District 16 elects new board members

Ten full two-year terms and three unexpired one-year terms were filled at the annual meeting of the District 16/Summit Hill Association at its annual meeting on May 2 at Linwood School. Of the 18 candidates on the ballot, the top ten vote-getters were elected to the full terms; the next three to the unexpired partial terms.

Incumbents re-elected to full terms were: Robert Casselman, 794 Lincoln; Bill Clapp, 677 Fairmount; Ted Lentz, 692 Summit; Arnold Steffes, 791 Lincoln; and Linda Zelm, 998 Goodrich.

Also elected to full terms were: Katie Anderson, 831 Fairmount; Judy Bigelow, 530 Grand Hill; Harvey Jaeger, 28 Benhill Road; Kathy Lewis, 657 Fairmount; and Carol McLeod, 692 Fairmount.

Elected to one-year unexpired terms were Don Eldred, 952 Linwood; Elberta Matters, 912 Lincoln; and Bill O'Connell, 1082 Lincoln.

Alex Haley, foreign journalists highlight 10th World Press Forum at Macalester

Roots author Alex Haley will address the 18th annual Macalester College World Press Institute Forum at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, May 10 in the Concert Hall of the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center at Macalester.

In addition to Haley's talk, which will be followed by a question and answer period, the WPI Forum will also feature a panel discussion with nine foreign journalists at 10:00 a.m. May 10 in the Macalester Theatre of the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center. Both events are free and open to the public.

The journalists will be questioned by a panel of Twin Cities media executives: John R. Finnegan, executive editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press-Dispatch; James A. Carrier, news editor of the Associated Press in Minneapolis; Art Gorklick, Minnesota Public Radio's director of News and Public Affairs Programming; F. Gerald Kline, professor and director of the U of M's School of Journalism and Mass Communication; and James B. Russell, director of Public Affairs for KTCA.

Headquartered at Macalester, the World Press Institute elects a dozen young foreign journalists each year for an eight-month program of intensive American studies, internships with U.S. media, and extensive travel.

The goal of the program is to give the journalists an open and unfettered view of American society at every level, enabling them to report and interpret U.S. affairs more accurately when they return home.

The nine foreign journalists, all of whom were fellows of the World Press Institute ten years ago, are: John Larkin, Australia; Lucas Mendes, Brazil; Federico Gana Johnson, Chile; Edward Hsu, Republic of China; Ghafur Fadyl, Indonesia; Hugo Estenssoro, Mexico; Francisco Martos, Spain; John Pepper, United Kingdom; and Jose Mayobre, Venezuela.

Haley, who researched and wrote portions of Roots while living in Macalester's International Center on Summit Ave. during the summer of 1969, has lectured at the college annually for the last 13 years under the sponsorship of the World Press Institute.

City neighborhoods described in booklet

The story of St. Paul, it becomes more and more evident, really is a story of the neighborhoods that comprise the city and the people who settled in each of them. A new 48-page booklet published by the Ramsey County Historical Society traces the history of seven "inner-ring" neighborhoods that surround the downtown area.

Discover St. Paul ($1.00) includes short histories of the Ramsey Hill, W. Seventh St., Dayton's Bluff, Frogtown, North End, West Side and Payne Ave. areas and a liberal sprinkling of old and new photographs. It's on sale at the society's headquarters in Landmark Center, 75 W. Fifth St., and at the Gibbs Farm Museum, Cleveland and Larpenteur Ave.

City-county health board need people

St. Paul Mayor George Latimer has announced vacancies on the newly merged City/County Health Services Advisory Committee. The 21-member committee, which replaces the separate city and county health committees, will advise the city council and the county board on public health issues.

Members will be selected from St. Paul and Ramsey County on the basis of proportional representation.

Interested St. Paul residents should send resumes to Gail Weinstein, 347 City Hall, St. Paul 55102 by Monday, May 14.

'Male mystique' de-mystified in day-long seminar at CSC

"Exploring the Male Mystique," a day-long seminar for women seeking new insights into their professional interactions with men, will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Saturday, May 12 in West Marian Lounge of St. Joseph's Hall at the College of St. Catherine.

Titles of the sessions include "It's a Man's World: The Origin of Male Supremacy," "Developing Your Own Resources," "Values Make the Difference: A Language of Separation," "Power and Organization Currency: The Keys to the Locker Room," and "Organizational Life: Expectations, Etc."

The seminar will be led by Kathy Walstead, vice president of Provider Relations and a member of the senior executive staff of Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Minnesota; and Mike Steinberg, director of program development for the Human Dynamics Group, a Minneapolis consulting firm.

Fee for the day is $35. Women interested in attending should register soon by calling the Women in Management office at 690-6728.

Mattocks makes a bid to renew past

Once more the call goes out for all former students, teachers, office aids and anyone who has been connected with Mattocks School in the past, to attend the open house from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. Sunday, May 20 at the school, 447 Macalester St.

The school will be open for touring, refreshments will be served and a brief program has been scheduled for 2:30 p.m. that afternoon.

Mattocks will close at the end of the current school year.

Liberty lanes

Liberty State bankers who haven't used the motor bank facilities of late will discover two more service lanes now in operation for their added convenience. By the way, Liberty State has the unofficial distinction of being the first in the state to open a motor bank facility.

Area colleges list speakers for May 19-20 graduations

Alex Haley

The Colleges of St. Thomas and St. Catherine and Macalester College have announced their keynote speakers and partial schedules for commencement exercises, all of which are scheduled for the May 19-20 weekend. At press time, only Macalester had said it would award honorary degrees.

Alex Haley, author of the best-selling Roots will speak at Macalester during an outdoor graduation ceremony at 2:00 p.m. Saturday, May 19 before about 330 students.

Haley, who will receive an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree, lived in the college's International Center and wrote part of Roots there in the summer of 1969. He first spoke professionally at Macalester, and has lectured on the campus for the past 13 years.

Malcolm Moos, president of the University of Minnesota from 1967 to 1974, will be the keynote speaker before 519 undergraduate and graduate students on May 19 at the College of St. Thomas. Moos, who was elected to the CST board of trustees in 1974, received an honorary doctorate from the college in 1970.

Moos, who now does consulting and writing work for organizations like the Ford Foundation, in the past has advised the Rockefeller brothers on public affairs, taught political science at Johns Hopkins University and the University of Wyoming and served as an associate editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun.

As one of President Eisenhower's principal assistants,

Dr. Malcolm Moos

Moos helped Ike draft his 1961 farewell address, during which America first heard the president's now-famous warning against allowing the growth of a "military-industrial complex" in the United States.

The College of St. Catherine has invited Sister Colette Mahoney, president of Marymount Manhattan College in New York City, to give the commencement address for the 432-member class of 1979. She will speak on "New Choices for American Women" at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, May 20.

Graduation exercises at St. Kate's will include Baccalaureate Masses at 10:30 a.m. and noon in Our Lady of Victory chapel.

Macalester College also announced that it will award an honorary Doctor of Laws degree to George Dayton II, vice president of the Dayton Hudson Corporation from 1947 to 1968. Dayton has been an honorary trustee of the college for the past year.

The college's Alumni Citation Award will be given to David Bell, director and a vice president for Bozell and Jacobs, Inc., a Minneapolis advertising agency. Bell has been a Macalester trustee since 1975.

Macalester will be the site of a special graduation service organized by black students from five colleges at 6:30 p.m. Friday, May 18 in the concert hall of the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center.

The graduation ceremony, entitled "Uhura Ebony Harambée" (coming together in blackness), is the first joint effort by students at several colleges although Macalester students have held special services since 1972.

The celebration, which is open to students' friends, families and the public, will include representatives from CST, Carleton College, Concordia College and Hamline University. It is free of charge, but contributions to defray expenses may be sent to JoAnn Hollies, Macalester College, P.O. Box 592, St. Paul 55105.

Summer swimming lessons offered at St. Paul Seminary

Swimming and lifesaving classes for children will again be offered this summer by the St. Paul Seminary as a service to the community.

Beginner, advanced beginner and intermediate levels will be offered to boys and girls at least six years of age; basic rescue and water safety to those 11 and older; and advanced lifesaving to those 15 and older.

The seminary's swimming program will offer four two-week sessions, each consisting of ten lessons. Classes will meet Mondays through Fridays from 9:00 to 9:45 a.m. and 10:00 to 10:45 a.m. A recreational swim period will follow.

Basic rescue and water safety will be offered in two three-week sessions in the morning, and advanced lifesaving in one six-week session, also in the morning. Costs are $10 for swimming and $15 for lifesaving lessons. For further information, call McCarthy Gym at 698-1922.

Mr. & Mrs. Bob Nechal of 2169 Selby say:

"Our heating bill this winter was $250 - total!"

... we're glad we got wood replacement windows from Arctic Window Company."

Area residents Bob and Carolyn Nechal had 40 windows in their house, and were losing lots of energy in wintertime. A year ago they decided to remodel and cut their window space

"I studied various insulation properties, and decided wood was far superior over metal and vinyl. Metal and vinyl got cold themselves and aren't as easily customized," said Bob.

"Earl Harding of the Arctic Company gave us a price which included labor and complete satisfaction that was far better than that of any other company."

Carolyn Nechal likes the beauty of the wood which is stained by Arctic to match other woodwork.

You can have satisfaction like this, too. Just call

CHILDREN'S HOUSE THANKS

Children's House Montessori School held its fourth annual garage sale last weekend. Thanks to the generosity of the following businesses and residents of our community who donated both new and used goods to the cause, the sale was again a great success:

The Restoration, St. Clair Broiler, Mother's, Pontillo's, Sansei Pottery, Dee Layden Stained Glass, The Keeping Room, The Honeycomb, Learn Me, Old Mexico Shop, Wet Paint, Macalester Skate Exchange, Norma's Encore Shop, Elite Repeat, Totem, Russell Johnson, H. Rosenthal Co., Dr. Chris Heringlake, Knowlan's and Odegard Books.

Our heartfelt thanks go out to all of them and to the many shoppers who came to the sale. The Children's House Montessori teachers, board, parents and children think this a wonderful community to live in.

ONE CHEER GETS ANOTHER

Dear editor:

In the April 11 issue of the Villager there was a letter from Tara Tieso, captain of the Highland Catholic cheerleaders, part of which said, "This is the first year Highland Catholic has had uniform cheerleaders."

Last year I was a cheerleader for Hi-C and we wore uniforms. The only difference was, we had to buy the material, make the skirts, buy the sweaters and the shirts. This year the school bought the uniforms.

I just wanted to clarify that we did wear uniforms. I, too am very proud of the Highland Catholic team.

Red Cross seeks volunteer drivers

The Red Cross has several openings for daytime volunteer drivers who normally work half-day shifts once a week or every two weeks, depending on their own availability.

The volunteer drivers, using Red Cross owned and insured station wagons, drive senior citizens to medical appointments and deliver blood to area hospitals. For more information, call the St. Paul area chapter at 291-6789.

School board switch sends Mattocks kids to Highland

On Tuesday, May 1, the St. Paul School Board voted to send all students of Mattocks Elementary School to Highland Park Elementary beginning in September. Mattocks will close at the end of the current school year.

This decision is said to be final and reverses on April 17 vote of the board, which split up the Mattocks students, sending those living south of Randolph to Mann, and those north of Randolph to Groveland Park.

Under the board's latest action, busing will be provided for all students who live more than one mile from Highland Elementary. Students who live within a mile of Groveland Park may go there if they wish.

One factor in the school board's shift was a telephone survey of 77 parents of students currently attending Mattocks, conducted by school PTA president Ann Page, 1817 Wellesley Ave.

According to Page's results, 57 percent of the parents who responded to the question "Where would you like to send your child or children to school next year?" favored Highland. Another 26 percent preferred Groveland Park. One percent favored Mann.

All parents of children in the affected neighborhood who will be eligible for kindergarten in September should call Mattocks School at 698-5527.

Locomotion lays down lotsa jazz at the Landmark

Locomotion, a young nine-person ensemble specializing in original jazz compositions, will appear at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, May 13 at the Landmark Center, 75 W. Fifth St. The group performs tunes that recall classical jazz of the '30s and '40s as well as funk, Latin and rock of the '60s and '70s.

The band includes Charles Adams, electric and acoustic bass; Harry Petersen, alto and tenor saxophones, flute and clarinet; Brad Callahan, tenor and baritone saxophones, bass clarinet and flute; David Graf, trombone; Don Hastings, guitar; David Jensen, trumpet and flugelhorn; Peter Madsen, piano and keyboards; Jay Mattes, drums and percussion and Randy Pink, tenor and soprano saxophones and flute.

Tickets are $3.00, $2.00 for students and senior citizens, and will be sold at the door starting at 7:00 p.m. Refreshments will be available before the concert and at intermission.

Two Mac alumni earn fellowships

Two Macalester College alumni, Harley S. Cahen and Richard Reed, have been awarded fellowships for three years of graduate study by the National Science Foundation. The fellowships include an annual stipend of $3,900 for full-time study and a $3,400 cost-of-education allowance.

Cahen, 1664 St. Clair Ave., graduated from Macalester in 1978 with a major in geology. He will continue his studies of scientific ethics and environmental law at Cornell University, and would eventually like to work in the field of natural resource planning and policy making.

Reed, a 1976 Macalester graduate in anthropology, will use the grant for his study of cultural anthropology at Harvard University.

The Family Tree: Helping its patients 'get what they want from medical care'

By Mary Millett

As gentle as a young birch yet as supportive as a giant oak, the Family Tree has been treating area patients with dignity and respect for the past seven years.

Located at 1599 Selby Ave., the community health clinic deals largely with the emotional and physical needs of women. "But though our services are directed toward women, our health education classes include both men and women," said Emily Fuerste, clinic director.

The Family Tree is an "alternative to rushed, depersonalized medical care," Fuerste said. "The only prerequisite for services is need—no one is turned away."

There are no residency or age requirements to use the Family Tree and fees are based on the patient's ability to pay. The City of St. Paul and Ramsey County provide public funds to operate the clinic.

Health services the clinic provides include birth control education and supplies; pregnancy diagnosis and counseling; general gynecological care, including pap smears and breast checks; a prenatal program; and venereal disease testing and treatment.

One of the goals of the Family Tree's health education program is "to train parents as sex educators," Fuerste said. "Communication in the area of sexuality is real tough. You have to feel good about it yourself in order to talk about sexuality with your children."

Family Tree counselors are also available to talk to church or school groups about human sexuality, women's health concerns, or about childbearing and related issues.

