35,000 - home delivered

It was indeed a Grand Old Day June 4 as tens of thousands of sidewalk strollers took in the sights, sounds and smells of an avenue temporarily transformed into a 2½-mile-long street festival. But nothing's grand if you get lost when you're as young as this little tyke. She obviously wasn't taking any chances. (More photos inside.)

Ground breaking set June 7 for addition to Merriam Park Center

Ground breaking ceremonies for a $250,000 addition to the Merriam Park Community Center will be held at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday, June 7 at the center, 2000 St. Anthony Ave.

The addition, which will be constructed on the west side of the present building, will eventually house the Merriam Park Developmental Achievement Center's staff offices and practical academics, self-care grooming, communication skills, and independent living and learning facilities, in addition to a senior citizen health screening clinic.

The Developmental Achievement Center is designed to provide severely and profoundly retarded men and women with the means to adjust as fully as possible to an independent life within their homes and communities. The DAC staff is currently working with 45 retarded adults.

The $250,000 in anticipated construction costs were granted to the Merriam Park Community Center through Community Development and CIB funds. The addition was designed by the architectural firm of McGuire, Courteau and Lucke, 867 Grand Ave.

South Minneapolis planning forums scheduled next week

South Minneapolis residents in the Nokomis and Longfellow planning districts will have an opportunity at meetings next week to voice their concerns over a comprehensive development plan for the city.

The Longfellow meeting will be held on Tuesday, June 13 in Room 123 at Sanford Junior High School, 3524 42nd Ave. S. The Nokomis meeting will be held on Thursday, June 15 at the Logan Park Building, Monroe and 13th Ave. N.E. Both meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Cosponsored by Mayor Al Hofstede, the City Planning Department and the Planning District Advisory Committee (PDAC) in each community, the citizen forums will present the following topics for discussion: population trends, housing, economic development, fiscal problems, land use, environmental conditions, transportation, waste management, parks and open space, and public facilities.

Similar planning issue forums will be held during June in each of the city's eight other communities.

Healy wins I-R endorsement for District 62-A House seat

Cathy Healy, a 28-year-old tax accountant, has won the Independent-Republican endorsement for election to the Minnesota House of Representatives from St. Paul's District 62-A.

Healy and her husband, Tom, live at 567 Pelham Blvd. and are active members of St. Mark's Church and the Desnoyer Park Community Center. A life-long resident of St. Paul, she is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy and the College of St. Catherine.

Healy has been employed full-time for the past five years by the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Company, and part-time for the past nine years by the Town and Country Club.

According to her, the major challenges facing the next session of the state legislature is "to restructure our inequitable tax system, to modernize and economize our overgrown and outdated legislature, and to seek a better approach in the fields of state and local government, human rights, welfare, corrections and education."

Includes Planning Districts 14 and 15 — Southwest Area District Council is all set to organize Tuesday, June 13 at St. Kate's

A successor organization to the Highland-Groveland-Macalester community Association will be formed on Tuesday evening, June 13, at 7:30 p.m., in the student and faculty cafeterias of St. Joseph's Hall on the campus of the College of St. Catherine.

Recently approved and recognized by the St. Paul City Council, the Southwest Area District Council will cover the same terrain that HiGroMac did for the past several years.

According to Howard Guthmann, 815 So Fairview Ave., current president of the now-dormant HiGroMac, a whole new set of representatives will be elected, one from each of 21 grids and eight at-large (four from each of the two previous planning districts).

By-laws for the organization were approved and recognition by the City Council was granted on May 11, after a May 2 public hearing with Council members at St. Catherine's. HiGroMac voted last week to relegate itself to limbo, with the assumption that the new organization will be a most adequate replacement within the official citywide structure of citizen participation.

No grid representatives will be elected unless at least three people from a single grid area are on hand to vote on a person for the position. At-large reps will be elected after the grid selections have been completed. Any grid vacancies by the second meeting of the District council will be filled by board appointments.

The Council will elect its own officers, presumably from among the 29 members of the board.

First president of the superseded HiGroMac association was Martin Kellogg. He later moved up to Chairman, with Harry Weisbecker succeeding him as president.

During the past year, Mike McTeague served as Chairman of the HiGroMac Board, with Howard Guthmann as president.

The Southwest Area Council includes the area south of Summit Avenue, from the river on the west to the Short Line and I-35E cut on the east.

All citizens of the area are urged to attend and assist in the process of getting the new organization off the ground.

Maps of the grid system were not available by presstime. Anyone wishing to know which grid he lives in and its parameters may call the Villager at 690-3817 or 699-1462.

St. Kate's offers Elderhostel program for senior citizens

Senior citizens who haven't lost the spirit of adventure may be interested in taking a week-long Elderhostel course at the College of St. Catherine July 9-15.

Elderhostel, an on-campus living and learning experience designed for anyone over 60, is being offered from June 4 through August 26 at 18 Minnesota colleges. Participants will live in a college dorm for a week and take from one to three classes.

The courses offered by St. Catherine's are: Oral History, Music Literature, and Ceramic Sculpture and Hand-Built Pottery. The classes will be taught by regular faculty members and there will be no exams, grades, or homework, although professors will make suggestions for outside reading and studying.

Oral History, to be taught by Sister John Christine Wolkerstorfer, will examine just what oral history is and how it differs from the traditional approach to history.

Music Literature will be taught by Sister Mary Davida Wood. A music listening course for the non-major, it will feature discussions of representative works from the symphony, concerto, opera, chamber music and keyboard repertoire.

Peter Lupori will teach the sculpture and pottery course, giving participants basic experience in ceramic materials and processes in both sculptural and hand-built functional forms.

St. Catherine's and other participating colleges are offering the program at no profit. "Hostelers" pay $75 for room and board.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Minnesota Elderhostel office (376-2704) or St. Catherine's Office of Continuing Education (690-6542).

Community Education Notice

Nearly 70 different courses and activities will be offered this summer as part of the Groveland and Homecroft Community Education programs. Most courses begin the week of June 19.

Residents of the two program areas (for Groveland, the area bounded by Summit, Snelling, Randolph and the river; for Homecroft, the area south of Montreal from the river to the 35E cut, and the area between Cleveland and Snelling as far north as Ford Parkway) will find a copy of their respective summer schedules inserted as a flyer in this issue of the Highland Villager. Consult the flyer for registration information.

Those folks living outside the areas mentioned above who would like to obtain copies of the summer programs may call Jim Martin at Groveland (690-5037) or Dave Pasiuk at Homecroft (690-2879).

As of June 1, Mid America State Bank of Highland Park commenced issuing the new "money market certificate." We will continue to do so in the weeks ahead.

This new certificate is restricted to amounts of $10,000 or more and a maturity of six months. Its interest rate will vary from week to week, based on the rate for new six month U.S. Treasury Bills. The interest rate for the week beginning June 1 was 7.16 percent.

The "money market certificate" is an opportunity to earn higher interest in six months than ever before. If you are interested in this new certificate, then come to Mid America Bank or call us today.

Upon payment of a time savings certificate prior to maturity, federal regulations require that, on the amount withdrawn, the interest previously earned shall be reduced to the passbook rate and three months of that interest shall be forfeited.

WRONG PRICING LOGIC

If you try to sell your home yourself, how do you set a realistic price? Most people base their price tags on the only facts known to them: original price, cost of improvements, and hoped-for profit. Then they adjust to bring their figure in line with what they think similar homes are bringing. Sounds reasonable, but three of the basic facts are irrelevant, and the fourth is highly dubious.

