No school or traffic light in offing for Summit Hill Assn/District 16

by Roger Fuller

The Summit Hill Association/District 16 had to accept a couple of unpleasant facts when its members convened their semi-annual meeting at Linwood School last Wednesday, November 1.

First, the school building in which the meeting was held will in all probability be closed at this time next year. Secondly, the efforts of the organization to have a traffic light installed at the intersection of Grand and Victoria appear to have failed because the Department of Public Works staff does not regard it as necessary.

A happier note was sounded with news that the entire proceeds of the bi-annual Summit Hill house tour—more than $6,000—will be used for a tree planting program to replace the trees which have been removed because of Dutch elm disease.

As the name implies, the Summit Hill Association/District 16 is a combination of two groups. A board of directors is elected to perform separate functions for the two units. "It's a matter of wearing two different hats and trying to keep straight what goes with each one," explained Tally Rhame, the community organizer who has been with the group for the past ten months.

The traditional role of the Summit Hill Association has been to conduct house tours, provide yard illuminations for residents on Christmas Eve, take positions on controversial issues such as the completion of Interstate 35E, and compile research and statistical data on the neighborhood.

In May, 1977, the Summit Hill Association took on a second function when it was recognized as the official planning council for District 16. As District 16, the body makes recommendations for capital improvements in the district, sends representatives to the city-wide Capital Improvement Budget committee task forces which rank projects for the entire city, and draft a master plan for the district.

When the City Council decided to establish district planning councils in St. Paul's 17 planning districts, neighborhoods were given a choice of creating a district council or encouraging an established group to seek recognition as the council.

In Summit Hill, an established group—the Summit Hill Association—sought recognition while in neighboring Highland, Groveland and Macalester, the Southwest Area District Council was created as a new body, and the Hi-Gro-Mac Community Association phased out.

Summit Hill (District 16) is located directly to the east of the Southwest Area District (Districts 14 and 15). Its northern border runs along Summit Avenue from the University Club to the Short Line. Remaining borders are formed by the Short Line, the Milwaukee Road and Pleasant Avenue.

At the Summit Hill Association's annual meeting held last May, the group went on record in favor of a stop light at the intersection of Grand and Victoria.

For several years neighbors had been concerned about the high speed with which cars travel down Grand Avenue because there is no stoplight to slow traffic between Dale and Lexington.

Since the opening of the Victoria Crossing shopping mall last winter, the requests have become more numerous because of the increased pedestrian traffic.

The problem is that the Grand and Victoria stoplight is currently rated 34th on the list of priorities established by the Department of Public Works. Don Sobania, department traffic engineer, explained that the ranking is determined by traffic volume, number of accidents, and physical properties such as school crossings, sight distance, parking, frequency of trucks, etc.

Actors Theatre supplied the horse-drawn limo for the guests of honor at its second season ribbon-cutting ceremonies last Thursday at Foley Theatre. Artistic Director Michael Andrew Miner did the honors (left) while Mayor George Latimer and Secretary of State Joan Grove looked on. The Lincoln look-alike who manned the harness (below) came with the horse and buggy.

"Three or four weeks ago I went out to the intersection with Arnold Steffis of the district council," he said. "There were no complications. There were some delays, but none over 30 seconds. Some cars had no delays at all."

Sobania explained that if a traffic light were installed, it would not change automatically. Pedestrians would push a button. Cars would be picked up by sensors that activate the light. "If we did put a light in, there would still be some long waits because the light would be coordinated with the ones at Dale and Lexington," he explained.

Stephen Markowitz, co-chairman of the traffic light committee, said the District 16 Council has requested the Department of Public Works install a highly visible four-way stop. Flashing lights would warn motorists in advance that a stop was ahead. Mrs. Rhame explained this change would involve the Metropolitan Transit Commission because No. 3 buses use Grand Avenue. Representatives of District 8 (Summit University), the area directly north of District 16, have indicated they are willing to form a coalition and continue to work for the stop light.

At the same time that District 16 was receiving this news at its meeting at Linwood School, Ann Bach attended a Citizens Long-Range Planning Advisory Committee meeting at the Board of Education office as District 16's representative.

The committee was created by the school board to assist in determining priorities before the decisions are made about closing schools due to declining enrollments. Bach's task was to serve as a liaison between the committee and the Linwood Elementary School Parents-Teachers Association.

Linwood School is faced with a declining enrollment. "At last count, there were 186 students at Linwood," said Ann Bach. "To support the type of program we feel an elementary school should provide, there should be about twice as many."

She explained that the Linwood PTA had become resigned to the eventual closing of the school. "The operation of the school during the past years in the face of this decline has given the parents a chance to accept the situation," she said. "We could probably put forth another big effort and keep the school open another year, but what good does that do when you still must face the inevitable?"

She explained the PTA was concerned about what provisions would be made for the students once the school closed. "They wanted the students to have the chance to be transferred in a group to another school if possible," she said. "They did not want the student body split up in several different directions."

The citizen's advisory committee has recommended that Linwood be closed and that the entire body have the option of attending Randolph Heights school, located about a mile southwest of Linwood. "Of course, this is only the first step in the closing of a school," she said. "The school board is under no obligation to accept this recommendation."

District 16's present problem is its lack of numbers when dealing with decisions made on a city-wide basis. It does not have enough school age children in the public school system to justify the continuation of Linwood School. It does not generate enough traffic at Grand and Victoria to convince the Department of Public Works to install a traffic light.

Mn/Dot to outline River Road plans

Two informational meetings concerning the proposed Great River Road through the Highland area have been scheduled for next week.

Residents of communities along the Mississippi from I-694 south to Fort Snelling are invited to hear the project plans at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 14 in the Minneapolis City Hall council chambers (Room 317).

Those who live along the river between Fort Snelling and Newport are invited to a meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 15 in the third-floor council chambers of St. Paul City Hall.

The Minnesota Department of Transportation will describe plans for the project such as proposed rest areas, parks, bike trails, roadway rehabilitation, safety, easements and acquisitions.

St. Paul police chief Richard Rowan (second from right) presents officers from Team B-4 with a commendation for outstanding performance over an extended time period. Citing B-4's members tact in handling a three-month strike at Rausch Manufacturing, and the team's concerted efforts to locate Willy Seals after he was lost in Crosby Park last year, Rowan made the presentation to (left to right): Officer Robert Olson, Team Commander Lt. John Sturner and Sgt. Robert Paskett.

Shorter CST cagers look for speed, better defense and a new center in '78

St. Thomas basketball teams, whether because of masochistic tendencies or simply to make a show of extreme optimism, like to start their season pitted against heavyweights.

Last year in the opening game, CST's cagers took on NCAA powerhouse Marquette, then defending champions in the University Division. The Toms took an understandable 80-45 beating in that contest.

This year they'll test their talent in Phoenix, Arizona, opening the intercollegiate season against Grand Canyon, the defending NAIA national champions.

"We have an excellent non-conference schedule," says Tom Feely, who's returning for his 25th year as CST's head coach. This year seven of the Tom's first nine games, all non-conference matchups, are at home.

In the MIAC, Feely feels St. John's is the favorite. All Johnny starters are returning from last year's team, which won the conference and advanced to the second round of the NAIA championship tournament.

But Feely remains optimistic about his squad's chances in the '78-'79 season. "We'll be interesting, exciting and contending for the title," says Feely.

Last year's MIAC scoring leader, Bill Roddy, and leading rebounder, Tom Lynn, return to St. Thomas lineup. Mike Randall and Scott Kajer, who rotated at forward for the Toms last year are also returning, along with lettermen Jerry McGraw, Joe Tumble, Mike Gitzen and Greg Hendricks.

Feely said his cagers will have two problems—a lack of height and finding a replacement for Bob Walsh, last year's 6-7 starting center. A freshman in '77-78'.

Walsh has transferred to a junior college.

Randall, Gitzen, Barry Leaton and Jim Roberts will fight it out for Walsh's position, according to Feely.

Leaton, a 6-7 senior, had to sit out most of last season waiting for eligibility after transferring to CST from a junior college. Roberts is a 6-6 center and forward who was recruited out of Annandale, where he scored 25 points per game as a prep.

"We are going to be relatively small, so we'll just have to run more and play better defense than we did last year," said Feely.

Planning meeting slated on potential closing of Ramsey

All area residents who are concerned about the potential closing of Ramsey Junior High School are invited to attend a planning meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, November 9 in Room 109 at the school, 1700 Summit Ave.

Representatives from the Ramsey group plan to make a presentation at the November 14 St. Paul School Board meeting.

Anyone interested in obtaining further information may call Robert Smith, Ramsey Junior principal, at 698-3823, or Jan Schuler at 644-5338.

ON SCHOOLS AND MONEY

To the editor:

In your last issue of the Villager, your education columnists presented two quite different proposals. The one that appealed to me was the "Rosenbloom Proposal," although I would like to see the per-pupil expenses of elementary schools get into the hands of parents instead of schools.

Unless the $1803 goes directly to the parents as education vouchers for each child of elementary age that they have, it is not a fair use of education money. The fate of the poor is compulsory education in non-religious schools. Only the wealthy get the privilege of schools of their choice. If we dared to try real democracy and religious freedom in St. Paul's elementary schools we could create a model for the country to emulate.

The Nelson Proposal advocates "educational programs." What children need is teachers not programs. It is disgraceful that any teacher should remain unemployed or any school be closed. There is no such thing as too many teachers, too many schools, or too many classrooms.

Many people think that consolidation of programs means better music, art, and physical education and greater innovation. What it really means is thinking up a phony "educational" excuse for big new contracts. The architects and contractors who want these big money contracts get the building and trade unions to endorse people for the school boards who will guarantee this.

GRIDIRON GRATITUDE

To the editor and the community:

The Highland-Groveland Recreation Association would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks to all area residents for their contributions to our recent can collection. Special thanks go to the American Can Company for their donation, the football league chairmen and coaches for their many hours of volunteer work, the parents for their assistance by playing taxi driver for practices and games, and to Dr. David Drye, principal at Highland Park Senior High, for his support.

If we've missed some person, business or organization, please accept our thanks anyway. The countless hours of time and energy on the part of so many has not gone unappreciated. Without that support we would not be able to provide our young area athletes with the successful sports program they now enjoy.

Highland Park man honored by politicians on 'Lasoff Day'

Sunday, October 29 may have been just another day to calendar-watchers—but to Mayor George Latimer it was Ben Lasoff Day, during which the man of the day was honored for 30 years of service to the city by the mayor, Governor Rudy Perpich, Congressman Bruce Vento and others.

Lasoff, 1731 Scheffer Ave., is currently director of the Career Guidance and Training Center which has been administered since 1975 by the Jewish Vocational Service.

Lasoff administers the North Star and Leisure

League workshops and is past administrator of the Community Workshop, now a part of the St. Paul Rehabilitation Center.

His involvement locally dates back to 1948 when Lasoff, armed with a master's degree in psychology from Columbia University, arrived in St. Paul to direct the group guidance program for the Twin Cities B'nai B'rith.

Mother/daughter bond discussed in all-day workshop

The Alfred Adler Institute will present an all-day seminar with Nancy Friday, author of My Mother My Self, from 8:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, November 11 in O'Shaughnessy Auditorium at the College of St. Catherine.

In her book, Nancy Friday probes the private emotions of mothers and daughters to uncover how they become the women they are.

At the seminar, she will discuss how women can change the childhood patterns produced by the mother/daughter bond, and become vital, independent and fully sexual.

Tickets are $17.50 in advance, $20.00 at the door and are available at Dayton's or by calling 926-6511. Lunch is available to those who pay in advance if they enclose an additional $2.00.

Ex-FCC member Johnson takes on TV at St. Kate's

Nicholas Johnson, former Federal Communications Commissioner (1966-1974) and author of How to Talk Back to Your Television Set, will give a free public lecture at the College of St. Catherine at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, November 10 in Jeanne d'Arc auditorium.

