Waterous to seek District 5 County Commissioner seat

Connie Waterous, 1204 Hartford Ave., has announced her candidacy for the Ramsey County Board of Commissioners. A 46-year-old mother of three and a staff associate with the League of Minnesota Cities, she is seeking the District 5 seat currently occupied by Tony Danna, 1647 Hartford Ave.

Ed note: District 5 includes the West Side, West Seventh and Highland (south of St. Clair) areas of St. Paul.

According to Waterous, who filed as an independent, her decision to run stems from her concern that the workings of the Ramsey County Board are largely unknown to the people it represents, and that the board, which will spend approximately $160 million in 1978 (twice the budget of the city of St. Paul), must be made more accountable to those people.

Waterous cited the recent re-valuation of homes in Ramsey County as a case in point. She said the re-valuation "was done suddenly, without warning, and without sufficient information on the statement. There wasn't even a phone number to call for additional information. You had to do the digging yourself to find out what increase you were being assessed."

Waterous advocates more local control of social and community services to insure that those services are available to the neighborhoods and individuals who need them most. She would also like to see some of the tax burden needed to provide welfare services taken off the shoulders of home owners and businesses in the county.

Besides working with the League of Minnesota Cities, Waterous has served as chairperson for the Council of Metropolitan Area Leagues of Women Voters, as first vice president of the LWV of St. Paul, and as a member of the Zoo Advisory Committee to the Metropolitan Council. She has also done volunteer work for the St. Paul-Ramsey Arts and Science Fund, the United Way, Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts. She holds a B.A. degree with a major in government from Northwestern University.

Her three children, John, 22; Katie, 19; and Andy, 18; all graduated from Highland Park Senior High School. Her husband, Fred Jr., is a manufacturer's representative.

Chairperson for the Watrous Volunteer Committee is Shan Knox, 1797 Colvin Ave.

Parks and Rec. to sponsor three area Bike-Ins

A Bike-In, sponsored by the St. Paul Division of Parks and Recreation, will be held from 1:30 to 6:00 p.m. this Sunday, July 30 along Pelham Blvd. and Mississippi River Blvd. to Ford Parkway.

The route will be closed to motorized traffic wherever possible. Signs will be posted warning drivers to be aware of bicycles at locations where it is impossible to block all traffic. Bicyclists may join in anywhere along the route.

Additional Sunday Bike-Ins are scheduled at the same times on September 3 along Summit Ave. and on September 24 on Edgumbe Rd. For more information, call the Parks and Recreation office at 645-4689.

I-35E alternatives discussed at public meeting August 2

Area residents will be able to voice their opinions over proposed alternatives for completing the St. Paul segment of I-35E at a public meeting next week.

The hearing will be held at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday, August 2 in the Metropolitan Council Offices, 300 Metro Square building, 7th and Robert St.

The uncompleted segment of I-35E extends about four miles from the existing I-35E bridge over the Mississippi River (known as the Lexington Bridge) to downtown St. Paul.

Under a 1978 state law, the only roadway that can be constructed is a limited-access parkway along Pleasant Ave. The law directed the Metropolitan Council to do an environmental impact study (EIS) analyzing alternatives for completing the segment.

The council is expected to act on the alternatives report August 10. Written comments must be submitted to the council by August 3 to be considered.

The report is the first of three steps the council will go through in preparing the EIS on the I-35E segment. The next phase, a draft EIS which will evaluate alternatives, is scheduled to be completed by September 1978. The third phase, a final EIS to be completed by January 1979, will identify a "preferred alternative."

The commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Transportation selects the final alternative, but the Metropolitan Council and the Federal Highway Administration must also approve it.

Copies of the proposed alternatives may be obtained free of charge by calling the council's public information office at 291-6464.

Public hearing set on District 14 Plan

A public hearing on the District 14 Plan has been scheduled for 9:00 a.m. Friday, August 11 in the offices of the St. Paul Planning Commission, 421 Wabasha St.

At this time, the Planning Commission will consider whether all or part of the District 14 Plan, as approved by the neighborhood, should be included in the comprehensive plan for the City of St. Paul. The hearing will include a staff report and public testimony from those in attendance.

All residents, business persons and property owners in District 14 are encouraged to attend. District 14 is bounded on the north by Summit Ave., on the east by the Shortline and 35E corridor, on the south by Randolph Ave., and on the west by the Mississippi River.

Artist Chris Baird, 1661 Lincoln Ave., displays the 1922 photo of 7th and Wabasha which she used to complete her model painting (right) before tackling the full-scale mural (background) now taking shape on the wall of Bober Drug, 1059 Grand Ave. Commissioned by First Grand Avenue State Bank, the street scene is expected to be finished sometime in September. Ms. Baird, a 1975 graduate of Macalester College, is the creator of many of the COMPAS sponsored murals seen around town, including two at Edgumbe playground and another at St. Clair playground.

John Flory files for state primary from District 62-A

John Flory, 1653 Selby Ave., has filed to run in the state primary on the DFL ticket for election to the Minnesota House of Representatives from St. Paul's District 62A.

Ed note: District 62A is bounded on the west and north by the St. Paul city limits, on the east by Snelling Ave., and on the south by a jagged line running east to west along Laurel, Cleveland, Selby, Cretin and Marshall Avenues.

Flory, 30, works for Container Corporation of America as a feeder on a six-color offset printing press. He is a member of the United Paperworkers Union, Local 264.

Flory has been active locally in the co-operative movement. He is a former member of the board of directors of the Merri-Grove Community Foods, 1675 Selby Ave., and is currently a voluntary staff member of Scoop, a regional cooperative newspaper.

According to Flory, the major issues he will raise in his campaign are economic. He intends to work to protect a "decent climate for workers and consumers" and opposes establishing a so-called "better business climate" in Minnesota.

"I believe the better business climate campaign is a public relations effort by major corporations aimed at increasing their power," Flory said.

John Flory

Flory proposes that decentralized economic growth should be encouraged through community based and community controlled economic institutions such as cooperatives, credit unions, locally owned small businesses and community development corporations.

Snelling Ave. hill improvements to be discussed August 14

The Southwest Area District Council and the St. Paul Public Works Department will conduct an informational meeting on Monday, August 14 to discuss proposed paving and lighting improvements on the Snelling Avenue hill from Edgumbe Road to West 7th St.

The meeting, which will be held in conjunction with the district council's regular meeting, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the faculty dining room of St. Joseph's Hall at the College of St. Catherine.

According to the Public Works Department, tentative plans call for a sidewalk along the west side of the road, and paving and street lighting following the contour of the present roadway. The total cost is estimated at $251,000, but would include no assessments.

If approved, the project would be completed during the 1980 construction season.

