Southwest Area District Council elects board, officers—12 grid spots still open

The newly recognized Southwest Area District Council got its first act together on June 13 at the College of St. Catherine by electing 17 of the eventual 29 board members slated to conduct the organization's affairs during its initial year.

While the meeting was very well attended in overall terms, 12 of the 21 grids fell short of the minimum three in attendance required to select a representative.

As an aid to the residents of the Southwest Area, the map at the left has been prepared by the Highland Villager to point out designated boundaries. Still open for elected representatives to the board are grids 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 9, 15, 17, 18, 20 and 21. Representatives for these grids will be elected Monday, June 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the student cafeteria of St. Joseph's Hall on the campus of the College of St. Catherine.

Should any of these 12 grids fail to produce a minimum of three in attendance at this next meeting, the board is empowered by its by-laws to make the appointments necessary to fill those vacancies.

Elected grid reps at the last meeting were: Jim Ahler, 6; Jim Zdon, 8; Gene Conway, 10; John Drew, 11; Pat McQuillan, 12; Joan Baker, 13; Don Mack, 14; Howard Guthmann, 16; Helen Johnson, 19.

The four at-large representatives chosen for District 14 (north of Randolph) were: Sally Frost, Kathy Callahan, Tom Watson and Gayle Summers. In District 15 (south of Randolph) these four topped a very long list of nominees: Mike McTeague, Mary Lou O'Leary, Edith Lystad and Ken Jefferson.

After the general meeting, the newly-elected board members chose their officers for the coming year. Elected were: Mike McTeague, chairperson; Howard Guthmann, president; Gayle Summers, administrative secretary; and Joan Baker, Treasurer.

All who reside, own property or do business within the confines of the Southwest Area District (see map) are cordially invited to attend the next session on June 26, and are urged to get involved in their neighborhood's future progress and development.

Minnesota Craft Festival brings 80 to shady St. Kate's campus

On the tree-lined grounds of the College of St. Catherine the best craftsmen in Minnesota will again display their works during the Sixth Annual Minnesota Crafts Festival, to be held from noon to 6:00 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25.

The 80 participating craftspeople have been selected by a jury of three nationally prominent artists who got together to review the slide entrees and select the best works in weaving, fiber, glass, ceramics, wood, and metalsmithing. The hand-crafted objects range from the functional to the fanciful.

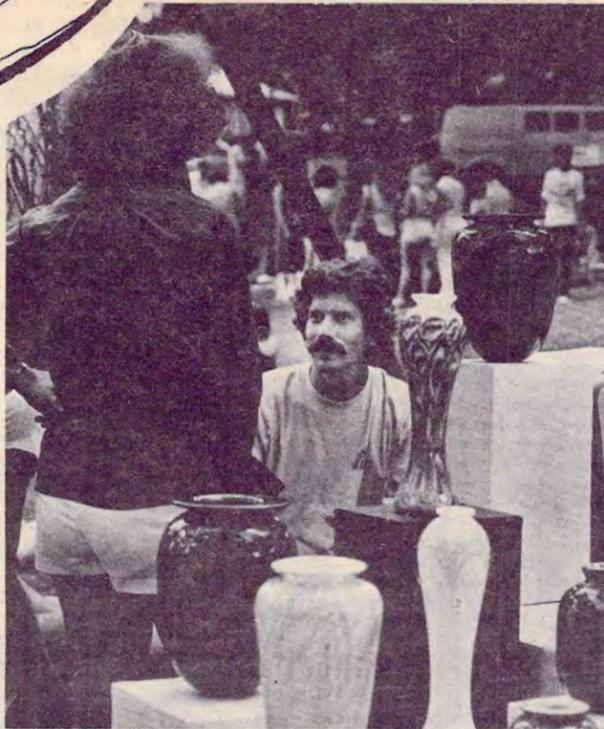

Located on the gentle slope southeast of Randolph and Cleveland Avenues, this year's festival promises to be not only interesting, but entertaining as well.

Rio Nido, an accomplished trio specializing in swing era tunes, will set the musical tone. Raising smiles will be a sideshow team featuring mime, music and juggling. Demonstrations in Raku pottery firing and ethnic foods will also help to make this one of the highest quality art fairs in the Midwest.

This festival, which originated in Smith Park six years ago, is sponsored by the Minnesota Crafts Council.

Admission is free and open to all.

Surrounded by his work and captivated by a female festival-goer is glassblower Craig Howell, a 1977 Minnesota Crafts Festival award winner. Howell, who's been blowing glass for four years, will be exhibiting his work again at the 1978 festival, June 24 and 25, at the College of St. Catherine.

Paulson to file as independent for District 60-B House seat

Neil Paulson, 3660 41st Ave. S., Minneapolis, has announced his candidacy for election to the Minnesota House of Representatives from District 60-B this coming fall.

Paulson, who will file by petition as an independent, is the owner of Neil Paulson Paints, a home remodeling company employing college and vo-tech students.

A graduate of Augsburg College, Paulson is currently a volunteer lobbyist for Continuing Education for Non-traditional Students (CENTS), an organization which provides transportation for handicapped college students. He also serves as a representative of the Howe School District to the Longfellow Area Planning District Council.

Paulson is a former building aide for the Minneapolis Housing and Redevelopment Authority at the Hiawatha Towers, a senior citi-

(Ed. note: District 60-B is bounded on the west by 21st Ave., on the east by the Mississippi, on the north by 24th St., and on the south by 43rd St.)

SUMMER SALE

Highland Village's annual pre-4th of July price cutting picnic merits your attention.

See pages 8-13 of this issue for the best deals in town.

The Villager goes fishing

The Highland Villager offices will be closed from June 22 through June 27 to give its staff an abbreviated, though well deserved week of summer rest and relaxation. We'll be back on Wednesday, June 28, to take your news notices and place your display and classified ads for the next issue of July 12. The deadline is July 5.

We take to the lakes again for the extended four-day weekend, July 1-4. If you're heading out of town on vacation yourself, have a good one.

Jewish Community Center to convene annual meeting

A mortgage burning ceremony will highlight the 48th annual meeting of the Jewish Community Center of St. Paul beginning at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday, June 28 at the Center, 1375 St. Paul Ave.

According to Baron Desnick, JCC board chairman, the program will also "honor the people with vision who helped make the dream of a Center a reality." They include: Mrs. Cal Calmenson, Martin Capp, Judge Jacob Dim, Marvin Fineberg, Herbert Goldenberg, Kalman Goldenberg, Arthur Goodman, E. David Krawetz, Jacob Locke, Sylvan Mack, Leonard Rapoport, Frank Shear, Thomas Sherman, Kenneth Tilsen, Mac Wolf and Benno Wolff. Baron Desnick, a man of no small vision himself, will also be honored.

In addition, recognition will be given to Pauline Stone, long-time Center worker, who recently retired. Tom Sherman's president's report and an election of new board members complete the program.

A social hour, with re-

freshments and dancing to the music of Elliot Libman, will follow the annual meeting. During that time those in attendance will have the opportunity to say good-bye to JCC Shaliach Ami Yemini and his wife, Batia, who will be returning to Israel in August after living in St. Paul for the last three years.

The entire community is invited to attend the meeting. For more information and reservations, contact the Center at 698-0751.

Opportunity knocks when St. Paul summer schools open their doors

Solar energy, research, horticultural studies and instruction in the graphic arts highlight the 1978 summer school classes offered by the St. Paul Public Schools.

The program also carries courses in English, math and social studies.

Although the six-week summer school session opened with registration last Monday, June 19 at Harding, Humboldt and Highland High schools, late registrants will be accepted through the first week of school. Classes began on June 20 and will run through July 28.

Drivers Education will be offered free for the first time this year, and students enrolled in the course will receive academic credit. Other course offerings include business, fine arts, foreign language, industrial education and science, as well as special opportunities outside the classroom.

These include the Challenge Institute, a developmental program in which teachers and students explore solar energy by building toys and solar-powered engines as class projects. On-the-job work experience will be added to the summer program. Students are placed in summer jobs to learn an occupational skill and earn academic credit.

The program is free to all St. Paul citizens under 21, and is open to those over 21 at a charge of $25 per course.

The school district will provide transportation for all students who live at least one mile from the summer school they attend. For more information, contact the District Summer School Office at 298-5633.

Area residents elected to STA Father's Club

Three area residents were recently elected to top positions in the St. Thomas Academy Father's Club for the 1978-79 school year.

Elected as officers are: J. Steven Zobel, 1764 Wellesly Ave., president; and Clement Commers, 721 Stanwich Lane, Mendota Heights, secretary. Daniel J. Steveken, 2279 Riverwood Place, was elected to the club's board.

Other newly-elected officers and board members are: Terence P. Flynn, Thomas J. Lee, Dr. John Lenzi, James Mahoney, J. Peter Ritten and Thomas Schreier.

Swimming lessons set at area pools

Session III swimming lessons, sponsored by the St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation, will be offered July 17 through July 28 at two area pools.

Taught by Red Cross Certified Water Safety Instructors, the lessons will be offered at Highland and Oxford pools. The classes will be divided into Waders, Beginners, Advanced Beginners, Junior and Senior Life Saving, Springboard Diving and Adult lessons. The fee is $9.00 for 10 sessions.

Registration will be from 9:00 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, July 11 at the poolsites. For additional information call the Special Services Office at 645-4631.

Area school administrators elected to MISF positions

Administrators from several area high schools were among those recently elected to serve as officers and Executive and Committee members of the Minnesota Independent School Fund (MISF), an organization of 25 non-public secondary schools in the 17-county greater metropolitan area.

Elected as officers for the 1978-79 school year were: John Littleford, headmaster at Breck School, president; Urban Langer, headmaster at Visitation High School, vice president; Patrick Casey, headmaster at St. Thomas Academy, secretary; and Sister Elinore Davis, principal at Regina

High School, treasurer.

Elected to serve on the MISF Executive Committee were: Bill Harris, headmaster at St. Paul Academy/Summit School; Roger Cammack, 133 Woodlawn Ave., vice president of Marigold Foods; Bertil Swanson, development director at Minnehaha Academy; and Walter Kurtz, development director at St. Thomas Academy.

In its two years of existence, the MISF has distributed a total of $543,000 to the 25 schools which constitute its membership. The total represents about 150 separate gifts from area corporations and foundations.

Kids ticket sales to raise funds for HGRA programs

Hundreds of young area athletes are now out knocking on doors to help raise money for the Highland Groveland Recreation Association's sports programs.

The youngsters are selling chances for a pair of Twins or Kicks tickets for a game of the winner's choice. Ten pairs of tickets will be given away at a drawing on July 8. A book of 12 chances costs $1.00; or 10 cents per ticket.