The subject of his talk will be his strong opposition to the New Communication Act of 1978.

Johnson is visiting the Twin Cities at the invitation of the communication and theater department of the colleges of St. Catherine-St. Thomas. His talk is sponsored by the Elizabeth C. Quinlan foundation.

Johnson, now chairman of the National Citizen's Communications Lobby, is an outspoken consumer-advocate, criticizing network abuses and insisting that those who use the frequencies assigned them by FCC license are the public's trustees.

He describes the broadcasting industry as "without question the single most economically and politically powerfully industry in our nation's history." This greatest of communications media, he writes, has become little more than a huckster for Madison Avenue.

Johnson, who earned an LL.B. degree at the University of Texas at Austin, is admitted to practice law before the U.S. Supreme Court and is a member of the bar in Iowa, Texas and the District of Columbia.

He has taught law at the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Illinois, and has also presented numerous short courses at the AFL-CIO Labor Studies Center.

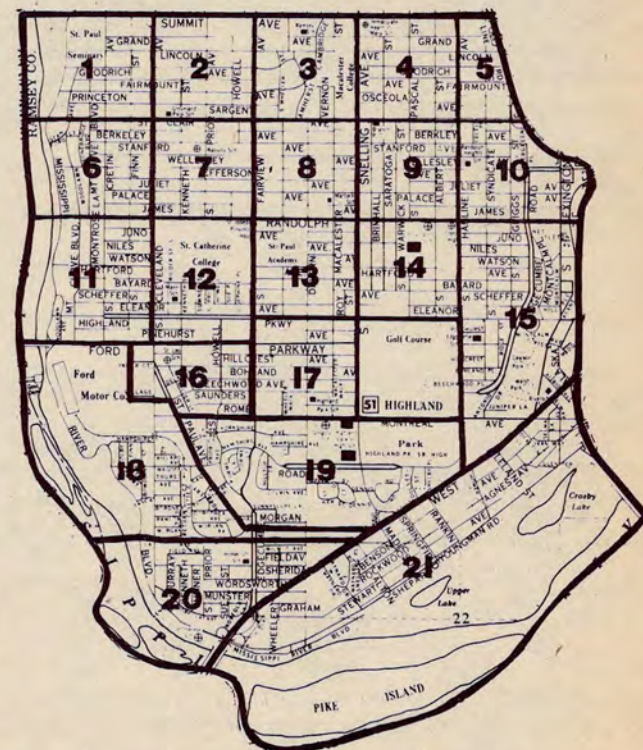

GABA hosts Nov. 15 membership meeting

The Grand Avenue Business Association has scheduled its fourth quarter general membership meeting for Wednesday, November 15 at the St. Paul College Club, 990 Summit Ave.

Members and guests will meet for a social hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. A "harvest dinner" will follow at 7:30 p.m., with entertainment provided by pianist John Skelly.

SOUTHWEST AREA DISTRICT Council Capsule

Three grids within the area served by the Southwest Area District Council are still without representatives on the board. If there is someone interested in serving as the representative from grids 1, 9 or 18 (see accompanying map), he or she should notify the SWAD office (698-7973).

Those people currently serving on the board as grid representatives are: Grid 1—no rep; grid 2—Neill O'Neill, grid 3—Winton Oftelie, grid 4—Ronald Clark, grid 5—Paul Garaffa, grid 6—James Ahler, grid 7—David McDonnell, grid 8—Jim Zdon, grid 9—no rep, grid 10—Gene Conway, grid 11—John Drew, grid 12—Pat McQuillan, grid 13—Joan Baker, grid 14—Donald Mack, grid 15—Jack Adler, grid 16—Howard Guthmann, grid 17—Lee Levitan, grid 18—no rep, grid 19—Helen Johnson, grid 20—Viola Stridger, grid 21—Sue Pierson.

At-large representatives are: from District 14 (north of Randolph) — Sally Frost, Kathleen Callahan, Tom Watson and Martin Kellogg; from District 15 (south of Randolph) — Mike McTeague, Mary Lou O'Leary, Edith Lystad and Kenneth Jefferson.

Tom Watson and Howard Guthmann have recently been serving on the Mayor's Budget Review Committee. The committee had about six weeks to look at this year's budget and make their recommendations for future budgets.

Most members of the review committee came from the 16 St. Paul district councils and some were appointed by the mayor and city council. Jerry Caulfield from our community also served on the committee by council appointment.

We have been represented by Joan Baker and Neill O'Neill on the school district's Education Committee. This is the group that is reviewing the Five-Year Plan. A public hearing will be held on Tuesday, November 14 at 365 Colburne to discuss the plan. Interested members of the community should be sure to make the extra effort to attend this meeting.

If you have any concerns about our neighborhoods or any community matters we can help you with, please call the district office at 698-7973. The next meeting of the Southwest Area Council will be held on Monday, November 13 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Joseph's Hall at the College of St. Catherine. All residents, business people and property owners in the community are invited to attend.

Donald Putnam and his wife, Joyce, caretakers of the newly christened Putnam Park.

A tidy little tract 'Putnam Park' proclaimed

"... Now, Therefore, I, George Latimer, Mayor of the City of Saint Paul, do hereby proclaim that the corner lot of Fairview and Shields Avenue be known as 'Putnam Park.'"

And so it was that the nondescript but tidy tract of land just north of I-94 and Fairview was christened in honor of the man who for four years has planted, hoed, seeded, cut and watered the undeveloped 450' by 150' city lot.

For Donald P. "Putts" Putnam, 407 Beacon Ave., it was another in a list of community credits that reads like, well, like nothing you've ever read before.

A production control dispatcher at Univac's Midway plant, Putnam is or has been a member of every conceivable community council, coalition and committee. A coach for umpteen local bowling, basketball, softball and volleyball teams, he also finds time to donate his perpetual smile as a member of the St. Paul Clown Club and as an annual Santa Claus for various community functions.

And now the life-long Merriam Park area resident has his own park. Nothing fancy, Putnam knows. Somewhere to picnic, read a book, throw the ball around. And though Putnam will joke about how it's easy to get a park named after you when city funds are short and your own involvement long, there's no mistaking the pride in his voice when he speaks of future plans for "Putnam Park."

Macalester Presbyterian, Plymouth churches schedule heritage events

Patricia Metcalf, vice moderator of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., will preach at the 11:00 a.m. service on Sunday, November 12 at Macalester Plymouth United Church, Lincoln and Macalester Ave.

A member and elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Freeport, Illinois, Mrs. Metcalf has been a Presbyterian delegate to the governing board of the National Council of Churches since 1972, and a member of that organization's executive committee for the past two years.

A reception for Mrs. Metcalf follows the 11:00 a.m. service which will include an original anthem written by Curt Oliver, the church's organist, and sung by the chancel choir.

Mrs. Metcalf's appearance is part of a five-week Heritage Celebration of more than 200 years of church history that is being observed by the united congregations of the Macalester Presbyterian and Macalester Plymouth Churches.

The celebration continues that evening with dinner at 6:30 p.m. followed by a 7:30 p.m. recital featuring bass-baritone George P. Leighton accompanied by

Rosenberg to address career women's guilt in Nov. 14 lecture

Dr. Pearl Rosenberg, assistant dean of the University of Minnesota Medical School, will speak on "The Jewish Working Woman: Guilty or Not Guilty" during the initial meeting of Jewish Working Women at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 14 at the St. Paul Jewish Community Center, 1375 St. Paul Ave.

The Jewish Working Women, a group formed recently under the auspices of the St. Paul United Jewish Fund and Council's women's division, intends to provide an opportunity for sharing common interests, educational stimulation and strengthening of ties with the Jewish community.

Rosenberg is assistant dean of student affairs from the U of M medical school and an associate professor in the University's Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation and Department of Psychiatry. She is a graduate of Radcliffe College and Harvard University where she received her Ph.D. in clinical psychology and psychotherapy.

All Jewish working women in the St. Paul area are invited to attend the free program.

MISCH- MASCH

by Maurice F. Mischke

You people have a big edge on me this issue. By the time most of you get around to reading this fortnightly falderal, you'll already know the results of Tuesday's election... while I've got to get these words in the works before all the lever pulling takes place.

It certainly has been quite a grind for most of the candidates and, yes, maybe also John Q. Public... especially the way he's been bombarded via the "intrusive media"—TV and radio. Perhaps we'll have more time now, also, to turn to other things... like the book I started reading some time ago, "A Time for Truth." It really is a time for that... and a time to find out how much of what we've heard the past few months, from DFL, IR and non-partisan candidates alike, we can—in truth—rely upon once the congressional and legislative sessions get underway. According to the U.S. News Washington Letter I received today, party labels in Congress are meaning less and less. The new breed apparently "owes little to party leaders, keeps turned 'back home.'" And, by the way, based on what I've read to this point in William E. Simon's book, I'd say his opus not only deserves a wide audience, but also deep consideration from all of us. Maybe it is getting that, too, because I had to back-order it via Village Books... they had run out.

I'm also writing this only a few hours before the well ballyhooed TV and radio debate between Don Larson of Corporate Report Magazine and one-time business editor in one of our local dailies, and Jenö "Paloney," the only Italo-American I know of who got rich on making Chinese food. Of course, most of the ballyhoo came via Jenö, who can best afford to throw his dollars around, just for the fun involved. If Jenö doesn't use more logic on the air than he has in print, he should be clobbered—if you can imagine that happening to the irrepressible Paulucci.

Jenö talks about how he got rich, starting from scratch... or without scratch, as it were. Well, that's just great. But what I want to know from him is this... could a poor boy with an idea do it TODAY? Are the opportunities for becoming a self-made millionaire as good in 1978 as they were for Jenö back in about 1948? That's the crucial question. Is the American dream still just as possible as it was then? I wish it were—but I'm inclined to feel there's too much of a difference between what could be done with a big idea and a little dough 30 years ago, and what would be required to get an idea of similar value and correspondingly small investment off the ground in today's economic milieu. What made Jenö's second go-around easier was the $67 or $68 million dollars he got from the Reynolds Co. for his first venture. It's still not too hard to get something started with a kittle like that!

I had occasion to adjust some tax withholding figures on our payroll the other day for some of our young, single employees. Once into the tables, I found it difficult to let go until I could better understand what inflation was doing to take-home pay for the average salaried worker. Do I have to tell you—just plenty!

To make my research easier, I stayed with figures that were in relatively similar positions on the withholding tables... thus accurately reflecting tax differentials. I used monthly salary figures from $675 to $1475, $8,100 to $17,700 in annual terms. As you probably know, $17,700 is the maximum figure (in 1978) on which the 6.05% social security is deducted for both employee and employer. Not only did I analyze the tax bite for singles who don't have occasion to use anything but the short form (unless they've bought a house). I also developed figures to show how much (or how little) a wife realizes in take-home dollars on that second income. On the federal figures assume a joint return, and my state figures separate returns, which is invariably cheaper. Had to be sure to go the best route on those figures—what with experts like Gerry Caulfield of the State Income Tax Department around to bring me up short if I should happen to goof up the details.

So what did I come up with? Well, let's start with a single fellow or girl making $12,900, or $1075 a month—decent but not a big take at today's prices. Suppose that by merit or by virtue of overtime efforts that person could boost his or her monthly gross by $200, up to $1275. How much would he or she get to keep? Just $115.70. Social security, federal and state income tax will take away $84.70 or 42.35%. Of that, 6.05% if social security, 28% federal and 8.3% state income tax.

Go up another $200, from $1275 a month to a more comfortable $1475. The bite on that $200 bump is 44.35%, netting $111.30 take home (55.65%). In other words if you work hard enough or well enough, or talk fast enough to rate an extra two C-notes from the boss, for every $9 of increase you earn, you get to keep $5 to every $4 that goes to government... assuming you're not saddled with any other deductions. On that salary of $1475, your take-home is $1003.26. To take home $12,000 a year, then, requires a salary of $17,700. Or had you noticed?

