RELIGION

Gloria Dei

"Supreme Court, Seven Women on Trial" is the title of a dramatic monologue to be given by Mrs. Stephen Diller for the Oct. 2nd luncheon of the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church Women. Mrs. Diller is the wife of the pastor of Chapel Hills United Church of Christ of Edina. The luncheon will begin at 12:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of Gloria Dei. This is a story of seven women who have died in a bus crash.

Devotions will be given by Mrs. Robert Hanzel. Reservations should be made by September 29.

St. Thomas

The Catholic School Press Association has honored Saint Thomas Academy's 1969 yearbook, KAYDET with an All-Catholic rating. The All-Catholic rating is the highest title the Catholic School Press Association bestows on yearbooks. Yearbooks are judged in six major areas. The KAYDET took top honors in four areas (excellent) and second place in two (good).

Student co-editors-in-chief for the 1969 KAYDET were Peter J. McCall of 1374 Fairmount Avenue, Saint Paul and Timothy J. Edman of 2 Dorset Road, West Saint Paul. Faculty moderator of the KAYDET is Mr. Thomas B. Mich of Saint Paul.

Christian Service Women

Thursday, October 9, is the date for the Country Fair Bazaar and Dinner sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service at Fairmount Avenue United Methodist Church, 1523 Fairmount Avenue. Featured will be Kate's Country Store, Polly's Pantry, Knick Knack Korner, Nellie's Needlework Nook, Post Office, and Gertrude's Gift Shop.

Bazaar booths will be open 4-9 p.m. A roast beef dinner Thursday, September 25, 1969 will be served from 5-7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Paper Drive

The Youth Group of People's Highland Park United Church of Christ (562 So. Snelling Avenue) is having a paper drive on Saturday, October 25th, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and will pick up your papers. Please call 698-5033.

CDC-Summit-Uni Assembly Experiment

A DASHING "GO-EVERYWHERE"

We are thrilled about the versatility of our hairfashions. All are designed so they are appropriate and pretty enough to go everywhere, 24 hours a day. They can be worn by all age groups with only slight individual modifications. We design for the TODAY PEOPLE. We look at today's styles, the social and economic world our patrons live in, and each woman's separate gifts. A change is nice, even important for patrons inclined to stick too slavishly to an old favorite style, but when we hit the correct personality mood it makes sense to stay with it. At least until there is a drastic change in style trends.

TINY TOWN STYLES

With the reopening of schools our Tiny clients are most important to us now. We don't want you to forget that we like children and we like designing Tiny Town Hairstyles. We know that it gets pretty wild around here when we are very busy, but if you have a little girl in the house, bring her along sometimes. How else is she ever going to know how Mommy stays beautiful.

WIGS, WIGLETS & FALLS

Are the modern accessory that a woman can depend on for good grooming at any time almost instantly. If you become used to know how to utilize your wig or hairpiece you are fortunate. If not, or if for some reason your wig is uncomfortable or not flattering to you, obviously you won't wear it. Do not discard it. Bring it in—we will correct the trouble no matter what your problem may be.

THE ARTS

Art Fair in the Village Friday and Saturday

This weekend over 200 area and Upper Midwest artists will exhibit for sale on the sidewalks of Highland Village in the 2nd Annual Highland Art Fair. The event is sponsored by the Highland Civic Ass'n in conjunction with the St. Paul Art Center School. The school will be the beneficiary of the artists registration fees in the form of art scholarships and artists materials badly needed for the school program.

Ron Bacigalupo, Village Publisher, and his wife Charleen are co-chairmen of the event. "This year we expect more artists and more people to attend the fair," said Bacigalupo. "Art Fairs are booming all over America as thousands of people from every walk of life are either art craftsmen or buyers of art."

In addition to the fair exhibits, refreshment stands, a live band from 1 p.m. till 4 p.m. on Saturday and a special performing exhibit of potters and painters by the St. Paul Art Center School will highlight the event. The St. Paul Art Center School will exhibit their live art displays in front of Field Schlick, Cleveland & Pinehurst.

In the event of rain, the fair will be held as scheduled, since most exhibiting areas are under cover.

The Highland Civic Association is a group of Highland Village Merchants which annually sponsor events of community interest and progressive impact on the greater Highland area.

'U' Theatre Season To Open With Satire

A satire on the contemporary world, depicting the horrors of regimentation, will open the University of Minnesota Theatre's Scott hall season this year.

"The Insect Comedy," written by Josef and Karel Capek and first produced in 1921, will be presented Nov. 7 through Nov. 16 under the direction of Professor Frank M. Whiting, director of the University Theatre.

Other plays in the Scott hall series will be Chekov's "The Sea Gull," "Servant of the Masters" by Carlo Goldoni, "The Thursday, September 25, 1969

Children's Art Classes To Begin at 'U' Oct. 4

Saturday art classes for children ages 5 to 10 will be offered at the University of Minnesota for 10 weeks beginning Oct. 4.

The classes will meet from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. every Saturday at the Institute of Child Development on the University's Minneapolis campus.

