HUNTERDON COUNTY

Prior to 1714, the land that is now Hunterdon County laid entirely in Burlington County and included what is now Sussex, Warren and Morris counties and a portion of Mercer County. The Lenni Lenape or "Original People" lived in Hunterdon County. Two of the tribes, the Minsi and Unami, were thought to live there.

A survey between 1912 and 1915 discovered 462 camps, villages, burial sites and rock shelters in the county. The first Indian purchase was made in 1688.

Col. John Reading holds the distinction of being the first settler in the county. John Holcombe was also one of the earliest settlers, living in Lambertville in 1705. Hunterdon County is named for Gov. Robert Hunter for the name of his old world home, Hunterston, rather than his surname.

The top governing body in Hunterdon County is now known as the Board of Commissioners, formerly called the Board of Chosen Freeholders - which originated in England, back in the 16th century. As top governing officials, the five commissioners are chosen by popular vote in the November general elections.

One or two of the five members is elected each year. Any subsequent vacancies are filled by an appointment made by the remaining members to the board for the unexpired term of the vacated seat.

People of distinction who served as freeholders and justices in Hunterdon County include William Trent, for whom Trenton is named, John Hart, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and U. S. Senator John Lambert.

The first courthouse in Hunterdon was built in May 1792. Prior to that the county courthouse was located in Trenton.

The original courthouse was burned down on Feb. 13, 1828, and a new courthouse on the current site of the "Historic County Courthouse," located on Main Street in Flemington, was constructed that year. An extensive restoration of the courthouse and its interior was complete in the summer of 2024.

On Jan. 2, 1935, the Lindbergh Trial, on what was known as the "Crime of the Century," began at the Flemington Courthouse.

Bruno R. Hauptman was tried for the fatal kidnapping of aviator Col. Charles Lindberg's son from his Sourland Mountains home, found guilty, and electrocuted. The press camped out across the street at the historic Union Hotel which is now being restored as part of a downtown renewal project.

John Deats of Hunterdon invented the Deats Plow in 1828. An unusual two-story gazebo built in 1892 and owned by John Deats is now located at the County Arboretum, on Route 31 North in the Annandale section of Clinton Township.

The original Fulper Pottery facility is located in Flemington, bought by Abraham Fulper from Samuel Hill in 1850 when it was known as Stangl Pottery.

The location was home to a Pfaltzgraff pottery and dinnerware outlet for years, and in 2012 it was turned into an art studio, restaurant and event venue, the Stangl Factory.

The iron truss bridge over the South Branch of the Raritan River at Main Street in Clinton was designed by Francis C. Lowthorp and built by William Cowin of Lambertville.

New Jersey's only surviving covered bridge is located in the Sergeantsville section of Delaware Township, which is also in the process of refurbishment.

John Ringoes' tavern in Ringoes was the scene of many meetings of rebellious patriots who in 1766 organized the Hunterdon Chapter of Sons of Liberty, propelled by indignation of the Stamp Act and other oppressions perpetrated by the British. Ringoes also has the distinction of being the oldest known settlement in the county.

The huge rock jutting out on Goat Hill overlooking Lambertville and New Hope is called Washington's Rock. It was used as a lookout spot a few weeks before Washington's Christmas night crossing of the Delaware.

Washington was known to have stayed at the Holcombe house in Lambertville on June 21 and 22, 1778, hosted by Richard Holcombe. The oldest dwelling still standing in Hunterdon is thought to be the Holcombe-Jimison Farmstead's main house north of Lambertville, circa 1711, which was left to the Hunterdon County Historical Society.

The first Hunterdon County Fair was held on Feb. 11, 1865, sponsored by the Hunterdon County Agriculture Society. An updated version of the county fair continues to this day. The county seat of Hunterdon was moved to Flemington in 1790.

CALIFON BOROUGH

A borough of only about 1,000 people and covering just one square mile, Califon prides itself on being small, close-knit and quiet, while still boasting an excellent school and recreation for all ages. Califon is located between Lebanon and Tewksbury townships in Hunterdon County.

According to Mayor Charles Daniel, "Califon's best quality is its citizens.

"Be it the local school, the park, the local businesses, the fire department, the rescue squad... we care!"