HIGH TIME ON TAP

To the editor:

A couple of years ago, through some arrangement with the City of St. Paul, you got them to open up the Highland Park water tower to the public. Both times I was unable to take advantage of the opportunity...and me...I'm a photograph nut—especially for "high places."

Do you have plans for doing this again? If not, is there any opportunity for an individual to get up there by contacting someone?

Thank you so much. Really enjoy...and use...the Villager. My wife spends more money in the Highland area than she does in Minneapolis.

Ed note: Though the Villager never "got" St. Paul to open the Highland tower to the public, we know who did. And according to City Councilman Len Levine, who also serves as president of the Board of Water Commissioners, a high time can be yours again from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, September 23, as part of the festivities surrounding the annual Highland Village Art Fair.

Harry Rosenthal, left, 515 Lexington Parkway, adds a personal touch and a few words to a 1930 photograph of the now-defunct Jewish Educational Center, formerly at Holly and Grotto St. and forerunner of the JCC. Paying close attention is Norman Goldstein, 1837 Eleanor Ave., chairman of the United Jewish Fund and Council's local Jewish history project. The photo display will be part of a slide-tape show and discussion about old St. Paul Jewish neighborhoods to be presented at noon this Thursday at the JCC.

JCC program offers first-hand look into local Jewish history

The Jewish Community Center's Leisure League will host a special program of neighborhood nostalgia and reminiscing at a noon luncheon this Thursday, July 27 at the JCC, 1375 St. Paul Ave.

Entitled "A Dialogue With Our Past: The Oral History of the St. Paul Jewish Community," the program will include a 16-minute slide-tape presentation featuring excerpts of interviews with elderly members of the Jewish community and a visual display of pictures and memorabilia dating from 1900-1940.

Following the audio-visual presentation, the audience will be invited to participate in a discussion session led by Dr. Riv-Ellen Prell-Foldes, associate professor of Anthropology and Jewish Studies at the University of Minnesota. Specially prepared monographs, containing photos and excerpts from the interviews, will be given to those in attendance.

The Oral History Project was initiated by the United Jewish Fund and Council in 1976. Sparked by a grant from the Minnesota Humanities Commission and under the direction of Dr. Prell-Foldes, 32 persons were interviewed about the way of life in the old Jewish neighborhoods.

A second phase of the project will focus on the organizational development of the Jewish institutions and synagogues during the early part of the century.

Thursday's program, which will begin at 1:00 p.m., is the second in a series of five public discussion forums to be held throughout the remainder of the year. Anyone interested in reminiscing about the old Jewish neighborhoods is invited to attend.

Norman files for 61B House seat from south Minneapolis

Jim Norman, a lifelong resident of south Minneapolis, has filed as a candidate for the Minnesota House of Representatives from District 61B.

A counselor at Normandale Community College, Norman has served in numerous positions with professional, church, scholastic and civic organizations. Presently, he is vice-president of the Hiawatha Community Council and was the first editor of the neighborhood newspaper, Hiawatha Happenings.

"I believe our district is ready for a change," he said. "In making my decision, I met with many residents of the district who encouraged me to run for office because they are discontented with the current operation of state government."

Married and the father of two children, Norman said he has adequate time to devote to the job of state representative, but emphasized that he does not favor a full-time legislature.

"I believe Minnesota's part-time legislature serves us well, and I will work to preserve that system," he said.

Norman, who has received Independent-Republican endorsement, said he will be stressing the issues of lower taxes, less government, quality education and jobs during his campaign. He is planning an extensive door-to-door drive throughout the entire district in the next several months.

Norman lives at 4045 45th Ave. So. with his wife, Shirley, and his son and daughter, Karl (12) and Heidi (11).

Area woman nominated for federal handicapped employee of the year

Barbara Berg, 2335 Dodd Rd., has been selected by the Veterans Administration Data Processing Center (DPC) in St. Paul to compete for a distinguished federal award.

A data transcriber at the DPC and one of several handicapped people employed there, Barbara has been entered as a nominee in the tenth annual "outstanding handicapped Federal employee of the year award" for 1978.

Ms. Berg, though totally deaf, has earned the respect and admiration of her supervisors and co-workers by her consistent and exceptional contributions in and out of work.

She has refused to allow her lack of hearing to interfere with her job performance or her active social life, which includes volunteer work with handicapped students at the W. Roby Allen School for the Deaf in Faribault.

MISCH- MASCH

by Maurice F. Mischke

About a Villager feature that never got written...

Those of you who have been reading this community newspaper for a period of time, will recall the series of personality sketches on various area people that have appeared in the Villager in recent years. Generally, there was a special reason these persons were selected as a feature subject. Maybe, on reading those sketches, you were even, at times, prone to muse, "I wonder why they've never done one on _____ or _____." Some of you have gone one better and suggested to us, names of people whose story ought to sometime see print in the Villager.

One of the most obvious of these _____'s was Otto to Hummer. I approached him about it very early in the series, but he demurred... "Wait until I've accomplished something," Otto would tell me, "then you can go ahead with it." I knew what he meant, but I still wish that I had been far more persistent. Otto's contributions to making his adopted city, and the Highland area he loved, a better place to live were already then far beyond the need for any further delay.

There was nothing flamboyant about Otto... he wasn't the "promoter" type, not the kind of fellow who might impress you immediately. What was it, then, that made this unassuming gentleman so effective in his own rather quiet way? Few of us realized he was 76. What was it that made him so determined to be useful and actively involved, when he could have been relaxing on his well-earned retirement pay?

It was, apparently, a gradual process. Many years ago, an unsightly area near his home in Downers Grove, Illinois (suburban Chicago) was being used as an unofficial dump. Otto set out to do something about it, and the area eventually became a beautiful public park. That led to an interest in ecology, litter problems, reforestation and beautification, all of which he brought with him—on retirement—to the benefit of St. Paul. But by then he had served for many years in elective positions as president and superintendent of the Downers Grove Park District. Just a few months ago, he was invited back to Illinois—on the 50th Anniversary of their state park system—to be presented with a plaque making him a "lifetime member" of the Illinois Association of Park Districts. And by the way, that park in Downers Grove that got him started is now a living monument to his early efforts. After all, they named it "Hummer Park."

When I became involved with the Villager and the Highland Business Association in late 1970, Otto was already its secretary-treasurer, and already on St. Paul's Capital Improvements Budget Committee. Later he became its chairman, was appointed to the City Planning Commission and its Zoning Committee and, of late, on the Zoning Appeals Board and the Mayor's Parking Committee.

Beautification and parks development were always close to his heart, and he proved to be a true catalyst—those involved will readily admit—in bringing to fruition the new "West Seventh-Highland" Swimming Pool. Party politics were never a factor in Otto's thinking. He worked for what he felt was the common good and he thereby gained the respect of those on either side of the political fence. His concern for what's fair, what's right, what makes sense, and what does the law say... that's what made him so effective with his public peers, elected city officials and professional staff.