Prizes will be awarded, including new bats, gloves, soccerballs, radios, televisions and 10-speed bikes, to the most successful young salespersons.

Elderly get a lift from federal funds

A transportation program for Ramsey County senior citizens was awarded $53,084 in federal funds by the Metropolitan Council recently.

The program, operated by the St. Paul area American Red Cross, uses vans and station wagons to transport elderly people to medical appointments, shopping areas, social events and other destinations.

Ramsey County residents who are 60 years and older and unable to use public transportation are eligible for the program at no cost. Federal funding for the program is for a one-year period beginning July 1978.

Well-wishers congratulate Monsignor Bernard H. Murray outside St. Leo's Church, where he was appointed first pastor 33 years ago. The mass which followed was celebrated in honor of his Golden Jubilee on Tuesday, June 13. Monsignor Murray was born December 19, 1902 in Minneapolis where he attended Ascension Grade School. He graduated from St. Thomas Academy and College and the St. Paul Seminary. He was ordained to the priesthood June 19, 1928.

City celebration marks 75th anniversary of rec. centers

The St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation in a celebration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the first recreation center, is planning a full line-up of sports events, parades and concerts during the week of June 26-30 in Mears Park, Rice Park and Osborn Plaza in downtown St. Paul.

The celebration will begin with a parade on Monday, June 26 at 11:30 a.m. The parade, which will start on Kellogg Boulevard and continue through downtown St. Paul on Wabasha St. to Scheffer Recreation Center, will feature various aspects of recreation and leisure time activities.

Performances will be held daily at Mears and Rice Parks from 11:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. including concerts, theatre groups and folk, tap and disco dancing. The St. Paul Drum and Bugle Corps, the Young People Singers and COMPAS actors are among the many groups that will be performing.

Basketball, hopscotch, volleyball, miniature golf, chess, checkers, frisbee and hula hoop contests are among the activities that will be held throughout the week at the downtown parks.

All events are open to the public free of charge.

Dunning Field to get slice of federal grant

The City of Saint Paul has been awarded $160,424 to build a recreational area at Dunning Field, next to Central High School.

The funds, from the Interior Department's Heritage Conservation and Recreation Division, also include: $5,924 for a pedestrian trail along Furness Ave. between Hoyt and Ivy; and $86,000 to build an outdoor recreational area and playlot at Orchard and Victoria.

The federal grants will be matched by funds from state and local sources. Work on the projects is expected to begin this summer.

Elementary summer school classes now open for registration

St. Paul students entering grades one through six next fall may still register for the first session of elementary summer school classes offered by St. Paul public schools.

In most cases, students should register and attend classes at the school closest to their home.

The first summer school session began June 19 and will end on July 7. The second three-week session begins July 10 and ends July 28. Classes for both are held from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., except July 3, 5, 6 and 7, when classes end at 1:00 p.m.

Summer school programs will be offered at the following schools: Adams, Battle Creek, Cherokee Heights, Como Park, Dayton's Bluff, East Consolidated, Galtier, Hayden Heights, Jackson, Longfellow, Mann, North End, Parkway, St. Anthony Park and Webster.

Students who live at least one mile from their summer school will be transported. There is no tuition.

Hagstrum elected new president of lung association

The Ramsey County Lung/Christmas Seal Association recently elected H. Vincent Hagstrum, 789 Ridge Place, as its new president.

A vice president and board member at Midwest Federal Savings and Loan, Hagstrum has been active with the Ramsey County Lung Association for many years. He succeeds Maurice S. Moe, former Editorial Counsel for West Publishing Company, who retired from the post after three years.

Other elected officers include: Dr. C. Richard Guiton, first vice president; Robert I. Sawyer, second vice president; Delphin Nelson, secretary; John M. Baker, treasurer; and Jon Theobald, assistant treasurer.

The Ramsey County Lung Association's programs funded through the annual Christmas Seal campaign include classes and summer camp for children with asthma; smoking education in the schools; Huffers & Puffers, a club for people with emphysema, asthma and chronic bronchitis; the Association for Non-Smokers' Rights (ANSR); and the distribution of free literature and films on lung disease.

MISCH- MASH

by Maurice F. Mischke

This column may not be the last word in terms of material presented, but it's invariably the last word to get into this fortnightly newspaper.

Did I say fortnightly? Well, there are four exceptions to that every year—two in Summer, two in Winter. The upcoming issue is one of those. Prior to the 4th of July we vacation a bit. Next issue is three weeks from now... we publish on July 12 and 26, break again, and come out August 16 and 30.

With Independence Day on Tuesday this year, we don't expect much action on Monday, the 3rd. So get your news and ads in early... we'll be closed June 22-27 inclusive, and get back to serious business Wednesday thru Friday, June 28-30. Then we goof-off again for the elongated four-day holiday weekend, only to pay the price when we return on Wednesday, July 5... ye old deadline day.

Well, I guess we gave you a pretty solid estimate last time of what was likely to happen in California. Sometimes we feel our local and state officials and legislators are too much the spendthrifts and not sufficiently concerned with getting us enough bang for the tax buck. But they don't look half so bad when you compare them to their California counterparts, who just had to be terribly out-of-touch, totally insensitive to the public weal, and just plain greedy in gobbling up all the tax dollars higher assessments could bring.

Governor Jerry Brown and the whole legislature, one would think, would be more in tune than to sit on a big fat inflation-born $4 billion reserve. They learned a hard lesson, I would say... and to pick up the pieces, they may need a special session of some kind. Of course, all the dramatic and outlandish reflex action in making cutbacks was to be expected. That's the usual tactic... a temporary freeze on salaries hardly ever enters a public official's bureaucratic mind.

But how about the hammer-blow the postal union hit us with this weekend... demanding something like 14% increases in each of the next two years. It's like President Carter says... government can't do a thing about inflation!

I while back I noted that the average wage of a postal worker (pension advantages aside) was something over $17,000 per year. And the service?... far from what it used to be. On Saturday we received a local first class letter (actually a want ad for Wednesday's deadline) that had been clearly postmarked on Tuesday. I guess you can't get much for 15¢ anymore.

I know one thing... if I were running for public office this year in either party, I'd be concerned about finding a responsible way to reduce the tax bite, and to bring inflationary excess under some kind of control. Congressmen, governors, legislators, mayors and councilmen are going to be closely watched on the areas they control in the next couple years, like they've never been watched before... of that you can be sure.

Trouble is, so much legislation of the past decade or more has given our current crop of officials precious little to control. Remember the sweet deal on federal pensions (since corrected, I trust and hope) where the retirement income went up 4% every time the cost of living went up 3%. Boy, did that escalate retirement incomes in a hurry. Just another way Congress takes care of its own. No wonder the Washington, D.C. area has the highest per capita income of any major metro area in the U.S.A.

Getting back to St. Paul and Minnesota... I don't find myself particularly thrilled with Senator McCutchen's proposal to up our sales tax to 6%, in order to gain some property tax relief. Inflation itself keeps adding to the sales tax coffers... why should we need to change the percentage on top of that?

If you believe in polls... did you see where the American public—via an AP-NBC news survey—gives both President Carter and Congress lousy ratings when it comes to holding the line on taxes? Carter came up on the short end by well over 5 to 1, Congress (deservedly, I'd say) much worse... by about 11 to 1. But it's nothing to give comfort to the Republicans... by a 31% to 29% margin, they feel Democrats can do a better job of holding the line. Apparently reform, if it is to come, has to come from within both parties... or from public initiative.

We don't have the right to initiative and referendum in this state... and I think we should. Hopefully, we'd never get to the point of using the "meat axe" to the extent it was applied in the Golden State... but the potential threat would do much to keep our politicians alert and in check.

Let's get really local for a while. If you heard that Red Owl was closing down in Highland, you heard right. The confirmed date is July 1. That means two long time Highland supermarkets have bit the dust within the past year. The super-survivor, of course, is Applebaum's... whose ad, by some kind of happy coincidence, appears colorfully in our center-spread each and every issue.

The same Applebaum's announced a new line of "no-name" generic items last week, at considerable savings over house and name brands. The savings, of course, come with low or no costs in packaging, couponing and national promotion. Consumer confidence then is necessarily based on the supermarket itself. They'll be relying on Applebaum's own good judgment on what constitutes adequate quality. Always a new way to beat the "wrap," as it were!

How about the way Paul Molitor is playing ball at Milwaukee? Last time I looked, he was hitting .318, fifth highest in the league... and Sunday he stole home to provide the winning margin. If he keeps that up, he's on his way to "Rookie of the year." We won't put him on the front page of the Villager this early, though... wouldn't want to jinx him the way it usually does when a hot celebrity makes the cover of Sports Illustrated!

When can we lay the "domed" stadium to rest? Did you notice that the so-called economical soft-dome, the Silverdome home of the Detroit lions, may cost Pontiac, Michigan residents an extra 30% in property taxes the coming year. Let the pro owners take their chances on the weather... just like the rest of us.

Noticed that the Chamber's Downtown Council under Signor Ron Bacigalupo is coming out with a latter-day version of a coupon book called "Walkin' Around Money," very much akin to the "Valuable Villager Vouchers" we promoted out here in 1975 and 76. Many people liked them very, very much; others just plain forgot to use them often enough. Success for the businesses involved also varied a great deal—depending mostly on the nature of the biz.

The Southwest Area District Council got off to a pretty good start last week, but the representation at the meeting was decidedly uneven. Some of the "grids" had a dozen or more of their residents present, others less than the three required to elect a grid rep. Congratulations to Howie Guthmann, HiGroMac prez, and Mike McTeague, chairman, for the way they brought this Citizen Participation project to a living reality. Their efforts won them election to the same positions in the new council, although the board has taken on a decidedly different cast with a lot of new members... certainly a healthy development for any citizen group.

I'm not young enough to know everything, but I have the distinct feeling that the ERA is dead. Not necessarily a great tragedy, I would think, since almost all that the amendment was designed to accomplish is rapidly being achieved in other ways. One gal I've always enjoyed reading on any subject is Jo Foxworth, well-known in the advertising field. She's published a book, "Boss Lady," which hit the book stalls just last week. She maintains that "Business needs women—not as surrogate men but as what they are: Female people with another dimension of intellect, knowledge and experience."

Some years ago she delivered a major speech in which she proposed "Nine Commandments for Women in Business." According to an article in Advertising Age, she thinks they still apply today. Thought I might share them with you:

Thou shalt try harder; thou need not be only No. 2. Thou shalt know when to zip thy lip and listen quietly. Thou shalt not attempt to hide behind thine own petticoat. Thou shalt speak softly and carry no stick, except lipstick. Thou shalt speak softly and serve thy lady boss as graciously as thou servest any man. When success cometh, thou shalt not get too big for thy bustle. Thou shalt watch thy language; there may be gentlemen present. Thou shalt not match martinis with the men. Thou shalt save thy sex appeal for after five, even though thy C cup runneth over."

