The four Bumgardner girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bumgardner, 1934 Goodrich Ave., decided to settle once and for all the "chicken champions" of the family. Winners Liz (top) and Jean send sisters Ann and Nancy to a watery defeat in the main event of the recent fight card.

Chimera Youth Theatre presents 'Jack & the Beanstalk' at the Bush

Chimera Theatre's Youth Theatre Company will present Jack & the Beanstalk, its first of two summer children's productions, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 14-16. All performances will be held at Chimera's Edyth Bush Theatre, 690 Cleveland Ave. So.

The Youth Theatre Company is comprised of 16 students between the ages of 12 and 18. Since June 12, they have been improvising scenes based on the familiar tale of "Jack and the Beanstalk."

Jack, played by Christopher Taylor, still climbs a beanstalk to battle a nasty giant, played by Paul Knox, 1925 Goodrich Ave., and still exasperates his mother, played by Joanne Carlson. The play offers some surprises, however, including eight new songs composed by the Youth Theatre members.

Tim Talen directs the production, with additional technical and artistic guidance from Karyn Wrenshall-Welch, Bud Roy, Patricia Kaperak and John P. Thompson III.

Performances of Jack & the Beanstalk are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. all three days. There will also be 2:30 p.m. matinees on July 15 and 16. For more information or reservations, call 690-4536.

Art for seniors

Painting and art classes for senior adults are currently being held from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Wednesdays at the Jewish Community Center, 1375 St. Paul Ave.

The class, taught by COMPAS artist Mike Moser, is open to the public free of charge.

Wm. Collison to seek state representative's seat in 65A

William A. Collison Jr., an investment representative with Apache Corporation in Minneapolis, launched his campaign drive last week to unseat State Representative Fred Norton (DFL, 65A).

(Ed. note: District 65A is bounded roughly by Lexington, University, Summit, Dale and St. Clair).

Collison, 33, received the Independent-Republican endorsement by acclamation in late June. Asked why he decided to seek public office, Collison said "to make the government we have more accountable to its citizens and more responsive to those citizens' needs."

He contends the present DFL-controlled legislature has not been responsive to the will of the people. "A classic example of this present government's irresponsibility is the stadium issue," he said. "The legislature did whatever it pleased, despite the will of the people. It's time for a change."

Collison advocates reducing both personal and corporate income taxes, simplifying present barriers to establishing a business, and minimizing the tax burden on the new enterprise.

Collison and his wife, Mary, live at 764 Lincoln Ave.

Howard Guthmann, president; Michael McTeague, chairman; Joan

Baker, treasurer; Gayle Summers, administrative secretary; Pat McQuillan, vice president—member relations; Kathleen Callahan, vice president—community services; Thomas Watson, vice president—community activities; Robert Schilling, vice president—community relations; Mary Lou O'Leary, vice president—governmental relations; and Edith Lystad, secretary (appointive).

At-large representatives from what was District 14 (north of Randolph) are: Sally Frost, Kathleen Callahan, Thomas Watson, and Gayle Summers. At-large representatives from District 15 (south of Randolph) are: Michael McTeague, Mary Lou O'Leary, Edith Lystad and Kenneth Jefferson.

At the June 26 meeting, it was decided that representatives from even-numbered grids would be elected in even-numbered years for a two-year term. Representatives from odd-numbered grids would be elected in odd numbered years for a two-year term beginning in 1979. Lots were drawn to determine the staggered terms for the eight at-large reps (four each year).

It was also decided that the Southwest Area Council would hold its meetings on the second Monday of every month. Announcements of upcoming meetings will be published regularly in the Highland Villager.

The council is currently looking for civic, religious and business groups interested in becoming associate members. Representatives from such groups are invited to contact Gayle Summers, administrative secretary, at 698-0446 if they would like to get involved.

Hagemeyer completes prep career as top city athlete

If it appeared the Villager was a little slow in covering the athletic and scholastic honors awarded to recent Highland Park graduate Joni Hagemeyer, we were. We were just waiting for a break in the action.

For Joni this spring, the awards kept coming in as fast as her moves on the playing courts. It was more than a little tough keeping up.

Joni, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hagemeyer, 1900 Sargent Ave., was recently named City Conference Athlete of the Year along with Lou Raiola of Johnson. The award is the highest honor conference coaches can give an athlete.

Highland Park Senior High also gave her the Scholar-Athlete Award for fine play as a three-year letter winner in volleyball and basketball, and for graduating in the top 15 percent of her class.

The most recruited girl athlete in the state this year, Joni finally settled on the University of Minnesota, which she will attend this fall with a $3000 athletic scholarship.

The Scots' volleyball team finished runnerup in the state tournament in Joni's sophomore and junior years and won the state championship this past season.

Joni Hagemeyer

In basketball, Joni scored 825 points in 53 games (a three-year per-game average of 15.6) and posted a 52 percent field goal percentage. As the starting center for three years, she averaged 13 rebounds per game. She was named all-state in basketball her senior year.

The Scots' basketball team won the Twin City Championship her sophomore and senior years and finished runner-up in Region 3AA all three years.

No doubt still counting his golden coins, the Giant (played by Paul Knox) falls fast asleep in Chimera Youth Theatre's production of "Jack & the Beanstalk."

Question: Is there not a danger that a sheltered environment of a Christian school will hinder a child in facing the everyday world?
Answer: That thinking is incorrect. One will place a plant in a hothouse to make it stronger. A person is put in a hospital to regain health. One does not study the wrong things to build up a resistance to them. By teaching the children in a wholesome environment, the positive facts of education, you develop strong individuals able to cope with any situation.

POSTAL INCOMPETENCE

Dear Mr. Mischke:

May I begin by stating that I enjoy reading your column in the Villager and often agree with your comments. I assume after reading an intro like that, you immediately brace for a blast of no uncertain proportion. Please consider this a second opinion regarding your comments about the Postal Service.

Earlier this month I severed my affiliation with the P.O. after four years as a night mail-sorting clerk and letter carrier. Not the least of the reasons involved was to take a job commensurate with my college education. However, I bristle when people, even those with good intentions, demean the postal worker in any manner.

If you were to spend several days with either a clerk or carrier, you would see why mail service is at an all-time low. One thing would stand above all else: the management, either on a local, regional or federal level, is filled with the most incompetent people available. Their collective attitude in the processing of mail is, "I don't care where we move it so long as it's out of our hands." Supervisory ranks are four times that of six years ago, while the total work force has been reduced.

I realize the common image of the postal worker is that of a well-paid person of leisure, and it is true that salaries are up considerably. However, an inspection at the St. Paul main post office would show that the average clerk is working ten hours a night six times in a two-week pay period. Compare this to the fact that letter carriers rarely work more than a total of five hours of overtime in the eleven months preceding December. What you have here is a mountain of mail sped on its way, only to be stacked, pile upon pile, at the station. Take a tour of Elway station the day after a holiday and see the mess for yourself, if manager Gino Wald will permit.

Then we can speak of management's treatment of the worker. Apparently they forget that, without the clerk or carrier, their job would not exist. Job-related injuries this past winter were at an all-time high, not only for St. Paul but the entire region as well. But, rather than treat the injury with deference, workman's compensation claims are held up or disputed, and the regional office in Chicago is now sending out letters to repeat victims, claiming they are "accident-prone" and possibly liable to dismissal (without recourse) if this "behavior" continues.

Please do not get the impression that I am a hardened critic of the postal system. I have great faith in the people who do the work. It is the upper echelon which may cause the downfall of our system of mail, and it is they who must answer to the American people.

COMPARING NEIGHBORS

Dear sir:

Compare Ford Motor Company with Planned Parenthood as a Highland neighbor.

The recent dialogue between Ford and residents near its railroad track has been most instructive. Ford and its tracks have been here for more than 50 years, long before those homes were built. Nevertheless, Ford recognizes that it is good business to listen to its neighbors and to attempt to deal reasonably with their concerns. Ford has brought enormous property tax revenues, purchases or services, construction contracts and wages to Saint Paul.

Contrast Ford's attitude with that of Planned Parenthood's abortion clinic on Ford Parkway. Planned Parenthood does not pay taxes, yet forced its way into an existing business and social structure in 1976 knowing that it was settling where it was not wanted. It still refuses to even discuss any accommodation with its neighbors, although it claims that abortions account for about three percent of its business.

Is it too much to ask that Planned Parenthood, intended to be a social service organization, deal with its neighbors as realistically as a profit-making business?

John D. Healy, Jr.
2087 St. Clair Ave.

Ed. note: The author is president of Citizens for Community Action, the Highland area organization which has opposed Planned Parenthood's decision to offer abortions at its state headquarters on Ford Parkway.

UNLEASHED FURY

To the editor:

Winter can be a long period, especially for disabled persons who cannot leave their homes very often. These people wait anxiously for the spring and summer days when they can enjoy the outdoors in their yards.

However, because of the thoughtless residents nearby and their noisy, yipping dogs, we do not get much pleasure out of summer! Some of these dogs are left tied up throughout the weekend while their owners are away. The dogs bark constantly, day and night. Other dogs are allowed to run loose, jumping on people and leaving their piles of refuse in people's yards. Home owners are forced to clean up these unpleasant piles before they can mow their grass.

Do dog owners think this is fair? We are all taxpayers, and we're only human!

A Highland resident

Ed. note: The writer asked that her name not be printed "as there is enough crime going on as it is."

WORTH A STAMP

To the editor:

I decided it was worth a stamp to tell you of a rather bad grammatical error at the top of page 4 (Misch-Masch, June 21) in the paragraph about Red Owl. Mr. Mischke says "have bit the dust." To say "have bit" is like saying "have took." It should have been "have bitten." English has a lot of irregular verbs.

Alice McCall

Ed. note: Needless to say our illustrious editorialist has been dealt with in a manner befitting his crime. According to him, it really didn't taste all that bad.

Theologians highlight St. Kate's Religious Dimensions Institute

Several prominent theologians will speak at three lecture-forums planned as part of the current Institute in Religious Dimensions at the College of St. Catherine.

Dr. Keith Egan, associate professor of historical theology and spirituality at Marquette University, and Sister Mary Virginia Micka, associate professor of English at St. Catherine's, will discuss "Dante, Theologian of the Spiritual Life" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 19 in Jeanne d'Arc auditorium.

Rev. Colman Barry, OSB, will speak on "The Church Today" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 25 in the music building recital hall. Fr. Barry, director of the Institute of Spirituality at St. John's University in Collegeville, Minn., was president of St. John's from 1964 to 1971. He has also served as the dean of the School of Religious Studies at Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Monika Hellwig, associate professor of theology at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., will speak at two lecture-forums on Friday, July 28. At 3:00 p.m. she will speak in the O'Shaughnessy Educational Center at the College of St. Thomas and at 7:30 p.m. she will speak in St. Catherine's music building recital hall.

A nominal admission fee will be charged for these lecture-forums, which are open to the public. Further information may be obtained by calling 690-6736 or 690-6739.

Swim classic returns to Highland pool July 21-23

Highland's two-year-old Olympic-size swimming pool will again be the site for one of the most prestigious swimming events in the upper Midwest this summer.

The second annual St. Paul Swim Classic (July 21-23) is co-sponsored by the Minnesota Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Swim Committee and the St. Paul Swim Club, with the cooperation of the St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department. The Highland Pool was selected because it is considered one of the finest in the Midwest.

