School board approves addition of ballot questions

BY MADLINE DOLBY
EDITOR

Residents within the Centennial School District can expect to see two additional questions on their ballot next election season regarding an operating levy and bond referendum associated with the district's long-range plan, also known as Centennial Forward.

According to Superintendent Jeff Holmberg, the bond referendum will total approximately $108,890,000 million. These funds would be used to address facility maintenance, safety, academic capacity and educational programs across the district. The proposed operating levy, bond referendum and the addition of the ballot questions were approved by the Centennial School Board at its most recent meeting.

Originally, the long-range plan was estimated to cost around $225 million. However, revisions made throughout the planning process, based on stakeholder, community and school board member feedback, allowed Executive Director of Business Services Patrick Chaffey and his staff to bring the total costs down. Included in the projects' costs is room for 20% inflation.

"Deferred maintenance was the starting point of this process... There is not enough money through LTFM (long term facilities maintenance) funding

North Suburban New Neighbors Club transforms neighbors into friends

BY CAROL BROWN-MILLS
SPECIAL TO THE PRESS

For four decades, the North Suburban New Neighbors Club (NSNNC) has been transforming new neighbors into old friends with a warm welcome, engaging activities and opportunities for community service. What began as the Welcome Wagon Club of four women meeting in their homes in 1988, has swelled to a roster of 98 filling the Community Room at the Shoreview Library with "coffee and conversation" on the second Thursday of every month.

That's just the beginning. At the April meeting, plans for upcoming events percolated: A trip to the Waldoch Garden Center, the spring luncheon at a local restaurant, a hike on Brown's Creek Trail in Stillwater. There was still time to remind members of the monthly board meeting, vote on the slate of new officers and sing to the April birthday girls.

A myriad of special activities and interest groups, as well as outdoor adventurers, meet regularly on specified days of the month. The Program-of-the-Month could take club members anywhere from a Women's Drum Center to a Buddhist Temple. There is something for everyone. Do you like movies and lunching out? Sewing and crafts? Bridge, book club or Bunco? There is a group for you. If not, members are invited to start a new one. Some even pursue common interests outside the club such as choral to keep our buildings afloat because we only receive $2.7 million a year," Chaffey explained. "That's not enough to keep the repairs going."

BALLOT ADDITIONS: Board members express support of long-range plan, levy

Chaffey said this spurred a discussion about how the district was going to keep up with the deferred maintenance. This led to the district taking a deeper dive into the facilities and how they're being used. He added he appreciates everyone's input throughout this process.

Proposed concepts, a part of Centennial Forward, include the creation of new and remodeled secure centralized offices and entries at school sites, modern learning environments and increased capacity for specialized programs and building maintenance and infrastructure repairs. Also part of the concept is a new two-station gym addition, featuring a new lobby, concessions and a family locker room for the pool at Centennial High School. The concept additionally includes new tennis courts at the high school and repairs to the existing track surface at Centennial Middle School.

"Every building gets touched," Holmberg said.

The metro average for an operating levy is $1,519 per pupil with a maximum allowed by the state of $2,340 per pupil. Currently, Centennial is at $995 per pupil. According to Holmberg, the proposed operating levy would provide an additional $375 per pupil per year for a 10-year term, subject to inflation. This would generate approximately $2.49 million annually for Centennial Schools.

The funds raised through the operating levy would be used for staff wages, benefits and programs.

"Centennial has a strong tradition of academic excellence, student opportunity, and community support," said Holmberg. "Maintaining strong schools requires ongoing investment in both high-quality learning experiences and safe, well-functioning facilities."

School Board Member Gloria Murphy acknowledged the tremendous work done by Holmberg and Chaffey.

"I think you guys have spearheaded this great. You've been transparent to the community members," she said. "I want to thank our input team, our partnership with Nexus... We were at $225 million in 2025 and have cut this down to $108 (million). That's huge. I'm looking forward to seeing this go forward."

Board Member Heidi Hansen brought up the fact that the district included the community in the planning process during the last couple of years and said it was a big deal.

"This isn't just a Centennial administration deal. This is a Centennial community project and it's important to everyone," Hansen said. "I think that, for me personally, is one of the most important parts of this entire project... I'm excited for our future."

School Board Vice Chair Sue Linser said the operational levy is really important. She appreciates understanding where the district is at and where the area metro is at.

