Thank you, Marv for your reply. [redacted]

This has certainly been an extremely difficult time for us in the system, and my heart is completely broken. How does an individual ever intentionally plan to harm a child and then decide to coach others on how to do it? This is something that I cannot wrap my head around it.

As for the letter we sent to you, I would like to thank you for picking up on that date error and provide the clarification you requested. The date referenced in the letter regarding our previous exchange should be August 13, 2024. Please find the correspondence attached.

Warmly,

Tracy

Good afternoon Tracy,

I wish to acknowledge receipt of your attached reporting letter, which I very much appreciate.

I am requesting clarification on one point. You state that your letter is a follow-up to your email, dated August 13, 2025. Can you please provide both the correct date and the text of the actual email?

I was so saddened to read the devastating news about these events last week and am pleased to hear from you directly. PSB letters to parents have been shared with our office by concerned parents and direct communication is always preferable.

Please convey my deep respect for the teachers, principals, administrators, and staff employed at the PSB and my recognition of the anxiety and emotional distress that they must be experiencing.

Deputy Minister Mitton and I have agreed to have regular communication about this matter and other concerns that may arise. I am always pleased to have conversations with you in your important role, as other developments occur.