Another little fiscal exercise we thought you might cherish is the true added value of a second income. Suppose husband makes our hypothetical $17,700. The deductions on that annual gross would total $4763.25. Now suppose that with equal pay and equal skill, the wife is able to bring home an equal amount. The net effect of that added $17,700 is $7,938.45 in deductions, take home of just $9761.55. Her $1,475 additional per month translates to an effective net check of about $814 a month.

Now let's suppose the husband is still making the hypothetical $17,700, and his wife is on the job earning $10,500 ($875 monthly). She has an opportunity to earn $200 a month more, by virtue of a promotion. How much will she get to keep out of that $200? Less than half, in truth... $97.60, I figure. If the promotion involves some extra grief or added unpaid overtime, is it any wonder that some people may be inclined to say, forget it—it isn't worth it? Or is it too surprising that some people look down their noses at overtime earning opportunities?

It becomes more and more apparent that government has to become a smaller factor in our lives if our system of incentives is going to work properly, and if we are to continue enjoying our traditional economic and political freedom. We seem to be at a crossroad this year. A change in direction is called for, the public seems to agree. It can be, and probably ought to be, gradual. But we have to keep moving on that kind of course, don't you agree? If you don't, read "A Time for Truth"... if that doesn't convince you, well, then we're just not on the same wave length.

Had a recent visit from Ed Brandt, an ex-legislator and former political science prof at the College of St. Thomas. He left me a new book, still unbound at the time, which he authored, detailing the voting records of our legislators in the 1977-78 sessions, just the House members, that is. It lists the roll call votes on 101 controversial bills, including amendments and procedural motions.

Not only that. It also includes data on attendance, sponsorship of bills and amendments, voting participation, and various characteristics of individual legislators and their districts. Seems like good background material for campaign committees of the future. Maybe some of them already found it useful this time around. At any rate, if you're interested, "Minnesota State Representatives: Performance and Conflict, 1977-78" is available for $8.30 from Carter & Locey Publications, 2354 Rice Street, St. Paul, 55113... or you can call 484-3315. A legislator just can't get by with anything in this day and age. More and more, they're starting to watch the store.

If that charter amendment re non-partisan ballots passes in the Tuesday election, nobody can charge it up to real tremendous campaign efforts. It's been absolutely low-key, although I did note that the DFL sample ballot asked for a "no" vote. But nobody undertook to give it very much of a shove either way in the press. Should be interesting, though, to note vote reaction to an issue given that little fanfare, pro or con.

New shops in the Highland Shopping Center are beginning to be a reality. R. Sykes opened this Monday with an attractive and colorful array of gourmet cookery... that's in the old Red Robins Cleaners location. Let Rick and Kathy Myerburg show you what they've got that's new and different. Village Home and Hardware plans to open a week from today, November 15. And I understand B. Dalton doesn't want to pass up the local Christmas trade, either.

I'll leave you now with this election day thought. Will Rogers said it: "This country is where it is today on account of the real common sense of the big normal majority." Hmmm.

And a little bonus thought, pilfered as usual: "Be kind. Remember everyone you meet is fighting a hard battle." Gosh, maybe this column wouldn't exactly measure up on that score. Well, it's too late now... Buenos dias!

Workshop on for potential scribes
of family memoirs

Alice Zoerb, author of My Life Memories, will conduct a two-hour workshop on writing your own life story and family history at 1:00 p.m. on Friday, November 17 at the Highland Park Branch Library.

This session, while not a genealogy class, will offer tips on how to gather old documents and information and what to do with it, what memorabilia to include, and how to pull it all together.

To register, call the library at 698-0823.

SOS seeks help

Sexual Offense Services of Ramsey County (SOS), a service for sexual assault victims, will hold a series of training sessions for new volunteers during November. Anyone interested in volunteering may call the SOS office at 298-5898 for more information.

Houseplant huddle

"Choosing and Care of Green Plants" will be the topic of the next Mendota Heights Garden Club meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 14 at the home of Janet De Lambert.

The Highland Villager

Thanks to the bureaucratic efficiency of Vice President Walter Mondale's office, this indelible record of the Breck School sixth graders' annual June field trip to Washington, D.C. arrived punctually at the end of October. The students posed on the White House lawn with Mondale—and a certain couple who happened by enroute to the Presidential helicopter.

Highland BPW to debate ERA

The Highland Park Business and Professional Women's Club will meet on Wednesday, November 8 at the Twins Motor Inn, University and Prior Aves. Social hour will begin at 5:45 p.m. and dinner will follow at 6:30 p.m.

The meeting will focus on a debate on the Equal Rights Amendment. Mrs. Daniel Reid will speak against, and a speaker to be announced will speak in favor. Nancy Gedman, legislation committee chairperson, will moderate.

Anyone interested is invited to attend. Call Deborah Senglaub at 690-1522 during the day for more information.

Turkey Bingo set

The men's club of Church of the Nativity will hold its annual Turkey Bingo from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. on Friday, November 17 in the school auditorium, Stanford and Prior Aves.

Free health programs for the elderly offered in area

Programs on health problems common to the elderly will be offered at several area locations this month. Free to persons over 65 years of age, the programs are sponsored by United Hospitals and the St. Paul Division of Public Health.

Prevention and treatment of colds and flu will be taught by a respiratory therapist at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 21 in the Highland High-Rise Community Room, 899 So. Cleveland.

A nutritionist will discuss weight gain problems and ideas for losing weight at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, November 17 at the Jewish Community Center, 1375 St. Paul Ave.

Bladder problems and ways to prevent infections will be presented by a Ramsey County nurse at 11:00 a.m. Wednesday, November 15 at the Merriam Park Community Center, 2000 St. Anthony Ave.

Irene Tucker, coordinator of Geriatric Services for the St. Paul Division of Public Health, will explain blood pressure readings and methods used to control high blood pressure at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, November 8 at the Montreal High Rise Community Room, 1085 Montreal Ave.

Free brochures and refreshments will be available at all program sites.

Derham Hall sets school openhouse

Derham Hall High School has invited all area seventh, eighth and ninth grade girls and their parents to look them over at an open house from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Sunday, November 12 at the school, 540 S. Warwick St.

Besides providing an opportunity to see the school, meet the faculty and talk with Derham Hall students, the afternoon will include a program, tours, demonstrations and refreshments.

Kahane to speak at Highland H.S.

Rabbi Meir Kahane, internationally known writer, orator and defender of Jewish rights, will make his first public appearance in Minnesota at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, November 19 at Highland Park Senior High School. His talk is sponsored by the program committee of Adath Israel Synagogue.

Kahane gained fame as leader of the militant Jewish Defense League, although he has recently disavowed militancy and severed ties with that organization.

He remains an authoritative speaker on the plight of Russian Jews, elderly Jews, and the problems of assimilation. He now lives in Israel.

Seating for the program will be restricted. To reserve tickets ($3.00 each) call the synagogue at 698-8300 or Glenda Naiditch at 690-5098.

Montreal South to seek nominations

Nominations will be accepted for January elections at the next meeting of the Montreal South Organization, to be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 8 at St. Luke Lutheran Church, Edgumbe Rd. and Field Ave.

IT WAS in 1853 that our founders planted the roots of The St. Paul Companies in the city of Saint Paul.

In this year of our 125th anniversary, we're working with the city to plant more roots in Saint Paul. Specifically, we're providing 125 trees, one for each year in our history, to be planted in conjunction with Saint Paul's renovation of Horton Park.

When the project is complete about a year from now, Horton Park will emerge as a beautiful miniature arboretum, with 5 each of 25 different varieties of trees, all suited to our climate.

Near each variety will be a plaque providing name, growth pattern and other pertinent information. You'll find these plaques especially helpful in selecting replacements for trees lost to elm disease.

The first trees are now in place in the southeast corner of the park near Hamline and Minnehaha. They're all about 20 feet tall and ready to receive visitors.

They'd love to have you stop by.

Rabbi Reines to speak on reform

Rabbi Alvin J. Reines, Professor of Jewish Philosophy at Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati, will address the congregation at 8:15 p.m. services on Friday, November 10 at Mount Zion Temple, 1300 Summit Ave.

Reines' topic, Reform Judaism—The Shock of Freedom, will explain his philosophy of reform, which led to the establishment of The Institute of Creative Judaism in St. Louis.

The institute supports research into free Judaism. It writes curricula, ceremonies and worship services particularly significant to liberal Jews.

The saga of Government Lot Number 7's new log sculpture

Creating an original sculpture doesn't usually involve a 30-foot log, a winch-equipped amphibious vehicle, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and an uninhabited island.

But it did for Mary Degan, who recently put the finishing touches to a large-scale log sculpture on the tiny island below the locks near the Ford bridge.

"I figure it's one of the seven wonders of the world how she got that damn log up there," said one Corps lockmaster about the way Degan floated the 30-foot driftwood log five miles upriver from where it had been beached near Fort Snelling.

Helping Degan guide the log upriver were a man and his four sons. After watching their carboat pass through the nearby river locks in July, Degan corralled them to help her. She had spotted a winch attached to the carboat and realized it was just what she needed to lift the heavy log.

Degan explained to the family why she needed their vehicle, and they agreed to rent it to her for a fee well below their usual one.

It was difficult guiding the gnarled log through the twisting river currents to the island, but Degan thought it was worth it.

"The log was so beautiful," she said. "It looked like a marlin coming through the water."

A second 10-foot log was procured from nearby Minnehaha Park. Degan interlocked the two logs, chiseled off the bark, sanded them into the smooth shapes she wanted and finally stained them bright, warm colors.

Degan is one of a team of five sculptors hired through the Minneapolis-sponsored Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). The team's main priority was to make sculptures for Minneapolis residents from trees cut down and stripped of their bark due to Dutch elm disease.

After finding out that the Corps of Engineers managed the island known as Government Lot Number 7, it took Degan four months to get the Corps' permission to build there.

The Highland Villager

Commuting to work at Government Lot Number 7 meant a daily trip through the locks below the Ford Bridge for sculptress Mary Degan.

Her persistence finally paid off in early summer when, after a two-week flurry of red tape, all the paperwork was done. Degan now counts the Corps among the most loyal supporters of her work. The men of the Corps have in turn been known to refer to Lot Number 7 as "Mary's Island."

In addition, the Corps provided space to lock up Degan's boat and equipment, and occasionally loaned wheelbarrows and men to tote the 400-pound bags of cement Degan needed to secure the sculpture.

The finished sculpture can be seen from the bluffs near the Minnesota Veterans Home which overlooks the island, and from the riverbank below the locks and dam which can be reached by walking through Minnehaha Park.

Still bearing its working title, "On the River," the sculpture may remain unnamed.

"People like to explain everything away," Degan said. "But I like things that can't be explained."

Groveland Park's planning committee invites participation

Parents of Groveland Park Elementary School students and interested community residents are invited to attend upcoming meetings of the school's Planning, Evaluating and Reporting (PERL) Committee.

The committee, active since October of 1977, meets from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. on the first Thursday of each month in the third floor teacher's lounge at Groveland, 2045 St. Clair Ave. Agenda items should be submitted to the chairperson one week before the meeting.

Community members of the PERL committee are: George Golden, Don Gruber, Kirsten Ingerson, Esther Kellogg, Kathy Perry, John Romano (Chairperson), Susan Rosenfeld and Eula Short.

Faculty members are: Paul Helgerson, Bill Lieb, Gerald Madigan (Principal), and Kristine Stolz.

GROVELAND

The Halloween activities went well. Those who attended the Family Bonfire (about 150) enjoyed great weather and some of the kids apparently got a kick out of seeing who could eat the most roasted marshmallows.

