"Let's all pull together" read the invitation to an unusual variation on the traditional ground breaking ceremony, held last Thursday at Rockwood Place, the site for a proposed 168-unit senior citizen highrise at Rockwood Ave. and Alton St. The assembled group, which included Dr. Donna Shalala, assistant secretary for Policy Development and Research for HUD; St. Paul Mayor George Latimer; Councilmen Len Levine and Ron Maddox, former Councilman Bob Sylvester, and the four partners in the project provided a one-side tug-o-war to topple the remnants of a foundation and clear the way for construction. Below Dr. Shalala and Mayor Latimer cut the cake during the dedication ceremonies. Surrounding them are business partners (left to right): Stuart Nolen, Ron Harris, Herb Goldenberg, and Sheldon Stewart. Rockwood Place is part of a six-block development area called Shepard Park, which will mark the completion of its first building — a 101-unit luxury apartment called The Plaza — in about two months.

'Kennedy's Children' opens at Edyth Bush October 13

The area premiere of Robert Patrick's Kennedy's Children will open this Friday, October 13 at Chimera's Edyth Bush Theatre, 690 So. Cleveland Ave.

Kennedy's Children focuses on five people gathered in a New York bar who use Kennedy's assassination, the students' revolt, Marilyn Monroe's death, the Vietnam War, and living in a counter-culture as points of perspective. Their reflections provide a humorous, yet shockingly dramatic look at life in the 60's and the effect it had on the people of the 70's. Described by Time magazine as "one of the year's ten best," Kennedy's Children has enjoyed almost 500 American productions in two years.

Chimera's production features Mary M. Burns as Wanda, Daniel Lopata as Sparger, Rick Murphy as Mark, Anne Marguerite Whitcomb as Rona, Lynne C. Turner as Carla and Bill Bormann as the Bartender.

Warren Frost directs the production, with Tom Valach as production designer and Diane Foss as stage manager.

The author, Robert Patrick has been called "one of America's most produced playwrights" and will have five of his works produced in the Twin Cities in the upcoming month.

Kennedy's Children will be performed at 8:00 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and 7:00 p.m. on Sundays through October 29. A 2:00 p.m. matinee is also scheduled for October 29.

Tickets are $3.00. For more information or reservations, call 690-4536.

Highland parking ramp included in 1979 Capital Improvement Budget

by Roger Fuller

A proposed parking ramp in Highland Village heads the list of projects in the Southwest Area District which have been funded for 1979 through the St. Paul Capital Improvement Budget. The budget was developed by the 12-member Capital Improvement Budget Committee (CIB), approved by the mayor, and given final passage by the City Council.

In addition to the parking ramp, other projects proposed for the Southwest Area District and included in the budget are site development at Groveland and Homecroft schools, Hillcrest improvements, Summit Ave. bridge improvements and paving and lighting improvements for Summit and Sheridan Avenues.

Funds for the Capital Improvement Budget come from several sources, including the capital bonding authority of the city, the federal government Community Development block grants, state and county aids, and a variety of other sources, such as the Automotive Parking Facilities Act which will be used to finance the Highland parking ramp.

David McDonell, CIB committee chairman, explained that recent passage of the parking act by the legislature enabled the committee to approve the ramp project. "In past years when this project was discussed, the CIB committee did not feel it proper to use our capital improvement funds to solve a neighborhood parking problem," he said. "Special funds are now available through this legislation."

The proposed three-story ramp will be located at the southwest corner of Ford Parkway and Cleveland, directly east of Powers department store. Gregory Blees, CIB committee executive secretary, said he has received word from the Powers' corporate headquarters in New York that a representative will be sent to the Twin Cities to confer with local store officials and the city planning department about the parking ramp. In past discussions of the parking ramp, store officials had expressed some reservations about the project.

The CIB committee puts its budget together after reviewing suggestions from three task forces comprised of CIB members and representatives of the 17 district planning councils in St. Paul. The task forces use a weighting system in which each member fills out a score sheet to determine the relative importance of the projects which are competing for available funds.

"The sheets are put together to reflect the City Council's area of emphasis in capital improvement projects," said McDonell, who lives at 1988 Wellesley Ave. "A total score of 210 is possible, but only a fraction of the projects are rated above 100 when the composite score sheets are tabulated."

The CIB process begins when the projects are submitted by district councils, city departments, and other units, and forwarded to the streets and utilities, residential and economic development, or the community facilities task forces. When a project is scheduled for a hearing by a task force, representatives of the district council in which the project is to be located often offer testimony.

However, the projects which receive the highest rating do not automatically win approval. For instance, if a task force gives a high rating to several projects which would draw from Community Development funds, they might not all receive money due to the limits of that particular fund. Other projects, though rated lower, may stand a better chance if they draw from a different source of funding.

"Once we begin sifting through the various layers and find what projects can be matched with an appropriate source of funding, it becomes easier to develop a complete package," said McDonell.

Gregory Blees, CIB committee executive secretary, explained that the present CIB process has been in effect since 1967 when the city council went to the legislature to seek bonding authority. The legislature granted the request provided a citizen's committee of at least seven members were established to rate priorities.

The city then created a 12-member committee to coincide with the 12 legislative districts in St. Paul, though in practice, some districts had more than one representative and others had none. Next year the CIB committee will be restructured to include 18 mem-

CSC announces record enrollment

A record 2,201 students are enrolled this fall at the College of St. Catherine, an increase of 5.9 per-cent over last year, according to Karen Kennelly, the college's academic dean.

The college's part-time adult student population has more than doubled, jumping from 101 last year to 231 this fall. Ninety-five of the adult students are enrolled in the school's Women in Management program.

It is believed that St. Catherine's enrollment is the highest in the U.S. among Roman Catholic women's colleges for the second year in a row.

St. Catherine's student body of 2,201 consists of: 543 freshmen, 459 sophomores, 505 juniors, 472 seniors and 222 unclassified students.

This house, located at 2024 Iglehart Ave., will be one of 11 stops on the Merriam Park Neighborhood Housing Services' house tour, to be held from 1:00 to 4:30 p.m. this Sunday, October 15. Believed to be one of the oldest in the Merriam Park area, the house is called home by the Marge Schulte family.

Ten-home house tour set for Merriam Park area Oct. 15

The Merriam Park Neighborhood Housing Services will sponsor a house tour from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. this Sunday, October 15 in the Merriam Park area. The tour will include one church and 10 homes, many of which have been recently renovated.

Brochures, which contain a map and a description of each house in the tour, will be available at a cost of $2.00 ($1.00 for senior citizens) from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. that day at the Neighborhood Housing Services Office, 1589 Selby Ave., and at the Olivet Congregational Church, 1850 Iglehart Ave. The brochure will serve as a ticket for entry to each house on the tour.

Merriam park was originally developed as a suburban community in the late 19th century. Because of its proximity to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Short Line Railroads, it afforded handy transportation for commuters to either city.

Thanks to the foresight of Colonel Merriam, who originally developed the land, speculation and subdivision of the ample lots was discouraged. The construction of substantial houses was encouraged by the deed restrictions which Merriam attached to the lots that he sold for home construction.

The tour is planned to highlight the history of the area and to show the progress that is being made through local home improvement efforts.

'SLEDGEHAMMER' SPENDING

To the editor:

The campaign expenditures as published in Misch-Masch (Highland Villager, September 27) raise some interesting questions. The first is, what did Representative Cohen get for his $11,000? The visible evidence of his effort is a smattering of yard signs and an occasional piece of badly prepared political literature (judging from what has been left at our door). I don't question Cohen's right to spend almost six times as much as his opponent, but I would have thought he would have more to show for it. One has to wonder what kind of manager he is.

Secondly, his out of proportion expenditures make one wonder about his judgment. Spending that kind of money in a legislative district race is like trying to drive a tack with a sledgehammer, and it totally contradicts the impression he is trying to convey in his literature, that he is fiscally responsible. One cannot help wondering what a man who is so very liberal with his political committee's funds is doing with our tax dollars.

'A STRANGE LOGIC'

To the editor:

The Highland Villager of September 27 contained an advertisement for Anthony A. Danna as County Commissioner, District 5.

"Concerned about taxes?" it began. This lead question was followed by Tony's boastful statement that of the seven Ramsey County Commissioners, he alone opposed building a new Ramsey County Nursing Home. He further implied that the private nursing home sector opposed this "competition" and that there were viable options for these residents.

These provocative statements prompted two questions of my own. Why did the other six Commissioners support this new building, and would it indeed be competing with the private sector?

I found the following answers: This planned building will replace the present County Home built some 60 years ago. The private sector is generally neither staffed nor equipped to meet the needs of this group. The option of relocating these residents in state mental hospitals means a move of at least 70 miles, away from any family or friends. A task force of representative citizens studied this County Home issue and strongly recommended a new facility.

We have a new county jail and juvenile facility ($12 million) to meet the needs of our law offenders. Tony Danna voted for this. We need a new county home ($4 million) for our citizens who require this special facility in their infirmity and old age.

