Class of 2022

Commencement a 'full circle moment' for Hornets president

From Campbell University

The sun broke through the clouds and the threat of thunderstorms vanished once the sound of bagpipes hit the air Saturday morning, May 14, marking the start of commencement for more than 600 graduates of Campbell University's main campus and online undergraduate programs. The picture-perfect morning capped off a weekend of ceremonies that saw 1,232 students in all earn associate, bachelor, master's and doctorate degrees across Campbell's eight schools and colleges.

Barker-Lane provided the commencement setting for the second consecutive year — in 2021, the outdoor venue offered an opportunity to gather safely during the global pandemic. The crowds were bigger this year, nearly filling the 7,000-seat capacity stadium. It was a fitting venue for Saturday's commencement speaker, one of the most successful student-athletes to ever walk the Campbell stage.

Fred Whitfield, president and vice chairman of Hornets Sports & Entertainment in Charlotte and the NBA's only Black operating chief, delivered a speech that encouraged the graduates to become good "teammates" in their various careers and live a life of service to others. The two-time Campbell graduate (earning both his undergraduate business and MBA in the early 1980s) was also awarded an honorary doctorate of business administration before his speech.

"This is a full circle moment for me and by far one of the biggest honors in my life," said Whitfield, a native of Greensboro and current member of Campbell's Board of Trustees. "For five years, I called Buies Creek home and walked this campus. You're having the same moment I experienced 42 years ago — and I'm proud to share this moment with you today.

"My hope is your memories of Campbell and your experiences here were just as positive as mine and have prepared you to depart and head out into the world. More importantly, I hope you have built some long-lasting friendships and relationships here that you will cherish and enjoy the rest of your lives, as I have."

The longtime NBA executive borrowed a sports analogy only once in asking the graduates to become good teammates in their professional and personal lives.

"Life is a team sport," he said. "Whether it's in your office, at home, in the military or in your community. As leaders, we encourage you to promote a team environment and be a great teammate, all the time, everywhere. In a team environment, you must establish core values such as humility, respect, kindness, love and forgiveness toward everyone. Studies show that teams that are inclusive to everyone are smarter, more innovative and perform better with stronger results." He recalled a less diverse Campbell during his college years, and he commended the University and its leadership for encouraging a more diverse atmosphere on campus today.

"It has transformed into a melting pot of vibrant students who are all well prepared to join or start the next team," he said. "You all have your individual differences, the beauty of which is it's giving you the opportunity to grow from each other's varied experiences, backgrounds and philosophies." Finally, Whitfield recalled the late Rev. Howard Chubbs, former pastor at Providence Baptist Church in Greensboro, and his advice to "make that dash matter" in your life.

"The number of the year they were born is the opening chapter. The number when they depart this earth is a closing chapter of their life. Rev. Chubbs encouraged us to make sure that dash in between those two years mattered and made a difference. Service to others is what will make it be of consequence. The legacy you will leave is your dash. Be of service to others, your community and country. Paying it forward is the only way it works. Go read books to kids in schools, sit on panels, give advice to those seeking it, be a big brother or big sister. Just give freely of your time."

The Class of 2022 faced several obstacles during their college journey, namely the two years of COVID-19 that forced virtual learning at times and challenging campus experiences. In his address to his classmates, Winton native and senior class president Dylan Eure made light of the past four years and challenged graduates to make an impact in the coming years.

"We started with a student union fire our freshman year, the pandemic our sophomore year, the election in our junior year and maybe worst of all, the return of [social media platform] YikYak oru senior year," he joked. "Some will say Buies Creek might lack the 'typical college student life,' but one thing that no one can say is that we lack community and a sense of belonging. Campbell is our home."

The victim of a home invasion that led to a house fire while he was a student, Eure said he saw friends and people he barely knew come together to support him during a difficult time in his life.

"This is a place where you can count on your friends and your professors to always have your best interests at heart and want to see the best things out of you," he said. "It's a place where you can grow to realize the important things in life are not always about where you are or what's around you, but the impact that you have on another's life. And I can say that with confidence that every student here today has made a dramatic impact on another's life, whether that be on the field, in the classroom, at home or even in the Meadows. If there's anything that you get out of what I said today, your impact matters. And what you do makes a difference."

'Be of service to others, your community and country. Paying it forward is the only way it works.'

CCCC spring graduates celebrate big day

From Central Carolina Community College

SANFORD –Central Carolina Community College celebrated the achievements of the Class of 2022 as the school observed its 59th Commencement Exercises on May 16 at the Dennis A. Wicker Civic & Conference Center in Sanford.

The graduating students entered the main hall to the skirl of a bagpipe, a CCCC tradition.

CCCC President Dr. Lisa M. Chapman said in her address: “Graduation represents the culmination of the efforts of all divisions of the college along with those of our graduating students, which makes it one of the most exciting days of our academic calendar. Graduates, the trustees, administration, staff, faculty, and I want to share a heartfelt and proud ‘congratulations’ to each and every one of you for all you have accomplished. We are honored to join you today as we celebrate your achievements.

“Our community is proud of CCCC and it is because of how our graduates represent us that we enjoy respect for the college throughout Chatham, Harnett, Lee counties and beyond. I know you will continue that tradition and I want to thank you for how you have represented the Cougar Nation as students and how you will continue to represent us as alumni,” said Dr. Chapman.

The Class of 2022 graduation ceremonies had approximately 759 students — including 255 graduates from the fall — who were expected to receive 896 credentials (associate degrees, diplomas, and certificates). Five commencement exercises, at 9 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m., 3 p.m. and 5 p.m., were held to accommodate the number of graduates.

Dave Myers, CCCC Faculty Member of the Year, was Chief Marshal and Mace Bearer.

Students presenting commencement addresses were: Zaire McMican of Fuquay-Varina; Nikki Lara of Sanford; Victoria Isenhour of Sanford; and Brent Alexander of Sanford.

Dr. Jon Matthews, CCCC Harnett Provost, presented special awards.

During the graduation exercises, students with the highest grade point averages in their divisions were recognized. At 9 a.m. – Mariah Nicole Applegate (Early Childhood Education), Samantha Lynn O’Hare (Veterinary Medical Technology), and Cameron DeVol Pulley (Veterinary Medical Technology).

At 11 a.m., Shelby Mackenzie Brinker (Associate in Arts), Abigail Tiffany George (Associate in Arts), Jacob Ryan Kimble (Associate in Arts), Autumn-Isabel Sarahi Owenby (Associate in Arts), Jenna Leigh Skinner (Associate in Arts), Kirstyn Nevada Oaks (Library and Information Technology).

At 1 p.m., Alexander Cook (Associate in Science), Patrick Steven McCaw (Associate in Science), Margaret Patricia Safrit (Associate in Science), Alexander Edward Stroud (Associate in Science), Vincente Banuelos (Laser and Photonics Technology).

At 3 p.m., Jeremy Scott Thomas (Business Administration), Raymond Bradford Biehl (Criminal Justice Technology), Darlene Lizotte (Criminal Justice/Forensic Science), Victoria Scott Isenhour (Human Services Technology), Audrey Grace Thomas (Diploma Business Management).

At 5 p.m., Eric Francis Sauer (Sustainable Agriculture), Lyndsey Jordan Taylor (Cosmetology).

Best Wishes to the Class of 2022

Here’s to a happy graduation and a bright future!

We hope your commencement is filled with good friends, good times and good memories. We’re proud of you, and we wish you the best of luck today and always.
