20-mile road rage incident ends in shooting

Began in Smithfield.
 Ended in Dunn.

By ROBERT JORDAN
 Of the Record staff

A road rage incident that started when a driver cut in front of another in Smithfield escalated to a food fight before ending in a shooting in Dunn Friday night.

Officers say an angry driver, described as a shirtless white man in his mid- to late-20s, threw Pepperidge Farm Goldfish snacks at people in a blue 2006 Chevrolet Impala after they cut him off. Then, police say he pulled a shotgun on the Impala's occupants, firing into the car around 10:25 p.m. at the intersection of West Cumberland Street and South Ellis Avenue. Two men were injured in the Impala at the scene, according to Dunn police.

Officers were still looking for the shooter Monday. Police say he was driving a silver Nissan Exterra with dark tinted windows and fled the scene, heading north.

Twenty-four-year-old James Jackson and 22-year-old Adam Jackson were injured by the shotgun blast. Their wounds were not considered life threatening injuries. A third occupant of the Impala was Joseph Snow, 18. He was not injured.

Patrol Sgt. Kelvin C. Barbour took the initial report on the shooting. The investigation was turned over to Criminal Investigative Sgt. Matthew Matos.

The investigation remains active.

Anyone with information regarding this incident is asked to contact Sgt. Matos with the Criminal Investigative Division of Dunn Police Department at 910-892-2399, or Dunn Crimestoppers at 910-892-2222.

Witnesses say it was the same man from the first robbery.

Man on oxygen dies in fire

A 52-year-old man on oxygen died in a fire that sparked while he was smoking inside his Ashbrook apartment in Dunn on May 26, according to his daughter. But it wasn't the first time he was burned while smoking.

His daughter is now hoping apartments will ban smoking, especially among tenants using oxygen, to prevent deaths like his in the future.

"Why did he have permission to smoke in that apartment with oxygen?" asked Erica Herbstreith, grieving the sudden loss of her father, David Herbstreith. "He was on oxygen!"

David Herbstreith spent two-and-a-half months in a Chapel Hill burn unit recovering from a previous fire that scorched his right leg. He was smoking while using oxygen when that fire started, too, at a different apartment, his daughter said.

"He fell asleep being on all that medication. I went to the doctor's office and I raised Cain. They shouldn't have had him on all that," she said. "It caught the whole side of his right leg on fire."

His burns required skin grafts and weeks of rehabilitation. But it didn't prevent the second fire that took his life.

Firefighters were called to Ashbrook Apartments on East Pears-

Habitual felon at it again, police say

By EMILY WEAVER

Anderson

A Lillington man, with three impaired driving convictions and several robberies in his past, is facing habitual charges after he was accused of driving impaired with a flat tire Saturday, June 4. Reporting Officer Jason Guinn said 59-year-old Reginald Lee Anderson was arrested “after leaving an incident impaired and traveling up the roadway with a flat tire.” Anderson was “belligerent” during the arrest, Guinn noted, and was turned over to the North Carolina State Highway Patrol for DWI processing. Deputies booked Anderson into the Harnett County Detention Center under a $25,000 secured bond. In Harnett County, Anderson is charged with habitual impaired driving and driving while impaired with a revoked license that was revoked for impaired driving.

In Johnston County, Anderson is charged with an habitual felon count, possessing a controlled substance on jail premises, driving with a revoked license and failing to stop for a red light. His felony habitual larceny charge stems from Wake County. He was first convicted of obtaining property through a false pretense in Wake County in 1997. Since then, his list of convictions include multiple larcenies, assaults on women, reckless driving, a hit and run and an habitual impaired driving conviction in 2019.

More formula options available to WIC families during shortage

For the Record

RALEIGH — Families participating in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) can now use their benefits for a much wider variety of infant formula brands and types, helping them access the formula available in stores during the nationwide shortage when Gerber products are not available.