Community health education programs offered at the Family Tree include "Baby—Maybe," a support and discussion group of six couples who examine reasons to have, or not to have babies; a class called "Before You Get Pregnant, Information You Need to Know," which stresses the importance of being in the best possible physical condition prior to conceiving; and a group called "Womenpause for Reflection," which concerns itself with the physiological and emotional changes of menopause.

One of the most popular programs at the Family Tree is perinatal education. The program provides care, information and support before, during and after childbirth. The staff "takes a normal approach to labor and delivery," explained Fuerste. "Childbirth is not a sickness."

Husbands or boyfriends are encouraged to attend the classes, which examine the emotional, psychological and physical needs of the pregnant woman. The classes are tailored to midwifery delivery.

"A certified nurse-midwife is a registered nurse with additional training in managing normal pregnancy, labor, birth and after care," according to a Family Tree pamphlet. A woman who experiences severe complications during pregnancy is referred to a doctor for care.

Many choose the Family Tree's services because the "midwife is a woman," said Fuerste. She understands what is going on and she can be with the patient throughout labor and delivery, providing continuity of care.

Rather than advocating home delivery, the Family Tree believes in "humanizing hospitals," Fuerste said. "The birthing room is a nice compromise. Birth should be the most wonderful experience anyone can have." Family Tree uses the facilities at Ramsey Hospital.

The Family Tree has four full-time and five part-time employees, including a doctor, two nurse practitioners and a certified nurse-midwife.

Right now, 50 to 60 people volunteer their time to work at the clinic. Most of the volunteers are from the local community and many were previous Family Tree patients. A volunteer gets 20 hours of training before becoming a patient advocate, intake interviewer or provider of health education information.

All staff members are required to "deal with patients in a nonjudgmental atmosphere," according to Fuerste. They must be objective in helping patients make decisions.

The staff provides information and assistance, but the patient makes the final decision—a reflection of the Family Tree's concern that its patients "be active consumers and get what they want from medical care."

The Family Tree is currently remodeling the clinic and expanding its services and hours. Previously located only in the basement, the clinic will now have first-floor facilities to accommodate the handicapped.

The Family Tree offers daytime, evening and weekend clinics. For additional information or to make an appointment, call 645-1478.

An alternative to down-in-the-dumps, local recycling centers bring it back-to-the-factory

Though there are 135 recycling centers now operating within the seven-county metropolitan area - 20 of them in or very near the parts of three counties served by the Highland Villager - most area households and businesses continue to throw their waste paper, glass and metal products in the trash. From there, of course, those products are trucked to sanitary landfills and buried.

All together, Twin Cities residents and businesses generate 1.3 million tons of solid waste a year, or about 3.6 pounds for every person every day. If a lot more of us were so inclined, a much larger portion of those waste products wouldn't be. Instead, they'd be brought to one of those aforementioned recycling centers and put back into circulation, thus stretching our limited landfill spaces and our limited natural resources. Some centers even pay cash for certain recyclable materials, thus stretching our limited pocketbooks.

The recycling locations listed below are the most convenient of the 135 centers identified in a new directory published by the Metropolitan Council. Because centers frequently change, area residents interested in making one or more of them a regular stop should call beforehand to make sure they still accept certain materials.

Oh, and by the way... the newspaper you're reading right now is recyclable. Pass it on.

SPECIAL NOTICE to Villager Readers in MENDOTA and MENDOTA HEIGHTS

For some time now, the Highland Villager has felt the need to provide more comprehensive coverage to the growing south suburban area. But for a publication such as ours—distributed free of charge to a controlled, designated area—the cost of delivery by mail has risen to the point where economics dictate an alternate solution. ("Non-profit" newspapers and magazines, of course, still enjoy a special, more favorable rate... only a fraction of the unit price or weight charge we're obligated to pay.)

Therefore, effective May 23, our next issue, copies of the Villager in Mendota and Mendota Heights will no longer come to you via the mailman. Instead, we have contracted with Petersen Home Mail Delivery to band your paper to the door. Coverage will include all areas of residential and business concentration.

We cannot promise 100% distribution in the more scattered, remote or still rural areas. If this means you, be advised that the Villager will still be available to you in newspaper racks at Jeanna's Gifts and Jim Brady's Emporium in Diamond Jim's Mall; at Snyder Drug in Mendota Plaza; and at the Mariner Restaurant in the village of Mendota.

Should you prefer to continue receiving the Villager by mail, that too will be possible. Normally the yearly subscription price is $7.50. But for a limited time—now through June 30—we are offering a special one-third discount to South Suburbia... a full year's mail subscription for only $5.00.

We hope you will understand the need for this change and we welcome all the new readers in recently developed areas who will be receiving the Villager in their homes for the first time. Enjoy!

Misch- Masch

by Maurice Mischke

For your urgent consideration, the Villager presents, in reverse English —

AN 11th HOUR "PRESS CONFERENCE" ON THE STICKY STADIUM ISSUE. . .

wherein various representatives of the tax-paying public and sports-minded fandom pose some pertinent and penetrating questions, and your Misch-Masch columnist valiantly tries to supply some of the answers based on a series of interviews, some additional research and his own less than totally omniscient viewpoints. First question please:

A. This is a switch. Usually the press is asking the questions. I've heard it said, sir, that all this stadium static is nothing more than a "site fight." Are you in favor of a domed stadium in Minneapolis?

MM. I most certainly am. But a little bit east of Industry Square. . . a covered Memorial Stadium is what makes sense to me in every way.

B. You didn't always feel that way, did you?

MM. Not until Don Herzog and his small band of like-minded Minneapolis cohorts dusted off that five-year-old proposal which, unfortunately, had gotten buried amidst pressure for the Industry Square project. Give an assist to The Eye, Don Riley, for "leaking" the info to the public. . . on the St. Paul side of the River, we've been trying to give this proposal the kind of hearing it deserves. So far, I don't see the same thing happening at the Star & Tribune.

C. Well, fellow, what do you expect from Sid Hartman and a few of the other writers who are likely water carriers for Max Winter and John Cowles, Jr.?

MM. A little open-mindedness, for one thing. This University dome idea is so far superior on all counts, it's just difficult for me to understand the nature of the opposition.

D. Are you down on the Senate for not passing the 'U' dome amendment?

MM. Not really. You've gotta remember that those Senators got this information only recently, during the session, when they barely have time to turn around, let alone keep up with necessary reading. That Minneapolis crowd is persistent and they've been carrying the torch for a downtown dome for many a year.

E. With the way the tax onus has now been placed on Minneapolis (2% hotel-motel-liquor) and on Hennepin County commercial and business interests (property tax backup) why aren't you willing to give up and let them have their domesday?

MM. Do you wanna bet that those Mill City and Hennepin suburban interests will ever stand still for carrying the whole dog-gone deficit? If that bill passes, look for some lawsuits in short order. And don't forget, they can come back to future legislative sessions and just wear 'em down, which is exactly why the whole dome issue for Industry square simply refuses to die.

F. Why is that certain top echelon of business leaders so hung up, then, on a dome that can only lead to financial disaster?

MM. It isn't the dome itself, it's the tremendous potential for peripheral development that concerns them. The cost of the dome will be spread over many, they probably feel, but look at all the money to be made via various nearby properties, built on land which they've probably picked up for cheap at H.R.A. prices. I can't document that, but it's the only way their dome determination makes any sense at all.

G. Back to the Memorial Stadium revamp, Riley seems to be the only one of the three R's at the Dispatch-Pioneer Press who favors it. From their columns I gather that Glenn Redmann and Pat Reusse both feel quite differently.

MM. Mere lack of imagination. They've looked at the 55-year-old "brickyard" so long they can't visualize the ultimate result. Better they should read what the architects and engineers say about it. Read the reports as I did. Talk to them, as I did, and get the real story. Any arguments against the remodeled 'U' dome are strictly EMOTIONAL AND POLITICAL—NOT STRUCTURAL. Some people have the idea that it has to be new to be good. They were building pretty soundly in 1924. . . very little corner-cutting on basic construction quality in those days. I won't take the time to amplify at this point. See me after this press conference and I'll show you all the proof in print you could ever want.

H. Aren't you concerned about energy costs on any kind of dome?

MM. Of course. Oh, if we didn't care about cost, a retractable dome might make some kind of sense. . . but that kind of structure might put us in the price category of the Superdome, which will NEVER be self-sustaining — at least so I'm told. But at the 'U', that dome would be in total use 365 days. It would eventually replace (maybe sooner than we think) old Williams Arena, which also requires energy. It's the WASTE of energy I'm concerned about. The Industry Square dome could be vacant 300 days a year, perhaps 220 if the Twins sign on.

I. What about the Twin's, are they gonna go for "inside baseball?"

MM. Not if they're smart. This dome ball version isn't going to fly in many places for very long. The Twins have been getting lots of static from the fans. I can't prove it personally, but I've heard reports about a survey of ticket buyers showing seven out of eight preferring the great outdoors. And would you believe the same "rumor factory" tells me that five out of six Viking fans feel the same way.

J. You're in favor of the Met for baseball then?

MM. Absolutely. Here we have two fine facilities, potentially at least, and there's just no sense, taxpayer-wise or otherwise, in not retaining and improving them.

K. You seem to feel the taxpayers will be so much better off with the 'U' dome. How about getting a little more specific?

MM. Be glad to. I heard once that it could cost some $7,000,000 to upgrade the Met including resurfacing of the parking lot. Let's be generous and say $8,000,000 to a $10,000,000 top. Everybody adjusts for inflation these days, which probably just adds to that self-fulfilling prophecy. But, after all, think of the way costs escalated on the Stillwater prison and the Minnesota zoo. O.K., then consider the cost of the 'U' dome, most recently pegged at $52,000,000. Once again, allow some cushion and up that figure to, say, $60,000,000. What have you got? Some $70,000,000 for a first-rate open air facility with ample parking and a first-rate year-round domed facility to accommodate year-around recreational sports activity for the entire University population, plus a spectator stadium "that can compete with the best of present day football stadiums." (These quotes are taken directly from the written comments of the architects.)

L. Is that so much less than present plans call for?

MM. Maybe $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 less — if you get truly realistic. If in building the remodeled dome at the 'U' we save the $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 it might cost to replace Williams Arena within a few years, the net additional outlay comes in at about $35,000,000 to $40,000,000. Now let's get to cases on the Industry Square dome. That stripped down $55,000,000 figure was a mere gimmick. Before it would be truly completed, reliable sources estimate it might come in at from $90,000,000 to $110,000,000. Add another $5,000,000 or so for sewer and utility changes and a few etceteras, maybe $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 for new streets, ramps, and roadwork (it could be more) and the whole ball of wax could well come in at from $115,000,000 to $140,000,000. If that downtown dome never gets built, who is ever going to question these figures? If it does, I'll file away a copy of this Villager in a safety deposit vault as a check point for future reference. Next.

M. What kind of student sports would the stadium accommodate at any given time?

MM. Some 30 handball courts, four basketball courts, 50 meter swimming pool with 10 meter board, continuation of running track; 44,000 square feet of offices, locker rooms, wrestling rooms, weight training rooms, etc. Also 16,000 square feet of dining and lounge facilities. That totals up to 142,000 square feet of new space within the center. Add to that the 51,000 square feet of existing recreation space. By lowering the field some 18 feet and using retractable seats, the playing field will offer another 183,000 square feet of recreation space, allowing for numerous simultaneous activities, including a 400 meter track, three touchball fields, tennis courts, etc. Diagrams I've seen show it's possible to have four softball games going on the same time. Need I say more about potential utility, what with the increasing space demands also for women's sports?

N. Are you worried the downtown dome will make it?

MM. More than a little bit. The legislature is worn to a frazzle on this subject. But if I were one of them, I wouldn't dare vote for it unless I were getting ready for early political retirement and just didn't give a dome!

O. Why aren't they more hep on the 'U' proposal?

MM. Unfortunately the legislature and the University regents and administration reps haven't always hit it off too well. Fairly or not, the 'U' gents seem to have come off as a bit cavalier in their approach at times. Anyone here disagree?

P. What might happen then, do you think?

MM. Some smart cookie in the state house might take advantage of the fed-up-to-here feelings on the hill, push for a vote like on Friday when everyone's eager to get out and go fishing — and present us with an unwanted fait accompli.

Q. What can be done to stop that kind of thing?

MM. Get on the horn but fast and let your feelings be known. Thanks for your questions, today, fans and taxpayers. Now I've got to move on.

R. One last question, please. Do you think Max Winter and Mike Lynn would be willing to play in your proposed University dome?

MM. They'll play in any dome that's available, you can bet on that. And it won't take an honorary doctor's degree for them and Sid Hartman, either, to get them to agree on it.

S. Thank you, Mr. Publisher.

MM. Oh, come off of it... now you're putting me on!

Parting pilfered punchlines — saw this on the sales manager's wall at Capp Lincoln-Mercury the other day, "DO SOMETHING — Lead, follow... or get out of the way." And a line from James Thurber, "It is better to ask some of the questions than to know all the answers." Oh well, too late now. Hasta la vista.

Psychologist to discuss decline of the American family at CSC

"The American Family: Who Cares?" is the title of a free talk to be given by noted psychologist and family expert Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner of Cornell University at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 23 in Jeanne d'Arc Auditorium at the College of St. Catherine.

The theme for Bronfenbrenner's talk, which is part of the 4th annual meeting of the Community Planning Organization, Inc., will be the role of the community in strengthening the contemporary family.

According to Bronfenbrenner, "The family is falling apart. Since World War II, the extended family (consisting) of several generations has practically disappeared in this country. Even the small nuclear family of mother, father and the kids is in decline."

Reservations for Bronfenbrenner's address, which is open to the public, can be made by calling 291-8323 by May 18.

Jeannine Kellogg, 339 Mt. Curve Blvd., practices her routine on the uneven bars for the St. Anthony Park Gymnastics Club's free public demonstration, set for 6:45 p.m. Wednesday, May 16 in the gym of St. Anthony Park Community School, 2180 Knapp St. Registration materials for the summertime gymnastics program will be available at the event or by calling Sue Stegmeir (644-3848) or Esther Kellogg (699-6006).

Junior Olympics registration opens

The Junior Olympics Program, a track and field event open to boys and girls in third through ninth grades, will begin in May at all St. Paul recreation centers.

Contestants must compete on the local level first, followed by the district meets the week of May 21, and finally the citywide meet on May 28.

Registration will be held at all local recreation centers. For more information, call the Division of Parks and Recreation at 645-4689.