School Board Treasurer Jessica Schwinn thanked

the executive team and the community for their hard work. School Board Chair Tom Knisley also thanked his fellow board members for their collaboration and willingness to engage in the planning process in a positive way.

Knisley added, "I feel very comfortable supporting this levy request because of all the work we did. Had we not done all this work, I wouldn't be as comfortable as I am."

The ballot questions will read as follows, "Shall the new referendum revenue authorization proposed by the board of Independent School District No. 12 (Centennial), Minnesota be approved?" and "Shall the board Independent School District No. 12 (Centennial), Minnesota be authorized to issue general obligation school building bonds in an amount not to exceed $108,890,000 for acquisition and betterment of school sites and facilities, but not limited to, safety and security improvements, additions/updates to facilities and academic spaces, and various other capital projects?"

According to the memorandum, by voting "yes" for either question, residents would be voting for a property tax increase.

CENTENNIAL SCHOOL BOARD NOTES

- Superintendent Jeff Holmberg recognized the Centennial Area Education Foundation (CAEF) and the support the foundation provides to the district. Co-President Suzy Guthmueller said earlier this month the foundation was about to give out $15,000 in scholarships to students. She added CAEF was able to raise approximately $70,000 at its annual gala held in March. Guthmueller presented Holmberg with a check for $10,600 to the school district to purchase tubas for the middle school and high school band as part of CAEF's Fund the Need project.
- The board has approved the purchase of "Into Literature" from Houghton Mifflin Harcourt. The curriculum will be used in 9-12 English Learning Arts (ELA). The purchase is for five years, in the amount of approximately $368,898. This includes student and staff resources. The curriculum will be purchased from the vendor on July 1, 2026. According to Executive Director of Teaching and Learning Mark Grossklaus, the K-5 ELA curriculum will be brought to the board in the spring of 2027.

- The pupil transportation contracts have been approved by the board for type 3 services. The contracts are with Collaborative Student Transportation of Minnesota, Safe Tree Transportation and E-efficient School Transportation. Each contract, according to Executive Director of Business Services Patrick Chaffey, will be five-year terms and have a rate increase of 1.5% to 3% each year.

- Residents within the Centennial School District will see two additional questions on their ballot this November, following board approval in a 6-0 vote. The questions are regarding a referendum and bond for the Centennial Long Range Plan (see full story in this week's issue).

- Chaffey will serve as a voting trustee of the Minnesota School District Liquid Asset Fund Plus until this fall. The board approved the appointment in a 5-0 vote (Vice Chair Sue Linser was not present).

- The board adopted the 2026-2027 budget. According to Chaffey, total revenues are expected to be $114,066,520 million and expenditures are projected to be $120,814,900 million (see full story in this week's issue).

- The board accepted several contributions made to Blue Heron Elementary, Golden Lake Elementary, Rice Lake Elementary and Centennial High School.

- Graduation is scheduled to take place on Saturday, June 13 at 3 p.m. at Roy Wilkins Auditorium in St. Paul.

The next work session will be at 5:30 p.m., Monday, June 1 in the district office. The next regular school board meeting will be at 6:30 p.m., Monday, June 15.

Service industry challenges

In general, I try to resist the impulse to delve into the dark and seemingly endless rabbit hole of conspiracy theories. However, with the continuing and rapid rise of prices on many of the various services we have come to rely on, combined with the complicated and unpredictable maze of modern customer service, it can sometimes seem like there is a plan or business model that is purposefully stacking the odds against us. The steady rise in the prices of internet connectivity, mobile phones, electricity, insurance, waste collection and other services can at times feel quite demoralizing. Fortunately, the occasional success and positive problem resolution have helped keep a glimmer of hope alive.

Angle of View
Paul Dols

An example of a thought provoking and entertaining counterpoint to conspiracy theories is a video I recently watched featuring astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson debating the moon landing with internet influencer Logan Paul, who starts the conversation with "You think we went to the moon?" The astrophysicist responds with "I know we went to the moon" and playfully maintains his sense of humor while backing up his point of view with logical explanations to the skeptical young influencer's questions. Citing the evidence of the moon rocks that were shared with laboratories around the world, he said "to be in denial of those means you are intellectually and emotionally disconnected." Tyson explains how gravity works on the moon after Paul shows him a video of an astronaut and comments, "Like doesn't he not look ridiculous hopping around on the moon?" Tyson explained the physics and fuel ratio needed to send a rocket to the moon and back. "Where do you think those rockets were going? To the Piggly Wiggly down the street?" Tyson also pondered why the trip to the moon would be faked nine times, "That's weird. Why would you do that?" He attempts to sum things up in simple terms with the hypothetical example of if NASA had asked Hollywood for help faking the moon landings they would have come to the conclusion that it would be easier to do it "on location."