The St. Paul Swim Classic will be one of five national AAU senior long course development meets to be conducted in the U.S. this year. The "senior" meet classification refers to the stiffer than normal qualifying times that have been imposed to screen swimmers for the AAU National Championship in Woodlands, Texas, August 4-6.

The President's Commission on Olympic Sports is promoting the meet as a challenge to the AAU to conduct competition of the highest caliber leading to the Olympic Games in 1980. More than 300 swimmers from all across the U.S. and Canada are expected to compete.

Mayor George Latimer will officiate at ceremonies for the opening day's final events at 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 21. The meet is open to the public free of charge.

Fish wish granted at two area pools

There's still time to fine-tune your fins this summer. Swimming lessons sponsored by the St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department will be offered in two remaining sessions—July 17 through July 28 and July 31 through August 11.

The lessons will be taught by Red Cross Certified Water Safety Instructors at Highland and Oxford Pools. Classes will be offered in Waders, Beginners, Advanced Beginners, Junior and Senior Life Saving, Adult and Springboard Diving.

The fee for ten lessons is $9.00. Registration for the first session is open now. For the second session, registration will be held from 9:00 a.m. to noon on July 25. Register at the pool you plan to attend.

MISCHMASCH

by Maurice F. Mischke

It was a great weekend, wasn't it, with less than the usual amount of rainfall... for the summer of 1978, that is. Think now, when was the last time you watered your lawn? But keep your hose and sprinkler handy... who knows, you might still need it ere the snow flies once again! And perhaps a shot of water now and then could do wonders for your new young boulevard trees.

For our family it was a weekend of reunions. Jan's family got four generations of Terhaar relatives together to celebrate "Amanda's Day"... aptly named for my 87-year-old mother-in-law, the spirited matriarch for a clan of descendants and their mates already numbering a hundred. Not many were missing either, as they came from Alaska, Washington, California, Arizona, Montana and many points in between.

For me there was also an unfortunate conflict... a class reunion in Sauk Centre for the high school grads of '38 and '39. So I buzzed up there, too, for the evening to see boyhood friends who, in some cases, I hadn't seen for 36 - 40 years. While there I couldn't resist polling their thoughts on politics and other subjects (must be the journalist in me), but that will be the subject of a future column... the leanings and feelings of the people who grew up on Main Street, so archetypical of Middle America.

Back to the rains once more. Do you recall just two years ago when the farmers in central and southwestern Minnesota were pooling their funds to "seed" the clouds via professional rainmakers? You don't suppose those seeds have just now sprouted to give us a lot of delayed action—in spades—this year.

Anyway the whole countryside looks unduly luscious and green for this time of year. We've got an elm stump on our boulevard that has grown out to become a luxurious and potentially very shapely shrub. Must remember to prune it a bit. Is there any way I could protect it from being pulverized when they come around again to do in the bare stumps up and down the block?

Congratulations to John Rongitsch, long-time vp at Mid America State Bank of Highland Park. He got a hole-in-one on the 183-yard 18th at Carriage Hills just recently, according to my informant... did it with a four-wood, with two reliable banking confreres, Dick O'Connell and Pat McGill, there to testify to his coveted ace. The odds on John or anyone else ever canning one like that again must be considerable, but did you read about the kid who got three aces on three different holes on three consecutive days? Unbelievable.

As I move around the city and state, I get the distinct feeling that all the clamor about our high income taxes, and consequent lousy business climate, is really beginning to take. But I have to question whether the party on the outside (Independent-Republican) is really going to benefit from all this unhappiness the way you might think it should and could. A lot of the taxpaying voters want more fiscal conservatism, but seem to feel they can somehow get it from their Democratic officials, too. Whether they are right or not, remains to be seen. But have you ever seen fewer "liberals" running for office? The four-page tabloid distributed by the Fraser forces this weekend doesn't use this now dirty word ("liberal", that is) even once in the whole copious piece. "Idealist" is as close as they come to suggesting he might vote in favor of more tax money, now and then. So look for a scramble this fall of politicians, all of whom will suggest and promise fiscal conservatism, the likes of which you won't be able to (and perhaps shouldn't) believe.

I guess I have to sympathize with Mayor Latimer and the City Council as they struggle with the need for property tax increases in the coming year. Apparently we're losing some federal funds because the area is not "distressed" enough in terms of unemployment. Let's hope the same thing happens in lots of places in this country, so that we can at least save some federal taxes or—first of all—come closer to a balanced budget.

Maybe I'm being a bit cynical, but I feel the Mayor is just doing what any canny politician would do in his position. We're getting the shock effect from him, of a possible 20% property tax increase now at a politically opportune time... after the city elections. That way a 12 to 16% increase, for example, will also look like he's saving us money. Next year, of course, the increase will be much smaller. Or am I being a bit unfair?

Of course, I don't know the answers... just a lot of the questions. 'Tis said that city pension requirements are a big part of the untouchable need for the coming annum... one of those untouchable items we can do nothing about. But are they in line or currently excessive in some respects? What are the projections in city pension costs for the years ahead? Are they at lofty levels no longer justified when related to corresponding pay and pension rates in private industry? If it was possible to fatten the rates by legislative action a few years ago, is it also possible to consider some revision for the years to come? Just asking.

That little old Dutch elm beetle has certainly been expensive, too. But I feel the whole idea of tax increases would be easier to sell if people could just be convinced of a high level of efficiency in all city departments. This is especially true in some of the more visible areas, where the public can easily evaluate how much some of its public servants are putting out in an hour or a day. Mind you, I feel St. Paul and perhaps Minneapolis, too, get a much better return on public services than many other cities we could name... like New York, for instance. But it doesn't have to be very good to be better than that!

I suppose it always will be tough to get true efficiency where the profit motive is not present. But the bureaucracy had better find a way, or Proposition 13 will be only a beginning of what's still in store.

I can't say I'm very enamored with State Senator McCutcheon's proposal of moving the state sales tax from 4% to 6%, to effect some property tax savings. Our state sales tax is as progressive as it could possibly be, and certainly provides added revenue automatically with our constantly rising prices. Perhaps there is merit, as Mayor Latimer suggests, in a 1% city sales tax, provided property taxes are reduced in the process. In my opinion, any total sales tax (even with groceries, clothing and prescription drugs exempted) of over 5% gets to be a little ridiculous and counter-productive.

Almost as counter-productive as our state income tax. Isn't it funny that, in this day and age with all our sophisticated computerization, it just isn't possible to get ANY, let alone VALID projections of what our state revenue surplus is now, or will be in the foreseeable future. There's gotta be lots of partisan politics wrapped up in that data dodge!

One of Highland's most selfless servants in the public interest, I'm sorry to report, is seriously ill at Bethesda Hospital. If we can dare hope for a minor miracle, it couldn't happen to a nicer fellow than Otto Hummer. "Retired" for some years, Otto has served the Highland Business Association as secretary-treasurer for the past nine or ten years, had only recently resigned after many stellar years as Chairman of the Capital Improvement Budget, has been serving on the City Planning Commission and its Zoning Committee, and on the City Parking Commission, to name just a few of his many volunteer efforts. If anyone around here knew more about parking law, development district legislation and the like, I haven't met him. We wish Otto all the best that medicine and prayers can bring.

Note to newcomers—this is Welcome Wagon Week across the country—its 50th anniversary. The word comes to us from Ellen Roitenberg who calls on new residents in the Highland community. Tells them all about the Highland Villager, too. Other local sponsors include Applebaum's, Helleloid's Paint and Wallpaper, Highland Optical and Sure Footing. Happy birthday, WW. I can still remember our being called on, after arriving in St. Paul more than 24 years ago.

We've been giving the public sector a bad time today. So here's one that perhaps would more aptly apply to big business... or big labor. The cartoon shows a board room scene with the chairman speaking as follows: "O.K., then, it's settled. We present it to the public with all its pros and cons, we let the media chew on it for a while, we go through a lot of soul-searching, and then we go ahead and do it."

And here's a pilfered parting punchline you may have heard in an earlier day when the rains didn't come, like back in the mid-thirties. The scene is a small town where two men and a small boy are seated on the curb. Looking up into the cloudless sky, one of the men says, "I sure wish it would rain." After a brief pause, he puts his hands on his 10-year-old son's shoulder and adds, "Not so much for me as for my boy here. I've seen it rain."

Yours 'til the flood waters from our recent rains are merged into the Salty waters of the Gulf of Mexico. Hasta la vista!

City serves up another session of tennis lessons at area parks

Session III of tennis lessons sponsored by the St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation will be held August 7 through August 24.

Lessons start at 5:30, 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. at the following locations: Monday at Merriam Park, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Highland Park, and Friday at Linwood Park.

The fee for six one-hour lessons is $12.00 for beginners, $16.00 for intermediates.

Registration will be open from July 24 to August 4 and can be made by mail or in person at Midway Stadium, 1000 N. Snelling Ave., St. Paul, MN 55108. Be sure to state your name, address, phone number, class (beginner or intermediate), and first and second choices for time and location. Make checks payable to the City of St. Paul.

Princess to grace IACI dinner in St. Paul July 28

Princess Grace of Monaco will be the honored guest at a formal dinner sponsored by the Irish American Cultural Institute (IACI) on Friday, July 28 at the St. Paul Radisson Hotel. Princess Grace is the International Chairperson for IACI.

Highlights of the evening will be a fashion show by Mary O'Connell, one of Ireland's top designers, and a performance by harpist Lynne Aspnes, who has performed for Princess Margaret of England and Prince Gustav of Sweden.

Headquarters of IACI, the largest Irish organization in the U.S. with chapters in most major cities, is located in the basement of Foley Hall at the College of St. Thomas. Dr. Eoin McKiernan, former chairman of St. Thomas' English department, is the founder and current president of the 60,000-member group.

Funds raised by the dinner will go toward the IACI's intercultural activities, including the Irish Way Program, which provides trips to Ireland for U.S. students of Irish descent, and the Irish Fortnight, a series of lectures and performances held at various U.S. colleges and universities.

More than 3,000 dinner invitations have been extended to prominent IACI members and friends, including Ireland's ambassadors to both the U.S. and the U.N.; Leon Uris, author of Trinity; and Vice President and Mrs. Walter Mondale.

City Council sets hearing for review of Dist. 13 plan

Members of the St. Paul City Council will be on hand for a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 19 to hear the comments and concerns of residents of St. Paul's Planning District 13 prior to adoption of the district's plan by the city council.

The hearing, which will be held in the St. Mark's School auditorium, is required by law before the plan for any of St. Paul's 17 citizen participation districts can become part of the city's comprehensive plan.

District 13, which is comprised of the community councils from the Merriam Park, Lexington-Hamline and Snelling-Hamline neighborhoods, was the first district in St. Paul to complete its district plan and receive certification from the St. Paul Planning commission.

However, one section of the plan did not receive certification by the commission. That section, which dealt with the district's views on the future upgrading of the Shortline Road, is likely to draw the most attention at the July 19 public hearings.

All those interested, especially those living or doing business within the boundaries of District 13, are invited to attend next week's hearing. District 13 is bounded roughly on the east and west by Lexington and the river, and on the north and south by University and Summit.

Twin City film community thrives with help from Film in the Cities

by Paul Schollmeier

"Lights! Camera! Action!"