For Tony Danna to endorse the former and to oppose the latter represents a strange logic. My concern about taxes is that they reflect a humane value system.

ON DISMAY AND DEFAMATION

To the editor:

It was with dismay that I read the recent column of the Villager editor which singled me out for criticism in regard to my campaign expenditures. It was unfortunate that the editor did not give me the common courtesy of speaking to me beforehand (he has been able to reach me on a moment's notice in the past when necessary) before printing his distortions and half-truths.

I am not accepting public financing or abiding by the expenditure limitations for the simple reason that inflation has ravaged this country, and campaign expenses have also increased. Thus, expenditure limitations set five years ago are unrealistic.

In addition, the editor through a telephone call, would have found out that a good portion of the expenses reported were constituent expenditures from earlier in the year, and another large sum was a loan from two years ago. The amount of money spent on the campaign thus far was far below what the editor reported.

The editor also stated that my opponent had not accepted public financing but was abiding by the expenditure limit. If he is, he has kept it a secret from the Ethics Commission, since they have no record of his filing a tax credit statement with that office, which would indicate his intent to abide by the limitation. In addition, contrary to what the editor reported, approximately 25 candidates throughout the state are not accepting public financing.

It is also interesting to note that the editor approves of large expenditures by other candidates but does not in my case.

However, I hope that this letter explains the nature of my expenditures. I again only wish that the editor had made the effort to reach me before publication as is often the case with responsible journalists; it would have cleared up the defamatory nature of his comments.

Ed. note: Whatever their validity, Mr. Cohen's criticisms are more appropriately directed to the publisher of the Villager and his column, "Misch-Masch," wherein the facts and figures cited originally appeared. We've left a reply to Mr. Cohen's claims up to Mr. Mischke. See his column on page 6.

Former Cretin harrier triggers running furor on Big Red's turf

That other fall sport, cross country, is beginning to generate a little excitement this year up in Collegeville, Minnesota, home of the perennial MIAC football front-runners, St. John's University.

Much of the excitement can be attributed to the recent accomplishments of former Cretin harrier, Joe Metzger, 1300 Lincoln Ave.

A 1976 Cretin grad, Metzger turned in one of his finest efforts recently when he won his division of the AAU Road Racing Championship in New York City. Metzger crossed the finish line 40 seconds before his nearest competitor, covering the ten kilometer course in 31 minutes and 57 seconds.

Although his time was 10 seconds slower than his winning mark in the regional qualifying meet last June, Metzger says "It's almost unbelievable. I wasn't sure what to expect out there, but I knew I had to run hard."

With Metzger's present condition and the development of other experienced Johnnies, SJU looks to be a top cross country competitor in the state this fall.

"We are all excited about Joe," says SJU's cross country coach Dave Lyndgaard. "This is the best shape I've seen him in and he's still working harder."

"I feel more confident," reveals Metzger. "I had some injuries in past seasons, but this fall I'm falling great. I put in some good training mileage this summer and I'm looking forward to being in my best shape by the end of the season."

Front-running is not foreign to Metzger by any means. He finished All-State his senior year at Cretin, placing 11th in the State Cross Country Championships and helping Cretin capture the 1975 state title.

"I think we'll see Metzger running with the best this fall," says Lyndgaard. "He looks like a top competitor in our conference and has a good shot at national honors as well."

The Johnnies will be keying their hopes on the MIAC Championships at Como Park Golf Course October 28. St. Olaf and St. Thomas appear to be the teams to beat if St. John's is to regain the title they last won in 1972.

Littlefair lecture highlights annual Unitarian meeting

Dr. Duncan E. Littlefair, well-known author and civil rights worker, will deliver the 1978 Culver-Judy Lecture, "The Poetry of Religion," at 8:00 p.m. Friday, October 13 at Unity Church-Unitarian, Portland and Grotto St.

Dr. Littlefair, pastor of Fountain Street Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan, is the author of A Primer for Modern Man, The Glory Within You and Sin Comes of Age. In 1972 he was named "Bill of Rights Man of the Year" by the Western Michigan University chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

The lecture is part of the 1978 Prairie Star District Unitarian-Universalist fall meeting to be held October 13-15 at Unity Church-Unitarian, and is open to the public free of charge.

CST plans 'Festival of Consecration' to mark renovation of Aquinas chapel

A four-day "Festival of Consecration," marking the renovation and consecration of the College of St. Thomas' Chapel of St. Thomas Aquinas, will be held Thursday through Sunday, October 19-22 at the college.

Among the participants in the festival will be Rev. Alfred McBride, executive director of religious education of the National Education Association; Rev. Jean Jadot, apostolic delegate to the United States; and Rev. G. Emmett Carter, archbishop of Toronto.

Father McBride, noted Catholic author and educator, will give the opening address on Thursday evening in the chapel, following a musical performance at 7:30 p.m. by flutist Adele Zeitlin and guitarist Jeffrey Van. A reception in the college's Murray Hall lounge will conclude the evening's activities.

The St. Paul Chamber Orchestra's Chamber Arts Consort will perform at 8:00 p.m. Friday in the chapel.

A Mass of Consecration will be offered at 4:30 p.m. Saturday with Rev. Jadot serving as principal celebrant and homilist. The Mass will be followed that evening by a concert of sacred music performed by the St. Olaf Choir at 8:15 p.m.

A special Mass of Unity will be celebrated by Rev. Carter at 11:00 a.m. in the chapel. The blessing of the new student residence will follow the Mass.

St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel, constructed in 1917 at a cost of $99,000, was designed by E.L. Masqueray, architect of the St. Paul Cathedral and St. Mary's Basilica in Minneapolis. The chapel is modeled after Byzantine basilicas found on the east coast of Italy.

Archbishop Austin Dowling blessed the chapel on May 29, 1919, but it wasn't until 1943 that the interior design was completed, thanks to the generosity of the late I.A. O'Shaughnessy.

The recently completed renovation of the chapel was done under the direction of Murray McCance, a liturgical designer from Toronto.

Admission to all festival events will be by ticket only. For ticket information, call the college's Office of Public Affairs at 647-5317.

Rome hits home

Free and open to the public, the program will stress the relationship of Roman civilization to our own.

Drug abuse film screened Oct. 12 at St. Kate's

MISCH- MASCH

by Maurice F. Mischke

As I sit down to prepare this fortnightly communique, the general election of November 7 is still a full four weeks away; and the stadium decision won't be made for another 24 days beyond that. But if you follow the daily newspaper and broadcast media of this area at all, you can already feel the electricity in the air as the pressures keep building toward the inevitable crescendo of E-Day and D-Day. You might as well face it—the heat will continue to rise, just about as fast as the fall air continues to blow cooler stuff into these northern environs.

But let's stay closer to home for a while, before we move on to metrowide and statewide subjects of interest. You may already have read a letter from 63-B Representative Richard Cohen, which we've reprinted in full on Page 3. Dick, if we may use the familiar term, takes umbrage at our comments on his outsized campaign kitty for this election, when compared to other candidates hereabouts. It could well be the largest campaign fund of any incumbent in the state, DFL or Independent-Republican. That still remains to be seen.

But we didn't accuse Mr. Cohen of anything illegal... we merely pointed out the unusual. Generally, it's the challenger who has the problem, trying to achieve enough name identification to give the incumbent legislator a good run for his money... and, of course, quite often that money is tough to come by. Wouldn't you agree that when we get figures from the State Ethical Practices Board wherein the campaign receipts by August 26 for three other area incumbents (62-A, 63-A and 65-A) average $2,957 as against Cohen's $12,483, it's an item worthy of more than passing mention? And that when the three other incumbents averaged $1,272 in expenditures up to that point, versus $11,086 for Cohen, it should rate a squib in the press? How about the challengers, including John Drew, Cohen's opponent? They had received, on the average, $3,502; and spent, on an average of $1,479.

As to calling Dick Cohen beforehand, it should be noted that I called none of the eight candidates listed in the column. Why should I? After all, I was only reprinting figures submitted, by those candidates themselves, to the State Ethical Practices Board. And I was totally consistent in reporting total receipts and total expenditures. Cohen had reported $9,034 in campaign expenditures, $1,797 in "constituent services," and $255 in food and beverages for a fundraiser—to come up with our total reported $11,086. Expenditures of that nature were included in my figures for the other candidates, too.

Cohen does have a few valid points, though. If $7,500 was a logical campaign figure when it was established as a norm by the legislature some five years ago, maybe a current figure of $10,000 would make more sense. But, on the other hand, incumbent Cohen has also enjoyed the advantage of free space in The Highland Villager, which we have seen fit to allocate to all District 63 senators and representatives for the past six years or so. If he'd have had to buy that space like an advertiser, it would have amounted to at least $2,000 to $2,500 for the two legislative sessions.