The original price, improvements, and hoped-for profit only determine whether you gain or lose, but they have nothing to do with the right price to produce a sale. Prices of other homes may give you some clue to the market, but most of the time you only hear of the asking price. If it's not a realistic price, it won't be the selling price.

How then do you set a realistic price? By consulting Jambor Realtors, whose business it is to know how much property can bring and will bring. Their knowledge of the market is invaluable.

A CASE IN POINT

Here is an actual, documented case history of an owner's experience in trying to sell her own property:

"A successful businesswoman in a medium size midwestern city recently sold her home without the aid of a Realtor. She now regrets her action because: (1) it took her six months to close the sale in a community where the average closing time is between 45 and 60 days; (2) handling the sale herself consumed at least 100 hours of her valuable time; (3) a legal hassle resulting from a garbled sales agreement cost her about $2,500 in attorney's fees; (4) the tension and worry she went through to complete the sale drained her emotionally."

MASH

by Maurice F. Mischke

So often I wrack my brain trying to come up with something worth your reading time. Then, this morning, I pick up the latest metro daily and what do I find... that maybe I've been wracking the left side of my cerebrum instead of the more imaginative, intuitive right. Oh, well, what can you expect from a life-long southpaw... in most respects, that is.

Since I was preoccupied with visiting a brother and sister from Nebraska and Arizona, respectively, and another sister who's spent a winter here and is now ready to go back to Smogville once again, I didn't indulge in any of the weekend excitement... had to get my reports on Grand Old Day from Mike and others, and from the pix you'll see in this issue. What beautiful weather for what had to be a hugely successful event. I'll be back to enjoy it next year, though, believe you me.

A second event that could have helped me fill a whole column was the DFL convention in the Civic Center. It's no cause for gloating, but it happens to be a fact that this mugwump has never actually attended a political convention in person... 'tis true—spite of the fact that I worked on ad campaigns for local politicians for many years.

But I haven't missed voting in any election since I was old enough and I have attended some precinct caucuses of both parties over a period of time. To date, though, I'm still one of those independents that both parties spend a good deal of money trying to woo, while we try to decide who's who and what he or she will do for us or to us, as the case may be.

This has got to wind up being the most interesting election campaign, statewide, in many a year. And I think a lot of interest is going to be generated here and across the country too, from that California tax referendum. You'll probably know the answer by the time you read these words, but everything points to Proposition 13 passing by a comfortable margin. It seems to be a rather haphazard solution, perhaps even a monstrosity... but when people get mad enough, they'll vote on emotion and let the political politicians worry about the results.

Yes, California may find itself in a messy situation, and the stewing has already started. What I can't figure out is why those turkeys at the local level couldn't adjust the mill rate downward almost as fast as the assessed value of the community's homes shot upward. No way in the world should property taxes have to triple or quadruple in three years just because the sales price skyrocketed in the interim.

The importance of the California vote this week is primarily psychological, a symptom of the brewing national revolt on the level of taxation in general. Actually, as gubernatorial candidate Bob Johnson pointed out this week, the recently passed Tennessee constitutional amendment makes a lot more sense—gear state spending as a maximum, to the percentage of increase in the personal income of the state's residents.

Perhaps you had noticed—even though I hadn't—that already 23 state legislatures have called for a constitutional amendment to ban federal deficits. Only 11 more are required to make that start to happen. Deficits weren't a bad theory in times of stress, but our political leaders could never bring themselves to the point of exercising control with corresponding surpluses in good times. A fifty billion deficit in the next fiscal year is utterly ridiculous. But like we've said previously, government is monstrously out of control at the national level. Kind of a shame, too. Free enterprise could be made to work, if given half a chance!

Jimmy Carter says the government can't solve it. Insofar as current political realities go, of course he's right. But plain-speaking, Nobel prize-winning economist Milton Friedman will tell you that ONLY the national government can make it happen. How're YOU betting?

Let's get back to the local scene a bit. Did you know this is "Pick a Park" week in the seven-county metropolitan area? It's been so designated by the Metro Council, to coincide with "Park and Recreation Week in Minnesota," June 11-17. The regional system, we're told, now includes 34 parks with a total of 53,000 acres, all within an hour's drive anywhere in the region. Of course, it takes a lot less time for our readers to get to Fort Snelling State Park, Hidden Falls-Crosby Farms, Lilydale, Minnehaha, Nokomis-Hiawatha and Harriet Island (including Cherokee Park). Not to mention Highland Park, which is apparently not part of the regional system. But if the weather continues this nice, who has to be told to "pick a park" on any given day or evening?

Took time out the other day to be at the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency's public hearing on air pollution emission variances requested by Ford Motor Company. At the session, held in the Highland Park Branch Public Library, Ford came off rather well as a concerned neighbor and received some unsolicited support from several sources. It develops, though, that if it weren't for the ever-so-popular metallic paints, a powder-base type could be used, with virtually no pollution problems. One of Ford's plants in New Jersey paints Pintos in this manner. But you can't make cars or trucks that won't sell... so the public is in the driver's seat. If any auto builder makes 'em metallic, they all have to be able to do so.

Anyone living in St. Paul City Planning Districts 14 and 15... that is, South of Summit and West of the Short Line and the 35-E Freeway cut... should make it a point to attend the organizing session of the new Southwest Area District Council, next Tuesday, June 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Student and Faculty cafeterias of St. Joseph's Hall, on the campus of the College of St. Catherine. A total of 21 "grid" representatives are scheduled to be elected that night. But the organizing committee, headed up by Howie Guthmann, has decided that no grid rep should be elected unless at least three people from that grid are present to make the selection. Eight more "at-large" reps will be selected, after the grid caucuses are over. Any vacancies that can't be filled by at least the second meeting, will be subject to the new board's appointment.

It's all a very democratic (make that a small 'd', of course) process and it behooves us to get in on this grass roots neighborhood process right now when all the seeds are still being planted. The Southwest Area District Council, as you may already know, has been given official recognition by the City Council as the citizen participation organization for the combined areas of what were Districts 14 and 15. We wanted to print District grid maps in this issue, but your part-time publisher just plain ran out of time.

Anyone who wants to learn what grid he's in, and what the parameters of his own particular grid are (so he can encourage others to attend or make themselves available as grid rep) may call the Villager at 690-3817 or 699-1462 and we'll furnish you with that information. We'll also have a map made up at our office and, of course, there'll be a large map available on the night of the meeting for your review. So come to hear and also to be heard!

Now how about some pilfered parting punchlines... like these signs: On a plumber's truck—"In our business a flush beats a full house." On a private detective's office—"We pry harder." On a bridal salon (it's all yours if you want it, Beautiful Brides)—"We fit to be tied."

And a bonus thought: "If you're rich and you have two jobs, you're diversified. If you're poor, you're moonlighting."

Two Twins clinics planned for Longfellow and Edgumbe parks

Two Midwest Federal—Minnesota Twins baseball clinics are scheduled for two area playgrounds this month.

The free clinics will be held on Wednesday, June 7 at Edgumbe Playground, Stanford and Griggs St., and on Wednesday, June 14 at Longfellow Park, 34th and 36th Ave. S., Mpls. Both clinics, which will last about 2 hours each, will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Angelo Giuliani, a scout for the Twins and a former major league catcher, will direct the clinics, assisted by Twins scouts Bill Kane and John Mauer.