A recent encounter with customer service was not the result of a conspiracy, but instead ineptitude and challenging communication. Early one morning, after hearing voices and mechanical noise, I looked outside to discover three large garbage trucks converged in front of our house. I hurried out to investigate and saw that a lift holding a recycling container was tangled in an overhead wire that provides internet service. I didn't have a chance to say a word before one of the crew members abruptly informed me that, "This is your fault! The wire is too low!" I was taken aback and explained to him nothing like this had ever happened before and that maybe his crew members weren't watching what they were doing. The lift was finally untangled from the wire and the trucks left. The wire was now noticeably stretched and drooping lower because a fastener had been pulled loose from the house. Worried that the wire could get completely ripped down by another passing truck, I found some orange twine to create a temporary fix and called our cable provider's customer service number. After waiting on hold, I explained the situation. The service representative told me, in her opinion, I should bury the wire. I told her that wasn't going to be happening today and to please schedule a service visit. The scheduled time came and went, so I called again and was told the problem had been resolved and the case closed. Apparently a technician did a drive-by and didn't notice the bright orange twine holding the wire up. Realizing that most of us are probably trying to do the best we can, I made the decision not to vent my frustration on the technician who returned the next day. I sincerely thanked him after he promptly and efficiently fixed the problem and we both went about our days.

Balancing school needs and community realities

Families across Minnesota continue to navigate rising costs and economic uncertainty. From groceries and utilities to insurance and housing, many households are paying closer attention to spending and making difficult financial decisions.

School districts are facing many of those same pressures.

Over the past several years, Centennial Schools has experienced rising operational costs in nearly every area, including transportation, utilities, technology, insurance, employee benefits, special education services and day-to-day building operations. At the same time, schools today are expected to provide a broader range of academic, safety, mental health and student support services than ever before.

These realities are not unique to Centennial. Districts across Minnesota face growing financial pressures as the cost of operating schools rises faster than available funding.

Recognizing both district needs and the financial realities facing taxpayers, the Centennial School Board spent considerable time studying options, prioritizing needs and evaluating long-term impacts before unanimously approving two referendum questions for the November ballot at its May 18 meeting.

That work has been guided by an important principle: Responsible stewardship requires balancing educational needs with community affordability.

Over the past several years, the district has engaged in long-range planning that included demographic studies, facility assessments, financial analysis, operational reviews and community engagement. Throughout those discussions, community members consistently emphasized several shared priorities: Maintaining strong educational opportunities, preserving school facilities, improving safety and security and ensuring decisions are thoughtful, transparent and fiscally responsible.

The board's goal was not to pursue every possible project or initiative, but rather to identify what it believed were the district's highest-priority operational and facility needs while remaining mindful of taxpayer impact. The result was two separate referendum questions that voters will have the opportunity to consider this November.

The operating levy question would provide additional local funding for educational programming, student support services, and district operations at a time when school districts across

Minnesota continue to face rising costs.

The facilities bond question would address identified facility, infrastructure, safety and security and learning environment needs across the district, including the ongoing responsibility of maintaining aging facilities used by students and the broader community.

We appreciate that people may hold different perspectives about these questions and their financial impact. That is an important part of both the referendum process and community decision-making. The district's responsibility is to carefully assess school and community needs, prioritize responsibly, and provide factual information so residents can make informed decisions.

In the months ahead, Centennial will continue sharing information about both referendum questions, including proposed projects, estimated tax impacts, and opportunities for residents to learn more and ask questions.

Strong schools are built over time through thoughtful planning, responsible financial management, and ongoing community partnership. Centennial remains committed to ensuring residents have the information they need to make informed decisions about the future of our schools and community.