"In the end," predicts Ms. Foxworth, "women will make it in business because their brains and hearts and guts are needed there—and because they have learned what and how to contribute while men (and other women) are getting used to the idea."

With that bit of borrowed brilliance, perhaps we can move right into our usual pilfered parting punchlines: PPP#1 - Sign on a businessman's desk: "My decision is maybe—and that's final!" PPP#2—Sign on a loan office window: "We offer month to month resuscitation." PPP#3 (Back to the postal service—with a little slo-pitch for our aging athletes): Skeptical about the way mail is handled, a man left this note on a parcel: "Fragile. Please throw underhand."

When the Independent-Republicans hold their state convention this weekend in Minneapolis, one Republican candidate for governor will not take part. Instead, Robert Johnson, 1950 Bayard Ave., plans to bypass the endorsement process, and go directly to the primary to challenge Congressman Al Quie, the candidate likely to be endorsed.

Earlier this month, at the Democratic-Farmer-Labor

Party endorsements meet strong challenges in I-R and DFL ranks

Party convention in St. Paul, another area resident, John Connolly of 1382 Summit Ave., challenged incumbent Wendell Anderson for the six-year term in the U.S. Senate. During his pre-endorsement campaign, Connolly said he would probably challenge Anderson in the primary, if he made a good showing at the convention.

This will be the first time since the Keith-Rolvaag contest for the 1966 DFL gubernatorial nomination that well-known figures in either party will be challenging endorsed candidates in the primary.

Former State Rep. Johnson, who served District 63B for six terms in the lower house, said his decision to bypass the endorsement could help crystallize his candidacy. "With only about 20 percent of the people in this state identifying themselves as Independent-Republicans, the party must address itself to broadening its base," he said.

Johnson's campaign headquarters in the St. Paul Skyway recently issued the results of a poll taken by Decision-Making Information which showed a lack of public support for the endorsement process. The question asked was, "Do you think the open primary or the party endorsement is the best way to select a party's candidates for the general election?"

The telephone poll taken of 505 residents of the state revealed that 77 percent favored the open primary, 17 percent preferred party endorsement, and 6 percent had no opinion.

The endorsement process begins at the precinct caucuses held in February by both political parties. Those who attend choose delegates who, in turn, select the delegates to the state conventions, where under current rules, more than 1,000 delegates vote to endorse for an office until one candidate receives 60 percent of the vote.

Once a party makes its choice, loyal members are expected to unite behind the endorsed slate. When this happens, the differences within the party are not brought to the fore in a primary and the endorsed slate does not have to bear the added expense of a bruising, pre-September campaign. The primary most often becomes a mere ratification of the convention, since the endorsed candidates usually are unopposed or face marginal candidates.

Defenders of the endorsement system claim one party cannot drop the process if the other party continues to use it. "If we'd fight it out in the primary while the other side settles their battles in the convention, we'd go in at a disadvantage," explained one out-state DFL veteran. "We would be divided, and they would be united."

Johnson, however, feels the endorsement system is on the way out. "In ten years, it will be as outmoded as the Model T," he said. "The people who really recognize the plight of the individual are for the open primary."

He feels that the IR's should not necessarily follow the lead of the DFL. "We have the mistaken belief that because we are outnumbered we must stick together to protect what strength we have," said

Johnson. "Instead of worrying about the 20 percent which make up our hard core base, we should be trying to reach all the voters who will make the decision in November."

For Connolly, the concept of challenging an endorsed candidate in the primary is not new. In 1976, after Joseph Karth announced he would not seek re-election to another term in Congress, Connolly was one of five candidates who sought the DFL endorsement at the 4th District DFL Convention. Connolly started out a strong second with 29 votes on the first ballot. But on the 13th ballot when Bruce Vento got the required 60 percent, Connolly still had 29 votes.

After the convention, Connolly and State Auditor Robert Mattson, who did not take part in the convention, challenged Vento in the primary. Vento won with about 35,000 votes to about 15,000 each for Mattson and Connolly. "It was a hard election to read," said Connolly. "We had a lot of volunteers working for us. People thought we had more strength than we had."

Connolly said most of his supporters stuck with him through the primary. "We kept almost all of them," he said. "One reason we went into the primary was that the party members did not know the Congressional seat would be open at the time of the precinct caucus." He surmised that if they had known, party members would have chosen delegates according to their preferences for a congressional candidate.

This year Connolly waged a long and tiring campaign against Wendell Anderson, primarily on the grounds that he managed to have himself appointed to the Senate when Walter Mondale's seat became vacant. Before the state convention, Connolly said he would consider entering the primary if he received a minimum first ballot count of about 25 percent. The actual count was 25.3 percent.

Connolly figures it was important to enter the endorsement process even though he had little chance of stopping Anderson's endorsement. "I feel the party has more respect for you if you enter the convention and tell them you plan to keep your options open regarding the primary," he said. "They get angry if you bypass the endorsement process altogether."

He feels that challenging the party's endorsed slate is less damaging now than it was in 1968-70 when he was 4th District DFL Chair. At that time the Republicans controlled the White House, all six state constitutional offices, and both houses of the state legislature.

"There was a feeling then that unless we stuck together we would lose for sure," he said. "Now the party is strong enough to have a primary battle but still pull together to win the general election. "I have repeatedly said I would support Anderson if he wins the primary."

In addition to Connolly and Johnson, two other well known figures have involved themselves in the endorsement controversy. One is Robert Short who is challenging Donald Fraser for the four-year term to the U.S. Senate. The other is State Auditor Robert Mattson who fell just short of endorsement at the DFL state convention.

Short decided to bypass the convention and enter the primary directly. At the 4th District DFL Convention, he told the delegates his reasons. "We already know who the choice of the state convention will be," he said in reference to Fraser. "It is his convention. Those are his delegates. He has spent two years organizing for it."

"I respect the right of the party to make a recommendation to the voters through the endorsement system," he said. "I want you to respect my right to challenge that recommendation and let the voters be the final judge."

Mattson, who unsuccessfully sought to be the candidate for State Representative in 1974 at the 63B DFL Convention, has run several times against endorsed candidates. In addition to the Vento race in 1976, he drew 19 percent of the votes in the 1970 DFL primary for Secretary of State, and defeated DFL endorsed candidate Al Loehr and Republican Ronald Hatfield in 1974 to win the state auditor position.

At the DFL state convention this year, Mattson came close but failed to win the necessary 60 percent for endorsement even though 11 ballots were taken. To date he has not announced whether he will run, nor has any other candidate announced for that position in the DFL primary.

Bob Prokop, an eighth grade student at St. Mark's (shown above with Rep. Ray Faricy) and Rachel Simes, a Torah Academy eighth grader (shown above with Rep. Dick Cohen) are the Districts 63A and 63B winners in the Minnesota House of Representatives "There Ought To Be A Law" essay contest. More than 1600 seventh, eighth and ninth graders from throughout the state submitted essays proposing new laws relating to education, agriculture, the environment, health or transportation. Bob, son of Richard Prokop of 1918 Ashland Ave., suggested tighter zoning laws to preserve our open spaces. Rachel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Simes of 1530 Hartford Ave., proposed minimum competency requirements for high school graduates.

RALPH JOHN KELLER'S LIFE HAS BEEN MARKED BY SERVICE TO PEOPLE...

There'll be no change on that score, now that he's decided to become a real estate counselor at Jambor Realtors

Ralph comes to us with a background of varied family and community activities. Born of German and Norwegian heritage, he grew up on a Red River Valley farm near Tintah, Minnesota.

He graduated from high school at Crosier in Onamia, and later went on to complete his college career at St. John's University in Collegeville.

Since that time, he has been involved in various aspects of parish ministry. Ralph spent eight years in the development of audio-visuals for church worship, and has presented workshops on the subject throughout the country.

For an extended period, he was engaged in family life and marriage counseling—a service to people that he found indeed gratifying.

Ralph enjoys flying, photography, antique cars, designing unique family homes and outside decks...and world travel, like the two months he spent studying one summer in Israel.

He thoroughly appreciates the value of community life and the importance of the right kind of home. When it becomes your time to make a change for the better, why not let Ralph John Keller find the right kind of home for you.

Local student at work in Northfield riverside project

Education is more than classrooms, tests, labs and libraries. Just ask Barry Amatuzio, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Amatuzio, 4141 Coffman Lane, Mpls.

For Barry, a senior landscape architecture major at the University of Minnesota, education has included a "real life" project working with the city of Northfield on ideas for the renovation of its riverside area.

Northfield city planners contacted the University's School of Architecture and Landscape Architecture last March to see if any seniors might want to take as their final theses the problem of how Northfield could beautify, and at the same time make better use of the banks of the Cannon River.

Amatuzio and fellow student Ross Hamre of Lakeville took them up on the offer.

According to Amatuzio, the project site includes a couple of miles of both urban and rural river front. In presenting their ideas to the mayor, city council and city planners, Amatuzio and Hamre directed themselves to the problem as they saw it: the use of the town land and the effects renovation of the area would have on its users—motorists, canoeists and pedestrians.

"A large percentage of Northfield's downtown area is taken up with parking lots and delivery areas," Amatuzio said. "Our plans tighten up those areas to provide room for open green spaces and pedestrian walkways where people can be down near the river."

Amatuzio and Hamre have been working individually on plans for separate sides of the Cannon as it flows through Northfield. One interesting feature on Amatuzio's side is the city's old jail house, which rests on the river bank.

"I'd like to turn it into a restaurant that looks out over the water, keeping the theme of the small-town jail," Amatuzio said. With Northfield's history and its ties to Jesse James and his gang, Amatuzio might just have something there.

Both students said they received a warm response from city planners when they first presented their schematic designs for the river front. They are also currently working on plans for Northfield's main street, believing that the addition of shrubs, trees and informational signs would give a more hospitable atmosphere, one that would tempt motoring passers-by to spend some time in the city.

Amatuzio will graduate from the University of Minnesota sometime next fall or winter with an education... and then some. He and Hamre are already toying with the idea of setting up their own landscape design business here in the Twin Cities.

Freedom of speech debated at Como pavilion July 4

A debate on the limits of free speech will highlight the Fourth of July activities planned at the Lakeside Pavilion in Como Park.

The 2:00 p.m. debate will focus on the limits of freedom of speech and how it relates to pornography and the planned Nazi marches in Skokie, Ill.

Professor Marc Anderson from Macalester College will argue against any limitation. Professor Richard Connell from the College of St. Thomas will argue for certain limitations and will suggest guidelines for establishing these limits. After the debate, members of the audience will be invited to express their views and ask questions.