Area ballplayers boost CST's horsehide hopes

Five Highland area ballplayers hold the reins for the College of St. Thomas as the Toms head into the home stretch of the 1979 season and make a late bid for the MIAC baseball crown.

Jim Boland, 1731 Summit Ave., has been instrumental in St. Thomas' offensive attack right from the start of the season. A junior from St. Thomas Academy, he was an all-MIAC choice as a freshman, but then suffered through a less than sterling sophomore year.

This season, however, Boland has recovered his touch with the timber and currently sports a batting average of around .300. His at-the-plate performance doesn't surprise coach Steve Schmid in the least. "Jim's just a natural hitter," Schmid says.

Boland also possesses great speed, and has used it to take first place among his teammates in stolen bases this year.

Fellow St. Thomas Academy grad Tony Carlson, 690 So. Wilder St., has also lent his fleet feet to the cause this year. A sophomore, Carlson had been used primarily for pinchrunning and as a back-up to regular second baseman Ken Whittlef, until Whittlef fractured his ankle sliding into third on April 24.

Carlson entered the game and immediately proved a catalyst by scoring four runs in the victory over Bethel. The feat tied a St. Thomas school record.

"Tony's a very good ball-player and on most teams would've started from the beginning," Schmid says. "The only reason he wasn't starting here was because he was behind Whittlef." At the time of his injury, Whittlef was leading the Toms with a .342 batting average.

Carlson jumped on his chance to be a starter by upping his average to .300. In a recent junior varsity doubleheader against Inver Hills, he blasted homers in both games to key a sweep. Two days later, the multi-talented Tom took the mound and notched a win against the Augsburg JV.

For Tim Yungers, 1329 Kenneth St., it was a long wait to become a regular pitcher. The senior from Highland Park saw no action his entire freshman year and only four innings his sophomore season. When Schmid inherited the coaching job last year, he inserted Yungers into the starting rotation. The results were immediate.

Yungers won four games and posted a 3.29 ERA last year. His 42 strikeouts in 49 innings was second only to CST graduate Mark Swanson's school record.

Yungers got off to a tough start this season due to some faulty team support. But he got on track against Bethel, firing a six-hitter and striking out 10 enroute to a 11-2 decision. More significantly, according to Schmid, he walked only one batter.

"That's Tim's key to winning," Schmid says. "He's a power pitcher and has to have his control to be effective. When he does, he's one of the best in the MIAC."

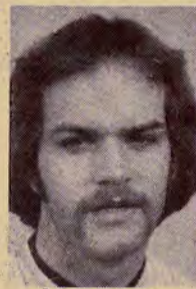

When Yungers is on the mound, Kevin Noel, 972 Portland Ave., is likely to be behind the plate. A junior from Cretin, Noel has caught every conference game this season and has yet to make an error. And after 12 games of MIAC action, Noel had thrown out six of eight runners who tried to steal on him.

The left-handed hitter had some early problems at the plate this year, but appeared to snap out of it when he singled to key a three-run rally in a 3-1 win over Augsburg. The victory was critical to keep the Toms in the running for MIAC honors.

Mike Kirchner, 1729 Ash-

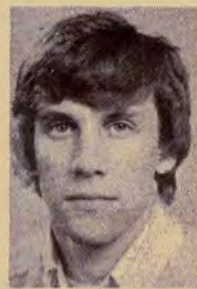

Noel

land Ave., has been waiting three years for a chance to play regularly for the Toms. Also a junior from Cretin, Kirchner was a promising freshman prospect on a team dominated by seniors and never did get to the plate. His sophomore season was a disappointment due to a disabling ankle injury.

The ankle still bothers him, but Kirchner is playing again. "Mike is well respected by the other players, and I can use him at any outfield position," Schmid says. "He'll definitely be a candidate for an outfield post next year."

Kirchner, meanwhile, has remained the leader for the CST junior varsity, hitting .357 for that team. He has performed flawlessly in the field and is used frequently as a defensive replacement by Schmid.

See old, new films for free at FITC

The May schedule for Friday Cinematheque, a series of free movies shown at 7:30 p.m. Fridays at the Film in the Cities Gallery, 2388 University Ave., will start out with new movies and finish with the old. As always, open discussions will follow the screenings.

Avant-garde films, including Castro Street (1966), Lapis (1963-66), Report (1964-67), 69 (1969) and Serene Velocity (1970), will be shown on May 11. The May 18 program will consist solely of an 82-minute movie, Reminiscences of a Journey to Lithuania (1971-72).

Four short films can be seen on May 25: Lumiere Films (1894-1903), Paris to Monte Carlo (1905), Emil Cohl Program (1909-1910) and Lonedale Operator (1911).

SPARC annual meeting planned

The annual dinner meeting of the St. Paul Association for Retarded Citizens will begin with a 6:30 p.m. social hour on Wednesday, May 23 at the Southview Country Club, 239 E Mendota Rd., West St. Paul.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Robert Audette, associate commissioner for special education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Audette directed the reorganization of that state's special education services to assure all handicapped children of the right to a free public education, and presided over the phase-down of Pennhurst (Pennsylvania) State Hospital in two landmark court orders that affected the mentally retarded.

For dinner reservations, call the SPARC office at 224-3301 by May 16.

Jouno journeys south seeking the cherished chili championship

by Dale Mischke

For some strange reason, a hot dish like chili has never ascended the heights of popularity in these cool, northern climes quite like it has in the torrid southwestern portion of the continent.

There, chili is so revered, and so tied in with provincial pride, that battles still rage between southern states over which one holds the distinction of being the source of the spicy stew.

But people, being the homo sapiens that they are or claim to be, have been known to channel their aggressions into harmless competition. Thus was born the chili cook-off — a loud, flamboyant and festive celebration in which the preparation of chili is primary, but masked behind a thick facade of partying and general craziness.

The idea of a world champion chili chef originated in 1967 when the late humorist R. Allen Smith penned an article in Holiday magazine called "Nobody Knows More About Chili Than I Do."

Pride on the line, the reaction was swift. Some chili purists later labeled Smith's recipe as "chili flavored beef and vegetable soup." Wick Fowler, then head chef of the Chili Appreciation Society in Dallas, challenged Smith to a cooking duel in the ghost town of Terlingua, Texas.

Though the duel ended in a draw, the challenge was on. By 1970 the International Chili Society had been formed to determine annually the world's champion chili creator.

This zealotry for devising the ultimate chili recipe is not confined to the Southwest, however. Pockets of chili fanaticism exist all over the globe, as far removed from Texas as Australia and Minnesota.

That's right. Minnesota was represented at three chili cookoffs in the last eight months. The lone rep from the "Star of the North" was Dr. Randolph Jouno, who teaches public personnel administration in the political science department at the College of St. Thomas.

Jouno, who is known among his own circle of friends for putting out one lip-smacking bowl of chili, caught wind of the international cookoff a year or so ago.

Confident in his cooking prowess (Jouno claims his original chili recipe sans beans was used as spaghetti sauce by a small and now defunct Twin Cities restaurant chain) Jouno procured a copy of the international cookoff's regulations and modified his recipe accordingly.

Contestants in the international cookoff must be accredited representatives of states or countries, or else winners of local competitions. Jouno sought the signature of then Governor Rudy Perpich, who gave him his blessing and sent Jouno on his way to the Tropico gold mine in Rosamund, California, where 40 contestants vied for the 1978 international chili championship.

There, the various pungent scents bubbling forth from the chili cauldrons shared the atmosphere with western and blue grass banjo and fiddle music, precision aircraft drills, simulated air battles, skydivers, parachutists, air balloonists and more than 35,000 chili aficionados.

To add to the festive air, the contest's sponsors offered a prize for showmanship, which prompted the Oklahoma delegation to come bedecked in Indian garb, contestants from the Viking Cafe in Texas to don full Norsemen headdress, and entrants from Alaska to disguise themselves as polar bears.

Although Jouno came back from the international cookoff prizeless, he did return a little wiser. After modifying his chili slightly — making it a bit hotter, spicely speaking—he entered a cookoff at the Circus Circus Hotel in Las Vegas.

Again Jouno returned without visible compensation for his efforts and again his recipe was amended slightly because of it. This time he set his sights on the first Mexican National Chili Cook-off in the city of Ajijic (ah-hee-HEEK), "a genuinely slumberous town" 32 miles southwest of Guadalajara.

According to Jouno, 45 chiliheads vied for honors there on a long pier jutting out into Lake Chapala, "a limpid gem of liquid beauty" and Mexico's largest lake.

Mariachi, Marimba, Dixieland and brass bands contributed to the excitement of colorful chili parades and folkloristic ballets. The evening programs during the three-day festival included dance contests, horsemanship displays, fireworks and the crowning of "Miss Chili 1979."

Finally Jouno, who at all three cookoffs had traveled the longest distance of any American contestant, reached the finals. And although he wasn't ranked among the top winners, his concoction was deemed by tasters to be one of the "most unique" preparations.

"Some of the more sophisticated of the 19 ingredients in my recipe are imported from south of the border but are easily obtainable at Mexican food stores in the Twin Cities," Jouno says.

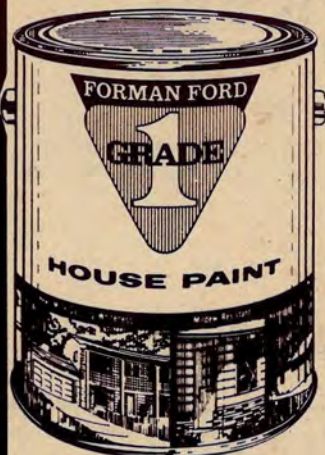

"The recipe dates back long before the Christian era when it was created by an ancestor of mine, the goddess Jouno, who used it as an aphrodisiac for her husband and supreme god, Jupiter. Through the ages the formula has undergone only minor modifications based on new culinary breakthroughs," Jouno adds with a wink.

Although he's still single, Jouno invites all to test out his progenitress' concoction on their own sweethearts.

Randolph Jouno, the "chili doc."

Chili Cha Cha

(Has the smack that others lack)

|--|---|
| 4 lbs. top round steak, fat trimmed and cut into cubes, about 1/4 inch pieces. | 1/2 tsp. ground cumin |
| 3 medium size onions, diced (about 2 1/2 cups) | 1/2 tsp. ground marjoram |
| 1/4 cup cooking oil (add slightly more if needed) | 1/2 tsp. ground oregano |
| 4 tbs. unseasoned chili pepper, powdered preferably from Ancho chiles | 1/2 tsp. ground paprika |
| 1/2 tsp. garlic powder | 1/2 tsp. ground red pepper |
| 2 1/2 tbs. celery salt | 1/2 tsp. ground sage |
| 1/2 tsp. ground allspice | 5 cans (6 oz. cans) tomato paste |
| 1/2 tsp. ground bay leaf | 1 large can (27 oz.) diced green chiles (fire roasted and peeled) |
| 1/2 tsp. ground coriander | 4 oz. (4 squares) Mexican chocolate (more or less to taste) |
| | 6-9 cups water* |

Brown meat and onions in cooking oil in fry pan or pans. Transfer to Dutch oven or other suitable pot. Add the next twelve items (chili pepper, garlic powder, celery salt, allspice, bay leaf, coriander, cumin, marjoram, oregano, paprika, red pepper, and sage). Cook covered 10 minutes.

Add tomato paste, 2 cups water, green chiles and continue to cook covered for 90 minutes.

Add Mexican chocolate and continue to cook covered for 30 minutes.

Add water as needed throughout cooking. Add water cautiously to keep chili rich, thick and flavorful. Stir frequently.

*Variation: Substitute 2 cups of Tequila for 2 of the water, reserving 1 cup of Tequila for last 45 minutes of cooking.

Marsh promoted at UJFC

Kimball Marsh, 2486 Edgumbe Rd., has been named executive director of the St. Paul United Jewish Fund and Council. Marsh, 30, has been with the UJFC since 1976 and was promoted from the position of assistant executive director there.

Born in Los Angeles, Marsh earned a bachelor's degree in psychology at the University of California-Los Angeles and a double master's degree in social work and Jewish communal service from the University of Southern California and Hebrew Union College.

Before coming to St. Paul, he was a staff member with the planning department of the Jewish Federation-Council of Los Angeles. He also worked with the Jewish Centers Association in Los Angeles as a resident and day camp director, nursery school teacher and group worker.

Marsh is the youngest executive director of any Jewish Fund or Federation in the country.

Unique net know-how offered in PB tennis clinic at CSC

Peter Burwash International, a group of traveling tennis coaches with a unique method of teaching the game, will bring their demonstration/exhibition to O'Shaughnessy Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday, May 16.

Founded by Peter Burwash, two-time Canadian Davis Cup player and one of the top three professional tennis coaches in the world, PBI has conducted over 3000 traveling clinics in 84 countries.

The Burwash method of teaching places the emphasis on lining up the ball with the eye as opposed to watching it onto your strings. The traditional notion of "getting your racket back" is discarded in favor of a "general contact area." Footwork drills are not encouraged; instead, balance becomes the key point.

Burwash himself has instituted wheel chair tennis for the handicapped, an active tennis program at the state prison in Hawaii, and tennis instruction for the blind which employs a special ball and racket that enables the blind to play by sound and touch.

Tickets for PBI's program, which is sponsored by the College of St. Catherine Tennis Club, are available at Dayton's ticket offices. Tickets are priced at $5.00 for adults and $1.00 for students.

Talking Out of School

by Bill Rosenbloom and Carl Nelson

TRAVELING TROPHY

This week's Talking Out of School Traveling Trophy, the General George Armstrong Custer Memorial Strategem of the Year Award, goes out to Ken Berg, the deputy superintendent of St. Paul schools and overseer of the district's financial affairs. The prestigious prize is bestowed on Mr. Berg in recognition of the artful strategies employed by the school district in its dealings with the City of St. Paul, the result of which includes an increase in the cost of the schools' golf program at city courses, and possibly imperiling the future of the schools' and city's community education program.

Many readers may have seen a recent story in the local daily papers concerning a new policy on the part of the St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation increasing student golf fees from $1.75 to $6.00 for practice rounds and matches. What they certainly didn't see was the "story behind the story"—the power struggle our dogged investigating team has uncovered.

It all began innocently enough when St. Paul voters approved an independent school district for the city. Even though the school district was to manage its own financial affairs, provisions were made for the City of St. Paul to handle the purchasing and perform other miscellaneous services for the schools. Under the plan, the school district and the city would negotiate a contract once a year to outline the services to be provided and the fees to be paid.

Evidently the school district determined some time ago that it could provide these services for itself in a more efficient and economical manner than that being delivered by the city. However, termination of the contract requires the joint action of the St. Paul City Council and the school district. And though this has been discussed in the past, there has never been a vote on the matter.