Califon's small town atmosphere and access to natural gems like the Columbia Trail and a prime trout fishing section of the South Branch of the Raritan River are big draws for visitors and prospective homebuyers, said Daniel. And despite the borough's size, there is no lack in activities for residents throughout the year.

In addition to Memorial Day festivities in May, during the first week of December a Christmas tree lighting takes place, complete with a countdown to the lighting and carols sung by local children. Santa Claus tours the town on a fire truck. There is an Easter egg hunt on Palm Sunday, and the volunteer fire company sponsors a carnival every July featuring 4th of July fireworks and festivities. Last year the Califon Fireman's Carnival celebrated its 99th year.

The borough hosts its annual street fair in October, featuring vendors from throughout the area selling various wares. Shops on Main Street open and food, drinks and entertainment are available during the event.

Califon also honored the late Jon Slusher, who served as editor of the Hunterdon Review from 2003 to 2010, with its memorial 5k run for many years. Slusher, a Califon resident and member of Voorhees High School's track and cross country teams, passed away in 2010 after battling brain cancer.

In 2018, the fair weekend commemorated the borough's 100th anniversary.

Califon was officially formed as a borough from Tewksbury and Lebanon townships in 1918. The South Branch of the Raritan River, originally used as a boundary to divide Tewksbury and Lebanon Township, proved to be confusing and impractical as a border.

Before it became a municipality, Califon was a station on the High Bridge Railroad Branch of the New Jersey Central Railroad, abandoned in 1976. The station is now the home of the Califon Historical Society.

The name Califon is believed to have been shortened from "California," a name created by Jacob Neighbor around the time of the California Gold Rush. One local legend says the name was shortened due to postal workers who found "California, N.J.," a confusing address. Some suggest the name was changed in the 1870s when it proved too large to paint on the railroad station.

TOWN OF CLINTON

The Town of Clinton measures 1.4 square miles and is home to about 2,775 residents, many of whom are families with children. It is located in central Hunterdon County. Many find the community attractive because it is easily accessible from Interstate 78 and Route 31.

Clinton, which celebrated its 150th anniversary with a huge block party in 2015, features family-friendly recreation, shops, and many historic places of interest. The town is located on the South Branch of the Raritan River and is surrounded by Franklin, Union and Clinton townships.

A number of annual recreational events take place in Clinton, including the Haunted Mill, where the Red Mill Museum Village is decorated as a haunted village in October, the annual Christmas Parade in December and Flag Day Parade in June. The Clinton Sunrise Rotary Club also hosts The Great Rubber Ducky Race each year to benefit the American Cancer Society, where rubber ducks are sold and raced over Clinton's waterfalls for prizes.

Clinton is also home to a great deal of history, including two former mills on either side of the South Branch: The Red Mill is a showpiece of the Red Mill Museum Village, and the Stone Mill is home to the Hunterdon Art Museum.

The art museum was established in 1952, and the museum's building was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1981. The independent museum exhibits both well-known and emerging artists schooled in contemporary styles of art, in addition to hosting of art programs for adults and children.

Red Mill Museum Village is open to the public from April through October and exhibits a collection of more than 40,000 artifacts, including textiles, baskets, farm equipment, woodworking tools and Victorian household items. In addition to annual recreation events and concerts, the museum also sponsors programs and workshops for locals and visitors.

Clinton hosts its inaugural St. Patrick's Day Parade organized by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick of Hunterdon County. People pack Main Street each year for the event, which features dozens of floats and plenty of Irish pride. The event is preceded by the annual Run o' the Mill 5k race. In recent years, Clinton saw the completion of the terrace at the Hunterdon Art Museum, which provides residents a place to enjoy the downtown area.

Clinton was officially formed as its own town on April 5, 1865, although the town existed long before as a milling town located in what was then Lebanon Township. After originally being known as Hunt's Mill, in 1829 it was named for Dewitt Clinton, a governor of New York who sponsored the Erie Canal. During the Revolutionary War, Clinton was a Patriot-oriented town and is believed to have been the first town in New Jersey to organize a regiment of Minutemen, who later marched to New York under the leadership of Col. Charles Stewart.

Clinton has one school, Clinton Public School, for children in kindergarten through eighth grade. High school students attend North Hunterdon Regional High School in Clinton Township or Voorhees in Lebanon Township.