The winners of the scavenger hunt were Penny Shearen, Norma Masson, Susan Johnson and Kerry Notch. Costume contest winners included Morgan Kelly, Nancy Smith, Tedra Mesinko, Troy Thompson, John Ryan, Lisa Charpentier, Amy Charpentier, Julie Johnson, Brian Dobie and Lisa Droubie. Thanks to all the kids who wore costumes and competed. The Candy Guess contest was won by Dorothy Connolly.

Junior Royalty candidates are needed! Sign up now or call 698-5747 by December 5.

Soccer and success ran step for step this season at Groveland. Teams from third grade and under were coached by Dennis Kelly and Charles Brady. The fifth grade and under teams, coached by Wali Naibi and Jeff Bauer, won the West Division title. In the seventh grade and under league, Coach "Sudden Sam" Walker led his troops to a tie for the top in the South Division. At present Coach Walker and his Groveland team are involved in City playoffs. A great big Thanks to the coaches for volunteering their time.

Girls' flag football at Groveland had its "ups/downs" and "bumps/bruises," but the girls had fun. Thanks to coaches Karen Anderson and Ron Snaza.

We are presently looking for hockey coaches. It would involve about 10 games and practices during the coming winter. For more information call 698-5747.

Senior Booster Club meeting on Wednesday, November 22 at 8:00 p.m. We need new members. Plan to attend!

DESNOYER

Hello from Desnoyer!

A fun-filled day and night was held on Halloween at Desnoyer. A special thanks to Hamline's American Legion Post 418 for their generous donation to make this possible.

The Center will be closed on Friday, November 10 for Veterans' Day.

Checkers and cribbage tournaments will be held at Wilder on Thursday, November 9. If you want to compete let us know.

Anyone interested in trying out for Junior Prime Minister should contact the Center. Tryouts for the city are at North Dale at 1:00 p.m. on Monday, November 13.

New craft classes for all started November 4 with Marge Pederson teaching from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. Fridays for ten weeks.

Weaving and macrame is taught on Mondays, drama on Wednesdays and arts and painting on Thursdays. There's room for more in these classes. Come down and sign up.

HILLCREST

The staff at Hillcrest would like to welcome back Pete Winecke from his leave of absence. Pete invites everyone to stop in and say hi.

A painting class for children in grades 1-6 will begin on Wednesday, November 15 and run for six weeks. The cost is $2.50 per student. Pete, a student at the Minneapolis Art Institute, will instruct the class.

A citywide checkers and cribbage tournament will be held at Wilder on Thursday, November 9. Call or stop in at Hillcrest for more information.

Director Mike Windey would like to say "thank you" to Burger King, Applebaum's, Snyder's and Pizza Hut for their support of the Halloween program.

Our high school girls' flag football team placed third in the District league. Super job, girls.

Hillcrest Recreation Center is sponsoring a project to raise $500 for new programs and equipment. Our project, selling Nature's Bounty cheese and sausage, will run from November 20-26. By placing your order with the child who comes to your door, you will help him or her earn a cash prize, and help Hillcrest reach its goal. If you wish to call an order in, please ask for Mike, Shannon, Pete, or Marvy Harbie, at 698-1435.

Cash prizes will be given to those children who sell the most during the six days.

EDGCUMBE

Soccer and football are just about over and we're looking forward to our winter activities.

Floor hockey will begin the week of November 13. Second and third graders will play from 3:30 to 4:00 p.m. on Mondays; fourth and fifth graders from 3:30 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Wednesdays; eighth and ninth graders from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. on Wednesdays; and sixth and seventh graders from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. on Thursdays.

We are now registering for a fourth and fifth grade newcomb team and sixth and seventh grade basketball team.

The ice hockey program is finally well on its way, but we still have room for a few players in Cubs, Pee Wees and Bantams.

Call the recreation center at 699-6903 after 3:00 p.m. to register for any of these programs.

Howdy from the croft!

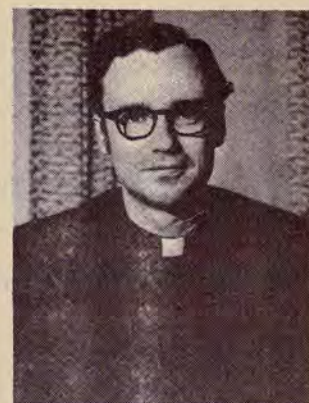

The Homecroft Halloween party was a huge success, thanks to everyone who helped out. Congratulations to the sixth grade flag football co-champions (with a 5-1 record) and coach Colleen Lavelle on a job well done. For information on upcoming events just contact the playground. A special thank you to Hamline American Legion Post 418 for their generous donation.

Kids to get religion thanks to workshop

"To Play and Pray" is the theme of an early childhood religious education workshop to be held from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 11 at St. Leo the Great Parish, 2017 Bohland Ave.

Sister Kathleen Bierne, child and parent education specialist from Sioux Falls, is the featured speaker. She will be joined by Sr. Peggy O'Connell, dramatics specialist and college instructor, and Dr. Ann Stokes, a teacher at the Fair-Parent-Child Center in Robbinsdale and instructor at Concordia College.

Cost is $4.00. Call Mary Novak at the Catholic Education Center (291-4519) for further information.

The Rev. Donald Senior will speak on Things New and Old: Vision of the Church in St. Matthew's Gospel at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 9 in the Jeanne d'Arc auditorium at the College of St. Catherine. Call 690-6724 to register.

Nurses to learn assertiveness in one-day CST conflict class

You're in a hurry and have been waiting in line for the telephone for more than ten minutes when a casual acquaintance asks to cut in line ahead of you. What should you do?

Should you: (a) reluctantly let the person go ahead; (b) refuse, explaining that you are in a hurry; (c) insist loudly that the person get at the end of the line like everyone else; or (d) tell the person emphatically that cutting in line is rude?

More than 300 nurses will be instructed in the management of conflict, through the investigation of such everyday situations, in a one-day "Assertiveness for Nurses" seminar sponsored by the College of St. Thomas Management Center from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 8.

The program is one of about 50 individual seminars conducted throughout the fall and winter months at CST.

The seminar leader will be Dr. Andrea Molberg, assistant professor of counseling and education psychology at the college. She also conducts Management Center courses in "Assertiveness and Conflict Management," "Making your Contacts Count," "Personalizing Communication for Secretaries," and "Interviewing for Selection, Development and Counseling." According to Dr. Molberg, her seminar is intended to provide nurses with a means to recognize the difference between non-assertive, assertive and aggressive behavior, to be aware of situations in which their behavior falls within these categories, and to identify different ways of handling problems.

Cost of the seminar is $30 including lunch. For further information or to register, call the college at 647-5219.

Advent workshop

An Advent Workshop, designed for adults who can then translate the educational material for children, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, November 8 in Room 157 of the Christ Child Building at the College of St. Thomas. The cost is $4.50. To register, call the Center for Religious Education at the College of St. Thomas (647-5715).

Hunting season upon us for Christmas gifts and novelties

Pilgrim Lutheran Church, 1935 St. Clair Ave., will enter the pre-Christmas festival fray on Saturday, November 18 with its annual bazaar and bake sale. Hours are from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the church.

Specialties of the sale will include ceramic holiday napkin holders, quilted tree skirts, Sesame Street tree ornaments, and Christmas wreaths crafted in macrame, calico, straw and corn husks.

Coffee, juice and donuts will be served.

The St. Paul YMCA will hold its 20th annual Holiday Market Sale on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 14 and 15 at the downtown "Y," 65 E. Kellogg Blvd.

The sale will feature the handmade items of over 100 local artists and artisans and will include holiday decorations, stocking stuffers, children's clothing and toys, pottery, quilts, weaving, and other crafts.

Sale hours will be from 10:00 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and 10:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. For more information call 222-3741.

First Trinity United Methodist Church, 1849 Marshall Ave. has scheduled its annual ham dinner and bazaar from noon to 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, November 12 in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Donation is $2.50 for adults, 75 cents for children age 6 to 12, and free for children age 5 and under. Proceeds will benefit the Hamline University Scholarship Fund.

The Women's Guild of St. Paul's United Church of Christ is sponsoring a holiday boutique from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 11 at the church, 900 Summit Ave. The sale will include gifts and ornaments, homemade fruitcake, white elephants and more.

St. Joseph's Hospital Auxiliary invites its members and friends to get an early start purchasing items to stuff the stockings and trim the tree by attending a Christmas boutique, to be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Friday, November 10 in the Firewide Room of the Hospital, 69 W. Exchange St.

St. Mark Lutheran Church will hold its annual Christmas sale and dinner on Saturday, November 11 in the basement of the church, West Seventh and Goodhue Sts.

A spaghetti dinner will be served from 4:30 to 7:00 p.m. Adults will be served for $3.00, $1.50 for children aged 12 and under.

The women's club of Calvary Lutheran Church, 341 S. Hamline Ave., will hold a bake and craft sale from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 18 at the church.

The Minnehaha United Methodist Church will run a Fiesta Time bazaar from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 11 at the church, 3701 E. 50th St., Minneapolis.

On sale will be Christmas items, handmade articles, baked goods, and collectibles and antiques including Depression glass in the Granny's corner section. (Dealers are discouraged from attending.)

Lunch will be served from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Hayes Haven Residence, 1620 Randolph Ave., will be the site for a Christmas craft and bake sale from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. this coming Sunday, November 12.

The Minnesota Garden Flower Society will hold a Christmas boutique from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 9 in the community room of Northern Federal Savings and Loan, 755 Cleveland Ave. S.

The Church of the Messiah will hold a creative craft boutique from 1:00 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 16 at the church, 1631 Ford Pkwy. The sale will be followed by a manicotti dinner at 6:00 p.m. for those with tickets bought in advance.

The boutique will feature designer sweatshirts, handmade Christmas ornaments, crafts and food, and a table for antiques and collectibles.

Tickets are $3.50 for adults and $1.75 for children under age 12. To order call 699-3327 or 699-7977. Proceeds of the event will go to Holy Trinity Episcopal School in Port-au-Prince, Haiti.

Ackermann named to OSHA Council

Anthony Ackermann, 700 Osceola Ave., was recently appointed to the Occupational Safety and Health Advisory Council by Governor Rudy Perpich.

Currently an industrial hygienist for the City of St. Paul, Ackermann is a member of the National and Minnesota Safety Councils.

He holds a B.A. degree in political science, a 1967 Certificate of Public Administration, and a 1966 Basic Engineering Certificate, all from the University of Minnesota.

Hadassah lunch set with Nahum Shamir

The third in a series of St. Paul chapter events to support efforts of the Hadassah Medical Organization will be a special gifts luncheon to be held at noon on Wednesday, November 15 at the home of Diane Smookler, 682 Ivy Falls Court, Mendota.

Guest speaker will be Israeli Consul General Nahum Shamir. As a member of the Haganah, he fought in defense of his kibbutz, and participated in all major battles for control of the Galilee during the War of Independence.

Shamir has held numerous governmental positions, including head of the corporation which invested German war reparations to Israel, director of the National Oil Company, economic minister to the United States and Canada, and founder of Israel's youth theater.

Paper drive set

If you have lost interest in your old newspapers, rest assured that Boy Scout Troop 423 hasn't. The Scouts will be holding a paper drive from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, November 11 and 12 at Edgumbe Presbyterian Church, 2149 Edgumbe Rd.

Strawberry Patch proprietors spur revival of Hardanger embroidery

Even if you've never heard of Hardanger embroidery, you may have seen it in Scandinavian craft exhibits as the geometric, open-lace edgings on table linens. Despite its crisp, machine-perfect look, it is worked by hand.

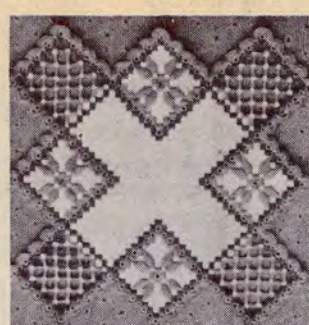

Like many forms of needlework worldwide, Hardanger is experiencing something of a revival, at least locally.

