

5-column grid

Winter outlook

Most of the winter will be warmer than average, however it will be stormy due to a subtropical jet stream. Climatologist Judah Cohen forecasts that once, perhaps twice, this winter the polar vortex will bring long-lasting cold air to New Jersey. If that happens, then a large snow will be possible, likely in December or later in the season.

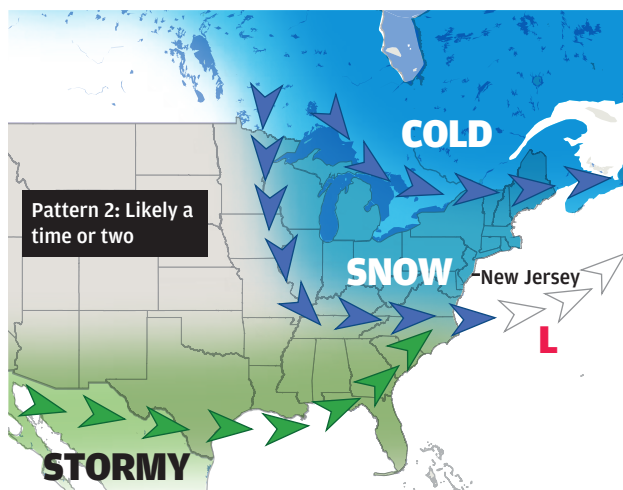

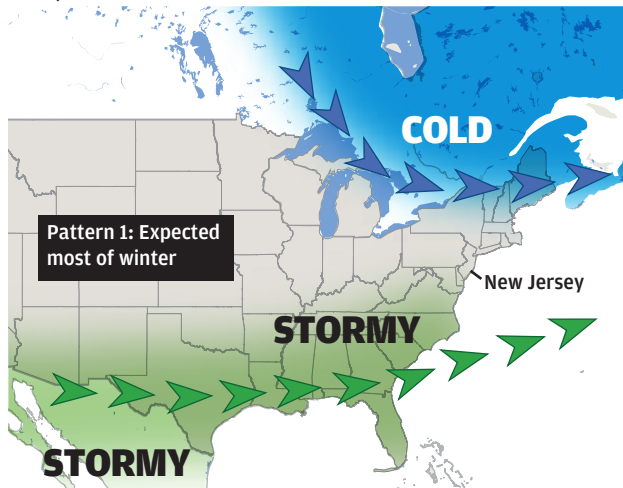

Sources: Climatologist Judah Cohen and meteorologist Joe Martucci

Lee Enterprises graphic

6-column grid

Winter outlook

Most of the winter will be warmer than average, however it will be stormy due to a subtropical jet stream. Climatologist Judah Cohen forecasts that once, perhaps twice, this winter the polar vortex will bring long-lasting cold air to New Jersey. If that happens, then a large snow will be possible, likely in December or later in the season.

Sources: Climatologist Judah Cohen and meteorologist Joe Martucci

Lee Enterprises graphic