Dick is right, though, on one point... one we'd have wanted to correct in any event. I said he was only one of two candidates who didn't accept the public funds because of the $7,500 limitation it would have imposed on him. I should have said he was only one of two democratic incumbents who didn't obtain public financing. The other fellow filed too late. About four I-R incumbents didn't take it either... two of them have no opposition this year. In all 32 legislative candidates did not apply or properly qualify. Nor did two I-R statewide challengers, Al Quide, candidate for State governor and Rick Teske, candidate for State treasurer. In what way I approved of large expenditures by other candidates, is not clear to me. I do feel challengers generally need a break in that regard, to offset the normally tremendous advantages of incumbency.

Schucks, I'm not blaming Cohen for trying to assure himself of reelection. After all, in two more years the salary is going up a whale of a lot, the per diems are great, and in four more years (after a total of only three terms) he'd be eligible for a nifty pension some years hence. Let's face it, it's going to be a helluva good deal in the near future. We do want our legislators to be well paid, don't we? And, of course, worth it too in terms of good, honest, fiscally conservative representation!

I'm inclined to agree with the general counsel of Common Cause who said here recently, "A lot of people erroneously describe Proposition 13 as a tax revolt. I don't view it that way. I view it as an enormous dissatisfaction with ineffective government." But how do you get a handle on the problem? It's tough to do without incentives. We just don't have the efficiencies that are generally forced on the more competitive private sector.

Understatement of the week—the comment by state labor leader Dave Roe at the recent AFL-CIO convention in Duluth, when senatorial candidate Bob Short did his amazing flip-flop from ultra-conservative pre-primary tax reduction and government spending stands to something even Don Fraser could have lived with... had he thought of it first. "I think," Roe said, "Bob Short has moved off his original position." Well, I guess so! And, did you notice that Wendy Anderson has also discovered the virtues of indexing our federal income tax rates to counter the confiscatory effects of inflation? Oh well, better late than never.

As a member of the fourth estate, I always enjoy a good headline. Like the one I saw in a recent Minneapolis Sunday Tribune:

Carter's anti-inflation drive entering Phase 2;
no one recalls Phase 1

You know how a mother is inclined to save anything in connection with her first born, especially. We were shifting some books when out of a scrapbook fell a St. Cloud Hospital bill of 26 years ago, relating to Jan's hospital stay when Paul was born. Since John Ruddy at our office became a father only recently, and Dennis Stern only about a year-and-half ago, I did a dastardly deed—I took it to the Villager and showed it to them. Want to hear the figures? "Room and care, 7 days @ 8.00 a day, $56.00; Delivery Room Service—$18.00; Care of Infant, 6 days @ $3.00—$18.00; Medicine, $11.35; Dressings, $3.90; Oxygen for Baby, $2.00; Circumcision for Baby, $3.50; Telephone Calls, $1.38; Telephone Service, $1.20; a total of $115.33. Compare that to what it might cost today. It may account, in some degree, for a headline such as you saw in Sunday's Pioneer Press—"Where have all the babies gone?"

Have you been following the stadium situation? Minneapolis business leaders are certainly working hard for that dome, logic notwithstanding. I can think of at least three good reasons for not building a covered stadium—(1) the tax payers, (2) the fans and (3) the players.

Let's take them one by one. First, the taxpayers—they should not be saddled with the huge additional capital outlay and the tremendous operating expenditures required for heat and air-conditioning. How could such a stadium ever come close to be a self-liquidating operation?

Second - the fans. A dome in downtown Minneapolis would mean faraway, you're-on-your-own, catch-as-catch-can parking, and no more tailgate parties.

Third - the players. It's almost a universal truism among the gladiators themselves that those grass carpets over concrete precipitate many more injuries, are terribly tough on the legs and dramatically shorten an athlete's career. Is it worth it?

It seems to me only three realistic possibilities exist—all in Bloomington. And I'm willing to await the experts' views on those as to cost and comparative value potential. If you're going to have genuine grass, it almost has to be a remodeled Met for baseball and a new open or partially open stadium for soccer and football, dual stadiums in the same area, Kansas City fashion.

If you care about the players at this point, or if somebody comes up with a vast improvement in artificial turf, you might consider some method of movable seats at the Met, for better football sightlines. Practical? I don't know. The only other possibility would be to tear down the Met and build a new all-purpose stadium with movable seats to accommodate the changing (but overlapping) seasons.

Personally, until shown otherwise, I lean toward a remodeled Met and a separate undomed facility for football-soccer. And stay with real grass until somebody comes up with an artificial turf the players can live with, at far less risk to injuries and duration of career. Of course, you could say, what's the difference? They play on artificial turf so often now, they might as well learn to live with it at home, too. It's just that I like to see the options open to going either way. Time will tell.

One important addendum—I don't want the taxpayer to be the one to pick up the tab in any case. Undomed, there might be a chance. Domed, we're all sure to be stuck with a big bill for years to come. If you think I'm off target on any of this, please let me know. Even if you're not on the Metropolitan Sports Facilities Commission—and charged, like Chairman Dan Brutger and company, with making the big decision on D-Day, December 1.

Maybe you need a few light touches by now—the inevitable unavoidable pilfered parting punchlines. Like this one—"The man who worships the ground his girl walks on, probably knows her father owns the property." Or this one from an anonymous source, "If you haven't all the things you want, be grateful for the things you don't have that you didn't want."

And this finale on the state of our national health: "Proposition 13 also represents a fantastic medical breakthrough. In Congress it cured the hard of hearing." Arrivederci.

Downtown to downtown run features three races in one

The Big Green Team Y-to-Y Halloween Run, a Minneapolis-to-St. Paul race for runners of all ages, will begin at 9:00 a.m. Saturday, October 28 at the Downtown Minneapolis YMCA, 9th St. and LaSalle Ave., and end at the State Capitol.

Co-sponsored by the YMCAs of the Twin Cities and National Car Rental System, Inc., the event will actually include three races:

A two-mile run from the Minneapolis Y to Willey Hall on the University of Minnesota West Bank;

A 10-kilometer (6.2 mile) run over the initial course and along Mississippi River Blvd. to the College of St. Thomas;

And an 18-kilometer, (slightly more than 11 mile) run following the first two stretches and continuing to the finish line in front of the State Capitol.

Spectators are invited to wear Halloween masks and costumes. A grand prize of a one-year adult Y membership will be awarded to the person whom judges deem the most outlandishly costumed at the starting line.

Runners entering the 10 K and 18 K runs will compete in six age groups: 18 and under, 19-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, and 60 and over. Medals will be awarded to the top three men and top three women finishers in each group.

Additional awards go to the fastest male and female finishers in both the 10 K and 18 K runs.

Those who complete the two-mile segment will receive certificates of participation and all registered entrants will receive "Big Green Team Y-to-Y Halloween Run" T-shirts prior to the race.

Entry fees are $1.00 for the two-mile run, and $3.00 for the 10 K and 18 K runs. Registration forms are available at Twin Cities YMCAs or by calling National Car Rental at 830-2537.

Highland Branch Library reveals volumes of timeworn manuscripts

Dolefully, Don Singerman admits that the Perrie Jones Suite is a well kept secret. He ought to know. He's the voluntary caretaker, cataloger, and guide of the Perrie Jones Suite, which houses the rare and unusual book collection of the St. Paul Public Library in Highland Park.

But even rarer and more unusual is a visitor to the suite. "Not many people visit the collection," Singerman explains. "We get only a few visitors a month. People just don't know it exists."

It seems unlikely that the Perrie Jones Suite should remain so overlooked. The room, built in 1974 from funds honoring city librarian Perrie Jones (1937-56), is an eye-catcher. The reddish-brown shag carpet, tinted glass coffee table, and chrome-framed chairs glisten under the recessed lighting. It has a modern, executive-like atmosphere.

But behind the vault door to the left of the entrance, stored on shelves that roll along a track like huge box-cars, are over 1700 very old books, some dating from the 16th century. Most of them are bound in leather and have Greek and Latin titles. They smell a little musty and their pages are yellow from age.

The books make up a vast treasure of nostalgia, history, trivia and amusement. Some of the books are lavishly illustrated with wood engravings, ink drawings, and sketches. One, an adult coloring book, was published in 1579 in Frankfurt, Germany. The illustrations are wood engravings depicting coats of arms in the Roman Empire—a sophisticated paint-by-numbers.

"But age doesn't always determine the value of a book," explains Singerman. "The oldest book in the collection was published only 69 years after the first printing of the Gutenberg Bible. But I don't think it's the most valuable. Value is hard to determine."

Twenty-seven Bibles are represented in the collection, ranging in publication dates from 1573 to 1949. The rarest Bible is printed in the Syriac language, the language of Palestine at the time of Jesus. Its title is: Kotobo qudosho hal Kotobo did'n'tiqo atoqo wahadotho, which when translated means, The Holy Book which is the Book composed of Old and New.

The collection was started in the early 1900's by Dr. W. Dawson Johnson, essayist, bibliophile, and St. Paul City Librarian from 1914-21. Working with meager funds, he purchased several private libraries, including one from Henry Harcourt Horn, a court stenographer who mysteriously amassed a large fortune.