But what area businessmen and nearby residents will remember most about him will be his unrelenting efforts to improve the parking situation and physical appearance of the Highland shopping area. I still remember, back in 1972, when it was my turn to be president of the Highland Business Association. We framed a survey to get some direction on our efforts for the coming year in behalf of the group. Not unexpectedly, parking popped up as the number one need (followed by "more combined retail promotion" and "better housekeeping.")

Well, Otto got on the problem and never let go. Our first move was to get the city and our local legislators to give us the necessary legislation, such as Minneapolis and Edina already had. That was accomplished in the 1973 session. A parking development district was subsequently established and we elected Otto its chairman. It may seem that very little has resulted from all the efforts expended... lots of avenues were explored over the past several years, and very little physical change is yet in evidence.

But if the three-level parking ramp covering Powers East parking lot gets into the construction stage next Spring, give Otto a lot of credit for laying much of the groundwork to make it all possible. And when it gets built, I hope Otto Hummer (1902-1978) enjoys a good view of the open top level from his new vantage point. Maybe then Otto will finally admit that he "accomplished something."

As you may have noted on the front page, the Villager staff is taking a one-week break from Thursday thru next Wednesday, August the 2nd. It's probably a good thing that we take only "quickies"... especially since I saw a recent headline in the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune that said "Two-week vacations often cause more stress, tension than working." But maybe that's only if you feel you don't deserve that much time off. Or do you ever find it a "tough sell", convincing yourself of the need for a nice long respite from work?

The primary election, coming up on September 12, looks pretty active on both the local and state level. In this area, District 4's County Commissioner, Diane Ahrens, is faced with three opponents—Ed Bannie, 178 Colborne Street; and William Essling, 1404 Lincoln. Tony Danna in District 5 has primary opposition, too: Elizabeth DeCourcy, 1168 Edgumbe Road, a former commissioner; and Connie Waterous, 1204 Hartford. Only two of the other five Ramsey County Commissioners will be involved in primary battles.

On a countywide basis in Ramsey, incumbent Bill Randall has to face three primary opponents in race for the County Attorney position... all from this end of town: Tom Foley, 30 S. St. Albans Street; Joseph Cartwright, 1744 Eleanor; and Sharon (Scarella) Anderson, 1058 Summit. Seventy-year-old sheriff Kermit Hedman faces a challenge this year from five aspirants to his office: Peter T. Petersen, LeRoy Humphrey, Gary Pedersen, Donald Tousignant and Chuck Zacharias.

Add that to all the intra-party races on the statewide level, and we should draw some record or near-record vote totals this time around... for a state primary, that is. Remember, on the DFL side, John Connolly is challenging Senator Wendy Anderson and Bob Short is trying to stop Don Fraser for the other senate seat... while on the IR ticket Rudy Boschwitz has to beat back Harold Stassen's bid for a comeback—forty years after his first try... for Wendy's senate seat; Dave Durenberger is being challenged for the vacated Humphrey senate post by ex U of M prexy Malcolm Moos; and our local taxpayer, Bob Johnson, is taking on the endorsed Al Quie for the right to try to bump Rudy Perpich off his appointive gubernatorial perch. What more do you need to register and vote this fall? Primary elections of the past have been far duller... don't you agree?

The presence of Congressman Jack Kemp of New York in the Twin Cities this weekend brought the Kemp-Roth tax bill proposal to the fore once more. Kemp is the former Buffalo Bill's quarterback turned economics student who advocates a one-third cut in our federal individual income tax rates... a move intended to spur investment, industrial growth, work incentives, and supposedly cut inflation.

I suppose one could agree in principle that his plan would work in the long run. Rudy Boschwitz' proposals seem to go along the same line. But what would the immediate short run effect be if one were to apply those cuts right here and now? With our current rate of inflation and still-bulging deficits, probably all bad! But when did congress ever act fast on something like this? By the time the Kemp-Roth proposals got through the process (if ever) the country will surely be ready for them!

Business climate note: Saw an ad recently placed by the State of New York in the New York Times. The big headline read as follows: "New York State has stopped giving business the business." The copy continued, "In the past, New York gave business a hard time. But that was in the past. Today, we're making up for letting business down." The ad goes on to elaborate on their tax deletions and reductions. A subhead claims "Our tax advantages are now the best in the country." Do you suppose the time is coming when the Minnesota Department of Economic Development could place an ad like that—with a straight face, and without fear of contradiction?

Strictly local note: Looks like about four tenants will be occupying the space in Highland recently vacated by Red Owl Stores. Best bet for over half of the space is a combination variety-hardware store. A book store may be among the other three—none of them yet on the dotted (lease) line.

Since it's still baseball season and the Twins are not yet out of it, mathematically, why not make our pilfered parting punch line one relating to the diamond sport. It comes, second-handedly, from Philip Roth's 1973 book "The Great American Novel" which is among several books I've never read. Anyway, it has to do with a baseball superstar-lover who is feverishly questioned by his partner as to whether he loves her more than a stolen base, a shoestring catch, a fastball letter-high and a little tight, and even a home run. He replies affirmatively to all of that. ("Smack a home run and that's it, it's all over," he had explained previously.)

But when she asked him if he loved her more than a triple, he replied, "I cannot tell a lie, Angela. There just ain't nothing like it." Come to think of it, what is more exciting on a baseball field than a triple? And you just don't see too many of them anymore, not in today's ball parks.

Aufwiedersehen... but not until the 16th of August. In the meantime, enjoy the summer... come rain or shine.

School's out for summer, but these two parochial school principals are already getting in shape for the annual fall tussle. Getting a few karate credits from green belt Br. Theodore Drahnmann, coordinator of Graduate Studies in Nonpublic School Administration at the College of St. Thomas, are Sr. Margaret O'Brien (right) and Sr. Kent Pearson, two of the 230 Catholic school administrators who participated in the recent Principals' Effectiveness Institute at St. Thomas. Sources said the karate instruction was just for fun. Oh, really?

Two CST grads and grid stars join coaching staff for '78 season

Two alumni of the 1977 St. Thomas football team have been selected as assistant coaches for the 1978 season.

Tom Kelly, 1766 Stanford Ave., a 1974 Cretin High School graduate, will tutor the Toms' freshmen and will assist with the team's offensive linemen. An NAIA All-American at offensive guard, Kelly earned honors as an all-MIAC and all-District 13 performer twice in his four letter-winning years on the St. Thomas gridiron.

He was also selected as an Academic All-American as a senior. A magna cum laude psychology graduate, Kelly will devote his time to graduate studies at the University of Minnesota when not on the sidelines with head coach DuWayne Deitz and his staff.

