Commissioners disagree on growth issues

271 homes planned for new development

By TOM WOERNER
For the Record

Angier’s top elected official was forced to break two tie votes among commissioners Tuesday night as the town continues dealing with unprecedented growth. Mayor Bob Smith ultimately cast the vote which cleared the way for a developer to begin building on property the town annexed into the city limits only minutes earlier. Smith voted in favor of a rezoning that will allow 6,000-square-foot lots in a development, which will eventually have 271 single family homes, near the corner of Tippet and Roy Adams roads and the town’s southern border. Moments before, the mayor broke a tie to delay the vote until next month. Commissioner Loru Hawley made the motion to table the measure which was defeated by Smith’s tie vote. Hawley and one other commissioner wanted more study on the issue of lot size. Residents, who packed the town hall meeting space, wanted 10,000-square-foot lots which would mean fewer homes in the area. The developer proposed 6,000-square-foot lots. Former Harnett County Commissioner Gordon Spring- le, who lives within site of the development, shared concerns about fire issues during a public hearing on the complex. “Firefighters will tell you that when you have 6,000-square-foot lots their big- See Growth, Page 7A

Former sheriff candidate arrested

Accused of spitting on handicapped woman

By ROBERT JORDAN
Of the Record staff

A 2018 candidate for sheriff of Harnett County is accused of spitting on a handicapped person in a grocery store parking lot on Buffaloe Lake Road, Sanford. Harnett County Sheriff’s Office arrest records indicate that Jerry J. Rivas, 64, of 364 Twin Ponds Road, Sanford, is charged with assaulting a handicapped person. His bond was set at $1,000.

Harnett Sheriff’s Deputy Isaac Das reports that on June 6 at 5:30 p.m., he was dispatched to 1655 Buffaloe Lake Road regarding an assault that had already occurred. Das spoke with Pamela Garron, 69, of Sanford who reported she was assaulted by Rivas when he spit on her through her car window and left the scene.

Garron provided the deputy with the registered license number of the suspect’s vehicle, which deputies traced back to Rivas.

Das reported the incident stemmed from an argument between Rivas and Garron over a handicapped shopping cart. Store surveillance video confirmed some sort of confrontation occurring between the two.

“During the video, you see Jerry yelling/speaking towards Pamela as she sat in her car. He then jolted his head toward the open window of the vehicle as though he was spitting towards it,” said Das.

Garron informed Deputy Das she was going to the Har-

Arrest made in robbery

From staff reports

The Johnston County Sheriff’s Office arrested a homeless man, formerly of Willow Spring, as the suspect in last week’s robbery of the State Employees’ Credit Union in Garner.

Boucha

Deputies arrested Spencer Joseph Boucha, 25, on Tuesday night. He is charged with common law robbery. Bond was set at $50,000. Boucha remains in the Johnston County Detention Center.

Investigators said the suspect entered the SECU branch near the Interstate 40 and N.C. Highway 42 interchange in the Cleveland community at 1:44 p.m. on June 29. He reportedly handed the teller a note and verbally demanded money. There was no weapon displayed or implied.

Witnesses say the robber fled on foot crossing the westbound lanes of I-40 before he removed and discarded the clothing he was wearing.

One witness reported the suspect may have fled in a green pickup with a camper shell that had been parked on the eastbound I-40 ramp.

Authorities said they received a tip which led them to Boucha. Deputies found him to be

The amount of money taken during the robbery was undisclosed. None of the funds were recovered as of press time.

More than $17.5M set for county in NC budget

By RUDY COGGINS
Of the Record Staff

Local legislators expect North Carolina Gov. Roy Cooper to sign a House bill Friday that should help alleviate water and sewer system issues in several Harnett County municipalities.

Rep. Howard Penny Jr. (R-Harnett), Sen. Jim Burgin (R-Harnett, Johnston, Lee) and Rep. Larry Strickland (R-Harnett, Johnston) lobbied to secure more than $17.5 million in funding for Harnett County and the towns of Coats, Erwin, Lillington and Angier. Coats and Erwin will each receive $1 million to fund water infrastructure projects, while Lillington gets $3.5 million to shore up flood- ing issues.

Harnett County is also set to receive $9,250,000 for water infrastructure projects thanks to a request from the Senate. Strickland secured $2,825,000 for Angier’s water infrastruc- ture.

The secured funds go toward projects involving water and sewer upgrades and flood resili- ence concerns. “This is a responsible budget plan that includes key invest- ments for our region,” Penny said. “All this budget does is look into things that need to be addressed that were left out of the biennial budget. In the short session, where we had gaps in the budget, we made sure we filled in those gaps. Of course, it also addresses raises for state employees, retirees and teach-

Man injured in Erwin yard brawl

Another man arrested

By ROBERT JORDAN
Of the Record staff

A fight that spilled into other yards on Old Post Road in Erwin landed one man in jail and another in the hospital Tuesday evening.

Betchley
Neighbors called 911 after reportedly witnessing Michael Dillon Barefoot, 28, and Corey James Betchley, 29, fighting in front of 608 Old Post Road. Erwin police were dispatched to the scene at 8:57 p.m. Officer Lamar Benjamin arrived just 3 minutes later. Benjamin reports he observed Barefoot laying on the ground in front of 611 Old Post Road. The officer also heard two men shouting when he exited his patrol car. Barefoot was covered in blood on the lower half of his body, according to reports. He was holding his leg and asking for water from Benjamin. Barefoot reportedly told Benjamin that he was badly injured after a confrontation with Betchley, who was standing across the street from Barefoot's location. Betchley was covered in blood from the incident, but complained of no injuries, the officer reported. Erwin Fire Department and Rescue Squad was summoned to treat Barefoot for his injuries. Betchley was detained by Officer Benjamin for further investigation. Betchley acknowledged striking Barefoot, but only with his fists. Later during the investigation, Betchley admitted to another officer that he struck Barefoot with his fists, but he was holding a set of keys in his hand. This was confirmed by Benjamin who said he had already confiscated a set of blood-covered keys as evidence. Barefoot was transported to WakeMed in Raleigh by EMS for treatment of his injuries.

Chastity Nicole Barefoot, 30, of the 608 Old Post Road address, girlfriend of Betchley and sister of Michael Barefoot, reportedly told officers that Betchley had been drinking and had damaged her car as well as furniture. She said that she and Betchley had been experiencing difficulty in their relationship for over a year, according to Benjamin's report. Barefoot told police she left the residence for a brief period to give Betchley time to calm down and returned home just prior to the incident. Erwin police arrested Betchley and charged him with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill or inflict serious injury. He was confined to the Harnett County Detention Center. His bond was set at $100,000. Robert Jordan can be reached at rjordan@mydailyrecord.com or 910-230-2037.

Woman admits to defrauding Medicare

$17M scheme committed through Dunn and Raleigh companies
For the Record

A Raleigh woman, who controls a company in Dunn, pleaded guilty to healthcare fraud on Wednesday. Tanya Parrish Grant, 51, admitted to a scheme carried out between 2017 and 2021 through two companies she controlled — Carolina Rehab Products Inc. (also known as Atlantic Brace) in Raleigh and Blue File DME LLC in Dunn. The companies were licensed with Medicare to supply durable medical equipment (DME) to Medicare beneficiaries, according to a release from U.S. Attorney Michael Easley of North Carolina's eastern district. "DME consists of products such as back, shoulder, knee, and wrist braces." Easley's office said Grant caused CRP and Blue File to bill Medicare for more than $50 million between 2014 and 2021, of which Medicare paid Grant more than $17 million. "Grant used these funds to purchase, among other things, a home near Cameron Village in Raleigh; a townhome in Ft. Lauderdale, a Porche, several Land Rovers, and to amass more than a million in cash and investments," the release stated. "The investigation showed that to generate revenues, Grant was paying companies in India and Pakistan to provide her with lists of Medicare patient names and identifying information. These lists of patients were purportedly derived from call centers overseas that contacted Medicare patients to inquire about their need for DME. Grant then caused her companies to bill Medicare for DME that she purportedly supplied to the patients," according to Easley's release. "While Grant and her companies were obligated to have written physician orders to support all of her claims to Medicare, the evidence ultimately showed that this was not the case. In many instances, Grant billed Medicare without supporting physician orders, and without shipping products. Even when patients receiving equipment in the mail returned the equipment, Grant did not reimburse Medicare for the equipment." Prosecutors say Grant's companies billed Medicare in the names of 422 deceased patients. "When audited by Medicare contractors, the evidence showed Grant would forge physician orders if no such order existed in her files to support her billings," stated the release. "The scheme was halted in 2021 when Grant's home and offices were searched, and her assets described above were seized as forfeitable property." Grant pleaded guilty to a violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1347 and faces a maximum of up to 10 years in prison when sentenced later this year. U.S. District Judge Terrence W. Boyle accepted Grant's guilty plea. The United States Department of Health and Human Services Office of the Inspector General and the Federal Bureau of Investigation investigated the case. Assistant U.S. Attorney William M. Gilmore is prosecuting the case.