Other holiday activities will include a performance by Max Metzger's Park Pops Orchestra at 4:00 p.m. in the pavilion, and the annual fireworks display at 9:45 p.m. in the grandstand at the state fairgrounds.

Tennis? Love two. Chairpersons Mrs. Robert Loewenstein (right) and Mrs. Henry Kristal plan a little court strategy in preparation for the St. Paul Chapter of Hadassah's "Score for Israel" tennis tournament, to be held Monday, July 17 at the Hillcrest Country Club. In addition to the men's and women's net competitions, the day's events will include a nine-hole golf tournament, a gourmet lunch and dinner, swimming, a silent auction and evening entertainment. Proceeds will go toward the non-sectarian Hadassah hospitals and rehabilitation centers. For more information, call Mrs. Bernice Goldetsky (698-3070) or Mrs. Barbara Melamed (699-1313).

Part-time college promises to have a practical purpose for St. Paulites

This summer the Oneida Inner City Education Program, together with Inver Hills Community College, will be offering a limited number of courses for St. Paul area adults who wish to attend school on a part-time basis.

Five-week courses will be held in the evening at five St. Paul locations beginning July 24: Oneida Education Center, West Seventh at Jef-erson; St. Clair playground, 263 Oneida at St. Clair; West Seventh Community Center, West Seventh at St. Clair; plus two downtown locations.

To meet the needs of individuals who desire schooling for purposes of job advancement, career change, or personal improvement, Inver Hills/Oneida courses generally emphasize practical information which will be applicable to job and other day-to-day situations.

Cost for the courses is $12.00 per credit and tuition assistance is available. Educational counseling services are also offered free of charge.

College credits from Inver Hills Community College are awarded upon completion of most courses. For further information about the classes and registration procedures, call Kathy Moore or Terry Crowley at 227-7803.

Mac to award 25 adult scholarships

Macalester College will award 25 scholarships next fall to older adults returning to college part-time.

Persons over 24 years old who have not attended college in the past five years are eligible to apply.

For further information, contact the Macalester Admissions Office at 647-6357.

Old-fashioned schoolin' offered in museum's summer program

Spelling bees, old-fashioned slate boards, arithmetic lessons, McGuffey readers and 1870 costumes are all part of the Ramsey County Historical Society's summer school program to be held July 11 through August 18 at the Gibb's Farm Museum, 2097 W. Larpenteur Ave.

Kids will get a chance to learn their three "R's" the way their great-grandparents did from 9:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays in the Museum's century old, one-room school house.

The teachers will wear pioneer dresses, ring the school bell for lunch and recess and instruct the students in each grade using 1880 methods. During recess, high school volunteers will lead the children through a number of games, such as "Red Rover" and "Fox and Hounds." The class will also have a chance to tour the rest of the museum.

To be eligible for the school program, children must have completed the first grade. Tuition is $4.00 for each child. The students, who may dress up in old-fashioned clothes, will be expected to bring their own lunch and beverage.

Registration for the summer school is now open and can be made by calling 646-8629 or 646-8620. Prepayment of tuition is necessary, and must be made one week before the class begins.

Got a bone to pick with St. Paul?

They'll hear it through the 'gripevine'

On the morning of May 23, 1978, residents of the Randolph Heights neighborhood awoke to find notices of the possible widening of S. Hamline Ave. on their doorsteps. Most were surprised, having been assured that the proposal had been soundly defeated by previous neighborhood action.

The notice stated that a public hearing on the matter would be held that afternoon in a downtown office. Although some of the residents managed to attend the meeting, most could not, given such short notice.

About 40 of those who couldn't make it called the St. Paul Office of Information and Complaints. Staff members there compiled the complaints and sent a representative to the public hearing to assure that those voices were heard nevertheless. As of this writing, the matter remains "officially undecided."

The Complaint Office staff did that for residents of Randolph Heights and they'd like to be able to do it for you, should you ever run into a like situation. A call to the office at 298-4747 will register your opinion on any community issue. If a sufficient number of complaints are received concerning any one issue, a staff person will be dispatched to the involved agency or committee to represent those citizens' opinions.

Complaint Office personnel also handle problems or inquiries of a more personal nature involving health, sanitation, public works, housing codes, streets repairs, police, etc. Whatever it is, they're there when you need them.

Area residents elected to JVS board of directors

Several Highland area residents were recently elected to the Jewish Vocational Service's Board of Directors.

Newly-elected officers for a one-year term are: Bernard Grodin, 2020 Wellesley Ave., president; and Steve A. Brand, 2192 Hartford Ave., vice president.

Other board members are: William Bunin, 1686 Eleanor Ave.; Leonard Druker, 541 So. Cretin Ave.; Mark Kanivetsky, 1770 Yorkshire Ave.; Miriam Kieffer, 1675 Ford Parkway; Lewis Lachter, 1870 Highland Parkway; Jule Schatzberg, 1485 Edgumbe Rd.; and Anthony Straus, 717 Stanwich Lane.

Additional board members are: Arthur Glassman, treasurer; Dr. David Wark, secretary; Richard Nadler; Dr. Larry Rossoff; Mary Ann Wark; Sefra Pitzle and Neal Shear.

The nominating committee consisted of Sherman Marrinson, chairman; Rabbi Leigh Lerner, Dr. W.H. Pearlson, Sol Pogoriler, Alan Weinblatt and Charles Margolis.

Volunteers sought

Volunteers are currently needed for Camp Sunshine's day camp for mentally retarded children. The sessions will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays: July 17-20 and July 31 to August 11 in Apple Valley; and August 14-25 in South St. Paul. If interested in helping out, call Celeste Pastraw at 455-5649.

Area first grader is tops in read-a-thon

Mia Orlins, daughter of Peter and Janis Orlins of 1999 Randolph Ave., was the top Groveland reader in the recent Multiple Sclerosis Read-a-thon. Mia, a first grade student, was one of 100 children who entered the contest at Groveland Park School.

Each child who entered the read-a-thon found sponsors who agreed to donate a sum of money for every book the entrant read.

Mia read 42 books out of a total of 1185 read at Groveland, for a total school pledge of $1823.81 for the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Mrs. Venantia Critton, 1802 Highland Pkwy., was installed as president-elect of the Minnesota Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., at its 57th annual convention held recently in Brooklyn Park. Mrs. Critton is a vice-president at the Commercial State Bank in St. Paul.

Homes needed for international students

Homes are needed for a three-week period, August 18 to September 8, or a two week-period, September 1 to September 15 for international students participating in Homestay, an orientation and intensive English language program sponsored by the University of Minnesota International Center.

Community members who wish to participate in Homestay are asked to provide a room and morning and evening meals. Week-days the student commutes to the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis.

An orientation session for hosts and hostesses is held prior to each Homestay period. For more information call 373-3200.

Zilley named as fellowship winner

Eric Zilley, a senior chemistry major at Gustavus Adolphus College and a graduate of Highland Park Senior High School, was recently named as one of 14 Holcomb Fellows at the college.

As a fellowship winner, Zilley received a grant from Sigma Xi, the national sciences society, to develop an independent study program in the natural and behavioral sciences. Zilley will conduct his research in association with the Monsanto Company's agricultural division.

Zilley is now eligible for the Outstanding Science Student at Gustavus. He is the son of Dean and Gloria Zilley, 891 S. Wilder.

Bennett highlights Weekender Series at Orchestra Hall

Tickets are now on sale for the 1978-79 Weekender Series at Orchestra Hall, a program featuring a number of major artists from the pop and classical music scene.

Opening in September and continuing through May of 1979, the 10-event series will include appearances by Tony Bennett, Ethel Merman, Stanislaw Skrowaczewski, Professor Peter Schickele, better known as PDQ Bach, and the Norman Luboff Choir.

For ticket information and a complete schedule of performances, call the Orchestra Hall box office (371-5656) or any Dayton's ticket office.

St. Paul's 4th of July fireworks show state's largest ever

The largest display of ground and aerial fireworks ever presented in the State of Minnesota will be touched off at 9:45 p.m. on the 4th of July at the Minnesota State Fairgrounds.

Co-sponsored by the St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation and Americana Fireworks Display Company, this landmark event will feature a one hour and 15 minute continuous display of thousands of colorful visual effects and shattering sound salutes.

Families are invited to come to the fairgrounds early (the main gates will open at 5:00 p.m.) and bring a picnic dinner or put one together from the available concessions. The fireworks festivities will be launched by the 1978 St. Paul Winter Carnival Royalty and Vulcan Krewe at 9:30 p.m.

Grandstand general admission will be $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for children ages 12 and under, plus 50 cents per car and 50 cents per person at the fairground entrance gate. Proceeds will go to the Winter Carnival's Junior Royalty Program.

Advance tickets are now on sale at all Dayton's ticket offices.

It's 'Animal Time' at Merriam branch

It'll be Animal Time at the Merriam Park Branch Library, 1831 Marshall Ave., when visitors from the Minnesota Zoological Gardens present a slide show and talk about the new zoo at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday, June 27.

Then at 2:00 p.m. Wednesday, June 28, the library becomes its own zoo when it hosts a Show and Tell Pet Parade. All pets of friendly persuasion are welcome, but they must be on a leash or in a cage. Both programs are free.

Burnet Realty introduces...

"THE HOMEBUYER'S SURVIVAL KIT"

A series of three Thursday evening programs, each one different, to aid prospective homebuyers in today's market

There have been a number of reports lately about how tough it's getting to buy a home in the Twin Cities. Sure, there's a lot of competition for homes and money is getting tighter, but Burnet Realty still believes that buying a home can be a pleasant, rewarding experience. And to help you not only survive, but even enjoy the homebuyer's "jungle," we've put together a special series of programs.

The sessions will be short and to the point, with experts on hand to tell you about financing, market conditions, structural details...even about the history and background of the neighborhood you love.

Admission is free and there is no obligation. (Really!)

We'll look forward to seeing you on Thursdays, June 22 and 29, at the Northern Federal Community Room (Cleveland & Pinehurst.) The programs will start at 7:30 p.m. and end at about 9:00.

June 15: Basic steps to buying a home in current market conditions

June 22: Qualifying yourself as a buyer. Speakers from savings and loan associations, forms and formulas explained for figuring out monthly payments, purchase agreements and closing costs explained

June 29: What to look for structurally when inspecting a home. Our speaker has been a Minneapolis housing inspector for 20 years.

If you have missed our first meeting, we have a free printed book for you, "The Homebuyer's Survival Kit," at the meetings or at our office.

Mac profs awarded NSF
development grants

The National Science Foundation (NSF) recently announced the selection of 127 college and university teachers to receive Science Faculty Professional Development Awards. Two of those selected are Macalester College faculty members — Wayne Roberts, professor of mathematics, and Ray Mikkelson, professor of physics.

