April 6, 1917

World War I began in 1914, a month after the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand of Austria. But the United States didn't get involved until April 1917, making it a world war. Notice the "woman congressman weeps" headline. Did you know there was a woman in Congress even before the 19th Amendment was ratified in 1920?

This is among the first ads in The Lake County Times, published in June 1906. The real estate business was booming.