Dr. Jeff Holmberg is the superintendent of Centennial Schools.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Alzheimer's, related dementias are a growing crisis

Alzheimer's and related dementias are a growing public health crisis in the United States, with over 7.4 million Americans living with the disease and over 13 million Americans providing unpaid care for people living with Alzheimer's (Alzheimer's Association, 2026). In Minnesota, there are over 100,000 people over the age of 65 living with this disease (Alzheimer's Association, 2025). According to a recent survey by the Alzheimer's Association, eight out of ten Americans want to take a blood test to screen for dementia. If a blood test allowed for treatment of dementia that could slow its progression, the number who would want the test jumps to 90 percent. The good news is that there are now two FDA-approved blood tests that can detect Alzheimer's as early as two decades before symptoms appear, with more dementia blood tests in the pipeline. Early detection and diagnosis of Alzheimer's and other dementias allow people to benefit from treatments that are most effective in the disease's early stages. It would also allow them to make lifestyle changes that can impact the disease's progression, enroll in clinical trials, and have more time to plan for their own and their family's future. Bipartisan legislation has been introduced in Congress that creates a pathway for Medicare coverage of these tests. The Alzheimer's Screening and Prevention (ASAP) Act would make dementia screening routine, similar to cancer, heart disease, and other screening tests given at regular health checkups. I'm grateful for Whip Tom Emmer's past support for legislation that benefits people impacted by Alzheimer's. Whip Tom Emmer is a powerful voice in Congress right now, and we need leaders like him to continue moving science forward so we can finally find a cure for this devastating disease. I urge him, as a leader in Congress, to help the ASAP Act get to the House floor soon so it can be passed into law this session.

music, travel and line dancing. NSNNC also holds special events throughout the year like wine tasting, ice cream socials and holiday parties. Husbands who would like to get more involved are invited to breakfast with the Romeos.

The NSNNC has persisted in their goals, despite challenge or adversity. They did not let the pandemic slow them down. Meetings were conducted online and activities were held outdoors in the park. While they may have simplified their programs, they continued to focus on helping others in need through charitable contributions to a variety of local causes, including Women's Advocates and Alexandra House. A favorite community service project was supporting Minnesota's military families during the holidays. During Operation Metro Surge, NSNNC stepped up to support the Ralph Reeder Food Shelf and Every Meal Food Bank. Their goal was to help fill the gaps of food insecurity impacting so many families in our community.

At the April meeting, two women sat side-by-side nibbling on homemade banana bread. Debbie joined just three months ago. Judy has been an NSNNC member since 1999. As the longest tenured member of the club, it's no wonder Judy serves as "Sunshine Chair." She reaches out to neighbors who might need a cheerful boost. The wide variety of club activities are new and exciting to Debbie. She looks forward to getting involved with the book club, "flick chicks" and outdoor adventures. Maybe it's not simply the latest novel, film or hike that will keep Debbie coming until she's been a "new neighbor" for 26 years like Judy.

It's likely something more difficult to put your finger on, but vastly more valuable to any woman who finds herself transplanted into a new community. The answer lies somewhere in these comments shared by both long-time and new members of the NSNNC:

Everyone is welcoming and friendly. You can choose what you want to do, no pressure. Sharing and respecting different perspectives. Women listen, support, and learn from each other. Connecting with women of all ages and hearing their stories. You should join us!

To quote Lynette Lindmark, one of the club's early visionaries, "We moved to this area as strangers, but we were really just friends who had not yet met."

WEEKLY WAG

If you are an active person or family looking for an active companion, then Todd is waiting for you. Todd is a one-year-old Great Pyrenees/Husky mix. He is an 80-pound bundle of energy. Todd is a playful pup and his foster says he is always ready to turn an ordinary day into an adventure. Todd enjoys patrolling and exploring his backyard, so a forever home with a securely fenced yard would suit him well. He also enjoys long walks and playing fetch. Todd is social with other dogs and he is even good with cats. He is leash trained and crate trained, although he likes being with his people best. Todd is intelligent and he is eager to learn. When he is not busy, Todd enjoys soaking up affection and belly rubs. Todd has a zest for life and he would thrive with a human companion or family who will love him and keep up with him. If you are interested in learning more about Todd or adopting him, please fill out an application at www.ruffstartrescue.org. Once your application is received, Ruff Start Rescue will contact you as soon as possible.