The grant will enable Roberts to spend the 1978-79 academic year at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he will develop general background in operations-research, prepare materials to be used in leading seminars on the topics, and study those areas related to transportation systems and scheduling of services in an urban area. He will spend the last three months of the program associated with the Honeywell Traffic Management Center.

The grant will enable Professor Mikkelson to extend his sabbatical leave to a full year, from January through December, 1979. His study program will be based at the University of Minnesota where he hopes to gain the expertise necessary to introduce real-time laboratory computing techniques into the science curriculum at Macalester. Part of the program will involve work with a curricular development project within the University of Minnesota School of Physics.

Following recent auditions, Daniel Dee, 1076 Eleanor Ave., and Lynn Faykish, 1538 Conway St., became the only two ballet students in the state to be offered full scholarships to the San Francisco Ballet School for an intensive six-week summer course. Both dancers are products of the Ballet Academy of Minnesota, 311 Ramsey St., under the direction of Jo Savino.

Gibbs sets hours

New summer hours have been set for the Gibbs Farm Museum, 2097 West Larpentour. The museum will be open for visitors Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and on Sundays from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.

Admission is $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for children 12 and under, and $1.25 for senior citizens.

Series for adults
cooking at Library

"Lite and Lively: Cooking for Seniors" is the topic of a presentation to be given by Kim Worth of Ramsey County Extension at 2:00 p.m. Friday, June 23 at the Highland Park Branch Library, 1974 Ford Parkway.

Two reasons why Minnesota taxpayers are upset.

Down at the Playground

GROVELAND

Whew! Do we have excitement brewing for you down at Groveland.

First of all, there's the pet show on Monday, June 26. Come on out, gang, and bring your dog, cat, bird, mouse, pig, goat, horse, ant, bear, or beaver. We'll parade 'em owl!

Rollerskating is scheduled for three Fridays, June 30, July 14 and July 28. The cost is $1.75. Call 698-5747 for more information.

Boys and girls ages 8-18 are invited to pick up a few pointers from the pros at the Midwest Federal-Minnesota Twins baseball clinic to be held at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 5 at Groveland.

Don't miss the Frisbee Contest July 15. There will be food, candy, popcorn and fun for all. Look for more details in this issue of the Villager.

RIVERSIDE

The schedule for Riverside's program for ages 4-5 is Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m. Tuesday evening is the time for adults. Co-Rec Volleyball will be held that evening at Riverside Recreation Center.

"Rhythm Band" is the theme for Riverside when we enter the downtown parade on Monday, June 26, celebrating the 75th anniversary of the St. Paul Recreation Department, June 26-30.

Sign up by Wednesday, June 28 for rollerskating on Friday, June 30. The cost is $2.00.

Get into the Obstacle Course Contest at 1:30 p.m. Friday, July 7! We wish you all luck in getting out of it, too.

Don't forget the paper drive, rummage sale and raffle on Saturday, July 8 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Save those papers and telephone books. We also need items for our rummage sale. If you can be of any help, just call 699-7386 Monday through Friday from 2:00 to 8:00 p.m.

HILLCREST

Are your allegiances torn between soccer and baseball? How about compromising by trying your foot at a little kickball? Every Monday from 10:00 a.m. to noon we'll be playing it here at Hillcrest. All kids in grades 1-6 are invited to stop on down.

"Marvy Harbi" has also lined up a couples' softball night every Friday at 6:30 p.m. All are invited.

Highland area men interested in forming an evening horseshoe league this summer should give Hillcrest a jingle at 698-1435.

DESNOYER

Hello from Desnoyer!

Summer programs should have been delivered to each home in the area by now. If you were missed, just stop in at the center and pick one up.

Our baseball and softball teams began play the week of June 12, but due to rain only the high school team has managed to get a game in. Better luck next week. The cub baseball team plays at 10:00 a.m. Fridays, cub softball plays Thursdays at 2:00 p.m., and the boys' high school softball team plays on Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m.

We invite all parents and friends to come out and support the teams. If you can help with supplying rides to the games, call the center. We'd all appreciate it.

The 75th Anniversary Parade is at 11:30 Monday, June 26. All who wish to walk are invited. Bus transportation will be provided to Harriet Island and back here to Desnoyer. Contact the Center for more information.

Rollerskating will be held every other Friday starting June 30. Money must be in by Thursday before skating date. The cost for skating is $1.75, which includes bus and skate rentals.

The city-wide Hop Scotch Tournament is at 1:00 p.m. Thursday, June 29 at Harriet Island. If you're in 9th grade and under, come on down to Desnoyer and join us in practice. It'd sure make us hoppy.

Day camp starts Monday, June 26. Call Desnoyer for complete details.

EDGCUMBE

For those of you who slept through last issue, we've got a few swift kicks to put you on your toes, and another reminder for Family Soccer Night. Okay, let's take it from the top.

Now's your chance to see the exciting Minnesota Kicks in action on Wednesday, July 12. The cost of a ticket and transportation is only $2.25. All those interested must pre-register and pay by Friday, July 7 if they haven't done so already. The bus will leave Edgumbe at 7:15 p.m.

The second monthly Edgumbe Bingo Night sponsored by the Edgumbe Hockey Association will be held on Thursday, June 29 from 7:00 to 11:00 p.m. in the basement of Holy Spirit School. All proceeds will be forwarded to the hockey program to help defray costs. Come and sponsor your local center's program through your support of Edgumbe Bingo Night!

Sporting a cluster of badges and newly acquired Eagle Scout Awards are these three area scouts from Troop 38, sponsored by Mattocks School PTA: (left to right) Bill Jorke, 594 Warwick Ave.; Dean Brovold, 1699 Wellesley Ave.; and David Wilzbacker, 1684 Bayard Ave. Brovold and Wilzbacker are the third members of their families to receive the Eagle Award, scouting's highest honor.

Breese to direct affirmative action for state agency

Charles W. Breese, 62 S. Dale St., has been named affirmative action director for the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT). He succeeds Kenneth Wofford who was promoted to the post of Mn/DOT aeronautics operations director.

Breese's responsibilities are to design and administer Mn/DOT's internal equal opportunity and affirmative action programs and to evaluate and monitor all complaints alleging discriminatory practices.

From 1974 until his recent appointment, he served as affirmative action officer for the State University system.

A native of Baltimore, Breese earned a B.S. degree at Morgan State University and worked toward an M.B.A. degree at the University of Illinois.

Currently he is vice-chair of the Minnesota State Association for Affirmative Action, president of the St. Paul Branch of the NAACP, chair of the Urban Catholic Community Schools, a board member of the Benjamin E. Mays Learning Center and co-chair of the Northwest Area Foundation Advisory Committee.

Bobzin conducts civic orchestra to ASCAP award

The Civic Orchestra of Minneapolis, under the direction of Robert Bobzin, has been selected to receive a $200 prize for adventure-some programming of contemporary music, awarded by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP).

Each year the Symphony and Concert Committee of ASCAP recognizes those orchestras and conductors who have done the most in the past year to promote contemporary music in their communities.

The Civic Orchestra of Minneapolis was one of 22 orchestras honored in seven different categories with prizes totalling $14,200. Its conductor, Robert Bobzin, is also musical director at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

The prizes were awarded during the 33rd National Conference of the American Symphony Orchestra League, held recently at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Chicago.

Friday film festival features five flicks

The Friday Film Festival at Hamline University includes five films scheduled during June and July. All films are shown at 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. and are open to the public with a $1.00 donation requested.

The films and their dates are: Alfred Hitchcock's "The 39 Steps" on June 23; a science fiction flick, "Silent Running," on June 30; "Auntie Mame," starring Rosalind Russell, on July 14; "Curse of the Demon" on July 21; and Woody Allen's "Sleeper" on July 28.

All five films will be shown in Room 100E of the Hamline Learning Center.

Darcy M. Welch has been appointed as an admissions counselor at the College of St. Catherine. Miss Welch, who graduated from St. Catherine's in 1977 with a degree in English, will visit prospective college students and high school counselors in Illinois and parts of Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

Information center seeks volunteers

The Information and Referral Center (I&R), sponsored by the non-profit Community Planning Organization, Inc., is looking for volunteers to assist in its community resources and services phone-in program.

Volunteers are needed who can work one morning or afternoon each week between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, helping people locate services in the community, including health care and social activities.

For more information about becoming a I&R volunteer, call Linda Williams at 291-8393.

SPA/SS seniors earn scholarships

Four St. Paul Academy and Summit School seniors were recently awarded Merit Scholarships.

The students and their scholarships are: Christopher J. Wood, 904 Lincoln Ave., National Merit Scholarship; Roger F. Holbert, 193 Amhurst and Sheila Goodman, 1045 S. Davern, College-Sponsored Four-Year Merit Scholarships; and Eric Hampl, a Four-Year Merit Scholarship.

Super summer

A demonstration of theatrical make-up and a program of signed songs and poetry will be presented when the Minnesota Theatre Institute for the Deaf brings its workshop to the Merriam Park Branch Library, 1831 Marshall Ave., at 4:00 p.m. Thursday, June 22.

This free event is part of the St. Paul Public Library's "Super Summer" for children, but all ages are welcome.

Saucer tossers to converge on Groveland for benefit contest

Remember those long hours you spent struggling to throw that silly plastic saucer with the funny name? Remember after all those hours being able to finally toss that saucer the way you wanted?

And remember when you realized, after all those hours of practice, that that was all you had—the ability to throw a silly plastic disc the way you planned (and maybe a little cheap status on the beach)?

Well now's your chance to get a little more out of that knack for flinging a frisbee. Century 21-Creative Realty and Groveland playground are sponsoring a frisbee contest at 10:00 a.m. Saturday, July 15 at Groveland playground, St. Clair and Prior Aves.

There will be three age brackets in the competition: ages 6 to 8; 9 to 11; and 12 to 14. For each group there will be three prizes: first place winners receive a $35.00 skateboard; second place wins a $20.00 skateboard; and for third place winners, a soccer ball.

There will also be two grand prize drawings. Ages 6 to 9 will draw for a Huffy Dirt Bike and ages 10 to 14 will draw for a ten-speed bicycle. You don't have to enter the frisbee contest to win a grand prize.

But whether you're in the contest or trying your luck in the drawing, a $1.00 donation and a filled-out entry form are required. You can use the entry form in the Century 21-Creative Realty ad in this issue, pick one up at Groveland playground, or at Century 21-Creative Realty, 2179 St. Clair Ave.

All proceeds go to Groveland playground. Refreshments will be served and all the frisbees in the contest will be supplied for you to keep.