Harnett man wins $3M lottery prize

Buys ticket as 40th birthday gift
For the Record

RALEIGH — Kevon Greenidge of Spring Lake bought a belated 40th birthday gift for himself and won the first $3 million prize in a new lottery game.

“I thought I was being pranked or something,” Greenidge said. “I really thought it was a trick.”

Greenidge bought his lucky $30 Fabulous Fortune ticket on First Tuesday, two days after his 40th birthday. His ticket came from the Short Stop on Anderson Ponds Drive in Spring Lake.

“When I saw it had so many numbers, I thought maybe it actually is real,” Greenidge said.

When Greenidge arrived at lottery headquarters Wednesday to collect his prize, he had a decision to make. He could choose to receive the prize as an annuity of $150,000 over 20 years or a lump sum of $1.8 million. He chose the lump-sum amount of $1.8 million and, after required state and fed-

A previous budget approved by the N.C. General Assembly and signed by Cooper didn't include financial assistance for Coats and Erwin, Penny said.

The two towns' water system is owned and operated by Harnett Regional Water.

HRW officials contacted Penny and expressed their concerns. They discussed the towns' needs and Penny agreed to include them in the latest budget.

The requests are part of a $27.9 billion package that legislators say should prepare the state for an uncertain economic future.

Other statewide budget highlights include:

- Teachers receive a 4.2% average pay raise (9.1% increase over the biennium).

- School support staff receive the greater of 4% or an increase to $15 an hour.
- State agency employees receive a 3.5% pay raise (6% increase over the biennium).
- State retirees receive an additional 1% one-time retiree supplement (4% over biennium).
- $876 million for major economic development projects.
- $32 million in school

safety grants to support students in crisis, safety training, and equipment in schools

- $14.8 million for mental health programs.
- $883 million for water and sewer infrastructure projects ($2.5 billion over the biennium).

Gov. Cooper has 10 days to sign the budget bill that passed by a majority in both houses. If he fails to sign it within that time, the budget still becomes law.

Caregiver stabs man with Sharpie, sheriff says

Pushes him out of automobile at highway speed
From staff reports

A caregiver is accused of repeatedly stabbing a disabled man in her custody with a sharpie before pushing him out of her moving car on Interstate 95 Sunday afternoon.

Arlene Mary Bonitz, 57, of Palm Harbor, Florida, was driving south on I-95 near the 64 mile marker in Godwin at 3:56 p.m. when an adult with a cognitive impairment was pushed from her car, according to a release from Cumberland County Sheriff Ennis W. Wright.

Bonitz

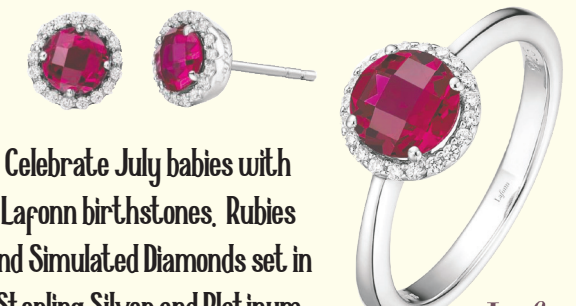

Deputies say Bonitz was driving an estimated 60 mph when he left the car.

She continued to drive several miles on I-95 until she was involved in a single-vehicle wreck, Wright noted in his release. North Carolina State Highway Patrol responded to the crash.

The man and Bonitz were transported to a local medical center for treatment. The man sustained a broken pelvis and had road rash on his face, hands and legs, according to the sheriff's office.

Special victim detectives arrested Bonitz on Friday and charged her with assault with a deadly weapon with the intent to kill. Bond was set at $75,000. Her first court appearance was at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Cumberland County Detention Center.

The Daily Record

"A newspaper's first duty is to the public which it serves. That is the only justification for the existence of any such periodical."

Hoover Adams, Founder

Expect change in political landscape

With the Supreme Court concluding one of the most historic and consequential terms in its history, it leaves in its wake consequences and implications for the direction of our country.

One very important result may well be a movement of Black and Hispanic voters to the right.

It is reasonable to conclude that conservatives are happy with where this court has taken us and liberals are not happy.

More specifically, those who believe in the original vision of the country, that it is about individual liberty and that the Constitution is designed to limit the federal government to few and well-defined areas, are happy.

And those who believe that the vision of the founders is no longer relevant today, or that the country was flawed from the beginning and their job today is to fix those flaws, are not happy.

To continue to drill down, many may conclude that this recent court session will deepen the divide between those already on the right and those on the left.

However, decisions of this court bear directly and positively on Black and Hispanic realities and challenges, and it is most reasonable to conclude the political result will be migration of Black and Hispanic voters to the right.

For sure Blacks and Hispanics will hear otherwise from propagandists on the left.

Most of the headlines have been focused on the Dobbs decision, which overturned Roe v. Wade.

But there were other critically important decisions with far-reaching implications.

In the case of Carson v. Makin, the court found that the state of Maine was in violation of First Amendment protection of "free exercise" of religion where state funds used to pay tuition for public and private schools could not be used for religious schools.

In Kennedy v. Bremerton, the court ruled that Bremerton School District violated free exercise of religion and free speech protections of the First Amendment when Bremerton High School fired its football coach for praying at the 50-yard line at the conclusion of football games.

In New York State Rifle and Pistol Association v. Bruen, the court found a New York State law requiring "proper cause," that is, a special reason to carry a handgun, in violation of the Second Amendment guarantee of the right to bear arms.

As Justice Brett Kavanaugh asked in the hearing of the case, "Why isn't it good enough to say I live in a violent area and I want to defend myself."

For Black Americans, who live in some of the most dangerous communities in the nation, the court's decision guaranteeing them the right to defend themselves is important and good news.

For Black and Hispanic Americans, whose children are disproportionately trapped in failing public schools, the court's clarifying protections and guarantees that strengthen the ability for parents to choose where to send the children to school is very good news.

The court's decisions firming up religious freedom protections of the First Amendment and disabusing the faulty notion that the U.S. Constitution is indifferent to sanctity of life and provides for abortion rights will move Blacks and Hispanics to the political right.

Black and Hispanic voters are beginning to see what the cultural chaos of the left has done to their families and communities.

The recent election of Mayra Flores as a Republican and the first Mexican-born member of Congress is case in point. She garnered 51% of the vote in a district in Texas that has never before elected a Republican. She ran as a candidate raised with "strong conservative values that focused on faith, family and hard work."

Her campaign poster branded "God, Family, Country" in both English and Spanish.

I truly believe the recent Supreme Court session will sit well in America's Black and Hispanic communities and gives good reason to expect strong implications for change in the nation's political landscape.

The 'Elvis' biopic — fit for a 'King'

How do you make a convincing biopic about Elvis Presley, one of the most important, unique and charismatic performers in the history of American music? But the performer who played Presley in the new movie, "Elvis," pulled it off spectacularly.

Reportedly, actor Austin Butler worked two years to master singing, sounding and moving like Elvis. It was time well spent. Tom Hanks did his customary superb job with his interpretation of Colonel Tom Parker, the cunning manager, or as many would say, mismanager to whom, it is believed, Presley paid a hefty 50% of his earnings.

Of particular interest, however, is how the film handled Presley's alleged "cultural appropriation" of black music. Consider, for example, an interview — not in the film — where the great Ray Charles was asked about Presley. Charles said in 1994: "I guess I'm going to lose at least a third of my fans. ... To say that Elvis was so outstanding, like they say, he's 'the king,' I don't think of Elvis like that because I know too many artists that were far greater than Elvis. ...

"Here was a white kid that could rock and roll, or rhythm and blues, or whatever you want to call it, and the girls would swoon over him. ... Nat Cole got in trouble in Alabama when the women swooned over him. Got put out of town. And black people been going out shaking their behind for centuries. What the hell's so unusual about that? ...

"He was doing our kind of music. He was doing the Willie Mae Thornton 'Jailhouse Rock.' That's black music. So what am I supposed to get so excited about, man? I think all that stuff about saying he's the king, that's a piece of bunk."

Well, OK, but the blind Charles could not see what even Elvis' detractors credited him with: off-the-chart charisma. A friend of mine, Sandy Martindale, is the wife of the popular longtime game show host Wink Martindale. When she and Elvis were teenagers, they dated. About her first sighting of Elvis, Sandy said, "He looked like he was in 3D." And the film shows that Elvis deeply appreciated black music, never pretended otherwise, and unreservedly credited black performers with influencing his music, dance and style.

About Presley's talent, other brilliant and influential black artists strongly disagreed with Charles. For example, Chuck Berry said: "He was the greatest who ever was, is or ever will be."