The North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services has made 55 additional formula products temporarily available for WIC recipients Monday as part of its efforts to support families during the shortage. This is in addition to eight options added last week for different sizes and types of Gerber products. “Giving these families more flexibility in the brand of baby formula they buy is the right thing to do during this shortage period,” said Gov. Roy Cooper. NCDHHS acted in partnership with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Nestlé, which manufacturers Gerber infant formula, to provide these choices for WIC families during the shortage when Gerber formulas are not available. North Carolina contracts with Gerber to provide WIC recipients standard types of infant formulas. “We are taking every potential action to ensure families participating in WIC have the flexibility they need at the shelf to obtain infant formula,” said NCDHHS Secretary Kody H. Kinsley. “We will continue working with our local and federal partners to do all that we can to ensure safe and nutritious options for babies and families.” Beginning Monday, June 6, families can temporarily purchase with their WIC benefits these additional standard formula brands and sizes. Families do not need to take any actions to access these temporarily expanded WIC benefits. Families can see the new options in the Bnft app and can scan the products in the app to verify coverage. When redeeming the new sizes, any can of infant formula 28 ounces or smaller will count as one can. Any can larger than 28 ounces will count as two cans. These new product options for WIC recipients follow last week's temporary addition of two new Gerber formula products as well as more sizes of Gerber formula. A full list of product options is available to help families plan their shopping. NCDHHS continues to update resources and guidance during the formula shortage. The latest resources are available at www.ncdhhs.gov/formula. For families struggling to find the formula they need, NCDHHS has four important reminders:

- Remember that most families have multiple safe options for their infants even if their usual formula is not in stock. If you can't find formula or can't find your baby's typical formula, work with your child's health care provider to determine the best feeding plan.
- Do NOT water down your baby's formula to stretch it out, it can be extremely dangerous to your baby to do so.
- Do NOT make homemade formula. A baby's nutritional needs are very specific, and homemade formula may contain too little or too much of certain vitamins and minerals, like iron.
- Do NOT buy formula from online auctions, unknown individuals, or unknown origins. Storage and shipping conditions may impact formula safety.

Other actions NCDHHS is taking to support families:

- Monitoring the formula supply across the state and keeping our partner organizations updated.
- Using available USDA waivers to help retailers continue to serve WIC-enrolled families during the shortage and help families return or exchange formulas included in the recall.
- Providing guidance to local WIC agencies and health care providers to make it easier for health care providers to give WIC-enrolled families several options of formula types and sizes on a single prescription to meet their children's specialized formula needs.
- Sharing additional breastfeeding resources for those considering breastfeeding or using any breast milk as part of infant feeding plans.

The WIC program serves to safeguard the health of low-income pregnant, postpartum, and breastfeeding women, infants and children up to age 5 who are at nutritional risk by providing nutritious foods to supplement diets, information on healthy eating, including breastfeeding resources and support, and referrals to health care. More than half of infants nationwide participate in WIC.

all Street at 3:10 a.m. May 26, according to Dunn Emergency Services Director Gary Whitman. First responders found fire and smoke in Herbstreith's apartment.

His body was found on the floor in a search when the blaze was extinguished. He was dead at the scene.

Erica Herbstreith said she was alerted to the fire by a downstairs neighbor who called to tell her she tried to save him. The screams that neighbor reported hearing still haunted Erica Herbstreith a week later.

Before his declining health, Erica Herbstreith said her father “walked around Erwin all the time.”

“He loved his young’uns and his grandbabies,” she said. “He was the best daddy I could have had.”

All she had left of her father was his cellphone and his wallet on Thursday as she waited to get into his charred apartment.

No one was allowed in and no items were allowed to leave until investigators and an insurance adjuster finished with the unit, according to Erica Herbstreith.

The cause of the fire remains under investigation, according to Harnett County Fire Marshal Rodney Daniels.

“There is some testing still to be done,” Daniels said.

David Herbstreith is survived by his ex-wife, Nancy Nichols; daughter, Erica, and her children, Railen and Tailen Purcell; son, Justin Herbstreith, and his children, Holden Wayne Herbstreith and Addalyn Ray Herbstreith; and brothers, Steve Herbstreith, Michael Herbstreith and Terry Herbstreith.

Biden wants high gas prices

By MARC A. THIESSEN

As Americans struggle to put gas in the tank, President Joe Biden appears to praise high gas prices as a necessary part of our historic shift from fossil fuels.