Hey Cal—keep an eye on these kids

Damp grounds outside didn't dampen the enthusiasm of these youngsters who participated in the Angelo Giuliani-led Twins Clinic held indoors at Edcumbe Recreation Center on June 7. Twins scouts John Mauer and Bill Kane assisted Angie in giving tips on hitting, pitching, fielding and running.

Post-natal classes offered at St. Luke's, Children's hospitals

United Hospitals and Children's Hospital of St. Paul will offer a four-part series of post-natal class and discussion sessions on Wednesday evenings from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. for parents with babies one to 10 weeks old.

Scheduled to begin June 21, the classes will be held at the St. Luke's Division of United Hospitals, 300 Pleasant Ave., and Children's Hospital, 311 Pleasant Ave.

The groups will discuss labor and delivery experiences, physical adjustment to having a new baby, feeding, sleeping, illnesses, safety, baby-sitting and the effect of the baby on family roles.

Each group is led by maternity and pediatric nurses, with assistance from a registered dietitian. Parents are encouraged to bring their babies and share their experiences, concerns and problems. Interpreting services are available for hearing-impaired persons.

A registration fee of $5.00 will be charged. For information and registration, call the United Hospitals' Health Education Department at 298-8547.

Registration opens for summer camp

Registration is now open to boys and girls in elementary through high school for the Hiawatha Branch YMCA's summer camp. The YMCA divides its program into five camps for different age groups.

Kici Yapi is a day camp available to children ages 4-9. Camps Icahowan, near Amery, Wisc., and Idhuhapi, near Loretto, Minn., are resident camps for boys and girls grades four through eight.

For boys 7 through 16 years there is Camp Warren, located near Eveleth, Minn.

The YMCA also operates Nenogym, a wilderness canoe and backpacking camp on the Gun Flint Trail near the Canadian border, for eighth through twelfth grade boys and girls.

'U' posts song and dance

A full summer of free events has been planned by the Northrop Auditorium Department of Concerts and Lectures and the U of M Summer Session.

The Minnesota Orchestra heads the entertaining list with five concerts beginning at noon Wednesday, July 5 on the East Bank mall and at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, July 6 in Northrop Auditorium.

The orchestra goes outside again for a concert at noon Friday, July 7 on the West Bank, and for two noon performances on Thursday and Friday, August 10 and 11 on the East Bank mall.

Free summer session events also include two University Orchestra concerts—August 4 at noon on the East Bank mall, and August 11 at noon on the West Bank.

The Roberta Davis Quartet will appear on the plaza in front of Northrop at 8:00 p.m. Monday, June 26. Also scheduled for the plaza are the classical jazz of the Wolverines at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday, June 28, and the swing sound of Rio Nido at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday, July 5.

Free summer dance events continue at 8:00 p.m. this Thursday, June 22 with Kenneth Delap and the Ozone Dance company accompanied by the live sound of Price and Peterson, a guitar and violin duo. The Kathryn Posin Dance Company will also perform at 8:00 p.m. on Saturday, August 5. All dance events will be held inside Northrop Auditorium.

The Prairie Home Companion Show with Garrison Keillor will take to the air waves beginning at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, July 29 from the Northrop mall.

For a complete list of scheduled summer events, call 373-2345. In the event of rain, East Bank concerts will be held inside air-conditioned Northrop Auditorium.

Fort Snelling to sponsor summer lecture series

The Minnesota Historical Society will continue its Thursday evening lecture series with three programs planned for June and July in the Officers' Quarters at Historic Fort Snelling.

The lectures, which will be held from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m., are:

June 22-The Fashionable Tour. Marx Swanhelm, MHS research historian, will discuss the fashionable tour and tourists in Minnesota during the mid-1880's.

July 6-Fort Snelling's Past Uncovered. Robert Clouse, MHS assistant archeologist, will discuss the artifacts found at the fort.

July 20-The Sibley Family and the Destiny of the Northwest Territory. Rhoda Gilman, MHS supervisor of research, discusses the roles of Henry Sibley and his family in this area's history.

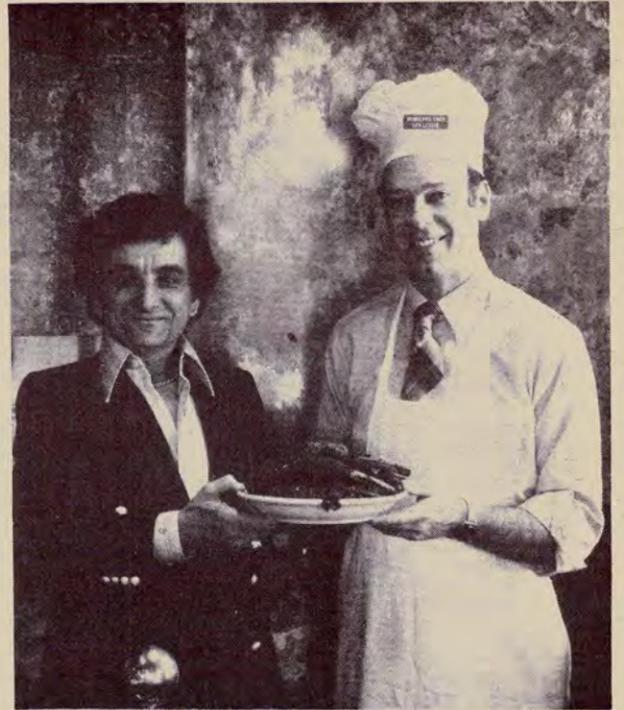

For further information about the lectures, which are open to the public free of charge, call 726-1171.

Future features shown at Institute

Eight classic science fiction films will be featured in a series beginning June 27 and 28 at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. Each feature in the series will be preceded by one or two episodes from the 1937 Buck Rogers serial, which will be shown in its entirety during the series.

The movies and their screening dates are as follows: The Day the Earth Stood Still, June 27-28; Forbidden Planet, July 4-5; I Married a Monster from Outer Space, July 11-12; Zardoz, July 18-19; The War of the Worlds, July 25-26; Things to Come, August 1-2; The Thing, August 8-9; and The Time Machine, August 15-16.

The films will be shown at 8:20 p.m. on Tuesdays and Wednesdays in the museum's Pillsbury Auditorium. The Buck Rogers series will begin at 8:00 p.m. Admission is $1.50.

Photos by Harry Callahan exhibited

An exhibition of more than 200 photographs of Harry Callahan, a central figure in the evolution of photography during the past 35 years, opens at the Walker Art Center on Sunday, July 2 and continues through August 13.

The exhibition, organized by The Museum of Modern Art, traces Callahan's career from his first successes in the 1940s to his increasingly complex work of the past ten years.

The exhibition includes many works, early and recent, that have not been previously exhibited or published.

For more information call 377-7500.

The Joseph Forepaugh family of St. Paul often enjoyed a Sunday afternoon in 1885 over a leisurely dinner in their Irvine Park mansion home.

Families still do.

Sunday was a time to be idle and happy, when Joseph Forepaugh's family drew close again after a week of labors. His home was filled with easy laughter and conversation, and the sweet smells of roasting meat, stews, and puddings. Today, your family can enjoy that same quiet charm on a Sunday afternoon. Unique sandwiches, salads, steaks, omelettes, served continuously closing: in the frugal neighborhood of $6.

"...and they lived happily ever after." Cast members from George Poletes' The Elves and Shoemaker, which will be staged July 5-27 in Frey Theatre, are David Gross (bottom), 133 Exeter Place, as the old Elf; and left to right: Martha Frommelt, 1871 Randolph Ave., as Fraulein Muller; Caryn Lindsay, 182 Montrose Place, as Ilsa Shoemaker; and Bruce Salino as Stepan Shoemaker.

'The Elves and Shoemaker' opens July 5 at St. Kate's

The Elves and Shoemaker, a children's play by George Poletes, will be presented at 1:00 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, July 5-27 in Frey Theatre at the College of St. Catherine.

Based on the classic children's tale, the lively plot revolves around a poor shoemaker and his daughter whose lives are turned upside down by a visit from a band of elves. There's a "bad" elf to hiss at, a wise old elf to cheer for, a magic concertina to marvel at, and many other characters, both human and elfin, for people of all ages.

Directing the play is its prolific author, George Poletes, and John C. Murphy, Jr. J.M. Bald is the technical director, with costumes by Anna Waneus.

The cast, made up of players of all different ages from throughout the Twin Cities, includes Bruce Salino as Stepan Shoemaker, Caryn Lindsay as Ilsa Shoemaker, Martha A. Frommelt as Fraulein Muller, David Gross as Old Elf, John Hague as Welf the Elf, Stephanie Opp as Lina the Concertina, Jacqueline Southward as Frau Mayer, Bob Morrow as Herr Milk Seller and Christopher Anglim as Herr Baker. Elves are played by Anna Bromback, Jane Hedges, Mary Hedges, Mary Luger, Beth Mingo, Ellen Mingo, Denise Moffett, Renee Stone, Pattie Strom, Michael Stromme and Becky Watkins.

Admission is $1.00 for single tickets. Group rates are available at 75 cents per person for parties of ten or more, and 50 cents for parties of 25 or more. For information or reservations, call 690-6680 or 690-6795.

Chimera Theatre offers summer classes for all kinds of characters

The second session of theater classes offered by Chimera Theatre Company begins July 10 and runs through July 20.

For children ages 4 and 5, "ABC Dramatics" provides an exciting first drama experience. In "Dance Fantasia," 6 to 8-year-olds explore basic concepts of movement to help them create their own dances.

Children ages 9 to 11 can develop their imaginative powers in "More Adventures in Narnia" and Junior High students will get a chance to write, create and act in their own production in "Let's Do A Show."

All children's classes will meet Mondays through Thursdays at the St. Paul

Arts and Science Center, 30 East 10th St.

Two classes are also being offered to adults age 16 and up. "Preparing Your Audition" emphasizes the preparation of at least two audition pieces that best show the student's talents.

"That Broadway Beat" explores character development along with dance. The class will work on dance styles of the 50's and 70's.

Adult classes meet Mondays through Thursdays at the Edyth Bush Theatre, 690 Cleveland Ave. So. There will also be a third session offered August 7 through 17.

All classes cost $25.00. For more information or registration call 690-1516.

Collages displayed at Institute of Arts

Collages by seven state artists are presently featured as part of the Minnesota Artists Exhibition Program of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. The exhibition will be on view until July 30 in the museum's Minnesota Gallery.

The artists represented in the exhibition are Jenny Hassis-Cowette, Tom Cowette, Stephen Hartman, Hugh Kappel, Zigmunds Friede, William Roode and Sharon Stockwell.