Round one of the latest bout seems to have been fought when the school district dragged its collective feet and didn't sign a contract with the city for 1978. (The contract is still not signed.) Yet this did not stop the school district from running up a bill for about $170,000 for services provided by the city.

Round two saw the school district come back with a bill for $160,000 from the city, primarily for community education expenses.

In round three, the city countered by upping its golf fees to $6.00. A 243 percent increase.

Our sources indicate that when the two come out of their respective corners for round four, the city will lead with a call for termination of its agreement with the school district to jointly underwrite the costs of the community education program—unless, of course, the service contract problems are approaching resolution.

Sad to say, neither administrative body stands as much to lose from these low blows as the community itself. There are many, many people out there taking part in the community education program, making it work, and proving that we can all benefit from cooperation between the city and the school district.

While we are not inclined to judge the merits of either side, we feel it's time to stop playing games—time for the school district and the city to confront the problem and solve it.

In the event that the two groups decide they want to continue this battle wherein everyone loses, we suggest that Mr. Berg see fit to share his little tribute, "The Little Big Horn" board game, with Mayor Latimer. The two men ought to especially enjoy the Last Stand, in which the final battle is waged in the sand trap just off the ninth green at the Highland 18-hole golf course.

ROTHSCHILD, REALTORS®

Legislative Report
 by Rep. John Drew
 District 63B

I very much appreciated reader response to my last column about the People Mover. Many calls and letters came into my office asking me how I stand on the issue. My feeling is that the People Mover will become a costly white elephant. Certainly someone (probably the taxpayers) will end up paying for the cost overruns and operating problems which almost inevitably plague modern mass transit systems. The supporters of the People Mover have left just too many questions unanswered for me to vote in favor of it.

Another issue of concern to District 63B residents is some greatly needed property tax relief. Earlier this year, the Minnesota Tax Court struck down as unconstitutional the use of limited market value in determining property tax rates, meaning that a home's estimated actual market value (nearly always a higher dollar figure) must be used instead.

The Independent-Republicans' proposal to ease this new burden on property-owners—targeted property tax relief—would cushion the effect of switching from limited to estimated market value over a two-year period.

Under the targeting plan, if a property owner's real estate taxes rise more than 10 or 15 percent over the previous year, the state would pay 50 percent of the increase up to a $200 maximum. Targeting wouldn't apply to property owners whose taxes increased at a slower annual rate, and so would help only those persons hit hardest by the limited market value ruling.

Targeting is only one part of the property tax relief proposals included in the comprehensive IR tax package, which would also provide income tax reductions. Since Minnesota residents pay both property and income taxes, any tax plan the legislature considers this year must cover both areas for the most reasonable approach to tax relief.

Opera Service conference slated May 18-19 in Mpls.

"The Education and Training of Opera Singers" is the title of the two-day Central Opera Service conference to be held in conjunction with Metropolitan Opera Week, May 14-19. Conference sessions will take place on Friday afternoon, May 18, and on Saturday morning, May 19, in the Twin Cities Room of the Sheraton Ritz in Minneapolis.

The opening session will begin with registration at noon, followed by talks by Richard Weitach, a conductor for the Metropolitan Opera, and Dr. Robert Larsen, director of the Des Moines Summer Opera Festival.

The Twin Cities Opera Guild's Young Artists In Residence, a quartet of young professionals from New York, will perform at 3:00 p.m. under the direction of Raymond Cutting, 1036 Lombard Ave., conductor of the Bloomington Symphony.

Following registration at 9:00 a.m. on May 19, addresses are scheduled by H. Wesley Balk, artistic director of the Minnesota Opera; Gene Boucher, a baritone with the Met and president of the American Guild of Musical Artists; Loretta di Franco, a soprano with the Met; and Francis Robinson, Metropolitan Opera manager and consultant.

Who nose what can happen when Les Heller and papa Lee get together? Preliminary dispatches from the scene of the new Baskin-Robbins at 2181 Ford Parkway indicate that Les, the manager, juggles the ever-changing 31-flavor supply with all the resourcefulness of a circus barker. Our sources add that owner Lee tends to poke around a bit too — when he isn't drilling offshore oil in places like West Australia.

Hillel House hosts Nevada night May 19

All the trappings of Lake Tahoe — from "name" acts in the celebrity lounge to cavorting in the casino — will be ready for the anticipated onslaught of guests when "Circus, Circus" hits the Hillel House, 1521 University Ave. S.E., on Saturday, May 19.

Headlining the event, which gets underway at 8:30 p.m., will be Elvis impersonator Johnny Wise. Also on the bill are a rock band called Benedict, a local comic, mimist and harpist.

Those so inclined will be able to take a chance at roulette, craps, blackjack, poker and the wheel of fortune in the casino. Bets may also be placed on the horses which will be running all night on the silver screen. At evening's end, the casino will be the site of an auction for such prizes as dinners for two, a color telly, and theatre tickets.

For further information, call 336-4691.

Senate File

District 63

Early in the session it became apparent that much time and effort would be devoted to solving the problems with Minnesota's Worker's Compensation law. By now, a lot of time and effort have been spent, based on the comprehensive study done by the Workers' Compensation Study Commission.

Unfortunately, we have still done little to solve the most basic problem with workers' compensation—the cost to the employer.

Minnesota employers currently pay the 14th highest rates in the country for the insurance, and the rates have risen alarmingly. In 1974, they were $1.65 for every $100 of payroll. If a proposed increase is granted by the insurance commissioner, the new rate will be $3.90, an increase of 136 percent in five years. With high rates go high benefits. Minnesota currently ranking sixth in the country.

So far this session, work on the law has resulted in changes which would decrease the cost of the insurance by just a little over one percent, hardly a significant figure. That is where we are left at this late date in the session.

Three different plans have been offered in an attempt to further reduce costs:

Establishment of a state fund to compete with private insurers. This is the approach most favored by labor organizations. Twelve states have this type of operation, but it doesn't necessarily reduce costs. In six of the states, employers pay higher rates than in Minnesota. At least two of the state funds have experienced deficits, and benefits are generally lower. Additionally, we must acknowledge that part of the reason for lack of competition in the insurance industry is regulation imposed by the state.

Encouragement for small employers to form groups and self-insure or provide their own coverage. The Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry supports this concept. In some states where this is allowed, rates are about half of what Minnesota employers pay.

Establishment of a catastrophic claims pool. This would be a concept similar to the reinsurance pool now used for catastrophic health insurance. The pool would handle all claims in excess of $250,000. The pool would be state mandated but privately run.

It would appear that any plan which involves the state might save employers money but would cost the taxpayers. Overhead would have to be met, administrative procedures would have to be established, staff would have to be hired. No one has yet come up with a total dollar figure for an appropriation from the state's general fund, but early estimates indicate about $15 million would be needed.

I believe it is essential that we come to grips with the subject this year. All sides are going to have to yield a bit if we are to reach any type of workable compromise. If we do not take care of it now, employers may begin asking for decreased benefits as a method of combating their costs. That is also a price we don't wish to pay.

If you have any comments or questions about this matter, feel free to contact me at 296-4310.

Student art unveiled

Macalester College's Senior Honors Exhibition, a display of art works by students Jan Rotenberry, Mary Gstalter; Sarah Bratnober and Nick Swearer, will open with a reception at 7:00 p.m. Thursday, May 10 in the inner gallery of the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center on the Mac campus.

Garden society celebrates 75th

The Minnesota Garden Society, which claims to be the oldest garden club in continuous existence in the U.S., will celebrate its 75th birthday with a lunch set to start at noon Thursday, May 10 at Messiah Episcopal Church, 1631 Ford Pkwy. Following the meal, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kurtz will speak on wildflowers of Minnesota.

The Minnesota Garden Society holds its meetings at 1:30 p.m. on the second Thursday of each month (September through May) in the Community Room of Northern Federal Savings and Loan, Cleveland and Pinehurst Ave. Membership is open to all men and women with an interest in gardening. St. Paul Winter Carnival folks announce 1980 theme contest

That's right, folks, though winter is barely behind us, the St. Paul Winter Carnival people already are gearing up for the 94th celebration and are currently seeking entries for their 1980 theme contest. Deadline is Monday, May 21.

Theme ideas should include a reference to clowns, since the next Winter Carnival will feature the mid-winter session of the International Shrine Clown Association, to be attended by delegates from all over North America.

Contestants can submit more than one entry, but each should be printed or typed on one side of a card or sheet of paper with one theme idea, name, address and telephone number per sheet. Mail all entries to St.

Paul Winter Carnival Association, Bremer Building, 98 E. Seventh St., St. Paul 55101.

The winner will receive a plaque-mounted first day issue of the 1980 button and be an honored guest in the Grand Day Parade and at the Queen of Snows Coronation.

Humboldt hoopla

The Humboldt High School class of 1929 will hold an open house in honor of its 50th reunion from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. Sunday, May 20 in the "new" Humboldt High School, 30 E. Baker St. Graduates from all other years are also invited to stop by. Call Rhea (Ehlers) McBride at 457-4109 for more information.

Opera guild to 'party in pink'

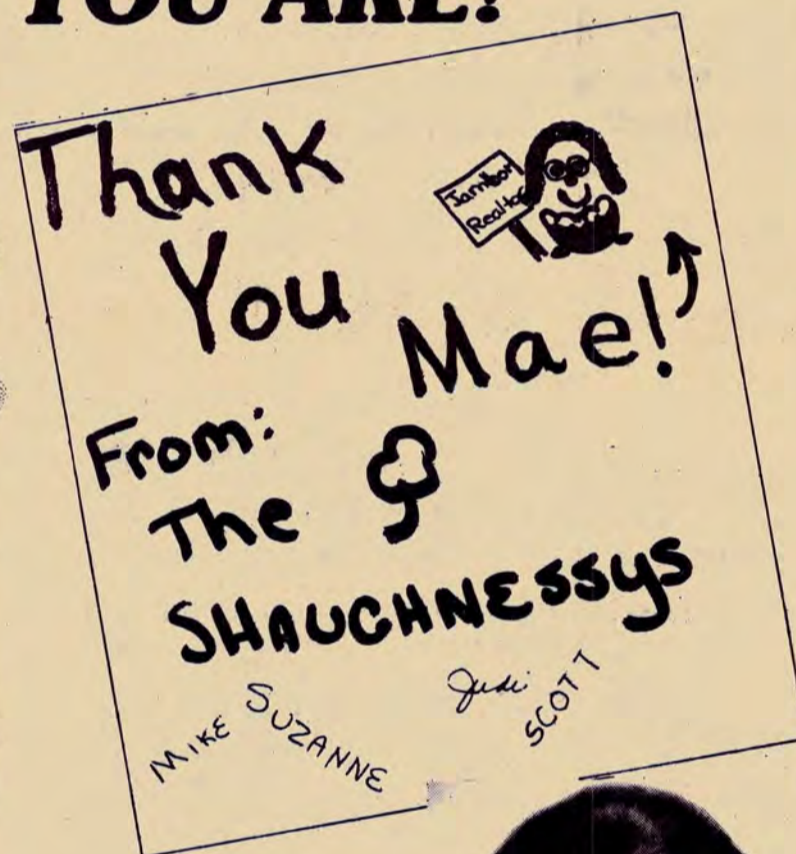

The Twin Cities Opera Guild will hold its 25th annual meeting and "Party in Pink" on Monday, May 21 at the Town and Country Club. The 10:00 a.m. annual business meeting will be followed by the customary "pink" luncheon and musical program.

The featured entertainer for the event will be Richard O. Johnson, 1979 winner of the Metropolitan Opera Upper Midwest Regional auditions. A native of Eau Claire, Johnson will sing an amalgam of familiar operatic arias and selections from favorite musicals.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. M. William Hart, 500 Montrose Lane, by Friday, May 18.

We're not #1. YOU ARE!

You can imagine how pleased Mae Sylvester must have been a few days ago when she received this heart-warming thank you note along with a delightful personal gift. Judi Shaughnessy and her three children are obviously happy in their new home, and grateful to Mae for her prolonged, diligent efforts in helping them find exactly what they wanted and needed.

Mae Sylvester

The Shaughnessys were able to move from their rented duplex to a home in the very same area so that Mike, Suzanne and Scott could continue going to the same schools and enjoy the same friendships. They apparently feel that Mae Sylvester put their needs first... and gave of herself in the process. Another prime example of what we mean when we say that at Jambor Realtors we're not #1, YOU ARE!

Area kids invited to 'play ball!' at free Minnesota Twins clinic

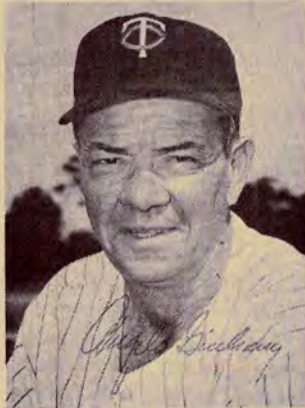

All area diamond devotees age 8-18 are invited to grab their gloves and get in on the action when the Midwest Federal/Minnesota Twins free baseball clinic comes to Hillcrest playground at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 23.

Twins scout Angelo Giuliani, 1985 Norfolk Ave., will direct the clinic with a hand from fellow scouts Bill Kane and John Mauer. Fundamentals they'll be covering include base running, pitching, catching, sliding, hitting, bunting, infield and outfield play.

Fathers and mothers are invited to join their sons and daughters on the field during the practice. Local baseball coaches are also welcome to attend if they'd like to pick up a few pointers.

All participating youngsters will have a chance to win a $5.00 savings account at Midwest Federal, cosponsor of the clinic in cooperation with the St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation.

A second area Twins clinic will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, June 6 at Linwood playground.

Two schools of thought Who'll move into Linwood Elementary? Mays may, but it's still an 'Open' question

by Roger Fuller

A battle over the use of the Linwood School building after the school closes this coming June has fallen unexpectedly into the lap of the District 16/Summit Hill Association.

Two alternative educational programs operated by the St. Paul Public School system have expressed their desire to move into Linwood School next fall. At successive District 16 meetings, board members were first asked to support the petition for the Benjamin Mays Learning Center, and then that of the St. Paul Open School.

The two-year-old Mays program offers a "back-to-basics" approach to education, and the St. Paul Open School runs a "demonstration project," now in its seventh year.

At District 16's April board meeting, representatives from the Mays Center made known their wishes to leave the present quarters which they share with Jefferson School at 90 S. Western Ave. According to them, the arrangement was never ideal in the first place, since a conflict over educational styles inevitably emerges when an alternative and a traditional educational program share the same facility. They stated that the Mays program now finds itself in need of more space than the Jefferson building can provide.