Participants will have an opportunity to win a $5.00 savings account, courtesy of Midwest Federal. This year, mothers and fathers are encouraged to bring a glove and join their sons and daughters on the practice field. Coaches are also invited to participate.

The fundamentals to be covered include base running, throwing, sliding, hitting, bunting, infield and outfield play, pitching and catching.

Extended day care planned for Hill and Longfellow schools

Registration is now open for an extended day care option at J.J. Hill School (grades K-3) and Longfellow School (grades 4-6). As part of the apollo cluster desegregation plan, about 60 non-minority children not now enrolled in Hill or Longfellow would be picked up by buses at 7:30 a.m. and returned to their home blocks by 5:00 p.m.

First preference will be given to non-minority children from four Apollo cluster schools (Randolph Heights, Groveland Park, St. Anthony Park and the Open School).

Only those living more than one mile from Hill or Longfellow will be eligible for busing. Breakfast and hot lunch will be available to all students participating in the program.

City's handicapped plan protest rally

To protest some proposed federal housing regulations, handicapped citizens will stage a "Backdoor Rally" at the state Capitol at noon on Monday, June 12.

The handicapped demonstrators plan to meet at the Capitol's accessible entrance to voice their disapproval of the Housing and Urban Development's proposed 504 regulations which, they say, are not adequate to provide them with barrier-free housing.

For information on the rally, call Mary O'Hara, Handicapped Housing Service, Inc (222-1813) or Kathy Robson, United Handicapped Federation (645-3417).

Merriam's color guards compete in state contests

The Color Guards of the Merriam Park Community Center will be competing in two state-wide competitions in June and July.

The Merriamettes and the Merriam Cadets, junior girls color guards sponsored by the center and its parents' organization, will compete against other top-ranked units in the Minnesota State Veterans of Foreign Wars Competitions to be held at 6:30 p.m. Friday, June 16 in O'Shaughnessy Stadium at the College of St. Thomas. The Merriam unit will also take part in the state American Legion competitions to be held on Friday, July 14, at a time and place to be determined.

Last year, the Merriamettes and Cadets took second and fourth place honors respectively in the VFW competitions, and first and third in the American Legion contests. Both units are nationally ranked among the top ten junior color guards.

Girls in grades 6-12, who would like to join Merriam Park's color guards, may call Joe Albrecht at 645-0349.

Rep. Cohen: Restored communication vital to peace prospects in Mideast

State Representative Dick Cohen (DFL, 63-B) expressed both optimism and concern over the prospect of peace in the Mideast after returning recently from a meeting at the White House with the National Association of Jewish Legislators.

Approximately 40 members of the recently formed NAJL were in Washington last week to discuss the Mideast situation with American and Israeli officials. Cohen and the other legislators representing 25 states met at the White House with Hamilton Jordan, assistant to the President; William Quandt of the National Security Council; and Nick Veliotis, deputy assistant secretary of state for Near East Affairs. President Carter was unable to attend because of budget meetings.

The legislators also met with Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz and Morris Amitay, executive director of the American-Israeli Political Action Committee.

"The trip provided some cause for hope in Hamilton Jordan's expression of strong support for the survival of Israel, as well as the administration's hopes for new developments in Middle East negotiations in the near future," Cohen said. "There is also cause for pessimism, however, in the breakdown of communication which has apparently developed between Israel and the United States."

Cohen explained that Israel was fearful of American pressure to accept a separate Palestinian state and to withdraw from all occupied territories seized in the 1967 war—conditions which the Carter administration said would be forced upon Israel.

According to Cohen, administration officials expressed strong support for Israel at the meeting with NAJL members and hoped that the approval of the recent arms package would bring additional American leverage over the moderate Arab states.

"I come back with a sense that the major problem between the U.S. and Israeli governments is a breakdown in communication," Cohen said. "I hope that the trust and communication between the two governments can be restored, for both the Israelis and the Americans talked as if they were somewhat optimistic about the chances for peace breakthroughs."

Fifes and Drums to salute state's history

Additional summer concerts will be held at that same time on June 25, July 4, 16 and 30, August 13 and 27 and September 4.

All classes will be taught by Agnes Stierwald in the Nativity School Art Room.

A one-week session entitled Experiments in Art will also be offered daily Monday through Friday at 10:00 a.m. and again at 1:00 p.m. beginning August 7. The teacher for this class is Lilamae Wick.

St. Catherine's receives money for scholarships

Two $500 scholarships to be used by women interested in business careers have been received by the College of St. Catherine business administration department, according to Gary Seiler, department chairman.

The local investment securities firm of Piper Jaffray & Hopwood gave $500 to the college for use by a business student. The scholarship was donated in the name of Mrs. Julia M. Walsh, prominent Washington, D.C., stockbroker and the first woman member of the American Stock Exchange.

A $500 scholarship has also been received from the Minnesota chapter of the American Production and Inventory Control society. It is available to a student who is interested in production and inventory control.

Ginger Petry, a junior at Highland Park Senior High School, has been chosen as one of four Minnesotans to attend a "Women in Engineering" workshop from June 18-23 at Michigan Technological University, Houghton, Michigan. The program will include lectures, laboratory experiments and geological field trips. Ginger is the daughter of Walter and Dorothy Petry, 342 S. Snelling Ave.

The Highland Villager

Neighborhood sale to aid development of area mini-park

Neighbors in the Ramsey Hill district will hold an auction and sale at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, June 17 at 517 Holly Ave. Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase construction materials to develop and upgrade the "Holly Avenue Tot Lot," recently designated as park space by the St. Paul Housing and Redevelopment Authority (HRA).

The mini-park will feature play equipment for the youngsters, as well as seating space with tables for card playing, checkers and chess for older area residents. Since the city will not be able to provide financial assistance for some time, Ramsey Hill residents are sponsoring the sale so they can purchase and install as much equipment as possible for the summer season.

The sale will include furniture, household goods and miscellaneous items. Larger items will be auctioned off; smaller things will be sold individually or in box lots. For further information, call Rose Peterson (224-0407), Janet Nicklas (226-8679) or Stephanie Rynne (226-1915).

Contributions are also needed and can be arranged by calling Ron Dexter (227-3598).

City sponsors tennis lessons

The St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation will sponsor junior tennis lessons for boys and girls ages 10-18 beginning June 12 at all area recreation centers having tennis facilities. The fee is $6.00 for six one-hour lessons.

Registration will continue through June 9 at the centers. For additional information, call the Special Services Offices at 645-4631.

Two veteran College of St. Thomas faculty members and the college's Postmaster were honored recently at a reception marking their retirement. From left are Dr. Max L. Schmidt of 2216 Bayard Ave., professor of German for 35 years; Leonard G. Kaufer, Postmaster for six years; and Byron J. Holtz, a member of the Graduate Programs in Education faculty for eight years.

Postmaster, professors retire after 49 years of service at St. Thomas

Two veteran College of St. Thomas faculty members and the college postmaster, who have contributed a combined total of 49 years of service to the school, have announced their retirements.

Dr. Max L. Schmidt, Ph.D., 2216 Bayard Ave., retired as professor of German after serving 35 years on the St. Thomas faculty. He was chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages for the last five years.

Byron J. Holtz concluded eight years of service on the faculty of the Graduate Programs in Education department. He was clinical supervisor of student teachers.

Leonard G. Kaufer was college Postmaster for six years.