Zeitgeist performs in concert July 7

Zeitgeist, a contemporary music ensemble comprised of area musicians, will present a concert at 9:00 p.m. Friday, July 7 in the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center Concert Hall at Macalester College. There is no admission charge.

The program will include "Spiral" and "Set Sail for the Sun" by Stockhausen, "Noche Pasiva Del Sentido" by Halffter, "MRI-973" by James Demars, and some improvisational pieces.

Art Institute offers summer workshops and day camps

Four series of classes and workshops for young people will begin during June at The Minneapolis Institute of Arts and continue through the summer. Workshops studying modern artists, animated film and various media will be offered as well as day camps in drawing, painting and puppetry.

Exploring Art, a series of studio workshops for young people ages 4-6, will explore drawing, painting and working with three dimensional forms on Wednesdays from 10:00 to 11:30 a.m. June 21 to August 16. Tuition for each workshop is $4.00.

Modern Artists will study the lives and work of modern artists represented in the museum's collection from June 22 to August 17. The workshops will be offered on Thursdays in two sections: Thursdays, for ages 7-9, 9:30 a.m. to noon; and Section B, ages 10-14, 1:00 to 3:30 p.m. Tuition for each workshop is $5.00.

In the Animated Film Workshops, students will view a series of animated films and learn the techniques of two types of film-making: hand drawn animation and animation filmed with an 8 mm camera. The four week-long workshops, scheduled to begin June 26, will be offered in sections for young people ages 6-9 and 10-15. Tuition is $22.00.

Realistic Drawing and Painting, a course for young people ages 10-15 interested in an intensive study of drawing and painting technique, is the first summer day camp and will be offered June 26-30 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuition is $40.00.

The Puppets day camp, for ages 8-12, will be offered from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. July 10-14. Tuition is $40.00.

Beginning Drawing and Painting, for ages 7-10, will be offered August 14-18 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuition is $40.00. Students should bring a bag lunch to all the day camps. Refreshments will be provided.

Brennan appears at Chimera's premiere of 'Cheap Detective'

Film, stage and television star Eileen Brennan will be the featured guest at Chimera Theatre's benefit premiere of Neil Simon's new movie, "The Cheap Detective," at the Cooper Theatre on Thursday, June 22.

Ms. Brennan plays throaty songstress Betty DeBoop in "The Cheap Detective," an affectionate parody of Hollywood detective movies, with Peter Falk in the title role. Her previous roles include Genevieve in "The Last Picture Show," Billie in "The Sting," and Peter Falk's girlfriend in "Murder by Death."

She started her career by creating the Obie award-winning performance of Little Mary in the original "Little Mary Sunshine" and went on to appear as Irene Malloy in the original Broadway production of "Hello, Dolly" starring Carol Channing.

Ms. Brennan's appearance and the film premiere are being promoted by Chimera Theatre to establish an Actor's Scholarship Fund. The fund, which will be administered by the Saint Paul Foundation, is designed to help the many actors, technicians and musicians who have donated their time and talents to Twin Cities theatrical productions.

An old-fashioned Hollywood opening is planned for the benefit premiere. Ms. Brennan will be escorted to the Cooper Theatre in a classic car of that period. Lit by sky-scanning klieg lights, the night will begin with a 7:00 p.m. champagne reception on the Cooper Terrace.

At 8:00 p.m., a program hosted by veteran Chimera actor Jack Mitsch, 1788 Wellesley Ave., will feature the introduction of Eileen Brennan, entertainment by Chimera's singing group, the Highlighters, and the premiere screening of "The Cheap Detective."

Tickets to the champagne benefit are $25.00. Donations to the Actor's Scholarship Fund will also be accepted. For further information or reservations, contact the Chimera Box Office at 222-0792.

Directory of non-profit arts groups published

A directory of non-profit organizations in Minnesota, published by the Arts Resource and Information Center of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, is currently being revised and updated.

"Non-Profit Arts Organizations in Minnesota" was first published in 1975. The revision, which will be available late this summer, will include descriptions of more than 500 state arts organizations involved in music, theatre, dance, visual arts, literary arts and architecture. Information about special services, programs, resources and facilities will also be included.

The Arts Resource and Information Center requests that any organization that wishes to be included in the new publication but has not received a questionnaire, write or call Susan Page or Sandy Oakes at the Resource Center, The Minneapolis Institute of Arts, 2400 Third Ave. S., Mpls., MN 55404; or call 870-3133.

City, HBA to sponsor 4th of July celebration

The Highland Business Association and the St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department will once again co-sponsor the 4th of July celebration at Highland Park.

The schedule for the day's activities includes:
11:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. — Registration for door prizes and contests.
1:00-5:00 p.m. — Contests (darts, horseshoes and volleyball).
2:00-4:00 p.m. — Races and relays.
3:30-5:00 p.m. — Dance (featuring Dick Palumbo's band).

Area residents are invited to bring the whole family and join in the fun. Bring a picnic lunch or eat at the concession stand in the park. The pool, golf courses and a Red Cross first aid station will all be available for use. The fireworks display will be at the state fairgrounds at 9:45 p.m.

Nightclub performers Tony Sandler and Ralph Young will perform in Orchestra Hall at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, June 21-24 in the second week of the Cabaret Pops concerts. The popular singer-comedians have appeared on many television talk and variety shows, and most concert stages in the United States and Canada. For tickets, call the Orchestra Hall box office at 371-5656 or any Dayton's ticket office.

One secretary of state to another—Barb Brabec, elected Secretary of State by the 1978 Girls State meeting held at the Capitol on June 16, has a post election chat with Minnesota Secretary of State Joan Anderson Growe. Barb is the daughter of Ladd and Rosemary Brabec, 1329 Sumer St.

Nine area priests assigned to new posts by archbishop

Archbishop John R. Roach recently announced the assignment of five area pastors administrators, the appointment of one area associate pastor, and three area appointments to special ministries.

Reverend William K. Gamber is the new pastor of St. Therese's parish. A native of Fergus Falls, Father Gamber has served as pastor of St. Vincent de Paul parish in St. Paul since 1975, and as associate pastor at the parishes of St. John the Baptist in New Brighton, and Holy Spirit in St. Paul.

Reverend Gerald F. Kegler will become co-pastor of the parish of St. Mary of the Lake in Plymouth. He has served as associate pastor of the parishes of St. Helena in Minneapolis; St. Mark in St. Paul; and St. Kevin in Minneapolis.

Reverend Joseph N. Streff will become pastor of St. Bernard's parish in Cologne. He has been pastor of St. Therese's parish in St. Paul since 1967. Father Streff also has served as associate pastor to the parishes of Incarnation in Minneapolis; Blessed Sacrament and St. Luke, both in St. Paul.

Reverend Richard Villano, O.S.C., will become administrator of St. Helena's parish in Minneapolis. He has served as associate pastor of the parish of St. Charles Borromeo in St. Anthony since 1970.

Reverend Alfred S. Wagner will become pastor of the Basilica of St. Mary in Minneapolis. Father Wagner has served as pastor of the parish of St. Helena in Minneapolis since 1969.

Reverend F. Feela will become associate pastor of St. Helena's parish in Minneapolis.

Appointed to special ministries are: Reverend James Jackson, S.M., who will become chaplain at Our Lady of Good Counsel Cancer Home in St. Paul. Father Jackson has been serving as pastor of the parish of St. Jude of the Lake in Mahtomedi.

Reverend Robert J. Jude will become chaplain of St. Mary's Home in St. Paul. Father Jude has been serving as pastor of St. Luke's parish in Clearwater.

Reverend Thomas H. Sieg will join the faculty of the theology department at the St. Paul Seminary. Father Sieg has been serving as associate pastor of St. Peter's parish in North St. Paul.

talking out of school

by Bill Rosenbloom and Carl Nelson

"As a member of the St. Paul Federation of Teachers, I would be happy to accept the Rosenbloom and Nelson Traveling Trophy for the Federation's opposition to performance objectives for teachers."

With these happy words, Vince Harnick, a teacher at Hazel Park Junior High, graciously accepted Talking Out of School's recent dubious decoration, the "Having Their Cake and Eating It, Too, Award," on behalf of the St. Paul Federation of Teachers. His acceptance speech appeared as a guest editorial in the June 12 edition of "Focus," the Federation's news bulletin. We are, needless to say, happy that he's happy with the token of our twitting—a bronzed cake.

What rates a Talking Out of School rebuttal, however, is Mr. Harnick's rationale for that opposition. What follows is a good part of it:

"The Federation has not opposed accountability; we only demand that the method used not be unilaterally imposed on teachers by other groups, and that the method chosen take into account that teachers have no control over such important areas as class size, classroom equipment, parental involvement, student personalities, etc.

"Performance objectives were originally an outgrowth of the business community and were used by management in an attempt to increase assembly-line production. When one realizes that these objectives were too inflexible to effectively improve the production of tin cans, it becomes insanity to apply them to the 'production' of learning in human beings, who have more variables than the average tin can!"

Talking Out of School's response:

Mr. Harnick makes an important point—performance standards are not the only means available for achieving teacher accountability. Indeed, one can be for accountability and against performance objectives. However, while claiming that the Federation is not against accountability, Mr. Harnick certainly doesn't exhibit much interest in it.

Mr. Harnick demands that performance objectives not be imposed unilaterally by others. We go along with that, but we also insist that parents and others have a legitimate interest, and should have a legitimate role, in the development of accountability standards and means.

Mr. Harnick mentions several variables other than teacher performance at work in the educational process. Talking Out of School recognizes the importance of class size, classroom equipment, parental involvement and student personalities in addition to teacher performance. We (i.e. teachers, parents, school board members and administrators) should be smart enough to objectively rate the performance of teachers while allowing for the other variables. Most of those have been involved with the education of their children know which teachers (most of them) are good and which teachers (a few of them) are not. Those that aren't should be encouraged to improve or be removed. There should, of course, be some standards and processes so the power to dismiss is not abused.

What Mr. Harnick has done, in effect, is build a tin man, slap a performance objective label on its chest, and then knock it down because those objectives didn't build a better body. But just because something didn't work for tin cans doesn't mean it is unworkable, if creatively used, for teachers. Performance objectives are methods that can be made flexible, and can be used while recognizing other operating factors.

Mr. Harnick, we've asked Mrs. Ball, the school district's director of food services, to package your bronzed cake in a tin can when it comes off the assembly line at the central kitchen sometime tomorrow morning. Don't bother picking it up; we'll be happy to deliver it.

Just remember: if you find the tin can dented or damaged in any way when it arrives at your doorstep, there's no way of telling whether the poor performance was in the manufacturing, the packaging, or the sloppy handling of the delivery man.

Longtime Highland area resident Edith Moravec, 2096 Bayard Ave., will retire from Mid America State Bank of Highland Park on June 30, it was announced recently. An employee of the bank for the past 12 years, most recently in the safety deposit vault department, she will be honored later this month at a retirement party given by her associates.