The voice of a movie director in Hollywood, California? No, the voice of a student enrolled in a night course in film production at Film in the Cities, 2388 University Ave.

Film in the Cities is currently in the midst of its summer session, which consists of 13 courses, including two production courses—one on film making and another on video tape making.

The center will start two more summer courses on July 24th and 25th. The new courses will be concerned with politics and the documentary film and with women's roles in film.

"These two courses are unique," said Richard Weise, director of Film in the Cities. "Three doctoral candidates from New York University will be teaching them; all three are from the cinema studies department there—by far the best film department in the country."

Film in the Cities, in conjunction with Inver Hills Community College, is the only institution in Minnesota to offer a fully accredited two-year associate degree in film making. The degree program includes courses in film technique, aesthetics and history, as well as internships and a course in financial management. It provides the graduate with the necessary entry-level skills for employment in the film field.

Homer Lambrecht (second from the right) shows the ropes to some of his students in Introduction to Sound. Lambrecht is also a composer and instructor of electronic music at the University of Minnesota.

Film in the cities also has several other facilities: a community extension program offering media services and workshops for nonprofit community organizations and schools serving low-income groups; an equipment access center, providing equipment to individuals for non-commercial film making; periodic exhibitions of films and video tapes of local directors and producers; a visiting artist program to bring in film makers from outside Minnesota; and a gallery for exhibitions of still photography.

"All of our facilities are open to any interested individual," said Film in the Cities Assistant Director Steve Larson, 1752 Juliet Ave. "We have junior and senior high school students, college students, working people and senior citizens. Their interests range from making better home movies, to attaining a better appreciation of commercial movies, to making serious artistic films."

The center actively seeks new instructors for its courses and rotates old instructors every quarter to provide as great a variety of instructors and courses as possible. Last year, the center had 28 instructors offering 58 courses.

John Goodell, 355 Kenneth St., is probably the most illustrious instructor at the center. In 1973, Goodell was an academy award nominee in the category of best documentary film.

Goodell, who has a studio called Pro-7 Productions at 2269 Ford Parkway, has been an independent film maker for the past 17 years. He makes instructional films, industrial films, and documentaries in addition to documentaries.

"Film in the Cities has many fine faculty members and very good equipment available for interested individuals," Goodell said. "People making nonprofit films can easily arrange to use their cameras and editing equipment."

Weise and Thomas DeBias, now at the Minneapolis College of Art and Design, founded the center in 1970 to give high school students an alternative approach to communications media. The idea originated when the St. Paul and Minneapolis Public Schools approached the St. Paul-Ramsey Arts and Science Council seeking such an alternative.

From 1970 to 1976 the center offered courses in film making and photography to secondary students as one of St. Paul's Learning Centers. From 1970 to 1975 the center also taught students from Minneapolis as part of the city's Urban Arts Program.

The associate degree program was initiated in the fall of 1977 after Film in the Cities and Inver Hills Community College received approval for the program from the Minnesota State College Board.

The center currently has about 250 students enrolled in classes throughout the year. Of these, about 30 are candidates for the associate degree.

Brad Cochrane, 1753 Carroll Ave., is a degree student at the center. He has just finished a short public service film on bicycle theft that WTCN will air for 13 weeks beginning in August.

"I took classes from the center when I was a student at Highland Park High," Cochrane said. "The center has really grown since then. I've found that it offers the most professional training in the Twin Cities."

Bill and Janelle Felker, 338 Macalester Ave., are independent film makers who frequently use Film in the Cities' access center.

They recently made an animated commercial for Big Brothers, Inc., now being shown on WCCO, KSTP, and soon on KMSP.

"My wife and I donated our talent and time, the center supplied the equipment, and Big Brother paid for our materials," Felker said. "That way we had the experience of making an animated commercial, and Big Brothers could have a commercial made inexpensively."

Originally funded by the St. Paul and Minneapolis Public Schools, the center now receives funding from both federal and local sources. The National Endowment for the Arts has awarded grants to Film in the Cities since 1972, and in 1977 designated it as one of 15 regional media centers in the country.

The center has also been able to employ and train several individuals through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

"CETA funds enable us to fill many staff positions that might otherwise go unfilled, such as administration, registration, and equipment manager positions," said Michael Reed, a member of the center's staff.

Locally, the Dayton Hudson Foundation, the Bush Foundation, the Northwest Area Foundation and the Minnesota State Arts Board have also supported the center.

Interest in film making in the Twin Cities is growing rapidly, according to Weise. In the past two years, the number of people who call themselves independent film makers has tripled, he said.

The primary reason for the growth is the formation of a film making community itself for the exchange of ideas and technical assistance, according to Weise.

Film in the Cities is working to try to keep this community alive and healthy.

Team B-4 POLICE REPORT

by Lt. John Sturner
Team B-4 Commander

In recent reports in the Highland Villager, we have stressed the importance of being aware of what is happening near your home, and that when you hear or observe activity that seems out of place or unusual, you should call the police immediately with an accurate account of what you saw or heard.

During the past month, such calls to us resulted in several arrests for house burglaries, and in another case, prevented a number of garage burglaries. These examples serve to demonstrate the continued importance of watching your neighbors' homes.

In the first incident, a woman who lives in the Macalester-Groveland area observed a strange car—with occupants unfamiliar to her—make several trips through her alley at a slow rate of speed. She called the police and several squads were quickly on their way. She continued to watch, was able to get the license plate number, and called back.

As our squads converged on the area, they spotted and stopped the vehicle a mile from the place it had been reported and identified its occupants. Other squads stopped and identified two youths near the lady's home who were on foot. A subsequent canvass of the area by officers on foot turned up a house that had been burglarized. We processed that crime scene on the spot for evidence, and a subsequent comparison of fingerprints developed at the scene with those of one of the suspects resulted in the arrests of the suspects. Several other burglaries were also cleared by these arrests.

The second incident occurred in the Highland area when an observant woman also saw a suspicious car in the alley and called us. Upon our arrival, the suspect car was gone but evidence was turned up which showed that several garages had been tampered with.

In both of these examples of alert citizen observations, there can be little doubt that other crimes were prevented by a quick call to the police. Please don't hesitate to call the police whenever you are the least bit suspicious of activity in your neighborhood. Remember, all requests for squads must go through our Central Communications Center. Don't call the Team B-4 office for this type of service. The number to call for a squad car is 291-1234. Give the police operator your best description of what you saw or heard. We'll be there quickly to check it out.

Youngsters vie for prizes in frisbee contest July 15

Century 21-Creative Realty and Groveland playground are sponsoring a frisbee contest at 10:00 a.m. this Saturday, July 15 at Groveland playground, St. Clair and Prior Aves.

There will be three age brackets in the competition: ages 6 to 8; 9 to 11; and 12 to 14. For each group there will be three prizes: first place winners receive a $35.00 skateboard; second place wins a $20.00 skateboard; and for third place winners, a soccer ball.

There will also be two grand prize drawings. Ages 6 to 9 will draw for a Huffy Dirt Bike and ages 10 to 14 will draw for a ten-speed bicycle. You don't have to enter the frisbee contest to win a grand prize.

But whether you're in the contest or trying your luck in the drawing, a $1.00 donation and a filled-out entry form are required.

Entry forms are available at The Barbers, 2038 Ford Parkway; S&S Hardware, 1818 Randolph Ave.; Cecil's Delicatessen, 651 Cleveland Ave. S.; Groveland playground; or at Century 21-Creative Realty, 2179 St. Clair Ave.

All proceeds go to Groveland playground. Refreshments will be served and all the frisbees in the contest will be supplied for you to keep. For more information, call 690-5427.

Two-toned and grinning Junior Volunteers help out at Center

What smiles, sports a red-and-white smock and is often seen in the company of little people? It would have to be a Junior Volunteer at the Children's Health Center of Minneapolis.

Mugs Scherer, the daughter of Roger and Joan Scherer, 552 Mount Curve Blvd., is one of the 40 junior and senior high school students who donned a red-and-white-striped uniform and started work at the Children's Health Center last month.

Mugs, who will be a senior next year at Breck High School, works in the children's library.

Other areas in which

Mugs Scherer

Junior Volunteers are currently working include the Nursing Service, Child Out-patient Department, Children's Activities, Messenger/Escort Service and the Development and Public Relations Office.

Most of the volunteers work one day a week during summer vacation. About half will continue to work during the school year.

The qualifications for a Junior Volunteer are that he or she be at least 14 years old, have experience in working with children, and be ambitious in assuming responsibility.

Besides completing an application, aspiring volunteers must have both their parents' and doctor's permission, an interview with Ms. Siegel, Director of Volunteer Services, and orientation.

He's a man with a wide range of interests . . .

Let Charlie Locks be the key to a better home for you.

If versatility is a prime asset to a real estate counselor (and who is there to deny it?), Charles Locks is bound to be a resounding success in his recently chosen profession.

Charlie grew up within range of Edgumbe Playground, where he enjoyed skating and playing ball. Now he leans more to tennis and squash.

His interest in the great outdoors carried through all phases of scouting, capped by the coveted Eagle badge award at the very early age of 13. In the intervening years, he's put on a lot of miles, canoeing on many of our northern lakes and rivers. And for a change of pace, he and a friend once pedaled a bicycle from St. Paul all the way to Grand Marais and back again.

Charlie graduated from St. Paul Central High, and from Macalester College in 1971 with a degree in English literature. The college phase of his education was interrupted, however, by a two-year stint in the U. S. Marines, with 15 months of that in Vietnam.

His work experience dating back to his school days includes many years of handyman work and construction, three years as an auto mechanic and a total of 10 years in the restaurant business at Jimmy's and the St. Clair Broiler . . . which he managed for four years.

In his spare time now, he coaches a women's softball team, works on improving his home, haunts antique or junk shops and used book stores in search of ancient relics or small treasures . . . including items of lore relating to St. Paul's earlier days.

"In fitting people to the facts I've learned," says Charlie, "I found it difficult to keep separate, people and the houses in which they lived. I suppose that was what first interested me in real estate."

Charlie would be a good man to call when the time comes to sell your home . . . or when you want to be fitted into a new or improved home environment. Yes, Locks can "open the door" for you!

Registration still open for elementary summer school

Registration for the second session of St. Paul's elementary summer school program is now open at three area schools: Horace Mann, Longfellow and Webster. Students should register and attend classes at the school closest to their homes.

Although second session classes began July 10, registration will still be accepted through this Friday, July 14. The classes will meet daily from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. until July 28.

Two area students receive scholarships from Applebaums

Patricia Ann O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Donnell, 2256 Princeton Ave., and Mitchell Lancman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arie Lancman, 2026 Magoffin Ave., will receive $500 scholarships from the Applebaum Food Centers, Inc. for 1978-79.

Ms. O'Donnell received her scholarship award for employees of Applebaums or their children. Patricia graduated from Derham Hall High School last June. She plans to attend the University of Minnesota/Duluth, pursuing a major course of study in medical technology.

Mitchell Lancman graduated last June from Highland Park Senior High School. He plans to attend the University of Minnesota and major in business administration and psychology.

The bases for their selection were scholastic achievement, financial need, citizenship, and vocational and educational promise.