Jerry Manion, 3907 Girard North in Mpls., a 1974 graduate of Minneapolis Henry, will assist Deitz by coaching defensive ends. Also an offensive guard in his playing days, Manion was a four-year letterman and was honorably mentioned as an all-conference selection by the league's coaches as a senior.

And now it's Real Estate counseling—

From farm and small town to big city, life has been a series of 'stages' for MAE SEELY SYLVESTER

Mae Sylvester has run the gamut of 'sizes' during her short span of years. Born on a farm near Wauzeka in southwest Wisconsin, she began her education in a one-room school located right on her parents' farm and went on to become one of only 20 graduates from Wauzeka High. Then she attended college in suburban Chicago.

Later she completed requirements for a masters of science degree in counseling at Winona State, then went really large-school for some more graduate work in urban journalism at our massive University of Minnesota.

Mae has taught high school English in small towns like Port Edwards (Wisconsin) and Wauzeka as well as in cities like Rochester and at Central High in St. Paul. She has been a counselor at (then) Rochester JC and more recently a student personnel administrator at the U of M. Her last position there was coordinator for the College of Liberal Arts' Bachelor of Elected Studies program.

Avocationally, music and theater have been strong interests at every stage of Mae's life... from age three through the time she met Bob, her husband-to-be.

She was living in Rochester and active in civic theater there, when she was asked to perform in "Showboat" for the Community Theater in Owatonna. Bob, then editor of the Owatonna Photo-News, interviewed Mae for a feature story. That led them ultimately to a co-starring role in a marriage partnership.

Bob eventually left the journalistic field in St. Paul in favor of full-time politics—he was elected twice to the St. Paul City Council, but chose not to run for a third term. Now he's moved into the field of municipal bonds and public financing.

So Mae picked up the cue and decided to apply the variety in her background to a new career, too. They'll surely be comparing notes on their new challenges whenever they come home to 911 Osceola, in the Summit-Hill area.

But, in any case, it shouldn't be too difficult for Mae to combine the skills she perfected as a teacher, counselor and administrator—along with her enthusiasm for the people and fine neighborhoods of St. Paul—to serving the people of this area as another fine Jambor sales associate. Give Mae Sylvester a call when you're ready to make your move!

Jane Howard and part of her family.

Author of 'Families' to appear at Odegard Books this Friday

Jane Howard, author of A Different Woman and, most recently, Families, will make an appearance at Odegard Books in the Victoria Crossing Mall, 867 Grand Ave., at 1:00 p.m. this Friday, July 28.

In her new book, Howard proclaims that despite the reports of its imminent demise, the American family is thriving. "The trouble we take to arrange ourselves in some semblance or other of families is one of the most imperishable habits of the human race," Howard says.

According to her, it's the way families look today that is changing. The nuclear variety—a bread-winning father, a homemaking mother and resident children—now comprises only 16.3 percent of families in America today. Howard has found the other 83.7 percent living in myriad ways. Using her "intuition as a compass," Howard visited diverse families in their various natural habitats, talking with them on porches, kitchens, on front stoops and in backyards. What she discovered in her wanderings is that every family creates its own myths, traditions and rituals that serve as a kind of tribal glue, holding the disparate members together.

"Call it a clan, call it a network, call it a tribe, call it a family," she says.

"But whatever you call it, whoever you are, you need one."

A native of Illinois, Howard is a former staff writer for Life. Today she writes, teaches, lectures and lives in New York City.

Metro Council invites comment on plan for recreational trails

The Metropolitan Council will hold a public hearing Thursday, July 27 on the planned development of more than 632 miles of hiking, biking, snowmobiling and cross-country skiing trails in the Twin Cities area.

The hearing will be held at 7:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers, 300 Metro Square Building at 7th and Robert Sts.

The plan, revised following a public hearing in March 1977, is to serve as a guide to the review of regional trail projects and acquisition and development of new trails in the metropolitan area.

The plan calls for the development of 35 to 55 miles of trails in each of Carver, Ramsey and Scott Counties; 75 to 100 miles in Dakota and Anoka Counties; and more than 160 miles in Washington and Hennepin Counties.

Implementation of the plan will depend on legislative approval of funds for recreational open space. The State Legislature appropriated $1.1 million for regional trails in 1977. The estimated cost of developing all the trails proposed in the plan would exceed $15 million over the next five years.

The regional trails policy plan has been prepared as an amendment to the Metropolitan Council's regional Recreation Open Space Plan, which calls for a 21,000-acre expansion of the regional park system by 1990.

Copies of the trails plan can be obtained free of charge by calling the Metropolitan Council's public information office at 291-6464.

Former U of M grappler takes CST coaching post

Craig Folven, a four-year letter winner for Minnesota's Golden Gopher Grapplers (1970-74) will take the reins of the St. Thomas wrestling team this coming season.

