Jimmy Kimmel hosts
the 90th Annual
Academy Awards

Glitz and glam

The biggest celebration in filmmaking returns with the 90th Annual Academy Awards, airing Sunday, March 4, on ABC. Every year, the most glamorous people in Hollywood stroll down the red carpet, hoping to take home that shiny Oscar for best film, director, lead actor or actress and supporting actor or actress. Jimmy Kimmel returns to host again this year, in spite of last year's Best Picture snafu.

Oscars roll out the red carpet for star quality

By Sarah Jamieson
TV Media

Millions of movie lovers and entertainment professionals tune in to the Oscars each year, cheering on the year's achievements in filmmaking. The 90th Annual Academy Awards, hosted once more by Jimmy Kimmel ("Jimmy Kimmel Live!"), airs live on ABC on Sunday, March 4.

Though the 89th Academy Awards ceremony is a whole year gone, no one has forgotten the Best Picture incident, when "La La Land" was mistakenly announced as the winner of the coveted award. The error was quickly corrected and "Moonlight" received the Oscar as due, but the blunder is now infamous. The snafu haunts Kimmel to this day — a promo video shows his nightmares and sudden phobia of envelopes.

Nevertheless, ABC Entertainment president Channing Dungey has great faith in bringing back Kimmel to host the event for a second time. "After just one year, we can't imagine anyone else hosting the Oscars," he said in a statement. "Jimmy's skillful command of the stage is invaluable on a night when anything can happen — and does."

This year, "The Shape of Water" leads the pack with 13 nominations: Best Director (Guillermo del Toro), Best Cinematography (Dan Laustsen), Best Lead Actress (Sally Hawkins), Best Supporting Actress (Olivia Spencer) and Best Supporting Actor (Richard Jenkins). It's also competing with "Dunkirk," "Lady Bird," "Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri," "Call Me by Your Name," "Darkest Hour," "Phantom Thread," "The Post" and "Get Out" for Best Picture.

The second out of the gate is "Dunkirk." It's up for awards in directing (Christopher Nolan), production design and sound editing, among others. Nolan is competing with Paul Thomas Anderson's "Phantom Thread," Greta Gerwig's "Lady Bird" and Jordan Peele's "Get Out" for Best Director. Peele is the fifth black director nominated for the award, and Gerwig is the fifth woman.

"Dunkirk" is also going up against "Star Wars: The Last Jedi" and "Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri" for Best Original Score. It won't be an easy win against John Williams, who scored "The Last Jedi" — the composer could fill an orchestra pit with the awards he's won.

Netflix has already made Academy Award history as the first streaming service to land eight nominations, including four for its feature film "Mudbound." Mary J. Blige has gotten a nod for her performance as an actress in a supporting role. She's up against Laurie Metcalf in "Lady Bird," Leslie Manville in "Phantom Thread" and Alison Janney in "I, Tonya."

"Mudbound" also shares another milestone: the first nomination of a woman for achievement in cinematography for Rachel Morrison, who's up against "Darkest Hour," "Dunkirk,"

"The Shape of Water" and "Blade Runner 2049." Though Netflix has yet to completely win over the Academy with the Best Picture nomination (like Amazon's nomination for "Manchester By the Sea" last year), the platform is gaining momentum. It was nominated twice for Best Documentary Feature ("Icarus" and "Strong Island") this year.

"Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri" got seven nods, including one for leading actress Frances McDormand. Her biggest competition is Saoirse Ronan for "Lady Bird." "Three Billboards" also garnered a double nomination for Best Actor in a Supporting Role for Woody Harrelson and Sam Rockwell. Willem Dafoe joins them for the supporting actor nomination for his role in "The Florida Project." "Three Billboards" is also competing with "Lady Bird" for

Best Original Screenplay, along with "The Big Sick," "Get Out" and "The Shape of Water."