A native of the Australian Trust Territory of New Guinea, Dr. Schmidt attended high school and college in Milwaukee, WI. He did his postgraduate work from 1934-37 at the University of Bonn in Germany.

Joining the St. Thomas faculty in 1939, he taught there for eight years, then spent four years on the Modern Languages faculty at Iowa State College, returning to St. Thomas in 1951. He was elected "Professor of the Year" by faculty colleagues in 1970.

Holtz received his Bachelor of Arts degree at St. John's University in Collegeville and his Master of Arts in Education at St. Thomas. He had a long career as a high school teacher in Minnesota and Iowa schools including De La Salle in Minneapolis, Hill in Maplewood and Park Senior in Cottage Grove. In earlier years, he had been organist and choir master at the Basilica of St. Mary's in Minneapolis.

Kaufer came to St. Thomas following his retirement in 1971 from the U.S. Post Office. He was a letter carrier in St. Paul for 25 years.

Paper drive set

The 40-member Merriam Park Color Guard will hold a paper drive from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. this Saturday, June 10 in the parking lot of the Merriam Park Community Center, 2000 St. Anthony Ave. Proceeds from the drive will defray the expenses of the Guard's summer activities. To arrange for a free pick-up of newspapers and old phone books, call 645-0349.

Earn your water wings at Midway

Registration is now open for a number of summer swimming and exercise classes at the Midway YMCA, 1761 University Ave.

The swimming classes are divided into age and proficiency categories: preschool, ages 3-5; progressive, grades K-8; adult, high school age or older; and private lessons for those who want individual attention. Classes will begin on Tuesday, June 13.

An eight-week cardiovascular fitness swimming program, "Aquadynamics," will be offered from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays beginning June 19. Exercises will be done in shallow water so it's not necessary to know how to swim.

Additional Y programs include karate, judo, Youth Swim and Teen Night. Private lessons in various sports and activities are available for the handicapped. For more information, call the YMCA at 646-4557.

FACTS ABOUT PIANO TUNING

- Having your piano tuned is a good investment. Pianos appreciate in value unless they are left uncared for.
- All major manufacturers recommend tuning a new piano at least four times the first year, but warranties usually include only one tuning.
- If you wait too long to tune a piano, it may fall too far below pitch so that two tunings may be necessary.
- Springtime temperature and humidity changes cause pianos to go out of tune.
- A child just learning the piano may lose interest if the instrument is not in tune.
- Because of fine workmanship, many older pianos need only to be rebuilt or reconditioned to become superior instruments.

Grand Old Day '78: "...and a good time was had by all"

A quartet from the St. Olaf French Horn Club fills the air with their mellow music.

Photography by Michael M. Lynch

You might have asked for a grander Grand Old Day, but if you had, you would have to be a pretty picky person. Twin Citians took to the streets in throngs last Sunday (estimates ranged from 50,000 to 75,000) to enjoy a sunny afternoon of song and dance, arts and crafts, food and good old fashioned fun. The photos on this page offer just a small sample of some of those activities.

A bird's eye view of Grand Avenue, provided by the Muska Lighting chopper, reveals a lot more this year than it would have last year, thanks to the notorious Dutch elm beetle. This was the scene looking west from above the corner of Grand and St. Albans.

Photography by Michael M. Lynch

A lot of folks took advantage of Grand Old Day's middle name to tool down the avenue in vintage automobiles.

It was indeed.

ORDINANCE RAPPED

Dear sir:

The Highland Villager of May 24, 1978, informed us of a "truth-in-housing ordinance" being planned for the residents of St. Paul by Mayor Latimer's office which will require that a home buyer be given a report on the condition of the home he's buying. It is stated that the cost will be about $50 and that in addition to letting the buyer know what kind of shape the house is in, the ordinance will aid the city in planning its housing and rehabilitation programs.

Why? If a buyer is purchasing a home through a bank, he may ask, as we did, to see a copy of the appraisal that the bank requires before it will issue a mortgage. If a buyer cannot do this and wishes a professional opinion, he may contact any one of a number of competent appraisers in the Twin Cities.

Neither the taxpayer nor the prospective home buyer should bear the cost of a mandatory appraisal.

Ben Whitten
2041 Princeton Ave.

OBJECTION TO OBJECTIVES

Dear sir:

As a teacher for many years (a St. Paul Federation of Teachers member for nearly all of them) and now retired, I take exception to Talking Out of School's unsympathetic reporting of the Federation's opposition to performance objectives for teachers. As an individual teacher, I too would oppose them as impractical and dangerously deceptive.

Most good teachers I know would dearly love to be able to use performance objectives, and many do in their own areas. However, until certain conditions are met, performance objectives are impractical as district-wide requirements. These conditions are as follows:

1) Parents must see that their children get to school regularly.

2) Parents must insist that their children work at getting an education, not fight it tooth and nail.

3) Some effective agreement among parents, teachers and administration must be reached in the area of student behavior to insure a good learning environment for all. (Not all schools in St. Paul have the parental and peer pressure to perform as do Highland Junior and Senior Highs.)

4) Some effective option must be present to insure against automatic promotion of students regardless of their lack of progress in the objective set—an option which has been absent in St. Paul for many years. It takes an act of Congress to withhold a passing grade for a non-performing student in this district. Such action is made so difficult and full of red tape that few teachers can muster the necessary time and energy to pursue it.

5) Teachers must be convinced these performance objectives are not just a back door approach to merit pay, which is very difficult to evaluate and administer fairly.

I'm afraid I too would be quite cynical toward these performance objectives as teachers have participated in many like efforts in the past only to have them go nowhere, much to their frustration.

AW, SHUCKS

To the editor:

I would like to express my appreciation for your publication of an article in the May 24, 1978, Villager about a public hearing to be held on a pollution control variance for the Ford Motor Company assembly plant.

I believe that your local, community-oriented paper provided a significant public service to area residents in informing them of this hearing, in a manner which could not be done by other communications media.

Western Style
FROM WILSON
CORN KING

Wilson Western style has a hearty smoke flavor that will remind you of campfire cooking. The pork sausage is blended with special spices an lean shoulder meat to give it a real outdoor flavor. The rich colored hams have been trimmed so that only the lean outside meat is used. Then they're sugar cured and deep smoked so the meat is tender and juicy. The hearty smoke flavor of the center cut, thick sliced bacon comes from the extra time Wilson give it in the smokehouse . . . what a treat for breakfast! The franks are made from fully cooked sausage that's been blended with special spices then heavily smoked. Look for the bright new Western style packages in the Applebaum meat case.

Park Schwinn South's grand opening aids retarded children

Nearly $50 was raised for Dakota's Children Home at the recent grand opening of the new Park Schwinn South at Highways 110 and 35E in Mendota Heights.

Visitors to the grand opening were given the opportunity to pedal a Schwinn Exerciser and raise 25 cents per mile for the mentally retarded children of the home.

Fifteen-year-old Robert Cox of Mendota Heights was the lucky winner of a Schwinn City 10-speed bicycle given away as part of the festivities.

Park Schwinn South is the third in the Park Schwinn Cycle Center chain. The original store on White Bear Ave. was started 22 years ago, by Howard Hawkins and Art Engstrom. With the addition of their Ace store on Grand and W. 7th St., Park Schwinn grew to become the number one Schwinn dealer in the U.S., selling approximately 6,000 bicycles last year.