At the meeting of the District 16/Summit Hill Association held on May 2, the board was informed that the Open School, currently operating out of the old Mechanic Arts building at 97 E. Central Ave., also wishes to set up shop at Linwood. The school is under a deadline to find another facility since its lease with the State of Minnesota, which owns the building, expires in 1980.

As the planning council for the neighborhood surrounding Linwood, the District 16 organization is now in the process of determining where the feelings of the community it serves lie. A sense of urgency exists because representatives of the Mays Center have indicated that the school board may well decide the fate of the program for 1979-80 as early as May 15.

Dale Anderson, president of the board of directors of the Mays Center, explained that the sponsors of the school originally wanted to establish a private institution. "After we found funds for this kind of operation were virtually non-existent, we decided to work out an arrangement with the St. Paul School Board," he said.

Marilyn Luckman, assistant principal at the Open School, said that school's advisory committee chose Linwood as its first preference. "They also gave considerable weight to using Jefferson School if the Mays Center moved into Linwood," she explained, "but they really wanted to have autonomy within their own building."

Following District 16's April meeting, Council President William Clapp informed the school board that the organization supported the idea of the Mays Center occupying Linwood School, and that District 16 would call a public meeting to elicit the community's feeling if the school board members wished to attend.

According to Talley Rhame, community organizer for District 16, the Open School will be allowed to make a formal presentation at the May 10 board meeting of the council. "We want to be fair and give both groups a chance to say their piece," she said.

'U' summer session registration opens

Registration is now open for summer session classes offered through Continuing Education for Women, part of the extension division of the University of Minnesota. There are no entrance requirements for these classes.

About 50 courses will be offered at various Twin Cities locations in subjects ranging from career planning to conversational French. Call 373-9743 or 376-4517 for a summer session bulletin.

Ramsey Jr. stages 'Sound of Music'

The Ramsey Junior High Drama Department will present Rodgers and Hammerstein's The Sound of Music at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, May 17 and 18 in the school auditorium, 1700 Summit Ave.

The musical stars Chris Lidstad as Captain Von Trapp, Diane Larson as the young governess Maria, Lisa Hamill as Baroness Schrader, Dan Rivera as Max, and Lisa Kunz, Chris Schluckebier, Tammy Claybough, Angie Maxim, Rich Hellman, Ellen Esparolini and Karen Kinney as the Von Trapp children.

Produced by Jack Schluckebier, the play is directed by Rebecca Hakala with help from Stacy Bartling and Michelle Meyers. Admission is $1.00.

Bishops' paper is CSC forum topic

An open discussion of the Catholic Bishops of Minnesota position paper on women, published in March, is planned for 7:00 p.m. Thursday, May 10 in the alumnae center at the College of St. Catherine.

The forum, which will be followed by a question and answer period, is an opportunity for men and women to discuss the paper, entitled Women: Pastoral Reflections. The discussion is cosponsored by the college, the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, the Urban Affairs Commission and the Sisters Council.

Admission is $2.00, free for students.

CSC senior named a Fulbright scholar

Barbara Evans, a senior German and chemistry major at the College of St. Catherine, has been named the recipient of a Fulbright scholarship for a year's study at a university in West Germany. Evans will graduate from St. Catherine's this spring, and will begin one year of study on August 6 in the field of biochemistry at a university yet to be named.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Evans of Vista, California, she plans to continue her studies at the University of California-San Diego where she has already been accepted as a graduate student in biochemistry.

Sister Mary Alice Muelerleile, associate professor of English at the College of St. Catherine, has been named coordinator of CSC's new Weekend College program. Weekend College will offer adult women the chance to earn bachelor's degrees by attending class on alternate weekends.

SUMMER REGISTRATION SET

Registration for more than 45 summer programs, featuring activities for preschoolers through high school students and some for adults, will continue for the next few weeks at the Merriam Park Community Center, 2000 St. Anthony Ave. Sign-up hours are 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, and 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Fridays. If you'd like a summer brochure with information on all programs offered, call the center at 645-0349.

ANNUAL DANCE RECITAL

The 150 dance students at the center will present their annual recital at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, May 9 and 10. The public is welcome to come and watch students dance to songs made famous by such Hollywood greats as Gene Kelly, Fred Astaire and Cyd Charisse. There will be a small admission charge.

COLOR GUARD GARAGE SALE

The 40 families of the Merriam Park Color Guards have raided their own garages, basements, rec rooms and attics for this first annual Super Duper Garage Sale, set for 8:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Saturday, May 19 at the center. Baked goods will be sold too.

ALICE MORSTREM GETS AWARD

Alice Morstrem was selected at the center's annual meeting to receive the 1979 Weyerhaeuser Award for her active participation in the center's programs, activities and services over the past 30 years. She is active also in St. Mark's Church, the Merriam Park Branch Library, the bloodmobile unit of St. Mark's, St. Joseph's Hospital gift shop, the Columbian Women's Club, the Heart Drive-Cancer Drive, the United Way of St. Paul and the ladies' auxiliary of the Knights of Columbus.

The Weyerhaeuser Award is given annually by the center's board of directors to a Merriam Park area resident for outstanding community service.

Churches in Your Community

"Is God really listening when I pray?"

No one could care more than God does, what happens to you.

When you understand even a little of His goodness and care, and turn to Him trustingly—you find what you need to solve any problem.

How God answers' prayer is shown in the Bible, and is an important subject in our Sunday School. Anyone through age 19 is welcome, any Sunday.

Need a frond?

You say your philodendron has but one leaf? Your Boston fern requires more attention than your kids? Your Swedish ivy has taken over the house and now holds you hostage in the kitchen?

Ever considered trading them in? Then consider this:

The Merriam Park Branch Library will conduct a plant exchange from 12:30 to 9:00 p.m. on Thursday, May 17 at the library, 1831 Marshall Ave. All those interested in swapping one bit of greenery for another are invited to bring in their plants or cuttings, clearly labeled to indicate their names, any unusual facts or characteristics, and information about caring for them.

"Animal warden" catches more than dogs

by Sue Hennessy

A moustachioed little man hides behind a bush, net in hand, waiting for the approach of the unsuspecting pup. That's the usual cartoon image of the dog catcher. A real dog catcher, in today's parlance an "animal warden," is actually very different.

First, he doesn't roam area alleys and avenues looking for dogs - usually someone calls the pound and complains about a stray.

He doesn't use a net either, which according to Bernie Fritz, supervisor for the St. Paul City Dog Pound, would only scare most canines.

Instead, the warden will calmly talk the dog over, then put it in the pound's van. He will, that is, if the dog doesn't have a tag and the owner isn't nearby, or if the pound has received repeated complaints about the dog, and after issuing a warning, its owner hasn't taken care of the problem.

Bernie Fritz

In most dog complaint cases, a warning is first given to the owner. If the complaint is repeated, a violation tag is issued.

According to Fritz, the pound receives 400 to 600 calls a month. These are both service calls and complaints, and include everything from getting a squirrel out of someone's basement to putting older animals to sleep at the owner's request.

The pound also catches a few dogs - about 3,000 a year. Of these, one third go unclaimed, and after five days become the property of the city. They are then put to sleep without the owner's consent.

If that sounds cruel, consider the fact that there are 5,000 to 6,000 licensed dogs in St. Paul today - or about 20 percent of the estimated 30,000 canine population.

When a dog is impounded, the cost to the owner is $27.50 for a licensed pet, $35.50 for an unlicensed one. If the dog is not claimed after the first day, there is an additional charge of $2.50 per day.

If an impounded dog hasn't received its rabies shot, the owner must leave an additional $25 deposit and prove within 72 hours that it has received them. The deposit is then returned.

In the past 10 years, there has been only one reported case of a rabid dog in St. Paul. (The pound quarantines a biting dog for 10 days to see if it has rabies.)

Fritz credits the addition of four wardens since 1971 as the main reason why the number of reports of biting dog has dropped from 1300 per year then, to 700 in 1978.

Shetka's energetic works displayed at institute of arts

"Permutation," an installation of works by Minnesota artist Stanley Shetka, will go on display Friday, May 11 in the Minnesota Gallery of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and continue through May 30. The artist will attend a free opening reception, set for 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 10.

Shetka's works, which are concerned with energy and transitory forms, spring from his belief that the universe is a large, complicated environment of perpetual energies, with a continuum of billions of transfers from one energy form to another.

In his installation, commonly used objects have been altered to function in liquid environments, such as a television set immersed in oil to illustrate the differing reflections of the images and to elicit a reaction between the heat of the set and the oil.

Shetka's works define the paths of energy as they flow from one environment to the next or from object to object. Museum visitors, too, can participate in the energy flow by placing person-to-person telephone calls to the artist from the gallery.

Mills Bros. billed

The Mills Brothers, the famous trio who first sang together more than 50 years ago, will be appearing through Saturday, May 12 in the Carlton Celebrity Room. For ticket information, call 854-9300.

Brandis to head up sales at Glassman

The appointment of Henry Brandis as sales manager for Realty World-Glassman was announced recently by Ron Glassman, president of the firm.

Brandis comes to Glassman with an extensive background in residential and commercial sales. A graduate of Central High School, he now lives in the new Wilder Town House complex.

Realty World-Glassman currently has 14 sales associates on its staff. With record sales in the first quarter of 1979, the firm has indicated it has some early expansion plans on the board.

Rally set at Landmark Center

A public rally dealing with issues related to the freedoms of choice, speech and religion will be held on Thursday, May 17 at the Landmark Center in downtown St. Paul.

Sponsored by an ad hoc committee of representatives from the Midwest Health Center for Women, the Abortion Rights Council of Minnesota, Planned Parenthood of Minnesota, the DFL Feminist Caucus and the GOP Feminist Caucus, the rally will run from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Keynote speakers for the occasion will be former U.S. Congressman Donald Fraser and Dr. Sol Gordon, family life professor from Syracuse University. Fraser will speak on freedom of expression, Gordon on freedom of choice.

Also speaking at the rally will be Francis Pirazzini, conference minister of the United Church of Christ, and Koryne Horbal, U.S. representative to the United Nations on the Commission on the Status of Women.

A $1.00 donation will be collected at the door. For further information, call 292-0944.

STA senior wins free ride as frosh

Henry A. Patterson, 1781 Scheffer Ave., has been awarded a year's scholarship that will cover his tuition and fees next fall in the Institute of Technology at the University of Minnesota.

A senior at St. Thomas Academy, Patterson is a recipient of the Project Technology Power Merit Scholarship, funded by the Pillsbury Company, 3M, Honeywell and Northern States Power Company, which is given to minority freshmen on the basis of academic achievement.

A friendly reminder to the Villager's news sources:

We frown on late material.

When our lead time is cut short, late submissions run the inevitable risk of maltreatment at the hands of your editor and his crew of overly caffeinated collaborators.

So please, for the sake of your news and our dues, try to keep the following in mind:

The deadline for all news releases is the Wednesday prior to publication. But there's no need to wait. The earlier your news item is received (preferably typed and double-spaced), the happier we are. And the happier we are... well... the happier we are.

Summer session registration now open at Hamline

Liberal arts and continuing education classes, non-credit courses and special programs for high school students to senior citizens will be offered as part of the Summer Session at Hamline University.

Registration is now open for two four-week terms beginning June 11 and July 9. An eight-week general session will run concurrently.

Included in the special programming is a series of classes for shutterbugs, an MCAT topics review, archaeology courses, a writer's program and a class to improve your memory. Many courses will be offered in the late afternoon or early evening to accommodate students' work schedules.

To request a Summer Session catalogue, call Hamline at 641-2205.

Dignitaries redub West 7th Blvd. Gannon Road

That three-block stretch of pavement in front of Gannon's restaurant, 2728 West Seventh Blvd., will be given its third name in 15 years in a ribbon cutting ceremony at noon Monday, May 14.

According to Dorothy and Joseph Lipschultz, owners of Gannon's, the Mayor, city council and Attorney General Warren Spannaus will be on hand to redub the street, "Gannon Road," after the restaurant's original owner, Tom Gannon.

Originally a part of West Seventh Street, Gannon Road -to-be was changed to West Seventh Boulevard 15 years ago when construction of Highway 5 necessitated a realignment of West Seventh Street.

The public is invited to witness the ribbon cutting, which will be held only if the weather permits.

Chamber music concert planned

A free concert featuring the chamber works of Haydn, Gluck, Kreisler and Mousorgsky will be presented at 11:00 a.m. Wednesday, May 23 in the chapel of St. Paul's United Church of Christ, 900 Summit Ave.

Solo and ensemble performances will be given by violinists Edward Horak and K. Allen Pravitz, violist Ishaq Arazzi, cellist Edward Davenport and harpist Jeannette Murray.

The program is sponsored by the United Leisure Age Center which represents eight area churches.

Messiah's women set auction, lunch

The Women of Messiah Episcopal Church will hold their annual salad luncheon and silent auction on Wednesday, May 16 at the church, 1631 Ford Pkwy.

The auction and social hour will begin at 11:30 a.m. in the Seeger Room, followed by lunch at 12:30 p.m. Tables will be available for cards at 1:30 p.m., and babysitting will be provided.

Tickets are $3.50 and available from Mrs. Allan Davis (699-7097) or the church office (698-2590). If you have items to donate for the auction, call Mrs. Alton Kramer at 699-7977.

Exceptional kids enjoy exceptional fair at St. Thomas

The fifth annual Exceptional Children's Fair, cosponsored by Exceptional Children of Minnesota and the College of St. Thomas, is planned for 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Saturday, May 12 on the CST campus. All proceeds will go to the area's mentally retarded and physically handicapped children.

In recognition of 1979 as the International Year of the Child, this year's fair will have an international flavor, featuring music, foods, games dances and costumes from around the world.

Student volunteers from the colleges of St. Thomas and St. Catherine will assist in the sale of art works, food preparation, games and entertainment. The day will conclude with Mass in CST's chapel.

"Gave me the practical skills I needed to get started."

Seth Schmidt, who is the news editor of the Cottonwood County Citizen in Windom, says this about the Annual Newspaper Skills Course:

"I have a history degree, but I think my graduation from the 1975 Newspaper Skills Course meant more to my publisher when he hired me than my four years in college."

"I'm glad I have that degree, but the NSC was what I needed to get started. It gave me the practical skills I needed to get into newspaper work. I recommend that anybody who has a vague idea that he or she would like newspaper work but lacks the skills should apply for the course."