The town is governed by a voter-elected mayor and a six-person town council. They meet at 7 p.m. the second and fourth Wednesday of each month in the municipal building located at 43 Leigh St.

CLINTON TOWNSHIP

Clinton Township is located in northeastern Hunterdon County and is bordered by Raritan, Readington, Tewksbury, Lebanon and Franklin townships, as well as the Town of Clinton and High Bridge Borough, and completely surrounds Lebanon Borough. The semi-rural municipality is about 34 square miles and home to 12,975 people, according to the 2020 U.S. Census.

The Township Committee is continuing to work towards meeting its affordable housing obligations and there are a number of projects currently in progress.

As for things to do in town, residents often cite the township's annual Community Day at Bundt Park as one of Clinton Township's best events.

Community Day each year in the spring, has a 15K/5K/1-mile run in the morning that attracts hundreds of runners from all over the state followed by an afternoon community gathering with food, events, rides, games, and music. It is a great opportunity for residents and neighbors to get together.

In general, residents consider Clinton Township as a great place to live, work and raise a family. There are great schools, recreation, nearby shopping and all in a safe, less congested and beautiful area.

Clinton Township has its own municipal court with a full staff and facilities.

The township decided to start the independent court system in 2008 after breaking away from the North Hunterdon Regional Municipal Court system.

The township is home to six historical districts, including Annandale and Potterstown, and 72 state registered Historic Places, as well as many locally significant sites.

Clinton Township was officially formed from Lebanon Township in March 1841 and was reduced slightly in 1871 when High Bridge Borough was formed.

The township was named after its largest settlement at the time, Clinton. Annandale was formed when the Central Railroad of New Jersey arrived in the township in 1852 and formed Clinton Station.

The village that grew around the railroad and became the center of the township later was renamed.

After World War I, the township became a place of interest when the federal road department provided funding to pave an old Lenape Indian Trail, the

HIGH BRIDGE

High Bridge is a quiet borough located on the South Branch of the Raritan River. A quintessential small town, the borough covers 2.4 square miles and has a population of 3,546, according to the 2020 U.S. census.

“High Bridge is known for its quaint charm and open space,” said Mayor Michele Lee. The Commons Park serves as the entrance to the Columbia Trail where thousands come to walk or bike with their families year-round. It has several projects in the works to expand its mountain biking network and build a community dog park.

“A local favorite is the Soap Box Derby which brings the borough together to line the streets and cheer on the young racers. Our Main Street is vibrant and comes alive with activities and sounds of live music during the summer nights.

“High Bridge has always been known as a great place to visit and an even better place to stay and raise a family.”

Events and activities include the annual open-air farmers’ market that runs from June to early September, featuring stands with fresh local produce as well as crafts and antiques.

There also is a pooch parade and a new dog park and bicycle pump track under construction in Commons Park.

In addition, the local Historic and Events committees sponsor town recreation such as free concerts, movies in the Commons in July, a carved pumpkin show in October, and gingerbread house displays at the local firehouse in December.

In a quiet area yet close to shopping and restaurants, High Bridge has all the qualities of a great place to live and fun place to visit.

The borough hosts a community day event in the fall, where residents gather for free food, fun and events.

High Bridge began as a mining town when William Allen leased 3,000 acres of land in 1742 on which to found an ironworks company. Along with his partner, Joseph Turner, he later purchased 10,849 acres, including today’s High Bridge.

High Bridge Township was formed in 1871 and included not only today’s borough but also portions of Lebanon, Tewksbury and Clinton townships.

The township was reduced and established as High Bridge Borough on Feb. 19, 1898. The name High Bridge comes from a 112-foot-high, 1,300-foot-long bridge built by the Central Railroad Company across the Raritan River in 1851.

In 1859 the bridge proved too large to maintain and was filled in with an embankment.

High Bridge’s rich history is displayed at Solitude House, believed to have been built by William Allen around 1725. During the American Revolution it was used to hold the political prisoner John Penn, the last royal governor of Pennsylvania, and his attorney general.

A stone annex behind the house is believed to have been a storehouse which Allen and Turner used for trading purposes. Today, Solitude House is an historical museum and a favorite event hosting location.

High Bridge runs its own elementary and middle schools, while high school students attend Voorhees High School in Lebanon Township.