Keep those calls coming in: Tel-Med plays your favorites

by John Ruddy

The number one tape being played at St. Paul Ramsey Hospital these days is "Tommy Gets His Tonsils Out."

It'll never make Billboard's Top 40, but it's a bullet on Tel-Med's Top 250.

Tel-Med isn't a new music trade magazine, nor is Tommy any relation to the pin-ball wizard. Tel-Med is a free health and medical telephone information service sponsored by the hospital and the Medical Education and Research Foundation (MERF).

"Tommy's Tonsils," aka tape #400, is the most frequently requested of the 250 pre-recorded health and safety messages available to anyone who can dial a telephone.

Since its St. Paul debut in 1974, Tel-Med has received nearly a quarter of a million calls, requesting taped information on such topics as family planning, pregnancy, cancer, venereal disease, emotional problems, child care and first aid.

The process is simple. The first thing you need is Tel-Med's free brochure which lists all of the three-to-seven-minute tapes currently available. Brochure in hand, dial 222-1551 and give the operator the number of the tape you'd like to hear. That's all there is to it.

But there is more to Tel-Med. The St. Paul service is one of 62 similar systems now operating at hospitals and medical centers across the country that subscribe to the California-based Tel-Med service.

In 1974, a group of Ramsey Hospital physicians, upon hearing of the success the program was having in other communities, applied for and received a license to be a franchisee of the national company. Following an initial investment of $15,000 for equipment and an agreement to pay a monthly fee, the local lines started ringing.

Although the St. Paul Tel-Med pays to use the copyrighted name and relies on the national company to produce the tapes, it is basically an independent operation. MERF pays all of the expenses, including the salaries of one full-time and two part-time operators; the hospital provides the space and technical assistance.

The equipment needed to relay the nearly 1800 minutes of taped health messages is tucked away in a tiny corner of a small hospital office. The control console containing 10 phone-tape systems (seven for day calls, three for night calls) and the revolving stack of tapes take up less space than one would imagine for a system that is capable of reaching so many people with so much information.

The St. Paul Tel-Med has complete control over what tapes it keeps on file and what information is on those tapes.

From a master list of Wednesday, June 21, 1978

Kathy Landis, operations manager for St. Paul Tel-Med, takes her turn at running the tape and telephone switchboard. Two-hundred-and-fifty pre-recorded health and safety messages are available free by dialing 222-1551 between 9:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

available tapes provided by the national Tel-Med, the directors of the local program select a topic and request a suggested script. The script is submitted to local physicians who make sure that the medical information and terminology is accurate. The amended script is then returned to California to be produced into a three-to seven-minute tape.

It is necessary to go over each script carefully because of the differences in medical practice from one area of the country to another, according to John Tomlin, controller for MERF and one of three directors of the area Tel-Med.

"Medicine is practiced differently in virtually every hospital in the U.S.," Tomlin said. "We have to check the message to make sure that the information does not conflict with the methods accepted in our community. We double check to insure that our callers get the latest and most accurate information possible."

Tomlin admitted that the information must be basic and general, because of regulations against practicing medicine over the phone.

"We cannot prescribe, diagnose ailments or solicit for the hospital," he said. "What we can offer is useful, but general information on a wide variety of health and safety topics."

In addition to the regular service offered to anyone who calls, Tel-Med cooperates with special interest groups that want to produce their own tapes and have them included in the existing library.

Not long ago, a VD clinic approached Tel-Med with an idea to use the phone system to help in their efforts to control the disease.

The clinic was having difficulty in getting contacts of known VD carriers to come in for treatment, or rather, correct treatment. Many of the suspected carriers would go to their doctors, not tell them exactly what to look for, and be subsequently given a clean bill of health.

The clinic suggested a system in which the known carrier gives a card to his/her contacts with instructions to present it to their doctors. On the card is Tel-Med's telephone number and a number of a tape. The pre-recorded message tells the doctor that his patient is suspected of having VD. The process is a confidential, successful and less embarrassing way of handling a delicate situation.

Not all of the callers request information about VD or Tommy's departed tonsils. There are tapes on such varied topics as bee stings, hayfever, thumb-sucking, acne, hiccups, marijuana, lockjaw, gout, baldness and the croup. Something for everybody.

So, if you've got a couple of minutes, give Tel-Med a call. You just might learn a thing or two-hundred-and-fifty.

Area student places second in Hibernians' essay contest

James Curtin, 2163 Dayton Ave., has been named the second place winner in the annual essay contest sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The contest, which is open to all students up to grade 12 from across the country, has two levels—elementary and high school—each with a designated essay topic. James, a freshman at St. Thomas Academy, wrote on "The Trauma of Northern Ireland," the topic assigned to all high school essayists.

Sponsor for the contest, the Ancient Order of Hibernians and its ladies auxiliary, was formed in Ire-

Area artist opens new frame and photo studio on Grand Ave.

The headline could've read "Artist turns businessman, opens Grand Avenue Frame and Photograph Studio." It's true enough, but owner Brian Valento might balk a bit.

You see, though the 29-year-old artist has opened his own shop in the former Town and Country Frame and Gallery at 1672½ Grand Ave., he is somewhat concerned about the term "businessman."

Not that he's uncertain about his ability to balance the books or provide excellent service. He knows he's a good merchant. He just hedges at being called one. You might say it's a matter of connotation.

Or artistic pride. Valento wants his customers to know that he's first and foremost an artist; that when they bring their photographs or artwork to him to be custom-framed, they're leaving their creations in equally creative hands. And that's not just an idle boast.

A lifelong resident of St. Paul now living with his wife and two-year-old son at 254 S. Hamline Ave., Valento graduated with honors from the University of Minnesota in 1977 with a degree in studio arts-photography.

While at the University, he participated in several photographic exhibitions including his Summa Cum Laude thesis, a one-man show. He's also currently preparing a collection for a New York show.

Valento's enterprise, like so many other new ventures, is an avocation cum vocation. While still a student, he began doing framing and photographic projects for his friends. And their friends, and their friends. All from a studio in his home. To his four years of college moonlighting, add an additional year of professional experience, and you have a sound background for his now full-time career.

One of Valento's favorite assignments is to photograph family reunions and children in outdoor settings.

"The best photograph is a natural one, when the subjects are relaxed and being themselves," Valento said. "Most people are more natural when they're free of walls, studio lights and artificial surroundings. There's no comparison between the warmth of a moment captured outside to one manufactured inside."

To make sure that he brings out the best of his younger subjects, Valento begins his sessions with an explanation of the photographic process and the techniques he will use. He even invites the children to snap a few shots themselves.

"Once they understand that the camera isn't as complex as it looks, and they learn more about what I'm doing, they relax and start having fun," he said.

The fact that he enjoys shooting outdoors is only a statement of his 'druthers. It doesn't mean that Valento and his associate, Nan King, shy away from indoor work. The 1600 square foot shop also contains facilities for quality studio photography.

Valento's month-and-a-half-old business is already attracting a wide variety of clients and requests. Favorite photos, needlepoint and valuable paintings, from amateurs and professionals alike, are among the custom-framing and matting projects he and Nan are currently working on.

Valento also assists other photographers in preparing their own exhibitions. Many of the shows are even held in his studio. With frames by Valento, of course.

CHIROPRACTORS SEEK RESEARCH VOLUNTEERS

The International Pain Control Institute in conjunction with New York Chiropractic College is presently engaged in what is the most extensive research program ever undertaken by the chiropractic profession. This research is directed toward determining the relationship between health problems and spinal misalignments and utilizes a screening process called Contour Analysis.

Volunteers are being sought for screening. Contour Analysis enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortions, and scoliosis.

There is no charge to participating volunteers, since the doctors are contributing their time, service, and facilities for the program. Final processing and evaluation will be done at the New York Chiropractic College.

Anyone wishing to be a volunteer may telephone participating doctors directly for information or an appointment.

CSC announces receipt of NSF grant to reinstate physics courses

A grant for $128,000 has been awarded to the College of St. Catherine by the National Science Foundation (NSF), according to an announcement made today by Sister Alberta Huber, president of the college.

The funds will be used to reinstate a department of physics at the college after a six year's absence. Students requiring physics courses have been taking the classes at one or more of the other institutions in the Associated Colleges of the Twin Cities consortium (St. Catherine's, St. Thomas, Macalester, Hamline and Augsburg).

Increased demands for physics by St. Catherine students in recent years led to a reevaluation of the college's science program. To obtain funds for the new program, a proposal for a grant was submitted to the National Science Foundation.

The NSF awarded St. Catherine's the grant of $128,000 for 36 months support of a "Comprehensive Assistance to Undergraduate Science Education" program which will enable the college to hire an instructor, renovate a 1927-designed physics laboratory and obtain purchase equipment and purchase a computer terminal/peripherals for use in the laboratory.

According to S. Alberta, Dr. Albert Lopez-Escobar has been hired and is already working on the program.

Dr. Lopez-Escobar, who has a doctorate in physics from the University of Vermont, comes to St. Catherine's from Tougaloo (Miss.) College where he held the rank of assistant professor of physics the past year.

In addition to developing a course in physics and testing and designing the experiments, he will assist in the renovation and equipping of the physics laboratory.

Also in the works are plans for setting up a mini-computer for the laboratory and establishing computer workshops for faculty members in the various science departments at St. Catherine's.

Paul Bunyan comes to Highland Branch

"Paul Bunyan Was Here," the tale of Paul Bunyan in story and song, will be presented by the Eclectic Company at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday, June 27 at the Highland Park Branch Library, 1974 Ford Parkway. Children of all ages are welcome to this, the third program in the summer reading series.

Wednesday, July 5 is the date set for the next program, "Olde Tyme Movies," featuring Girls in Danger, The Fun Factory and The Great Chase. The show will begin at 2:00 p.m.

The Great Loudini will perform fantastic feats of magic Tuesday, July 11 at 2:00 p.m. All ages are welcome.

Nature films and lectures offered at Pike Island

The Pike Island Nature Center will continue its weekend series of nature films and discussions this Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25 at the center in Fort Snelling State Park.

At 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, the center's staff will lead a lecture-tour of Pike Island's Historical Garden, a Native-American botanical exhibit featuring Indian plants and growing techniques. The film Monarch and the Milkweed will be shown at 4:00 p.m. in the center.

At 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, the staff will demonstrate the art of terrarium making. The film Birds, Beaks and Behavior will be shown at 4:00 p.m.

All the presentations are open to the public free of charge. However, there is a $1.50 per day ($5.00 per year) state park permit fee. The yearly fee is good for all state parks. The nature center is open from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. daily.