'Y' gymnastic camp set at St. Croix

The St. Paul YMCA will offer a six-day resident gymnastic camp for girls ages 9-13 at the 'Y' campground on the St. Croix River this summer.

The overnight program, scheduled for August 21-26, combines gymnastic exercises and techniques with traditional camping experiences, including swimming, boating and hiking. The camp costs $105. For more information, call Betty at the Midway YMCA (646-4557).

St. Thomas graduates 397 at commencement exercises

The College of St. Thomas conferred academic degrees upon 397 graduates on Saturday, May 20 in outdoor commencement exercises held in O'Shaughnessy Stadium on the campus.

Rev. Msgr. Terrence J. Murphy, college president, officiated at the graduation in which 272 Bachelor of Arts, 57 Master of Arts, 66 Master of Business Administration, and two Specialist in Education degrees were awarded.

An honorary Doctor of Letters degree was given to the Rev. Godfrey Diekmann, O.S.B., of the St. John's Benedictine Abbey in Collegeville, Minn. Father Diekmann, internationally-known priest, scholar, educator and writer, delivered the commencement address. He is professor of Patristic Theology at St. John's University and editor of Worship, a Catholic journal.

The Bachelor of Arts group included 76 honors graduates, including 18 who graduated summa cum laude, 22 magna cum laude, and 36 cum laude. Eight class members received special honors and awards. Joseph G. Abel, Steven K.

Gannaway, Michael J. Keane, Richard J. Harden, and Jeffrey A. Zwack were elected to membership in Phi Alpha Theta, the international history honor society. Kevin M. Busch was elected to membership in Omicron Delta Epsilon, international economics honor society.

Special awards winners were: John A. Bennek, American Institute of Chemists' Student Award Medal and an assistantship in the Chemical Engineering Department, University of Arizona; Steven R. Bednar, Wall Street Journal Award in Economics and an assistantship in the Economics department, Purdue University; and Kevin Busch, Wall Street Journal Award in Business Administration.

The graduating class also included six women recipients of the Bachelor of Arts degree. Members of the college's first coeducational class in its 95-year history, they are Susan E. Anderson, Maria M. Busch, Joanne Butler Dahlberg, Catherine B. Fredericks, Katherine J. Klein, and Barbara M. Steger. All were transfer students, having completed earlier academic work elsewhere.

CST baseball players honored; Track co-captains named for '79

Joe Eichten and Tim Mee, both sophomores at the College of St. Thomas, were named to the all-MIAC baseball team recently selected by conference coaches.

Eichten, chosen as the conference's all-star third baseman, joined Mee, an outfielder, in leading all CST batters in MIAC competition with a .381 batting average. Mee scored 11 runs and drove in another 10 against conference foes, while Eichten registered 15 RBIs and scored eight runs himself.

The CST baseball team finished in a tie for fourth with St. John's at 10-8 in the final MIAC standings.

St. Thomas track coach Dr. Larry Russ also announced the names of three trackmen who were elected to serve as captains for the 1979 season.

Jim Weyandt (Cretin), a co-captain of this year's CST track squad, was selected to serve a second year in that capacity. Named along with Weyandt were sophomores Kevin Roth (Cretin) and Doug Deitz.

Roth, St. Thomas' only cross country runner to have ever earned all-American honors, is the MIAC record-holder in the 880-yard dash. He finished second in a photo-finish to Bethel's Curt Brown in that race at the conference meet on May 13.

Deitz, better known as the starting quarterback on St. Thomas' football team, earned NCAA Division III All-American ranking last spring with a sixth-place finish in the discus. Deitz came up short in this spring's title meet, placing second in the platter toss behind conference record-holder Mark Severson of Hamline.

The son of head CST football coach DuWayne Deitz, Doug also finished fifth in the shot put at the MIAC championship.

Vandals find MTC shelters easy target

Due to a marked increase in vandalism, repairs totaling $45,181—more than double the 1976 figure—had to be made to MTC bus shelters in 1977. Last year's figure does not include the replacement cost for two shelters that were destroyed—one by a fire and one in a car crash.

Three Derham students get scholarships for Ireland trip

Three Derham Hall High School students were Minnesota scholarship winners in the Irish Way program sponsored by the Irish American Cultural Institute (IACI).

The area students, who received $500 scholarships toward a six-week study trip to the Republic of Ireland from June 27 to August 4, are: Lisa Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Austin, 1982 Sargent Ave.; Maureen Fitzpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Fitzpatrick, 2063 Iglehart Ave.; and Catherine Bryne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Bryne, 2166 Marshall Ave.

Co-sponsored by the Twin Cities Irish American Club and the Hibernian Life Insurance Company, the scholarships are awarded to state youngsters who qualify for the Irish Way program but could not otherwise afford the cultural and educational experience at Gormanstown College near Dublin.

The local winners, who earned additional funds for the trip through part-time jobs, are all at least of partial Irish descent and have a lively interest in learning more about the country of their forebearers.

Maureen, well-armed with information from a recently completed family tree, intends to gather feature story material for her school newspaper. Catherine plans to do a narrated slide presentation of her Irish experience, and Lisa, who plays the French Horn in the St. Thomas - St. Catherine Chamber Orchestra, hopes to pursue her music studies.

Applications for the Irish Way program, one of several cultural and educational activities sponsored by the IACI, open in January in both private and public schools throughout the country wherever IACI chapters are located. All high school freshmen, sophomores and juniors are eligible. Scholarship winners, selected on the merit of scholastic ability, personal achievement and need, are selected toward the close of the school year by a panel comprised of IACI representatives and the sponsoring organizations.

Swedish exchange students profit from credit-less school year

by Dale F. Mischke

Wednesday evening, June 7, and the air hangs heavy. Clusters of relatives seat themselves in a splash of colors, filling the large auditorium. Graduates flock to the outer-hall of the main floor awaiting the signal with tip-toed anticipation. The indecipherable gabble of the crowd ceases as the band hits the first notes of "Pomp and Circumstance," while red and white gowns underneath square-topped caps come streaming down the aisle of the main floor.

Four hundred ninety-six Highland Park seniors are making their last trek as high-school students. Rather 493: three seniors, all Swedish exchange students, will be returning home next fall to continue their secondary education.

Oh, they'll be graduating all right, but only in the United States. As far as Sweden is concerned, these three students, Per-Hedbys, Thomas Sjoval and Sven Johansson, have taken a one-year vacation.

Sven: We are one year behind our friends in Sweden now.

Thomas: In one way.

Sven: In one way, yes, but in another way we have learned a lot of things here, too. It's a good experience. to go to another world—another part of the world. (The room bursts with laughter, on the heels of Sven's Freudian slip.)

Education in Sweden is very different from schooling in the United States. After nine years of general education, students at the age of 16 must choose among 30 specializations of study in their secondary school. This is a three-year course for those going on to a university.

Students who wish to enter the job force remain in their school a fourth year, and receive practical experience in their field. They are assigned projects in which they might work with a company on tasks related to their line of study.

Next fall, Per-Hedbys will continue his technical training at Borgarskolan, a school with an enrollment of 1300 in Malmo, a city about the size of St. Paul. He would then like to return to the U.S. and attend a university here.

Per: I swam with the Highland swim team for about a month. I'm now practicing with the University of Minnesota swim team. I might go back there after a year in Sweden. The University would like me to come back and swim with their team.

Per will return to Sweden in mid-June to practice for the Swedish Nationals swim competition in July.

