Virginia — Ice bumper cars are a "cool" thing — quite literally — "to have on the Range," says Virginia's director of Parks and Recreation.

But, even more notably, Virginia is the only state in the nation to feature the bumper cars, which are manufactured by Advanced Funitures International.

In fact, gliding effortlessly across the ice after bumping into other riders — a completely different experience from typical bumper cars — is a pretty rare recreation.

"The Talon team has taken an innovative approach to the discovery, development and production of battery materials, including to permanently store carbon as part of mine operations," said Mark Sauer, Tesla, Talon Metals chief executive officer.

"The project is still not a non-ferrous mine in operation; however, after decades of exploration, planning and permitting, there's still not a non-ferrous mine in operation.

"This agreement is the start of an innovative partnership between Tesla and Talon for the responsible production of battery materials, including to permanently store carbon as part of mine operations," said Mark Sauer, Tesla, Talon Metals chief executive officer.