Denzel Washington has another nomination this year for his leading role in "Roman J. Israel, Esq." He's going head to head with Gary Oldman for "Darkest Hour," Daniel Kaluuya in "Get Out," Timothée Chalamet in "Call Me by Your Name" and Daniel Day-Lewis in "Phantom Thread."

The host joked that there were some snubs he didn't agree with, citing "Wonder Woman" as a prime example while venting on his show, "Jimmy Kimmel Live!" He also thought Steven Spielberg and Tom Hanks should have been nominated for "The Post," but the two nods the film did receive are certainly nothing to sneeze at.

In reality, Kimmel seems surprisingly calm about his hosting gig, despite what the promo implies about his lingering fear of envelopes. With the fallout from the recent Harvey Weinstein scandal, we can expect the air to be rife with tension, and for there to be a few speeches on the subject.

Of course, audiences should expect the long-standing gag between Kimmel and Matt Damon ("The Martian," 2015) to continue. Though it might be getting a little old at this point, Kimmel will (hopefully) trim the bit this year and give poor Damon a break from his chirping.

It will also be interesting to see if Kimmel delivers food to the audience this year, which is quickly becoming a tradition. The first time, the emcee fed the crowd peanut butter and jelly sandwiches; the second round included parachutes of candy, cookies and doughnuts floating from the ceiling. What culinary display he comes up with this year remains to be seen, or he may drop the nibbles all together.

Don't miss the glamour and excitement of the red carpet when the 90th Annual Academy Awards airs Sunday, March 4, on ABC.

Video releases

Thor: Ragnarok

After his father, Odin (Hopkins), dies, Thor's (Hemsworth) older sister, Hela (Blanchett), is released from the prison that's held her captive for eons. She destroys Thor's hammer and drives both him and his adoptive brother, Loki (Hiddleston), from their home world, which she swiftly takes control of with the help of the ancient, resurrected dead. Thor ends up a prisoner on a distant planet, where he's forced to fight in a gladiatorial arena, but with an old friend and a potential ally there as well, he may have just the tools he needs to return home and save his people from his sister's tyranny — if he can convince him to help.

Lady Bird

Christine (Lady Bird) McPherson (Ronan) is a high school senior who's unsure of the direction in which she wants her life to go. She butts heads with the strict teachers at her Catholic school, her relationship with her mother (Metcalf) is strained, and her relationship with her boyfriend, whom she met in her school's theater program, ends when she walks in on him kissing another guy. She longs to go to college out of state to really change her life, something that her mother insists they cannot afford, further straining their already tense relationship.

Director: Greta Gerwig. Stars: Saoirse Ronan, Laurie Metcalf, Tracy Letts, Lucas Hedges, Timothée Chalamet. 2017. 94 min. Comedy.

The Man Who Invented Christmas

Suffering from financial hardship, novelist Charles Dickens (Stevens) sets out to write a book about Christmas, but with a publisher-set deadline in only six weeks, he doesn't have much time. He begins dreaming up a wealthy miser named Ebenezer Scrooge (Plummer), and as he gets swept up into the story that he's creating, he begins to imagine that he's interacting with the eccentric characters that he's created.

Director: Bharat Nalluri. Stars: Dan Stevens, Christopher Plummer, Miriam Margulies, Jonathan Pryce, Simon Callow, Cosimo Fusco. 2017. 104 min. Comedy.

Set them free: The judges are let loose in 'Guy's Grocery Games'

Brian Malarkey, Catherine McCord and Troy Johnson as seen in "Guy's Grocery Games"

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Quick, someone call store security — Flavortown Market's judges are running amok! At the best of times, "Guy's Grocery Games" can sometimes feel like organized chaos, but if the judges themselves abandon their posts, then it's anyone's guess as to what host Guy Fieri may be up to.

A new season of the cooking competition gets underway Sunday, March 4, on Food Network, with a very special episode titled "Judge vs. Judge." None of "Triple G's" long-established rules are safe as Guy tosses them out and challenges some of the show's most familiar judges to a series of one-on-one, head-to-head culinary battles.