Thomas Sjoval also specializes in the technical line. When fall comes he will begin his third year in Jakobsbergskolan in Jakobsberg, a suburb of Stockholm.

Thomas: After my fourth year in school I will go into military service for one year, before I start work.

One year of military service is required of all Swedes between the ages of 18 and 46.

Thomas: You must receive your first military training when you are between 18 and 21 years old. Some of my friends are in the service because they are not in school. I'll go in there after school.

The third student, Sven Johansson, is from Sollentuna, another suburb of Stockholm. He will attend Rudbeckskolan in the fall as a third year language and social studies student. This is a classification for those who wish to enter social fields such as law and psychology.

Sven: I will take my military service after my third year in Rudbeckskolan. After that I will go to college.

All three agreed that schools in Sweden are very different from Highland Park Senior High.

Sven: Highland Park has stricter rules and regulations, such as corridor passes. The teachers are very strict with their grading system. They go after points very exactly, whereas in Sweden they look more to your behavior in class.

Thomas: In Sweden they look at how often you answer questions in class.

Per: That is nothing like my school in Sweden. They grade only on tests. They don't care if you are talking in class.

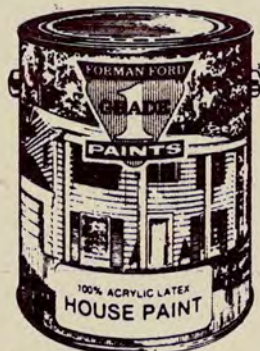

Sven: I guess it's different systems for different cities in Sweden.

Interviewer: Would you say students here are less obedient?

Per: Students are the same in Sweden as they are in the United States.

Sven: Yes, they're about the same. Students are the same all over the world.

Per: Swedish schools are freer though.

Sven: I think the contact between students and teachers in Sweden is more personal. There are exceptions at Highland, of course. Some teachers are very nice, easy to talk to, but some are really strict. There are exceptions in every society.

That is perhaps the most valuable lesson these students learned during their trip abroad. People within one society can be as different as all societies around the world are similar. And first-hand knowledge about a country and its people is the only way to become aware of this truth.

Thomas: Yes, we would see the tourist-type of Americans over in Sweden. Bermuda shorts—

Sven: Hawaiian shirts—

Thomas: camera—

Sven: fat stomach—

Thomas: funny-looking glasses—

Per: I think the illusion I had about Americans was how I thought all Americans looked like the people out in California, and all the students like them, because the only thing we see on TV in Sweden are programs from California.

Sven: Yea, short jeans and a T-shirt.

Thomas: But here it was—

Sven: Yes, just like Sweden.

Thomas: So before we came we didn't really know much about Minnesota.

Sven: No.

Thomas: —and when we were thinking about the United States, we thought of it as a big thing that is the same all over. We don't really think like that anymore.

Sven: Different states are like different countries. You can't really describe the average American family.

Thomas and Sven plan on seeing more of those states after Highland's graduation exercises. They'll be leaving in mid-June for the South and West before returning to Sweden in mid-July. What's number one on their list for places to see? Why, those hotspots in

Nevada, California and of course "New York's Saturday Night Fever Disco."

All three students have been living with a host-family while they've been attending Highland. Sven has been living with Gary and Robin Hanson on 1735 Princeton; Per-Hedby now lives with Paul and Edith Samuelson on 1122 Dayton; and Thomas resides at 1394 Lincoln with William and Delores Koenen.

Student International Service of Europe is the program that enabled these Swedish students to go to school for one year in the United States. There is also one Highland Park student going to school in Sweden right now. American students going to school in Sweden do receive credit for their year abroad.

There are 20 foreign students living with host families in the Twin Cities area, but there are many more students in Sweden and other countries waiting for an opportunity to experience a school-year abroad. Needed are more host-families willing to take one of these students in to treat as one of their own children. Anyone interested in receiving more information may contact Dagmar Getz at 645-5933 or Ragnhild Stockenstrom at 645-2897.

Saturday Go To Market Days open June 10 in Mears Park

Saturday Go To Market Days, a series of open-air festivals, is slated to open Saturday, June 10 in Mears Park in historic Lowertown, downtown Saint Paul. Co-sponsored by the City of Saint Paul, the Lowertown Commercial Club, and COMPAS, the community arts agency of the St. Paul Ramsey Arts and Science Council, this ongoing craft, produce, and food market will be open on ten Saturdays through the summer.

This Saturday, the Community Theater's production of The Astrologer, a medieval comedy updated for modern audiences, will be performed at 1:00 p.m. in the park. Other scheduled entertainment will include craft demonstrations, strolling performers, and children's activities.

According to Daniel Lundy, Market director, the Saturday festival is being modelled after successful similar events in Portland, Denver, and Chicago. It is his hope that the markets will attract people back into the downtown area to enjoy themselves amidst the festive atmosphere.

The free Saturday markets will be open, rain or shine, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Artists who wish to exhibit may call 222-6929 for information.

Beethoven marathon to open rug concerts at Orchestra Hall

The Great Beethoven Marathon at 7:00 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, June 12 and 13 in Orchestra Hall will open the Minnesota Orchestra's 1978 summer rug concert season.

The four-hour concerts under the baton of principal guest conductor Leonard Slatkin will virtually duplicate the historic Vienna concert of December 22, 1808 when Beethoven conducted an entire concert of his own works, several of them major compositions in their first performances.

The marathon includes performances by the Minnesota Chorale, conducted by Thomas Lancaster, and by pianist Misha Dichter and soprano Eileen Davis.

Dichter, winner of the prestigious Tchaikovsky International Piano Competition in Moscow in 1966, has become one of the most sought-after pianists on the international scene. Having performed with many of the major orchestras, he has just recorded the first five albums of a recording contract with Philips Records.

Davis, an English-born soprano, has performed throughout the United Kingdom, Brussels, Athens and the United States, and is currently on the voice faculty of the University of Minnesota.

The second concert of the series, "A Brass Rug," will be performed at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, June 20. Featuring the Chicago Symphony's nine-member brass section conducted by Jay Friedman, the concert includes music by Gabrieli, Lassus and Schutz.

All of the rug concerts will be broadcast live over Minnesota Public Radio, KSJN 91.1 FM.

City sponsors tennis tourney at Phalen court

The St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring the city Junior Qualifying Tennis Tournament from 10:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, June 24-25 at Phalen Tennis Court, Maryland and Johnson Pkwy.

Singles and doubles competition is open to boys and girls in three divisions: ages 14 and under, 16 and under, and 18 and under. The fee for the singles competition is $2.00; $3.00 per team for the doubles competition.

Registration is open from now until June 22 by mail or in person at Midway Stadium, 1000 N. Snelling Ave., 55108. State name, address, phone number, and classification. Make check payable to the City of St. Paul.

For additional information, call the Special Services Office at 645-4631.

TRP stages two one-act premieres

The Theatre in the Round Studio Series has announced a world premiere and an American premiere—two one-acts on the same bill—to be presented at 8:00 p.m. June 7, 8, 13, 14 and 15 at the theatre, 245 Cedar Ave., Minneapolis.

The World Cafeteria by Bohumil Hrabal will be presented for the first time on an American stage. Directed by Michael Rolfe, visiting professor at the University of Minnesota in the Department of Speech-Communications, The World Cafeteria is a bizarre little comedy that takes place in Czechoslovakia, but as the title indicates, it could be anywhere.

