockers along with accessories and rentals.

Through the season the resort hosts regular competition-style events, including an outstanding kid's competition that draws young people from miles around, Anderson said.

There is also a mountain bike race held in the summer called the Pomerelle Pounder.

The resort is not regularly open during the summer but does open for special events.

Because the land is owned by the Forest Service, the trails near the resort are open to the public during the summer, but visitors must stay away from the ski lifts, Anderson said.

Go online to Pomerelle's website at www.pomerelle.com for event dates.

Lake Cleveland

Nine miles up Howell Canyon Road, Lake Cleveland sits in a cirque basin formed by a glacier — one of two found south of the Snake River.

You can fish for trout at the lake, stay at one of two campgrounds or just enjoy the day at one of the picnic spots.

Non-motorized boats are allowed on the lake. Swimming is also allowed, but the alpine lake is very cold.

All facilities at Lake Cleveland are handicap accessible, including the paved path around the lake.

Mount Harrison summit

At the 9,265-foot mountain summit — meadows filled with vibrant wildflowers erupt during the summer and visitors will find stunning views from the two-story Sawtooth fire lookout station.

Road access to Lake Cleveland and the summit rely on the timing of the melting snowpack, which can vary from year to year.

Depending on wildfire conditions, the summit views can reach up to 100 miles in every direction. Visitors can catch glimpses of south-central Idaho and into northern Utah and Nevada, including the Teton and Sawtooth mountain ranges, the Snake River Plains and the cinder buttes of the Arco desert.

In the spring and summer, the mountain meadows become a kaleidoscope of color as wildflowers bloom.

But a bright yellow paintbrush called Christ's Indian Paintbrush — found only on the mountain — has received the most attention.

The rare population is managed by the U.S. Forest Service and it's ranked as one of Idaho's rarest plants.

Mount Harrison also has one of two Davis' Wavewing populations and two of the largest intact tall forb communities remaining in Idaho.

The best wildflower viewing times are generally in the summer.

In the fall, the pine and aspen-laden forests become cloaked in yellow and gold, making the mountain a spectacular location for a morning or afternoon drive.

Mount Harrison camping

There are two campground loops at Lake Cleveland and campgrounds at Thompson Flats, Twin Lakes and a few primitive camping sites at Bennett springs near the bottom of the mountain.

The Twin Lakes Campground has three horse corrals and provides access to the 26.2-mile-long Skyline Trail that leads to the City of Rocks.

Some large group camping is available.

Hiking, mountain biking and OHV riding

There are hiking trails at Bennett Springs, near Pomerelle Mountain Resort, Lake Cleveland and the Skyline Trail at Thompson Flats, among others.

The Skyline Trail is open to OHV riders, which includes ATVs, four and three-wheelers, dirt bikes, motorcycles, mountain bikes, snowmobiles along with hikers and horseback riders.