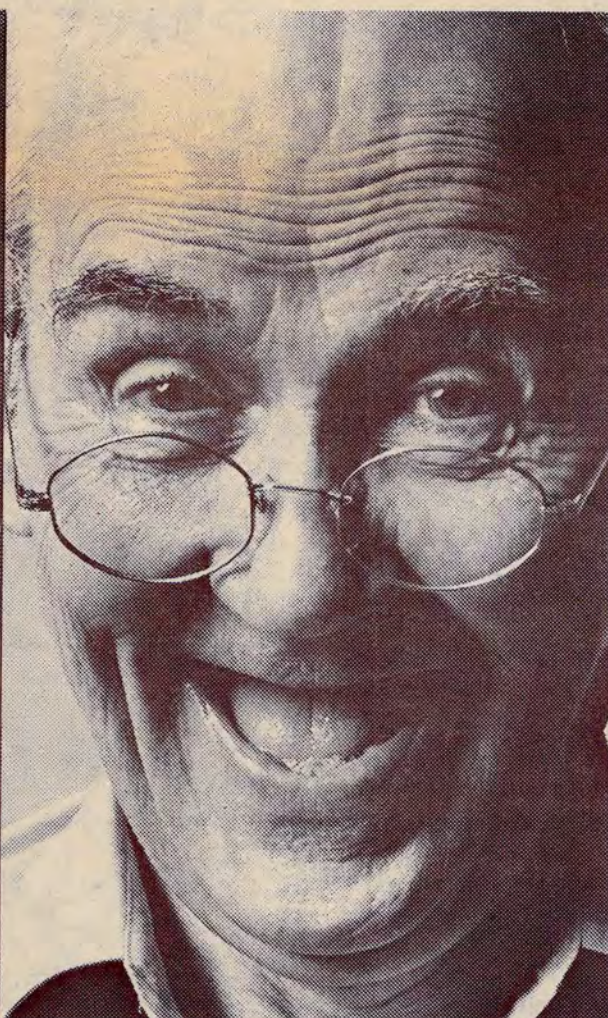

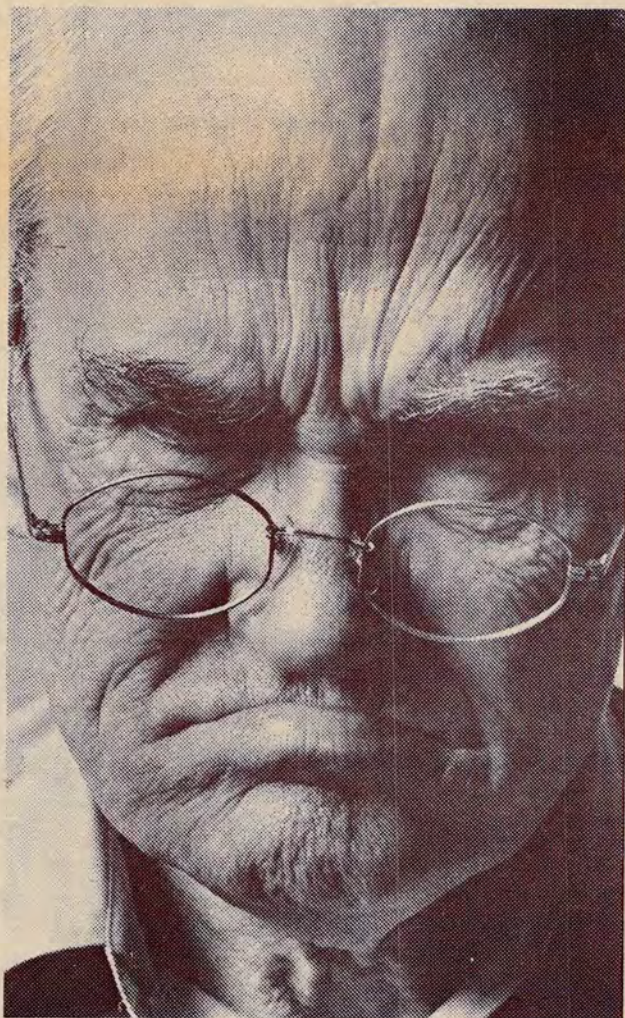

Folven, who has been head wrestling coach at Golden Valley Lutheran for the past three years, will replace Dr. Tim Morrissey as the Toms' mat mentor. Morrissey is quitting the coaching post after directing his team to second-place MIAC finishes the past two seasons (the Toms' best ever). Morrissey will devote full-time attention to his duties as an assistant professor of education at St. Thomas this year.

A native of Austin, Minnesota, Folven is a graduate of Austin High School where he compiled a 89-10-2 wrestling record. He earned sixth and third-place finishes in Minnesota State High School Wrestling Championship action before enrolling at the University of Minnesota in 1970.

Folven saw action in the Big Ten at 167 and 177 pounds in his four seasons with the Gophers. He was graduated in 1974 with a bachelor of arts degree in physical education.

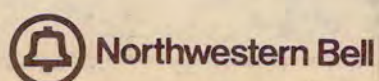

Folven's Golden Valley squads have compiled a 29-14 dual meet record in his three years as coach. In 1977 and 1978 his teams chalked up 13-2 and 13-4 marks, respectively.

Toni Lippert finds out how East meets West in 'Friendship Force' exchange with Berlin

by Roger Fuller

An exchange program between the state of Minnesota and the city of West Berlin recently brought the wife of a German teacher to St. Paul to spend a few days with the George Latimer family, 754 Linwood Ave., and took Toni Lippert, 169 N. Cretin Ave., to West Berlin to visit the home of a German physician.

All were participants in a "Friendship Force" exchange in which 250 West Berliners and 250 Minnesotans swapped native lands for a ten-day period. This was the tenth such exchange between a state and a country since the Friendship Force program was initiated about a year ago.

"As soon as I read about the program in the paper I decided I would try to go," said Mrs. Lippert, who is in charge of the developmental disabilities program for the Metropolitan Council.

According to Frau Bridget Hohn, the Berliner who visited the Latimers, "More than 500 people signed up for the 250 available spaces two days after the trip was announced in West Berlin."

Mrs. Lippert said she didn't know how the selections were made except that they were done on a random basis. "I think they tried to match up people with similar professions, backgrounds, family status, etc.," she said. "I put down that I was a health professional in the field of developmental disabilities. A physician is as close as they could come."

While in Berlin, Mrs. Lippert was not able to observe the programs for handicapped German citizens as she had hoped to do. "But I took a letter from the St. Paul Mayor's Advisory Committee on Handicapped People addressed to the mayor of West Berlin," she said. "They told me they would mail me what information they had."

According to Mrs. Lippert, the Minnesotans who visited Berlin did not find the language barrier much of an obstacle. "Many of the people we met knew English very well," she said. "In the family I visited, the husband spoke no English, but the wife did very well. She was very skilled in languages. In fact, she had lived near the Russian-Chinese border for ten years and knew the languages of both those countries."

The Berliners did not fare as well in Minnesota, where few of their hosts knew German.

"We knew a lady at City Hall who knew German," explained Nancy Latimer. "A few times we called and asked her to translate something. One of our neighbors also knew some German, but most of the time it was just a matter of struggling through."

During their stay in Minnesota, the West Berliners were given extensive sight-seeing tours of the area. They were even able to drop in on the annual German Volksfest festival in Highland Park.

Mrs. Lippert said that the fact that Berlin was a divided city preyed upon the minds of the city's residents. "But when we took a tour of East Berlin, it wasn't nearly as bleak as I'd expected. There were lots of people downtown and lots of cars on the streets. I suppose I noticed the greatest difference was along their main shopping street. It lacked the elegance of the West Berlin shopping center.

"During our tour of East Berlin, we were also exposed to more propaganda than I'd expected," she continued. "The tour guide—an East Berliner—didn't give the usual chamber of commerce pep talk. It went more into advantages of a society living under socialism."

Mrs. Hohn said she had come very close to enjoying those "advantages"—permanently. "We were living in East Berlin until two days before they put up the wall," she said. "My husband said we must leave because too many people were going over to West Berlin. If we did not, he thought something would happen."

On August 11, 1961, Mrs. Hohn, her husband and their two young daughters joined the more than 200,000 people who fled to the west that year. "All we had with us were whatever belongings we could stuff into our suitcases," she said.

Relations between the two Berlins have improved in the past 17 years, according to Mrs. Hohn. At first no West Berliners could visit East Berlin. Then they could visit only on certain holidays.

"Now we can go over 30 times a year, but we must return to West Berlin on the same day," she said. "My mother can come over from East Berlin to visit me anytime because she is over 62. But if I want to see my sister, I must go to East Berlin because she is still in her 40's."

Mrs. Hohn said she was misinformed about Minnesota before she arrived. "I understood this would be a rural area," she said. "I was not ready to see a great metropolitan area. So I could see your farms, your mayor drove me down to Northfield and showed me some corn and wheat fields."

