Family of heroes

Mutants band together in 'The Gifted'

By Kyla Brewer

elevision fans have long been fascinated with superheroes. Superman (George Reeves) flew onto the small screen in the 1950s, and Adam West's Batman "batusied" in the campy TV series of the same name in 1966. Lynda Carter ruled the airwaves as Wonder Woman in the 1970s, and the fun has continued since then.

A new kind of super-powered TV character emerges as Natalie Alyn Lind ("The Goldbergs") and Percy Hynes White ("Night at the Museum: Secret of the Tomb," 2014) star as Lauren and Andy Strucker, teenage siblings with special abilities, in the latest comic book-themed series to hit the airwaves: "The Gifted," airing Monday, Oct. 23, on Fox. Set in Marvel's comic and cinematic X-Men universe, the series follows the sister and brother who, along with their parents, struggle to evade nefarious forces.

In an interview with Entertainment Weekly, creator Matt Nix ("Burn Notice") explained why he chose to focus the series on a single family:

We really get to see the development of powers and perspectives," Nix said, "and we give audiences who maybe aren't really familiar with the X-Men a window into this world."

The Struckers' adventure began when parents Reed (Stephen Moyer, "True Blood") and Caitlin (Amy Acker, "Person of Interest") discovered that their children possess mutant powers. This was especially shocking considering the fact that Reed worked as a district attorney who specialized in prosecuting much-maligned mutants. Desperate to protect their children and keep their family together, Reed and Caitlin seek help from an underground network of mutants as they go on the run from a hostile government.

The mutants in the new Fox drama include characters from the comics and films, as well as brand-new mutants. For those familiar with the 2014 movie "X-Men: Days of Future Past." Blink needs no introduction. Also known as Clarice Fong, teleport-ing mutant Blink is portrayed by Fan Bingbing in the big-screen hit, but the role is played by Jamie Chung ("Once Upon a Time") in "The Gifted."

Emma Dumont ("Aquarius") stars as Polaris/Lorna Dane, a loyal mutant with the ability to control magnetism. In the X-Men comic universe, Polaris is Magneto's daughter, and Nix recently confirmed in an interview with CBR.com that would be the case in "The Gifted."

Nix also pulled Thunderbird/ John Proudstar from the comics, and he's played by Blair Redford ("The Young and the Restless") in Fox's action adventure. A Native American with superhuman athletic ability, the character serves as the leader of the mutant resistance.

In contrast, Eclipse/Marcos Diaz was created specifically for "The Gifted." British actor Sean Teale ("Reign") tackles the role of the rebellious mutant who can absorb and manipulate photons. Likewise, Special Agent Jace Turner is original to the Fox series, not the Marvel X-Men universe. Coby Bell ("Third Watch") stars as Turner, a human who has worked for Sentinel Services ever since his daughter died during a mutant-related incident.

Produced by 20th Century Fox in association with Marvel Television, the show about super-powered mutants features some heavy hitters behind the scenes, beginning with Nix as showrunner and executive producer. Other executive producers include Bryan Singer, Lauren Shuler Donner and Simon Kinberg, who all worked on at least one of the X-Men franchise movies. Marvel's Jeph Loeb ("Lost") and Jim Chory ("Daredevil") are also on board as executive producers.

Loeb and Chory share a connection to a similarly themed series: NBC's now defunct "Heroes," which also featured a storyline with a super-powered teenage girl whose father works for an organization dedicated to keeping people like her in line. Like many other superhero series, including "The Gifted," those who are seen as different are seen as dangerous, leading to them being marginalized.

Interestingly, "The Gifted" can also be compared to many other popular current shows as well. Superheroes abound in prime time right now, with CW's "Supergirl, "The Flash," "Arrow" and "DC's Legends of Tomorrow," as well as "Marvel's Inhumans" and "Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D." on ABC. Meanwhile, villains steal the spotlight in Fox's "Gotham." Streaming services have also gotten in on the act with Netflix's "Daredevil," "Jessica Jones" and "Luke Cage" among others, and Hulu's upcoming "Marvel's Runaways" is about to drop in November. All of this indi-With so much cates there's a big market for comic book-inspired tele-23, on Fox. vision, which bodes well for "The Gifted." "The Gifted" competition out there, Fox has done its best to put the series at the forefront of people's minds. The network created a buzz in September by installing a vending machine at The Grove in Los Angeles, Calif., that invited consumers to "Unleash [Their] Power" by using "telekinesis" to lift the vending machine. Fans were treated to a special screening in L.A. in September as well, and the Fox.com/ thegifted website features a number of Mutant Profiles so viewers could familiarize themselves with the characters. Thanks to the success of such Marvel franchises as X-Men, Iron Man, The Avengers and Spider-Man on the big screen, the entertainment giant is having a big moment right now. Find out if producers can bring that excitement to its latest family adventure as Reed and Caitlin Strucker fight to keep their mutant children Lauren and Andy safe in a new episode of "The Gifted," airing Monday, Oct.

Stephen Moyer stars in War for the Planet of the Apes

Caesar (Serkis) and his clan of intelligent apes come under attack from a paramilitary organization led by a man known only as The Colonel (Harrelson). When they find a safe haven where they hope to live their lives in peace, the apes prepare to make the arduous journey there, but before they can set out, The Colonel and his forces strike, killing Caesar's loved ones and driving him to embrace the more violent impulses that he'd thought he'd left behind. Director: Matt Reeves. Stars: Andy Serkis, Woody Harrelson, Steve Zahn, Karin Konoval, Amiah Miller, Terry Notary, Ty Olsson. 2017. 140 min. Action.