Gemberling gets community award

Carolyn A. Gemberling, administrative services coordinator for Quality Operations, Defense Systems at Sperry Univac's Shepard Road facility, has been awarded the company's Community Service Award for her work with community projects and organizations in South St. Paul.

Carolyn is a member of the Loan and Grant Committee of the Housing and Redevelopment Authority for South St. Paul, the South St. Paul Human Rights Commission and the advisory board to the University of Minnesota's Continuing Education for Women Department.

For two years, she was a volunteer for Youth Emergency Service as a telephone counselor.

Railroads to rabbits

"The Velveteen Rabbit," Margery Williams' classic story of a toy who comes to life, will also be shown. There is no charge for admission.

A switch in time

The position of buttons was once a matter of life and death. During the Middle Ages, buttons on men's clothes were switched from the left side to the right so men could open their coats quickly with their left hand, and draw their swords with their right.

Metropolitan Baptist School opens this fall for grades 1-4

Metropolitan Baptist Tabernacle, 1758 Ford Parkway, will open a school this fall for children in grades one through four.

According to the principal, Pastor Dick Crosby, Metropolitan Baptist School will offer a full curriculum of state accredited studies to about 45 students in the four grades.

Crosby, who has been the pastor at the church for one year, was previously principal of Rosemount Baptist School in Rosemount, Minn. A graduate of Pillsbury College, he has a Masters degree from Clarksville School of Theology.

Registration for the school's inaugural year is now open. For further information, call Metropolitan Baptist Tabernacle at 690-0265.

Area residents elected to posts on SPCO board

Four area residents were among the six officers elected for the 1978-79 season of the Saint Paul Chamber Orchestra at its recent annual meeting.

Edwin J. Taylor, president of Advanced Training Systems, Inc., will continue as president of the SPCO Board of Directors. Ronald M. Bosrock, 1814 Hillcrest Ave., senior vice president of American National Bank and Trust Co., was elected to vice president of marketing. Marvin J. Pertzik, 1764 Hillcrest Ave., attorney for Moore, Costello & Hart, will serve as vice president of deferred gifts. Ms. Margie McKhann will be vice president of development.

John W. Pulver, 41 Kenwood Parkway, group vice president for Northwestern Bank, will assume the position of treasurer. Mrs. E.M. Whitacre, Jr., 1709 Hampshire Ave., will again fill the secretary's post.

Area riders to compete in horse show July 15-16

Three area residents will saddle their steeds and compete against 200 upper Midwest equestrians in the Helvetia Horse Show to be held this Friday and Saturday, July 15-16 at Helvetia Stables in Withrow, Minn.

The area horsemen who will attempt to guide their thoroughbreds to blue-ribbon finishes are: Sue Kline, daughter of Hess Kline, 2078 Lower St. Dennis Rd.; Patrick Butler, 740 River Drive; and Jeanne Rohland, 1882 Rome Ave.

The horse show, a benefit for Jamestown, a treatment center in Withrow for chemically dependent youth, will include Saturday Hunter Classics events, scored according to style and precision, and a Jumper Prix, an obstacle speed course on Sunday.

Helvetia Stables is located three miles north of Hwy. 96 on Co. Rd. 9 between White Bear Lake and Stillwater. Admission is $1.50 per day. Lunch is available on the grounds.

Hadassah sponsors 'Score For Israel' tournament July 17

The St. Paul Chapter of Hadassah will sponsor a "Score for Israel" golf and tennis tournament beginning at 9:00 a.m. next Monday, July 17 at the Hillcrest Country Club, 2200 E. Larpenteur Ave.

In addition to the men's and women's tournaments, scheduled activities include swimming, bridge games, mah-jong and a silent auction. The entry fee entitles the participants to a gourmet lunch and dinner, prizes, refreshments and entertainment.

Proceeds from the event will go toward Hadassah's non-sectarian health care and research programs in Israel. For more information, call Mrs. Maurice Melamed (699-1313) or Mrs. William Goldetsky (698-3070).

Area students gain 'U' honor society

Three area residents were among 372 students at the University of Minnesota who were recently initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, a national honor society.

The area students, all seniors, are: Sandra Taler, daughter of Elliott and Frances Taler, 2013 Magoffin Ave.; Steven Stein, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Stein, 1876 St. Clair Ave.; and Susan Flakne, daughter of Robert and Marian Flakne, 1031 S. Colby Ave.

State Senator Ron Sietoff (IR-District 63) observes 47th "Viking" Infantry Division Headquarters operations during the recent "Legislators' Day" at Camp Ripley. Here Sen. Sietoff, 1934 Rome Ave., eavesdrops on Specialist 4 Michael "Radar" Ellsworth, 1066 W. 7th St., a Minnesota Army National Guardsman.

Tournament winners named in Fourth of July celebration

Threatening skies didn't dampen the spirits of those attending the annual 4th of July Celebration at Highland Park. People of all ages took part in races, tournaments, dancing and picnicking.

Tournament action was fast and furious. Paul Lamminen stuck it to the rest of the field and edged Richard Miller for the darts championship, while ringers Louis Wicht and John Garland shaded Ike Einberger and Lefty Bryant for first place in the 16-team horseshoe tournament.

The "Kaisers" spiked the "Ales" in a highly competitive volleyball final. The "Kaisers" team consisted of members of the Wilhelmy family - Bob, Tom, Greg, Scott, Todd, Barb, Joan, Pam, Shelly and Brad. The "Ales," also a family affair, consisted of Bill, Treasa, Greg and Allen Lavalley; Bob Miller; Pat and Georgia Lynch; and Steve, Tim, Gary, Debbie, Bridget and Shelia Ales.

Door prizes and race prizes were purchased through donations from the Highland Business Association and the St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation. Door prize winners were Martin Bliss, Mary Carpenter, Crystal Fitzgerald, Doc Helsper, Harry Kaiser, Lois Kelsey, Ronald Labarre, Raymond Lamers, Jerome Lardy, Blaine Larson, Sue Madison, Richard Miller, George Pavlick, Evelyn Smith, Darin Wasich and Brad Wilhelmy.

Other organizations that helped with the day's activities included the Musicians Union Local -30, Dick Palumbo's Band, the American Red Cross Volunteers, the St. Paul Police Reserve and the Edgumbe Hockey Association.

Bilski takes new post at Dan Dolan

Julian V. Bilski, 605 Winston Court in Mendota Heights, was recently named executive vice president-general manager of Dan Dolan, Realtors.

In his new position, Bilski will be responsible for all corporate and branch operations, administration, budget and financial affairs. Bilski joined Dan Dolan, Realtors in September, 1977 as vice president with responsibilities in office administration.

A glance into the past reveals colorful history of city's Summit Place development

A plot of land in St. Paul's Ramsey Hill District, on which a one-year-old building and restoration project called "Summit Place" is now in full swing, boasts an array of colorful former owners. Deed holders have included fur traders and bankers, the state's first recognized artist, the owner of the first dry goods and hardware store, the first two state governors and the first U.S. Senator from Minnesota.

Bordered by Farrington, Laurel, Selby and the St. Paul Cathedral, this two-block area is today the site of a joint effort by Engstrom Associates of Minneapolis and the Carley Capital Group of Madison to blend old restored homes with modern townhouses and condominiums.

Three 94-year-old houses have already been restored and are occupied, and a three-unit townhouse will be open for public inspection July 21.

The Summit Place land was first entered on an Abstract of Title in 1848 when James McClellan Boal acquired it on a patent deed from the government. Until that time it had been part of a hardwood forest on the 40-acre farm of Jeremiah W. Selby.

"McBoal," as he was called by his friends, was the first artist to come to the Minnesota Territory. He served first as a drummer under Colonel Leavenworth at Fort Snelling, and later ran for Councillor (a member of the territorial legislature) in the first election of August, 1849. After winning, he was honored according to an early historian, with "a ride through town on the axle and fore-wheels of an old wagon, which was drawn by his admiring, but somewhat undisciplined friends." From 1851-53, he served as Adjutant General of Minnesota.

Described as "one of the best and laziest mortals that ever lived," Boal died in poverty in Mendota in 1862. A street in St. Paul still bears his nickname.

The second owner was John R. Irvine, who arrived in St. Paul in the winter of 1843 from New York. An advertisement in the Pioneer newspaper in 1948 listed him as a plasterer, but he became one of the city's most avid real estate speculators. He bought 300 acres (at a dollar an acre) north and east of Wabasha Street and accumulated property on Summit Avenue which would all have been worth $3 million if he had held on to it until the land boom of the 1870's.

The next three owners were among the most prominent and influential people in St. Paul's early development: Henry M. Rice, Alexander Ramsey and Henry Hastings Sibley. Sibley and Ramsey served as first and second governors of Minnesota, respectively. Rice was the first U.S. Senator from the state, and was succeeded by Ramsey who went on to serve for 12 years.

Ramsey was appointed as the first territorial governor of Minnesota and arrived in St. Paul in 1849. In 1855, he served as mayor of the city.

It was the fur trade that brought Rice and Sibley to the state. Sibley arrived in 1833 as an agent for the American Fur Company. Also an agent, Rice arrived in 1848. The commercial importance of St. Paul to the fur trade, which continued into the 20th century, is due to Rice having built the first warehouses in which to store goods to trade among the Ojibways.

Lyman Dayton arrived in St. Paul from Rhode Island, in 1849—the year St. Paul was incorporated as a town and grew from 90 to 224 acres. The head count at the time put males at 5400 and females at 300. Dayton obtained the Summit Place property in 1854.

Dayton was a 6-foot-tall, 300-pound man popularly known as "Sonny," a nickname he detested. Descriptions of his character vary from kind-hearted and public-spirited to violent.

Illustrating the former, he printed bank notes — called "wildcat money" — based on his real estate holdings, because of the lack of currency in frontier St. Paul. In moments of violence, he is known to have set a man on a red hot stove for calling him "Sonny."

He is not related to the department store family, but Dayton's Bluff and the town of Dayton in Hennepin County are named for him, as well as the avenue in St. Paul.

Another owner, Abram S. Elfelt, also arrived in St. Paul in 1849 and opened the

The Highland Villager

This three-unit townhouse, representative of Engstrom/Carley Associates' attempt to build a structure which conforms to the scale and character of the Ramsey Hill neighborhood, will be open for public inspection July 21. The building is part of a two-block development project—involving both construction and restoration—to create approximately 96 townhouses and condominiums.

first dry goods store. He and his brother, Charles, built their second store in 1851 at the corner of Third and Exchange Streets. Its upper floor was later turned into St. Paul's first theater.

Elfelt originated the first Board of Trade in 1864 (which later merged with the Chamber of Commerce; he served as director of both). He also fostered immigration to the area by sending out pamphlets and taking special interest in the building and completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

In 1854, the land was subdivided by Irvine and Dayton, and became known as the Dayton-Irvine addition to St. Paul.

Among the assortment of owners after the platting was William R. Marshall, who arrived in Minnesota in 1847 and became the first hardware merchant. In 1862, he organized and was a colonel in the 7th Minnesota Regiment, and from 1866-1870 served as Governor of Minnesota. In 1860, he purchased the St. Paul Daily Times and changed the name to Daily Press. The paper merged with the Pioneer to become the Pioneer Press.

The last illustrious owner during this early period was Cornelius Riley. Born in Ireland in 1836, Riley came to St. Paul in 1855 and is often described as an "architect of his own fortune."