Seth is one of about 90 students who has taken the course and who has found a job on a newspaper.

This summer, from June 4 to June 29, the Minnesota Newspaper Association will conduct its 11th annual Newspaper Skills Course at the Anoka-Hennepin Area Vocational School.

MNA will also conduct an Advertising Skills Course and a Photography Skills Course simultaneously on July 9-13 at Anoka AVTI.

To qualify for the NSC you need [1] a high school diploma, [2] successfully to pass several literacy tests, [3] the ability to type at least 35 words a minute, and most importantly [4] a deep and serious interest in newspaper work.

Cost of the course is $60 for Minnesota residents, plus a fee for supplies. Students will be required to have their own 35mm single lens reflex camera w/self contained light metering system for the NSC and PSC. Scholarship loans are available.

Julian Bond to be Urban League guest

Julian Bond, news analyst for the NBC-TV "Today" show, author and Georgia state senator, will be the guest of honor at the St. Paul Urban League's 55th annual dinner meeting and dance, set for 7:00 p.m. Thursday, May 31 at the Prom Ballroom, 1190 University Ave.

Elected to his state's House of Representatives in 1969, Bond was seated only after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the Georgia House couldn't deny him his seat because of his anti-Vietnam sentiments. In 1968 he was nominated to be Hubert Humphrey's vice-presidential running mate, but had to decline because he was too young.

The public is invited to the Urban League dinner and donations are $12.00 each. For reservations, call 224-5771.

Superkids offers summer camp fun to kids with asthma

Registration is now open for Superkids, a summer camp near Loretto, Minnesota for children ages 7-14 with asthma.

Located about 40 miles from St. Paul, Camp Superkids offers backpacking trips, overnight canoe trips, soccer, crafts and swimming. The camp includes around-the-clock medical care, with a staff of doctors and nurses in attendance throughout the sessions.

For first-time campers ages 7-9, there are two six-day sessions offered: July 9-15 and July 15-20. A 12-day session for ages 8-14 runs July 9-20.

For more information or to register, call the Ramsey County Lung Association at 224-4901.

Inside the House

by Rep. Ray Faricy
District 63A

It's always a challenge to come up with column material at this stage of the legislative drama, since many of the major pieces of legislation are in a state of limbo. Only two weeks remain for legislators to work out details on bills that are stalled in the evenly split House. Following full House approval comes the perennial hassle of smoothing out the differences between House and Senate versions of legislation in conference committees.

I would like to mention just a few of the issues we are looking at in these last days.

The Tax Committee is trying to reach agreement on how to give back to taxpayers the $686 million determined to be available for tax cuts. There is a general consensus that the major portion should be pumped into income and property tax cuts. I understand that there has been tentative accord reached on property tax relief programs, but committee members have not yet worked out a formula for providing income tax relief that is acceptable to both DFLers and IRs. A compromise measure should be ready to send to the floor sometime this week.

Progress has been made on a school aid bill which has been passed by the full Education Committee and is awaiting action in the Appropriations Committee. It makes major changes in the school aid formula by altering the state-set mill levy rate on property taxes, which determines the amount of money a particular district has to spend on its educational system... which in turn determines how much state aid a district is eligible for. In addition to this change, the main provision of the bill increases state aid to $1,182 per pupil in the 1979-80 school year and to $1,265 the following year.

A bill providing for $800 million in new bonding authority for the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency to provide for low interest home mortgage and rehabilitation loans for moderate and low income families will soon be before the full House. DFL amendments to the bill in committee substantially increased the bonding authority over that requested by the Governor, so we are curious as to how he and the House IRs will react.

As I am writing this column, a bill that would make reforms in the Worker's Compensation program in Minnesota is still in committee. Reform is essential from the standpoint of small businesses who are suffering from excessive Worker's Comp insurance rates. The question remains...what action should the Legislature take to help resolve the problem of exorbitant rates without jeopardizing benefits for injured workers? Should more small employers be encouraged to band together to provide competition to private insurers, thus encouraging lower premiums? I am hopeful a compromise can be reached in time to enact this very needed reform.

Last week, final House action approved three of the major appropriations bills. The largest is the budget for health, welfare and corrections with a price tag of $1.28 billion; higher education was allotted $734 million, and a $33.2 million emergency appropriation was passed for the Department of Transportation.

I am pleased about House defeat of an IR sponsored bill that would have increased permissible interest rates on open-end charge accounts (such as the flexible accounts many people have at Dayton's, Sears, etc.) from 12% to 18% annually. Retailers have been pushing for this change for a number of years, but I find it hard to believe their claims that they are losing money on their charge operations under the 12% rate, particularly when it is an accepted fact that a charge account induces a customer to buy several times the amount of goods he or she would purchase without the charge.

By the time of my next column, I hope to be able to report in greater detail on some of the major accomplishments of this session.

DOWN AT THE Playground

The revival of the perennial yo-yo is upon us—in this case a Yo-Yolympics sponsored by the people at Duncan. The citywide competition will be held on Wednesday, May 30. Call your closest rec center to see if it's holding a practice tournament beforehand, and for the use of practice equipment provided by guess what company?

HILLCREST

Hillcrest is signing up summer softball players between 3:30 and 5:00 p.m. and from 6:00 to 9:30 p.m. weekdays. There will be separate boys' and girls' softball teams for all ages, which means that the girls' softball teams will play other girls' teams only. Pick up your forms now.

Our Track and Field Event Meet will be held at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, May 17. Boys and girls in third through ninth grade will be eligible to compete in such events as softball throw, broadjump, dashes and distance runs. Winners will go on to the district meet on May 24 at Murray High School.

Remember Hillcrest Recreation center is selling tickets for all the Norsemen's professional softball games. If you don't like softball, at least you can watch Bob Lurtsema fall down. . .

Summer program starts June 11, with crafts to athletics to community events held in cooperation with the Highland Park Branch Library. Brochures with full information should be available next week for you to pick up.

DESNOYER

All Desnoyer area boys and girls should register now for T-Ball (boys and girls in third grade and under), softball (girls in grades 6-7 and high school boys) and baseball (boys in grades 4-5). If you want to play on a team this spring, come on down and sign up.

Calling all Desnoyer track stars: We need you for the May 24 district track and field meet, set to start at 5:00 p.m. at the Murray High School field. The events are posted at the Center, and you can practice here any afternoon. All third through ninth graders are eligible, but no A, B or JV squad members in school this year may compete. The city meet will be held on May 28 at Harding.

A few reminders: Our district day camp dates are June 25-29 and July 23-27; craft classes are now being offered every Friday from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.; registration is open for children's tennis classes at Desnoyer; summer program brochures will be ready by May 20.

We'd like to welcome Jimmy Devaney to our staff. He's been a volunteer worker for the last two years and will now be paid for his efforts. Thanks, Jimmy, for your help in the past and good luck in the future.

HOME CROFT

Signup is still going on for summer athletic teams. Stop in to register for any of the baseball or softball teams. There are still lots of openings for boy's and girl's T-ball and the high school girls' team.

The 1979 Junior Track and Field Meets will be held on Thursday, May 24. Scheduled activities will include the vertical jump, standing broad jump, running long jump, a softball throw and several running events. Boys and girls in third through ninth grades will compete separately. Sign up by Tuesday, May 22.

Start practicing your yo-yo tricks—Walk the Dog, etc.—for the May 30 Duncan Yo-yo olympics. The competition will be open in two categories for boys and girls: 11 and under, and 12-15 years of age.

Homecroft would like to extend best wishes to former staffers Colleen Lavalie and Brian Mathison, and a warm welcome to new staffers Julie Larson and Max Kieffer. As always, call Swanee, Julie or Max at 698-4249 for details on any playground activities.

GROVELAND

OK gang, this is it: Groveland will hold late summer registration from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. every Wednesday in May. If you have yet to sign up for the myriad opportunities for personal improvement (that translates as "fun") available to you at Groveland this coming summer, you'll be missing the boat if you don't get down here pronto.

We're still looking to draft a few junior and senior high school girls to play softball this summer in two categories—District and Classic. Give Groveland a buzz at 698-5747 if you're interested.

Junior Olympics time is fast approaching. Have you signed up yet? To get in on the action, call Kathy, Mark or Moto.

Hi-C paper drive

The Home and School Association of Highland Catholic School will collect your old newspapers from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Saturday, May 12 and from 8:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Sunday, May 13 in the school parking lot, 2017 Bohland Ave. Those who need paper pickup service should call 690-5041.

HGRA seeks umps

The Highland Groveland Recreation Association (HGRA) is looking for young baseball lovers in sixth grade and older who'd like to be umpires and wouldn't mind some spare cash.

If you're interested, HGRA will help train you. For more information, call the HGRA office weekday afternoons at 699-4630, or Sharon Slinger at 699-6516.

Guitarist Michael Hauser and flamenco dancer Suzanne Hauser will evoke the cabaret atmosphere of a Spanish tablao at Dudley Riggs' ETC., 1430 Washington Ave. S., Minneapolis, in evening performances Friday through Sunday, May 11-13. For reservations, call the box office at 377-2120.

Jefferson Award recipient named

Mary McLaughlin Hill, associate director of development for grants at Macalester College, was recently named the college's 1979 Thomas Jefferson Award recipient at a meeting of the Macalester faculty. In a citation read at the meeting, Hill was lauded for laboring "creatively and unstintingly with students, faculty and staff to secure grants, compose annual reports and build bridges with other institutions."

Hill, a 1958 Macalester graduate, joined the college staff in 1966.

SPA-SS alumni elect new officers

Angus Mairs, 1620 Edgumbe Rd., was named president of the alumni association of St. Paul Academy and Summit School at the association's recent annual meeting. Joan Shapiro, 215 S. Dunlap Ave., was elected vice president. The new treasurer is Richard Harris, 1291 Bohland Place, and Susan Ristau, 845 Fairmount Ave., is the new secretary.

Elected directors of the alumni association were: Sarah B. Ross, 903 Fairmount Ave.; Mrs. John Huss, 722 Linwood Ave.; John Ward, White Bear Lake; Robert Knutson, 922 Fairmount Ave.; and Mrs. Richard Bancroft, South St. Paul.

Mac senior chosen to debate in Britain

Macalester senior Dwight Rabuse is one of two American students who have been chosen to debate in Britain next year. Rabuse and his partner, Mike King, a senior from Harvard University, make up the American team which will spend January to March, 1980 competing against British students throughout the British Isles.

The two-month program is part of an exchange sponsored by the national Speech Communications Association. Each year the group sends two British students to the United States to debate and two American students to England.

Auxiliary presents 125 years of styles in hospital's honor

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital will model antique clothes from attics and archives at a luncheon/fashion show entitled "125 Years of Fashion" on Wednesday, May 16 at the Town and Country Club, 2279 Marshall Ave. The event begins with an 11:30 a.m. social hour.

The occasion is a salute to 125 years of service by St. Joseph's Hospital, the oldest in the state. Costumes were provided courtesy of the Ramsey County Historical Society. For reservations, call Betty Culligan at 690-1057 by May 14.

Gallery concerts, Creative Music series presented in May at MIA

Five gallery concerts and a series of three performances by the newly formed Creative Music Alliance will be presented during May at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. The Schedule follows.

Sunday, May 13 at 3:00 p.m. — Flutist Peggy Doerrie and a chamber ensemble of graduate students from the University of Minnesota Department of Music play French and American music in the Sculpture Court.

Sunday, May 20 at 3:00 p.m. — The I Musici Recorder Ensemble plays French Renaissance and Baroque chansons, musettes and airs de cour on period instruments in the museum's Prints and Drawings Gallery.

Saturday, May 26 at 3:00 p.m. — Soprano Chris Ward sings classical and contemporary music by Schubert, Haydn, Head and Ven Heusen in the Sculpture Court. Chip Christensen accompanies.

Sunday, May 27 at 3:00 p.m. — The Solomon Rossi Ensemble from the Jewish Community Center of Minneapolis presents works by early French composers des Pres, Le Jeune and Lully in Gallery 310.

Thursday, May 31 at 7:30 p.m. — Harpsichordist Daniel Lloyd plays works by French composers Duphy, Couperin and Forqueray, with readings in French and English by George Muschamp, in Gallery 310.

Admission to these concerts is free, but museum admission is required for non-members.

In addition to these concerts, members of the Creative Music Alliance, a group of Twin Cities musicians committed to the evolution and performance of new music, will present a series of Thursday evening concerts in the museum's Pillsbury Auditorium. The schedule follows:

Thursday, May 10 at 7:00 p.m. — The Milo Fine Free Jazz Ensemble performs featuring Milo Fine on drums, piano and clarinet; Steve Gritka on guitars and gritkaphone, and composer John O'Brien on trumpet.

Thursday, May 17 at 7:00 p.m. — Pat Moriarty, alto sax, Phil Hey, percussion, and Sid Farrar, piano and shakuhachi, perform.

Thursday, May 31 at 7:00 p.m. — Dean Granros, guitars and percussion, and Dick Paske, piano, tuba, accordion, percussion and organ, play a concert.

Admission to all three of these events is also free.

Accusing a shocked and somewhat bewildered Chandel (Al Arasim) of trying to move in on his wife, the green-eyed Spanish husband (Peter Wells Farley) demands that they duel in a scene from Chimera Theatre's production of A Flea in Her Ear. George Feydeau's classic farce opens May 11 in the Crawford Livingston Theatre at the St. Paul Arts and Science Center, 30 E. 10th St.

Chimera lets loose a comic 'Flea in Her Ear' May 11

Chimera Theatre will open Georges Feydeau's farce. A Flea in Her Ear on Friday, May 11 for a four weekend run through June 3 in the Crawford Livingston Theatre of St. Paul Arts and Science Center, 30 E. 10th St.

Set in Paris in the 1920s, A Flea in Her Ear is a wild romp through a respectable home and an anything-but-respectable hotel. Chandel, a staid Parisian insurance man, receives an anonymous invitation to an amorous rendezvous at the Pretty Pussy Inn, a meeting place for discreet adults.

His well-intentioned visit to the inn sets off a tangled plot involving his family, friends, servants and a porter at the Pretty Pussy who bears a striking resemblance to Chandel.

Directed by Warren Frost, the comedy will be performed at 8:00 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays, and at 7:00 p.m. Sundays. A matinee is also scheduled for 2:00 p.m. Sunday, June 3.

For more information or reservations, call Chimera's box office (222-0792) or any Donaldson's ticket office. Discounts for groups of 25 or more are available by calling 777-1105 during regular business hours.

