

Love County Library to host fabric pumpkin craft class

Learn the Japanese art of Kinusaiga to create no-sew textile pumpkins. The Love County Library invites the community to get into the autumn spirit with a hands-on fabric pumpkin craft at 4 p.m. Wednesday, October 28. The workshop will be led by Andrea Snow of the OSU Extension Office. Participants will learn Kinusaiga, a contemporary Japanese art form, and use it to make a colorful pumpkin. Fabric scraps are pressed into pre-cut grooves on a foam board to build layered, textured artwork, and no sewing is required. The class is open to ages 16 and up, and advanced sign-up is required. “We love partnering with the OSU Extension Office to bring creative, hands-on programs to our community,” said Library Branch Manager Neshia Crane. “This pumpkin craft is a fun, welcoming way to learn a new art form and enjoy some time with your neighbors as the season changes.” For more information, contact the Love County Library at (580) 276-3783 or visit the library at 500 South Highway 77 in Marietta.