Little Richard, who called himself the true "originator" of rock and roll, nevertheless said: "(Elvis) was one of the main doors that came through. Chuck Berry was another door himself. And

The left likes to erase history, but we should remember what George Orwell said about doing so. (The quote may sound a little melodramatic to the modern ear, but there's more than a little truth to it.) "The most effective way to destroy people is to deny and obliterate their own understanding of their history."

The U.S. Supreme Court for allowing the Biden administration to end the successful Remain in Mexico program, formally known as the Migration Protection Protocols.

Here's how the Daily Signal described the program:

"The Trump administration was the first to use the 1996 congressional authority that permits the Department of Homeland Security to return non-Mexican aliens arriving by land from Mexico to Mexico while their claims for asylum or eligibility to be in the U.S. were determined."

"The program worked. The caravans stopped, and illegal alien encounters declined when human smugglers and would-be illegal aliens learned that saying they were entitled to asylum was no longer the golden ticket into the U.S. This was particularly important because the overwhelming majority of such claims have proven to be fraudulent."

Now, under President Biden's relaxed rules, the border crisis is much, much worse.

Housing demand will stay strong

RALEIGH — For much of the past year, housing markets were ablaze in many parts of North Carolina. Motivated buyers were flush with cash and armed with low-rate loans. Agents were desperate for inventory to sell. Sellers gasped and smiled as competing offers soared upward. Builders broke ground on as many new projects as available labor and materials allowed. According to a recent nationwide analysis by the website Redfin, Raleigh had the second-highest per-capita rate of building permits issued for single-family homes during the first quarter of 2022. Among the nation's metropolitan areas with a million or more residents, only Austin reported a higher rate. Charlotte was No. 5 on the list. Both North Carolina communities had eye-popping increases in median sale prices, as well: 25% and 22% respectively.

Now that the Federal Reserve is hiking interest rates aggressively to combat resurgent inflation, will higher debt-service costs for builders and buyers cause our housing markets to take a drastic downtown turn? Don't count on it.

For a variety of reasons, North Carolina remains an attractive place to live, work, invest, and build new enterprises. During 2021, only seven other state economies grew faster than ours. We were also one of the fastest-growing states in population. Although the real cost of buying or renting housing in North Carolina has gone up, too, the best bet is for such population in-flows to continue for the foreseeable future.

In the Triangle market, for example, Duke University economist David Berger expects only a "modest cooling" in response to higher interest rates. "It's important to remember we have sort of record low housing inventories," he observed during a recent virtual briefing for reporters. "Many people are still moving here. Supposedly 15 households a day to Wake County, five households a day to Durham County."

One could say something similar about other regions of the state, from the mountains to the coast. And a glance at the latest unemployment figures from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics readily reveals one of the main causes.

Here in North Carolina, we've been experiencing a worker shortage more than a year. Food service, hospitality, retail, other service industries, manufacturers, logistics — across large swaths of the labor market, companies are having a devil of a time finding people to fill available jobs. It's not just skilled labor in high demand. Even businesses willing to train folks with little work experience are struggling to find people willing to take them up on it.

Having just returned from a work trip to the mountains and a subsequent family vacation at the beach, I can certainly attest to the effects of this shortage. Restaurants and stores are slammed. Hotels are struggling to clean rooms and staff front desks.

I had a similar experience during an earlier trip to Texas. But believe it or not, not all states have ultralow unemployment rates. For the purposes of this comparison, I'll use a set of BLS statistics called "alternative measures of labor utilization for states." Instead of counting only jobless individuals actively looking for work as unemployed, the alternative measure includes workers who've given up looking for jobs in the communities where they currently reside as well as those who are working part-time but would rather have a full-time job.

For the most recent 12-month period, this broadest measure of unemployment and underemployment, called the U-6 rate, was 7.8% in North Carolina. That's lower than the national average of 8.4%. Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, and South Carolina have comparable or even lower U-6 rates than we do.

On the other hand, California (11.5%), New York (10.7%), New Jersey (9.5%), the District of Columbia (9.5%), and Connecticut (9.2%) have much-higher rates. Not coincidentally, these are among the states experiencing the greatest out-flow of residents in the aftermath of the COVID recession.

North Carolina is going to continue to be a key destination for these relocating workers and families. They'll need homes and apartments. That will keep demand strong and prices up.

JOHN HOOD

This Fourth of July, watching people fight over what the Constitution means, I ask people, if you could change the Constitution, what would you change?

"The forefathers knew what they were doing," said one woman.

But the Constitution originally accepted slavery. It's good that we can amend it.

So what should we change? "Add a balanced budget amendment," suggests Glenn Beck.

David Boaz of the Cato Institute recommends 18-year terms for the Supreme Court. "Maybe confirmation fights would be less bitter and partisan."

Others suggest term limits for Congress. Stossel TV's Mike Ricci takes the idea further. "If your father, mother, siblings, uncle, cousins were elected to federal office, you can't be." That would curb Kennedy/Bush-like dynasties.

Several people said they want to eliminate the Commerce Clause. It gives government virtually unlimited power over the economy, complains tech journalist Naomi Brockwell, "forcing people to participate in federal pension programs ... enabling the War on Drugs."

Some want an amendment to stop the growth of Washington regulatory agencies like the Food and Drug Administration, Environmental Protection Agency, and Federal Communications Commission. Economist Don Boudreaux calls them "a grave threat to Americans' liberties and prosperity."

The Supreme Court took a small step in restraining their power last week when it ruled that EPA bureaucrats can't set emission rules all by themselves. Congress has to vote on that.

Rep. Ro Khanna, D-Calif, proposes overturning Citizens United. He says that would stop those who "spend millions of dollars corrupting elections (and) would return our democracy to the town halls and citizen involvement that our founders envisioned."

I doubt that. Limits on political speech increase insiders' power. Christina Martin of the Pacific Legal Foundation wishes the Constitution did more to protect the rights of the individual. "How about a right to earn a living? How about a right to not have the government steal from you?"

But some young people told us they want to eliminate rights already in the Constitution, like free speech. "Being able to speak your mind is important," said one, "as long as it's not in a way that is going to be long-term harmful to people."

Ouch. Who decides what is harmful? Will he get to censor my videos?

The Bill of Rights also includes the right to bear arms. Babylon Bee's Kyle Mann would add some lines to clarify that "you can't pass laws restricting ownership of firearms."

Others want to get rid of the Second Amendment. "We have police officers. We have a military," said one woman in Times Square. "So do we really need them? No."

I'm glad another person corrected her. "The only reason we stand on freedom is because we got the right to bear arms!" he says. "(Because of the Second Amendment) We're all a micro government in our own way."

We are all "micro governments?" I like that.

The Goldwater Institute's Tim and Christina Sandefur would add "protections against the abuse of eminent domain" and "ban subsidies to special interests."

I like changes that might limit government power, and I wonder: How did government grow so powerful when the Constitution was created to limit government's power?

Podcaster Michael Malice says it's because the Constitution is often ignored.

"The First Amendment says the right of people to peaceably assemble shall not be infringed, (but) not even libertarians bothered to invoke that to fight the lockdowns and quarantining." Malice is an anarchist who says he'd put the Constitution "in the trash, where it belongs."

I disagree. So did most people we asked.

"Our founders wrote documents ... designed to give you life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," says podcaster Dave Rubin. "Perhaps they should've done it in bold so more people would've paid attention."

More people should. My short videos are my attempt to let young people know that our Constitution limits government power and that rights belong to individuals. Most simply don't know that.

THIS WEEK IN HISTORY

For the week of July 4 to July 8

50 years ago

- The presidents of the University of North Carolina's student bodies planned to present a statement on student rights to the university board of governors. Student body leaders from 13 of the 16 university campuses adopted a preliminary statement over the week-end, but they wanted to redraft parts of it later in July. The group said they would present it to the board of governors during their meeting on Aug. 14.
- R. A. Gray, former superintendent of Harnett County Schools, reported that the summer Head Start program, in which approximately 350 students were enrolled, was in its third week of operation. This program ran for 6 weeks, and ended on July 28.
- Erwin Town Commissioners approved a total town budget to $381,965 for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

40 years ago

- Ten students from Dunn High School placed in the top 4 in three national contests at the United States Skill Olympics.
- The Dunn City Council adopted a budget of $2.1 million, which marked the first time it ever exceeded $2 million. Despite this $104,104 increase over last year's budget, the council was still able to maintain the previous tax rate.
- The Harnett County Board of Commissioners delayed the appointment of a consulting engineering firm for the Buies Creek-Coats Wastewater District.

30 years ago

- Rep. Martin Lancaster announced that an international agreement was reached that allowed Tracor Aerospace Inc. in Lillington to manufacture radar-confusing chaff units designed by a British firm.
- According to Dunn Police Chief Bill Powell, Dunn had seen an overall decrease in crime during the first half of the year. "Dunn experience a 3% decrease in reported crime as compared to the same period in 1991," Powell said. "This 3% decrease follows a 15% reduction in 1991 compared to 1990."