"Here's the situation," Biden said at a Tokyo news conference on May 23, "when it comes to the gas prices, we're going through an incredible transition that is taking place that, God willing, when it's over, we'll be stronger and the world will be stronger and less reliant on fossil fuels."

An "incredible transition?" For Americans barely making ends meet, the only thing incredible about gas prices is how high they are.

But this was not just another Biden gaffe; it is administration policy. Testifying before Congress on May 19, Interior Secretary Deb Haaland repeatedly refused to say that gas prices are too high.

If the Biden administration cared about high gas prices, they would be doing everything in their power to increase domestic production. After a federal judge invalidated an offshore oil and gas lease sale in January, the administration chose not to appeal and has since canceled three transactions in the Gulf of Mexico and off the coast of Alaska — taking millions of acres off the auction block. The Washington Post called the move "a victory for climate activists intent on curbing U.S. fossil fuel leasing," which "effectively ends the possibility of the federal government holding a lease sale in coastal waters this year." Worse, the administration is about to let the nationwide offshore drilling program expire next month without a new plan in place.

This is exactly what Biden has promised his climate-obsessed left-wing base. While President Donald Trump opened 100 million acres of public land and water to exploration, Biden promised in 2020 to ban all "new oil and gas permitting on public lands and waters." And one of his first acts in his first week as president was to halt all new federal leasing. It was only after a Louisiana judge struck down his moratorium last summer that his administration involuntarily resumed leasing.

Many Americans are beginning to suspect that, just as the government deliberately raised the cost of cigarettes to curb smoking, Democrats want to see gas prices rise so that Americans will stop using fossil fuels.

And while raising the cost of smoking does not harm our national security, raising the cost of fossil fuels does. One of the great geostrategic developments of the early 21st century was our nation's emergence as an energy superpower. On Trump's watch, the United States supplanted Russia and Saudi Arabia as the world's largest oil producer. This not only created jobs for Americans, it also transformed the national security landscape in our favor.

Now, Biden is desperately turning to our enemies for oil. Why would Biden want to increase our dependence on rogue states such as the Russian-, Chinese- and Cuban-backed regime in Venezuela?

Simple. He doesn't want to increase domestic production because he sees the crisis with Russia as an opportunity to speed our "incredible transition" from fossil fuels. In Tokyo, he just said the quiet part out loud.

Mark Thiessen is a senior fellow at the American Enterprise Institute (aei.org) in Washington. A longer version of this article appeared in the Washington Post.

Can life be a danger zone at times?

"I went to the danger zone" Sunday. If those lyrics sound familiar, perhaps you're a "Top Gun" fanatic, too. "Top Gun: Maverick" is a satisfying sequel — it's action-packed, thoughtfully written, and so well orchestrated, I found myself singing, gasping, laughing and crying before its ending credits.

When we returned home Sunday night, I thought about how all the events that transpired on the silver screen were so applicable to real life. Despite the sequel fast forwarding three decades, it is Tom Cruise's character — Capt. Pete "Maverick" Mitchell — whose past continued to haunt him.

With 34 years with the Navy, Maverick's career has seemed to stall: He never surpassed the rank of a captain. The career of the once highly ambitious fighter pilot couldn't get past his former wingman's fatal accident in flight.

Navy officials had been attempting to thwart a project to craft the world's quickest flier — having its hypersonic jet exceed a Mach 10 speed level. Those in authority had initially set their quotient at a minimally acceptable 9 G, only to unreasonably raise their requirements to 10 Gs.

Just as in life — when expectations are set too high — those officials could be setting folks up for failure, or even worse, destruction.

When Maverick poignantly reminisced his past with the late Lt. Nick "Goose" Bradshaw, he continually blamed himself for Goose's demise. It was when Adm. Tom "Iceman"

Kazansky met with Maverick that he urged the fighter pilot to get on with his life — exclaiming it's "time to let go."

Sometimes when we're met with life's challenges, we should do just that: Let go and let God take the wheel.

As evidenced by this movie, those in a leadership role should not only build camaraderie, but they should always support his or her team. If someone is struggling, the authoritarian should always humble himself or herself — and go back to help them. Maverick did just that: He learned to never leave his wingman.