The sessions are planned to provide opportunities for teachers and students to experiment with various new art materials and methods of instruction in art.

Professor Clifton Gayne, chairman of the University's art education department, is supervisor of the program. Classes are coordinated by Mrs. Ardis Norberg and taught by graduate students in art education.

Registration materials and further information can be obtained from Mrs. Helen Dickson, Institute of Child Development, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455. Telephone 373-2219.

A fee of $10 is charged for the series. Children who have not previously attended an art class at the Institute will be enrolled first.

New Theatre In St. Paul

People who mourned the passing of St. Paul's Eastside Theatre will be cheered by plans for the formation of a successor theatre company in the Capitol City. Scott McCoy, who served as Artistic Director at Eastside from 1966 until its closing performance in June of this year, has announced plans for the continuation of that theatre's tradition in a new building at the corner of Victoria and Portland in the Summit Avenue area.

Under the new name, Chimera (Ki-mair'-a) Theatre Company of St. Paul, McCoy and his group of former Eastsiders expect to continue the same artistically flexible production methods that brought them recognition as the most popular and successful theatre in St. Paul.

A kick-off drive to raise funds for the theatre began Saturday, Sept. 6 with an open house in the proposed new building. Several leading foundations have already offered support, and Director McCoy has set December 1st as the projected opening date for Chimera Theatre if public support continues to be enthusiastic. Persons interested in donating either time or funds to assist in the remodeling of the building are urged to contact McCoy at the theatre's temporary offices, 257 University Avenue in St. Paul. The telephone number is 222-0792.

Adventures in Music Season Announced

Guitarist-singer Mason Williams, the Ramsey Lewis Trio and "singalong" guest conductor Mitch Miller will all make their debuts on this year's Minnesota

Orchestra "Adventures in Music" season, it was announced today. The Sunday afternoon 10-concert series featuring the Orchestra and top stars of the entertainment world, opens at 4 p.m. on Sunday, October 12, with a performance by Mason Williams and the Orchestra under the baton of music director Stanislaw Skrowaczewski.

The series will also bring back several pops "greats" who have drawn large audiences in previous seasons: jazz-classical guitarist Charlie Byrd, guest conductors Andre Previn and Andre Kostelanetz, and duopianists Ferrante & Teicher.

The first local performance of the comedy-ballet "Graduation Ball," with music by Johann Strauss, will be presented in a completely staged and costumed production by the Minnesota Dance Theatre, directed by Loyce Houlton. Two programs on musical themes are planned: one called "Music of the Theatre," featuring composers Rodgers 1b Hammerstein and starring local soloists, and "Music by the Romantic Masters," an orchestral program including a full performance of Tchaikovsky's popular Symphony No. 4, with associate conductor George Trautwein on the podium.

String Auditions

Amateur string performers are invited to audition for the Chamber Orchestra of the Colleges of St. Catherine and St. Thomas. Membership is not restricted to students of these colleges and is open to all qualified amateur musicians.

"Welcome" Show

Car Craig and Marcus Hemphill, "The Pair Extraordinaire," Welcome Week show headliners at Northrop Auditorium, Saturday, September 27 at 8 p.m. go against the current trend in popular music, theirs is essentially happy music.

Looking objectively at the world they see the attitudes and actions of men as the cause of most of the discomforts that beset mankind today.

They feel that positive attitudes conveying happiness and love make a contribution—however small—towards a solution to the problem and their 338 song repertoire reflects this.

However, it is not only their "think positive" attitude that makes them so unusual. The combination of a singer, Carl Craig, backed solely by a stringed bass player, Marcus Hemphill, is unique in the entertainment world.

With The Pair for the Welcome Week program is a new group, Food, that has a best selling album, "Forever is a Dream," going well for them as well as having produced the sound tracks for two recently released movies.

Schubert Club 1969-70 Concert Series

An extra concert, a new concert hall and new links to other Twin Cities theaters, colleges and music groups will mark the 1969-1970 Schubert Club Evening Concert Series.

The Schubert Club, which has been presenting concerts in St. Paul for 88 years, will expand this year from a four to a five concert season. The first two concerts will be held in the St. Paul Auditorium Theater and the final three will be in the new St. Catherine's College Auditorium, designed by the architect who designed the award-winning St. Benedict's concert hall.

The season opens October 18 with the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, a group which presents the heritage of the American Negro through the medium of modern dance. The music is jazz, blues and spirituals. The group comes to the Twin Cities for the first time after highly successful concerts on four continents, including one in Hamburg which received an unprecedented 61 curtain calls. Their appearance in the Twin Cities is part of a cooperative effort among various local colleges and dance groups to bring a season of dance to the Twin Cities.

Other Schubert Club concerts will present pianist Rudolf Firkušny on February 3, contralto Birgit Finnila on March 4 and 24-year-old violinist Itzhak Perlman on April 2. The final concert, on April 18, will present a young musician on the threshold of a successful career. It is hoped that this concert will be equivalent to the Schubert Club's 1928 presentation of another unknown musician, Vladimir Horowitz, whose concert, according to the papers, caused "a well-behaved riot."