Mrs. Lippert said the high point of her trip was seeing the 5,000-year-old bust of Nefertiti, an Egyptian queen.

"First the East Berliners had the bust along with one of her husband, the king," she said. "Then the West got hold of the queen and the East wants it back."

"To me, it was symbolic of the whole situation in Berlin today."

Trash Art Fair billed as 'the ultimate in recycling'

Rusty rims, sacks of excelsior, super-glued plastic, redecorated radiators and a ton of thing-a-ma-jigs will litter the lawn of Mears Park during a Trash Art Fair to be held from 10:00 a.m. to noon this Saturday, July 29.

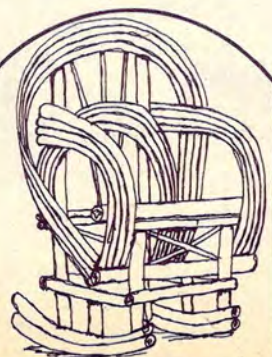

Co-sponsored by the Clean Capitol City Committee, COMPAS, the St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department and the Refuse Haulers Association, the fair will feature the junk art of more than 50 kid-creators.

The entries will be judged by Al Kuhfeld of "Al's Science Shed" at the Science Museum of Minnesota and Bernie Biermann, a certified "garbologist." Trophies will be awarded to the first through third place winners, who will also be the special guests of Allen Lotsberg's "Bugs Bunny and Friends" TV show on Tuesday, August 1.

Any kid who has a work of art he calls junk, or piece of junk he calls art, may enter it in the competition. A trash art workshop, for youngsters who would like to learn about the finer points of junk design, will be conducted by COMPAS artists from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. Wednesday, July 26 at the Merriam Park Community Center, 2000 St. Anthony Ave.

Newsweek story calls him her 'spiritual mentor'

Norman Elliott, local publisher-psychologist recalls Stapleton's 'Farthest Out' retreat

by Robert Gremore

Although he will not claim the honor, Norman Elliott of 1787 Goodrich Avenue is the man whom the July 17 issue of Newsweek dubbed the "spiritual mentor" of Ruth Carter Stapleton, prominent spiritual healer and sister of Jimmy Carter.

Elliott is president of the Macalester Park Publishing Company and Bookstore located at 1571 Grand Avenue. Elliott's father-in-law, Dr. Glenn Clark, founded the firm while serving as professor of English at Macalester College (1912-44).

In the 1930's, Dr. Clark also founded what has become an international network of nondenominational religious retreat centers called Camps Farthest Out. It was while visiting the North Carolina camp as a guest speaker in 1960 that Elliott first met Ruth Carter Stapleton, who had come to the camp seeking emotional and psychological counseling.

Elliott laughs as he recalls his first meeting with Stapleton. As the son-in-law of the camp's founder, he was lionized by all but one of the campers who had gathered to hear him speak.

"There was a young girl there who was good looking," he remembers. "She came up to me, almost spit at me and said, 'I don't care who you are. I don't like you.' I said 'fine.'"

Norman Elliott

When he left the room, she followed him like a harpy, "and oh boy, she was really angry. But she was angry at the world; it wasn't just me. That was Ruth Stapleton."

The camp session lasted about a week, following a daily schedule that included meditation, exercise, arts and crafts, inspirational talks and group prayer. "As we went through the program," Elliott recalls, "she gradually began to sort of melt. Then one night after I got through speaking, she asked if she could see me."

They found a private place and there Stapleton "just unburdened everything," telling Elliott about her psychotherapy and describing her crumbling relationships with her husband and children. Stapleton blamed herself for her problems.

"And then," Elliott says, "she began to tell, in a confessional sort of way, all that she had ever thought and done—and I'm not so sure that she didn't sort of add to it a bit—but she made it just about as bad as she could."

Stapleton's initial hostility and her exaggerated confession did not surprise Elliott, who holds an M.A. in counseling psychology. "There are people who feel the need of being verbally whipped," he explains. Unable to live up to their own expectations, "they want to be told that they are no good and they ought to be ashamed. This kind of gives them the idea that they have paid for their shortcomings."

"It's a form of verbal masochism," Elliott says. "They feel better for awhile, but if you don't get at what the real problem is, they have to come back and get verbally beaten over and over again."

The solution, Elliott claims, is for a person to accept himself as he is and to learn that he is wanted, needed, and loved despite his faults.

"I've always been very thankful for psychology," Elliott says, "in that we were taught not to sit in judgment on anybody. Your job was to get whatever the story was, to get to the bottom of it, and simply to help. I think this is where a lot of these religious counselors miss it, in that they cannot help but sit in judgment."

Stapleton's recovery began when she discovered that there are people who could accept and love her, even after learning about all her previous shortcomings.

Ever since that retreat, Elliott has been one of Stapleton's closest friends. During a visit with Ruth's family several years ago, he met Jimmy Carter. He and Carter spent an afternoon walking in the woods and talking, after which Carter asked Elliott to speak to his bible class at the Plains Baptist Church. Carter impressed Elliott as being a man with a brilliant mind, "sharp as a tack," Elliott recalls, "and a man who was searching for meaning in his own life."

Although he doubts now that Carter would "know me from Adam's goat," Elliott still sees Ruth and her husband often. He says that Stapleton sometimes consults him about her own counseling practice, which developed soon after she left the retreat center in North Carolina.

As her following grew in the mid 1960's, Stapleton assembled some of her talks into a booklet entitled Power Through Release, which the Macalester Park Publishing Company printed long before her best-selling books on "inner healing" appeared. At the same time, Elliott arranged for Stapleton to speak at the Camp Farthest Out retreat center in Arkansas. He believes that "St. Paul has a first in that we were the first to publish Stapleton's writings and the first to see that she got exposure outside her home town."

Since Stapleton has become a prominent healer, Elliott carries more of her books in his shop at Grand and Snelling, where he also displays his own books about the Lord's Prayer and the 23rd Psalm.

"This may sound funny to you," he says, "but I'm not interested so much in religion as I'm interested in reality; truth and reality. Now truth and reality can come packaged in many forms: it can come packaged in chemistry, in social work, in politics, and it may come in religious dress also."

"I think one of the wonderful things about our age is that, in a sense, God has broken out of the prison of religiosity into all areas of living."

In his books and in the talks he gives to various organizations, Elliott encourages his listeners not merely to understand prayer, but to live "so that everyday behavior becomes prayer." Although this teaching appears to be a basis for Stapleton's philosophy of "inner healing," Elliott does not consider himself uniquely gifted as a healer.

"There are all kinds of people who would say that I have prayed for them and they got well," Elliott says, "but I don't consider myself, quote, a healer. I think everybody's a healer. Except over the years we've abdicated this capacity that we all have."