In life, team leaders should be up for the tasks ahead. Maverick told his colleague, Hondo, that he wouldn't allow his Fighter Weapons School to be compromised or shuttered if they weren't able to surpass the minimal 10-Gs-requirement.

The flick also emphasized that the most successful leaders aren't necessarily the top students or first choices. When Adm. "Iceman" climbed the ranks, he continually pledged his support for Maverick, who actually finished second to him in their Top Gun class.

During the sequel, Jon Hamm's character, Adm. "Cyclone" Simpson admitted to Maverick that he hadn't even considered the pilot for Project Darkstar. He was only heeding the instructions of Iceman.

Goose's surviving son, Lt. Bradley "Rooster" Bradshaw qualified to be a Top Gun fighter pilot and was assigned to Maverick's tutelage.

His prior knowledge of the captain's fatal flight involving his late father created havoc for the two characters. The pressure was only exacerbated as Maverick is forced to train "Rooster" and the young pilots whose international assignment appeared to be a suicidal mission. They are instructed to locate and to dangerously eradicate a uranium enhancement facility in enemy territory.

"Rooster" implored Maverick to see the near-fatal mission to its fruition — repeating back to the captain his phrase, it isn't the plane [who calls the shots], but rather, the pilot."

During this second installment, Maverick confessed that teaching was not his greatest attribute — stating that being an aviator and a fighter pilot "was who he was." Like Maverick's character, we all tend to grow wiser with age; our levels of life's discernment seem to increase; and we may more readily admit our limitations.

Prior to the movie's denouement, Maverick's life seemed to come full circle. Not only did he protect his best friend's son from a fatal crash, he led by example, he overcame the past that had haunted him for decades and he found personal redemption in his career and with his long-lost love.

During what is perceived as life's "danger zones," we, too, can follow Maverick's example — never losing hope and faith in ourselves and in our fellow man.

Remembering history essential

Everyone knows we study history in school. We know it's essential that we teach our children about their past, but many times we don't know how to do it. A local nonprofit is working to change that and should be commended for doing so. They are bringing history out of the history books and classrooms and in front of the world.

Being asked to be on the board of the Averagesboro Town Restoration Association prompted these words this week and renewed my interest in preserving the area's heritage. The name of the organization is reference to what was a major trading and residential town that no longer stands.

Before its unfortunate demise, the town of Averagesborough stood outside Erwin. It became one of the largest sites of trade on the Cape Fear River, only smaller than Fayetteville and Wilmington, attracting people to a grist mill, tavern and eventually a post office.

So much history and little knowledge of it prompted the formation of the restoration association. Since that time, the group has made internet films on the town, held many events and publicized its activities as much as possible. Group founder Bryan Avery wrote a series of books on the town.

The organization has taught hundreds about the main manufacturing operation of the region, manufacturing naval stores including tar, pitch and turpentine.

Much of the activity of the Averagesborough Town Restoration Association centers around what is now known as the Harnett History Center. The site features the Shaw House, a fascinating look back into history.

The building, located off N.C. Highway 55 near Coats-Erwin Middle School is in desperate need of repair. One of the organization's main goals is bringing the Shaw House back to the condition it was when it served as a resting spot on Old Stage Road, running between Raleigh and Fayetteville. History indicates the Marquis de Lafayette made a stop there on a well-known tour he made to the new country and he helped win the Revolutionary War.

Later it became a hospital for soldiers during the Battle of Averagesboro, which occurred at the end of the Civil War at a site near Erwin.

Messages carved in the ancient wood of the structure are proof the seriously injured men spent time there.

The work maintaining and preserving this site requires money that, I'm sure, will be part of my job as a board member. The real goal is to promote community interest that will hopefully lead people to support the work. I am not a natural fundraiser and my role is undetermined, but I will do my best to serve.

A certified history teacher in North Carolina, this work fascinates me. When Mr. Avery asked me to join the board I was flattered and humbly accepted. Now the work begins, or a better way to say it, continues. Mr. Avery and his counterparts have slaved for years to make their goals happen. I thank them for allowing me to be part of it as we move forward.

Victor Fleming directed the film, which also stars Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone and Nigel Bruce.