Further information and tickets for the season are available at the Schubert Club office, 30 East Tenth street, St. Paul 55101, telephone 222-6122.

"Sleepy Hollow"

Out of the midnight black of Sleepy Hollow rides the Headless Horseman in Fred Gaines' dramatization of Washington Irving's classic tale of early America, for the first presentation of The Children's Theatre Company at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts beginning October 11. Under the direction of John C. Donahue, this opening play, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," is filled not only with Halloween frights, but with the warm tale-telling Dutchman who loved but belabored Ichabod Crane.

The second play of this fifth anniversary season will be "Cinderella," under the direction of Bainbridge Boehlke, opening November 29.

Other plays to follow are: "Kidnapped in London" in the days of Shakespeare's England; "Good Morning, Mr. Tillie," a revival of John Donahue's original play using music and mime; and "Alice in Wonderland."

In addition to the season's five regular productions will be two short works intended to delight a younger audience. "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" and "Little Red Riding Hood" will be presented together on alternate Saturday mornings at 11 a.m. except during "Cinderella." These will begin on October 18.

Youth organizations, classes and parent associations are invited to bring groups of 20 or more. They will receive a group discount ticket rate. Groups making advance requests may remain after the performance for a demonstration of the work of the theatre company. The director and members of the theatre staff such as lighting technician, set designer, musical director, make-up artist, propmaster, costumer and wigmaker will demonstrate the various techniques employed in play production.

Background and bibliography material is available in advance for teachers and group leaders. Speakers are also available to present slide-talks covering technical aspects of play production and a history of Children's Theatre productions. This service is free of charge. To reserve speakers or for other information call 336-2920.

Mentally Retarded

Children with mental and physical handicaps began their fourth session September 15 at Laurel Day Activity Center, Inc., in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1895 Laurel Avenue, St. Paul. Some openings still exist beginning October 1, in the special classes designed for trainable young people ten to nineteen years of age. Information can be obtained by calling the Center, 646-5935.

Girl Scouts To Hear "Environmental" Talk

"Now Nature . . ." is the title of a talk on environmental problems to be given by Mrs. Marvin Spears, 917 Lakeview, when she addresses Girl Scout volunteers in Area VI on October 2nd in Plymouth-Macalester Church at 7:30 p.m.

A booklet on ecology, being produced by Mr. Wesley Fischer, University of Minnesota, under the direction of Mr. Richard Barthelemy, Director of Education at the Museum of Natural History, will be presented to Girl Scout leaders attending the meeting. They will be given an opportunity to make comments and suggestions on its contents before it is published for use with troops. Material in the booklet covers a walk through meadow, forest, marsh, and a man's walk in nature. Contents of the booklet were gathered by Mr. Fischer during the summer at Camp Lakamaga, a council-owned camp on Big Marine Lake. He acted as an environmental studies resource person for the camp this summer.

The evening's program will also include a talk by Senior Scout Gretchen Flaten, 1337 Galvin, who will tell of her experiences this summer as participant in Outward Bound. Issues to be considered at the National Council meeting of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. in Seattle, Washington, October 19 to 22, will also be discussed.

Mrs. Fredrick Helmer 616 South Lexington Parkway, is Area VI Chairman. Registered Girl Scout adults from the West Summit, Ramaho and Highlanders service units make up the membership of Area VI.

LeVander's Stand On Pollution Lauded

For those of us still running around working our destinies out on this ball—Governor LeVander's stand on water pollution is most heartfelt. Not particularly that any of us will live a minute longer rather than the problem on this earth is cumulative and our Governor has said, in effect, that this is where the bucket stops! The bucket of course is the inordinant amount of baloney being perpetrated on the public by the greed inspired Power Companies. They are slow moving and methodical operators on all but profits, and when they set their caps to rationalize pollution one can only wonder how far behind "big brother" lurks. Three cheers for LeVander. His stand against NSP might convince a lot of Minnesotans that beneath this simple man lies a keen wisdom no matter what his political image might be.

High School Bus Fracas . . .

One of the tragedies of the "bus program" of Blacks to White High Schools, is that after all the uptight liberal program project developers dwell sufficiently on utopia, their programs generally create a chaos worse than hell for everybody concerned. At the risk of being swamped with high sounding mail from mothers and fathers of white daughters (I have three myself), the simple fact is that white teen age girls are accepting Black men at every level of their social interaction and white men are lagging in their enthusiasm for Black women. This was proved conclusively in the South when in the early days of Civil Rights movements, thousands of Northern college students staffed local offices and began to interact socially and sexually with their black counterparts. As on the Snelling Avenue buses this week, black women were the first to notice the inequity of the "helping hand" program. They raised cain. They should have. It is bad enough I think that poor kids should be made to associate with rich kids, worse that one group is black, the other white, and ridiculous for anybody to think that what is going on is a racial problem. It's a competition ego involved good old fashioned catfight between guys and gals and who's going to talk to who in the hallway with their best smile or their worst glowering look. Until somebody wises up and builds schools of equal quality in all economic neighborhoods, it isn't going to make any difference who is black, white, purple or golden. Bus programs are a flop for many reasons—the least of which is racial. These kids are not prejudiced, they're just kids.