Elliott believes that to regain that capacity, we must accept and think well of ourselves and of others. "Maybe, with an emphasis on right thinking," he says, "we might just find out that we are more than we think we are."

You can lose money by cleaning your own carpet

Here's how: Most do-it-yourself jobs remove surface soil, but don't really clean the ground-in carpet dirt that has started to bond with the carpet fibers.

Restored Commodore may be opened to low-income families

The Metropolitan Council has recommended that federal rent subsidies be provided to tenants of the Commodore Hotel after it is restored.

The use of federal money for the rehabilitation of the hotel, 79 N. Western Ave., is consistent with regional housing plans and policies, according to the council.

A St. Paul development company, Summit Courts, Inc., plans to restore the hotel, which was heavily damaged by an explosion and fire earlier this year, and convert it into an 80-unit apartment building. The project is expected to be completed sometime next year.

Twenty-four of the units would be available to low-income families through federal Section 8 assistance funds. The remaining units will be open to anyone under normal rental agreements.

Under the federal program, eligible occupants will pay no more than 25 percent of their income for rent. The rest of the rent will be paid by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Pet Haven holds open (dog)house

Pet Haven, Inc., a volunteer, non-profit organization which provides food, shelter and necessary veterinary services for needy animals, will hold an open house from noon to 3:00 p.m. Sunday, August 6 at 2409 Edgumbe Rd.

Abandoned, unwanted and homeless dogs will be offered for sale and staff and board members will be on hand to explain pet Haven's animal adoption and spay/neuter programs.

to participate in various Victorian lawn games, and help museum staff make ice cream in the museum's old hand-cranked freezer, fruit toppings on an old wood stove, and lace in the farmhouse parlor.

Ice cream, fruit-topped sundaes, marble cakes, and lemonade will be available for purchase.

The Minnesota Orchestra will present an audio-visual extravaganza, "Music From Outer Space," at 8:00 p.m. this Friday and Saturday, July 28 and 29 in the St. Paul Civic Center Arena. Conductor-arranger Newton Wayland will guest conduct the events.

Sponsored by KSTP radio and television, "Music From Outer Space" will be a spectacular combination of special effects and space music from the films Star Wars, Close Encounters of the Third Kind, and 2001: A Space Odyssey, plus four movements from Holst's "The Planets" and theme music from Star Trek and The Twilight Zone.

The complete 96-member Minnesota Orchestra will perform and all instruments will be amplified over a 360-degree quadrasonic sound system with more than 100 microphones.

company the musical performance, providing an array of visual effect, including a "Star Wars" laser battle. An arsenal of rockets, explosions and a fog machine will supplement the full symphony orchestra, which will be resting on risers and appear to be floating in the dark on a low layer of clouds.

Tickets for the second performance on July 29 are available at the Orchestra Hall box office, 1111 Nicollet Mall, Dayton's ticket offices, and the St. Paul Civic Center box office. The July 28 show is sold out.

Commedia Theater plays in the park Aug. 2 at Hillcrest

At 7:00 p.m. Wednesday, August 2 a brightly colored bus will pull up to the Hillcrest Recreation Center. Its contents, the actors, artists, jugglers, mimes and musicians of the Commedia Theater Company will be in the neighborhood to present, in complete 19th-century setting, Chekhov's The Marriage Proposal, a comedy for the whole family to enjoy.

The Commedia Theater Company combines the written play with improvised comedy, ad libs and fast slapstick action as company members explore the many ways of taking a play to an audience. Or, as Artistic Director Jason McLean says: "Erasing the lines between the audience and the performer without smudging the play."

The Commedia Theater Company, in its four seasons, has become one of the most popular outdoor theaters in the Midwest. This year the Minneapolis based company will bring the three plays of their repertoire to over 50 communities in five states and Canada. The visit to Hillcrest is sponsored by COMPAS and the St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department.

'Astrologer' stars in showcase production

Commedia '78's showcase production, The Astrologer, will be on stage at 7:00 p.m. Thursday, August 3 at Langford Park, 98 Langford St., and at 7:00 p.m. Monday, August 7 at Martin Luther King Center, Marshall and Kent St.

Co-sponsored by COMPAS and the St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department, The Astrologer was written and directed by Minneapolis playwright Nelson King to make maximum use of Commedia's audience involvement techniques and improvisational skills.

Using live music, colorful costumes and lots of comic action, The Astrologer recreates the vitality of Renaissance comedy in a version adapted for modern audiences. Both performances are open to the public free of charge.

A hootin' and hollerin' good time is guaranteed when local 4-H members roll out their "Ramblin' Rawhide Revue" at the Ramsey County State Fair, July 26-30. Performers from this area, all members of the Happy Highlanders 4-H Club, are (left to right): Anne Halgren, 2160 Eleanor Ave., Tim McCarte, 1247 St. Paul Ave.; and Jeff Holisak, 2125 Highland Pkwy. ## Move over Jack: ABC sets standard for All-American girl Jacqueline Armstrong, the All-American girl? It could be a reality late this fall when 45 finalists in a nationwide competition appear in The All-American Girl, a live, two-hour telecast on ABC.

Another in a long list of "competition" shows spewing from the fatuous minds in TV land, the All-American Girl promises to have all the glamour and rhinestone-studded glitter those minds feel they need for success.

The All-American Girl is a competition for the young, active, aware American woman" says Bob Stivers, executive producer and creator of the show.

In what appears to be an appeasement to feminists who object to the Miss USA and Miss America contests, Stivers says The All-American Girl is not likely to be a classic beauty, a model or an actress. "Our contestants will be judged on the basis of athletic interests and abilities, grace and coordination, character, appearance, personality, dress and general demeanor," he said.

Locally, entry forms for the All-American Girl Competition are available at 1821 University Ave., suite #387 (645-1667). The regional competition will be held throughout the summer.

Athletics serves as the coordinating category for the competition. Entries in the regional competition must demonstrate a certain interest or proficiency in one of nine sports categories: skateboarding, ice skating, roller skating, synchronized swimming, diving, gymnastics, baton twirling, water skiing and tennis.

Following a three-step elimination process, nine women in each region—one in each athletic category—will be selected as regional winners, eligible for the national semi-finals.

After one more judging procedure, 45 women—five in each of nine sports categories—will appear on the ABC-TV national finals this fall where a panel of celebrity judges will select the winner, awarding her $25,000 plus several appearances on TV shows.

The five judging categories will be athletic ability, personality projection, disco dancing, fashion coordination and appearance.

Stivers says, "The All-American Girl is simply, a woman any one of us would be proud to have as a wife, friend, daughter, sister or working associate."

Who, after all, could be proud of a girl who couldn't disco dance?

The Realty World Home Protection Plan.

It takes "What if..." out of selling or buying a home.

When preparing to sell a home, it pays to put yourself in the buyer's place.