In the first round, "Food Network Star" winner Justin Warner brings his new school style of cooking in a faceoff against celebrity chef Rocco DiSpirito's old school cuisine. Unlike a normal "Grocery Games" contest, though, the second round features an entirely new pair of competing judges, with grilled cheese master Eric Greenspan battling it out for supermarket superiority against chef Aaron May. Finally, in Round 3, chef Carl Ruiz and restaurateur Antonia Lofaso go head to head.

Don't worry, though: "Guy's Grocery Games" hasn't permanently changed up its successful formula. After all, with an incredible 16 seasons behind it, it must be doing something right. This season's next episode, airing Wednesday, March 7, is a themed episode that's sure to get every carnivore's mouth watering: bacon. Four bacon-loving chefs are in Flavortown Market competing for a shot at the $20,000 prize, and Guy's ready to throw curveball after curveball at them as they zip around the supermarket shopping for their bacon-focused dishes.

Even when it veers off its well-worn path, "Guy's Grocery Games" never strays too far from its winning premise: chefs preparing amazing dishes in a supermarket, with fun twists and speedbumps all tying into the all-too-familiar setting. It's that setting that's set "Triple G" apart from similar cooking competitions and helped it carve out its own unique identity. The new season premieres Sunday, March 4, on Food Network.

Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Do you have to pay any fees to be on "America's Next Top Model"?

A: Not only do you not have to pay a fee to apply, depending how far you get in the process, they actually start paying you (a little).

The audition process is divided into preliminary, semifinal and final rounds (note that this is before the show even begins). There's no fee to enter, and if you make it to the final round, the show pays to fly you to Los Angeles for the final interview and gives you a daily cash allowance while you're there.

CW has put all of the application instructions and eligibility requirements up on its website for all to see, and they make applying surprisingly easy — you don't even have to leave your house. You can do it all by mail by sending in an application form along with photos of yourself, copies of your ID, and a three-minute video.

Q: Will there ever be another "Gunsmoke" with different actors playing the part of Matt, Kitty and the rest?

A: If you'd asked me this a couple of years ago, I'd have said almost certainly yes, but now I'm not so sure.

There was a lot of buzz about a "Gunsmoke" remake back in 2009-2010. At the time, CBS had officially announced an intention to remake it, hired a screenwriter to produce a script (Gregory Poirier, one of the gang of writers behind the 2007 smash "National Treasure: Book of Secrets") and even "tossed about" a couple of big names as stars.

The L.A. Times reported that big-screen superstars Brad Pitt and Ryan Reynolds would star, presumably as Matt Dillon and Doc Adams.

However, the talk ended shortly afterward, meaning either the script wasn't right or they couldn't line up the right stars (which seems less likely for such a high-profile show). Not a word has been said about it since.

That's a bad sign for two reasons. First, TV has since rebooted just about every other old property it could think of, CBS in particular (it would be impossible to list them all here, but a small selection would include "Hawaii Five-0," "MacGyver," and the network's upcoming reboots of "Magnum P.I." and "Cagney & Lacey"). The fact that "Gunsmoke" hasn't been on that list yet suggests maybe the network can't find a way to make it work.

Secondly, and related to the first point, we may have reached peak reboot. The upcoming fall season is full of them (not just the ones I've already mentioned), and critics and fans alike are starting to get a little tired.

The Chicago Tribune's Nina Metz called it an "avalanche," and suggested the reboot trend needs to go because it's squeezing out new voices.

The implication is that, if we haven't gotten a "Gunsmoke" reboot yet, we likely never will.

I'm not sure I'd go that far — there are a lot of economic reasons that mean TV will keep remaking old shows well past when people are excited about them — but the chances certainly aren't as good as they were the last time CBS tried to put somebody new into Marshall Dillon's boots.