Influence Peddlers . . .

One of the crass jokes about City Government is that you gotta do business with a handful of influence peddling lawyers and public relations men in order to have your way with a City Council vote. If you've ever attended a Council meeting, you'll find the citizens present the strongest cases for what is right and wrong down there, while the lawyers more or less tell everybody exactly what everybody expected them to say in the first place. All the behind the scenes work that clients pay for amounts to office visits and phone calls that any idiot could make if he's got a case. It seems the influence peddler's sinister implication here is that a vote can be bought. That's rarely true. What you buy when you pay City Hall influence peddlers is a lot of "big deal" activity and legalese over a case which is not a case because it doesn't take place in a court, and you and your friends and neighbors are the jury to begin with.—Ron Bacigalupo, PUBLISHER.

thru rosemary's glasses

by Rosemary A. Camp

American cooks are being challenged to become more creative and to break away from the simple, but boring freezer (can or package) to stove to table routine.

And many women are discovering—with the gentle prodding by (of all things) a major soup company—that the line between the two is a fine line, indeed. And, perhaps, most exciting is that so many women are taking the hint and crossing over the line.

The soup company is inviting cooks to put the "you" back in cooking. Obviously, they aren't suggesting that canned, packaged or frozen foods be used less. That would put them out of business. Rather, they are urging us to personalize their mass produced products. After all, anyone can serve the kids tomato soup. It's what you add—maybe real tomatoes—that makes the difference and gets raves from the family.

In Europe mealtime is an exciting occasion. For many Americans it is treated as a mere necessity.

Practically speaking, our hectic American pace of life doesn't give us enough time to prepare a four course meal each day. On the other hand, there is simply no excuse for boredom in even the simplest concoction.

It's as easy as—well—as putting real tomatoes in tomato soup. Or searing green peppers and adding them to macaroni and cheese spread. Or adding chopped onions and mushrooms to quick rice. Or serving an English muffin instead of toast with bacon and eggs.

It's up to you—and your imagination! And that's what makes it fun. Cooking can be kept quick and simple. And with just a little extra thought, mealtime becomes an exciting time.

It's like putting honest-to-goodness peppermint candy in pink peppermint flavored ice cream. Everyone loves it and they always remember where they got it.

Area Theater, a project of the educational TV station KTCA, opens its first season October 9 with the productions of Judgment Day by Elmer Rice. The company's main purpose, says Joseph T. McDermott, is to bring living theater back to the Arts and Science Center.

Between October and March Area Theater will present six plays. Actors and actresses will be selected from local talent. Whenever possible, experienced directors will be hired.

Judgment Day, a play dealing with man's fight against oppression, is being directed by Hollywood actor Hugh Beaumont. Beaumont is best known for his role as the father on the television series Leave It To Beaver. Ever since he married a Minnesota girl (the former Kathryn Hohn), Beaumont and his family have vacationed in the northern part of the state. As a result of his frequent visits here, he has become acquainted with many local theater people. And now he has agreed to help launch Area Theater's first season.

Each production, with the exception of a children's play scheduled for December, will run every Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday for a month each.

Ticket prices are being kept down—$2—says McDermott, to make Area Theater available to as large a cross section of people as possible.

Beginning in November, Area Theater will present Any Wednesday, September 25, 1969

nesday by Murie Resnik; in December, Andy and the Friendly Lion, an original play produced and directed by Allen Lorensen; in January, Shakespeare's MacBeth, produced primarily for high school students studying the play in English classes; in February, Wait Until Dark, a modern mystery; and in March, an original play yet to be selected.

Helen, Harold Shapira Mark 30 Years in Area

Celebrating their 30th year of business and service in St. Paul's Highland Park, Helen and Harold Shapira, founders and operators of Highland Drug Center and Shapira's Gifts, are still taking on new challenges and shooting toward further achievements.

Following recent completion of a $150,000 remodeling of his drug store, Shapira declared, "Highland Drug Center is definitely a store of the future. We've just added a personalized invitation service and have been awarded exclusive franchises for this area in several lines including toys, cosmetics, patient aids, photographic products and China ware."

So impressive is the "newlook" of Highland Drug Center, located at 2056 Ford Parkway, that several nationally-known firms have sent representatives to look it over and in one case, the president of a famous cosmetics concern came for a personal inspection, Shapira said.

Looking ahead has long been a hallmark of Shapira's way of doing business. In 1939, when he first opened his drug store in Highland Park, the area was barren territory, Shapira recalled. "We had to sweep away the tumbleweeds from the entrance to our little (2,400 square feet) store," he laughed. "My friends said I was insane. There were even farms on adjacent lands."

But, Shapira, who says he has always welcomed challenges, was confident the area, then in its initial stages of development, would prosper. "I could see that St. Paul was about to expand and I knew the Highland area had great potential," he said.