20 years ago

- Construction began on a $250,000 fire station expansion project at Plain View Volunteer Fire Department in Sampson County. The expansion made space for Sampson County EMS and Plain View Rescue vehicles, which department member Linwood Eason said would save the department from making a whole new building. The department didn't qualify for a grant, and took out a bank loan for funding instead.
- The First Federal Bank in Erwin relocated from their original operating location at 100 E. H St. to 540 E. Jackson Blvd., across from the River's Edge Shopping Center, where it is today. First Federal Savings Bank Vice President Jean Lee stated, "We had simply outgrown our previous location."

ARRESTED

nett County Magistrate’s Office to obtain a warrant for Rivas.
The Daily Record contacted Rivas regarding the incident and arrest reports. Rivas stated he approached Garron in the Food Lion parking lot regarding the fact that she was leaving an electric shopping cart in an area next to a handicapped parking space. Rivas claims Garron lost her temper with him and hurled strings of profanity directed towards him.
“It pissed me off,” said Rivas. “If she had been a man, I’d have walked around to the driver’s side of that car and drug his [expletive] out of that car and beat the hell out of him right there.
“She was cursing at me in her car. I was on the passenger side of her car, about 6 feet away,” Rivas explained. “And I turned over my shoulder, and I spit on her door just to let her know how I felt about, you know. I’m just sick of this [expletive].”
Rivas ran as a candidate for sheriff of Harnett County in the 2018 Primary. One of the planks of his platform was wanting to rid Harnett County of “overzealous bullying deputies.”
The Daily Record attempted to reach out to Pamela Garron, but she did not return calls prior to press deadline.

About working while collecting early benefits

DEAR RUSTY: How much would be withheld from my Social Security benefits? I am 62 and can claim about $1,900 a month now. I’m still working, making about $75K per year. How much of my benefits would I get? What would be withheld from me and when would I get it back? And would there be any penalty?
Signed: Eligible but Working

ASK RUSTY
Rusty Gloor

DEAR ELIGIBLE: In the scenario you describe, you will not be eligible to collect Social Security retirement benefits at this time because your earnings are too high. Here’s how that is determined:

- At age 62, you are subject to Social Security’s “earnings test” which limits how much you can earn while collecting early benefits. The earnings limit applies until you reach your full retirement age (FRA), which for you is 67.
- Your penalty for exceeding the earnings limit now would be $1 for every $2 you are over the limit. At your current salary of $75K per year, you will be over the 2022 annual earnings limit of $19,560 by $55,440, which means you would owe Social Security $27,720.

Since your age 62 benefit amount is about $1,900 per month ($22,800 per year), your annual SS benefit would be insufficient to offset the penalty for exceeding the earnings limit, thus you would not be entitled to a Social Security benefit because of your current earnings. You will again be eligible to collect SS when your earnings are substantially less, or when you reach your full retirement age, whichever occurs first. Social Security’s earnings test affects everyone who works and earns when collecting benefits before reaching full retirement age. Each year, Social Security sets a limit for how much can be earned before benefits are affected (the 2022 limit is $19,560; it increases slightly each year). Those who exceed the limit pay a “penalty” of $1 for every $2 they are over the limit, which must be paid to SS either in a lump sum, or by having benefits withheld for enough months for SS to recover what is owed. If your Social Security benefit isn’t enough to offset the penalty for exceeding the earnings limit, no benefits will be paid. Those collecting early benefits who earn only slightly more than the annual earnings limit can collect some benefits each year because their penalty is small enough. For example, someone earning $25,000 per year would exceed the 2022 earnings limit by $5,440 and, thus, incur a penalty of $2,720. That would probably mean about two months of withheld benefits, enabling them to get benefits for the remaining 10 months of the year. Social Security will withhold benefits for enough months to recover whatever the beneficiary owes for exceeding the limit.

The rules surrounding Social Security’s earning test are somewhat complex. For example, there is a “first year rule” which exempts salary earned prior to claiming SS from counting toward the earnings limit. When someone first claims Social Security mid-year they are, instead, subject to a monthly limit ($1,630 for 2022) for the remaining months of the calendar year.
If the monthly limit is exceeded, no benefits are payable for that month. The earnings limit no longer applies when full retirement age is reached but is still in effect in the months of that year prior to attaining FRA. The earnings limit during those months is much higher and the “penalty” for exceeding it is less.
Social Security prefers that those working and collecting early benefits contact them in advance to withhold benefits for as long as needed to offset the expected penalty. Doing so will avoid an Overpayment Notice being issued in the following year when your earnings amount is received from the IRS.

After full retirement age, Social Security will adjust the beneficiary’s payment to account for months benefits were withheld and increase the monthly amount accordingly. That will result in some, or perhaps all, of the withheld benefits being recovered over time (depending on longevity).

JCC assists with tuition for 2022 grads

County approves $250,000 to help with funding
For the Record

SMITHFIELD — Johnston Community College and the county commissioners announced the formation of the The JoCo Commissioners Promise Program, which will cover the cost of tuition for 2022 high school graduates during the 2022-23 school year. The county approved the use of $250,000 to help fund the initiative.
The JoCo Commissioners Promise Program will bridge the gap for any tuition not covered by the Longleaf Commitment grant, federal Pell grants or other state funds. Students will only be responsible for the costs of textbooks, supplies and program-specific fees.
“We would like to thank the Johnston County commissioners for their commitment to JCC. Investments in our college are investments in the local economy,” said Dr. Kenneth A. Boham, interim president of JCC.

“We are grateful for our partnership with this community. This promise program is essential to positioning the college’s service,” Dr. Boham added.
“The Board of Commissioners places a great value on its investment in education,” says Johnston County Commissioners Chairman Butch Lawter.
“By supporting this promise program, we hope to create a clearer path for graduating seniors to enter into the local workforce as we bolster our commitment to Johnston Community College,” Lawter adds.
Students must meet eligibility requirements, apply to JCC, and fill out their FAFSA forms to qualify. Registration for the fall semester ends Aug. 12, 2022. For details, visit: <https://www.johnstoncc.edu/jocopromise-program>.

North Carolina PERSONAL INJURY LAW NEWSLETTER

Personal Injury Law Newsletter

Be sure to monitor what goes into your medical records.

Medical records are perhaps the most important documents in any personal injury case. Defense lawyers will comb medical records closely to find any preexisting conditions or any inconsistencies with what you contend are the nature and extent of your personal injury suffered as a result of your motor vehicle collision. Careless entries into a medical record can have a devastating effect on your case.

The absolute necessity to monitor your medical records to be sure they are completely accurate was demonstrated recently by the experience of a client of ours. This client is extremely intelligent and had the good judgment to ask to see her medical records after her first visit to an orthopedic surgeon.

This client had injured her legs very seriously after she was getting off an amusement ride at the North Carolina State Fair. The steps leading out of the ride were defective. When she stepped on the first step, it gave way and threw her to the ground causing serious injury to her legs.

On her first visit to the doctor, someone had written into her records “patient was running at the state fair when she fell and injured her legs”. Our client had the good sense to examine her medical records before she left the doctor’s office and saw this very damaging incorrect statement.

She brought this error to the attention of the personnel in the doctor’s office who were quite willing to change her records to reflect the true facts.

If these medical records had not been corrected early, they would have haunted our client for the rest of her claim. This inaccurate medical record would have essentially gutted her case.

You can hear the defense lawyer argue that our client is a liar and that the true facts are that she was running and fell down, not that she fell from a defect in the stairs. At the very least, this incorrect and inconsistent medical entry in the medical record would have severely damaged our client’s credibility.

Fortunately, because of our client’s good judgment and assertiveness, the medical record was corrected and will not be a problem for her.

Be sure that you are not a victim of careless and inaccurate entries in a medical record.

If you have any questions about any aspect of your personal injury claim, please call us today for a free no-obligation consultation. Call us today at (910) 888-8888.

Stewart honored with Melvin Jones Fellowship

Lions Club International's highest recognition
From staff reports

An Erwin man with over 60 years of service to the Erwin Lions was honored with Lions Club International's highest form of recognition, The Melvin Jones Fellowship. The late Graham Stewart, who became a member of the Erwin club in 1959, reached the level of Life Member and served faithfully until he died in 2020. The Melvin Jones honor recognizes an individual Lion's "dedication to humanitarian service."

His wife, Della Stewart, attended the Erwin club's last meeting to accept the award. She was accompanied by her son, Graham "Gray" Stewart Jr., her daughter-in-law, Jan Stewart, and granddaughter, Morgan Stewart. Making the award presentation was incoming District Governor Mayra McCloud of Fayetteville. The Melvin Jones Fellowship was established in 1973 in honor of Melvin Jones, the founder of Lions Club International. The fellowship contributes to the growth of fellows and allows Lions Club International to meet the humanitarian needs in communities around the world. Lion Stewart received his master's degree in education from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He taught several of his fellow Lions Club members at Erwin High School.