In 1921, Dr. Johnson went on to become a librarian for the American Library in Paris. Since then, the collection has grown chiefly through gifts and bequests. "We've got a man who comes in to request that Bible," Singerman says. "He's probably the only person in the Twin Cities who can read the Syriac language."

For those people who like travel and adventure, the collection includes a large number of narrations describing almost every continent. Some go back two or three centuries.

Jonathan Carver, in Travels Through North America, describes what sounds like a vacation paradise:

"A little distance below the Falls stands a small island, of about an acre and a half, on which grow a great number of oak trees, every branch of which, able to support the weight, was full of eagle nests... On the whole, when the Falls are included... a more pleasing and picturesque view cannot, I believe, be found throughout the universe."

The Perrie Jones Suite at the Highland Branch — the daytime haunt of Don Singerman and home for the rare and unusual book collection of the St. Paul Public Library.

No, this idyllic hideaway is not a faraway Shangri-La, but rather a description of St. Anthony Falls above Nicollet Island in 1766.

Advice has changed as dramatically as the landscape, if the collection is an accurate means for measurement. The titles speak for themselves: Observations of Dog Breeding, The Rise and Fall of the Mustache, and Flirtin' with Fashion.

But some advice is as sound today as it was yesterday. A book on domestic medicine written in 1809 advises: "Temperance and exercise are the two best physicians in the world."

And no rare book collection would be complete without its treasure of first edition novels. The collection features first edition novels by Sinclair Lewis, Mark Twain, and St. Paul's own F. Scott Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald's Tender is the Night is signed simply in nervous handwriting: "F. Scott Fitzgerald, with an old affection and respect."

Don Singerman sighs: "I hope this article gets up some interest in the collection. It should be enjoyed by more people."

Well, the word's out, the secret's leaked. If you've got the time, Don Singerman's got the books to take you back to another one.

Book work pays off for two former Highland librarians

Two former librarians at the Highland Park Branch Library have been appointed to top positions at the St. Paul Public Library.

Jerry Steenberg, who was a librarian at the Highland branch from 1962 to 1969, has been appointed Library Administrator, and Kathy Stachowiak, Highland librarian in 1971, was named Coordinator of Library Services.

Steenberg, acting director of the library since last May, has served in several library capacities, including Coordinator of Public Services, Supervisor of Branch Libraries and, besides his stint at Highland, was librarian at the Sunray branch.

Stachowiak, a graduate of the College of St. Catherine, has served as a supervisor for both Branch Libraries and Community Relations, a branch librarian at Sunray, and a professional assistant in the Science and Industry room at the central library.

Truhn honored by state's lily lovers

Marvin Truhn, 2042 Montreal Ave., has received the Minnesota State Horticultural Society Distinguished Service Award in recognition of his contributions to horticulture.

Truhn was cited by the state society for his research and experiments in advancing the growth of lilies in this area.

A member of many local and national horticultural organizations, Truhn received the award at the society's annual meeting held recently at Lakewood Community College.

Conyers keynotes Full Employment Conference Oct. 28

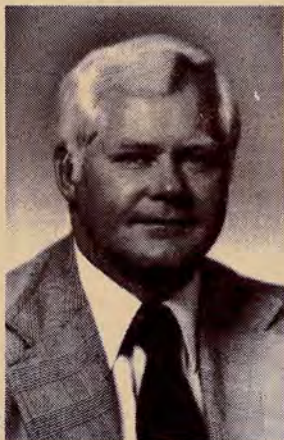

Representative John Conyers, Jr. (D, Mich.), a staunch advocate of the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill, will be the keynote speaker at a Conference on Full Employment on Saturday, October 28 at Concordia College in St. Paul.

Sponsored by the Minnesota Full Employment Action Council, a coalition of groups seeking passage of the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill, the conference will include addresses by David Roe, president of the Minnesota AFL-CIO; Cy Carpenter, president of the Minnesota Farmers Union; Treva Kahl, COPE and consumer affairs director of the Minnesota AFL-CIO, and Rick Scott, DFL Party chairman.

The registration fee is $10.00 per person and includes lunch, supper and conference materials. For further information and pre-registration, call Gene Buckanaga at 348-8550.

Coaches sought

The Highland-Groveland Recreation Association is currently trying to enlist the support of area men and women interested in coaching basketball this winter. Registration for the annual program will be held November 1-2. All those with an interest in young people and a few hours to spare each week are invited to give the HGRA a call at 699-4633.

ROGER ANDERSON is one of a kind — on land, sea and air

They didn't make a Xerox copy of Roger Anderson when he was born on St. Paul's East Side. His broad range of hobbies and interests mark him as a distinctly unique person—with a rare zest for life.

IN THE AIR—Flying is a long-time hobby with Roger. As a pilot he has flown his family by private plane thru the Caribbean to South America, Mexico and Central America. And if that weren't excitement enough, he just added a glider pilot's license last month... to experience the thrill of motorless flying, and finding a good place to land at the proper time.

ON THE SEA—After high school, Rog did a two-year stint as pharmacist's mate in the Navy. Later while in college, he spent summers as a seaman on the ore boats, criss-crossing all of the Great Lakes. He's a scuba diver and loves sailing, too, especially on Lake Superior.

ON LAND—Roger has been around at ground level, too. He attended Macalester and graduated from the U of M with both a BA and a BS in education. After teaching in the St. Paul school system for several years, he went into sales... for five years with U.S. Steel and the last 14 with the Xerox Corporation. He lives at 1965 Wellesley Avenue with his wife, Audrey, son Tony 16 (at Cretin), and daughter Jan 14 (at Derham Hall). On land, he's also coached girl's softball, and enjoys both cross-country and downhill skiing. Another sideline has been that of income property owner and landlord, which led to his recent decision to immerse himself more completely in real estate, as a full-time profession. Add to all that his ability as an artist and cartoonist, and you can see why we consider Rog a hard-to-copy, genuine original, easy to relate to when you want to sell and/or land a new and better home.

Three-story priests' residence ready to rise at Cretin-Summit

If you thought you've seen a flurry of construction in the Highland area of late, and think the seemingly ever-changing landscape might stabilize a few months from now, well, think again.

Things are looking up (and coming down) these days as workmen give the 25-year-old Highland Village Shopping Center an overdo facelift. The strong-armed man above, shown hoisting the Hoigaard's sign, will be back later this month to muscle up a new one. On the right, it takes two to trim the knotty pine facade, soon to be white-washed and adorned with new shop signs. The project, designed to give the center a cleaner, more uniform appearance, is scheduled to be completed by November.

ELECT BILL

Essling

RAMSEY COUNTY
COMMISSIONER — DISTRICT 4

Bill Essling

County Government and Moral Issues

The position of your County Commissioner on abortion and homosexual protection is of great significance.

Ramsey County operates the Ramsey Medical Center and Hospital. It provides programs for child welfare, aid to dependent children, foster homes, family health services, and family counseling. It operates the Family Court Adoption Court, Probate-Guardianship Court, and the Juvenile Court. In these and other activities, the county government relates extensively to family life and community morals.

COMMISSIONER AHRENS AND ABORTION

Diane Ahrens has campaigned for and supported abortion advocates. However, she has refused to answer a public official and a candidate's inquiry as to her views on abortion. Other officials and candidates responded immediately.

Diane Ahrens is on the County Hospital Board. The County Hospital furnishes abortion services at public expense. The County Hospital abortion unit was established by a leading abortionist—Jane Hodgson, M.D. The Medical Director and Chief of Staff of the County Hospital is Frank W. Quattelbaum, M.D., the husband of Jane Hodgson. Total abortions performed here last year were over 1300—more than 100 per month.

AHRENS AND HOMOSEXUAL PROTECTION

At the last city election, Diane Ahrens joined in a public statement by persons favoring approval, recognition and protection of the homosexual lifestyle. In doing so, she identified herself as a "Ramsey County Commissioner."

Vote for Bill Essling

He is the pro-life candidate.

He believes abortion is the same as murder.

He opposes public approval of homosexuality.

POL. ADV. Prepared and paid for by the William Essling Volunteer Committee, Mrs. Herbert J. Lethert, Doris C. Hilton, Judith Hilton, Helen Bailey, Charles H. Williams, Jr. and Gregory Bailey, Co-chairpersons, 1404 Lincoln Ave., St. Paul MN 55105.

Nelson's Interiors, Inc. Has New Talent

Ann Booth, a Crocus Hill resident for 28 years, previously owned a design office of her own before joining Nelson's this summer.

She studied architectural and art history at Oxford University in England, is a member of the American Society of Interior Designers, a prestigious national design organization, and is widely known for her interest in older homes.

Carolyn Kent also has an interest in historical home decorating and works as a docent at the Burbank Livingston Griggs House owned by the Minnesota Historical Society. Carolyn also teaches interior design at the University of Minnesota.

Although Karen Lehmann has been a designer at Nelson's Interiors for eight years, she has recently become a member of A.S.I.D. also.

The designer's greatest satisfaction is a delighted client. One wrote recently about her newly redecorated home, "Thank you so much; colors flow from one room to another and my whole house blends together."

BUILDING BOOM!