(Shapira's pioneering traits may well have been inherited from his parents. Moses and Lena Shapira came to St. Paul in the 1880's and for a time farmed the area which eventually became Summit Avenue. They later moved to Duluth where Harold was born, one of 11 children. The family later settled in International Falls, Minnesota.)

When they started out in Highland, after previously operating drug stores at Fourth and St. Peter in St. Paul and in the Wesley Temple building in Minneapolis, Helen and Harold found themselves busier than the proverbial one-armed paperhangers.

"I was one of two pharmacists, did the buying, selling, hiring, bookkeeping—even the display windows, deliveries and janitorial work," Shapira noted. He also served as Highland Park's first postmaster.

At the same time, Helen operated a gift shop, assisted with the merchandising and sales, and performed a multitude of other functions in the drug store, Harold added.

Highland Drug Center then employed 11 people, had a payroll of $20,000 and gross sales of about $90,000, Shapira said. "But in those post-depression days, Helen and I often couldn't draw our own salaries which were $15 and $25 respectively," he added.

Shapira believes that his insistence on absolute honesty and integrity in serving the public plus his and Helen's strong drive for success accounts for the success of Highland Drug Center and Shapira's Gifts, "Helen's importance can't be emphasized enough," Shapira stated. "She's a very devoted wife and I feel that our 30 years of working together has made our achievement possible."

Other factors including "our high quality of merchandise, a well-informed sales staff capable of answering customers' questions, competitive prices, free charge and delivery services, trading stamps and a homey atmosphere in the store" also have played important parts in the Shapiras' success story, Harold added.

In addition, there's the personal touch.

"I make it a point to know my customers by name," he said. This could prove a difficult feat in a store as large 10,000 square feet) and as busy (75 employees) as Highland Drug Center but Shapira manages to do it.

What's more, he still personally interviews all new key personnel and opens all the mail. "Whenever there's a criticism I want to know about it and correct what's wrong immediately," he said.

Highland Drug Center has also served as a fertile training ground for younger pharmacists, some of whom have become doctors, others who have opened their own stores, Shapira said. "I'm proud to see that they've followed the high standards of retailing they learned at Highland," Shapira said of his former employees.

Those Wedding Bells are giving me a headache

Posed as a hypothetical: one boy, one girl, one dozen friends, and what happens? A wedding of course.

Very recently, my wife and I were invited to a wedding. The bride is a friend of hers. Due to the fact that the entire population of St. Paul was invited, the site of the wedding was not at the bride's church, but had to be held in one of the suburban biggies. (In case you weren't invited, please contact me and I'll send you the entire ceremony on video tape.) Although the church was large, it was quite antiquated.

As the bride moved down the aisle, the congregation rose and each respective pew gave a groaning sigh of relief. Once the 15 people were on the "stage," the crowds sat down and the floor belched carpet tacks which subsequently scared the pew out from under me.

The minister gave a charge to the couple meaning a "wake me up when its over" wedding. The thundering herd awoke me.

The scene at the country club was beautiful. It looked like a crowd gathering at the stage door of the St. Paul Auditorium waiting to catch a glimpse of the Crusher or Vern Gagne. One difference. The women were dressed in mink. While waiting for the honored guests to arrive, my wife joined her friends and I joined their husbands in a few hearty toasts to the now fallen groom. "Where are they goin' on their honeymoon?" I asked cautiously. "Who cares? (chug)" came the response. "Shouldn't you? You are the groom's brother aren't you?" "Yup. (He comes from a small farm community near Piedmont, Arkansas.) Who the h--- are you?" "I work for a newspaper," said I. "Oh . . . I think they're going someplace classy, like the Rochester Airport Motel and Grill for a couple of weeks."

At this point I couldn't take much more of this nonsense. At least not sober. Again I joined some of my colleagues for a few more glasses of the supposed-to-be-but-not-so-sparkling liquid refreshment being served by the drooling waitresses. My young friend (a doctor to be) would virtually attack the on-coming tray with the words of W. C. Fields, "They're so small, I think I'll partake in two. Thank you my dear." Between four of us we maintained a bus boy for about an hour and a half. Each trip from the kitchen he increased his grin as he approached. "Have you had as many as you are years old yet?" "No," I said, "but if you keep watering the booze, I'll be able to walk away from my grandmother's age with no difficulty."

The moment arrived. The bride and groom led off the circus parade and the autograph seekers jumped them as soon as they walked through the door. "Oh, my dear, how are you, you look wonderful." "My girdle is killing me. Get off my train." The groom at this point was carried off to the bar where for the next two hours, he sang fraternity songs with his friends.

The bride and groom were about to leave when the photographer noticed a third person in the center of the would-be photograph. It was my doctor-to-be friend slumped over on the steps leading to the get-away car. "Are you all right?" I asked. "Yup (he's from Minneapolis). I'm fine. Would you tell these people to not walk over me? It doesn't help my equilibrium one bit." So I sat down on the step next to him and made the bridal pair walk around us.