Awards and new officers

During the June 21 meeting, McCloud conducted the installation of officers of the Erwin club for the upcoming year. Past President J. Earl House passed the gavel on to incoming President Thomas Greene.

Officers installed included: Lions Club International Foundation Coordinator, Director and Past President J. Earl House Jr.; President Thomas Greene; First Vice President Timothy C. Morris; Second Vice President Eddy Blackman; Director and Treasurer James L. Wade; Secretary Michael D. Whitesell; Lion Tamer Rusty Brown; Tail Twister Randy West; Marketing Communication Chair Billy Turnage; and Membership Chair Tony Morrison Jr.

The Lion of the Year Award was presented by McCloud to House.

Morris was recognized with the Distinguished Service Award.

gest concern is the fire spreading to other houses," Springle said. He also said he hopes developers will consider current residents. "I hope you will at least make this subdivision look worthwhile to the people who live around there," Springle said.

Other residents expressed concerns about traffic created by the development and stress on local amenities, including the school system.

Smith said he used the same logic for both tie-breaking votes.

"I have a vision for Angier," Smith said. "It's hard to see at times but we have to control growth because if we don't we don't know what we are going to get."

The rezoning approval came with a list of 14 conditions involving green space, buffer areas and play areas and also a specific request from commissioner Alan Coats.

"I know it's unusual, but I would like to ask to you plant crepe myrtles," Coats said. "Angier is, after all, the Town of Crepe Myrtles."

Coats also asked the builders to consider those who already live in the area.

"I understand that people buying these homes are making a choice but I ask you to please consider those who didn't choose this development," Coats said. "I ask you to build this like it's going to be in your backyard."

The commissioner asked that the trees be planted in visible areas in the community. The developer also agreed to reserve up to 5 acres of the site for active recreation areas. That will include both dog parks and children's play areas.

The subdivision will be built in two sections, with more than 6 miles of walking trails connecting the two areas. There will be large buffers around the perimeter of the property. The buffer will be 15 feet high in areas where there are existing homes.

Developers said it should be fully constructed within seven years, with completion some time in 2029.

Commissioner Junior Price said he is worried current economic conditions will prevent the development from occurring.

"I understand that this wasn't always going to be used for selling watermelons and sweet potatoes," Price said. "My concern is we are going to disturb these people's lives and then have empty lots sitting there."

In other action, the board agreed to street closings for several events in the near future. The first closure will be on July 16 for the Rock 'n Rides event. Commissioners also voted to close streets in the downtown area for the annual Crepe Myrtle festival, scheduled this year for Sept. 9 and 10 and for Christmas in Angier events on Dec. 1 and Dec. 3.

Migraine Headaches

Definition

Common migraine is a disorder involving recurrent headaches, which may be accompanied by symptoms other than headache but which rarely include a preliminary warning (called an aura). Migraine headaches affect about 6 out of 100 people. They are a common type of chronic headache. They most commonly occur in women and usually begin between the ages of 10 and 46. In some cases, they appear to run in families. Migraines occur when blood vessels of the head and neck spasm or constrict, which decreases blood flow to the brain. Minutes to hours later, the blood vessels dilate (enlarge), resulting in a severe headache. Inflammation around the blood vessels also occurs in some cases. Common migraine may be accompanied by symptoms other than headache but only rarely includes any preceding symptoms (aura). Migraines may also appear as classic migraine (a migraine preceded by other symptoms) and other rare forms. Multiple mechanisms trigger the spasm and subsequent blood vessel dilation.

Symptoms

- Throbbing Pulsating Pain • Vertigo • Nausea
- Fatigue • Dizziness • Loss of Appetite • Vomiting
- Neck Pain • Pain sometimes may be worse on the sides of the forehead; be on only one side of the forehead; be severe or Dull; and commonly last 6 to 48 hours

Chiropractic care works on correcting the underlying causes of headaches and relieving symptoms associated with migraines. To see if chiropractic may be able to help you call (910)892-1119 today for a complimentary consultation.

Miracle League set to finish 3rd season

Julian Byers, right, awaits the pitch during a Miracle League contest June 30 at Tyler Park. The league gives children ages 5 and older with cognitive and/or physical disabilities the opportunity to play baseball in an organized, noncompetitive environment. Its third ever season was scheduled Thursday evening.

Banks steps down for 'personal reasons'

From Campbell University Athletics

BUIES CREEK — Campbell University announced Tuesday the appointment of Hannah Bazemore as the acting director of athletics, effective immediately. Bazemore replaces Omar Banks, who announced his departure as of June 30 for personal reasons after nearly three years in the position. "It is an incredible honor to step up as acting director of athletics and continue to serve my alma mater," said Bazemore, a two-time graduate from Campbell. She served as the school's senior associate athletics director for business and finance since 2020. Prior to this appointment, she served as Campbell's

Lillington Chamber rocks the river

From staff reports

The Lillington Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet was a little different this year. Chamber President Tara Fish and board members decided to take things outdoors by hosting the event on the banks of the Cape Fear River.

The "Rock the River" banquet was held June 21 at the Lillington River Park. Guests were treated to live entertainment from the Carolina Moon-dogs, a catered meal, and beverages from an area winery and brewery.

"From the music re-cord centerpieces to the breezy venue, the Rock the River Annual Banquet was a success thanks to our many sponsors, vol-unteers, and board mem-bers," said Annamarie Marinelli of the Lillington Area Chamber of Commerce in a release.

Awards presented include:

- Bill and Mildred Johnson Beautification Award — The Flower Pot.
- Business of the Year — The B Hive.
- Woman of the Year — Janice Arnold.
- Man of the Year — Joseph Jeffries.

Due to the coronavirus COVID-19 pandemic, the banquet was canceled in 2021. Past presidents were: 2020 President Sarah Bowman; and 2021 President Ann Milton.

"Because of the excite-ment and success of this year's annual banquet, the LACC Board looks forward to hosting and maintaining the annual banquet as an outdoor event for years to come," Marinelli said.

THINGS TO DO

'Queen of Bluegrass' in Dunn

The multi-award winning bluegrass band Rhonda Vincent and the Rage is coming to The Stewart Theatre in downtown Dunn Saturday, July 9. The concert starts at 7 p.m. Rhonda Vincent has won seven consecutive International Bluegrass Music Association Female Vocalist of the Year awards. On Feb. 28, 2020, she was invited to become a member of the Grand Ole Opry. Tickets are $35. For more information or to purchase tickets, visit stewarttheater.com.

Fireworks Sunday in Newton Grove

The town of Newton Grove will host its annual Independence Day Celebration Sunday, July 10, from 5 to 9 p.m. in Weeks Park on Park Drive. Festivities will include live music by Major Vice, food vendors, bounce houses and, of course, fireworks. Admission cost is $2; free for ages 4 and younger. Admission covers all activities except food and vendors. The band takes the stage from 6 to 9 p.m. The fireworks will start at dusk.

Benson's concert series continues

Jonathan Parker is the featured performer Thursday, July 14 for the next Sundown in Downtown Concert Series event in the Benson Singing Grove, 400 E. Main St. Admission is free. A disc jockey will start playing music at 5:30 p.m. and the band will take the stage from 6 to 9 p.m. There will be food vendors available. Be sure to bring your lawn chair. For more information, call 919-894-3825. Upcoming concerts include: Coastline Aug. 11 and Liquid Pleasure Oct. 13.

'Bye, Bye Birdie' on Temple stage

Sanford's Temple Theatre will present the musical comedy "Bye, Bye Birdie" July 15-16. Curtain times are 7:30 p.m. on Friday, July 15, and 2 and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, July 16. Tickets are $15. On Aug. 4-6, Temple will perform Shakespeare's "Romeo & Juliet." Performance time is 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $15. Temple Theatre is located at 120 Carthage St., Sanford. For more information or to purchase tickets, visit templeshows.org or call 919-774-4155.

Take a trip with NC museums this summer

For the Record

The collaborative Summer Passport Program is back. To start, get a passport at the North Carolina Museum of History, the North Carolina Museum of Art, or the North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences. Then complete the scavenger hunts and get your passport stamped at all three museums to earn a free NC Traveler patch. The hunts are great for elementary-age kids with attached grown-ups, but others can participate, too. The North Carolina Museum of History also will have a variety of other programs in July for children and adults, including "Summer Tar Heel Tales," "History and Highballs," "History at High Noon," and more.

Toward the end of the month, the museum will open a new exhibition, "North Carolina A to Z," which highlights a diverse array of people, places, events, and objects from North Carolina's history through the lens of an alphabetical framework. The museum and Museum Shop are open to the public. Effective March 7, masks are optional for visitors and staff at the North Carolina Museum of History. Admission is free. The North Carolina Museum of History is located at 5 E. Edenton St., Raleigh. For more information, call 919-814-7000 or visit ncmuseumofhistory.org.