The town is run by a voter-elected mayor and six-person council who meet the second and fourth Thursday of each month (except July, August and November) at the 7 Maryland Ave. firehouse.

The historic Solitude House in High Bridge was the property of the Union Iron Works. During the Revolutionary War the iron works became important because of the production of cannon balls and rifle barrels. Among the historic figures who visited Solitude House are George and Martha Washington, General Lafayette, Colonel Charles Stewart, and Aaron Burr. The oldest portions of the house were built in 1712.

LEBANON BOROUGH

Lebanon Borough, located directly off Interstate 78 and State Highway Route 22, is surrounded by Clinton Township and is between the Town of Clinton and Readington Township. It occupies a bit less than one square mile. The borough has 1,665 residents according to the 2020 U.S. Census.

Lebanon Borough is included on the state's Register of Historic Places.

The borough offers many recreational opportunities for its residents each year, including the annual "Burning of the Greens" early each January, an Easter egg hunt, a fishing derby in May, a Halloween parade, and a tree lighting with Santa.

The biggest annual event is the Fourth of July parade, which attracts spectators and participants from throughout New Jersey. The borough celebrated the 77th anniversary of New Jersey's oldest July Fourth celebration in 2024 - one of the county's largest and most popular events.

The parade features veterans, fire and rescue squads, Scout troops, antique cars, musical acts and more.

There is a parade website at www.lebanonboro4thofjulyparade.com which lists all the parade donors and parade winners and pictures from past and present.

The borough always needs volunteers. Anyone interested should contact Borough Hall at 908-236-2425.

Lebanon Borough School, with an enrollment of about 110 students, is designated as a "high performing district" by the New Jersey Department of Education. It is also a "School Choice District." Students in kindergarten through grade six attend Lebanon Borough School.

Middle school students attend Town of Clinton Middle School on a tuition basis. High school students go to North Hunterdon High School in Clinton Township.

The borough is adjacent to the Round Valley State Park Recreation Area, which is currently being rehabilitated.

The borough is governed by a six-member council and an elected mayor. Borough Council meetings are held on the third Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in Borough Hall, located at 6 High St.

Updated information on meetings and events can be found on the official Lebanon Borough website at lebanonboro.com.

LEBANON TOWNSHIP

Located in northernmost Hunterdon County, Lebanon Township prides itself on the quality of life it provides.

The originally agricultural township is bordered by the Musconetcong River and covers 31.7 square miles with a population of 6,196 people, according to the 2020 U.S. Census.

Lebanon Township is particularly proud of its Memorial Park, which was created entirely by using non-municipal funding and is continuing to grow.

The park, measuring about 25 acres, is located on Bunnvale Road, across from Woodglen School and behind the Municipal Building.

Memorial Park features a playground, large and small pavilions, walking trails, picnic areas, sledding hill, softball field, two volley ball courts and two basketball courts.

The park hosts several annual events, including Community Day and other popular musical and entertainment events. Voorhees State Park, which includes the N.J. Astronomical Association's Observatory, is also popular.

nally formed in 1731, has since been reduced to its current size.

The original borders reached from the Musconetcong River to Readington Township, but land was removed over time to form Clinton and Tewksbury townships, High Bridge, Clinton and Glen Gardner.

Township children attend Valley View School from kindergarten to grade four and Woodglen School for grades five through eight.

High school students attend Voorhees Regional High School in the township along with students from other nearby communities.

Lebanon Township is governed by a five-person voter-elected Township Committee that elects one of its members to be mayor for a year. It meets at 7 p.m. the first Wednesday of each month at the township's Municipal Building at 530 West Hill Road.

Primary elections are held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in June.

The primary is held for parties to select Democratic and Republican party candidates to represent the parties on the November General Ballot.

General elections are held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November to elect national, state, county and municipal officials. Polls are open for both elections from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

mation including Early Voting Information, Ballot Box Locations, Vote by Mail Options, Registration information and more regarding Hunterdon County Voting please visit <https://www.co.hunterdon.nj.us/1409/2025-Voter-Information>.

READINGTON TOWNSHIP

The largest township in Hunterdon County, Readington Township is bordered by the Lamington River and Rockaway Creek to the north, Somerset County to the east, the South Branch of the Raritan River to the south and Clinton and Tewksbury townships to the west. The township measures almost 48 square miles and had a population of 16,130 in the 2020 U.S. Census.