Downtown St. Paul has received its share of printer's ink lately with the unprecedented large-scale construction projects - and attendant vehicular inconveniences - proposed, in progress or recently completed in the loop.

More dispersed, but perhaps equally significant when plotting the course of change in the community, are 20-odd construction sites - in various stages of development - planned or nearing completion in the Highland Villager's distribution area.

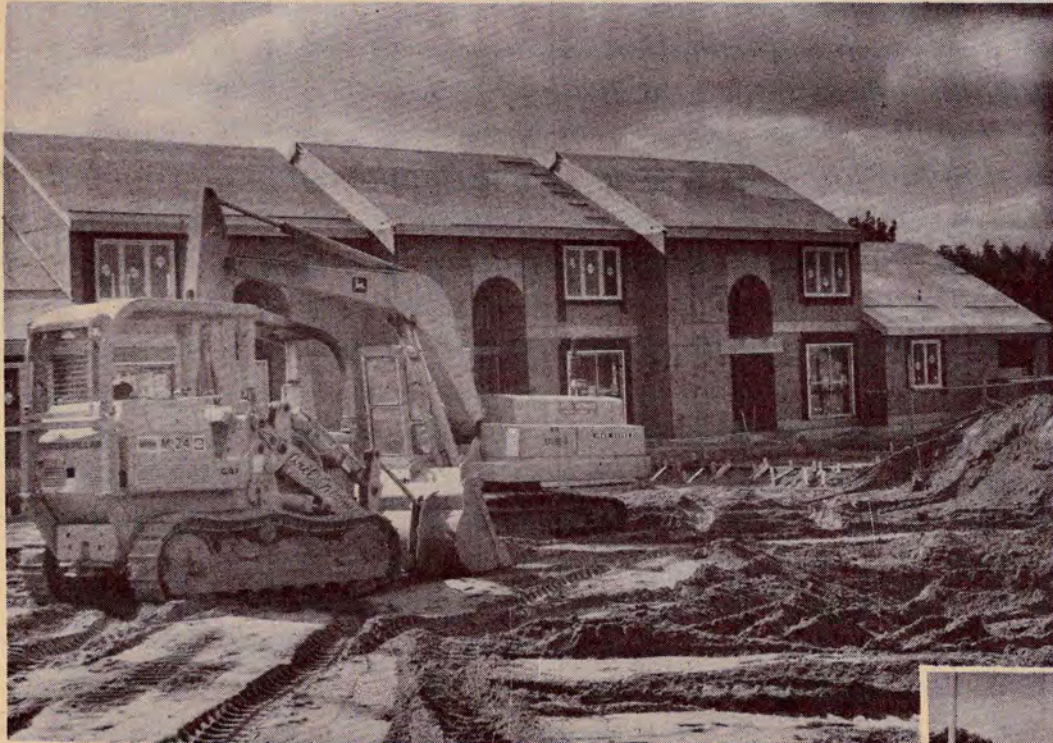

The photos on this page trace just a small portion of the rapidly changing local landscape. Add to those projects pictured here the proposed parking ramp in Highland Village, gym additions to both Groveland and Homecroft schools, a new priests' residence at the St. Paul Seminary, the Rockwood Place senior citizens' high-rise at Shepard Park, extensive additions to Ramsey Junior and Central High School, a recently completed student residence at the College of St. Thomas, a new home for the Merriam Park Developmental Achievement Center, and the Control Data complex at I-94 and Dale St., and you get an idea of the scope of the changes coming this way.

The Plaza at Shepard Park is expected to be finished sometime next month. The five-story apartment building is just one facet of a large-scale six-block development site that is totally re-shaping the area between West 7th and Shepard Road just east of Sibley Manor.

And they're still building homes (right). The top two photos show recently completed and soon to be completed homes. Built right next to one another, they're located at the corner of Kenneth and Boland Ave. Below, two new Cleveland Ave. homes, one at Jefferson (left), the other at Fairmount.

At the outset, the committee dealt only with the capital improvement projects which would involve bonding. In 1975, the scope of the committee was expanded to include other sources of funding, such as state and county aids and the federal government's Community Development block grants. According to Blees, the change was made to enable the committee to integrate the different sources of funding for capital improvements.

At about this same time, the composition of the task forces was changed. Instead of including 12 members from the legislative districts, the task forces were expanded to include 17 members, one from each of the planning district councils which had recently come into existence.

The projects from districts 14 and 15 which compose the Southwest Area District council include the following:

- The Highland Park Municipal Parking Facility at the southwest corner of Ford Parkway and Cleveland, justified on the basis of a 1976 survey which showed that the properties in the area had an off-street deficiency of at least 500 spaces. A total of $675,000 of the $925,000 cost will be absorbed by the benefitted property owners in the area. The remaining $250,000 will be the city's share. Since this project received funding from a specific source, it was not subjected to the rating system.

- The Groveland site development at St. Clair and Prior, which involves modification of the plans for the proposed gymnasium to improve building access, and upgrading of the field area. This project was rated second with a score of 112.13 by the Community Facilities Task Force. A spokesman for the Parks and Recreation Division stated that bids have been let on this project and completion is anticipated by next spring.

- Homecroft site development at Sheridan and Edgumbe, including general development of the field and play areas. This year's allocation of $180,000 was ranked seventh with a score of 92.38 by the Community Facilities Task Force. Work on this project, which includes plans for a gym addition, has been stalled because the initial set of bids came in too high and had to be discarded.

- Hillcrest playground development, which includes renovation of the site to include tot areas, tennis courts, and other improvements. The funds for this project were cut from an original figure of $330,000 down to $80,000. The original request included plans for a gym addition, submitted by the Division of Parks and Recreation. The revised project was rated eighth by the Community Facilities Task Force with a score of 82.56.

"This is an example of the input a district council can have," explained McDonell. "The district 15 representatives did not feel it appropriate to use our capital improvement funds when there are already existing facilities in the area." The task force instead urged the city to consider a cost-sharing relationship with a private or public school in the area which has an existing facility.

SHUTTERBUG

Calvin. The Crusher.
And something you'll find in Highland's new Variety store.

What's a loser,
a bruiser, and a toy cruiser?

Hold Cohen accountable.

Richard Cohen
voted for the stadium tax.

Richard Cohen, the incumbent state representative from District 63B, voted for the metropolitan area tax to finance a new stadium for professional sports. Of the 12 representatives from St. Paul, he was the only one to vote in favor of the Stadium Bill (SF 895, House Journal, p. 2475, May 10, 1977).

But now that the election is near, Richard Cohen would have you believe he opposes the stadium tax.*

Richard Cohen
voted to increase taxes
when the state had a large projected budget surplus.

When Richard Cohen took office, the State was piling up a surplus of several hundred million dollars. Despite the surplus, he voted for the tax bill which:

- Raised personal income tax rates.
- Imposed income taxes on public pensions.
- Increased income taxes on members of the armed services.
- Increased the tax on capital gains on the sale of homes and other property.
- Abolished the Senior Citizens Property Tax Freeze. (HF 1475, House Journal, p. 3485-3486, May 21, 1977)

But now that the election is near, Richard Cohen would have you believe he favors tax cuts and the reinstatement of the Senior Citizens Property Tax Freeze.*

Richard Cohen
voted to more than double his own salary and to liberalize
his own pension.

Within four months after he was sworn into office, Richard Cohen voted to more than double his own salary from $8,400 per year to $18,500, effective in the coming legislative session. One year later, Richard Cohen voted to liberalize his own pension by decreasing to six years the time he must hold office to receive a legislative pension. (SF 483, House Journal, p. 1178-1179, April 18, 1977; HF 1861, House Journal, p. 6710-6711, March 23, 1978).

But now that the election is near, Richard Cohen would have you believe that he would work to "abolish legislative pensions."*

*Sources: St. Paul Dispatch, August 15, 1978; Cohen brochures entitled "Cohen: A Voice of Reason in District 63B," and "Cohen: Highland Park's Most Effective Leader."

disagrees.

John Drew, your candidate for state representative in District 63B, disagrees with Richard Cohen's stands, as indicated by his votes in the legislature, on the Stadium Bill, on the 1977 Tax Bill, on the Salary Bill, and on the 1978 Pension Bill. But no matter how you feel about these issues, one point about Richard Cohen cannot be disputed: His record does not square with his rhetoric.

Richard Cohen's own political literature states:

"Political rhetoric is easy to come by; all politicians have a reserve of it. The test is in the doing . . ."

Richard Cohen's record shows what HE has been doing. Voters must hold him accountable on Election Day, November 7.

VOTE JOHN DREW
for State Representative in District 63-B

Prepared and paid for at regular rates by the John Drew for House of Representatives Campaign Committee, 2134 Highland Pkwy., St. Paul, MN 55116; Bill Rosenbloom, Chairman; Mary Wagner, Chairwoman; Lois Caldwell, Treasurer.

A Craft Extravaganza, sponsored by the St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation, will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday, October 23 at the St. Clair Recreation Center, Oneida and St. Clair Ave.