CENTERVILLE TIDBITS

- Kelly's Korner Bar has been granted a 2 AM liquor license renewal following council approval. Within the last year, Kelly's Korner Bar has had no issues with their current 2 AM liquor license.

- City staff will work on applying for a grant from the Minnesota Occupational Study and Health Administration. The grant is offered for assistance to municipalities and companies to include safety equipment and training that might not otherwise be purchased and matches dollar for dollar up to $10,000. Staff hope to use the funds from the grant to purchase an electronic portable message/arrow board that can be used for roadway safety for working crews and community messaging for roadway information. According to the staff report, most boards are solar and range in pricing from approximately $15,000 to $20,000.

- Lake Management Inc. will be responsible for the treatment of the pond south of City Hall following council approval. The pond is used as a water supply source to the City Hall's irrigation system. The first full year of the system will be the 2026 season. In 2025, Lake Management was utilized to provide water treatment to reduce the amount of phosphorus and plant material in the pond. This prevented inoperable irrigation lines/heads. According to the staff report, a second treatment may be necessary later this summer, depending on rain amounts and dilution of the pond.

- The annual presentation on the Municipal Separate Storm Sewer Systems (MS4) permit was presented to the council. An MS4 is a system designed or used to collect or convey stormwater and is not part of a publicly owned treatment works facility (sewage treatment plant). There are six minimum control measures of the MS4 permit. These include public education and outreach; public participation and involvement; illicit discharge detection and elimination; construction site stormwater run off control; post-construction stormwater management; and pollution prevention and good housekeeping for municipal operations.

- A conditional use permit (CUP) and site plan review submitted by Etzel Engineer and Build for a 16,560-square-foot expansion of the existing 55,000-square-foot industrial facility known as Sutton Transportation at 6855 21st Ave. in the Industrial District of Centerville has been approved by the council. In addition to the building expansion, the project includes improvements to parking and loading areas, updated landscaping and a new outdoor amenity space for employees.

- City staff will proceed with the capital purchases for 2026 listed in the Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) following council approval. Some of these purchases include new boards for the ice-skating rink at Laurie LaMotte Park, playground equipment at Acorn Creek Park, resurfacing the Eagle Park tennis and pickleball courts, annual street paving, a wood chipper and more.

- City Administrator Athanasia Lewis said the city has received one application for the vacant city council seat. The resident who is appointed would serve on the council until January 2027. Residents who are interested in being considered for the vacancy can fill out an application online or stop by City Hall.

The council next meets at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, May 28, at City Hall, 1880 Main St.

CONSTRUCTION BRIEF

Help shape the future of Main Street in Lino Lakes

The City of Lino Lakes and Anoka County are asking residents to share feedback on the proposed Main Street Trail. The trail will provide a safe, off-street walking and biking connection from I-35W to Lino Lakes Elementary School. It will include links to nearby neighborhoods and the Rice Creek Regional Park Reserve (see "Lino Lakes looks to close almost 2-mile gap on Main Street Trail," Quad Community Press, April 21, 2026).