Some upcoming programs

- Saturday, July 9, 10 a.m. to noon — "Hands-on History: In the Garden." A free in-person, drop-in program; all ages are welcome. Tour the "History of the Harvest" museum garden with an expert, make a native bee house, and learn some garden-fresh recipes.
- Tuesday, July 12, 10 a.m. — "Summer Tar Heel Tales: The Great Ball Game," at the museum. In-person, drop-in program; for ages 3 and older (with an adult). Stories don't go away during the summer! Join in to look around an exhibit with a museum staff member, then listen to a history-related story.
- Thursday, July 14, 7 p.m. — "History and Highballs: French Heritage of North Carolina," via Zoom. Adults only. Speaker will be Dr. Dudley M. Marchi, professor of Humanities, Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures, North Carolina State University. This presentation will give a brief overview of French heritage in North Carolina to set the stage for the arrival of the "French Gratitude Train" in downtown Raleigh Feb. 8, 1949. France sent boxcars laden with gifts to all 49 U.S. states in appreciation for securing the Allied victory over Germany. The American nickname for this magnificent gift was the "Merci Train." Archival photographs document the event and the collection of gifts.

- Tuesday, July 19, 10 a.m. — "Summer Tar Heel Tales: Wind Flyers," at the museum. In-person, drop-in program; ages 3 and older (with an adult).
- Wednesday, July 20, noon to 1 p.m. — "History at High Noon: Emerging Revolutionary War," Daniels Auditorium, NC Museum of History.
- Join the first "History at High Noon" back in person with a presentation by Revolutionary War historians Rob Orrison and Mark Maloy. Orrison will kick off the program talking about the Emerging Revolutionary War project that he and his colleagues have founded. Maloy will wrap up the presentation by sharing how in the worst winter of the Revolutionary War, George Washington dispatched Gen. James Hogun and his brigade of North Carolina Continental soldiers to march almost 800 miles from Washington's army outside New York City to reinforce the Continentals making a stand in Charleston, South Carolina. The North Carolinians marched overland for months through their home state and into the defenses of Charleston, only to surrender to the British a month later. Learn about these intrepid Continentals and their sacrifice for the cause of American independence.

- Thursday, July 21, 7 p.m. via Zoom — "History and Highballs: The Power of the Pivot." Adults only. Speaker will be Christi Ferretti, a chef and co-founder/co-owner of Wilmington's Pine Valley Market. Ferretti will provide an inside scoop on how, being a mother, wife and chef, she balances life as a successful small-business owner through recessions, accidents and a pandemic. Ferretti, a Florida native, spent many years in the catering business and as a personal chef in Orlando. She has been at home in the kitchen since she could walk. Ferretti credits her love for food and helpfulness to her Italian heritage. A graduate of the University of Central Florida, with a degree in education, Ferretti enjoys sharing her knowledge of food and wine with customers and friends.
- Tuesday, July 26, 10 a.m. at the museum — "Summer Tar Heel Tales: The Pig Who Went Home on Sunday — An Appalachian Folktale." In-person, drop-in program for ages 3 and older (with an adult).
- Friday, July 29, 9 a.m. — Exhibit opening: "North Carolina A to Z." The North Carolina Museum of History staff embraced the chance to create an exhibition that matched aspects of North Carolina history to each letter of the alphabet. Sure, B could stand for Basketball, but what would X represent? Or Q? "North Carolina A to Z" highlights a diverse array of people, places, events, and objects from North Carolina's history through the lens of an alphabetical framework. It employs artifacts, images, and interactive opportunities to present both familiar and lesser-known topics from the state's past. The exhibit features a wide variety of artifacts from the museum's collection, including several that are rarely displayed. Visitors also will be able to engage with exhibition content through photo ops, multimedia presentations, games, and other hands-on activities.

- Sunday, July 31, 5 p.m. — "Exhibit Closing: Are We There Yet? North Carolina's Variety Vacationland, 1930s-1970s." This photography exhibit looks back at an era when tourism boomed thanks largely to a state-run marketing effort called "Variety Vacationland." The Variety Vacationland campaign was successful in creating a unified tourism industry in North Carolina from the 1930s to the 1970s by depicting our state as both modern and progressive, but with strong ties to its past. However, true to the Jim Crow era, most sites promoted were marketed (and accessible) to White tourists only; people of color were neglected and even exploited at times, an attitude this exhibit attempts to point out where possible. During the Great Depression of the 1930s, politicians and business leaders began efforts to boost North Carolina's economy by lobbying for a statewide campaign to showcase tourism attractions. This eventually led to a full-color tourist guide titled North Carolina, a Variety Vacationland first printed in 1937. It was soon followed by billboards, postcards, movies, television programs, and even a jingle.

Looking back to 1990 in Coats

Numbers are fascinating. For example, in 1990, the U.S. census recorded that the population of the United States was 249,632,692 people compared to the 332,915,073 in 2021. By subtracting numbers, one can tell the growth of the U.S. population in 31 years. Numbers determine the speed one drives on a road; the number of calories one can eat to lose or gain weight; the warmth or coolness of our houses and vehicles; and the amount one pays for items. Yes, the numbers determine whether a player or team wins in competition with others.

Wonder if the students who attended the Coats Middle School Athletic Banquet at Pope's Barn can remember the numbers from their wins and losses in the sporting events? I do know that basketball player Robert Brinkley was special guest and Randy Peele, associate basketball coach at Campbell, made remarks (The Daily Record, May 22, 1990).

As we have revisited, year by year, the history of the Coats Grove Township, do you recall that many, many years ago, a club of ladies had fundraiser after fundraiser to help support projects for Coats School? That group of ladies called themselves the Community's Woman's Club.

They raised funds by card games, oyster roasts, bake sales and any other activity that would add funds to their treasury to buy lights and opera seats in the 1921 brick school building, to feed and provide clothing for poor students, and to help construct a community building.

In the decade of the '90s, there continued to be a Woman's Club. Officers for this club were installed at Serena's Courtyard in Lillington. Mary Jo Mann and Juanita Hudson were hostesses to the event. Mary Denning was the club president. "Party Planning for the Summer" was the program and was given by Juanita Hudson. Becky Upchurch announced as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee that Sabrina Hendley had won the quilt on which $654 had been sold.

Mary Jo Mann installed the club officers who were President Mary Denning, Secretary Joyce W. Stewart, Treasurer Christine Akerman, Chaplain Laura Langdon, Historian Mary Langdon and Parliamentarian Juanita Hudson. (When visiting the Coats Museum Research Library, take a look at the Coats Woman's Club's scrapbooks — yes, scrapbooks — to see the many years of service that the women of Coats Grove Township have made for the betterment of the area.)

The students at Coats Middle School were developing social skills. The seventh- and eighth-graders dressed in their favorite party clothes to attend the prom. The Coats Senior Center also was dressed up to make the affair a night of beauty and fun (The Daily Record, May 24, 1990).

Graham and Effie Turlington and Buck and Peggy Senter traveled to the Amish country and Longview Gardens in Delaware. Florence Adams celebrated her 95th birthday. The numbers indicate that she was born in 1895 when Joseph Ary Stewart was postmaster at Troyville because there was no Coats at that time. There was no railroad or an automobile in the area, so any mail would have been delivered via some other means of travel upon some road other than N.C. Highway 55. Did the mail come by stage coach down the Raleigh-Fayetteville Stagecoach Road?

By the way, there was no rural delivery of mail either so someone had to make the trek to Troyville, Barclaysville or Turlington to get the mail.

However, there was a Buies Creek Academy at that time. In fact, it was about eight years old, but I don't know what road one took to get to it from Troyville.

I do know though that several Coats students graduated from the now Campbell University in 1990. Edwin Brewer, with a Bachelor of Science; Hewitt Alexander Brown Jr. Education Specialist; Julia Danenburg Butler, summa cum laude, Bachelor of Science; Wanda Turnage Pearce, magna cum laude, Bachelor of Science; Joan McDuffie Stanley, Master of Education; Scott Edward Tripp, Bachelor of Arts; Stephanie Parker Tripp, Associate in Arts and Penny Gale Weaver, Bachelor of Arts (The Daily Record, May 24, 1990).

Community Woman's Club members, from left, are Florine Penny, Lib Guy and Juanita Hudson, as they appeared in 2013, when they presented the club scrapbooks to the museum.

Mary Denning as she appeared during her year as president of the Community Woman's Club in 1990.

Marriage was in the picture for some families. Amanda Glover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Glover, had married Craig Maynard, in an outdoor ceremony in Lillington (The Daily Record, May 25, 1990).

That marriage announcement was followed by that of Angela Joan Moore, formerly of Coats, who had married Edward Hodges. Both were from Cary. Several relatives were in the wedding party: Lori Langdon, Mark Langdon, Donald Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Devon Moore (The Daily Record, May 28, 1990).

