Kimberly Hébert Gregoy and Jason Ritter star in "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World"

Sinner to saint

In spite of his selfish past — or perhaps because of it — Kevin Finn (Jason Ritter, "Joan of Arcadia") sets out to make the world a better place in "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World," airing Tuesday, Nov. 14, on ABC. All the while, a celestial being known as Yvette (Kimberly Hébert Gregoy, "Vice Principals") guides him on his mission. JoAnna Garcia Swisher ("Once Upon a Time") and India de Beaufort ("Veep") also star.

New ABC drama follows a man on a mission

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

Between tragic weather events, political tension and social unrest, it seems as if humanity is losing its way. While it may appear that bad news is everywhere, however, stories of compassion and hope are all around us. There are people devoted to making the world a better place, and a new fantasy drama follows a man on a journey to do just that.

Jason Ritter ("Joan of Arcadia") stars as Kevin Finn, a once selfish, materialistic young man on a mission to save humanity by performing acts of kindness and selflessness under the guidance of an unusual celestial being in "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World," airing Tuesday, Nov. 14, on ABC.

After an encounter with a meteorite that crash lands near his family home, Kevin meets Yvette (Kimberly Hébert Gregory, "Vice Principals"), the aforementioned celestial being. She informs him that she's here to guide and protect him as he saves humanity. Kevin is the only one who can see or hear Yvette, which can be awkward when someone catches him talking to her.

Of course, the plot may sound far-fetched to the average TV viewer, but the show has real heart. In a promo for the series, Gregory explains the meaning behind the drama's unconventional premise.

"It's about making ourselves better, and reaching out and making the world better," the actress said.

That's exactly what Kevin is tasked with doing, and he has an uphill climb. After hitting rock bottom, he returns to his childhood home to live with his widowed twin sister, Amy (JoAnna Garcia Swisher, "Once Upon a Time"), and her teenage daughter, Reese (Chloe East, "True Blood"). In the beginning, Kevin's relationship with Reese is strained at best, but Amy encourages her daughter to give him a chance.

While under Yvette's tutelage, Kevin learns that each generation contains 36 righteous souls who protect the human race merely with their existence. For whatever reason, Kevin is the only righteous soul left in this generation, a statistic that has plunged the world into a state of crisis. The world needs the 36 to persevere and provide hope, and now it's Kevin's job to "power up" his soul so that he can find and anoint a new generation of righteous souls. For her part, Yvette serves as his drill sergeant, employing very un-angelic tactics to keep him on track.

She may be hard on Kevin, but he seems to need some tough love; he hasn't always behaved so saintly. As Ritter expressed in a promo, Kevin "certainly wouldn't seem like anyone's first choice to save the world" — but that may very well be the point. Even those with flaws and foibles can change the world, one act of kindness at a time.

For his part, Ritter has earned the respect of critics and fans for the work as the reluctant hero, which isn't his first regular series role. Son of the late, great actor John Ritter and actress Nancy Morgan, the young Ritter rose through the Hollywood ranks with roles in such films as "Freddy vs. Jason" (2003) and "Raise Your Voice" (2004), while also playing a main role in "Joan of Arcadia." His recurring role on NBC's "Parenthood" earned him an Emmy nomination. Other credits include "The Class" and "The Event."

Fresh off her breakout role as Dr. Belinda Brown in HBO's "Vice Principals," Ritter's co-star Gregory has appeared in some of the biggest hits on television, such as "Better Call Saul," "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" and "Devilish Maids."

Garcia Swisher has been acting since the age of 10, having landed roles in such prominent series as "Are You Afraid of the Dark," "Freak and Geeks" and "Party of Five." She also appeared in "Reba," "Gossip Girl" and "Better With You," and has a recurring role in ABC's "Once Upon a Time" as mermaid Ariel.

Young actress East boasts a wealth of experience that belies her age. Her credits include "True Blood," "Liv and Maddie" and "Ice."

The supporting cast also includes India de Beaufort ("Veep") as Kristen Allen, J. August Richards ("Angel") as Sheriff Deputy Nathan Purcell, and Dustin Ybarra ("We Bought a Zoo," 2011) as Tyler Medina.

The team behind the scenes is just as impressive as the one in front of the camera. In an interview with IndieWire.com, co-creators Michele Fazekas and Tara Butters admitted that they knew the kooky premise and sense of humor was a bit of a stretch for a network drama, but they hope "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World" finds an audience. Luckily, they've had experience with unconventional dramas thanks to their work on "Marvel's Agent Carter," "Reaper" and "Resurrection." Their early careers trace back to "The X-Files," where they learned to mix stand-alone elements with serialized storylines, as in "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World."

While many of us struggle to find peace amidst the hustle and bustle of everyday life, this lighthearted drama can serve as a reminder that everyone — even the hapless "Kevins" out there — can make the world a better place. For inspiration and entertainment, check out "Kevin (Probably) Saves the World," airing Tuesday, Nov. 14, on ABC.

Atomic Blonde

In the days shortly before the collapse of the Berlin Wall, an elite MI6 agent named Lorraine (Theron) is sent to Berlin to retrieve a piece of microfilm containing the names of active agents in the Soviet Union, and to kill a known double agent named Satchel. She makes contact with station chief David Percival (McAvoy), whom she suspects of being the elusive Satchel, and French agent Delphine (Boutella), with whom she starts an intense relationship. With plots, counterplots and deadly enemies around every corner, Lorraine is forced to put all of her extensive and deadly skills to use in pursuit of her mission. Director: David Leitch. Stars: Charlize Theron, James McAvoy, Sofia Boutella, Eddie Marsan, John Goodman, Toby Jones, James Faulkner. 2017. 115 min. Action.