Craft specialists will give instruction in the building of mobiles, fabric art, cardboard crafts, and Christmas candy dishes, calendars and ornaments.

One of the few sunny moments during Highland Park's homecoming game came when this picture was snapped. The sun went down early, though, on that cold and cloudy afternoon as Humboldt snuffed the Scotsmen 20-7 despite the faithful following that turned out to heat up the hopes of the home team in the midst of a rough season.

Arctic Blades to slice the ice this winter at Highland Arena

The chilly interiors of Highland Ice Arena will harbor a new skating school this year: the Arctic Blades Skating School of Highland.

Gold Medal instructor Steven Leshner, an ISIA (Ice Skating Institute of America) instructor the past two years for the old Highland Figure Skating Association, will direct the school through two eight-week sessions, October 21 to December 16 and January 6 through February 24.

A bronze winner in the 1969 Upper Great Lakes (UGL) singles competition and a 1971 silver winner in the UGL pair competition, Leshner has put together a talented and experienced staff.

Joining him are Barb Yackel Kiesling, a 1970 UGL singles champion, and Denise Dixon, who's been performing in Twin City area shows for six years.

Students will be divided according to age and ability into nine classes or levels: Tots, for 2½ to 5-year-olds, Beginners I, Beginners II, Intermediate I, Intermediate II, Advanced, Jump and Spin, and Adults. The fee is $25.00 per session, and each group will meet for half-hour lessons between 10:20 a.m. and 1:40 p.m. on Saturdays.

For more information and applications, call 738-3212.

Library seeks homebound help

The St. Paul Public Library's Homebound Service is seeking volunteers to bring library materials on a regular basis to residents in the Highland area.

If you can donate two hours of your time every three or four weeks, call the Homebound Service at 644-5828.

Pilgrim sponsors family film fest

The film fare will feature several short movies and cartoon classics for the entire family, including an "Our Gang" favorite, Sleeping Beauty, and Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel.

The event is open to the public free of charge, and refreshments will be available.

Why do taxes keep going up?

HERE'S PART OF THE ANSWER:

In the last issue is the Highland Villager, Commissioner Tony Danna explained why he voted against a $4 million expenditure for a new County Nursing Home. Last week the Ramsey County Board hired an Executive Director (a newly created position) at a salary of $42,000, and gave him authority to hire up to seven assistants at $22,000 each.

TONY DANNA VOTED "NO"!

"In these days, when we should be tightening our belts on spending, we cannot afford the luxury of new buildings and new people. I take the California vote on Proposition 13 very seriously—as a mandate of the people to get a handle on government spending. My opposition to irresponsible spending will continue until elected officials wake up and hear the public."

St. Gregory's sale

St. Gregory's Church will hold a rummage sale from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Saturday, October 21 at the church, 1668 Montreal Ave. Sale items will include clothing, housewares, linens, draperies, books, purses, toys, furniture, shoes and electrical appliances.

It was originally billed as a debate between Dave Durenberger (above) and Bob Short, the two major party candidates for the four-year U.S. Senate seat. But Short didn't show up at Jeanne d'Arc Auditorium on the campus of the College of St. Catherine, apparently because of a commitment in the BWCA where he and his PR people were shooting some 30-second TV spots for the campaign's home stretch. His absence gave Durenberger a chance to solo for over an hour and field a wide range of questions from a student panel and the more than 200 students and faculty members in attendance. The unidentified student in the photo below was one of many who continued to query the candidate following the session.

Public hearing set on proposed changes in airport zoning rules

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) has invited the public to participate in a hearing on airport zoning regulations at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, October 12 in the State Office Building auditorium.

At the hearing, Mn/DOT representatives will explain proposed changes in the zoning regulations. Existing Mn/DOT airport regulations create a series of safety zones around an airport in which land use and plane altitude is regulated.

In 1978 the state legislature determined that designating existing land uses as not conforming to airport zoning regulations is not in the public interest, particularly if the land uses are in established residential neighborhoods.

Statements may be made orally or in writing at the October 12 hearing. Written materials may also be submitted until October 19 by mail to George A. Beck, Hearing Examiner, Office of Hearing Examiners, 1745 University Ave., St. Paul, MN 55104.

For more information on the zoning rules, call Dagmar Runyon at 296-3933.

Paper drive set

The Immanuel Lutheran Church Hi-League will sponsor a paper drive from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Saturday, October 28 at the church, 104 So. Snelling Ave. Only phone books and newspapers will be accepted.

For pick-up service, call the church office at 699-5560. Proceeds will go to Prince of Glory Church Christmas Gift Shop to provide gifts for children.

Garden Club meets

The Garden Club of Ramsey County will hold a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Monday, October 16 at Messiah Episcopal Church, 1631 Ford Pkwy. A lawn care program, presented by the Ramsey County Extension Service, will follow at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited. For dinner reservations, call June Truhn at 690-2751 by October 12.

CONCERNED ABOUT CRONYISM?

Unfortunately, there are some members of the county board whose instincts for cronyism are insatiable. St. Paul Pioneer Press, Thurs., Dec. 15, 1977

Cronyism on the Ramsey County Board puts favors for friends before community needs, keeps the best qualified persons from being considered for county appointments, and creates wasteful duplication.

County government here has been comparatively smooth, sane and above board for the last couple of years, simply because the faction that gave us such a show of cronyism and chaos before the last election was reduced to a minority on the county board...

...Behind the scenes, Commissioners John Finley and Tony Danna are expected to be working hard with an old ally, Lou McKenna, county director of property taxation, to bounce Ahrens and Salverda off the board in hopes of building a new majority. We wouldn't like to see that.

St. Paul Dispatch, Thurs., Sept. 14, 1978

Cronyism takes your tax dollars
Take cronyism out of county government.

Film Processing Company moves to larger quarters

Film Processing Company, which had been located at the corner of Cleveland and Randolph for the past four years, recently moved down the street to 716 So. Cleveland Ave. at Highland Parkway.

According to Fred Specktor, president of the seven-year-old firm, the growth Film Processing Company has experienced in recent years made the relocation to larger quarters a necessity. In addition to movie, slide and still photo-film processing, the company sells camera equipment at discount prices.

Specktor, who lives at 700 So. Cretin Ave., said Film Processing Company has planned various traffic building inducements for its first few weeks of business at the new location.

His wife, Marge Specktor, is a full-time associate in the business.

Sonos set to begin 3rd season

The Twin Cities based Sonos Chamber Ensemble will kick off its 1978-79 concert season this Thursday, October 12 at the St. Paul Arts and Science Center. The concert, which begins at 8:00 p.m., will include works by Haydn, Milhaud, Sarasate and Brahms.

Sonos' 1978 season marks the debut of the ensemble's new violinist, Kathleen Winkler. Ms. Winkler has studied under such notable violinists as Josef Gingold, Franco Gulli, Ivan Galamian, and Paul Mekanowitzky.

Other members of the group—all artists-in-residence at the University of Minnesota's MacPhail Center for the arts—are Katherine Murdock, viola; Karen Cornelius, cello; George Plasko, clarinet; and David Deveau, piano.

These four Visitation School alumnae are concerned with a slightly different board of education these days as they put in overtime hours by building sets for the school's annual Merrie Market and Art Show, to be held October 20 and 21. The area carpenters are, from left to right: Barb Halligan, 149 S. Grotto St.; Debbie Smith, 1677 Pinehurst Ave.; Joan Slater, 454 Mt. Curve Blvd.; and Kitty Dawson, 313 S. Saratoga St.

Visitation's alumnae set Merrie Market

The alumnae association of the Visitation School once again invites area shoppers to take a leisurely stroll down the bargain-filled lanes of its Merrie Market and gambol through the galleries of its annual Art Show.

The two-day sale and festival will be held from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, October 20 and 21 at the school.

2475 Dodd Rd. in Mendota Heights.

The school's gymnasium will be converted to affect the mood of an old-fashioned village. Eight local merchants — Frank Murphy's, Gokey's, J. Donald Donahue Interiors, Teasleys, Craig Olson Flowers, Little Dickens, McGlynn Bakeries and Bonita Marie Needlepoint — will set up shop and sell their wares in the turn-of-the-century setting.

All of the works featured in the art show will be offered for sale, with a portion of the price going to the alumnae association.

The festival will include an outdoor kiddie carnival complete with rides, cotton candy, sno cones and popcorn.

Ireland's finest featured in Civic Center concert

A troupe of Irish musicians and dancers, all winners in Ireland's recent Comhaltas competitions, will perform in concert at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, October 24 at the St. Paul Civic Center theater.

Sponsored locally by the St. Paul branch of Comhaltas Ceoltoiri Eireann, the troupe is comprised of performers who have been awarded all-Ireland honors in their country's annual music and dance competitions. They are currently on a U.S. tour.

Tickets for the concert are $3.00, $4.00 or $5.00, and are available at all Dayton's ticket offices. All seats are reserved.