Annabelle: Creation

Possessed doll Annabelle's origins are finally revealed. Twelve years after their daughter died, dollmaker Samuel Mullins (LaPaglia) and his wife, Esther (Otto), open their home and take in six orphan girls and the nun who looks after them (Sigman). Although they have been warned that they must never enter their daughter's old bedroom, one of the girls is lured into it by a strange noise and a cryptic note, unknowingly releasing the demon that Samuel and Esther had kept trapped in there since shortly after their daughter's death. Director: David F. Sandberg. Stars: Anthony LaPaglia, Samara Lee, Miranda Otto, Stephanie Sigman, Brad Greenauist, 2017, 109 min. Horror.

The Emoji Movie

When Alex's (Austin) phone appears to malfunction by sending a garbled emoji in a text to the girl that he likes, he suspects that his device is malfunctioning. In truth, the emojis are actual characters living inside a digital city in his phone, and Gene (T.J. Miller), the malfunctioning emoji, has already been targeted for deletion by the other emoiis due to his ability to make multiple expressions. Gene goes on the run through the phone's many apps, teaming up with Hi-5 (Corden) and Jailbreak (Faris), two other outcast emojis, in an attempt to escape to the digital cloud.

Director: Tony Leondis. Stars: T.J. Miller, James Corden, Jake T. Austin, Anna Faris, Maya Rudolph, Steven Wright, Patrick Stewart, Jennifer Coolidge, Christina Aguilera. 2017. 86 min. Animation.

oes an apple a day really keep the doctor away? Just how Irish is corned beef anyways? There are so many idioms, stories and sayings about all sorts of everyday foods that it can be all but impossible to sort out the true from the false when it comes to the food we eat.

That's where acclaimed actor Michael McKean comes in. The "Better Call Saul" star is on a fact-finding mission in "Food: Fact or Fiction?," digging into the everyday foods we eat to figure out what's true and what's not, while coming across fascinating stories along the way. A new season of the culinary series premieres Sunday, Oct. 22, on Cooking Channel with a look at some holiday classics.

First up is Halloween, with McKean searching for the origins of the tradition of handing out candy — but what he finds is that we really should be giving out cake, instead. Then, Valentine's Day comes early as our host investigates cute little candy hearts and discovers that they used to be used as medicine. Finally, he checks out St. Patrick's Day, and what could be more Irish than delicious corned beef ... right?

Sometimes when watching "Food: Fact or Fiction?," it can seem like there isn't a single food out there that doesn't have an interesting story behind it. As the season continues, McKean peels back the mystery surrounding all sorts of eats. He investigates how a food's shape can actually transform how it tastes, discovers that a loud noise can land someone in burger heaven and, with his friend, actor Joe Mantegna ("Criminal Minds"), learns how a delicious Italian Beef once had the potential to bring some cops knocking.

Every food has a story, and McKean has a lot of fun exploring as many as he can. A new season of the ever informative "Food: Fact or Fiction?" premieres Sunday, Oct. 22, on Cooking Channel.

By Adam Thomlison TV Media

Q: What can you tell me about the sequel to "Creed"? They are making one, right?

A: The rumor mill's been pretty active about a sequel to the award-winning 2015 film "Creed," which was itself a sequel to the many Rocky movies that came before it. The main person feeding these rumors has been Rocky himself, Sylvester Stallone.

I'll start by saying that yes,
"Creed II" (it seems they're sticking with the Roman-numeric system, much like the original Rocky films) is pretty definitely happening. It's currently in the development stage, with an estimated release of late 2018

We know it's happening because Stallone keeps broadly hinting at it, mostly on social media. The biggest piece of evidence we have is a photograph he posted to Instagram of his "Creed II" notebook (as well as being the star, Stallone is also the writer).

As I say, that's a pretty broad hint. But there was a more subtle hint built in there: He tagged the photo "#drago." Fans of the series know that's the name of his Russian adversary in 1985's "Rocky IV," played by Stallone's fellow bodybuilding action star Dolph Lundgren.

Lundgren has since (basically) confirmed he'll play a role in the new film, again via Instagram, posting footage of himself working out on a punching bag with the caption, "Getting ready for something big," tagging it "Creed2" and "IvanDrago."

"Creed" is about the son of another character from the old films, Apollo Creed, training to follow in his dad's footsteps, so perhaps we'll see the same in the new film. That offers all sorts of story potential since (spoiler for a 32-year-old movie) Drago kills Apollo in the ring. Could the younger Creed seek out Drago, or even his own son, for a little ring-based revenge?

"Creed" attempts a more realistic, less melodramatic, representation of the boxing world, which makes that rather soapy plotline seem less likely, but it's all speculation at this point.

Q: I'm trying to find the movie in which a mentally challenged woman and man fall in love, but both their families oppose the relationship. I think it had Diane Keaton.

A: You're looking for "The Other Sister" (1999), in which the great Diane Keaton plays the mother of the girl in love (played by Juliette Lewis).

The title of the film refers to the fact that Lewis's character, Carla, generally feels like the less-favored child in her family. In the film, Carla's whole story arc, in which she seeks independence and eventually finds love, plays out while her family (especially her somewhat distant mother) is wrapped up in planning her older sister's wedding.

This all sounds a little heavy, but it was actually a romantic comedy, helped along by the legendarily light touch of romcom director Garry Marshall, who also wrote the script. Marshall is probably best known for a little movie he did in 1990 called "Pretty Woman" (or maybe for 1988's "Beaches," or for the TV show "Happy Days" — the list goes on).