He began as head steward at the Old Winslow House at 3rd and Fort Streets (now Kellogg and W. 7th), then established a news and fruit stand in St. Paul's railroad station.

He acquired a portion of the Summit Place land in 1880 for a mere $5,000 and built nine houses on Laurel and Farrington. Three of these are the remaining 94-year-old homes already restored during the first phase of the Summit Place project.

PICTURE YOURSELF $AVING!

AT MARSHALL LIQUOR

We don't claim to have every brand of beer, wine and liquor made... but we do stock the finest spirits most wanted by most people.

We don't claim that our employees know it all... but Mike Taylor, the manager, has gone to school to study wines and Stan Rubin has been in the liquor business for 38 years and for 21 years he owned his own liquor store on Grand Avenue.

We do challenge you to try us and find out if the Marshall can paint a pretty good savings picture for you... today and every day.

Open Continuously
From 8 a.m. Monday-
Till 6 p.m. Sunday
Each & Every Week.

We Won't Ignore The Services You're Used To

Yup, that's right! You can get parcel pick-up or carry-out at sunset or sunrise. And fresh meat and produce at 3 a.m. Someone "In The Know" will be available every minute that we're open. And the coffee's always hot, so help yourself.

The Only Thing You Sacrifice At 2 a.m. Is A Good Night's Sleep

We're going to work round the clock to make sure the shelves are stocked, the floors are clean and the displays are filled. So no matter what time you arrive, you'll find fresh meat, fish, produce & plenty of milk, eggs & ice cream. The deli will be staffed from 8 a.m. to midnight. And if you're an extra-early riser with an incurable sweet tooth, stop by the bakery department for a sweet roll that's only minutes old.

What To Do If The Gang Drops In And The Cupboard Is Bare

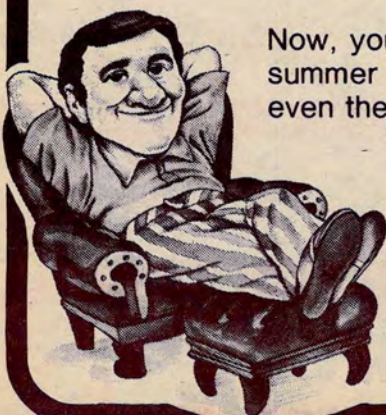

Don't Worry! Stop in and stock up. You'll find the same selection day or night. Satisfy a Prime T-Bone craving during the wee hours of the morning. Dive into one of those dynamite deli pizzas after an evening out.

Escape from the hubby and the kids for an hour of relaxed shopping at Applebaum's on Ford Parkway.

Relax, Catch The 10pm News, Then Come Over To Do Your Shopping

Now, you don't have to give up those beautiful summer evenings or a great sunny Saturday or even the late night news because you've got to get the shopping done. Come when it's convenient for you. But, remember, we will be closed from 6 p.m., Sunday to 8 a.m. Mondays (14 hours) to do our heavy housecleaning, because we don't want you to shop in a dirty store.

Foley files for county attorney

Tom Foley, 30 So. St. Albans, recently filed as a candidate for the office of Ramsey County Attorney. Foley has received DFL and Labor endorsement.

"With my name on the ballot, voters of Ramsey County have the opportunity to vote for an attorney who will work—and work hard—for them and with them," said Foley, a member of State Attorney General Warren Spannaus' Criminal Division and Deputy Commissioner of Corrections.

"As Ramsey County Attorney, I will vigorously direct a victim assistance program," Foley said. "I will initiate services to protect and assist senior citizens, battered spouses and abused children and I will commit all the resources of the office to the prosecution of economic crimes and career criminals."

Foley was a candidate for Ramsey County Attorney in 1974, receiving 47 percent of the vote.

JCC happenings

SPORT SPECTACULAR

The JCC Health Club is sponsoring a barbecue and a trip to the Twins-Yankees game on Thursday, July 20. The 6:00 p.m. barbecue will be served in the Center's newly developed outdoor patio area, and then it's out to the Met to cheer on the Twins. The event is open to all Health Club members, their families and friends. The fee is $5.00 per person which includes a reserved seat and dinner. For reservations, which must be made by Friday, July 14, call the Center at 698-0751.

NURSERY SCHOOL

The JCC nursery school is now accepting applications for an expanded five-day program for children who will be 3-years-old by September 1. The program will be in addition to the regular three- and five-day classes for children ages 3-5.

A new curriculum, "Bridge to Reading," will be introduced into the Fall program. This is a readiness program which introduces children to reading, science, cooking, arts and crafts, music and other cognitive skills. Call Barbara Kaster at the Center for more details.

ADULTS DISCO DANCING

Couples who want to learn the skills of disco dancing can hook up with a JCC adult class which will be held from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m. on eight consecutive Sundays beginning July 16. The fee is $12.00 for each member and $18.00 for each non-member. Amy Sitkoff is the energetic instructor!

TEEN TENNIS CAMP

A teen tennis camp, for those in grades 7-12, will be held from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. through Friday, July 17-21. The camp offers personal instruction with emphasis placed on form, proficiency, competition and just plain fun. Every aspect of the game will be analyzed, from basic strokes to strategies on the court. The fee is $25 (plus season maintenance fee). Contact Rich Danov at the Center for more details.

RACQUETBALL CAMP

A one-week camp for youngsters in grades 5-12 will focus on the basics of racquetball, including racquet control, basic strategy and the fun of the game. The camp will be held from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, July 24-28. The fee is $10.00 for 15 hours of instruction, use of Center balls and refreshments. For more information, call instructors Michael Witenstein, Rich Danov or Sandy Unger at 698-0751.

SENIOR HIGH DISCO

A disco dance for senior high students will be held from 8:00 p.m. to midnight Saturday, July 15 at the Center. Contact Ken Weintraub at 698-0751 for more information.

GYMNASTIC CAMP

The third gymnastic camp of the summer, for those in grades 2-12, will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, July 17-21. The fee for the camp is $25 for the first family member and $20 for each additional family member. Contact Michael Witenstein for more information.

Running seminars scheduled at two So. Mpls. parks

A series of free seminars for both beginning joggers and competitive runners will be conducted every other Sunday from July 23 through October 1 at two South Minneapolis parks.

The 11:00 a.m. "Run for Your Life" seminars, co-sponsored by the Hennepin County Lung Association and the Minnesota Distance Running Association, will alternate every two weeks between the Lake Harriet Pavilion and the Lake Nokomis Community Center. A lake run for all ages will follow each seminar.

The schedule for the seminars is as follows: Stress and Rest and Beginning Racing, July 23 at Nokomis; The Woman Runner/The Man Runner, August 6 at Lake Harriet; Injuries and the Runner, August 20 at Nokomis; Road Racing, Short and Middle Distance Running and Marathon Running, September 3 at Lake Harriet; Cold Weather Running, September 17 at Nokomis; Lifestyle Assessment and the Run For Your Life Rally, October 1 at Lake Harriet.

Gardening tips for 'growing' adults set at Highland library

Two programs for adults will be presented this Friday and Monday at the Highland Park Branch Library, 1974 Ford Parkway.

The films Ruth Stout's Garden and The Lady and the Owl will be shown at 2:00 p.m. Friday, in the library auditorium.

Ruth Stout, a nonagenarian, spices her tips on successful gardening with interesting tales of her 90 years. The second film features a retired couple in Ontario who care for injured owls until they can be returned to the wild.

At 6:30 p.m. Monday, July 17, Shirley Blake of the Ramsey County Extension office will present a program on canning and freezing fruits and vegetables for the home gardener. Call the library at 698-0823 to register.

Paul Bunyan lives

The legendary figure of Paul Bunyan comes to life at 3:00 p.m. Tuesday, July 25 at the Lexington Branch Library, 1080 University Ave.

The Eclectic Company, a troupe of professional performers, will present "Paul Bunyan Was Here," a free program of folk songs and stories for children of all ages.

'Weddings Exceptionale' slated July 30 at L'hotel de France

Every conceivable concern of those planning a wedding this year or next has been covered in "Weddings Exceptionale," a full day of informal panel discussions, presentations and actual wedding ceremonies, to be held Sunday, July 30 at L'hotel de France (formerly L'hotel Sofitel), 1-494 and Hwy. 100 in Minneapolis.

Coordinator for the show is Rita Anne Murray, 1352 Wellesley Ave., chief cook and bottle washer for Promotional Enterprises. Weddings Exceptionale, her third such effort to date, will be by far the largest, most comprehensive affair she's yet produced.

More than 30 Twin City businesses and agencies have already signed on for the two shows on July 30—

The shady character on the left is Elmer, the walking, talking elm tree and budding star of TV's "Tree's Company" who decided to branch out into the lecture circuit. The talented timber, spoketree for the First Bank Systems' Dutch elm disease program, is currently appearing at civic events, TV talk shows and schools advocating chemical treatment for his healthy brothers and a replanting program to provide more pals. Relaxing in his shade are four of his creators, executives at Stevenson & Associates advertising agency: (left to right, from top) John Forney, Jennifer Grismer, a Highland resident, Kate Madden and Guy Stuart.

Bible school set from noon to 4:00 p.m. and 4:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Besides those you'd expect to see in attendance—representatives from businesses like bridal fashion stores, caterers, photographers, and florists—the shows will each feature four complete wedding parties: one for those who'd like to make their own wedding outfits, one for those who plan to buy, one for those who will rent, and one involving a combination of the three.

Panel discussions will cover such things as budget and finance, buying and renting a home and family planning.

Tickets for Weddings Exceptionale are $1.50 per person and are now available at all Dayton's ticket offices.

Randolph Heights Presbyterian Church is offering a Vacation Bible School from 9:00 to 11:30 a.m. daily now through July 20 at the church, 435 S. Hamline. The classes are open to children age 3 through 6th grade. For registration or further information, call the church at 698-3889.

Lex-Hamline community sets ice cream social

A moonwalk, dunktank, make-up artists, fish pond, relay races, prizes and animals from Como Zoo are just some of the attractions that can be found at the Lexington Hamline Community Ice Cream Social to be held from noon to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday, July 23 at Dunning Field on Marshall Ave. and Griggs St.

There will be booths with plants, crafts, treasures and refreshments, and space will be available for a flea market. Anyone interested in selling their wares can set up a table for $3.00.

A mini-affle, featuring arts and crafts items made by community artists and dinners for two at many local restaurants, will also be held.

Music will be provided by the Irv Williams Quartet and Eros, a local rock band. The entire community is invited to attend.

Team B-4 seeks volunteer groups for literature drop

The St. Paul Police Department's Team B-4, which serves the Merriam Park, Highland, Groveland, Macalester and West Seventh communities, is looking for a number of area volunteer groups interested in distributing crime prevention literature door to door.

"Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, school youth groups and others have worked out very well in the past," said Lt. John Sturner, Team B-4 Commander. "We certainly welcome their support at this time."

Spokespersons for interested community groups should call Sturner at 291-1111, ext. 232.

CHIROPRACTORS SEEK RESEARCH VOLUNTEERS

The International Pain Control Institute in conjunction with New York Chiropractic College is presently engaged in what is the most extensive research program ever undertaken by the chiropractic profession. This research is directed toward determining the relationship between health problems and spinal misalignments and utilizes a screening process called Contour Analysis.