Maxine Appelbaum and Joy Kaplan, proprietors of the Strawberry Patch, 651 S. Snelling Ave., claim theirs is the only needlework shop in the Twin Cities that gives lessons in the art of Hardanger embroidery.

For $25, including all materials, instructor Doris Steffen will make an expert out of you in four weekly two-hour sessions.

The craft is named after the Hardanger Fjord region of southwestern Norway, where it originated 200 years ago. According to Steffen, 689 S. Roy St., a similar form of needlework was also done in Italy and parts of Asia.

The craft involves counting the threads of the fabric to precise spots and then working a specified number of satin stitches. The embroidery acts like buttonholing to secure rough edges of the fabric when its threads are cut. (You need patience and good eyesight, since the fabric will fray if the embroidery is worked over the wrong threads.)

The finished product.

Doris Steffen, right, instructs student Shirley Tuft in the finer points of the traditional Norwegian needle art called Hardanger, a geometric-looking openwork embroidery that embellishes cotton or linen. Steffen gives classes at the Strawberry Patch, 651 S. Snelling Ave.

"That's the first basic stitch," Steffen explained. "Then figure-eight stitches are looped around the raw threads in the material. Everything after that is embellishment."

To vary the basic pattern, special forms of satin stitch, French-knot stitch and others are used.

Steffen's interest in Hardanger embroidery goes back eight years. After taking a course at the International Institute of Minnesota she wanted to learn more about the craft but, to her frustration, discovered that the only pattern books available were written in Norwegian (which she has since learned).

She also discovered that the materials she needed were hard to come by. Hardanger requires a special weave of cotton or linen cloth plus a certain kind of embroidery thread.

Coping with these difficulties became easier as Steffen eventually tracked down suppliers of the fabric and the thread around the metropolitan area. Now, of course, the Strawberry Patch stocks both.

Steffen started giving classes at the shop last spring and recently began offering advanced instruction for five "graduates" of the beginners' section who refused to go away quietly. For these five, their teacher, and an increasing number of Highland area beginners, Hardanger seems to be habit forming.

Even if you're not Norwegian.

There's still time to protect your roof from ice damage

Art Tieso

Install your roof cables now to melt the snow that's coming.

This could be the year it happens to your home. Melted snow comes to the overhang on your house, re-freezes, and starts an ice dam that eventually backs up into your house, ruining ceilings and walls. Don't let it happen to you.

Our roof cables eliminate the problem, economically keeping open channels along the roof edge to allow water to freely flow into the gutter — where it's kept open until it runs off. For pennies a day, you can save your roof, gutters, downspouts and interior walls this winter if you start today.

Ellerd's art exhibited at College of St. Thomas

The art of Eliza Ellerd will hang in the College of St. Thomas' Murray Hall lounge from Tuesday, November 14, through January 10. The public is invited to view the exhibit free of charge.

A student of the arts at the University of Minnesota, the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, Ellerd has been accorded numerous awards and honors in juried competitions.

She captured the "Best in Show Runner-up" at the Arts Omnibus '77, and has exhibited one-woman shows at Lakewood Community College, the School of Associated Arts and Minnesota Blue Cross-Blue Shield Insurance Company.

She represented Minnesota women painters at International Women's Year in 1975, recently completed a commissioned mural for the Family Service Clinic of Bethesda Lutheran Hospital and has been honored with permanent collection purchases from Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company.

Highland area senior citizen is high on living at Cleveland Avenue hi-rise

by Paul Riemerman

"It's one of the greatest things that could happen to someone on a limited income," said Grace Stockberger, "The people here are just great."

Grace, an 80-year-old widow, lives in the senior citizens' high-rise at 899 So. Cleveland Ave., one of two Highland Park high-rises run by the St. Paul Public Housing Agency.

The 132-unit building looks like a high rent apartment on both the inside and outside. A balcony juts out from each apartment above the spacious, immaculately trimmed lawn. There is thick, plush carpeting in the hallways.

Inside Grace's apartment, plants cover every conceivable space—coffee table, on top of the TV, and on the bookcase.

Grace managed the bakery of the now defunct Hove's Food Market in Highland for 35 years before she retired in 1971. She moved into the Cleveland hi-rise in 1975.

According to Grace, there is a long waiting list to get into the hi-rise. Some people signed up when the building opened and just got in a little while ago.

Grace lived in an apartment building on Charles Avenue until three years ago. "The building was substandard," she said. "Electrical wiring wasn't up to code and the plumbing didn't work right."

Grace paid $40 a month for her old apartment. "I couldn't afford to rent another place when I had to move," she said. She now pays about $100 out of her monthly $400 Social Security check for her apartment in the high-rise.

"There's always plenty going on here," she said. "We play cards or bingo twice a week. We go on chartered bus trips and United Hospitals sends a mini-clinic here once a month. I can't think of any way they could make it better here."

The high-rise hosts three birthday parties a year at which everyone who has had a birthday since the last party celebrates at the same time. At Grace's last party, about 100 neighbors came.

"We blew those little noisemakers and had a real good time," she said. "There was plenty of cake and ice cream, though I

Seniors' events planned at JCC

Two health events for senior adults have been scheduled at the Jewish Community Center.

A Hints on Losing Weight clinic sponsored by United Hospitals is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, November 16 at the Center.

Blood pressure screening will be offered from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m. on Thursday, November 16 under the auspices of the Red Cross.

Both programs are open to all senior adults in the community.

wish I could have had my own cake. I like blowing out candles."

Grace's daughter lives in Denmark and her son lives in Farmington, Minnesota. "I see my daughter twice a year," she said. "But she has two daughters at the University of Minnesota. They see me all the time. My son visits me about twice a week."

Grace has seven grandchildren, four step-grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. "But you know it's pretty hard to get them all together when they're spread out," she said.

Grace thinks she's lucky to live in a place as nice as her high-rise. "I know everyone on my floor," she said, "and I know I couldn't do any better on my own."

Grace didn't want her picture taken for the paper. "No one wants to see a picture of an old lady," she said. "Me, I've already seen it."

Area based Beatles club plots Midwest's largest fan convention

In the dark recesses of the basement at 1792 Sunny Slope Lane in Highland Park, the memory of a united John, Paul, George and Ringo still flickers.

That flickering memory lights the office headquarters for the Write Thing, a club for Beatles enthusiasts.

Fanned by 1400 club members worldwide, the flicker will burst into flame when the Write Thing presents "Beatles Forever," reportedly the largest Beatles fan convention ever held in the upper midwest.

The convention will feature over 22 hours of Beatles films, guest speakers with slide shows, a Beatles sound-alike band from New York City, and a sale of collectors items in the dealers room.

The convention will be held from noon to 9:00 p.m. Saturday, November 18 and from noon to 6:00 p.m. Sunday, November 19 at the Leamington Hotel in downtown Minneapolis.

Osborne presents yearly craft show

The Osborne Gallery, 1074 Grand Ave. will open its holiday craft show of one-of-a-kind works by local artists on Thursday, November 9.

The exhibition will include batiks by Nedra Schneider, blown glass by Bob Toensing, jewelry by Barbara Pennwarden, porcelain by Nils Lou, enamels by Nary Ellen Kundzins, wooden goblins by Sue Mansfield, woven items by Kathy McMahon, Sue Mansfield and Susan Obrestad, and crafts by numerous other artisans.

Fish & Seafood Sale

the fish cove

With the prices of meat increasing, many of our customers have shifted their loyalties to fish. Bravo! You know that fish is lower in calories than red meat and that, in most cases, the price per serving is less. By now, you also know that it can be as tasty and satisfying as beef. But, you may not have noticed that because you've liked our Fish & Seafood Sales so well in the past, we've expanded our line and introduced new choices. We're getting bigger and better because of you. Keep up the good work!

Final registration for HGRA bucket program planned

Final registration for the Highland-Groveland Recreation Association's 1978 basketball program will be held on Wednesday, November 8 at Groveland Recreation Center, and on Thursday, November 9 at Hillcrest Recreation Center. Hours are from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on both nights.

League play will again be divided into three age brackets: grades 4-5, 6-7 and 8-9. Registration fee for all three is $5.00, which includes the cost of a team shirt.

For any further information about the basketball program, call the HGRA office at 699-4633 between 3:30 and 5:00 p.m. or 6:00 and 9:30 p.m., or Roger Diestler at 699-4938.

Talking back about school closings

CRITICISMS FROM A READER

by Lee James Levitan

In the "Talking Out of School" column which appeared in the October 25 Highland Villager, Messrs. Rosenbloom and Nelson indicate appropriate concern over the fact that some are losing sight of the single most important issue facing the school administration: How can we best educate our children? Unfortunately, after having expressed this view, Rosenbloom and Nelson apparently ignore it in their proposals dealing with the school closings issue.

Mr. Rosenbloom suggests allocating the 1977-1978 district average expenditure per student—$1803—to each school based on enrollment. Thus, a school with an enrollment of 250 would get 250 times $1803, or $450,750, and so on. Each school would then decide how to spend its money. Although this proposal may seem reasonable at first blush, it has two serious shortcomings:

1. In many cases, the use of averages is appropriate (assuming some measure of variability is also included). Unfortunately, this is not one of those cases. Such a distribution plan completely ignores the fact that special programs cost more per student than do other programs. Under the proposal suggested by Mr. Rosenbloom, I cannot help but conclude that special programs would all but disappear. To the extent such programs make reasonable contributions to student growth and education, I find this potential outcome to be unacceptable.

2. Providing funding to schools according to the "Rosenbloom Proposal" is biased against small schools. Rather than allow schools with innovative teachers who consistently provide high quality education to wither and die simply because they suffer from low enrollments, every effort should be made to keep such schools open. Enrollment is partly a function of school boundaries. Since these lines are artificial anyway, they can certainly be changed. And I would recommend the school administration investigate the possibilities for doing so.

Mr. Nelson, on the other hand, suggests using three factors to decide which schools are to be closed: demographics, geography, and physical quality of the building and school grounds. I have two problems with this proposal:

1. It fails to mention quality of education as a criterion. Schools are in the business of educating students. How then can we reasonably ignore quality of education in deciding which schools to keep open?

2. Demographics is the science of population distribution, density, vital statistics, and so on. Mr. Nelson does not indicate which of these factors we should look at. Neither does he tell us how to weight the data once collected.

Despite my disagreements with their proposals, I am totally in agreement with the authors' general conclusion. Namely, there appears to be a headlong rush by the school administration to close schools. Based on the reports I have seen and on conversations with some members of the administration, I can only conclude that they have failed to give careful consideration to the full impact of implementation of their plan. More time is needed to gather the evidence, discuss the issues, and draw conclusions. I hope the School Board will be responsive enough to allow us the time that is needed.

A RESPONSE FROM THE WRITERS

by Bill Rosenbloom and Carl Nelson

Rosenbloom comments: Inherent in the Rosenbloom proposal is an attempt to come up with a way to distribute fewer and fewer educational dollars while continuing to provide the best possible program for educating children.

Mr. Levitan is correct—some alternative programs may have to go. These will be the hard choices that parents may have to make as they set priorities for their children's education. It should be remembered, however, that if a program is really worthwhile—if it works for kids—the school community may find another way to fund it, whether it's securing federal or state monies, or by looking to foundations for financial support. Also, "special programs" are not to be confused with special education, SLBP, GLD programs, etc. Exceptions are provided in the formula that would allow those programs to continue.

Mr. Levitan goes on to charge that this proposal is "biased against small schools" because they get less money due to smaller enrollments.

The author of this proposal sees it as a way to help smaller schools stay open. The challenges to these schools are: to get more students from the private educational sector; to create low-cost magnet programs that will attract these students; to develop alternative methods of staffing and using community resources; and to develop outside funding sources to adequately finance the programs.

