

A Career That Connects You With Community

NOW HIRING

Advertising Sales Representative

Do you enjoy getting involved in your community and helping local businesses succeed? We're looking for a friendly, motivated Advertising Sales Representative to join our hometown newspaper team!

This role is all about building relationships—working directly with local businesses to help them understand how our print and digital advertising options can support their goals and grow their customer base. You'll be out in the community, listening to business owners, offering solutions, and being a trusted local resource.

What you'll do:

- Work one-on-one with local businesses to create effective print and digital advertising solutions
- Build and maintain strong relationships throughout the community
- Represent a respected, local newspaper that people know and trust
- Learn the ins and outs of advertising sales with support from our team

What we're looking for:

- A positive, outgoing personality
- Strong communication and people skills
- Someone who enjoys helping others succeed
- Sales or media experience is helpful—but not required

We will train the right person. If you're motivated, willing to learn, and excited about supporting local businesses, we want to hear from you. Join us and be part of a newspaper that's been serving the community for generations—while helping local businesses thrive today and into the future.

To apply, contact: amym@standard-journal.com

The Standard-Journal

Serving the Susquehanna River Valley for 136 Years