The second one-act on the bill is the world premiere of The People Upstairs by Michele Reedy. Arnold Ross directs this one-act comedy about a Mary Kay consultant who takes drastic action against bothersome apartment neighbors.

Local citizenry comes out of the past in COMPAS performance

In a performance that harks back to the WPA Theater Project, eight COMPAS/CETA actors are researching and producing a theatrical interpretation of the past at the Burbank-Livingston-Griggs House, 432 Summit Ave.

On June 11 and 18, Twin City residents are invited to witness life as imagined in characters that might have been. The production, entitled "Out of the Past," speculates about eras from 1890 to 1934 in a series of theatrical, musical and puppet performances running from 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Actors include Chris Frank, Ted Greenbaum, Beth Handman, Chuck Sand, Tom Thompson, Sheila Wallace and Tom Young, all employed by COMPAS and working in the St. Paul community on a CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) grant. They are working with other actors from the area: Collette Gross, Pat Cameron, Carla Stetson, Carol Ott and Jim Poole.

Among the characters to be found in the performance at Griggs House will be suffragettes, a missionary-lecturer, a maid and butler reminiscing on their employer's rise to wealth and prominence, a lecturer on socialism, immigrants, a temperance crusader, a politician, and young dandies of the 20's.

Between vignettes, a medley of topical songs and puppet shows will serve to guide visitors to the next era and into other rooms of the mansion.

Admission is $2.00 for adults, $1.00 for children, and includes lemonade at the Alexander Ramsey House, located within walking distance of the Griggs House, down Ramsey Hill at 265 S. Exchange Street.

Day-long arts festival adds spice to Rice on longest day

Looking for a good way to spend the longest day of the year without spending a dime? COMPAS, the St. Paul community arts council, just might have the answer.

On June 21, COMPAS kicks off the summer season with the Arts-in-the-Parks Festival in downtown Rice Park, commemorating the 75th year of the St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department.

At the festival, COMPAS artists will demonstrate, perform and offer hands-on art workshops, completely free of charge.

The Young Park Singers begin the festival with a late-morning concert. They are followed by the Wilder Senior Square dancers with caller, Vernon Arnold. If you've got an itch to dance, bring your shoes, for this event is planned for mass participation.

COMMEDIA '78 Theater in the Parks carries the show over the noon hour with their adaptation of Chekhov's The Marriage Proposal. This play takes a sly look at an aging bachelor who is determined to settle down, raise a family and live off his wealthy childhood sweetheart. She begs to differ, and her father, to complicate matters, is pretty ornery himself. Ambitions are squashed and family feuds ignited. Hilarious palpitations predominate.

The afternoon continues with the English accented country and western songs of Nigel Eccles and his Country Hoe group, with some bluegrass favorites added for good measure. Mario joins in later with excerpts from the modern-day medicine show concocted by Professor Potentate.

Browsers will have time to see an exhibit of photos, paintings, drawings and other art work made in COMPAS Neighborhood Arts workshops. A potter and soft-sculpture artist will demonstrate, and there will be an opportunity for kids to get their hands dirty in on-the-site workshops in painting, sculpture and drawing.

The final performance of the Festival is designed especially for children. The Storytellers will present Rapunzel, an old tale especially adapted for 20th century kids.

For details on times and events contact COMPAS at 227-8241, ext. 159.

Grand Avenue Dance Theatre to present 'All That Jazz' June 18

The one-year-old Grand Avenue Dance Theatre, 727 Grand Ave., will mount its first fully staged production at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, June 18 in O'Shaughnessy Auditorium on the campus of the College of St. Catherine.

Entitled "All That Jazz," the show will feature more than 60 dancers, age 3 through adult, in a high-spirited collection of jazz and tap numbers ranging from vaudeville to modern disco.

A couple of special guest performers will also be on hand for the studio's inaugural engagement, according to Carole Bradley, Grand Avenue Dance Theatre instructor and the show's choreographer.

"Nita Dee, a former student of mine in Los Angeles and one of the 12 New Mouseketeers, will be flying in to do a jazz number," she said. "And the youngest member of our studio, Little Miss Minnesota, will perform 'The Varsity Drag'."

Bradley will also be performing in the show. A stage veteran, she has performed professionally in numerous capacities, including the Danny Kaye and Dean Martin shows. Her film credits include Bye, Bye Birdie with Ann-Margret and Kissin' Cousins with Elvis Presley.

Tickets for the show, available at the door or at the studio, are $3.00 per person. For any further information, call Grand Avenue Dance Theatre at 227-6498.

talking out of school

by Bill Rosenbloom
and
Carl Nelson

One year ago, the Benjamin E. Mays Learning Center program moved into Jefferson School. The program, which calls for an emphasis on basic skills and discipline, was welcomed by many Jefferson parents because of the number of empty classrooms in the building, and the possibility that fewer pupils might eventually mean no school at all.

We wondered what effect the introduction of a new program with a large influx of new students would have on those who had previously called Jefferson their "home school." We had heard rumblings for quite some time about Jefferson and the Mays program, and so decided a "Talking Out of School Inquiry" was in order. After talking to many Jefferson parents, several feelings became quite clear:

1) Many Jefferson parents feel their school is being taken away from them and turned over to others. As evidence, they point to the "Jefferson Hall of Fame," a concept initiated by former principal Frank Zucco, which recognized outstanding Jefferson graduates.

Questioning whether a principal should unilaterally discontinue a program like this, one which has enjoyed high community support and is almost a part of the school, we asked principal Charmaine Robinson about it. She responded that she was "open to discuss the issue." We hope the community will give her a try.

Another instance cited by parents was a fundraising T-shirt sale. The story, as told to us, was that the Jefferson and Mays parents had agreed on a common design for the shirts, but the administration insisted on them being different. Discouraged Jefferson parents dropped out of the sale.

2) Many parents believe the Jefferson administration shows a marked favoritism toward the Mays program. Outside visitors to the school tend to confirm this attitude. Many have been shocked at the way some staff members have attempted to draw lines, divide the school, and point a positive finger at the Mays program, while at the same time putting down the Jefferson program.

Parents in the Mays program had the following reactions:

- 1) They were generally pleased with the academic results of the program.
- 2) They were very uncomfortable with the tension between the two programs.
- 3) They couldn't understand why the Jefferson people were so "uptight" over the program.

We talked with Robinson about the above comments, and while she was not in agreement with all of them, she did admit there were some problems in communications. However in general, she was very optimistic about improving the atmosphere at the school.

In our opinion, the fundamental problem is a general mistrust of the administration due to the way many of its actions have been perceived by the community. We feel there must be open communication with parents and the community as decisions are made which affect them.

One suggestion, as a first step to resolve the problem, is an open meeting between all groups to air the problems and seek solutions.

A second step might be to combine the two separate PTA groups at the school. One PTA for Jefferson and one PTA for Mays is one PTA too many. That division serves as a constant reminder of a divided school.

The parents we consulted, without exception, expressed a desire to work together for one school. After talking with Charmaine Robinson, we believe she wants the same.

We hope they all accept the challenge to build a unified Jefferson School spirit. We know they can.

Talking Out of School welcomes readers' responses—both pro and con—to any and all opinions expressed in this column. Those who would like to do some "talking out of school" of their own may write Carl Nelson and Bill Rosenbloom in care of The Highland Villager, 790 Cleveland Ave. So., St. Paul, MN 55116.