A third wedding announcement appeared in the local Daily Record. Gina Rebecca Parrish and Steven Jernigan were married in Coats Baptist Church. Her sister, Tanya Parrish, was maid of honor. Virginia Mabry, Traci Jernigan Moore, Karen Lee, Michelle Ennis, Amy McCaulley, Nicole Lee, Taylor Jernigan, Tamara Mabry, Alicia Mabry, Brandon Lee, Howard Mabry, Scott Turlington, Scott Lee and Gary Dennis were part of the wedding party. Patty Styons, Denise Matthews,

What perfect timing Danny McLamb had when he came to present magazines and newspapers from the World War II victory announcements last week and just in time for the Fourth of July.

Debbie E. Turlington and Helen Mabry assisted with music and direction of the event. The bride was a 1985 graduate of Coats High School and a 1986 graduate of the John Roberts Powers in Interior Design (The Daily Record, May 29, 1990).

While three families were celebrating weddings, another Coats family was celebrating the life of a family member. Delphia Norris, 75, had died on Friday. Her three children were Della Pleasant, Grace Williams and Charles W. Norris.

Her services were held at the Gift Primitive Baptist Church with burial in the Hodges Chapel Church Cemetery (The Daily Record, June 5, 1990).

Thank you goes to Randy and Rhonda Stephenson, Lynda and Robie Butler and H.L. and Gayle Sorrell for remembering the following with memorials: Doris C. Ennis, Margie N. Thornton, Warren Rainbolt and Gloria Byrd and an honorarium for Patsy Avery. The donations make a difference in the operation of the museum.

Family drama intensifies with dogs’ disappearance

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have inherited four dogs from relatives. I was out of state for a month (my husband was home) when two of them were dognapped, driven 42 miles away and abandoned in the wilderness. I suspected who had done it right away, but when I heard where the dogs had been abandoned, I knew without a doubt. We were lucky: One dog was microchipped, which eventually led him back to us. Both were cared for by rescue foundations until I could bring them home.

The person who did it is our son’s girlfriend — and the mother of his child. We are appalled and feel betrayed and sickened. My son admitted he knew she had done it. He showed remorse and gave a heartfelt apology. She has completely avoided us, with no admission or apology.

Should we press charges for stealing our dogs and abandoning them? They live on our property in a home we own, and pay nothing to live here. She and I used to be close. Now my husband and I no longer want to have her around. All trust is gone. Please advise me how to deal with this.

— VICTIM IN OHIO

DEAR VICTIM: Did the dogs do anything to threaten the girlfriend or your grandchild? If the answer is yes, then those animals present a danger. If the answer is no, tell your son you plan to press charges against his girlfriend for theft and animal cruelty, and you expect him to corroborate that she was the perpetrator. If he refuses, give them a date by which they should be off your property.

DEAR ABBY
Abigail Van Buren

CHURCH

JAMES 1:6

But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed.

The Bible on ‘innocent blood’

Perhaps you're aware that trained dogs are able to "sniff out" specific destructive diseases in humans and plants. Truthfully, murders and mass shootings also seem like diseases that are destroying America, and the spread must be stopped. Likewise, let's "sniff out" (search or hunt down) the scriptures to uncover what the Bible has to say about murder or "shedding innocent blood."

Thumbing through recent news headlines, we have witnessed such words as: “shooting innocent people, innocent lives taken too soon, another deadly mass shooting, gunned down, scrambling for safety, opened fire, community grieving and high-powered assault weapon.” Innocent gatherings have been targets of guilty, selfish gunfire.

Then, authorities look for a motive. Really? Evil is the motive, and the Lord hates sin. Here are key, disgraceful atrocities that the Lord hates:

“These six things the Lord hates. Yes, seven are an abomination to Him: A proud look, a lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood, a heart that devises wicked plans, feet that are swift in running to evil, a false witness who speaks lies, and one who sows discord among brethren.” (Proverbs 6: 16-19).

Additionally, all colors are negatively impacting this great nation, not just one. According to Statista Research Department, there have been 132 mass shootings in the United States between 1982 and July 2022 (53% White shooters, 16% Black, 8% Latino and 6% Asian shooters). <https://www.statista.com/statistics/476456/mass-shootings-in-the-us-by-shooter-s-race/>

Also, Blacks need to stop killing each other.

Do we devalue human life? Even in Ukraine, Russian air strikes bombed a maternity hospital (www.usatoday.com), among other places. To belittle life is to disrespect the giver and creator of life.

Further, the unborn have “innocent blood.” Blood runs through the bodies of innocent babies in the womb, so abortion is killing as a reproductive choice. Millions missing.

Perhaps the widespread disposal of fetal remains (well, and also violent video games and copycats from media coverage) has assisted in emboldening a culture in which humanity is devalued, evidenced by senseless shootings and killings. It's hatred. Where is the love? God is love.

Ultimately, we adhere to God's holy word, our guide on how to treat others. One of the Ten Commandments is "Thou shalt not kill" (Exodus 20). Where's the spiritual compass? My friends, Jesus is the answer.

Good old-fashioned advice: If given an appropriate opportunity, lovingly say, "Hey young man, please pull those pants up. Don't walk like that. You're better than that."

Prayer: We need You, Lord Jesus, right now. We turn to You. Almighty, have mercy on this nation and world of evil decisions. We need more than another social program or legislation for gun control.

Dr. Della Marie Woods Newkirk is an educator and native of Lillington. She can be reached at newkirkdella@gmail.com.

It all started in a garden

Each year when I begin to plant flowers I take on the task of cleaning out last years pots or flower beds.

I empty the old soil to add fresh and break up the soil. I make such a mess as I begin the process of planting each spring.

In life things become very messy in the process of being cleaned up. We have to uproot anything that shouldn't be there and we must make room for new growth. We must take care of the new growth. We trust that God will bring sunshine, rain and warmth for the plants to grow.

As what we have planted takes root and grows there will be times when the wind blows or the sun withers them. Sometimes we have to make adjustments to their location to protect them from the elements. There are other times when they must stay where they are and hard work must be

NOTICE OF SERVICE BY PUBLICATION
STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
CUMBERLAND COUNTY
IN THE GENERAL COURT OF JUSTICE
DISTRICT COURT DIVISION/JUVENILE SECTION
FILE NO: 19 JT 434

IN RE: B. HARDMAN
Juvenile

TO: ELIZABETH ANN HODGES-MOSHER, mother of a male juvenile born on 3/7/2019 in Harnett County, North Carolina

Take notice that a Petition seeking to terminate your parental rights has been filed in the District Court of Cumberland County, North Carolina; that you may file an answer to the Petition within forty (40) days after July 1, 2022, and that failure to answer the Petition within the time prescribed may result in your parental rights being terminated. A copy of the answer must also be served on the Petitioner and his/her attorney.

Take further notice that the Court will conduct a hearing to determine whether one or more grounds alleged in the Petition exist. If the Court finds that one or more grounds exist, the Court will proceed at that hearing or a later hearing to determine whether parental rights should be terminated. That notice of the date, time, and location of the hearing will be mailed to by the Petitioner after you file an answer or thirty (30) days from the date of service if you do not file an answer, upon receipt of an address.

That if you are indigent, you are entitled to appointed counsel and may contact the Cumberland County Clerk of Superior Court, Juvenile Division, at (910)475-3000 immediately to request the same. That counsel has provisionally been appointed for you and the appointment of the provisional counsel will be reviewed by the Court at the first hearing after service.

That you are entitled to attend any hearing affecting your parental rights; as described above, the Petitioner will mail you notice of the date, time, and location of the hearing upon receipt of your address.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE
22 SP 161

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust made by David W. Bell (Deceased) (PRESENT RECORD OWNER(S): David W. Bell, Heirs of David W. Bell: Jonathan Titter Bell, Susan Logan, Michael Bell) to James R. Seely, Trustee(s), dated August 10, 2020, and recorded in Book No. 3850, at Page 847 in Harnett County Registry, North Carolina, default having been made in the payment of the promissory note secured by the said Deed of Trust and the undersigned, Substitute Trustee Services, Inc. having been substituted as Trustee in said Deed of Trust by an instrument duly recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds Harnett County, North Carolina and the holder of the note evidencing said indebtedness having directed that the Deed of Trust be foreclosed, the undersigned Substitute Trustee will offer for sale at the courthouse door in Lillington, Harnett County, North Carolina, or the customary location designated for foreclosure sales, at 1:30 PM on July 21, 2022 and will sell to the highest bidder for cash the following real estate situated in Broadway in the County of Harnett, North Carolina, and being more particularly described as follows:

Being all of Lot 94 in a subdivision known as Patton's Point, according to a map duly recorded in Map Book 2005-899, Harnett County, North Carolina Registry. Together with improvements located thereon; said property being located at 290 Strike Eagle Drive, Broadway, North Carolina.

