

Kids mean a lot to the biking industry

Even as kids cycling participation decreases, they're still the largest single age demographic of all cyclists. But the biking population is skewing older.