While this proposal may seem overly simplistic, variations of it have in fact been tried across the country. "School-based management" is being used in parts of Florida, Salt Lake City, Eugene, Ore. and Lansing, Mich.

At a recent conference in Denver sponsored by the National Committee for Citizens in Education, it was reported that "significant academic gains, a decrease in discipline problems, greater levels of parent, student and citizen participation, and high morale among the teaching staff were the fruits of school-based management."

Nelson comments: Mr. Levitan has made some reasonable criticisms. However, I would like to dispute one assumption implicit in his letter: that school buildings can be rated as a criterion of educational quality. Buildings are merely supporting facilities for educational programs. Only building characteristics that support those programs are relevant to the discussion, since buildings do not make quality schools—the people and educational materials inside them do.

Reducing expenses and using the money saved to augment educational programs is a more desirable course than keeping even a "good" building open.

The school district has more building space (and more expenses) than it needs. In the future it will need even less. We should quit wasting so much time and effort on questions that can be rather easily decided. Instead, we should put our energies—and the funds saved—toward developing even better quality education.

CHIROPRACTORS SEEK RESEARCH VOLUNTEERS

The International Pain Control Institute in conjunction with New York Chiropractic College is presently engaged in what is the most extensive research program ever undertaken by the chiropractic profession. This research is directed toward determining the relationship between health problems and spinal misalignments and utilizes a screening process called Contour Analysis.

Volunteers are being sought for screening. Contour Analysis enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortions, and scoliosis.

There is no charge to participating volunteers, since the doctors are contributing their time, service, and facilities for the program. Final processing and evaluation will be done at the New York Chiropractic College.

Anyone wishing to be a volunteer may telephone participating doctors directly for information or an appointment.

Two from St. Kate's win chamber award

Jacquelyn Crawford, director of the Women in Management program and member of the business administration department at the College of St. Catherine, has been named a winner of the 1978 Women in Achievement award by the West Suburban Chamber of Commerce.

Crawford, a St. Louis Park resident, was one of the 10 winners chosen from a group of 40 nominees from the western suburbs of the Twin Cities.

Also receiving the award was Jane Clifford, a federal employee and member of St. Catherine's board of trustees. Clifford, a resident of Hopkins and member of the CSC Class of '45, is a former president of the college's alumnae association.

Crime center, food co-op programs to head RHNA meeting

The board of directors of the Randolph Heights Neighborhood Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 21 at Calvary Lutheran Church, 341 So. Hamline Ave. The meeting is open to the public and area residents are invited to attend and participate.

The agenda for the meeting includes a presentation by representatives from the Crime Victim Crisis who will explain the kind of neighborhood services the center offers. In addition, a group of local residents interested in beginning a food co-op in the Randolph Heights area will be present to explain the concept and engage the support of the neighborhood.

The Randolph Heights Neighborhood Association is the citizens' organization serving the area of St. Paul from Randolph to Summit and from Snelling to the Shortline.

Orpheus Trio kicks off Schubert Club's Chamber Series

The Orpheus Trio will perform in the first concert of the Schubert Club's Chamber Music Series at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, November 9 in the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center at Macalester College.

The Orpheus Trio was organized six years ago by three alumni of the Music from Marlboro—Paula Robison, flutist, Scott Nickrenz, violist, and Heidi Lehwald, harpist.

The program features pieces by Debussy, C.P.E. Bach, Faure, Ravel, Andre Caplet, Francois Devienne and Fred Lerdahl.

Tickets are $7.00 and may be purchased at the Schubert Club office in room 300 of the Landmark Center, 75 W. 5th St.

Signups welcome at corps practice

The North Wind Drum and Bugle Corps invites people between ages 14 and 21 to "join up" by attending the group's rehearsal from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday, November 19 at St. Mark's Catholic Church, 1983 Dayton Ave.

The corps encourages amateur musicians to become members but also welcomes those who cannot play an instrument and would like to learn. For more information call director Jon Schrack at 690-2429.

Former Cretin gridders command starting spots on St. Thomas' turf

Though the road from Cretin High to the College of St. Thomas has always been well traveled, the dust kicked up three and four years ago still hasn't settled.

Three Cretin grads, Layne Hendel '74, Bill Hren

'75, and Mike Tierney '75, are all senior starters for the CST football team this year.

Hendel, 1861 Norfolk Ave., took the roundabout route from Raiderville to Tommytown. An all-state goaly for Cretin, Hendel accepted a hockey scholarship to St. Louis University. But his opinion of St. Louis U soured and after two weeks he was back on the streets of St. Paul.

The 6 foot 2, 200 pounder was all-conference for three years at Cretin in both football and hockey. When he enrolled at CST in 1975 he passed the puck and opted for the pigskin, filling the fullback position for the Toms.

Hendel, who will graduate at the end of the fall semester, has gained 862 yards on 211 attempts for an average carry of 4.1 yards during his CST career. As a freshman he led the Toms in receiving.

Bill Hren, 1157 Portland Ave., has had a rougher go of it than either of his Cretin classmates.

Never named all-conference as a prep, Hren, a 6 foot 2, 210-pound lineman, played his first two years at St. Thomas on the Junior Varsity. He missed his junior season when he tore some knee ligaments during pre-season training.

But Coach Deitz says Hren has "come on like gangbusters" this year. In the Toms' 14-0 loss to Concordia Moorhead, Hren led both teams with 16 tackles. He is CST's fourth-leading tackler with 51 take-downs this season.

Mike Tierney, 1879 Laurel Ave., a political science major, is the Toms' 6 foot 1, 200-pound tight end.

Named a Prep All-American by Coach and Athlete magazine after his senior year at Cretin, Tierney is St. Thomas' third-leading receiver with 19 catches for 193 yards and two touchdowns.

Except for Hren, who has one year of eligibility left, CST senior gridders have one game remaining in collegiate ball. The Toms catch a bus for Collegeville on Saturday, November 11 with hopes of unseating the defending conference champions, St. John's University.

Tranquillity and beauty are conveyed in Music Lesson, an 1879 oil painting by Frederic, Lord Leighton. Leighton is one of the four artists whose work will be exhibited in "Victorian High Renaissance," on view at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts beginning November 19.

Minneapolis Institute of Arts to open English Victorian exhibit

"Victorian High Renaissance," an exhibition of paintings, drawings and sculpture by four 19th-century English artists whose work exemplifies the "classical" movement in later Victorian art, begins Sunday, November 19 at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and will continue through January 7.

On view will be the paintings and drawings of George Frederic Watts, Albert Moore and Frederic, Lord Leighton and the sculpture of Sir Alfred Gilbert, works representing classical beauty and magnificence on the grand scale.

Watts, Leighton, Moore and Gilbert represent the most important and fascinating movement in Victorian art after Pre-Raphaelitism. Though not joined together in a formal group, they all passionately admired Greek sculpture and the Italian High Renaissance.

These interests combined to form an art which aimed not at realism or anecdote, but at the grace and perfection of antiquity, combined with the sumptuous color and monumental style of the High Renaissance.

The artists deliberately turned their backs on the mundane late-Victorian world of cities, factories and slums, instead seeking inspiration in the timeless world of Greek myths.

"Olympian" is the best word to describe their work: Olympian in scale, for many of the paintings are huge, and Olympian in feeling, creating a timeless and harmonious ideal of beauty.

Morrison's 'Impressions' now on view at Macalester College

Impressions, a collection of about 150 crayon rubbings by George Morrison of 2050 Stanford Ave., is now on view at the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center at Macalester College. The exhibition will hang through Saturday, November 19.

Morrison, who teaches at the University of Minnesota, makes rugged-appearing rubbings on paper from massive wood-relief collages. He uses mainly light to dark shades of brown to capture the grain and texture of the wood.

Morrison, a member of the Grand Portage band of the Minnesota Chippewa tribe, said his rubbings represent the "broadness of the landscape in terms of the rocks, ocean, land, sky and earth. They are fragments of that one big work."

The 59-year-old artist attended the Minneapolis School of Art (now the Minneapolis College of Art and Design) and in 1969 was awarded an honorary master of fine arts degree.

He has also attended the Art Students League in New York and the University of Aix-Marseille in France. He has received a Fulbright scholarship and a John Hay Whitney fellowship.

Morrison lived and worked in New York for 20 years and taught for seven years at the Rhode Island School of Design before moving to Minnesota. His works hang in many institutional and private collections as well as at the Walker Art Center, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York.

Turn-of-the-century costumes to get night at Opera Company

A wine-and-cheese reception and private showing of the original costumes worn by soprano Geraldine Farrar on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera between 1898 and 1922 have been set for 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 14 at the Minnesota Opera Company, 850 Grand Ave.

William C. Sowden, singer, actor and owner of the costumes, will narrate Farrar's biography, and Minnesota Opera Studio members will sing arias while modeling the gowns.

Farrar, one of the greatest sopranos of her time, became famous worldwide for her roles in Carmen, Tosca, La Boheme, Madama Butterfly and others.

Cost of admission is a membership in the Minnesota Opera Association ($7.00 annual, $15 family, $25 sustaining). If you're already a member, you're invited to bring a friend who is not.

For reservations or further information, call Mrs. Richard Adair at 374-9168.

'You Can't Take It With You' takes the boards at Chimera

You Can't Take It With You, Kaufman and Hart's Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy, has opened a five-week run at Chimera Theatre in the St. Paul Arts and Science Center, 30 E. 10th St.

Directed by Charles Nolte, You Can't Take It With You chronicles a week in the lives of the members of the eccentric, Sycamore household.

Eccentric? Well, Grandpa Vanderhof attends the funerals of strangers and collects snakes. His daughter Penny writes plays because a typewriter was delivered by mistake, while her husband, Paul Sycamore, creates firework displays in the basement with Mr. DePinna, who stopped to make a delivery years ago and stayed.

The Sycamore's daughter

Alice, who somehow turned out normal in spite of her family, invites the socialite parents of her fiancé to a dinner party that adjourns for a night in jail.

Chimera's production stars Jack Mitsch, 1788 Wellesley Ave., Cindy Lee Quilling, George McCulloch, Rondi Reed and Robert Turner.

The play is staged at 8:00 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and at 7:00 p.m. Sundays. Matinees are scheduled at 2:00 p.m. Sundays, November 19, 26 and December 3. There will be no performance on Thanksgiving Day.

For more information or reservations, call the Chimera box office at 222-0792 or purchase tickets directly at any Donaldson's ticket office.

Laura Glenn's 'Shores' premieres in Caravan Dance Co.'s fall show

The world premiere of "Shores" headlines Caravan Dance Company's fall performance which will be staged at 8:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, November 17 and 18 in the theatre at North Hennepin Community College, 7411 85th Ave. N.

Choreographed by Laura Glenn, formerly a leading dancer with the Anna Sokolow and the Jose Limon Co., "Shores" is based on Virginia Wolff's novel, The Waves.

The music for "Shores" was created by composer-percussionist Bill Buchen. Its unique sounds come from instruments hand-carved out of bones.

Also included in the program will be: Gary Turgeon's "A Door and a Sigh;" "Tuonela" by Fran Ouellette; and a group dance by Alice Bloch, co-artistic director of the company.

Tickets for the performance are $2.50, with discounts available for students and senior citizens. For more information, call 645-1194.

Located at 330 No. Prior Ave., Caravan Dance Company is the only professional dance troupe in St. Paul.

Teens ready set for 'Funny Girl'

The full-length Broadway version of the musical Funny Girl will be staged this week by 35 junior and senior high school students at the Jewish Community Center, 1375 St. Paul Ave.

Stephanie Tschida directs and choreographs the JCC Youth Department production of the life of comedian-singer Fanny Brice.

Curtain times are at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, November 9, 8:00 p.m. Saturday, November 11, and 7:00 p.m. Sunday, November 12. Tickets are $2.50 for adults, and $1.50 for students and retired persons.