Youth symphonies set spring concerts

The Greater Twin Cities' Youth Symphonies, under the direction of Dr. William L. Jones, will present their 1979 spring concerts at 3:00 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, May 13 in O'Shaughnessy Auditorium at the College of St. Catherine.

The 3:00 p.m. performance will feature the Little Philharmonia, Junior Philharmonia North, Junior Symphony and the Philharmonia ensembles. The performance at 7:30 p.m. will feature the Little Symphony, Junior Philharmonia East, Junior Philharmonia West and the Symphony orchestras.

Auditions for GTCYS' 1979-80 season will be held September 5-8. Application forms and further information are now available at the GTCYS office (870-7611).

Hung up art

Art works by Minneapolisians Kathryn Cihak Fisher and Nancy Robinson are on display through June 13 in the Murray Hall Lounge at the College of St. Thomas. Both painters, the two artists work primarily in oil.

The exhibit is open from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. daily.

State drama festival to open Friday at Frey, Bush theatres

The Minnesota Theatre Festival of Companies will present a full weekend of performances and workshops on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 11-13, in Frey Theatre on the campus of the College of St. Catherine, and at the Edyth Bush Theatre, 690 S. Cleveland Ave.

Cosponsored by the participating theatres and the Walker Art Center, the second annual festival will cast a spotlight on nine companies who will share their dramatic visions and working methods with each other and with the public.

Participating companies will include: The Palace Theatre, Illusion Theatre, At the Foot of the Mountain, Performers Ensemble, Commedia '79, Blackthorn Theatre, Heart of the Beast/Powderhorn Puppet Theatre, Minnesota Theatre Institute of the Deaf, and the Cherry Creek Project.

For a total of 50 hours, area audiences will have an opportunity to witness theatre in process and in performance, and learn about the various techniques employed in creation, rehearsal and production. Theatre-goers will also be invited to join Kelly Yeaton, director, author and professor of theatre and film at Penn State, in late evening discussions of each day's presentations.

Tickets for the entire festival are $15; students and senior citizens $10. Individual performance tickets will also be available.

For a complete schedule of performance dates and times, call the Walker Art Center at 377-7500.

Don't know what dishwashing liquid they're using, but drying the plates gives rise to reflections on the "good old days" of college for Ellie (left, Vicki Goldish) and Perfect Peggy (Shirley Wasilauskas) in a scene from A Late Snow, the Out-and-About Theatre Company's latest production which opens May 10 at the Playwrights Center, 2301 E. Franklin Ave. in Minneapolis.

Out-and-About opens 'Late Snow' (indoors) on May 10

Jane Chambers' A Late Snow will be staged by the Out-and-About Theatre Company at 8:00 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays, May 10 - 26 at the Playwrights Center, 2301 E. Franklin Ave.

Directed by Sheila Reiser, A Late Snow deals with an older, mostly closeted lesbian who spends a weekend with four women from her past and present. The women are snowed in at a mountain cabin and all five must face an important question: "After the romance is over, are you willing to work at your relationships?"

Cast in the roles of the five women are Vicki Goldish, Margot Ruckstein, Gay Grimes, Kim Hines and Shirley Wasilauskas. Set design is by Jim Rust and costumes by Diane Bearman.

Tickets are $4.00 and available at Dayton's or by calling 332-7482.

Minnesota Opera to feature new talent in two different shows

"Passions and Potions," two evenings devoted to providing a showcase for the talents of young singer-actors in the Minnesota Opera Studio, will begin at 8:00 p.m. Thursday and Sunday, May 10 and 13 at the headquarters of the Minnesota Opera Company, 850 Grand Ave.

Thursday's program will include the first act of Mozart's The Marriage of Figaro and a condensed version of Stravinsky's The Rake's Progress. Sunday's performances will feature a scene from Donizetti's Elixir of Love. Elizabeth's confrontation scene with Essex from Britten's Gloriana, and a different cast in a repeat of The Rake's Progress.

A $3.00 donation is requested. For reservations, call the box office at 221-0256.

Church concert set of 17th, 18th century 'music for a while'

"Music for a While," a concert of 17th and 18th-century music for voices and instruments, will be presented at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, May 13 at Olivet Congregational Church, 1850 Iglehart Ave.

The program will include solo songs and a versant hymn by Henry Purcell, one and two-voice cantatas by Michel Pignolet de Montclair, arias and duets by Bach and Handel, and Introduction and Fandango by Luigi Boccherini, arranged for guitar and harpsichord.

Performers hail from the faculties of Macalester, Augsburg, Luther and Gustavus colleges, the University of Minnesota, and from the Minnesota Opera Orchestra. Admission is $3.00, $2.00 for students and senior citizens.

Opera for retarded

The ninth annual free Metropolitan Opera performance for mentally retarded citizens has been scheduled for 11:00 a.m. Thursday, May 17 at O'Shaughnessy Auditorium at the College of St. Catherine. The program of music, song and dance is open to all Twin Cities area retarded citizens over age 10.

French art collection displayed at Minneapolis Institute of Arts

"Masterpieces of French Art from the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco," a collection of 65 paintings and drawings that span four centuries, will open Thursday, May 24 in the Dayton Hudson Gallery of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. The exhibition will remain on view through July 1.

Thomas P. Lee, curator of paintings at the San Francisco Museums that loaned the collection, will give a lecture on the exhibit at 2:00 p.m. Sunday, June 3 in the museum's Pillsbury Auditorium. The lecture is free but museum admission is required, which includes slide lectures and gallery visits. "Painting in France 1650-1900," a class for adults which includes slide lectures and gallery visits, will be offered from 10:00 a.m. to noon Thursdays, May 24 to June 21. Those interested can register by calling the arts resource and information center at 870-3131.

The exhibition will include works by 53 artists, from Boucher and Ingres to Toulouse-Lautrec and Monet, and will illustrate a variety of styles from Mannerism to Cubism, influences from throughout Europe and widely varied themes. Public tours will be offered daily.

Skrowaczewski to orchestrate exit-with a Bruckner symphony

As a finale to his 19season tenure with the Minnesota Orchestra, music director Stanislaw Skrowaczewski will lead the orchestra in its final 1978-79 subscription concert at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday and Friday, May 9 and 11 at Orchestra Hall, and at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, May 12 at O'Shaughnessy Auditorium at the College of St. Catherine.

The sole work of the evening will be Anton Bruckner's Symphony No. 8 in C minor. The concert will be broadcast by KSJN-FM radio (91.1 MHz) and filmed by KTCA-TV (Channel 2) for a May 22 viewing.

Born in Lwow, Poland, Skrowaczewski earned diplomas in composition and conducting from the University of Lwow and the Academy of Music in Krakow. He made his American debut in 1958 with the Cleveland Orchestra and was appointed to his current post in 1960.

For concert reservations, call the Orchestra Hall box office at 371-5656 or any Dayton's ticket office.

WHERE TO WHAT TO GO & DO The Villager's Guide to Food, Fun & Entertainment

Ronnie (Alison Stair Neet) eyes her husband's former partner Roy (Stuart Smith) with her own partnership in mind in William Hauptman's Domino Courts, which opens May 10 for a three-week-end engagement at the Walker Church in Minneapolis.

At Random does first season with 'Domino Courts' premiere

The At Random theater company will open the final production of its first season with the area premiere of William Hauptman's Domino Courts 8:00 p.m. Thursday, May 10 at the Walker Church, 3104 16th Ave. So., Minneapolis. The play will run through May 26 with 8:00 p.m. curtain times Thursdays through Saturdays.

Domino Courts for which Hauptman won the 1977 Distinguished Playwright Obie Award, is set in the Oklahoma Dust Bowl in 1939. The Depression has eased somewhat but Europe is on the brink of war and a dark cloud of uncertainty hangs over the American people. And while Franklin Roosevelt is president, Clark Gable is king.

At the Domino Tourist Courts, a cramped cabin becomes the meeting place for two former bank-robbing partners and their wives, all of whom probe each other and their pasts in search of some kind of certainty for their present.

Cast members for Domino Courts include Louise Goetz, Allison Stair Neet, Stuart Smith (who also designed the sets) and Toby Wherry. James R. Slowiak directs and Ellen Cooke is lighting designer.

Radio's 'Prairie Home Companion' can be staunch pal in studio, too

"A Prairie Home Companion," broadcast live at 6:00 p.m. Saturdays on KSJN 91.1FM, may also be seen and heard in person at 5:30 p.m. Saturdays on stage of the World Theatre, 494 Wabasha St.

Joining host Garrison Keillor and the Powdermilk Biscuit Band in the next few weeks will be the following performers:

May 12—Sean Blackburn and Dakota Dave Hull, fiddler Peter Ostrouschko, the City Pickers and guitarist Chris Frank.

May 19—The New Grass Revival, Hot Rize Bluegrass Band and Peter Ostrouschko.

May 26—Blues singer Red Gallagher and guitarist David Himmelsbach.

June 2—Singer John Kolstad.

Admission is $2.00 for adults, $1.50 for students and seniors, and 50 cents for children. Tickets go on sale at the door an hour before showtime.

19th century photos depict familiar faces at Film in the Cities

An exhibition of cartes-de-visites (19th century photographic calling cards) will be on display through June 2 in the Film in the Cities Gallery, 2388 University Ave.

Pianist Rudolf Serkin will perform Schubert and Brahms works with the Minnesota Orchestra at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, May 13 at Orchestra Hall. Call the box office (371-5656) or Dayton's ticket outlets for reservations.

The cartes-de-visite process, popular from 1854-66, was the first mass production portrait process of wet plate photography. Invented by Adolph Disderi, a French photographer and entrepreneur, the first c-d-v camera had four lenses and a moving plate holder to enable the photographer to secure eight exposures on a single negative plate.

Included in the exhibition are portraits of Sarah Bernhardt, Jules Verne, Emile Zola, Gustave Dore, Franz Liszt, Richard Wagner, Jacques Offenbach and Gioachino Rossini. The Film in the Cities Gallery is open from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Church concert

The music of Mozart, Britten and Porter will be performed at a "Music in May" concert, set for 4:00 p.m. Sunday, May 20 at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1895 Laurel Ave.

Performers will include Richard Killmer, oboe, and the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra String Quartet with Robert Zelnick and Romuald Tecco, violins, Tamas Strasser, viola, and Peter Howard, cello. Admission is $3.00 at the door.

Photos exhibited

An exhibition of photographs by Bernice Abbot will open on May 21 at the Film in the Cities Gallery, 2388 University Ave. Free and open to the public, the exhibition will remain on view through June 8. Gallery hours are from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Directed by Professor Frank Benciscutto, the Symphony Band will play the following selections: Alfred Reed's Armenian Dances; Commando March by Samuel Barber; Music for a Festival by Gordon Jacob; Clarinet Candy by Leroy Anderson; Brahms' Academic Festival and Frank Benciscutto's President's Trio

Dance troupe members Barb Anibal, Steven Budas, Ellen Liner and Karen Youso will perform "Shores" and two other modern dances at Caravan's spring concert Friday through Sunday, May 18-20 at the Edyth Bush Theatre.

Caravan dance troupe performs at Edyth Bush spring concert

Caravan, a St. Paul-based modern dance company, will present its spring dance concert at 8:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 18-19 and at 2:00 p.m. Sunday, May 20 at the Edyth Bush Theatre, 690 So. Cleveland Ave.

The program will include a dance choreographed by Laura Glenn "Shores," and based on Virginia Wolfe's novel The Waves and "Primo Vere," a piece by guest artist Isa Bergsohn to music by Carl Orff.

The company will also perform a light jazz piece called "At Random," set to an eight-bar blues work by Meade Lux Lewis. Choreographer Linda Shapiro, who now teaches at the University of Minnesota, is a former Caravan member.

The spring concert is Caravan's first Twin Cities performance of the year. The dance troupe recently received a grant from the Metropolitan Regional Arts Council to enhance its artist-in-residence program.

Tickets will be available at the door, with discounts for children and senior citizens. For more information, call 645-1194.

Dances dedicated to Minnesota's mamas

Mexican folk dances will be performed by El Ballet Folklórico de Minnesota at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, May 10 in Jeanne d'Arc Auditorium at the College of St. Catherine.

Dedicated to all the mothers in Minnesota (May 10 is Mother's Day south of the border), the performance will feature a variety of Mexico's native dances, including those from the states of Jalisco, Veracruz, Michoacan and Puebla.

Tickets, at $3.00 for adults and $1.50 for students, will be available at the door. For more information, call 690-6784.

Film in the Cities sets photo lectures

Film in the Cities' Light and Form photography series will continue with two Wednesday evening programs in the next two weeks. Each begins at 7:30 p.m. at the gallery, 2388 University Ave. Admission is $1.50.

Jerry Rudquist, an art professor at Macalester College, will discuss his work and his use of photography on May 16. Henryka Frajlich, assistant curator of photography at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, will speak on Bernice Abbott, whose works are now on display at Film in the Cities Gallery, on May 23.

'We Win or Bust' resurrects railroad union battle of 1922

We Win or Bust a new play by Lance S. Belville based on the famous Twin Cities railroad strike of 1922, will be staged at 7:30 p.m. May 25-26 and 30-31 and at 2:00 p.m. May 26 at Washington High School, 1041 Marion St.

The "shopmen's strike" is what they called the confrontation during the summer and fall of 1922 when St. Paul and Minneapolis railroad workers took on one of the toughest union battles of the turbulent '20s.

The American economy was in flux in 1922 following the Great War: deflation rolled down prices (along with wages) at a rate of 10 percent a year, the railroads were profiting from the business of shipping the year's bumper wheat crop, and union men were sharply divided.

Two of the most powerful railroads, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, both headquartered in St. Paul, were never to settle with the strikers. The railroad unions took a long time to recover from the strike, which management won — but at no small price.

In addition to the play, which is the third in a series produced by COMPAS' St. Paul History Theatre, a community forum featuring a round-table discussion with retired railroad union officials and the playwright will be offered at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday, May 15 at Washington High School.

Tickets for the play, priced at $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for students and seniors, are available through the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra box office (291-1144).

For more information, call Kate Houston, producer for the St. Paul History Theatre, at 292-3256.

Civil War notes to sound at fort

A special program of 19th-century music will be performed by the Great Western Band from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. Saturday, May 12 at Historic Fort Snelling. Admission to the fort is $1.00 for adults; but the concert is free.

The Great Western Band, which plays music in a century-old style, includes in its repertoire many Civil War period pieces that were written at or on Fort Snelling.