The crushing blow was delivered. There was not one tin can, smoke bomb, or streamer to be seen. For years I can remember spreading limburger cheese on the manifold of the get-away car. Whatever happened to those good old days when after the shock of being wed had essentially died, it was replaced by the trauma of "take the car to the garage to have the distributor wire reinstalled," or "take the bride for a ride in your cropduster while the groom figures out a way of getting the car off the cement blocks?"

Since the bridal pair retired there was nothing more to do but retreat to the bar before the bride's father cut off the supply. Only fifteen minutes expired before the bar closed and our wives drove us home . . .

Barry Bonoff Succeeds Father At Jackson Graves

Barry Bonoff, who has been vice-president, succeeds his father, Joseph, as president of Jackson-Graves Stores, Inc., a five-store twin cities women's high fashion specialty operation.

Joseph Bonoff will become chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Barry, with the firm for 12 years also has been buying sportswear, a post he will relinquish.

Jackson-Graves, Inc. is a 45-year-old firm which was purchased 30 years ago by Joseph Bonoff from the estate of Abe Shapiro.

The store originally purchased is located at 904 Nicollet Mall. Expansion since then has been the opening of stores in Brookdale, Southdale, Har-Mar and Highland Village, St. Paul.

C of C Minority Seminar Awards

Walter V. Dorle, president of the Saint Paul Chamber and Northwestern State Bank, announced today that five Saint Paul minority business owners have been awarded scholarships to a business and industrial management seminar by the Saint Paul Area Chamber of Commerce.

The scholarship is worth $30. for seven classroom sessions and a banquet, said Dorle.

Five Negroes awarded the scholarships are, Maurice Jones, Bussmann's, 674 University Avenue; Robert Lewis, Lewis & Sons Upholstery & Mfg. Co., 542 Selby Avenue; Ron Pauline, Ron's Thing, 1661 Grand Avenue; James Thomas, Louisiana Restaurant, 617 Selby Avenue and Merle Harris, Selby House, 184 North Dale Street.

The management seminar sponsored by the Saint Paul Chamber in cooperation with the Northern Natural Gas Company is for operators of small and medium businesses and industries, said Dorle. It is now in session one night a week at the Lowry Hotel and will end

Thursday, September 25, 1969

October 22 with an awards reception and banquet, he said.

Registration is still open for the continuing management conferences and information can be obtained from the Saint Paul Chamber of Commerce. The next seminar will be at the Lowry Hotel, September 24, at 7:30 p.m.

Control Data Introduces Alpha Computer Family

Control Data Corporation today demonstrated its new ALPHA family of computers, designed to meet the military requirements of the early 1970's, at the Air Force Association Show in Washington's Sheraton Park Hotel.

The ALPHA computers feature compact size, integrated circuitry, high performance and modular design to allow greater flexibility than is found in present computing systems with military applications.

Military users can tailor the ALPHA computer family to meet their specific tactical needs. A variety of central processor modules, memory sizes and input/output units can be modified or expanded easily, thus enabling ALPHA to serve as a sensor signal processor and in such functions as command and control, communications, guidance and weapons delivery.

The ALPHA computer was developed with a signal processing capability that encompasses sensor control and the processing of signals from active and passive systems. Its functions include narrow and broad band detection, time, frequency and azimuth sorting, correlation, ray tracing and display.

COMMUNITY action...

MECCA URGES MEMBERSHIP . . .

One of the primary purposes of this newsreport is to inform and thank you, our neighbors and fellow citizens, for the groundswell of concern which motivated the formation of Mecca. From your midst a board of directors took shape. Committees were formed. Since April 23, 1968, these committees have organized, attended and monitored over 150 meetings and hearings related to environmental control in Minnesota. The first two confrontations were with Frank Marzitelli, Executive Vice President of the Port Authority, on May 14th and with Mayor Byrne on May 29th. We have been in contact with City, State and Federal planning and pollution control agencies constantly. Mecca has been represented at several hearings, members have spoken at civic meetings, and there has been television coverage of Mecca activities. The results of these and future efforts will affect the living conditions in our area for many generations to come.

The red and brown smokescreen in the Mississippi Valley from the North Star Steel Company plant and the steady pumping of river silt into Pig's Eye Lake produced the first alarm along the river bluffs. Since our first meeting we have had enthusiastic support and many requests for help in other parts of the state. Hundreds of people have expressed a desire to join. Mecca has been incorporated as a non-profit organization. We have formed a close association with a group of professional people—scientists, engineers, lawyers—from the University of Minnesota. This group is MCEI (Minnesota Committee for Environmental Information). Other organizations have approached us about developing liaison. Significant developments are reported elsewhere in this publication.

We are an action group. Others will study, educate and inform. Our job is to evaluate problems and ACT toward their solution. We will fight in the agency hearings, in the newspapers, in the legislative halls, in the courts if necessary. We will make our influence felt on the streets, and along the lake shores and riverbanks. We are engaged in a struggle for survival against the galloping erosion of the land we love, the depletion of the natural resources we enjoy, the poisoning of the air we breathe and the water we drink. The task to which we have addressed ourselves is a monumental one. It will require our combined wisdom, energy and devotion. We invite you to join in this significant cause.