Readington Township has been very active preserving open space. More than 9,500 acres have been preserved, including farmland and open space. Along with acres of undeveloped land, Readington offers several parks and recreational opportunities. The county's Deer Path Park is located within the township.

Many activities are led by the township's Recreation Department, including volleyball, basketball and soccer for children and adults. Along with sports, the township sponsors and organizes trips, Easter egg hunts, Halloween events, a Memorial Day parade and a summer camp.

For many years the largest attraction in the township, if not the region, was the annual N.J. Festival of Ballooning at Solberg Airport, which drew more than 100,000 attendees and more than 100 hot air balloons from around the world. The festival was on hiatus in 2024 and through 2025.

Other attractions include its three museums: the Bouman-Stickney Farmstead, the Eversole-Hall House and Cold Brook School. The buildings, which date back to the 1700s and 1800s, display furnishings and antiques meant to replicate the houses as they looked in the past. The museums host programs where students in first, fourth and fifth grades, and the general public, visit the museums to learn how life may have been for people living in the past.

Readington Township began as Readings Township on July 15, 1730, when created on the order of a Royal Charter from King George II of England, and it officially became Readington Township in 1798. It was the first township to be created after Hunterdon was made a county. The village of Readington, originally populated by Dutch farmers, existed some time before, with a mill being erected there between 1710 and 1715.

Readington children attend elementary schools in the township. High school students attend Hunterdon Central Regional High School in Raritan Township.

Readington Township is governed by a voter-elected five-person Township Committee that elects one of its own to serve as mayor for a year. It meets at 7:30 p.m. the first and third Mondays of each month in the Municipal Building.

TEWKSBURY TOWNSHIP

A rural community with a balance of both open space and development, Tewksbury Township is located in northern Hunterdon County and borders both Morris and Somerset counties.

It covers about 32 square miles and has a population of 5,881 according to the 2020 U.S. Census.

Tewksbury Township is part of the four-state Highlands region, now recognized as a critical natural resource, due especially to its value as a source of drinking water, not to mention recreational opportunities.

The township traces its origins to George Willocks' purchase of land from Lenape Indians in 1708 and to the West Jersey Society purchase of 100,000 acres two years later. Germans from the Palatinate arrived in the mid-18th century, and under the leadership of the Lutheran Bishop Muhlenberg, built a church, cemetery and home in what is now Oldwick. New Germantown, used to refer to current Oldwick, first appeared in 1754 and survived until the rise of anti-German feelings during World War I, when the village was re-named "Oldwick," an Anglo-Saxon name for "Old Village."

Tewksbury Township was divided from Lebanon Township, and by royal patent became a township on March 11, 1755. The name, Tewksbury, is believed to have originated from a connection with Tewkesbury in Gloucestershire, England. The two townships established a sister city relationship in 2003.

The settlement of Pottersville began in the early 1750's as a milling center. In 1783 the mills became the property of the Sering Potter family, hence the name "Potter's Mills," changed to "Pottersville" with the establishment of the post office in 1840.

Mountainville, so named because it sits at the base of Hell Mountain, dates back to 1788 with the settlement of Adam Teets along the Rockaway Creek.

The earliest settler of Fox Hill (now Upper Fairmount) was German emigrant John Peter Fox (Fuchs). Around 1710 the area was named for Fox. Presbyterian churches were established there and in Lamington in the 18th century.

The village of Cokesbury did not coalesce until well after 1814 when the Methodist congregation organized and built the church, which gave the locality its name. The church derived its name from Bishop Francis Asbury and Bishop Dr. Thomas Coke, both Methodist missionaries.

If you are looking for high quality, HEALTHY mattresses and bedding all from an incredibly well-run, caring LOCAL business, look no further. Pam (the owner) and her team are knowledgeable, responsive, kind and price things fairly to boot. After trying for months to cobble together healthy options for mattresses and bedding for our new home, a friend told us about Hibernate Bedding — "just call Pammy," she said. We did and couldn't be more thrilled. In an age of online customer service Hell, Hibernate Bedding is an incredible breath of fresh air. A local brick-and-mortar retailer where you can try before you buy, get great advice and have a great person to work with who stands behind everything they recommend and sell. Bravo!