Wind River

After a young woman's body is found frozen in the wilderness of the Wind River Indian Reservation, Fish and Wildlife Service agent Cory Lambert (Renner) calls in the FBI when he suspects that her death is a murder. Once rookie FBI agent Jane Banner (Olsen) arrives, it's determined that the victim was sexually assaulted before her death, and she works with Lambert and local police Chief Ben (Greene) to retrace the woman's footsteps and determine who is guilty of the heinous crimes.

Director: Taylor Sheridan. Stars: Jeremy Renner, Elizabeth Olsen, Graham Greene, Kelsey Asbille, Julia Jones, Apesanahkwat, Tantoo Cardinal. 2017. 107 min. Crime.

The Nut Job 2: Nutty by Nature

Now considered a hero by the urban wildlife living in Liberty Park, purple squirrel Surly (Arnett) must rise to the occasion again when the city's corrupt mayor (Moynihan) comes up with a plan to turn their home into a bright, loud and human-infested amusement park. Along with pug Precious (Rudolph), red squirrel Andie (Heigl), a gang of mice led by Mr. Feng (Chan) and a host of other critters, Surly must do whatever it takes to expose the mayor's corruption, stop construction, and save the home that they all know and love. Director: Cal Brunker. Stars: Will Arnett, Katherine Heigl, Maya Rudolph, Bobby Cannavale, Jackie Chan, Bobby Moynihan, Isabela Moner. 2017. 91 min. Animation.

Guy Fieri searches for Food Network's next big star

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

At a network that has what can feel like an entire stable full of stars, Guy Fieri really does stand out from the crowd, and not just thanks to his distinct spiky 'do or his larger-than-life personality. The host is definitely the face of Food Network, and his latest show just helps to cement that well-earned reputation.

"Guy's Big Project" premiered last week and continues Sunday nights on the culinary channel. For the host of "Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives," the new series must feel right at home — when it comes down to it, it's very much a cross between "Triple D" and "Food Network Star," another show that holds a special place in Guy's heart.

Before he was, well, a Food Network star, Guy competed for the chance to make his own show in season 2 of "Star" back in 2006 (then called "The Next Food Network Star"), which he won.

With the long-running success of "Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives,"

Guy Fieri, host of "Guy's Big Project," as seen in "Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives"

it seems that the powers that be at Food Network are looking for the next big culinary-travel series, and who better to help them find it than the king of the genre? "Guy's Big Project" features six hopefuls looking to land their own Food Network series. They've all come with a pitch for a new show, and over the course of six episodes, they have to sell not only the idea, but also themselves, to a team of Food Network veterans.

Fieri may be running the show, but he's not alone. Iron Chef Alex Guarnaschelli and veteran Food Network producer Mark Dissin are out on the road with the hopefuls, the three of them putting the prospects through their paces and showing them all the behind-the-scenes stuff that goes into making a show of this type.

After making full-fledged pilots in the finale, the winner will be announced and viewers at home will get a special treat as Food Network presents a sneak peek of the winner's new series. First, though, the hopefuls need to impress the "Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives" host and take his years of experience to heart. "Guy's Big Project" airs Sundays on Food Network.

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I just finished reading "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens and have a question. Has any play, novel, short story, literary article, etc., that you are aware of ever resulted in more theatrical movies (both silent and talking), made-for-TV movies, DVD-only movies or animated movies than the Dickens story?

A: There's no definitive answer on this, because of one big and fairly difficult question: How loose can an adaptation be before it's not really the same story anymore? And there's a pretty easy way to explain why that question matters: Dracula.

If any appearance of the character Count Dracula is counted (ha!) as an adaptation, then Bram Stoker's classic 1897 novel might be the most adapted. But most of the dread count's screen turns have nothing else to do with the original story of undying love (nor do they also include appearances by the Harkers, who are arguably the real main characters of the book).

If, on the other hand, your definition of an adaptation must include some element of the original story, I can confidently say that "A Christmas Carol" takes the prize, even though no one's sure exactly how many adaptations there have been.

According to the Internet Movie Database (IMDb), a pretty authoritative source, there have been 27 film (either big-screen or straight-to-video) adaptations of the story.

Counting the TV versions is a harder job. IMDb lists 35 specials or telefilms based on the story, but that doesn't include the many shows that have done "Christmas Carol" episodes, putting their stars into the roles of Scrooge, Cratchit and company. There's no good list of these, but there are easily a dozen or more.

This isn't to say some of these adaptations haven't taken some ... liberties with the story as well. One of the best-loved renditions is 1992's "The Muppet Christmas Carol," which, though it actually stuck fairly close to the original novella, had more skating penguins, rat accountants and Great Gonzos than Dickens intended.

Q: Didn't one of the networks already try to do a show back in the '80s with a young black actor portraying a mayor? I think the young man playing the mayor was actor Robert Hooks' son. Am I right?

A: You're bang on. A full 31 years before ABC debuted this year's new sitcom "The Mayor" (which I assume is the modern show you're referring to in your question), the same network aired "He's the Mayor."

While the new show is about a struggling hip-hop artist who runs for mayor as a stunt to promote his album and then basically wins by accident, the older show had a (slightly) more believable premise — an inexperienced young man is elected mayor in a rush after the incumbent dies in office. In terms of the basic joke, however, they amount to the same thing: a culture-clash story in which an unprepared young man steeped in urban black culture must deal with the niceties and not-so-niceties of city politics.

CBS
Young Sheldon
Nine-year-old Sheldon Cooper (Iain Armitage) may be a bona fide genius, but he still sometimes struggles to make sense of the world around him in a new episode of "Young Sheldon," airing Thursday, Nov. 16, on CBS. A prequel to "The Big Bang Theory," this comedy takes a look at Sheldon's early years in East Texas.
