Josh Groban and Sarah Bareilles co-host the 72nd Annual Tony Awards

Broadway's best!

Broadway goes primetime with the 72nd Annual Tony Awards. Musicians Sara Bareilles ("The Sing-Off") and Josh Groban ("Crazy, Stupid, Love," 2011) will celebrate outstanding achievements in theater as they co-host the event, which will be broadcast live from New York's legendary Radio City Music Hall. As always, the ceremony will include a number of musical performances from the year's finest productions. Join in on the celebration when the 72nd Annual Tony Awards airs Sunday, June 10 on CBS.

Broadway stars shine at the Tony Awards

By Kyla Brewer

Whether you're sitting in a crowded grade school gymnasium or in the velvet seats of a posh playhouse, there's nothing quite like live theater. Every year, millions of eager spectators flock to Broadway to take in a show. Now the stars of those shows are ready to gather and celebrate their accomplishments. Sara Bareilles ("The Sing-Off") and Josh Groban ("Crazy, Stupid, Love," 2011) will honor the best of Broadway as they co-host the 72nd Annual Tony Awards, airing Sunday, June 10, on CBS.

Established in 1947 in honor of Antoinette "Tony" Perry, a co-founder of the American Theatre Wing, the awards celebrate outstanding achievement in Broadway productions and performances, as well as regional theater. There are also non-competitive awards, such as the Special Tony Award for Lifetime Achievement in the Theatre, which this year will go to both Andrew Lloyd Webber ("The Phantom of the Opera") and Chita Rivera ("The Mystery of Edwin Drood").

Seasoned musicians Groban and Bareilles may be relatively fresh faces on the Broadway scene, but they've quickly made their mark, making them the perfect co-hosts for this year's event. Bareilles composed the music and wrote the lyrics for the hit musical "Waitress," a gig that earned her a Tony nomination for Best Original Score in 2016. Groban made his debut in "Natasha, Pierre & the Great Comet of 1812" on the Great White Way in 2016, which earned him a 2017 Tony nomination for Best Actor in a Musical. Both performers expressed their excitement to be hosting this year's Tonys in an official CBS release.

"The theater has completely transformed my life in every way possible," Bareilles said. "I feel incredibly lucky to get to spend an evening celebrating and applauding this outstanding collective of artists, friends, collaborators and creatives."

She and Groban welcome performers and those who work behind the scenes on a variety of productions, from gritty dramas to lighthearted musicals. This year's list of nominees include theatrical classics, musical revivals, comedies and productions based on a television show, a movie and a book. Nominees in the coveted Best Play category are "The Children," "Farinelli and the King," "Harry Potter and the Cursed Child, Parts One and Two," "Junk" and "Latin History for Morons."

Perhaps the biggest surprise on Broadway this year has been the success and acclaim of the initially underestimated "SpongeBob SquarePants: The Musical." Based on the popular Nickelodeon animated series, the Broadway production gained nominations in 12 categories, including one for Best Musical. The show is tied for the top spot with "Mean Girls," which also earned 12 nominations for its take on Tina Fey's ("Saturday Night Live") 2004 big-screen comedy of the same name. Like "SpongeBob," "Mean Girls" is up for Best Musical, a category that also includes "The Band's Visit" and the stage adaptation of the film "Frozen."

"The Band's Visit" has secured 11 nominations and stars Tony Shalhoub ("Monk") in the story of an Egyptian police band that ends up in a remote desert village. The revival of Tony Kushner's "Angels in America" has earned 11 nominations also, notably star Andrew Garfield ("The Amazing Spider-Man," 2012) for Best Performance by an Actor in a Leading Role in a Play and Broadway stalwart Nathan Lane ("The Birdcage," 1996) for Best Performance by an Actor in a Featured Role in a Play. It's been a good year for revivals as the latest production of "Rodgers & Hammerstein's Carousel" is up for 11 nominations, including being against the classic "My Fair Lady" and original '90s hit "Once on This Island" in the Best Revival of a Musical category.