Stepfather has never been treated with much respect

DEAR ABBY: I've been the stepfather of two girls for 18 years. They are 22 and 24 now. My wife and her ex-husband adopted them at birth. When they were 2 and 4, he had an affair and left them for a woman who had two children.

Why do these two girls look at HIM as their dad when I have been the one who has always been here for them? They have never shown me much respect, yet the man who adopted them and then left them and their mother for another family they regard as their dad and respect him.

— HURT AND FRUSTRATED

DEAR HURT: You have my sympathy. This may have happened because their mother never explained to them that the person who left them failed to fulfill the father role he had promised, and the man who raised them -- you -- IS their dad. She also failed to insist they treat you with the respect you deserved. If there is blame to be laid, I blame her for this, not them.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing regarding my husband's obituary. He died suddenly a year ago. Because of shock, anxiety and pressure to get his obit into the newspaper before the weekend, I rushed it. I had never written an obituary before. My dear sister-in-law helped me, and we finally finished it at 4 a.m. Since then, I have been unhappy and uncomfortable with it. It wasn't thorough or personal or loving. It was "just the facts," and I have always wanted to redo it. I also included some things I regret. What are your thoughts on my revamping and re-submitting another version to the area newspaper his obituary appeared in?

— REDO IN THE EAST

DEAR REDO: Please accept my sympathy for your loss. Contact the newspaper and ask that question. I have seen "In Memoriam" items published long after the deceased has been buried. If you feel it would comfort you, it couldn't hurt to ask.

Adaptive clothing takes the stress out of dressing

DEAR SAVVY SENIOR: What kinds of clothing options are available to mobility challenged seniors who have a difficult time dressing?

Looking for Mom

DEAR LOOKING: The chore of dressing and undressing in traditional clothing can be difficult, time-consuming and even painful for millions of people with certain health and mobility problems. Fortunately, there's a wide variety special clothing, known as "adaptive clothing," that can help with most dressing challenges. Here's what you should know.

What is adaptive clothing?

Adaptive clothing is specially designed garments for people with mobility issues, disabilities and cognitive challenges who have a difficult time getting dressed. This type of clothing incorporates discreet design features to make dressing and undressing easier, while still having the outward appearance of typical clothing. Depending on your mom's needs, here are some of the many different types of adaptive clothing options that could help.

For self-dressing seniors who suffer from Parkinson's or other disabilities that affect dexterity, there are pants, shirts, dresses and outerwear made with Velcro or magnetic closures instead of buttons and zippers, which are much easier to fasten and unfasten. But be aware that magnetic closures are not suitable for those who have pacemakers.

For those who are disabled or who have limited range of motion and need assistance dressing, there are adaptive pants with zippers or snaps on both sides of the pants that are easier to pull on. And a wide range of rear closure shirts, tops and dresses with Velcro or snap fasteners in the back for those who can't raise their arms over their head.

For wheelchair users there are higher back and elastic waistband pants that don't slip down, as well as pants with fabric overlaps at the seat to allow for easier toileting access.

For people with tactile sensitivity, there are garments you can purchase that have soft and stretchy fabrics without tags and are sewn with flat seams to help preventing chafing.

And for seniors with Alzheimer's disease there are one-piece jumpsuits that have a back-zipper access to prevent the wearer from disrobing inappropriately.

Where to shop?

Because each person's dressing needs and style is so specific, finding appropriate adaptive clothing can be difficult.

Recently, mainstream clothing stores like JCPenney (jcpenney.com), Target (target.com) and Tommy Hilfiger (usa.tommy.com) have started offering a line of adaptive clothing for adults that combines fashion and functionality, but their instore options are limited. To get a bigger selection, visit the store's website and type in "adaptive clothing" in their search engine.

You can also find a large selection at online stores that specialize in adaptive clothing like Buck & Buck (buckandbuck.com) and Silverts (silverts.com). Both of these companies have been selling adaptive clothing for decades and offer a wide variety of garments to accommodate almost any need, condition or style, for independent self-dressers and for those who need help.

Some other adaptive clothing sites you should visit include Joe & Bella (joeandbella.com), Ovidis (ovidis.com), and IZ Adaptive (izadaptive.com), which sells clothing primarily designed for wheelchair users.