Kipps concert set at St. Luke Oct. 15

The Kipps and Kompany, a six-member ensemble of musicians and vocalists, will perform a concert of sacred music at 6:30 p.m. this Sunday, October 15 at St. Luke Lutheran Church, Edgumbe Road and Field Ave.

The Kipps and Kompany has toured internationally with the Youth for Christ organization. The group is comprised of organist David Kipp; his sons, Dave and Tom, on guitar and piano; and vocalists, Donna Northrup, Darlene Irwin and Mariel Gander.

Opera company's ensemble plans first Midwest tour

The Minnesota Opera Company has announced the formation of a Minnesota Opera Touring Ensemble, which will perform the Donizetti comic opera Viva la Mamma throughout the five-state area during the 1978-79 season.

Viva la Mamma is the adaptation of Donizetti's Le Convenienze Teatrali, translated into English by Michael Feingold, literary director of the Guthrie Theater.

The operatic farce takes place in a small provincial opera house where the impresario is trying to rehearse a new opera with an Italian prima donna and a pompous Russian tenor. The difficulties and the comedy multiply with the arrival of "Mamma," an overbearing stage mother, written as a comic tour de force for buffo bass. Mamma ultimately commands a role in the opera, creating a delightful parody of the conventions of grand opera.

The Minnesota Opera Touring Ensemble grew out of the nationally acclaimed Minnesota Opera Studio. Its members include Susan Casserly, Dawn Timmerman, Gary Briggie, John Frankhauser, James McKeel and Dale Schriemer. The musical director is Jere Lantz and the stage director is Richard Hudson.

The ensemble will preview Viva la Mamma on Friday and Sunday, October 27 and 29 at the Minnesota Opera Company, 850 Grand Ave. Certain other dates on the tour calendar still remain open, and schools, universities, and arts organizations are invited to contact the Minnesota Opera Company at 221-0256 for information concerning possible bookings.

Sculptress Judy Onofrio rests among her soft-sculptured ceramics which she somehow has managed to roll, bob and bounce all the way from her Rochester, Minnesota, studio to the art galleries at the College of St. Catherine. Onofrio's works, soft in both form and color, will be shown, along with Gregory Bitz's fine-line, ink drawings, from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays, and from 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays through October 27 in the CSC art galleries.

'A Night at the Circus' opens Mac Symphonic Band season

The Macalester College Symphonic Band will open its 1978-79 season with a concert of circus music, rags and oldies in the Concert Hall of the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center on the Macalester campus at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, October 19.

Open to the public free of charge, "A Night at the Circus" will feature jugglers, clowns and singers who will perform along with the musicians.

Conductor Edouard Forner will lead the band in three rags by composer Scott Joplin: "The Cascades," "Cleopha," and "The Great Crush Collision March."

Rounding out the performance will be a montage of popular songs from the 1920s and medleys of songs by Cole Porter and Irving Berlin.

Bach's Trio Sonata in G for Flute, Oboe and Continuo; R. Schumann's Sonata in A minor for Violin and Piano; Couplets on les Folies d'Espagne, for Oboe and Continuo by Marin Marais; and Trio in E Minor, for Violin, Cello and Piano by Shostakovich.

Tsai-Ping to play ku cheng at Mac

Liang Tsai-Ping, composer and soloist, will perform on the ku cheng, or Chinese zither, at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, October 12 in the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center Concert Hall at Macalester College.

The 16-string ku cheng dates back to 221 B.C. Liang, who is credited with the instrument's rediscovery, released his first composition, "Longing for an Old Friend," in 1951 and has since composed more than 40 works for the ku cheng.

The concert, which is free and open to the public, will be followed by a reception in the lobby outside the concert hall.

Great meals, reservations, and Art Mack, too!

Luvisi performs with SPCO in Oct. 21 Capital Series concert

Pianist Lee Luvisi will be featured when the Saint Paul Chamber Orchestra (SPCO) presents its second Capital Series concert at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, October 21 in O'Shaughnessy Auditorium at the College of St. Catherine.

Conducted by SPCO Principal Guest Conductor Jorge Mester, the concert offers a diverse repertoire of music ranging from 1815 to 1944. Opening the program will be a piece written in 1928 by a leader in contemporary music—Henry Cowell's Sinfonietta—followed by Paul Hindemith's The Four Temperaments, a work first performed in 1944 and later choreographed for the New York City Ballet by Georges Balanchine. The final selection of the evening returns to 1815 and a composition by Franz Peter Schubert, Symphony No. 2 in B-flat Major, D. 125.

Lee Luvisi's activities through the years have included major recital and orchestra appearances in the United States, Canada and Europe. On September 13, he was featured in the SPCO's opening Perspectives Series concert, performing four compositions for solo piano and ensembles.

Four more mount the soapbox at St. Thomas

Benchwarmer Bob Lurtsema, former Viking and Seattle Seahawk reserve tackle who found fame, fortune and a starting role advertising for Twin City Federal, kicked off St. Thomas' fall semester guest-speaker program last month.

Open to the public free of charge, the convocation program will bring four more speakers to the CST campus this fall at 1:05 p.m. Tuesdays in the O'Shaughnessy Educational Center Auditorium. Yet to mount the soapbox are:

Christopher Derrick, English writer and critic, who will talk on "Ten Years of Humanae Vitae," October 17; Stan Lee, Marvel Comics publisher, who will discuss "Comic Books and the World About Us," November 7; Jerry Teplitz, author of How to Relax and Enjoy, who will try to teach his listeners just that, November 14; and Peter James, former CIA spy, who will talk on "The Embryo of an American Police State," November 28.

An annual participant in the summer Aspen Festival in Colorado, Luvisi is currently Chairman of the Piano Department at the University of Louisville.

Directing his second Capital Series concert this season, Principal Guest Conductor Jorge Mester is concurrently in his eleventh season as music director of the Louisville Orchestra. This past summer he completed his eighth season as music director of the Aspen Festival in Colorado. A Mozart specialist, Mester also conducts a Mozart mini-festival in Aspen every summer.

Mester graduated from the Juilliard School of Music, where he served on the faculty for 12 years. He has conducted more than 50 world premiere recordings, and has recorded three operas and "rarities" from the Romantic era.

Season tickets for the capital series are still available. Single tickets are priced at $8.50, $6.50 and $4.50 (with discount prices of $7.00, $5.00 and $3.00 for students and senior citizens over 62 years of age with current ID). For single tickets or for more complete details about season tickets, call the SPCO ticket office at 291-1144.

The Highland Villager

Spurred on by the Prince (Dean Shoff), Trufaldino the sidekick (Michael Myers) closes in on the object of their quest, Princess Ninetta (Deborah Hightower) in this scene from the Minnesota Opera Company's "The Love for Three Oranges." Prokofiev's tale opera will open the company's new season on Friday, October 13 in O'Shaughnessy Auditorium.

Minnesota Opera opens new season with Russian fairy tale

The Minnesota Opera Company will open its 1978-79 season this Friday, October 13 with Serge Prokofiev's fairy tale opera, The Love for Three Oranges.

Rarely staged in the United States, the Russian opera revolves around the adventures of a young prince who is cursed by sorceress Fata Morgana to fall in love with three oranges, each containing a beautiful princess. In his untiring search for the precious fruit, he battles all manner of wicked people, including a scheming prime minister, a jealous cousin, a monstrous cook armed with the world's largest ladle, and of course the formidable Fata Morgana.

Accompanied by the court jester, Trufaldino, the Prince eventually finds his three princesses, only to have the first two die of thirst. The third is saved in a very unusual way—by the audience.

One of the most engaging aspects of The Love for Three Oranges is Prokofiev's use of a large chorus to portray the public's attitude toward opera. The chorus of "public opinions" is divided into several groups, each advocating its own view of what opera is all about: tragedy, comedy, romance, farce, etc.

The Minnesota Opera's production, which will be sung in English, stars sopranos Flicka Wilmore as Fata Morgana and Deborah Hightower as Princess Ninetta; and mezzo sopranos Dawn Timmerman as Clarissa and Kathryn Medici as Smeraldina. The Prince will be sung by tenor Dean Shoff, and Trufaldino by tenor Michael Myers.

Performances are scheduled for October 13, 14, 20 and 22 at 8:00 p.m. in O'Shaughnessy Auditorium on the campus of the College of St. Catherine.

Minnesota mounts its annual display of colorful fall foliage

Tales of Mother Nature's paintbrush capture the imagination when the canvas called fall reveals its vivid hues. But the credit for Minnesota's annual kaleidoscope of color really goes to the chemical processes taking place in the tree as summer gives way to fall and winter.

The food-making process necessary for the tree's growth takes place in the leaves, in cells containing the green pigment chlorophyll. But according to Carol Czaia, assistant extension forester at the University of Minnesota, the leaves also contain yellow or orange pigments, which are masked by the greater amounts of chlorophyll through the spring and summer.

In the fall, however, temperatures drop, the days grow shorter, and leaves stop their food-making process. As the chlorophyll breaks down, the green color disappears and the yellow is revealed.