Volunteers are being sought for screening. Contour Analysis enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortions, and scoliosis.

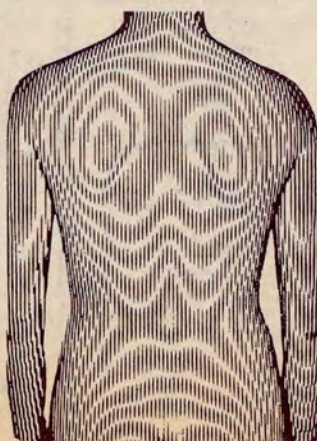

There is no charge to participating volunteers, since the doctors are contributing their time, service, and facilities for the program. Final processing and evaluation will be done at the New York Chiropractic College.

Anyone wishing to be a volunteer may telephone participating doctors directly for information or an appointment.

Plaudits pour in for 'Prairie'

"The Prairie Was Quiet," the 1977 Peabody award-winning documentary produced by Highland area residents Greg Barron and David Felland, has been named a recipient of runner-up and honorable mention awards in two national competitions.

The radio program, which used natural and man-made sounds to evoke the spirit and feeling of the American prairie, received the runner-up award in the 14th annual Armstrong Awards for excellence and originality in FM broadcasting in the "creative use of the medium" category.

It also recently received an honorable mention award in the "radio series or documentary" category of The World We Live In Division in the 1978 Clarion Awards competition.

Burt Garr, 2139 Pinehurst, was the recipient of a special award given by the Jewish Welfare Board at the recent Conference of Jewish Communal Workers in Grossinger, N.Y., for his outstanding contribution to the Center Shlichim Program which encourages understanding and communication between North American Jewry and Israel. Garr is executive director of the Jewish Community Center of St. Paul.

Talking out of school

by Bill Rosenbloom & Carl Nelson

This week's Talking Out of School Traveling Trophy, the "Promise Them Anything But Give Them Nothing Award," goes to St. Paul Schools Superintendent George Young and Deputy Superintendent Ken Berg.

The award is given in recognition of remarks made by administrative representatives as they accepted an evaluation proposal which accompanied the $130,000 Educational Plan proposed by the PERC Committee and Educational Task Force, and subsequently adopted by the St. Paul School Board.

PER is the new Planning, Evaluating and Reporting law passed by the Minnesota State Legislature. Its purpose is to give the community a means for involvement in the selection of educational goals for the school district, in the implementation of those goals, and in the evaluation process to determine the district's progress in attaining those goals.

The administration had said it was "committed" to following through on the evaluation the PER plan called for. However, it was unwilling to allocate any dollars to do the type of evaluation called for by the task force.

Members of the PERC Committee, as well as members of the PER Educational Task Force, spent literally hundreds of hours developing and refining an evaluation plan for implementation of the goals adopted by the Board of Education.

These goals were:

1. For each student to develop, appropriate to that individual's potential, skills in reading, writing, mathematics, speaking, listening, problem solving, and examining and using information.
2. For each student to increase in the acquisition and use of knowledge, appropriate to that individual's potential, through a comprehensive, coordinated curriculum.
3. For each student to develop a feeling of self-worth, pride in work, respect, appreciation, and understanding of other people and cultures; and a desire for learning both now and in the future.

Though these goals tend to be broad and general, the PERC Committee felt there was a built-in system of checks and balances to make sure the objectives and goals were being implemented at every school in the public school system. That system depended on the evaluation plan which was developed as an integral part of the PER plan.

The PERC-adopted evaluation plan called for an objective assessment to be done primarily through the department of Research and Evaluation. In lieu of spending any money for the appraisal, the administration is imposing a plan which calls for the principals and department supervisors to become the prime evaluators. (We won't even comment on the objectivity of such a proposal.)

This fall the school district will be asking principals to implement a plan in their respective schools aimed at achieving the previously mentioned goals. Those same principals will then be asked to evaluate the results of their schools' efforts in attaining those goals.

We interpret the "commitment without dollars" attitude of the school administration as just another end run around the community. The administration has again taken a community plan and twisted it to meet its own needs rather than the community's.

And so, Dr. Young and Mr. Berg, for your "commitment" we present you with this week's Traveling Trophy—an original sound track of The Flim Flam Man, recorded on location at the last St. Paul School Administrators Folly.

Early childhood education offered

The Stella Louise Wood Children's Center, 1652 Summit Ave., is now accepting applications for the fall term. The center's program offers morning nursery school for children ages three, four and five and a private kindergarten in the afternoon.

Guidance is provided by a staff under the direction of Miss Jean Lyle. Interested parents can call 647-6317 or 699-2333 by July 18 to register their children.

Museum offers second session of 'Art for Everyone' program

Morning, afternoon and evening classes in Session II of Summer Art for Everyone are now under way in the studio classrooms of the Community Gallery of the Minnesota Museum of Art, 30 E. 10th St. Classes will be held Monday through Thursday including a noon hour sketching session in the courtyard, or in case of rain, inside in the gallery.

Children's sessions will include classes in Painting, Drawing, Pottery and Sculpture for ages 7 to 14, and mask-making, puppetry, painting and collage for ages 5-8.

Two pilot programs designed for junior and senior high school students will be continued for Session II, including "Art Exploration" on Monday through Thursday mornings, and "Drop-In-Art-Fun" classes on Monday through Thursday afternoons.

Adult evening classes in Drawing and Ceramic Sculpture will be conducted Monday and Wednesday, while Painting, Watercolor, and Raku, the ancient Japanese method of making pots, will be offered Tuesday and Thursday. All adult classes will be held from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m.

For further information on Summer Session II, call 227-7613 from 8:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Adult swimming lessons offered at St. Paul Seminary

As a service to the community, The Saint Paul Seminary is expanding its summer swimming program to include all area adults interested in learning how to swim.

The classes are for beginners only. To be eligible, one must be 16 or older and should not be able to support himself in the water.

Classes will be limited to ten students each and are scheduled from 7:30 to 8:15 p.m. and 8:30 to 9:15 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday evenings beginning July 18 and ending August 10. The total cost is $8.50.

If interested call Randy Johnson at 698-1922.

St. Thomas sets July concerts

The first of three concerts in the College of St. Thomas' Summer Concert series will be presented at 7:00 p.m. Thursday, July 13 in the Lower Quadrangle on the campus. All three programs are open to the public free of charge.

Dr. Francis N. Mayer, chairman of the college's music department, will conduct a concert band composed of students and alumni of St. Thomas and the College of St. Catherine and other musicians.

Additional concerts will be performed on July 20 and 27.

Auditions approach for community production, 'The Miracle Worker'

Auditions for William Gibson's drama, The Miracle Worker, will be held at 7:00 p.m. on Sunday and Monday, July 30 and 31 at the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center on the campus of Macalester College.

Designated as a community production, the play will be performed on two weekends, September 14-16 and 22-23 at 8:00 p.m.

Auditions for the roles of four men, five women and six children are open to Macalester alumni, faculty, staff and students, as well as friends of the college. Scripts for study are available by calling 647-6359 or 920-8840.

The Miracle Worker, a dramatization of the real-life story of Helen Keller and her tutor, Annie Sullivan, is principally concerned with the emotional relationship between the two.

Minnesota Orchestra puts bars to stars for universal appeal

The Minnesota Orchestra, after selling out its July 28 concert, has scheduled a second performance of "Music From Outer Space" at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, July 29 at the St. Paul Civic Center Arena.

"Music From Outer Space," co-sponsored by KSTP-AM, FM and television, will feature music from the films Star Wars, Close Encounters of the Third Kind, 2001: A Space

Odyssey, plus cuts from Holst's "The Planets" and "The Twilight Zone."

An eye-dazzling laser light show and visuals projected on five screens will add special effects to the concert, which will be conducted by Newton Wayland.

Tickets for the July 29 show are now on sale at Orchestra Hall, Dayton's ticket offices and the St. Paul Civic Center.

Swingin' strings

Jim Price and Dave Peterson, a violin and guitar duo, will present a concert of original compositions and swing tunes of the 1930's at 8:00 p.m. Friday, July 14 in the Walker Art Center Auditorium. Admission is $3.00, $2.00 for students and senior citizens.

Four concerts scheduled for July offer variety to visitors of institute

Four gallery concerts will be presented in the Sculpture Court of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts during July. Classical, popular and original compositions are featured in the programs.

At 3:00 p.m. Sunday, July 16 the Matthew Schubring Trio will play Mozart's Duo in G, K423; Brahms' Sonata in F Minor, Opus 120, No. 1; and works by Milhaud and Bloch.

Nancy Thompson will present a program of 20th century piano music by Persichetti, Hindemith and John Cage on Sunday, July 23 at 3:00 p.m.

The Dean Granros Trio will perform on Thursday, July 27 at 7:30 p.m. Trio members Dean Granros, guitar, Tom Lewis, upright bass, and Dick Paske, piano and tuba, will play original compositions based on improvisation.

Flutist Karen Nelsen and pianist Hazel Hanson will play Benda's Sonata in F Major and works by Paul Taffanel and Bach on Sunday, July 30 at 3:00 p.m.

Admission to the gallery concerts is free; museum admission is required for the afternoon concerts.

'Atheism' opens at Dudley Riggs

Obnoxious culture fiends, overly helpful restaurant help and mind altering television commercials receive Dudley Riggs' lashing lampoons in its newest satirical-comedy revue, Atheism Means Never Having To Say You're Lutheran.

Opening July 12 at Dudley Riggs' Etc. Theatre, 1430 Washington Ave. So., the original revue will also include sketches on pre-adolescent business executives, a Crisis Center for the Bland, and two non-traditional women who examine past flings with mystics, intellectuals and rock musicians.

Performances are at 8:00 p.m. Wednesdays through Sundays with an additional 10:30 p.m. show on Fridays and Saturdays. For information and reservations call 377-2120.

Penumbra adds colorful twist to Neil Simon's 'Odd Couple'

Upon first glance, the Penumbra Theater Company seems to be well in control of its faculties. Productions during its inaugural year have been well acted and directed and appropriately chosen to complement its multi-racial cast. Indeed, Penumbra has worked hard to establish itself as a first-rate professional theatre company.

Why, then, would it risk its reputation by placing its integrated cast in a traditionally non-integrated play? "To broaden our artistic scope, for one reason," replied Horace Bond, director of Penumbra's forthcoming production of Neil Simon's The Odd Couple.

"I'll admit," Bond explained, "that it seemed inappropriate to stage The Odd Couple with our people, but after I thought about it for awhile, I said to myself, 'Why not?' Directors have for years cast white actors in what are obviously black roles.

"If you want to get into the appropriateness or inappropriateness of that, well, all I can say is that my casting of a black as Oscar Madison is far more appropriate than casting a white as Othello.

"Besides, I like the new dimension color blind casting brings to the comedy."

Indeed, in many scenes, Bond's casting has turned The Odd Couple into an entirely new play.

Bond, who is Penumbra's resident playwright and has cast many other "white" plays with black actors, sees the production as a "leap forward" for the company.

"Each of our shows this season has taught us something about the unique theatrical experience that emerges from a multi-racial cast," he said. "We've discovered this in light and serious drama, in melodrama, in farce, in ensemble and now we're finding it in slick, fast-paced New York comedy.