Paul H. Engstrom, President
Robert F. Nelson, Chairman

Crime Data . . .

Minnesota crime may have cost each man, woman and child $23 last year. That is the price tag put on police, judicial and correctional functions in the state by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, a United Fund agency.

A clearinghouse for placement of courts and corrections experts maintained by the National Council helped both St. Paul and Minneapolis to recruit experienced directors of court services this year.

A staff of experts in law enforcement, courts, corrections and social sciences is available to assist local officers in improving justice systems.

Contemporary Photographs

"Toward a Social Landscape", a traveling exhibition from the George Eastman House of Photography will be on view at The Minneapolis Institute of Arts from October 1 through November 2.

Five photographers — Bruce Davidson, Lee Friedlander, Danny Lyon, Duane Michals, and Garry Winogrand — share a simple and direct approach in their attempt to show our man-made environments. However, each photographer makes his individual commentary on the relationship of this environment to human beings. The directness of this commentary of "people and things" does not attempt to define but to clarify the meaning of the human condition.

This is one of a series of exhibitions presented by Eastman House to explore major trends in modern photography.

ARE YOU A TIRED HOUSEWIFE? . . . if so don't let it bother you, just join the rest of us out at Hank Meadows Royal Market and Restaurant, in Roseville, for a "Tired Housewives" luncheon. FOR THE PAST SEVEN YEARS . . . Hank has had his own TV "Cooking with Hank" show on WTCN Channel 11 . . . the "Tired Housewives Club" is made up of ladies from his viewing audience . . . WHAT DO WE DO? . . . well I guess you could say we just have fun . . . we meet every month or so for lunch and Hank always has an interesting program and gives away lots of gifts at the end of the meeting . . . THERE'S A GOOD CHANCE you will be entertained by well known Radio or T.V. personalities or get to meet such sport greats as Verne Gagne . . . actually we never know who will show up to say hello . . . Hank has so many interesting friends . . . WATCH FOR THE NEXT LUNCHEON DATE Hank will announce it during his show on WTCN during the A.M. Report. BUT DON'T WAIT FOR THE NEXT MEETING TO VISIT HANK . . . drop out anytime and see his beautiful establishment . . . figure on spending some time looking through his gift shop and gourmet department . . . and the food is great . . . THE QUESTION I'M MOST ASKED, REGARDING TRAVEL, IS . . . WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE SPOT? . . . this could be difficult to answer because I do a great deal of traveling during the year . . . so far in '69 I've been in Mexico, all through the Caribbean, down into South America, on both East and West coasts as well as spending a month in Hawaii . . . but I must admit to favoring Hawaii . . . Hawaii has become my second home . . . I ALWAYS START MY TOURS ON THE NEIGHBOR OR OUTER ISLANDS . . . because they are less commercial, more relaxed and each island has a personality of its own . . . WE START IN HILO on the "Big Island" of Hawaii . . . WE TOUR the Orchid Gardens, the town of Hilo, see Rainbow Falls and the Japanese Park . . . VOLCANO NATIONAL PARK with its moon like landscape and world famous Kilauea Crater and Halemaumau Firepit is truly exciting . . . AND KALAPANA BLACK SAND BEACH is a sight you wouldn't want to miss . . . THEN WE FLY TO THE VILLAGE OF KAILUA ON THE KONA COAST . . . just a short hop to the other side of the island . . . KONA IS FANTASTIC . . . with its rugged coastline, charming little town, Kealekekua Bay, coffee plantations plus an interesting historical background . . . MAUI HERE WE COME . . . a quick early morning flight takes us to the island that is famous for its IAO NEEDLE AND IAO VALLEY as well as the exciting old "Whaling Capital of the World" the village of LAHAINA . . . we also visit the beautiful new resort area of KAA NAPALI . . . THEN ON TO THE "GARDEN ISLE" OF KAUAI . . . here we find an almost tropic climate, lush vegetation and flowers you wouldn't believe . . . A BOAT TRIP UP THE WAILUA RIVER to the world famous Fern Grotto, site of ancient Hawaiian wedding ceremonies, is an afternoon you won't soon forget . . . ANOTHER QUICK FLIGHT TO THE ISLAND OF OAHU . . . "The Capital" Island . . . when you sweep in low over Honolulu arbor and get your first view of the exciting city and Diamond Head, you're left breathless . . . YES, HONOLULU AND WAIKIKI BEACH is becoming commercial, but it is a change from the outer islands . . . ## Meet Charles Huntington—New St. Paul Resident Artist . . .

St. Paul is one of six cities in the U.S. to have an artist in residence under the National Foundation Endowment for the Arts program, and he is a very talented sculptor named Charles Huntington. Huntington works with metal welded together and created in art forms. He caused a lot of excitement where he studied and taught junk sculpture at the Minneapolis Institute of Art with his lucid interpretations—(some shown here)—of objects and ideas uppermost on the mind of contemporary man.

The artist in residence program which he was awarded is housed at Ramsey Jr. High on Grand Ave. The program is designed to be a supplement to art education in Jr. and Sr. High School courses. The students are brought through the artist's studio, watch him work, ask questions, learn technique and are briefed and lectured by him. The aim of the program is to bring the students into contact with a working artist to add a new dimension to their academic studies.