And, if your mom is in need of adaptive footwear, Velcro fastening shoes (instead of shoe-laces) have long been a popular option and can be found in most local shoe stores.

Some other new lines of adaptive shoes that may interest her include Kiziks (kizik.com) and Zeba (zebashoes.com), which make fashionable sneakers and comfortable walking shoes that just slip on, hands-free, along with Billy Footwear (billyfootwear.com) and Friendly Shoes (friendlyshoes.com), which makes uniquely designed zip-on shoes.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

Harnett Elder Abuse Awareness Fair set June 15

For the Record

Elder abuse, neglect and exploitation are serious problems. Each year, World Elder Abuse Awareness Day is commemorated on June 15 to raise awareness about abuse, why it occurs, and what can be done to stop it.

The Harnett County Division on Aging is partnering with Mid-Carolina Area Agency on Aging and the Harnett County Department of Social Services to provide an Elder Abuse Awareness Fair.

Residents are invited from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Wednesday, June 15, to the Harnett County Division on Aging, 309 W. Cornelius Harnett Blvd., Lillington, for this free event.

The purpose of the fair is to provide exhibits offering resources and information to provide an opportunity for communities to gain and share a better understanding of the abuse, neglect and exploitation of older people.

World Elder Abuse Awareness Day was created in 2006 to raise awareness of the cultural, social, economic and demographic factors that contribute to elder abuse and neglect.

For more information, call LeAnn Blackmon with the Harnett County Division on Aging at 910-893-7578.

2022 All-Record Baseball Team

Nate Smith takes Daily Record Two-Way Player of the Year honors after topping area pitchers in ERA while also earning 24 hits at the plate. Smith led Midway to a SAC-7 championship and state playoffs win.

By DONNELL COLEY
Sports editor

Two-way Player of the Year: Nate Smith, Midway
56 IP, (6-1), 1.49 ERA, 72 K; .353 BA, 24 H, .500 SLG, .478 OBP

The 2021 All-Record Baseball Team's top offensive player took his game to another level as a senior captain this spring. Having to overcome the loss of Midway's top two arms, Smith graciously assumed ace duties while keeping his clutch hitting stroke.

He finished with the second-most strikeouts, and the lowest ERA, among other area pitchers. Smith gave up just 12 earned runs all season, with the marquee performance coming against Red Springs on March 15 where he tossed six shutout innings, struck out 12 and gave up just two hits.

The Southeastern Athletic 2A Conference Player of the Year also had 24 hits and was among local leaders in batting average, slugging and on-base percentages. He had a hit in all but six games, including a season-high 3-for-4 effort in the 7-6 win against St. Pauls on March 22.

Smith helped Midway claim a conference-best 11-1 record and a second-round state playoffs showing.

Offensive Player of the Year: Ross Stevens, Triton
.564 BA, 31 H, .676 OBP, .890 SLG

Stevens' career year directly coincided with a Triton resurgence in 2022. After going 4-8 and missing the shortened postseason field last spring, the junior's brilliance at the plate helped a hot Hawks offense go 18-8 this year. It was the program's most victories since 2013.

Stevens led Record area batters in batting average, on-base and slugging while finishing second with 25 RBIs and 12 extra-base hits. The first baseman had a base knock in all but four games, including 12 multi-hit contests. He tied a season-high three hits twice, each coming in wins against Record teams (Midway and Western Harnett).

Triton advanced to the second round of the state playoffs with a 9-4 win at Carrboro on May 10 with Stevens going 2-for-3 with a pair of RBIs.

Pitcher of the Year: Hayden Pope, Triton
50 1/3 IP, (7-3), 3.20 ERA, 69 K

Camels' record run comes to an end

From Campbell University Athletics

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The Fighting Camels saw their season come to an end with a 16-5 loss to Georgia Tech Sunday afternoon as part of the NCAA Baseball Championships.

Following a 15-8 win over the Yellow Jackets during Friday's Knoxville Regional opener, Campbell struggled to get consistent outs in the rematch.

Georgia Tech collected 19 hits, the most allowed by CU this season. The Yellow Jackets scored in seven of nine innings and were only retired in order in the ninth.