Other notable awards include the aforementioned Lifetime Achievement Awards for Lloyd Webber and Rivera, as well as a Special Tony Award for John Leguizamo ("Moulin Rouge!," 2001) for his commitment to theater and his body of work, which includes his one-man show "Latin History for Morons." Bruce Springsteen will receive a Special Tony Award as well for "Springsteen on Broadway." This year's Regional Theatre Tony Awards will go to La MaMa E.T.C. of New York City. The Isabelle Stevenson Tony Award for volunteer time and effort on behalf of a charitable organization will be awarded to Nick Scandalios from the Netherlander Organization for LGBTQ advocacy. Theater photographer Sara Krulwich, costume beader Bessie Nelson and dry cleaning company Ernest Winzer Cleaners will all receive Tony Honors for Excellence in Theatre. A full list of nominees is available online at www.tonyawards.com.

With such a stellar list of nominees and dynamic duo Bareilles and Groban on deck to host, theater fans won't want to miss this year's Tony Awards. Last year's broadcast was nominated for four Emmys and won the award for Outstanding Special Class Program. The show has been so successful for the network that CBS recently inked a deal to continue broadcasting the Tonys through to 2026.

In an age of almost limitless screens, theater is a unique and cherished experience for many. Contrary to what you might think, the prevalence of easy-to-access, stay-at-home entertainment like videogames, streaming services and apps haven't diminished the allure of Broadway for theater fans. In fact, attendance has been up and holding steady for the past few years. Celebrate the magic of the stage by tuning into The 72nd Annual Tony Awards, airing Sunday, June 10, on CBS.

Video releases

Tomb Raider

Following her wealthy father's disappearance and presumed death, Lara Croft (Vikander) reluctantly claims her inheritance. While searching her father's office, she comes across a video message he's left for her that explains his research, and she decides to follow in his footsteps. Pursuing the findings of his research on a mythical Japanese queen, Lara finds herself shipwrecked on a remote island. There, she encounters a group of men claiming to have murdered her father in order to obtain his research, which they hope will lead them to a powerful and supernatural weapon said to be on the island. Managing to escape, Lara sets off across the island, hoping to locate the queen's tomb and stop the villainous group from acquiring the deadly power contained within.

Director: Roar Uthaug. Stars: Alicia Vikander, Dominic West, Walton Goggins, Daniel Wu, Kristin Scott Thomas. 2018. 118 min. Action.

Love, Simon

When someone at his high school using the pseudonym "Blue" anonymously comes out as gay online, Simon (Robinson) eagerly contacts him while continuing to hide his own identity. The two find themselves bonding over their shared sexuality, but neither is yet willing to come out publicly, even to each other. When Martin (Miller), another student, finds Simon's emails with "Blue," he blackmails him, threatening to make the truth public unless Simon is willing to set him up with his friend Abby (Shipp), on whom Martin has a crush.

Director: Greg Berlanti. Stars: Nick Robinson, Jennifer Garner, Josh Duhamel, Alexandra Shipp, Logan Miller, Keiynan Lonsdale, Katherine Langford. 2018. 110 min. Comedy.

Sherlock Gnomes

When all of the other gnomes go missing from their garden home, Gnomeo (McAvoy) and Juliet (Blunt) team up with legendary detective Sherlock Gnomes (Depp) and his loyal companion Gnome Watson (Ejiofor) to track them down and rescue them. When their investigation reveals that Sherlock's presumed-dead nemesis Moriarty (Demetriou) is very much alive and behind the abduction of most of London's garden gnomes, the investigation's stakes become higher than ever.

Director: John Stevenson. Stars: Emily Blunt, James McAvoy, Johnny Depp, Chiwetel Ejiofor, Jamie Demetriou, Michael Caine, Mary J. Blige. 2018. 86 min. Animation.

'Food Network Star' kicks off its latest season

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

A lot of people can cook well, but few have what it takes to effortlessly host a TV show. But to be a skilled chef who has the drive, camera presence and charisma to pull off a Food Network series? Well, that kind of combination only belongs to a real Food Network star.

