10 TIPS

for safe trick-or-treating

Are your children finally old enough to trick-or-treat without you hovering nearby? If they don't want an adult to tag along this Halloween, here are 10 rules they'll need to follow.

1. Only visit houses that are lit up, and never go inside
2. Walk on the sidewalk, and avoid zigzagging across the street
3. Respect all road signs and traffic lights
4. Never approach or get in to a stranger's car
5. Stay with your friends at all times, and go to each door as a group
6. Follow a pre-planned route, and return home at the agreed upon time
7. Don't text while walking, especially if you're crossing the road
8. Bring a flashlight, and make sure drivers can see you at all times
9. Keep your distance from animals you don't know
10. Don't eat any candy until you get home and an adult inspects it

6 things to do

with leftover Halloween candy

Do you have a ton of leftover Halloween candy? Instead of throwing it away, here are six things you can do with it.

1. Bake it. Break your candy into small pieces and use it in your cookies instead of chocolate chips, or sprinkle it on top of your cupcakes, pies and other baked goods.
2. Donate it. Find a local charity that's willing to accept candy donations. Don't donate anything that's not properly sealed.
3. Freeze it. Candy stays good for a long time, but you can extend its shelf life by chopping it up and freezing it for later.
4. Reuse it. Save your candy so that you can reuse it at Christmas, Easter or your kid's next birthday party. Halloween candy is great for filling piñatas and loot bags.
5. Drink it. Use lollipops and other hard candies to sweeten your tea or cocktails. You can also melt hard candy in your kid's hot chocolate.
6. Trade it. Check with your dentist to see if they have a buyback program where they trade toothbrushes, floss and other items for candy.

Remember to involve your kids in the process. They're sure to have some good ideas about what to do with the excess candy.

HALLOWEEN FUN
FOR ALL AGES

Halloween-themed games to get your kids moving

Are you looking for ways to keep your little ones active this Halloween? If so, here are some fun games and activities that will get your kids moving.

HALLOWEEN SCAVENGER HUNT

Make a list of Halloween-themed items such as ghosts, witches and pumpkins. Then, go for a walk with your kids and have them search for the things on the list. If the weather's bad, you can print pictures of the items and hide them around your house for a fun indoor activity.

CANDY TREASURE HUNT

Hide candy, stickers or toys inside your home and around your yard. Prepare riddles and clues that will help point your kids in the right direction. They'll need to solve the clues to find the hidden treasures.

SPOOKY RELAY RACE

Create an obstacle course using Halloween decorations or balloons. Create teams and have each member race through the obstacle course with a mini pumpkin balanced on their head.

PUMPKIN BOWLING

Make a Halloween bowling game with your kids. First, decorate a ball so that it looks like a pumpkin. Then, gather empty water bottles and fill them with cotton balls. Use a black marker to draw eyes on the bottles so they look like ghosts. Finally, set them up like bowling pins and let your kids try to knock them over.

Prepping these activities is half the fun, and you can get your kids to help you with the setup. Look around your house or visit the stores in your area to stock up on materials.

Red Ribbon Week

OCTOBER 23-31, 2021

3 WAYS TO HELP KIDS STAY DRUG FREE

Red Ribbon Week, which takes place from October 23 to 31, is an annual campaign run by the National Family Partnership (NFP) to educate people across the country about drug prevention. The theme of this year's event, Drug Free Looks Like Me, is meant to encourage individuals to speak up and make a difference in their communities. Starting at home, here are some ways that parents can help keep their kids drug free.

1. HAVE CONVERSATIONS EARLY

Talk to your children about how their vitamins and medications work, how to use them responsibly and the importance of taking care of their body. These types of discussions will set a precedent for discussing drugs as they get older.

2. BE INVOLVED IN THEIR LIFE

Spend quality time with your kids away from your phone and other screens. By giving them your undivided attention, you'll strengthen your relationship and make your kids more inclined to come to you with problems.

3. SET A GOOD EXAMPLE

In addition to setting clear rules and expectations for your children, be mindful of what messages you send them with your own behaviors. For example, avoid making it seem like you need a drink or pill to relax.

For more information about how to participate in Red Ribbon Week activities and help keep your kids drug free, visit redribbon.org.

SPREAD THE WORD

If you want to encourage others in your community to be drug free, you can take part in the Red Ribbon Week social media challenge. Take a picture of yourself or your family holding a sign with the 2021 theme on it, and share the image on social media using the hashtags #DrugFreeLooksLikeMe and #RedRibbonWeek.