Campbell led briefly, 2-1, after one inning following a Zach Neto RBI double and Pope was another breakout star for the Hawks this season. The senior ace led both Record area and All American Conference pitchers in wins and posted a 3-1 mark against local teams. In the matchups against Record clubs, Pope produced some of his top performances and had a .290 ERA with 31 strikeouts. The 6-foot-4 righty overpowered Western Harnett on April 19 to the tune of a career-high 14 strikeouts, earning the complete-game 7-1 victory. A first-team AAC selection, Pope helped Triton to a second-place finish in the regular season before his one-hit masterpiece to down top-seeded Terry Sanford during the May 5 conference tournament final. The Methodist University signee is a large hole to fill for the budding Hawks squad next spring.

The Yellow Jackets found plenty of success against Beymer, tagging him for 10 runs in 3 2/3 innings of work. The Camels added a run in each the second and third, but couldn't muster any more offense until the ninth. Much of the early damage was done with two outs, with GT hitting 7-for-16 with two outs and collecting five two-out RBIs. It was also Campbell's first game without a home run since April 24, with at least one big fly in 21 consecutive games. Campbell collected four hits in the first three innings while scoring four runs to chase GT starter Marquis Grissom. Connor Denning reached four times with two hits and two walks. Tennessee saw CU jump to a four-run lead before falling 12-7. Cade Kuehler had 10 strikeouts while walking just two through seven innings. Neto was 3-for-5, while Ty Babin and Tyler Halstead each had two hits. It came a day after the Camels set a program record in NCAA contests with 18 hits. Neto, Logan

Thomas Harrington collected his 12th win of the season, retaking the national lead and setting a program record for single-season wins. Campbell finishes with a 41-19 mark, tied for the second-most wins in school history. This year's Camels also posted team records for total home runs (118), runs scored (523) and stolen bases (132). 2 Campbell track stars qualify for nationals

From Campbell University Athletics

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Dorcus Ewoi of Campbell booked her first ticket to the NCAA Track and Field Championships after qualifying in the women's 800-meter run Saturday, May 28 at the Robert C. Haugh Complex. Ewoi placed fourth in her heat at the NCAA East Preliminaries, but held the ninth-fastest time overall to qualify for nationals. Her time of 2 minutes, 4.08 seconds in the event improved her own school- and Big South-record score. She will join Athanas Kioko as the two representatives from Campbell in Eugene, Oregon for the NCAA Championships, set for June 8-11. Kioko qualified for his second event at nationals as the Campbell men wrapped up its final day of the NCAA East Prelims on May 27. The 2021 Big South Conference Men's Runner of the Year, who set school records with third-place finishes at both the track and field and cross country national events, booked another trip to the NCAA Championships in the men's 5,000. He placed second in his heat with a time of 13:38.55. Two days prior, Kioko qualified for nationals in the 10,000 by finishing first and setting a facility record with a time of 28:25.69. Campbell's C.J. McBride missed out on qualifying for nationals after he was unable to clear 7 feet, 2 inches in the men's high jump, finishing tied for 22nd overall. The Camels' 4x100-meter relay team of Dominique Alexander, Andre Bent, Jamel Miller and Jadarien Parker finished 20th overall with a time of 42.46. Shemar Miller wrapped up the day in the field as his mark of 15.18 meters in the triple jump missed out on qualifying.

SANITATION RATINGS

The following food estab-lishments were inspected by the Harnett and John-ston County Health De-partments between May 27 to June 2. The grades or ratings appear beside the facility and its ad-dress.

The grading of food es-tablishments is based on a system of scoring. A food establishment that earns a score of at least: 90 percent shall receive a grade A; between 80 per-cent and 90 percent shall receive a grade B; be-tween 70 percent and 80 percent shall receive a grade C. In accordance with state law (G.S. 130A-23(d)), permits are immediately revoked for food establishments re-ceiving a score of less than 70 percent.

An establishment receives a credit of two points on its score for each inspec-tion if a manager or other full-time employee re-sponsible for operation of that establishment has successfully completed an approved food service sanitation program in the past three years.

For more information on inspections, visit www.harnett.org/health and click on "View Inspections Online" under Environmen-tal Health or johnston-nc.healthinspections.us/re-ports.