Four premiere pieces to mark MDT Russian dance concert

On November 11, the Northrop World Dance Season and the Minnesota Dance Theatre will join to celebrate the Twin Cities Russian Arts Festival in a premiere-filled program entitled "Tributes to the Russian Dance."

Accompanied by live musicians under the direction of Saint Paul Chamber Orchestra conductor William McLaughlin, the Minnesota Dance Theatre will present four new works focusing on the beauty and depth of Russian dancers, choreographers and composers.

Galina Ulanova, the most famous Russian ballerina of this century, is expected to be in residence with the MDT to teach and coach the Snow Maiden pas de deux set to Tchaikovsky's First Symphony.

Loyce Houlton, MDT's artistic director, will choreograph two new pieces for the MDT repertory. The first, called Premonitions, is set to Symphony No. 2 by contemporary Russian composer Rodion Schedrin. The second, entitled Tributes, is described as a "mischievous romp" to Kabalevsky's third piano concerto.

The Minnesota Dance Theatre will also premiere its first George Balanchine work, Concerto Barocco. New York City Ballet dancer Sara Leland joined the MDT in September to teach this work.

Tickets are $8.00, $7.00, $6.00, $5.50 and $4.50 and are available at Northrop, Donaldson's and Dayton's.

'Hay Fever' blows onto U of M stage

The Punchinello Players will open their 64th season at the University of Minnesota at 8:00 p.m. Friday, November 3, with a production of the Noel Coward comedy Hay Fever, in North Hall theater on the St. Paul campus.

Tom Egeberg, a University theater senior, will direct the play about the theatrical Bliss family.

Performances will be at 8:00 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through November 18. Admission is $2.50 for the general public and $2.00 for students.

Pianist Klien to debut here with Minnesota Orchestra

Pianist Walter Klien, called one of today's greatest interpreters of Mozart, will appear for the first time with the Minnesota Orchestra in four performances this week: at 8:00 p.m. on Wednesday and Friday, November 8 and 10 in Orchestra Hall; at 8:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 11 in O'Shaughnessy Auditorium; and at an 11:00 a.m. coffee concert on Thursday, November 9 in Orchestra Hall.

The concerts will also feature the first performances by the orchestra of conductor Stanislaw Skrowaczewski's Music at Night. The work originated as a ballet score and was first performed in its present version last year at the Cabrillo (California) Music Festival.

The Austrian-born Klien, who has won many European piano competitions and has toured extensively throughout Europe, South America, South Africa, Japan and the Far East, will perform two Mozart concertos and Ravel's Rhapsodie Espagnole.

Free coffee and donuts will be served at the November 9 concert, which will be preceded at 9:50 a.m. by a Jackson Graves fashion show and a 10:30 a.m. speech by Mary Ann Feldman, program annotator for the orchestra.

For reservations call the Orchestra Hall box office at 371-5656 or any Dayton's ticket office.

Highland bookery hosts kids' author

In honor of Children's Book Week (November 13-19), the Highland Park library invites children and parents to meet children's author Judy Delton at a question-and-answer session at 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 14 at the library, 1974 Ford Pkwy.

Delton's first book for children, Two Good Friends, was published in 1974 and was named a Notable Book by the American Library Association. Her others include Rabbit Finds a Way, Three Friends Find Spring, and My Mom Hates Me in January. Her latest, Brimhall Comes to Stay, will be serialized next year in Cricket magazine.

A St. Paul native and graduate of the College of St. Catherine, Delton now lives in Hudson, Wisc. with her four children.

Bootleggers brought back for trial in Prohibition production

Prohibition is the potion from which a theatre performance has been fashioned for production in November and December at the Landmark Center, 75 W. 5th St.

The new play, written by Lance Belville and directed by Nancy E. Anderson, looks at Prohibition as it was lived by newspapermen, judges, attorneys and criminals who were there.

"There" in this case is the Old Federal Courts Building, now the Landmark Center, which was the site of the trial of one of America's biggest bootleggers.

Sponsored by COMPAS and the Landmark Center, the play portrays segments of that case and lesser known details of Prohibition based on research and interviews with people who lived during, and were involved with, Prohibition-related activity.

Some view the crime of those years as a result of Prohibition, when government forced a morality on an unwilling populace. The audience will have an opportunity to respond to that issue in light of their own experiences, past or present.

This play is the first in the COMPAS St. Paul History Theatre Project. Performances begin at 8:00 p.m. on November 30, December 1 and 8; at 1:30 p.m. on December 2; and 2:00 p.m. on December 10. Admission is $1.00.

For more information, call Kate Houston, director for the St. Paul History Theatre Project, at 292-3256.

Belfast councilman to speak at CSC

'Minnesota Memories' captured by kids in Photo City course Generation gap? The kids in Minnesota Memories never heard of it.

Offered by Photo City Learning Center of the St. Paul Public Schools, Minnesota Memories is a class based on people learning from people—specifically, high school students learning from "old-timers."

The students go into the community equipped with tape recorders and 35mm cameras to record conversations with long-time Minnesota residents. The guest may take them to the Highland Chateau nursing home to talk to St. Paul's first Winter Carnival queen or to a farm in southern Minnesota where Harvey Cartier still plows with Belgian horses. "Farming by horsepower," Harvey calls it.

The students might learn about what it was like to pitch to Babe Ruth from former Cleveland Indian hurler Tony Faeth. "The Babe never hit any home runs against me, but one time he did hit a line drive right by my ear," says Faeth.

According to Jerry Cromer, Photo City teacher and team leader, "The whole idea is that wonderful things happen when generations touch each other."

"This is an oral history class—a kind of living history. When students actually interview people about the way it used to be, they get a better sense of the world and of themselves."

The class is not restricted to interviews with residents over 70, however. "We take a lot of field trips," Cromer says. "Gibbs Living History Project, overnight riverboat trips, museums. We've even cut trees for log cabins up in Zimmerman. We go wherever we can learn something about our past culture."

Students at Photo City volunteer to participate in the Minnesota Memories class. Coming from all St. Paul public high schools, they spend half their day at the center, located in the Open School at 99 W. Central, or in the community working on projects.

"The Learning Center was designed to promote integration in a natural way, by letting students integrate on a volunteer basis," Cromer says. "When I say integration, it's not just racial - it's social, cultural, economic. It's ideas and abilities."

During the course, each student does three interviews and then picks the one he or she feels is the best. These go into a booklet called "Patchwork: Conversations with Minnesota People," which is sold through local bookstores.

"Seeing their names in print is a very important part of the satisfaction these kids derive from this course," Cromer says. "It really gives them a sense of pride and self-esteem."

"Of course, an oral history project like this is not without its problems. There was this 90-year-old guy we were interviewing who was just about the original truck driver. We got one interview with him. Then he died."

"Sometimes you don't act fast enough, and the memory is gone forever."

It's hard to improve on dependable oil heat...

Unless you install a new Mobil Jet-R Burner.

What is a Mobil Jet-R Burner? Well without getting too technical, it is one of the finest, most reliable oil burners ever developed. It is a smooth operating, quiet unit that produces total clean combustion. What's more, it gives optimum operating efficiency to generate more heat from every gallon of oil.

In addition, this compact little unit can improve the performance of practically all oil furnaces and boilers to provide a more modern, efficient total heating system.

It's one of the easiest burners to install, adjust and service. Combine that with its economical performance and you can look forward to lower home heating costs for years to come. Call us now for more information on the Mobil Jet-R Burner.

Historical society eases into new offices with new officers, grant

A $60,000 challenge grant was recently awarded the Ramsey County Historical Society by the National Endowment for the Humanities. The society has already matched the first $30,000 with $90,000 in local contributions.

NEH challenge grants must be matched at a three-to-one ratio by local contributions. To earn the full $60,000, the society must raise another $90,000 by June 30, 1981.

The society will use its grant for general operating expenses and to strengthen its financial support within the community.

The grant comes at a particularly opportune time for the society. It recently moved its administrative offices into the Landmark Center, opened a permanent exhibit in the center on the first 75 years of the Old Federal Courts Building, and has begun work on a long-range program based on the history of the metropolitan area.

At its recent annual meeting, the historical society elected several area residents to administrative positions and to the board of directors.

Officers who will serve during 1979 are: James A. Stolpestad, 796 Osceola Ave., president; Roger Swardson, 653 Goodrich Ave., second vice president; and Robert J. Kleinman, 1515 Summit Ave., treasurer.

Re-elected to the society's board of directors are: Joe Culligan, 752 Osceola Ave.; Stanley Shepard, 223 So. Avon St.; and Virginia Costello, 2177 Stanford Ave. Kenneth Kamstra, 2 Montcalm Hill, was elected as a new member to the board.

Citizen committee recommendations for closing 4 area public schools outlined

by Katherine Tarnowski

Ed. note: Few neighborhood issues in recent years have generated the intensity of emotion we've witnessed at meetings convened to discuss the closing of local public schools. Few issues have been as complex and fraught with as much misinformation and speculation.

In hopes of clearing the air a bit, the Villager invited Katherine Tarnowski, a Highland area resident and the League of Women Voters' representative to the St. Paul School Board's Citizens Long-Range Planning Advisory Committee (weighty title, that), to explain the whys and wherefores of that committee's recommendations.

It should be emphasized that the recommendations are only that. The final decision rests solely on the shoulders of the St. Paul School Board. The verdict must be in by December 1.

In 1976, the Minnesota State Legislature passed a law requiring school districts to develop five-year plans by 1978. This past August, the St. Paul school district's administration completed its long-range planning proposal, which included the closing of 14 schools by 1980.

The administration has contended that closings are a necessary cost-saving measure since many buildings presently are under-utilized due to declining enrollments. (See box on this page.)

Eight years ago there were nearly 50,000 students in St. Paul public schools; at present, there are approximately 35,000. The enrollment decline is expected to continue until the mid-1980's when the school-age population will drop to about 27,000.

The school administration has recommended closings both to save money and to improve the district's educational programs by making it possible to offer a wider range of courses in the remaining, larger schools.

In late August, the school board appointed a Citizens Long-Range Planning Advisory Committee to review the administration's plan. The committee, comprised of representatives from district councils, neighborhood associations, high school attendance areas, elementary cluster advisory boards, teacher and principal associations and city-wide organizations, was charged with making its recommendations to the school board in early November. The board must then adopt a long-range plan for the district by December 1.

It was decided by the committee that elementary schools built since 1971 should not be recommended for closing, nor should any older elementary school buildings presently housing at least two classrooms per grade.

The minimum size for an elementary school was set at 13 classrooms to provide an opportunity for grouping by ability, team teaching, better choice of teachers, greater availability of support staff, and the elimination of split grades.

The committee elected to look at all elementary buildings not meeting these two criteria for possible closing. In the southwestern section of the city, the buildings included Jefferson, Highland Elementary, Homecroft, Linwood Park, Horace Mann, Mattocks and Randolph Heights.

The committee examined these buildings in the light of their suitability for use as a consolidation site. The capabilities of each building housing 13 classrooms, a library, plus music, physical education, and special education programs was a key consideration in deciding which schools would be recommended for closing and which would be recommended as consolidation sites.

Other considerations included the buildings' age and condition, capital needs and commitments, operating cost, location, accessibility to public transportation, and whether or not the building had recently been involved in a consolidation.

After considerable discussion, the committee unanimously recommended the closing of Highland Park, Linwood Park and Mattocks, effective in the 1979-80 school year. It also recommended that the Jefferson program (grades K-6) remain open until that entire attendance area could be housed at Adams, and that all elementary learning centers be closed.

According to school district policy, white students in these schools would have the option of applying for transfers into the Hill-Longfellow continuous progress magnet, Webster Magnet, Benjamin Mays Learning Center, or the Open School. Options for minority students would include Groveland's language magnet program. Students may also transfer into other district buildings provided there is room and the transfer improves the racial balance in the chosen school and doesn't impair the balance at the home school.