The 14th season of "Food Network Star" premieres on — you guessed it, Food Network — on Sunday, June 10. Food Network royalty Bobby Flay ("Beat Bobby Flay") and Giada De Laurentiis ("Giada at Home") are back for the nine-episode season in which 10 culinary hopefuls take a shot at Food Network stardom and try to earn their own TV series.

It isn't such a far-fetched dream to have. Guy Fieri, one of the most prolific Food Network personalities, won the second season of the competition, and season 7 winner Jeff Mauro currently co-hosts "The Kitchen" on Saturday mornings. Other winners have gone on to host various series and specials, and many of them continue to appear in a variety of Food Network shows.

In this week's premiere, the contestants meet up with Bobby and Giada at Universal Orlando Resort's Volcano Bay, where they're tasked with transforming their signature dishes into portable treats to serve up to the park's hungry guests. Giada and Bobby aren't just looking for great food and culinary instincts, though that's obviously quite important. After all, this isn't just a cooking competition: it's also a job interview. With camera crews everywhere, the TV neophytes are definitely out of their element; some take to being on camera like it's second nature, while others struggle under the spotlight.

That's really what makes "Food Network Star" different from the other competitions on Food Network. The cooking itself is important, but there are so many other skills that Bobby and Giada are additionally looking for. As the hopefuls get eliminated episode by episode, the stakes only get higher for those that remain — and with a Food Network show up for grabs as the ultimate prize for the winner, those stakes are very high, indeed.

"Food Network Star" hosts Giada De Laurentiis and Bobby Flay

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: When does the new season of “Major Crimes” start? I have not been able to find any information about the regular season.

A: This is a little awkward. There’s a simple reason you can’t find any information about the next season of “Major Crimes”: there won’t be one.

The TNT procedural series — which started as a spinoff of the network’s popular series “The Closer” but became a long-running, established hit in its own right — ended earlier this year after six seasons on the network.

It went out with a bang, too. I won’t give it away here, but there was a pretty shocking twist toward the end of the show’s final season that would have made it pretty hard to continue.

But there was never any talk of continuing. TNT announced before the sixth season began that it would be the last. The writers, given this advance notice, made the most of the freedom that comes from knowing this was the end. Not only did it allow them to write a proper ending to the show’s storylines and characters, but it gave them the freedom to write big, irreversible events like that thing I’m not talking about — in short, to write whatever they wanted, without having to deal with plot consequences.

“We wanted to give viewers a chance to mourn with us as we fade to black — a chance to grieve the show and to accept that the show is over, that the show has ceased,” series creator James Duff told Entertainment Weekly.

In an interview with Variety magazine, series star Mary McDonnell praised Duff for the boldness of the final season’s writing. “For himself and for the fans, he wanted to have some control over how the show ended and what kind of story he brought to his final season.”

Q: Is “Berlin Station” coming back for a third season? It’s been gone for a while now and I’m getting worried.

A: Your concerns are quite a bit premature. “Berlin Station” has, in fact, been renewed for a third season. And it hasn’t even been gone for all that long.

The second season ended in December, but its seasons are quite short, so that one had only premiered in October. We still have a fair bit of time before the third season can be considered late.

According to the news release announcing the season 3 renewal, the folks at Epix, the cable channel that produces the show, are pretty big on “Berlin Station.”

“This past season was timely, significant, and almost eerily prescient in its mirroring of real-life events this year, and we are looking forward to working with the talented teams at Paramount TV and Anonymous Content on another installment,” said Jocelyn Diaz, the channel’s executive vice-president of original programming (“Berlin Station” was one of the channel’s early forays into producing its own content).

She has a point — the second season tackled a storyline about neo-Nazism, which is currently a big issue in Europe and elsewhere. And the first season was all about a whistleblower leaking CIA secrets, which was pretty timely as well.

Fox
MasterChef

Chef Gordon Ramsay puts on an apron and shows the home cooks the best way to break down a crab in a new episode of “MasterChef,” airing Wednesday, June 13 on Fox. Once the lesson from the culinary icon is complete, the contestants have to replicate the delicate task in this season’s first skills test.