Trustee may, in the Trustee's sole discretion, delay the sale for up to one hour as provided in N.C.G.S. §45-21.23.

Should the property be purchased by a third party, that party must pay the excise tax, as well as the court costs of Forty-Five Cents ($0.45) per One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) required by N.C.G.S. §7A-308(a)(1).

The property to be offered pursuant to this notice of sale is being offered for sale, transfer and conveyance "AS IS, WHERE IS." Neither the Trustee nor the holder of the note secured by the deed of trust/security agreement, or both, being foreclosed, nor the officers, directors, attorneys, employees, agents or authorized representative of either the Trustee or the holder of the note make any representation or warranty relating to the title or any physical, environmental, health or safety conditions existing in, on, at or relating to the property being offered for sale, and any and all responsibilities or liabilities arising out of or in any way relating to any such condition are expressly disclaimed. Also, this property is being sold subject to all taxes, special assessments, and prior liens or prior encumbrances of record and any recorded releases. Said property is also being sold subject to applicable Federal and State laws.

A deposit of five percent (5%) of the purchase price, or seven hundred fifty dollars ($750.00), whichever is greater, is required and must be tendered in the form of certified funds at the time of the sale.

If the trustee is unable to convey title to this property for any reason, the sole remedy of the purchaser is the return of the deposit. Reasons of such inability to convey include, but are not limited to, the filing of a bankruptcy petition prior to the confirmation of the sale and reinstatement of the loan without the knowledge of the trustee. If the validity of the sale is challenged by any party, the trustee, in its sole discretion, if it believes the challenge to have merit, may request the court to declare the sale to be void and return the deposit. The purchaser will have no further remedy.

Additional Notice for Residential Property with Less than 15 rental units, including Single-Family Residential Real Property

An order for possession of the property may be issued pursuant to N.C.G.S. § 45-21.29 in favor of the purchaser and against the party or parties in possession by the clerk of superior court of the county in which the property is sold.

Any person who occupies the property pursuant to a rental agreement entered into or renewed on or after October 1, 2007, may after receiving the notice of foreclosure sale, terminate the rental agreement by providing written notice of termination to the landlord, to be effective on a date stated in the notice that is at least 10 days, but not more than 90 days, after the sale date contained in this notice of sale, provided that the mortgagor has not cured the default at the time the tenant provides the notice of termination. Upon termination of a rental agreement, the tenant is liable for rent due under the rental agreement prorated to the effective date of the termination.

IN THE MATTER OF THE FORECLOSURE OF A DEED OF TRUST EXECUTED BY JAY LEDERMAN DATED JULY 29, 2021 AND RECORDED IN BOOK 4022 AT PAGE 196 IN THE HARNETT COUNTY PUBLIC REGISTRY, NORTH CAROLINA

NOTICE OF SALE

Under and by virtue of the power and authority contained in the above-referenced deed of trust and because of default in payment of the secured debt and failure to perform the agreements contained therein and, pursuant to demand of the holder of the secured debt, the undersigned will expose for sale at public auction at the usual place of sale at the Harnett County courthouse at 1:00PM on July 18, 2022, the following described real estate and any improvements situated thereon, in Harnett County, North Carolina, and being more particularly described in that certain Deed of Trust executed Jay Lederman, dated July 29, 2021 to secure the original principal amount of $221,661.00, and recorded in Book 4022 at Page 196 of the Harnett County Public Registry. The terms of the said Deed of Trust may be modified by other instruments appearing in the public record. Additional identifying information regarding the collateral property is below and is believed to be accurate, but no representation or warranty is intended.

Address of property: 106 Crystal Spring Dr, Sanford, NC 27332
Tax Parcel ID: 9587-70-5973.000
Present Record Owners: Jay Lederman

The record owner(s) of the property, according to the records of the Register of Deeds, is/are Jay Lederman.

The property to be offered pursuant to this notice of sale is being offered for sale, transfer and conveyance AS IS, WHERE IS. Neither the Trustee nor the holder of the note secured by the deed of trust being foreclosed, nor the officers, directors, attorneys, employees, agents or authorized representative of either the Trustee or the holder of the note make any representation or warranty relating to the title or any physical, environmental, health or safety conditions existing in, on, at or relating to the property offered for sale. Any and all responsibilities or liabilities arising out of or in any way relating to any such condition expressly are disclaimed. This sale is subject to all prior liens and encumbrances and unpaid taxes and assessments including any transfer tax associated with the foreclosure. A deposit of five percent (5%) of the amount of the bid or seven hundred fifty dollars ($750.00), whichever is greater, is required from the highest bidder and must be tendered in the form of certified funds at the time of the sale. Cash will not be accepted. This sale will be held open ten days for upset bids as required by law. After the expiration of the upset period, all remaining amounts are IMMEDIATELY DUE AND OWING. Failure to remit funds in a timely manner will result in a Declaration of Default and any deposit will be frozen pending the outcome of any re-sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the deposit paid. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagor, the Mortgagee, the Substitute Trustee or the attorney of any of the foregoing.

SPECIAL NOTICE FOR LEASEHOLD TENANTS residing at the property: be advised that an Order for Possession of the property may be issued in favor of the purchaser. Also, if your lease began on or renewed on or after October 1, 2007, be advised that you may terminate the rental agreement upon 10 days written notice to the landlord. You may be liable for rent due under the agreement prorated to the effective date of the termination.

The date of this Notice is June 28, 2022.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE

NORTH CAROLINA, HARNETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of a Power of Sale contained in that certain Deed of Trust executed by Antonio Galvan and Christy Galvan to David J. Zugerhi, Trustee(s), which was dated July 31, 2013 and recorded on July 31, 2013 in Book 3145 at Page 380, Harnett County Registry, North Carolina.

Default having been made of the note thereby secured by the said Deed of Trust and the undersigned, Trustee Services of Carolina, LLC, having been substituted as Trustee in said Deed of Trust, and the holder of the note evidencing said default having directed that the Deed of Trust be foreclosed, the undersigned Substitute Trustee will offer for sale at the courthouse door of the county courthouse where the property is located, or the usual and customary location at the county courthouse for conducting the sale on July 21, 2022 at 10:00 AM, and will sell to the highest bidder for cash the following described property situated in Harnett County, North Carolina, to wit:

BEING ALL OF LOT 5 ON THAT CERTAIN MAP OF SURVEY BY STANCIL AND ASSOCIATES, REGISTERED LAND SURVEYORS, P.A. DATED SEPTEMBER 7, 1988 AND RECORDED IN PLAT CABINET D, PAGE 59-D HARNETT COUNTY REGISTRY.

Save and except any releases, deeds of release or prior conveyances of record.

Said property is commonly known as 491 Fred Burns Road, Holly Springs, NC 27540.

A Certified Check ONLY (no personal checks) of five percent (5%) of the purchase price, or Seven Hundred Fifty Dollars ($750.00), whichever is greater, will be required at the time of the sale. Following the expiration of the statutory upset bid period, all the remaining amounts are immediately due and owing. THIRD PARTY PURCHASERS MUST PAY THE EXCISE TAX AND THE RECORDING COSTS FOR THEIR DEED.

Said property to be offered pursuant to this Notice of Sale is being offered for sale, transfer and conveyance "AS IS WHERE IS." There are no representations of warranty relating to the title or any physical, environmental, health or safety conditions existing in, on, at, or relating to the property being offered for sale. This sale is made subject to all prior liens, unpaid taxes, any unpaid land transfer taxes, special assessments, easements, rights of way, deeds of release, and any other encumbrances or exceptions of record. To the best of the knowledge and belief of the undersigned, the current owner(s) of the property is/are ANTONIO GALVAN.

An Order for possession of the property may be issued pursuant to G.S. 45-21.29 in favor of the purchaser and against the party or parties in possession by the clerk of superior court of the county in which the property is sold. Any person who occupies the property pursuant to a rental agreement entered into or renewed on or after October 1, 2007, may, after receiving the notice of sale, terminate the rental agreement by providing written notice of termination to the landlord, to be effective on a date stated in the notice that is at least 10 days, but no more than 90 days, after the sale date contained in the notice of sale, provided that the mortgagor has not cured the default at the time the tenant provides the notice of termination [NCGS § 45-21.16A(b)(2)]. Upon termination of a rental agreement, the tenant is liable for rent due under the rental agreement prorated to the effective date of the termination.

If the trustee is unable to convey title to this property for any reason, the sole remedy of the purchaser is the return of the deposit. Reasons of such inability to convey include, but are not limited to, the filing of a bankruptcy petition prior to the confirmation of the sale and reinstatement of the loan without the knowledge of the trustee. If the validity of the sale is challenged by any party, the trustee, in their sole discretion, if they believe the challenge to have merit, may request the court to declare the sale to be void and return the deposit. The purchaser will have no further remedy.