School budgeting examined in new 'Primer' update

The St. Paul League of Women Voters Education Committee has published an update of its "Primer on School Dollars—A Look at the Finances of the St. Paul School District." Publication of the update was made possible by a grant from the H.B. Fuller Company of St. Paul.

According to the LWV, the Primer was designed to help St. Paul citizens understand the school budgeting process so that they might become more effectively involved in the budget decision making just ahead. Although it appears that the district will not face a critical money crunch in the 1978-79 school year, it has been projected that today's programs would cost $15 million more in 1982-83, given a 5.5 percent inflation rate.

The primer is now available at all St. Paul public libraries, at the school district's administration building, and through Katherine Tarnowski, LWV Education Committee Chairperson, at 690-1272.

The budget for the 1978-79 school year has already been presented to the School Board which must adopt its final form by June 30.

Music and arts fest set at fairgrounds

The festival will feature handmade arts and crafts displayed for sale in a musical atmosphere of bluegrass and country rock, emceed by KDWB radio's Blueberry Bill.

Admission is $2.00 and concessions will be available on the grounds. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free of charge.

Grimm gains track All-American honors in NCAA nationals

Bob Grimm of the College of St. Thomas topped his 1977 national championship-winning discus toss by nearly a foot in the recent NCAA Division III outdoor track and field championships, but had to settle for third place in the strong national field.

Grimm's toss of 162-9 was well off his school record of 171-2, but was good enough to earn the defending national titlist All-American standing for the second time.

Grimm, a pre-dentistry student, completed his undergraduate course of study this spring and will leave St. Thomas with an impressive collection of academic as well as athletic achievements.

An honors Air Force ROTC student, Grimm holds St. Thomas records in the discus and javelin throws and has one national championship, two All-America citations and five all-conference certificates to his credit. He was also the starting tight end on St. Thomas' football team.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Waning trend in neighborhood theatres reversed with birth of Highland 'twins'

by Roger Fuller

The decline of St. Paul's neighborhood movie houses has been checked in two instances by theatre owner Marvin Mann, who recently converted the second of his Highland area operations into a two-screen unit. Following an as yet unsolved arson last winter, the Highland theatre reopened in March as the Highland One and the Highland Two. A similar conversion was made at the Grandview five years ago.

The nationwide trend toward showing several different films under the same roof was prompted by a public that began going to the movies less often and film companies that began producing fewer pictures. Now the single theatre with a large seating capacity is all but obsolete.

Mann explained that today the multi-screen theatre is almost a necessity. "If you have two pictures showing, you have a chance of attracting twice as many people," he said. "With only one picture, you end up wasting a lot of seats."

One of the reasons those seats aren't being filled as fast, according to Highland theatre manager Mark Forsberg, is that "the public used to come to the movies just to have something to do, but now they have to like the movie we're showing if they're going to come out."

Though Mann had been considering converting the Highland from a single to a double screen theatre for a long time, it was the fire on January 6 that induced the final decision. "We had plans on the boards for two years," Mann explained. "After the fire, we decided to do it because the building would have to be closed anyway for repairs." Mann estimated the renovation costs at about $150,000.

The "twinning," as it's been called, followed the same procedure used at the Grandview. The basic alteration involves the construction of two walls from the bottom row of the balcony to the ceiling, in effect cutting the balcony off from the main floor of the auditorium. Between the two walls is a room several feet wide which stretches the width of the theatre.

The original projection booth at the top of the balcony and the screen serving the main auditorium remain unchanged. But on one of the newly constructed walls, a screen is mounted to serve the upstairs theatre, and within the partition is a projection booth to serve the downstairs theatre.

"Noise isn't much of a problem," said Forsberg. "The partition is wide enough to absorb any sound from filtering from one theatre to another."

Aside from the lively ticket traffic the alterations to the two Mann-owned theatres have generated, the neighborhood movie house scene in St. Paul has been pretty bleak these past few years. Since the opening of the Plaza Theatre in Maplewood in the mid-1960's, movie-going has shifted from the cities to the suburbs.

One for the show, two for the money—the new twin bill is bringing em' back to the Highland theatre.

After the Plaza, new multi-screen units opened in rapid succession in Har-Mar Mall, Roseville and Signal Hills. Two White Bear lake theatres soon changed from small movie houses to metropolitan theatres which frequently feature first-run pictures.

While all this was going on, the status of the theatres within St. Paul declined. Neighborhood houses which had been hanging on in the Payne and Como Avenue areas and on the West Side finally closed. Four of the five downtown theatres folded. The Uptown on Grand Avenue was torn down. The Arcade on the East Side was put up for sale.

Except for the Grandview and the Highland, the only other neighborhood movie theatres left within the city limits today are the Norstar in the loop and the St. Clair, which shows classic films.

The decline of the neighborhood theatre houses quickened as the public lost the habit of going to second-run theatres. Even today, if a film is considered worthy of a second run, a multi-screen house can pick it up and show it on one of its screens after it has opened elsewhere.

The downtown theatres suffered because of the bidding policy for the right to

Before converting the Highland into twin screens, Mann made another policy change—he cut the admission price from an average of $2.50 to a flat rate of 99 cents for all pictures.

"We didn't notice much of a difference for the first six months," Mann said. "But after word got around we began to see a big difference."

The downstairs theatre now seats about 500 people and the upstairs about 300. The Highland seeks to show the picture with the greater appeal in the larger theatre, but sometimes the guess is wrong. Woody Allen's Annie Hall was regarded as a stronger draw than Smokey and the Bandit, but the office receipts indicated just the opposite.

Other changes at the Highland made since its reopening include the addition of many new seats to replace those that were damaged in the fire. In addition, the lounge areas of the rest rooms were taken away and the candy counter was moved to the middle of the lobby, directly behind the ticket seller.

Mann said he is satisfied with the results the changes at the Highland have brought about. In increasing numbers, Highland movie goers seem to concur.

YWCA offers arts experience to kids

Children in the Macalester-Groveland area, aged four to seven, can get a handful of arts experiences this summer in creative dramatics, painting, sculpture and print-making through the St. Paul YWCA's day camp program.

Beginning June 13, the Arts Discovery Camp will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays for three weeks at the Immanuel Lutheran Church, Snelling and Goodrich, from 1:00 to 3:30 p.m.

The YWCA Children's Center has designed camp activities that will expand the child's make-believe play and develop imagination, self-esteem and a means of self-expression.

Mem Marston, an experienced pre-school and elementary art instructor, will help the children explore the techniques of various art forms and Peg Igo, of Climb, Inc., a Twin Cities theatre group, will lead the children in story-telling, movement and simple theatre games.

Parents may register their children at the St. Paul YWCA, 65 E. Kellogg Blvd. The fee for six sessions is $20 for YWCA members (parent's membership accepted) and $24 for non-members. For further information call the YWCA at 222-3741.

Cookbook recall teaches lesson

Cars, yes. But the recent recall of a Random House cookbook was a first.

A recipe in Woman's Day Crockery Cuisine called for heating an unopened can of sweetened condensed milk in a crockery slow-cooking appliance. Food industry sources protested and the publisher has withdrawn an estimated 13,000 copies of the book from wholesalers and retailers.

Borden Foods, one of the largest manufacturers of sweetened condensed milk, reports that this technique is similar to one homemakers have been risking—and often losing at—for years.

Many homemakers have been injured making a caramel custard by placing an unopened can of sweetened condensed milk in boiling water for a lengthy period. The method often resulted in spattered stoves, walls and chefs when the can exploded.