"What if the water heater fails?" "What if the plumbing goes bad?" Home sellers and buyers alike need never again ask, "What if..." when protected by the Realty World Home Protection Plan.

What it means to the home buyer.

Now, thanks to the Realty World Home Protection Plan, buyers of resale homes can have the same kind of protection from potentially disastrous repair bills that was once available only to new home buyers.

Under the plan—regardless of the age or condition of the home—Realty World protects for one year, the entire electrical and heating systems, central air conditioning, hot water heater, ductwork, plumbing and certain built-in and free-standing appliances.

So, when buyers see the "Home Protection Plan" attached to the familiar Realty World yard sign, they know that all of these vital systems and appliances are covered for one year from the date of purchase.

When something goes wrong, the home owner simply calls a special toll-free number, with operators on duty 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

What it means to the seller.

To home sellers, the Realty World Home Protection Plan represents "peace of mind" for themselves—as well as for the buyers. The coverage applies to the seller from 15 days after he purchases the policy, and protects him for the entire time the house is on the market. Because the decision to buy comes faster and easier if the buyer feels secure—the Realty World Home Protection Plan may speed the sale and save the seller time and money.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

'Ask first. . . you can always get tough'

A night on the town with St. Paul Police Team B-4

by Paul Schollmeier

Our squad car turned slowly into the dark parking lot at Ford Parkway and Snelling. Suddenly, our spotlight threw the empty Chevrolet into relief. Beside the Chevrolet was the abandoned case of beer; beside the beer, the forlorn Frisbee.

Our bullhorn crackled momentarily as it was switched on, then it blared: "Will the owner of the turquoise Chevy please come down from the reservoir and claim your beer... if you are of age."

Officer Bob Olson turned to me and smiled. I was participating in the Ride-Along Program of the St. Paul Police Department, assigned to ride with Olson in Highland Park on Saturday night, July 13.

The Ride-Along Program began in 1972; its purpose is to give citizens an opportunity to gain a better understanding of police work by observing officers on patrol. Anyone of legal age is eligible to ride along.

"Car 435," the dispatcher called over the squad car radio, "1405 Edgumbe Road. Burglar alarm."

"Car 435. Stewart and Wheeler," Olson responded.

"Most burglar alarms are set off either by the owners themselves or by malfunctions," Olson said as we sped off. "We have a lot of false alarms now that people are so security conscious. But we respond to every one because some alarms are genuine."

Olson is a 15-year veteran of the police department. He has been assigned to Highland Park for the past 10 years. Previously, he worked in the Selby-Dale, East Side and Battle Creek areas.

Someone was looking out from behind the curtain of the house on Edgumbe when our car pulled up. As we walked up to the house, the door opened cautiously and a man stepped out.

"Our neighbors are on vacation" he said. "And my son is watching the house for them. My daughter came over to check on the house tonight, but she didn't know about the alarm."

Most of the participants in the Ride-Along Program are citizens interested in law enforcement, according to Sgt. Richard Iffert, director of volunteer services for the department. They are usually Neighborhood Assistance Officers, reserve officers, parole officers, prison guards or law students.

"The program has been very successful," Iffert said. "Citizens often feel that officers merely harass drivers, but after riding-along, they discover that we do many things for them, such as protecting them against burglaries."

After we checked out the false alarm, we patrolled Hidden Falls Park, Crosby Lake Park, and the River Road. By maintaining visibility in these areas, officers discourage any big beer busts before they get started, according to Olson.

Unlike the other police teams in St. Paul, the officers on Team B-4 patrol alone in their squad cars. However, when responding to a call, they are backed up by an officer in another car. Usually, an officer close to the address of the call volunteers for the backup, but if no one happens to volunteer, the dispatcher will assign someone.

"There's a traffic violation," Olson said, as we started after a car with only one tail light and no license plate. We stopped the car near the entrance to Crosby Lake Park. Four young men were in the car, and they had open bottles of beer.

"Your passengers have open bottles," Olson said to the driver.

"They're not drinking," is the reply.

"That doesn't matter," Olson said. "You're responsible for them."

Olson made them pour out their beer, checked their ID's and ages, and wrote their names down in a notebook. He then reprimanded the driver and ticketed him for not having a tail light.

"Sometimes I think I go too easy on these kids," he said. "But I've got their names down, and the driver lives in this area. If I pick them up again this summer, it'll go a lot harder on them."

We then patrolled the parking lots at Casey's, and at The Libation Station on West 7th St.

"You can pretty well tell how busy we will be later tonight by the number of cars parked in front of these bars," Olson said. "Things look quieter than usual tonight."

"Car 435. Wellesley and Kenneth DOB's," the dispatcher called.

"Car 435. Snelling and Hartford," Olson responded.

"DOB's are disorderly boys," he explained. "We also have DOG's."

When we arrived, we discovered a party that had spread out of a house near the corner and into the street. Olson advised the parents in charge to move the party into the back yard and to turn down their stereo set.

I asked Olson if he thought young people were less well behaved today than they were when he first started on the force.

"No, but it's a lot harder to control them now than before because everyone is more conscious of their rights," he said. "Before, it was easier to put the fear of the Lord in them; now we have to be more tactful."

"But I'm not against greater respect for rights," he was quick to add. "If you come into a situation real hard-nosed and then discover you've made a mistake, you have no place to go. It's embarrassing and difficult to back down."

"But if you ask for an explanation first and you don't meet with cooperation, you can always get tough."

As we headed toward the station house at the end of Olson's shift, we heard another car call a traffic violation into the dispatcher—no tail lights and no license plate displayed. The officer had stopped the car on Shepard Road near Crosby Lake.

"Probably the same characters we stopped," Olson said. "If they don't learn their lesson tonight, they never will."

Mid America State Bank of Highland offers

a special opportunity to eligible Minnesotans who do not now have

Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection.

Membership subject to enrollment regulations:

- ★ Regardless of past or present health conditions
- ★ Regardless of age
- ★ And with automatic payment of dues from your checking or savings account.

Limited enrollment period . . . August 1 to August 31.

---

Blue Cross and Blue Shield . . . working together for your well-being.
of Minnesota

A Blue Cross-Blue Shield representative will be in the bank lobby each day from August 1 to 4, and each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from August 7 to 30, to answer your questions and to assist you in completing applications. Our own Highland Insurance Agency personnel will also be available throughout the month for that purpose.

No health statement will be required during the August 1 to 31 enrollment period, and you are guaranteed policy coverage. New applicants, however, will be subject to a waiting period for known pre-existing conditions. In many cases, premium costs will be lower and coverage more extensive within this "group" than if an individual sought to obtain comparable insurance outside of a group plan. A supplement to Federal Medicare for applicants over 65 years of age will also be available. After August 31, applications will still be accepted, but will be subject to a health questionnaire.