"It's like everything we touch turns into something different, something nobody's ever done before, something you can sit back and enjoy and even carry around with you for a couple of days."

Penumbra's production of The Odd Couple opens this Friday, July 14 and runs through August 6, with Thursday through Saturday night performances at 8:00 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 3:00 p.m. at the Hallie Q. Brown Theater, 270 N. Kent St. For reservations, call 224-4601.

White Bear hosts 'Manitou Days, '78

White Bear Lake will host a fine arts festival from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, July 15-16 as part of "Manitou Days, 1978." The festival will be held in Railroad Park, located on Highway 61 and 4th Street in White Bear Lake.

Among the works of the 20 to 25 artists will be creations by the prisoners of Stillwater State Penitentiary. Money collected from the sale of their paintings will go to the prisoner/artist to be held until his release.

During a brief truce, the fastidious Felix Ungar (Gordon Crounce, left) tries to reason with the incorrigibly sloppy Oscar Madison (Abdul Salaam El Razzac) in Penumbra's unusual version of Neil Simon's "The Odd Couple." The play runs July 14 through August 6 at the Hallie Q. Brown Theater, 270 N. Kent St.

East meets West in Chinese troupe's performances at 'U'

The Performing Arts Company of the People's Republic of China, the largest group of Chinese artists ever assembled to perform outside of their homeland, will present four performances at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, July 25-28 at Northrop Auditorium on the University of Minnesota campus.

Committee on United States China Relations, the troupe's Northrop performances will include precision acrobatic acts, mime and ballet.

Tickets, which range from $7.00 to $15.00, are available at Northrop (373-2345) and all Dayton's and Donaldson's ticket offices. Discounts of $1.50 are available to students, senior citizens and wearers of Minneapolis Aquatennial skipper pins.

Co-sponsored by the Metropolitan Opera Association and the National

Ragtime and Broadway tunes highlight Cabaret Pops finale

The last Cabaret Pops concerts of the 1978 summer season at Orchestra Hall will present guest conductor Newton Wayland, members of the Great All-American Music Machine, guest soloists and the Minnesota Orchestra in "Ragtime, Songtime, Broadway" at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, July 19-22. Mezzo-soprano Jan Curtis and baritone Matthew Dooley will make their first appearance at Orchestra Hall during these four performances.

Wayland, who will appear with the Minnesota Orchestra for the first time as a Cabaret Pops guest conductor, has most recently appeared with the Boston Pops and the Rochester (N.Y.) Philharmonic. He has just completed his sixth season as a music director of the PBS-produced series "Zoom," and recently finished production on the show's second album, "Zoom Tunes," for A & M records.

Wayland founded the Great All-American Music Machine, whose members include Fred Buda, percussion; Richard Johnson, reeds; Kenneth Wenzel, brass; and Henry Wiktorowicz, banjo and guitar.

Ms. Curtis is presently the Sears and Roebuck/National Endowment for the Arts sponsored affiliate artist for the Opera Company of Boston. She has sung leading roles with the company and with the Opera

Jan Curtis

New England Company, both under the direction of Sarah Caldwell. She has also performed with the Dallas Civic Opera, Wolf Trap Festival for the Performing Arts, Tanglewood Music Theatre, and most recently with the St. Louis Opera Theatre.

Dooley, a native of Boston, attended Boston University and did graduate work in the Opera Theatre under the direction of Adelaide Bishop. He has performed major roles with the St. Paul Opera Association, Wolf Trap Festival, Opera Company of Boston, Opera New England, Eastern Opera Theatre of New York, and the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The program will include music from Candide, Carmen, Barber of Seville, West Side Story, and works of Cole Porter. For tickets call the Orchestra Hall box office or Dayton's ticket offices.

Baroque marathon wraps up rug concert series July 17-18

The Minnesota Orchestra, under principal guest conductor Leonard Slatkin, will present the second annual Baroque Marathon at 7:00 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, July 17 and 18 in Orchestra Hall. The marathon is the final rug concert of the 1978 summer season.

The concerts will feature approximately three hours of 18th century Baroque music, including a sing-along of "Hallelujah!" from Handel's Messiah, the Tartini Sonata in G minor for Violin and Piano and the Bach/Slatkin Piano Transcriptions.

Associate concertmistress Chouhei Min, principal second violinist Kensley Rosen and principal cellist Robert Jamieson will assist the orchestra with the performance of the Corelli Concerto Grosso. Principal flutist Sidney Zeitlin will be featured in Bach's Suite No. 2 for Flute and Strings.

The rug concert will be broadcast live by Minnesota Public Radio (KSN 91.1 FM) Tuesday evening.

For tickets, call the Orchestra Hall box office at 371-5656 or any Dayton's ticket office.

HGRA plans new flag football league

HGRA is contemplating a flag football league for 1st, 2nd and 3rd graders and would like parents to contact them to determine if there is sufficient interest for such a program.

The association envisions the new league as "low-key, play-for-fun" competition with no tackling or rough play allowed. If interested, call Mike Windey at 699-4633.

New bus routes accommodate Twin Cities' culture seekers

It will be easier for area residents to visit Twin Cities cultural sites beginning this weekend.

"Site Line" bus service, special Metropolitan Transit Commission routes that link cultural points of interest, will begin operating on Saturday, July 15 in both Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Minneapolis Mayor Albert J. Hofstede and St. Paul Mayor George Latimer will launch the routes at public ceremonies beginning at 11:30 a.m. that day. The ceremony for the Minneapolis service (Route 65) will be on Nicollet Mall in front of the Minneapolis Library. The St. Paul ceremony for Route 67 will be at the Capitol Center Plaza on Wabasha Street.

The first buses will leave at noon. To mark the opening of the routes, the first trip will be free, and will include musical entertainment. On the Minneapolis bus, Daryl Peterson of Concentus Musicus and Amy Bloom of the Sylmar Trio will play recorders. Violist Tamas Strasser and violinist Elsa Nilsson of the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra will perform on the St. Paul bus.

The new MTC service will allow riders to get off the bus to visit a site and then board a later bus without paying an additional fare. Riders can re-board the Site Line buses as often as they like during the day. The service will operate on Saturday and Sunday afternoons through October 22.

The Minneapolis service will link the Science Museum and Planetarium at the Minneapolis Library to the American-Swedish Institute with a route that includes the IDS Center, Orchestra Hall, Loring Park, the Walker Art Center, the Guthrie Theater, the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and the Children's Theatre.

The St. Paul route includes the Arts and Science Center, the Science Museum of Minnesota, the Minnesota Historical Society, the State Capitol, the Cathedral of St. Paul, historical areas along Summit and Grand Avenues, the Alexander Ramsey house and Landmark Center.

Site Line transportation tickets are purchased directly from the bus driver. The price is $1.00 for adults, 50 cents for those under 18, and 30 cents for senior citizens and persons with limited mobility. Exact change (no dollar bills) is required. Transfers will be issued to allow riders to transfer to and from other MTC buses along the Site Line routes.

The Site Line routes were developed with the cooperation of the participating cultural institutions, the Minneapolis Downtown Council and the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce. They are funded as a demonstration project by the Minnesota Department of Transportation. After October, the MTC will study the ridership on the routes and determine whether they should be continued next year.

Brochures on Site Line service are available from the MTC information booths in the IDS Crystal Court and the St. Paul Skyway Building lobby. Brochures will also be mailed to those who request them by calling the MTC Transit Information Center at 827-7733.

Host Garrison Keillor will join the Powdermill Biscuit Band, tenor Vern Sutton and rag-time piano player Butch Thompson when the Prairie Home Companion Show broadcasts live over Minnesota Public Radio (KSNB 91.1FM) beginning at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, July 29 on the Northrop Auditorium Mall on the University of Minnesota campus. The free event will move inside the auditorium in case of rain.

St. Thomas film series features movie classics

Six free film classics will be shown during July and August at the College of St. Thomas. The movies will be screened at 8:00 p.m. on Thursdays in Room 108 of Albertus Magnus Hall.

The film schedule is as follows: July 13—Stage Coach, starring John Wayne and Claire Trevor, 1939; July 20—Citizen Kane, Orson Welles, 1941; July 27—Scarlet Street, Edward G. Robinson and Joan Bennett, 1945; August 3—Till the Clouds Roll By, Judy Garland and Frank Sinatra, 1946; August 10—From Here to Eternity, Montgomery Clift and Burt Lancaster, 1956; August 17—David and Lisa, Keir Dullea and Janet Margolin, 1962.

Ramsey County Fair scheduled for July 26-30

The 1978 Ramsey County Fair will be held from July 26-30 at the Ramsey County Fairgrounds, Frost and White Bear Ave.

This year's extravaganza, billed as one of the top five county fairs in the state, offers a full line-up of family fare, including an amateur talent contest, a senior citizens dinner, a disco dance, amateur boxing, a petting zoo, horticultural and animal exhibits and midway rides.

Admission to the fair is free. Discount tickets for the amusement rides, for children 12 and under, are now available at the Villager offices. For more information about the fair's activities, call the fair office at 770-2626.

Africano tips 'Hat' at Walker

"The Man Who Lived In A Hat," 12 narrative paintings by Illinois artist Nicholas Africano will be on view through August 13 at the Walker Art Center as part of the continuing series of Viewpoints exhibitions.

As individual titles suggest—The Scream, He's Afraid of Loneliness, He's Cold and No, He's Not At Home—many of Africano's paintings are about insecurity and alienation. Each is a vignette that reflects the "small passions" of tiny figures rendered in relief against large fields of flat color.

Your itch for swimming could leave you with swimmer's itch

Minnesota's lakes, for a long time sanctuaries for swimmers who wished to avoid the mean bite of horse and deer flies, hold a pest as equally menacing beneath their sky blue waters—the blood fluke.

The blood fluke, a particular species of schistosome, is a tiny, almost invisible parasite that can burrow under your skin, causing swimmer's itch, a rash and itching much like insect bites or poison ivy.

The adult version of this creature lives in the bodies of certain birds and rodents, including wild ducks, mice, and muskrats. Each fall, when migrating water birds visit a lake, they can leave behind large numbers of schistosome eggs. When the eggs hatch, the larvae invade the bodies of young snails, where they remain dormant through the winter.

The trouble begins the following June, when the larvae leave the snails in search of hosts for their adult phase. That's when they'll invade an occasional human. A single infested sand can produce thousands of larvae each day for several weeks. By late summer, when the snails have bred and died off, the larvae disappear.

Although it may be small compensation for the swimmer's itch victim, the larvae die within 24 hours after penetrating human skin.

The first clue that you've been exposed to swimmer's itch comes when you leave the water. You'll feel a mild prickling sensation as the larvae begin to burrow. Welts that look like mosquito bites may show up anywhere from 24 hours to two weeks later.

Swimmer's itch does not spread like poison ivy, does not cause blisters and is not contagious. It's usually no more serious than a rash of chigger bites.

Children are especially susceptible to swimmer's itch, and a few individuals are allergic to the parasite. People with the allergy tend to become more sensitive with repeated exposure. They can experience itching, pain, fever and swelling that can last as long as two weeks.

You can protect yourself by avoiding the times and places where the larvae are most common—the late afternoon or early evening in shallow water. Another way is to rub yourself with a towel when you leave the water and, of course, avoid lakes where there's a known swimmer's itch problem.