Under the proposal adopted by the committee, the Highland Park attendance area would be divided at Montreal with the northern half going to Mann and the southern half going to Homecroft. The entire Linwood attendance area would be consolidated with Randolph Heights. The Mattocks attendance area would be divided at Randolph, with the northern half going to Groveland Park and the southern half going to Horace Mann.

These consolidations would result in an enrollment of 405 at Homecroft, 409 at Mann, 426 at Randolph Heights, and 465 at Groveland. The Long-Range Planning committee recommended that a study committee determine where the special education programs in these buildings, as well as those in the closed buildings, should be located. It was suggested that the elementary learning center spaces would be available for these special programs.

As for junior high schools, the committee recommended an optimum enrollment range of 500-800 students. The committee agreed that a school's ability to provide a range of courses from low achievement to high achievement levels is tied to the size of that building. And since a building's staff is related to the size of its enrollment, a small school may be unable to provide a wide range of courses.

Other considerations included location, age, condition and size of the building, cost of operation, and desegregation. The junior high buildings that the committee elected to examine as possible candidates for closing included Monroe, Murray, Ramsey and Wilson.

Monroe is a large building with a capacity of 934 students. Its present enrollment is 390. The building is designed for a traditional junior high program of considerable size.

Murray is presently a junior and senior high with a maximum capacity of 910 students. Murray is scheduled to become a junior high in 1979-80 when its senior high students will attend the newly remodeled Como Senior High.

The projected junior high enrollment for Murray next year is 340. It has a new addition housing a gym, swimming pool and science area. A new library is scheduled to be completed this fall.

Ramsey is a smaller building with a capacity of 647 students. Its current enrollment is 507. A new gym and library are scheduled to be completed at Ramsey this year.

Wilson is an older building in need of considerable capital improvements. Its enrollment is 486, capacity 743. The cost of remodeling Wilson was estimated at a minimum of $1 million by the district's Plant Planning and Maintenance Department.

The committee, after much deliberation, agreed to recommend the closing of both Ramsey and Wilson, even though it would leave no junior high located centrally in the western part of the city. Ramsey students would attend Monroe. It was suggested that in most cases, the Ramsey faculty probably could be transferred there also.

ferred there also.

It was agreed that the Wilson students and staff, where possible, should all be moved to one site in view of their unique, ungraded junior high program. However, no receiving school was designated.

In spite of Murray's remote location, the committee was in no mood to close the newly remodeled Murray and spend at least $1 million remodeling Wilson. The committee agreed that Ramsey and Monroe should be consolidated at Monroe because of the size and design of the Monroe facility.

It was stated that the Ramsey building would be a better building for a smaller program than a comprehensive junior high. There was no recommendation made for the future location of the Open School. That decision will be made by the Open

School and the public school administration at a future date.

The recommendations of the Citizens Long Range Planning Advisory Committee were presented to the school board on Monday, November 6. The school board will hold a public hearing on the proposal at 5:30 p.m. next Tuesday, November 14 in the school administration building, at which time citizens and groups may present their views and reactions. To be put on the agenda, interested persons should call 298-5900.

The school board will adopt the Long-Range Plan for the district after this hearing but before December 1. Before buildings are closed there will also be further hearings at each site.

Book, bagel sale

The Mt. Zion Temple Sisterhood will hold its annual Book and Bagel Sale from 6:00 to 10:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 11 and from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday, November 12 in Margolis Hall of the temple, 1300 Summit Ave.

All are invited to browse among the many categories of books available.

Lauding Lindsey

The Horace Mann School PTA will host a reception to honor Mrs. Deloris Lindsey on Monday, November 13 from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. at Mann, 2001 Eleanor Ave. Mrs. Lindsey served as secretary for both Mann and Edgumbe schools for 20 years. All friends and acquaintances are invited to drop by that afternoon to wish her well.

Human rights, U.S. foreign aid policy head program at Hamline

Human Rights and the United States Foreign Assistance Policy is the subject of the 37th annual Institute of World Affairs to be held on Thursday, November 9 in the Student Center Ballroom at Hamline University, Hewitt and No. Snelling Ave.

Guest speakers include journalist Don Luce, currently the international representative of Clergy and Laity Concerned; U.S. Representative Don Fraser, recent chair of the House subcommittee on international organizations; and Betsy Hartmann, an Indian studies scholar who lived for two years in Bangladesh.

The schedule for the program, which is free and open to the public, is as follows:

11:10 a.m. — Hartmann will discuss foreign aid for the rich and human rights for the ruling elite.

1:15 p.m. — Fraser will address freedom and human rights in the world: The trends and prospects.

2:30 p.m. — Luce will present United States policy and human rights in Asia.

All three sessions will be followed by questions and discussion from the floor.

An open discussion with an audio-visual presentation entitled United States policies: Their impact on human rights and economic development in the third world, will begin at 3:30 p.m.

Three Hamline faculty members will preside over the sessions: Sylvia Kerr, biology, Richard Kagan, history, and Donovan Hull, religion.

Vinyl siding is a barrier against heat and cold.

In winter, vinyl traps heat in and keeps cold air out. In summer, less heat penetrates.

Metal sidings allow heat and cold to penetrate more than vinyl.

Vinyl Siding by VIPCO
"New Horizons in Home Siding"

In tests conducted by the American Society for Testing and Materials, vinyl provided 24.8% more insulation against heat and cold than metal siding.

Next Issue — November 22

Deadline — November 15

"Will the winner of this maroon 1979 Chevrolet Chevette, no license plate number, please attend the Cretin High School SPAFF Festival this Saturday, November 11? Your keys are in the ignition and the car is ready to be driven out the door." That's right, though the lucky winner doesn't have to be present to win, if he is he'll drive away in compact comfort, compliments of Cretin. The 10th annual SPAFF Festival (for Students, Parents, Alumni, Friends and Faculty) begins at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Tickets may be purchased from the school, from any Cretin student, or at the door on Saturday night.

Cretin theatrics to satirize days of Old Frontier

The Death and Life of Sneaky Fitch, a modern satire on the Old West, will open on Friday, November 17 at the Cretin High School auditorium, 495 S. Hamline Ave., and run through Monday, November 20. All performances will start at 8:00 p.m.

The production includes the following cast members: Dominic Lagos, Paul Heaney, Steve Clark, Steve St. George, Jim Kettner, John Countryman, Jim McManus, Peggy O'Neill, Helen Arend, Janelle Dahmen and Christine Roberto.

Gary Heisserer directs and Roger Julkowski and Roger Wolf provide production assistance.

Tickets cost $1.00 in advance and $1.50 at the door.

Saturday to be a postman's holiday

Saturday, November 11 (Veterans' Day) is a postal holiday and no regular residential or business mail will be delivered. Lobby windows also will be closed. All mailbox pickups will be made at 2:00 p.m. or later.

However, special-delivery and Express Mail, Next Day to Addressee service will be available.

Customers can obtain stamps, stamped envelopes, postcards, scales and rate charts at one of the 19 self-service centers now open around the clock in the Twin Cities area, including the Elway Station on West 7th.

Winterize your home.

You winterize your car. Why not your home? It's simple enough that you can do some of it yourself. And winterizing prevents heat loss, so you'll save yourself some energy.

Lets start at the top.

Your attic. Maybe it needs insulation. If your ceiling joists are showing, you need more insulation. (NSP recommends a total R-value of 38.) Once you've checked your insulation, you can do one of two things: Call a qualified contractor in to do the job for you. Or do the job yourself. In either case, call NSP and we'll give you the answers or the help you need.

Now, about your windows and doors...

Even the most inexperienced do-it-yourselfer can reduce heat loss around windows and doors by weatherstripping and caulking up drafty leaks. All you need are some relatively inexpensive materials (available at your hardware store or building supply dealer), some tools you probably already have, and a little time.

Tune-up your furnace.

No kidding. You can cut 5% off your heat use by having your furnace tuned-up at least every two years by a qualified heating contractor.

And you can keep it running efficiently by checking the filter each month and cleaning or changing it when necessary.

Two more quick suggestions.

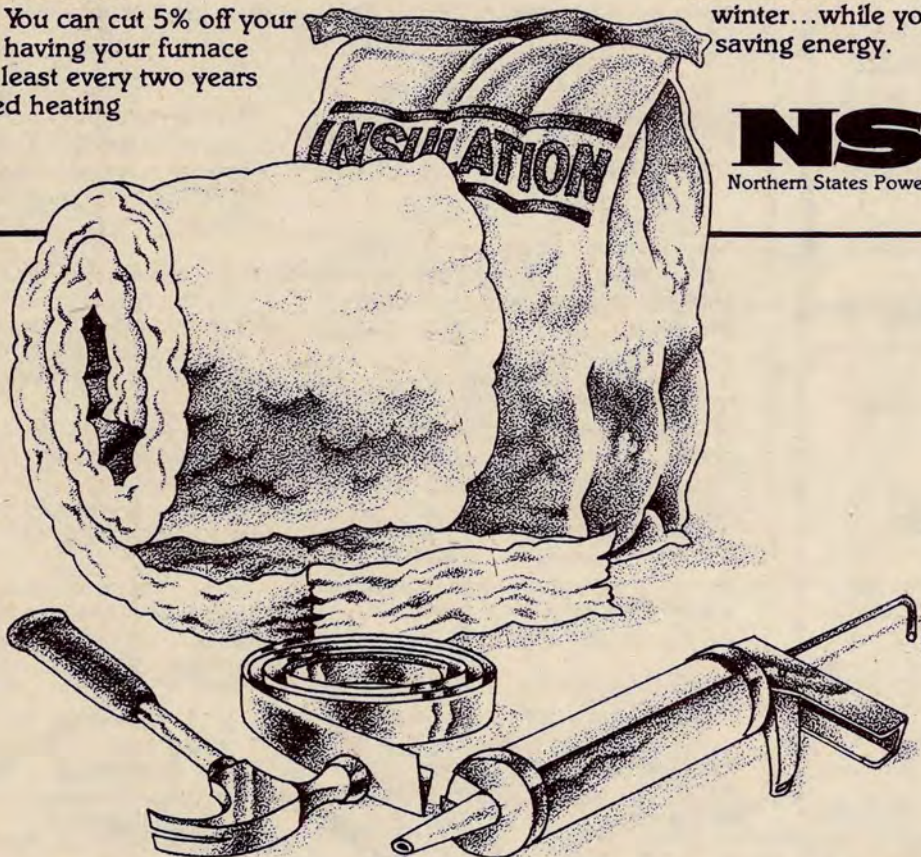

Keep your thermostat as low as is comfortable this winter. But remember: the lower you set it, the more energy you save. Turn it down 5 to 8 degrees when you're sleeping or away from the house for even greater savings. You can even buy an automatic clock thermostat for convenience.

And lower the thermostat on your water heater to medium setting or 140°.

Any questions? Just ASK NSP.

There are other things you can do to winterize your home. And there are specific things you should know before you tackle any of the projects you've just read about. So if you need more information...or if you have any questions...just call 330-6000 and ASK NSP. (If you live outside the Twin Cities area, call collect 0-612-330-6000.) We'll be glad to help you make your home warmer and more comfortable this winter...while you're saving energy.

We've got it AUTOMATIC TRANSFER SERVICE!

Saves you an extra trip to the bank or telephone call to transfer funds—it will be done AUTOMATICALLY.

Now you can earn interest on your 5% savings account.

...and money won't be transferred to checking until you need it.

Another opportunity to make more interest on your savings.

We've got what you're looking for in savings and checking account services.

This new service offers our depositors a chance to earn interest on money that might otherwise sit idly in a checking account. What does it require? Only that you carry (or open) two accounts with us—one savings and one checking account . . . and a signed authorization by you—the customer—that you want to avail yourself of this service. Transfers are made in $100 increments. Ask us about Automatic Transfer Service . . . find out whether you can benefit in terms of extra earnings on now-idle resources.