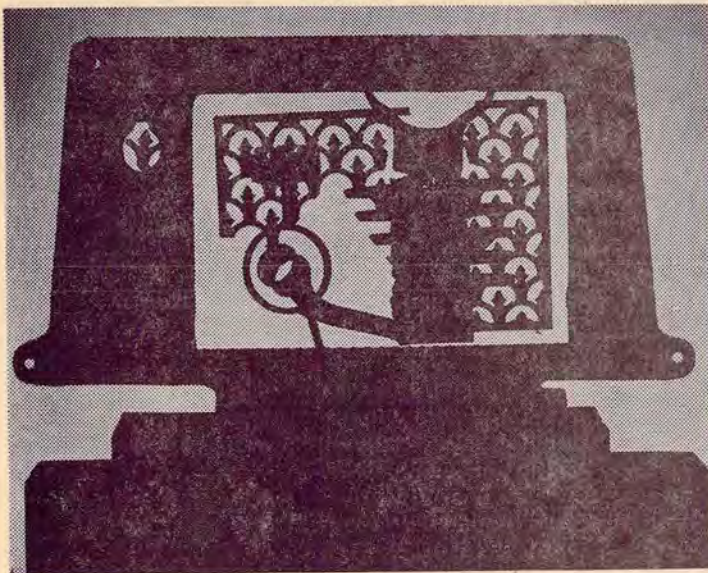

St. Paul is fortunate to be one of the first cities in America to have an Artist In Residence, and extremely fortunate to have one of the caliber of Charles Huntington.

PEOPLE

A new president for the board of trustees of the Twin City Area Educational Television Corp. was named at the annual meeting of the board Wednesday, Sept. 17. He is John C. Savage, vice president of the administrative division of Cargill Inc., Wayzata.

Mr. Savage succeeds John H. Myers, president of the Hoerner Waldorf Corp., St. Paul, who had served three years as president.

All other officers of the corporation remain unchanged. They include: Dr. John C. Schwarzwald, of St. Paul, executive vice president and general manager of stations KTCA-TV and KTCI-TV; Leonard Heller Sr., of St. Paul, and Philip H. Nason, of St. Paul, vice presidents; Andrew Scott, of St. Paul, secretary; A. A. Heckman, of St. Paul, treasurer; and W. D. Donaldson, of St. Paul, assistant secretary.

Lee B. Hoffman has been named assistant to the president of TEC, Incorporated (new name for Transistor Electronics Corporation), it was announced today (Sept. 18, 1969) by A. R. Masters, TEC president.

Hoffman, 26, joined the locally-based manufacturer of electronic data display and control devices and systems after four years with the First National Bank of St. Paul (Minn.).

He was manager of the bank's Sales Finance and Industrial Loan Department; a divisional assistant in its Commercial Loan Department, and a Sales Finance officer before being named a Commercial Loan officer last December.

"TEC's current growth position demands increased corporate development and planning activity," Masters commented. "Accordingly, Hoffman's background and experience make him a valuable addition to our management team."

Hoffman, a St. Paul native, was graduated from St. Thomas Academy high school there. He received a degree in business administration from the University of Minnesota in 1965.

He was a member of the St. Paul Jaycees and worked on the "Blitz Day" campaign of the St. Paul Area Chamber of Commerce. He also has participated in St. Paul United Fund and United Jewish Appeal campaign activities. He is a member of the American Numismatic Association as well as the St. Thomas Academy and Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity alumni associations.

Hoffman and his wife, Matti, have two sons, Darrell and Kevin. The family lives at 2121 Highland Parkway, St. Paul.

COLLEGES

St. Catherine Public Lectures

Alastair Reid, poet, writer and translator, will give two free public lectures at The College of St. Catherine on Thursday, Sept. 25, as a Danforth visiting lecturer.

Reid, who was born in Scotland, will speak at 1 p.m. in Jeanne d'Arc auditorium on "Poems as Happenings" and at 8 p.m. in Marian lounge of St. Joseph hall on "Growing Up, Growing Old."

The 1 o'clock lecture is a reading of poetry, with comments, to discover the curious way in which poetry affects people and makes its meaning happen.

In the evening lecture, Reid explores some of the paradoxical attitudes to youth and age, in literature and experience.

Reid will spend two days on campus. He is scheduled to speak Friday, Sept. 26, at several informal and class meetings.

The visiting lecturers program under which he comes to St. Catherine's was initiated in 1957 by the arts program of the Association of American Colleges. It is supported by a grant from the Danforth foundation.

Symposium On Nuclear Power Held At 'U'

Controversy about the alleged hazards of nuclear power plants has led to the organization of a free public conference to be held at the University of Minnesota Oct. 10 and 11.

Friday's (Oct. 10) meetings will begin in the main ballroom of Coffman Union. The evening sessions will be in Mayo auditorium. Saturday's (Oct. 11) program will be in the Museum of Natural History auditorium.