Although yellow is a basic color of fall foliage, other chemical changes add new colors to the autumn scene. Warm, sunny days followed by cool nights cause sugar to form in the leaves. This encourages the formation of other pigments, such as anthocyanin. When the chlorophyll breaks down in leaves where anthocyanin has formed, the leaves turn red. The same tree may vary its colors from fall to fall depending on the weather conditions. During a warm, cloudy, wet fall, the leaves may turn reddish, but they will lack brilliance. This is because a smaller amount of sugar is made in reduced sunlight, and it moves out of the leaves during the mild nights, leaving little to form pigments. The best conditions for high leaf color are sunny days, slightly dry conditions, moderate day temperatures and cool nights.

Some colors are typical of certain types of trees. The red maple and sumac generally turn bright red, while the sugar maple turns an orange-yellow. Boxelder, Norway maple, silver maple, paper birch, catalpa, ginkgo, honeylocust, Kentucky coffee tree, aspen, basswood and American elm turn yellow. Alders and locust show little change, and oaks turn a reddish-brown.

To see some of nature's most colorful canvases, follow Minnesota 95 along the St. Croix River, Minnesota 13 through Jordan and south to the area between Mankato and Owatonna, U.S. 61 through Lake City to Winona, the North Shore Drive, or along the Minnesota River Valley.

And don't overlook the local show opening soon right in your own neighborhood.

Survey of senior citizens to assist program planners

A survey of persons over 60 years old who live in Ramsey County will be conducted by the Amherst H. Wilder Foundation beginning in mid-October.

Volunteers will canvass certain blocks in every neighborhood, engaging in face-to-face interviews that will deal with seniors' outlooks and activities available to them in their communities.

By analyzing the needs of older persons, it is hoped the study will assist in planning efforts by local organizations which sponsor programs for seniors.

The survey is a cooperative venture on the part of the Wilder Foundation and the St. Paul Foundation.

Winterize your home.

You winterize your car. Why not your home? It's simple enough that you can do some of it yourself. And winterizing prevents heat loss, so you'll save yourself some energy.

Lets start at the top.

Your attic. Maybe it needs insulation. If your ceiling joists are showing, you need more insulation. (NSP recommends a total R-value of 38.) Once you've checked your insulation, you can do one of two things: Call a qualified contractor in to do the job for you. Or do the job yourself. In either case, call NSP and we'll give you the answers or the help you need.

Now, about your windows and doors...

Even the most inexperienced do-it-yourselfer can reduce heat loss around windows and doors by weatherstripping and caulking up drafty leaks. All you need are some relatively inexpensive materials (available at your hardware store or building supply dealer), some tools you probably already have, and a little time.

Tune-up your furnace.

No kidding. You can cut 5% off your heat use by having your furnace tuned-up at least every two years by a qualified heating contractor.

And you can keep it running efficiently by checking the filter each month and cleaning or changing it when necessary.

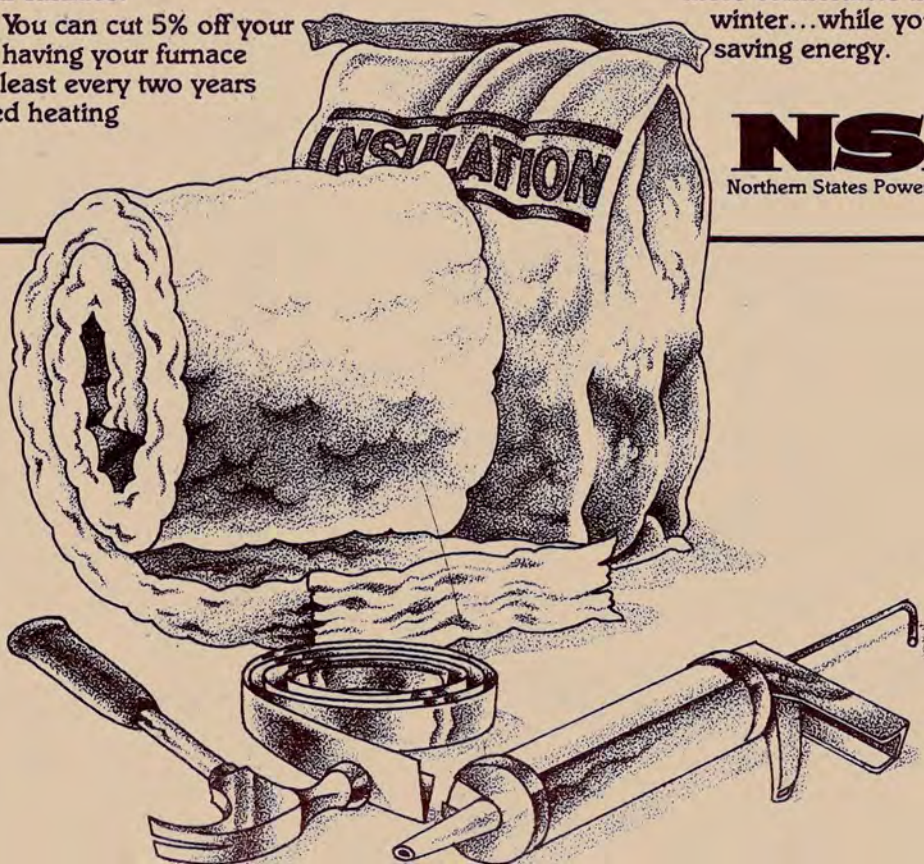

Two more quick suggestions.

Keep your thermostat as low as is comfortable this winter. But remember: the lower you set it, the more energy you save. Turn it down 5 to 8 degrees when you're sleeping or away from the house for even greater savings. You can even buy an automatic clock thermostat for convenience.

And lower the thermostat on your water heater to medium setting or 140°.

Any questions? Just ASK NSP.

There are other things you can do to winterize your home. And there are specific things you should know before you tackle any of the projects you've just read about. So if you need more information...or if you have any questions...just call 330-6000 and ASK NSP. (If you live outside the Twin Cities area, call collect 0-612-330-6000.) We'll be glad to help you make your home warmer and more comfortable this winter...while you're saving energy.

torium on the campus of the College of St. Catherine.

Concentus Musicus, a 12-member ensemble from Vienna, performs baroque music on the original instruments for which the music was written.

Included in its collection of old instruments are violins dating from 1665, a tenor viola from 1650, a Castagneri Violincello from 1744, a violone (bass) from 1729, a 1720 oboe, a 1750 flauto traverso which once belonged to Frederick the Great, and an 18th century Viennese baroque bassoon.

The program for the concert will include the Suite from Les Indes Galantes by Rameau; Biber's Three Sonatas from Tam aris quam aulis; Bach's Concer-Semifinalists in Chimera Theatre's Youth Talent Search, the singing duo of Kassy Kenny, 1597 Saunders Ave., and Kraig Swartz, 1684 Beechwood Ave., strutted their stuff last Saturday for Chimera's Children's Film Series. Also on the program that day, and a semi-finalist herself, was Wendy Kroll, 424 So. Warwick St., a veteran of Highland Park Senior High theatrical productions.

Public awareness campaign set for Learning Disabilities Month

October was recently declared as "Learning Disabilities Month" in Minnesota. In conjunction with the month-long observation, the Minnesota Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (MACLD) has planned a statewide public awareness campaign. The Minnesota ACLD is a group of parents and professionals and other interested persons dedicated to promoting better understanding and educational services for learning disabled persons.

"Learning disabilities are often referred to as 'the hidden handicap,'" said MACLD Executive Director Mary Jo Richardson, 2085

Palace Ave. "These children have normal intelligence, normal eyesight and normal hearing, but may not learn the way others do. They can learn, but they learn in a different way."

The Minnesota ACLD, a non-profit United Way agency, has 60 local chapters throughout the state of Minnesota. The president of the St. Paul chapter is Sandy Klas, 496 Montrose Lane.

For any further information about the free services offered through the MACLD, contact the state office, 1821 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota 55104, or call Sandy Klas at 698-7333.

Area volunteers' efforts are more than just 'sew-sew'

The Twin Cities Diabetes Association will hold its annual Gift and Craft Bazaar from Friday through Sunday, October 27-29 at the Southdale Shopping Center, Crosstown and France Ave. in Edina.

Thanks, in part, to the efforts of 15 dedicated women from the association's Highland-Mendota chapter, the bazaar is expected to realize more than $15,000 for diabetes research.

The area volunteers have spent nearly 8,000 hours this past year sewing patchwork quilts to be sold at this year's sale, and they aren't through yet. The group meets for 2½ hours a week at the home of Marilyn Van-Zyl in Mendota Heights to work on the quilts, and most members spend an extra eight to 10 hours a week adding the finishing touches.

Besides the area group's handiwork, the benefit sale will include doll clothes, handmade pillows, Christmas gifts and ornaments, and ceramic creations, all donated by Twin Cities craftpersons.

Entitled "Rainbows Through Research," the sale will be held during regular shopping hours: from 10:00 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Friday; from 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Saturday; and from noon to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday.

All purchases will be 50 percent tax deductible. Free diabetes testing will be conducted throughout the sale.