Centennial School Board approves 2026-27 budget

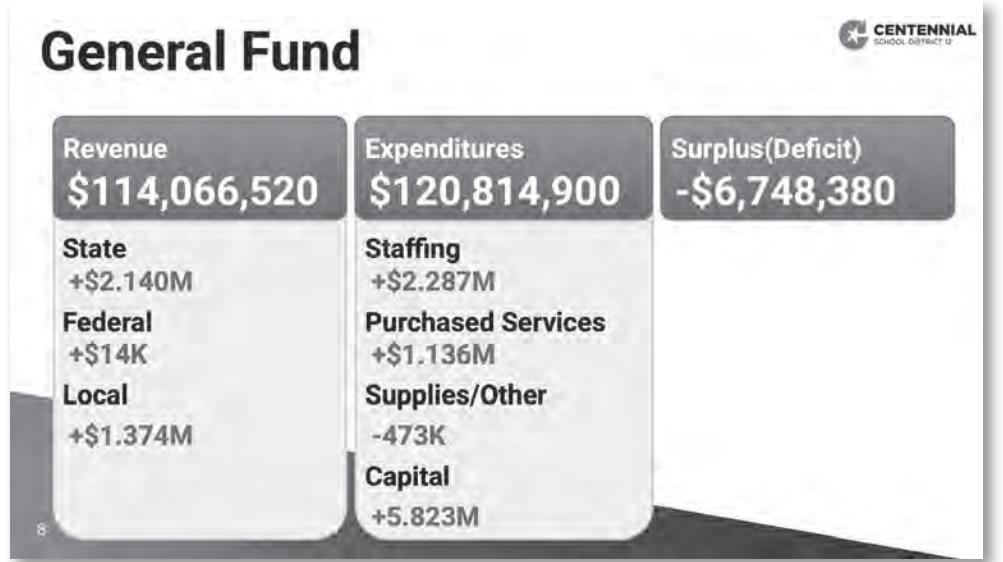

BY MADELINE DOLBY
EDITOR

The Centennial School District is projecting a total deficit of $8,004,990 million for the 2026-27 school year.

The deficit is a result of inflation adjustments for the updates for the long-range facilities maintenance projects, the voter-approved operating referendum plan, food service capital projects, debt services changes, trust fund retirement payments and internal service fund.

At its most recent meeting, the Centennial School Board approved the 2026-27 budget. Total revenues are projected to be $114,066,520; $2.14 million of that comes from state funding and $1.37 million comes from tax funding. Expenditures are expected to be $120,814,900.

Executive Director of Business Patrick Chaffey explained the projection for the basic formula allowance is $7,683 per student.

This chart shows the break down of the district's general fund revenue and expenditures for the 2026-27 school year.

This represents a 2.69% increase from the prior year's budget. The average daily membership (ADM) is projected to be 6,553.

Chaffey did express concerns about the incoming kindergarten class. "We're sitting at about 360 (students), the budget is for 430 (students). So, we're short about 70 students right now."

The food service fund is projecting a deficit of $511,711. The community service fund is also projecting a deficit of $222,614.

Chaffey walked the board through how the district plans to pay for the projected deficits. He said the district has some restricted accounts, such as long-term facilities maintenance and operating capital. To help with these accounts, which are governed by the state and the Minnesota Department of Education, Chaffey said the district will take funds out of the reserve accounts for around $1.1 million.

Around $5 million was set aside for the long-range plan, according to Chaffey. He explained money has been set aside over the years knowing it would go toward a larger scale project.

Cougars win section opener on Saffert no-hitter

BY BRUCE STRAND
SPORTS CONTRIBUTOR

Kendall Saffert twirled a no-hitter for Centennial and the Cougars needed a stellar performance like that to beat Osseo 2-1 in their Section 5AA opener Tuesday.

Gracie Nickle clubbed a home run in the last of the sixth to give the Cougars a 2-1 lead.

Saffert, sophomore right-hander, allowed just one walk while striking out three. An error helped Osseo score an unearned run in the first. Saffert also delivered an RBI single in the second inning, scoring Khloe

Waldemar, who got on base with a single and stole two bases.

Osseo pitcher Samantha Sportel held Centennial to seven hits and no walks, striking out five, allowing Osseo (9-12), which had lost to them 12-3 in conference, to give the Cougars a battle.

Centennial (13-7) faced Maple Grove there Thursday, 4:30 p.m. The tournament continues on Friday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Due to early deadlines, Cougar events on Thursday and later will be covered in next week's paper. However, you can follow them online at presspubs.com.

Minnesota's 1st registered teacher apprentices graduate

Minnesota's first registered teacher apprenticeship program began two years ago through a collaboration among the state's four intermediate school districts. Minnesota Intermediate School Districts 287, 288, 916 and 917 recently hosted a graduation celebration to commemorate the first apprentices in the program.

Under the Intermediate District Teacher Residency Apprenticeship Collaborative (ITRAC), staff, union members and leaders, and district leaders from each organization worked together to design a program to engage apprentices in job-embedded learning and related instruction at minimal cost. This allows the apprentices to meet the 2023 Standards of Effective Practice, content standards for Emotional-Behavioral Disorders (EBD) and Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD) licensure and Department of Labor & Industry apprenticeship requirements.

"The apprenticeship experience was a lot of work, but it gave us the preparation and support we needed to become the best teachers we can be," said apprenticeship graduate Mials Woodberry. "Becoming part of the first cohort is something I never imagined would be possible for me, so reaching this milestone means a lot. I'm proud of myself and proud of all the adult scholars in my cohort for staying committed and completing the journey together."