Don't fret needlessly over the blood fluke. This summer is not expected to be as bad as last when a warm spring resulted in more parasites and more cases of swimmer's itch.

WHERE TO WHAT TO GO & DO

The Villager's Guide to Food, Fun & Entertainment

Associate Conductor Henry Charles Smith will lead the Minnesota Orchestra in a series of five Cabaret Pops concerts this week.

Cabaret Pops concerts salute Rodgers, Hart and Hammerstein

Associate conductor Henry Charles Smith will lead the Minnesota Orchestra in an evening of romantic melodies by Broadway's Rodgers, Hart & Hammerstein at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, July 12-15 in Orchestra Hall.

A special noontime version of the Cabaret Concert is also scheduled for 12:15 p.m. Friday, July 14. General admission tickets are $3.00. Patrons are invited to bring bag lunches and snacks. Beverages will be on sale in the lobby.

Master of ceremonies for the four evening concerts will be WCCO Radio commentator Ray Christensen, anchorman of the morning sports broadcast, whose new program, "Musings on Music," is heard at 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

Joining the Minnesota Orchestra will be local artists Thelma Neve, soprano; Janis Hardy, mezzo-soprano; Kent Lundholm, tenor; and Philip Ross, baritone. Ms. Neve, who has appeared previously with the Minnesota Orchestra, has toured the country in radio, television and nightclub engagements.

Janis Hardy made her debut with the Minnesota Orchestra in 1965. A member of the Minnesota Opera Company since 1970, she has appeared frequently with the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra, was featured in a 1976 Cabaret Pops Concert and in the Mozart/Haydn Festival in August, 1977.

Tenor Kent Lundholm's extensive musical background includes work in opera, oratorio, recording, popular and concert fields. He has toured the United States, Canada, and Europe, most recently as tenor soloist with the Norman Luboff Choir.

Philip Ross, baritone from Toledo, Ohio, won the Detroit District Metropolitan Opera auditions in 1968 and has since appeared with opera companies in Detroit, St. Paul, Toledo and Dayton, Ohio, and performed with the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra.

The program for the concerts includes music from Carousel, South Pacific, The Sound of Music, Oklahoma and Slaughter on Tenth Avenue.

Roaring 20's go Hollywood in MMT's 'Passion's Plaything'

The Minnesota Music Theatre Co. (MMT) will present the world premiere of Passion's Plaything, a musical comedy, at 8:00 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, July 13-15 at Guthrie II, 1420 Washington Ave. S., Minneapolis.

Written by William Narducci, with music by local composer Arthur Kleiner, the play is set in Hollywood in 1927 at the height of the silent movie era. Temperamental actresses, directors, young lovers and a dirty old man roar out of the 20's with comedy and music.

The music director for the production is Earl Buys, professional staff member of MMT. The cast includes: Peg Gridley, Andrea Herschler, Gail Matthius, Tom Palmer and John D. Bisciglia, managing director of MMT.

Tickets are $4.00 and may be obtained by calling Donaldson's at 333-5577 or MMT at 221-0282.

Rutherford film classics highlight Schubert series

The second of the Schubert Club's Summer Film series, entitled The Best of Margaret Rutherford—a series of the great comedienne's comedy mystery films as Miss Marple—will be shown at 8:00 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through September 2 in the auditorium of the St. Paul Arts and Science Center, 30 E. 10th St. Admission is $1.50; $1.00 for children.

Following is a list of the films in the series and their screening dates: Murder at the Gallop, July 14-15; Murder Most Foul, July 21-22; Murder Ahoy!, July 28-29; Blithe Spirit, August 4-5; The Happiest Days of Your Life, August 11-12; Passport to Pimlico, August 18-19; and Aunt Clara, September 1-2.

Labor dispute rocks 'Cradle' comedy July 23

The Cradle Will Rock, a play with music by Marc Blitzstein, will be presented by the Unity Theatre at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, July 23 at the Walker Church, 3104 16th Ave. S., Mpls.

The black comedy, written as part of the Federal Theatre Project in 1937 and originally starring Orson Welles, Howard da Silva, and Will Geer, deals with union organizing in a one-industry town.

Orchestra Hall sets Bobby Short debut

Bobby Short will make his first appearance at Orchestra Hall at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, July 16 in a special cabaret performance.

The popular singer/pianist, acclaimed as a master of the art of elegant expression, will interpret songs of Cole Porter, Noel Coward, George Gershwin and others. Accompanying him will be Gene Gammage on drums and Beverly Peer on bass.

For advance reservations, call the Orchestra Hall box office at 371-5656, or Dayton's ticket offices.

What's up, comes down to earth in planetarium show

Hums, buzzes, pops and roars are the sounds of the universe which will be heard during the Science Museum of Minnesota's Planetarium show schedule for July and August at the Minneapolis Public Library, 300 Nicollet Mall.

Entitled "Long Distance Information," the show will present the sights and sounds of the sky as detected by infrared and ultraviolet photography and radio astronomy.

"Long Distance Information" will be shown on Saturdays and Sundays at 3:00 p.m. and on weekdays at 11:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. There will be no showing on Saturday, July 22, the day of the Minneapolis Aquatennial parade.

The Saturday and Sunday shows are free. Admission is 50 cents on weekdays. For further information, call the Planetarium at 372-6543.

Jokes and jazz mix in Walker concert July 15

An evening of comedy and classic jazz will be presented by comedian Jeff Gerbino and Eddie Berger and The Jazz All-Stars at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, July 15 in the Walker Art Center Auditorium.

Saxophonist Berger, who studied with Les Brown's lead sax player Walter De Guerra, first clarinetist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, leads his All-Stars in a concert of classical jazz featuring saxophones, reeds, keyboards, upright bass and drums.

Comedian Gerbino, a relocated New Yorker, will provide the opening act for the concert. Tickets are $3.00; $2.00 for students and senior citizens.

Grant expands COMPAS' aim to make arts part of daily life

The Charles Stewart Mott Foundation of Flint, Michigan has awarded a one-year, $117,000 community arts grant to COMPAS, the community arts agency of the Saint Paul-Ramsey County Arts and Science Council.

The purpose of the grant is to support the first year of a three-year project to make the arts part of the daily life of residents of St. Paul. Following the first year's evaluation, the Mott Foundation will consider further funding for a second, third and fourth year.

The grant will allow COMPAS to expand a pilot program currently in operation in Dayton's Bluff, St. Anthony Park and the West Side. The grant will give COMPAS the means to hire three resident, professional artists for each of the three neighborhoods.

Long-range goals include building up local support for future years of the artists-in-residence project and expansion of the project to other neighborhoods.

City day camping session slated

The St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation will again offer a day camping program this summer for boys and girls, ages 8-14.

One week of the six week camping season has been assigned to Districts IV and V, which are comprised of the Merriam Park, Highland, Groveland, Macalester and West Seventh neighborhoods. The session will be held at Square Lake near Stillwater Monday through Friday, July 24-28.

Fee for the week-long session is $14.50, or $3.00 per day. A special fee schedule has been set up for families with more than one child attending camp.

Activities offered at the camp will include swimming, nature studies, crafts, outdoor cooking and basic camping skills, boating and fishing.

For information or registration, contact your local recreation center or call Parks and Recreation at 645-4689.

CLEANERS LAUNDERERS

How does that saying go—"We take care of our own?" When Highland resident H. Vincent Hagstrum, 789 Ridge Place, president of the Ramsey County Lung Association, pulled the winning entry from the barrel in a recent lung association sponsored drawing, he had in his hand the name of another "local boy," Dave Mason, 1636 Highland Parkway. Mason, above, stands astern his prize, a 17-foot Alumacraft canoe, which was donated by Midwest Federal. Proceeds from the drawing will go to the association's pediatric lung disease programs.

State Fair announces times, dates for entry in creative competition

Fine arts entry materials and premium books for 1978 Minnesota State Fair creative activities competition are now available at the fair's administration office on the State Fairgrounds.

Creative activities divisions include: needlecraft; baking; canning; machine knitted articles; garment making; works of senior citizens; handicrafts, including wood, metal, models, leather, weaving, home craft decorations, toys and dolls; and special exhibits, including stamps, coins, post cards and taxidermy.

Entered items, with the exception of baked goods, must be delivered to the Creative Activities Building between 10:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. August 14-16, or between 10:00 a.m. and noon on August 17.

Quilts and rugs will be accepted through August 19 at 5:00 p.m. Baked goods must be delivered between 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. on August 21.

Fine arts department competition includes: oil, acrylic and mixed media; sculpture; watercolor, including pastel, gouache, casein and tempera; drawing; prints; ceramics; textiles; jewelry; and photography. Entries will be accepted August 4-6 from 10:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. on the third floor of the Grandstand.

All exhibit buildings will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. daily throughout the fair, August 24 through September 4.

For more information contact the Minnesota State Fair at 645-2781.

SPARC seeks volunteers for city day camps

The St. Paul Association for Retarded Citizens (SPARC) is looking for volunteers for five day camps for mentally retarded children and adults to be held at several city parks during July and August.

Volunteers, who must be at least 12-years-old, will be asked to assist the campers on a one-to-one basis in arts and crafts, games and field trips.

The schedule for the day camps is as follows: July 24 to August 4 at Phalen Recreation Center; July 31 to August 25 at Roseville Central Park; July 31 to August 24 at Maplewood Heritage Center; August 21 to September 1 at Highland Park; and August 21 to September 1 at Phalen Recreation Center.

For more information about the camps, call Sue Crilly at 224-3301.

City outlines elm removal

Removal of diseased elms on both public and private property in St. Paul resumed the week of June 26. Area residents should be aware of several procedural changes in the new removal program.

On June 12, 32 inspectors began a city-wide survey of trees on public and private property. When finished, they will have marked all diseased elm trees with a single red ring. Severely diseased elms will be marked with two red rings.

As in the past, residents will receive written notice from the City Forester's office when trees on their private property are marked. The notice informs residents that they have the option of removing the trees at their own expense or requesting that the city remove them at city expense. Residents should notify the Forestry office as soon as possible whether or not they plan to remove the trees.

Residents who wish to remove the trees at their own expense must do so within 20 days. After that, trees still standing will automatically be assigned to a city contractor for removal. There will be no reimbursement to residents who remove trees at their own expense.

If any major damage to private or public property occurs during the course of Group forms to explore elements of 'baby decision'

The decision whether or not to have children is one of the most important and difficult decisions individuals can make—a decision involving many unforeseeable factors.

Family Tree, a family planning clinic located at 1599 Selby, is offering a discussion group for people interested in exploring the many elements of the decision.

The discussion group will meet for five sessions beginning Tuesday, July 18 at 7:00 p.m. The cost is $12.50 per person. Call Family Tree at 645-0478 for more information or to register for the group.

tree removal, contractors are required to make the repairs. To report major damages or to file a formal complaint against a removal contractor, residents should contact the Mayor and Council Information and Complaint Office at 298-4747.

Stumps on public boulevards will be removed by the city over the next few years. Stumps on private property are the responsibility of the homeowner. Arrangements to have a stump removed can be made by contacting one of the local tree removal services listed in the Highland Villager.

Diseased elms which are removed from public boulevards are not necessarily replaced the same year. Trees are planted by area, according to the last time the area received trees. Each area of the city will receive new trees over a three or four-year cycle.