Deadline May 16

John A. Fisher, 1730 James Road, Mendota Heights, has been named general chairman of the 1980 St. Paul Winter Carnival. A longtime carnival participant, he was a member of the Vulcan Krewe in 1972, special events coordinator in 1975 and 1978, Queen of Snows judge in 1979 and a director of Fire and Brimstone. Fisher is president of the American Security Corporation.

Probation orientation

The Ramsey County Community Corrections Department will hold a three-session orientation program for citizens who want to be volunteer probation officers, from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. Tuesdays, May 15 through June 5 at the Juvenile Service Center, 480 St. Peter St.

WAMSO capitalizes on magic in annual fundraiser for the Minnesota Orchestra

The annual black tie Symphony Ball, a fundraiser sponsored by the Women's Association of the Minnesota Orchestra (WAMSO), is scheduled for Saturday, June 2 at the Science Museum of Minnesota, 30 E. 10th St.

In keeping with this year's theme, "A Night of Magic," the largest social event held to aid the orchestra's general fund will feature entertainment, decor and a silent auction calculated to appeal to one or another guest's notion of the wondrous.

Early evening events will include cocktail-hour dancing to the music of the Minnesota Orchestra, under the direction of Leonard Slatkin, and the legerdemain of wand-wielding "wizards."

The silent auction, held in the decorated high-tech Omnitheater lobby, will see such solvable-mystery items as calculators, translators, copying machines and more placed on the block.

Late-evening dancers will do it to disco in the rotunda or to live music by Jules Herman and Monday's Men in the newly opened gallery.

Reservations are $125 per couple ($80 of which is tax deductible) and include everything but the auction. For a ticket mailing, call the WAMSO office at 371-5654 between 9:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. weekdays.

Stivers moves to Bremer Building

Stivers Temporary Personnel and Alert Business Overload Service division has moved from the Pioneer Building, where it operated for 23 years under the direction of Elva Gensinger, to 144 Bremer Building at 7th and Robert St. John Ernst, Branch Manager for the St. Paul division of Stivers, said that the move was dictated by recent growth in the business.

Works by local artists exhibited

The opening of an exhibition of 50 recent works by 14 Twin Cities artists will be celebrated from 9:00 p.m. to midnight Saturday, May 12 at the Landmark Center.

Free and open to the public, the opening night celebration will include a cash bar and entertainment by the Lazy Bill Lucas Blues Band.

The exhibition, entitled "New Works by Twin Cities Artists," will remain on view through August 12.

'Young' 5-year-olds might be allowed to enter kindergarten

If your child reaches his fifth birthday after September 1 but before December 31, he can't automatically enter kindergarten this fall—but it might be possible depending on the results of a special test administered by the St. Paul public school system.

Parents who believe their child is physically, mentally and socially ready for school should ask the principal of their local elementary school for a test application. These applications must be returned by Friday, June 8.

After that, parents will be interviewed. Their child will be tested some time between June 11 and August 24.

New Hope for Adults Who Can't Read or Write Well Enough to Keep a Job.

Because your child isn't a child anymore, maybe your son or daughter has discovered that in order to compete as an adult, you've got to read and write like an adult.

Control Data's Learning Center can help. Special individualized training is now available to make Reading and English enjoyable and meaningful for your grown son or daughter. Math skills training is also offered. Satisfaction guaranteed under a no-risk enrollment agreement. Call or write for details.

A 'heart' man is good to find CPR courses flourish throughout area

If you suddenly collapsed on a crowded sidewalk of a heart attack, what would be the chances of having someone nearby trained in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) who could possibly save your life?

Actually, your chances may be far greater today than a year ago at this time, according to statistics compiled by the American Heart Association, Minnesota Affiliate.

The heart association's CPR program in the state has expanded significantly over the past year, with training courses increasing in schools, hospitals, fire and police departments and businesses.

Public schools throughout the state especially, have moved to establish CPR training courses, partially because of proposed legislation that may make such courses mandatory in the school system. The state heart association affiliate sponsors three CPR training conferences annually in Rochester, St. Cloud and Minneapolis for school instructors who in turn develop their own school programs.

Basic CPR training is broken down into three main categories: Heartsaver, Basic Rescue, and Basic Instructor.

Heartsaver, a four-hour course, teaches individuals the basics of CPR, ways to reduce the risk of heart attacks and how to recognize and react to heart attack symptoms.

Basic Rescue is a six-to-eight-hour course which includes a written test, CPR practice, certification in one and two-person rescue techniques for cardiac arrest, infant resuscitation and choking rescue procedures.

The 16-hour Basic Instructor course involves lectures, a written test, certification in one- and two-person rescue techniques, choking rescue procedures and student presentations on cardiac-related topics. Only certified Basic Rescuers can apply for any instructor course.

More and more Minnesotans are taking advantage of courses offered and earning CPR certification for basic life support. As of last November, 25,686 Heartsavers received certificates, up 57 percent from the previous year; 51,555 Basic Rescuers were recognized (a 76 percent increase); and the heart association counted 4,126 instructors, 76 percent more than in 1977.

In addition, 56 percent more medical personnel and 43 percent more institutions offered advanced cardiac life support over the same one-year period.

The state affiliate says this rise in the number of CPR certifications on all training levels can be partially attributed to the growth in overall health awareness in the United States.

Persons interested in the CPR training program should contact the American Heart Association, Minnesota Affiliate, at 835-3300 for names and locations of local instructors and courses.

The wild-and-crazies above constitute the cast of Turn That Dial, a mock radio show of the 40s and 50s that will be staged Thursday through Saturday evenings, May 10-12 at the Bamboo Village restaurant on the second floor of the Park Square Court building, 6th and Sibley St. The show is produced and performed by past and present members of the Park Square Theatre. For reservations and more information, call 298-1132.

IHM to offer tutorial program

A four-week tutorial program for children in grades 1-8 will be offered from June 18 through July 13 at Immaculate Heart of Mary School, 1550 Summit Ave.

Students who enroll will attend one-hour morning classes, five days a week. The student-teacher ratio will be kept at four to one to ensure individual instruction according to students' needs.

Tuition is $48. For more information, call the school office at 699-7722.

"Where'd it go?" It's only a scrum, but still the scrum is a mad scramble as the Pigs practice for an upcoming match at MacMurray field.

The St. Paul Pigs: Rugby's radical dissidents play a 'gentleman's game'

by Mary Millett

Baseball has the Tigers and football has the Bears.

Rugby has the Pigs.

The 35 members of the St. Paul Rugby Union Football Club are proud to be called the Pigs, a name the club earned during its first season of play in 1974.

Some members think the name is derived from the fact that St. Paul was once called Pig's Eye Landing. Others, perhaps the more honest members, think the name comes from the barnyard animal and their resemblance to it.

As the team name suggests, rugby is no ordinary game and ruggers aren't ordinary athletes.

Rugby is played by clubs rather than by teams. In the case of the St. Paul club, members pay $10.00 per season and $2.00 per match. The money buys beer, food, uniforms and supplies. Anyone can be a member—or even a player.

The game, or rather the match, is played on a pitch (field) with a blimp-like ball for 80 minutes with only five minutes between halves. Fifteen athletes, playing positions with names like the scrum-half, hooker and loose-head prop, are on the field for the entire match unless they get hurt.

Rugby, whose cousins are soccer and football, originated in England when someone decided to pick up a soccer ball and run with it. American football evolved from rugby.

The game is not as physical as football, according to club president Ed Miller, 24, of 1630 Marshall Ave. "You can't hit a person unless he's got the ball," he explained.

Kim Anderson, 27, 935 Goodrich Ave., is the Pigs' coach this season. He described rugby as a "very demanding sport." An insurance adjuster, Anderson plays rugby to release tension and because "you have to take out your frustrations somewhere."

Rugby is also a "thinking game, a gentleman's game," according to Peter Lund, 26, of 776 Summit Ave. "Rugby is a way of meeting people, establishing friendships and social relationships," Lund said.

Those who play the sport describe themselves as "radical dissidents" who don't like a lot of rules and regulations. Players govern themselves and there are no rigorous training sessions. The ruggers wouldn't have it any other way.

Most of the St. Paul ruggers, whose colorful names include "Jungle," "Smashface," "Bator," "Brutzie," "Disco" and "Moon," played college rugby or football at St. John's University in Collegeville, at Carleton in Northfield or at the University of Minnesota.

The Pigs practice twice a week and play their games on weekends. The only requirement for playing is having those times free, at least occasionally. A prospective member should also know how to party—rugby style.

Partying has always been a part of the rugby tradition and the St. Paul Pigs believe in tradition. What the Pigs may lack on the pitch, they make up for at the party after the match. "Partying and playing go hand in hand," explained Anderson.

The St. Paul Pigs are known for their partying style from Des Moines to Green Bay, and their dramatic talents, which they reveal in their revelry, are the envy of all other rugby clubs in their league. The Pigs' specialty is their adult adaptation of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Upcoming home games, which are played at the Fort Snelling Polo Grounds, are scheduled for May 12 and 13, and July 21. Following home games, parties are usually held at Vanelli's Como-Rec, 1013 Front Ave. If rugby's your cup of beer, club members invite you to drop by to toast the Pigs anytime. "Here's mud in your eye..."

Miller, Glanton to assist Hosier with Mac's gridiron resurgence

Tom Hosier, Macalester College's new head football coach, recently appointed former Mac football player Jay Miller to his staff for the 1979 season.

Glanton, who started for the University of Minnesota at middle guard and middle linebacker from 1972-75, will coach either the defensive line or defensive linebackers for the Scots next fall.

Awarded Honorable Mention in the All-Big Ten, Glanton was an assistant football coach at Henry Sibley High School in 1977.

Miller, who played for Macalester in 1976-77 and coached Mac's defensive line last year, will be working with the offensive line. Miller is a 1973 graduate of Highland Park Senior High, where for two years he was All-City and All-Conference, and captain of the team his senior year.

Dr. William M. Delehanty, head of the history department at the College of St. Thomas, has received a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities for summer study at the University of Iowa in Iowa City. Delehanty, 1244 Hague Ave., will participate in a seminar entitled "Freedom and the Rule of Law: The English Foundations 1300-1700."

Drivers sought for homebound seniors

The Merriam Park Community Center's Homebound Senior Lunch Program is currently in need of drivers to help deliver meals to homebound senior citizens during the week. Volunteers make their daily runs from 11:00 a.m. to about 1:00 p.m.

If you or your organization can lend a hand, call Anne McDonald at 645-0349.

Funded locally by the State of Minnesota through the Board on Aging, and federally by the Action volunteer agency, the program is currently being administered by the Minnesota Association for Retarded Citizens.

What the program actually involves is very simple. A companion visits the elderly in their own homes, in nursing homes or in other institutions. They assist with personal needs, including running errands, writing letters, etc., and otherwise function as a friend to those who desperately need someone like them just to be around.

The job offers a stipend as well as free transportation, an annual physical, a two-week vacation, and a daily meal. If it sounds like something you'd like to do, call Helen Underdown at 452-7436.

JCC Happenings

FAMILY GAME NIGHT

All JCC members are welcome to come celebrate Lag B'Omer with a Family Gym Night at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 15, at the Jewish Community Center, 1375 St. Paul Ave. Adults and children can take part in new games, basketball, volleyball, floor hockey, relay races and more. Call Sandy Unger at 698-0751 for more information.

SENIOR ACTIVITIES DAY

A special day for senior adults (members only) is planned from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Thursday, May 24. There will be film screenings and a wide variety of activities including ping pong, shuffleboard, golf putting, swimming, movement exploration, floor hockey, basketball and volleyball with balloons. Call Rose Grossman at the JCC for details.

CROSS THE KINNERET

Can you swim the two-and-a-half miles it takes to cross the Kinneret in Israel in one day? It really doesn't matter at the JCC, because you can take a whole week to finish. Mystified? Call Sandy Unger for information about entering and completing the "Cross the Kinneret" meet.

RACQUETBALL WINNERS

Winners of the recent "Michael Falk Annual Racquetball Championships" are: Class A,--Hart Johnson, first, Bruce Fink, second; Class B,--Jim Boyd, first, Tom Sloan, second; and Class C,--Alan Levey, first, Dr. Seymour Falk, second. A total of 40 participants competed in the three separate classes.

RUSSIAN CULTURAL GROUP

Arlene Appelbaum, JCC public relations director, will speak to the Center's Adult Russian Cultural Group at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 21 at the Center. The topic will be "Guarantees of Free Press and Free Speech by the U. S. Constitution." This group, for Russian Jews who have been in the United States less than a year, meets every other Monday evening for social, cultural, educational and recreational activities. Felicia Weingarten is the group leader.

Scraps 'n' snacks

A rummage and bake sale to benefit the Developmental Achievement Center will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Saturday, May 19 at St. Paul's Church on the Hill, 1524 Summit Ave.

The center is housed in the church, with an affiliate at Plymouth Macalester United Church. Both facilities teach and apply therapy to severely handicapped and retarded children under age six.

Ministry training series to conclude with May 14 session

"Building a Youth Leadership Team in the Parish" will be the subject of the last session of the ecumenical Youth Ministry Training Series set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 14 in Room 156 of the Christ Child Building at the College of St. Thomas.

Presiding over the evening of songs, skits, discussion and prayer will be Dr. Gary Downing of Youth Leadership, Inc., and Gene Scapanski of the Center for Religious Education at CST.

The series, which is open to the public, is cosponsored by the center, the Catholic Education Center of the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis, Youth Leadership and the Minnesota Council of Churches Task Force on Youth. Fee at the door is $3.50.

Mac, MCAD to try 79-80 course swap

Students from Macalester College and the Minneapolis College of Art and Design will be sharing some classrooms next fall, thanks to a new cross-registration program between the two schools.

The program, which will operate on an experimental basis during the 1979-80 academic year, already has drawn significant interest from Mac students, according to preliminary course registrations for next year.

Under the plan, students from both schools can cross-register for one approved course per semester for full credit. Participants in the exchange will be enrolled as space permits in the other college's courses, pay regular tuition and provide their own transportation.

Goodwill recognizes two area residents

Lorraine Mohr of 1772 Highland Pkwy., past president of Goodwill Industries Volunteer Services, was named the Goodwill Industries' Volunteer of the Year at its recent annual meeting. At the meeting Goodwill also honored Floyd C. Rupp of 1398 St. Paul Ave., who for 50 years served on the Goodwill board of directors. A retired employee of the Webb Company, the 93-year-old Rupp joined the board in 1928 and became its president in 1959.

Sales of recycled merchandise from Goodwill stores during 1978 totaled $1,001,000, the first time in Goodwill's history that sales have passed the million dollar milestone.