HUNTERDON COUNTY PARKS

The Hunterdon County Division of Parks and Recreation is governed by the Hunterdon County Commissioners with input from the Parks Open Space Advisory Committee, which is comprised of volunteer citizens appointed by the Commissioners.

The Parks Open Space Advisory Committee makes recommendations to the commissioners on all matters regarding county park lands and public recreation opportunities. More than 9,165 acres of land has been purchased for purposes of environmental preservation, and for the public's recreational enjoyment.

The Hunterdon County Division of Parks and Recreation has 17 full-time staff members to carry out the mission of the county by implementing recreational activities, environmental education programs, and special events. Each year, more than 300,000 citizens use the parks and programs Hunterdon County has to offer.

Parks are open dawn to dusk, every day. Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday - Friday. Offices are closed on Saturdays and Sundays, but the garden and park are still open.

In 1963, a Parks and Recreation Citizens Advisory Committee was formed to preserve open space in the county. For nearly a decade, this group has worked to pave the way for the development of a county-wide park system. The first county parkland, the Wescott Nature Preserve, was established in 1966, through the donation of 15 acres of land in Delaware Township by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wescott. Additional donations were subsequently made in 1970 and 1994. Ralph and Ann Peters sold 102 acres to add to the preserve in 2006. Today, Wescott Preserve is 179 acres.

Presently, the Hunterdon County Park Division comprises 9,088 acres of land which can be categorized, and best described or represented as unimproved natural areas, improved natural areas, linked greenway areas, general use areas and spe-

The Hunterdon County Arboretum, the administration offices of the Hunterdon County Division of Parks & Recreation, is located on Route 31 in the Lebanon section of Clinton Township.

Each of these park area categories provides a different type of environment and public use. Of course, each type also has different maintenance and habitat management goals and requirements.

The county's long-term goal is to have roughly 12,000 acres of land in the park division through fee simple purchases and conservation easements. This may also include lands that are jointly purchased by Hunterdon County, the state, municipalities and nonprofit conservation organizations or owned outright by the state Department of Environmental Protection or the New Jersey Water Supply Authority and managed by the Hunterdon County Division of Parks and Recreation for public park, recreation and conservation purposes. This would place the county's total parkland holdings at nearly six percent of the total available land area or about 279,680 acres in Hunterdon County.

The county's 30 individual "park" areas can be described as essentially "passive" park areas, some of which serve to buffer waterways, forming greenway corridors. Some contain parking areas, picnic and camping areas, and nature study opportunities. Several are more "developed" and contain formal group areas and a ball field. The majority of county park properties are located in Readington, Clinton, Lebanon townships and Bethlehem or along the South Branch of the Raritan River.

Many hiking, bicycle and horseback riding trails are located in these park areas, such as Cold Brook Preserve, Round Mountain Preserve, portions of the South Branch Reservation, Wescott Preserve, Hoffman Park, Charlestown Reserve, and Teetertown Preserve. One of the newest areas is the merging of Tower Hill and Jugtown into one entity with the addition of ground from the New Jersey Water Authority..

Picnic facilities are located at Echo Hill Environmental Education Area, the County Arboretum, Deer Path and Sunnyside, part of the South Branch Reservation, Hoffman Park and Teetertown Preserve. Deer Path Park, in Readington Township, the site of an annual summer free concert series, also has two reservable picnic pavilions.

Parking is provided at most of the above-mentioned areas. Horse trailer parking is not provided in all the areas that have horse trails, however, so a phone call to the park office is recommended.

Deer hunting is allowed on more than 7,789 acres of county park land. The county's controlled hunting program restricts individual hunters to specific park sites, limited by the size of the park and surrounding public safety zones. An overall ratio of one hunter-to-20-acres of "hunnable property" is maintained. Hunters return survey information at season's end to help the county measure the effectiveness of the program. Fishing, on a catch-and-release basis, is allowed in virtually all park ponds. There are two trout-stocked ponds - one at Hoffman Park in Union Township and one at Teetertown Ravine Nature Preserve, located at 40 Pleasant Grove Road in the Port Murray section of Lebanon Township. A trout stamp is required to fish trout-stocked waters.

For more information visit www.co.hunterdon.nj.us and click on Parks and Recreation. For directions to the County Arboretum, or for specific program information, call 908-782-1158.
